With The Editor . . .

To our mind one of the nicest guys in Tulsa is W. Ralph Bethel, General Manager of the Blue Cross-Blue Shield Plans of Oklahoma . . . Three years ago Ralph conceived the idea of a summer camp for handicapped children . . . When he didn't have too much luck selling it to the Tulsa Lions Club, of which he was President, Bethel did a magnificent solo job of setting it up himself . . . The result was one of the most unique summer camps in the area, specially patterned to meet the needs of crippled and handicapped children . . . Bethel's vacation has gone into the project, but, as he says, "just seeing those kids at camp was vacation enough for me" . . . Now completely sold on the idea, the Lions Club is sponsoring it as a permanent project . . . What Tulsa needs is more civic leaders like Ralph Bethel, and more people to say thanks for their splendid work . . . Telephone numbers change on July 1st . . . Don't forget it when reordering stationery and statement forms . . . The Tulsa County Medical Society will be Gibson 7-8161, the Medical Library Glbson 7-1461, and the Medical Credit Bureau Diamond 3-6331 . . . The Squibb Company's Dr. E. L. Strade says the average doctor receives more than 3,000 pieces of mail annually from pharmaceutical houses alone . . . Nearly a third of these contain samples . . . Desirable accommodations are still available for the AMA Annual Meeting in Atlantic City, New Jersey, June 6-10, but better hurry! . . . The 62nd Annual Meeting of the Oklahoma State Medical Association should be a dandy, too, and by all means don't fail to register . . . The convention will have 48 commercial exhibits . . . Let's not forget to stop by every booth and visit with the exhibitors . . . These firms make possible our convention . . . They not only have something of interest to you, but can frequently help you in clinical matters of diagnosis and treatment . . . The Oklahoma State Legislature is expected to adjourn May 10th.

CONVENTION TO DRAW 850 DOCTORS

Arrangements Complete for 62nd Annual Meeting of the Oklahoma State Medical Association in Tulsa, May 8-11. Outstanding Program of Social Events Scheduled.

As this issue of The Bulletin went to press final arrangements for the 62nd Annual Meeting of the Oklahoma State Medical Association in Tulsa, May 8-11, 1955, were virtually complete. Dr. James W. Kelley, General Chairman, predicted that 850 Oklahoma doctors would attend the four-day program of scientific and social events.

Highlights of the 1955 convention will include:

1. An outstanding scientific program featuring 27 papers in all fields of medicine presented by nine visiting distinguished guest speakers and by members of the Oklahoma State Medical Association.

2. Forty-eight commercial exhibits by leading manufacturers of pharmaceuticals, surgical supplies, recording devices, x-ray equipment and supplies, and other products and services of interest to the practicing physician.

3. The President's Inaugural Dinner Dance on Tuesday, May 10, featuring Russ Morgan and His Orchestra, nationally known dance band and recording artists.

4. A complimentary buffet dinner program at the Blue Cross-Blue Shield Building on Monday, May 9, with the principal address of the evening to be delivered by Dr. Charles S. Houston of Exeter, New Hampshire, distinguished American physician and mountain climber.

5. Twelve scientific exhibits prepared by physicians and organizations allied with the medical profession.

6. Roundtable luncheons on Monday and Tuesday, May 9-10, at The Mayo, where visiting guest speakers will answer questions from the floor.

7. The Pfizer Golf Tournament, sponsored by the Oklahoma State Medical Association, at Tulsa Country Club on Wednesday, May 11, with convention visitors as guests of the Pfizer Laboratories for complimentary golfing, social hour, and buffet dinner.

8. Related meetings of ten specialty groups immediately preceding the opening of the regular convention program.

9. The annual business meeting and election of officers at the House of Delegates of the Oklahoma State Medical Association on Sunday, May 8.

10. A program of business and social events prepared for visiting wives and daughters by the Woman's Auxiliary to the Oklahoma State Medical Association, May 8-10, at The Mayo.

"We believe the scientific program for the 1955 Annual Meeting is one of the best in the Association's history," said Dr. Walter E. Brown, Program Chairman, last month. "Our guest speakers comprise a virtual Who's Who In Medicine, and their wide selection of subjects offers invaluable clinical information to the practicing physicians."

A complete list of the visiting distinguished guest speakers appears on Page Nine of this issue of The Bulletin. The printed program has been mailed to all Oklahoma doctors and also appears in the April issue of The Journal of the Oklahoma State Medical Association.

Ticket sales to the President's Inaugural Dinner Dance on Tuesday, May 10, at The Mayo were reported brisk by Dr. Jack L. Richardson, Society Chairman. Tickets may be purchased by writing or calling the Executive Offices of the Tulsa County Medical Society, B9 Medical Arts Building, telephone 4-8161. Tickets will be mailed along with a statement. The price is $6.50 per person. This includes the social hour, dinner, inaugural program, and the Russ Morgan dance.

The Tulsa County Medical Society will again be hosts to convention visitors at a complimentary social hour on Tuesday, May 10, at 6:00 P.M. at the Mayo, immediately preceding the President's Inaugural Dinner Dance. Dinner will be served at 7:00 P.M. in the Crystal Ballroom. Following the inauguration of Dr. R. Q. Goodwin, Oklahoma City internist, as President, guests will hear Countess Maria Pulaski of New York, N. Y., internationally known fashion authority, traveller, and writer. She will describe events contained in her new best-seller, "I Was A Spy For The Polish Underground," published last November and currently high on the best-seller lists. Dancing to the music of Russ Morgan and His Orchestra will begin at 9:00 P.M. and continue for four hours.

An innovation of the 1955 Annual Meeting is a special program scheduled for Monday, May 9, when visiting doctors and their wives will be guests of the Blue Cross-Blue Shield Plans at a complimentary buffet dinner. The event will be held at the new Blue Cross-Blue Shield Building, 1215 South Boulder. Chartered buses will provide transportation from the Mayo and Adams hotels. A special program will open with musical entertainments by the Gay Notes, popular barbership quartet. Dr. Houston will show color motion pictures of his expeditions to K-2 and Mount Everest in the Himalayas, and will recount experiences contained in his current book, "K-2, The Savage Mountain." Visitors will also be given an opportunity to inspect the new Blue Cross-Blue Shield Building.

The scientific program and the commercial and scientific exhibits will again be at the Cimarron Ballroom, 4th and Denver streets. Registration will open Sunday, May 8, at The Mayo, and will continue at the Cimarron Ballroom beginning Monday, May 9. The roundtable luncheons will be held in the Emerald Room of The Mayo. Tickets will be $2.50 per person and should be purchased at the time of registration. Advance tickets are on sale at the Executive Offices of the Tulsa County Medical Society.

Reservations for the Golf Tournament are necessary and may be made in advance by writing the Tulsa County Medical Society. Reservations will also be taken at the Pfizer Booth at the Cimarron Ballroom. Dr. Simon Pollack, Golf Chairman, last month estimated that 100 Oklahoma physicians would take part. The event is entirely complimentary. For the first time the annual tournament is being held at the Tulsa Country Club, located on the near North Side only five minutes from the downtown area.

Desirable hotel accommodations are still available and may be made by writing the Hotels Committee, Tulsa County Medical Society, B9 Medical Arts Building, Tulsa. Please state type of accommodations desired and dates of arrival and departure. A convenient form for ordering

PRESIDENT'S PAGE

One of the hardest jobs for a doctor is to attend a medical convention in his home town. At the last annual meeting of the Oklahoma State Medical Association in Tulsa only about two-thirds of the doctors in this county registered. It is to be hoped that the percentage this year will be greatly increased. An excellent scientific program, sufficiently varied to appeal to every doctor no matter what his specialty, has been prepared. Many delightful social events will provide relaxing interludes. I hope that no Tulsa County doctor will fail to avail himself of the opportunity to attend at least part of the Annual Meeting on May 9-11.

I want to also particularly urge you to visit the commercial exhibits. These displays of recent and up-to-the minute drugs, surgical supplies, books, x-ray equipment, and other products and services are brought here at considerable expense. Every doctor should do these exhibitors the courtesy of seeing and hearing about their products. A large part of the expense of the convention is borne by the funds received from the sale of space to these exhibitors. This actually means a dollars-and-cents saving to your pocket.

Our meeting this year is comparable to most of the national medical meetings. It is not often that so many distinguished guest speakers are brought together at one time. It is a meeting which most of us would go far to hear. Let's be sure that we do not miss it when it is right on our own doorstep.

Sincerely,

President

ANNUAL MEETING PERSONALITIES

—George Crile, Jr., M.D., Cleveland, Ohio—

For George Crile, Jr., one of eleven visiting distinguished guest speakers at the 62nd Annual Meeting of the Oklahoma State Medical Association in Tulsa, May 9-11, the practice of medicine is a fascinating career inherited from a famous father. Most of the year this busy Cleveland Clinic surgeon is content to follow in his father's footsteps—and a brilliant job he does of it, too—but with the coming of warm weather his thoughts turn to an unusual hobby which has won him wide recognition of another kind.

Summer vacation is sure to find Dr. Crile, his lovely wife Jane, and four strapping children (three girls and a boy) in the Florida keys or off the California coasts busily exploring the ocean bottom, searching out the treasure of ships sunk a hundred years ago.

Most of the time the Criles have no equipment other than a face mask and frog-man flippers, but occasionally they use an aqua-lung or a home-made diving bell for the greater depths. Colder waters will find them clad (for protection against sea life as well) in a pair of black long johns across whose stern has been painted the weird face of an amiable but shark-toothed demon. With this frightening insignia, the Criles are ready for the water.

Oklahoma doctors in attendance at the 1955 Annual Meeting will find Dr. Crile in a more serious vein. His two papers, both to be presented on Monday, May 9th, concern surgical subjects of topical importance. In his discussion on "The Use and Abuse of Ultra Radical Surgery For Cancer" Dr. Crile will elaborate upon theories which were recently reported in Time Magazine. A second paper will be "Changing Trends In Abdominal Surgery."

A graduate of Harvard University School of Medicine, Class of 1933, Dr. Crile took his internship and a surgical residency at Barnes Hospital of St. Louis. Shortly thereafter he embarked upon his career at the Cleveland Clinic Foundation and Hospital. His remarkable surgical technique and keen interest in surgical research quickly established him as one of the nation's leading medical personalities. During World War II he served with Navy medical units in the South Pacific, where his studies in burn repairs (conducted in association with his old friend, Tulsa's Dr. Hays R. Yandell) won him new recognition.

Although the Criles had experimented with a home-made diving bell in the chilly waters of Lake Erie, their first real skin diving experiences came late during World War II when Dr. Crile was stationed at the San Diego navy base. In their temporary home near La Jolla, Barney (as he is popularly known) and Jane Crile found a fascinating new world beneath the seas.

Post-war jaunts took them to the Florida keys and to the Bahamas. Later they were to explore the unknown waters of the West Indies and the famous Red Reef of the Andros. At first the Criles were content to study the strange sea life and vegetation, but the discovery of a coral corroded cannon and the remnants of an eighteenth century pirate ship excited new avenues of imagination. In woefully short vacation weeks, they hunted down old wrecks and salvaged forgotten treasures from the seas. Like Ponce De Leon, they never found the riches they sought, but they do have numerous articles and curios to show for their trouble—plus a wealth of remembered good times.

The story of the Criles is told in a new book entitled "Treasure Diving Holidays," published late last year. Told in a fascinating and charming manner, it gives a remarkable insight into the mysteries of the sea. Although jointly authored by Dr. and Mrs. Crile, the story is told by the latter. Much of its interest lies in the participation of the entire family in the diving. The training has been good for the children, too good Dr. Crile asserts, for his growing youngsters now outswim and outdive their more experienced elders.

The Crile's top find was the H.M.S. Looe, sunk off Looe Key southeast of Miami, Florida, when it struck an unmarked sandbar. The relics included some perfectly preserved pewter tableware, rusty cannon, numerous coins, wine bottles, pipes, porcelains, and iron riggings. Many of the finds have been preserved in the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D. C.

Less productive but equally enjoyable was the Criles' treasure diving in the Mediterranean. With the aid of the French Sous-Marin Club, they recovered some ancient artifacts and beautiful pieces of pottery.

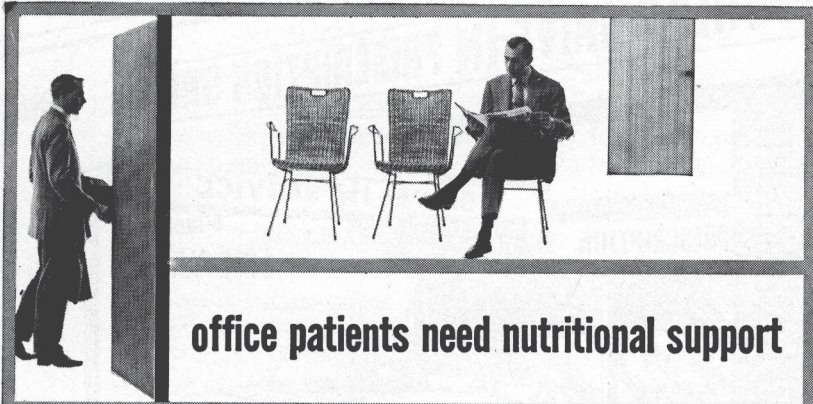

During his Tulsa visit Dr. Crile will also participate in a roundtable luncheon meeting at the convention session of Monday, May 10th, at which time he will answer questions from the floor.

J. E. WALLACE, M.D. 1879 - 1955

Dr. Jesse Emmons Wallace, 75, pioneer Tulsa County gynecologist, died March 19, 1955, following a stroke. He had been in poor health for several months and had recently been a patient at the United States Veterans Administration Hospital at Muskogee, Oklahoma.

Born in Maryville, Tennessee, Dr. Wallace interrupted his college training to serve in Cuba with the 4th Tennessee Volunteers during the Spanish-American War. He graduated from the University of Tennessee School of Medicine in 1906 and interned at the Evebros Hospital of Nashville. Dr. Wallace entered practice in Tulsa in 1907 in offices at Second and Main streets. Later post-graduate training in surgery was taken at Columbia University Polyclinic Hospital of New York, the Mayo Clinic of Rochester, Minnesota, and the Battle Creek Sanitarium of Battle Creek, Michigan.

Dr. Wallace was a life member of the Tulsa County Medical Society and its component organizations. He was active in American Legion and VFW affairs in Tulsa and in Masonic activities. Services were held on March 21st. Survivors include the widow and one daughter.

This attractive new clinic building was opened last month by Dr. Allen C. Kramer at 1547 South Lewis, Tulsa. Built of badite block construction, it also provides offices for Dr. Charles H. Eads and Dr. Samuel J. Bradfield. The new structure contains 20 rooms, including complete X-ray and laboratory facilities, eight examining rooms, recreation room, and a large waiting room. A parking lot adjoins both sides. An additional wing will be built next year to provide offices for Dr. John Kramer, who will join his father in July, 1956, at the conclusion of a residency.

SIDNEY C. VENABLE, M.D.

Dr. Sidney Carrington Venable, 64, veteran Tulsa radiologist, died March 28, 1955, at the United States Veterans Hospital of Topeka, Kansas. Death was attributed to coronary thrombosis.

A native of Texas, Dr. Venable received his medical degree from the University of Texas School of Medicine in 1915. His specialty training in radiology was obtained at the Mayo Clinic and at Southside Hospital of Chicago. Dr. Venable served in World War I as a medical officer. Before coming to Tulsa in 1921, he was in practice at Cleveland, Ohio, as assistant superintendent of the Cleveland General Hospital. For several years he operated his own radiological laboratories in Tulsa. In 1937 he was appointed radiologist for the Tulsa County Medical Clinic. Following a train accident in 1947, which cost him the loss of an arm, Dr. Venable retired from active practice. He was a life member of the Tulsa County Medical Society and its component organizations and was a member of the American Society of Clinical Pathologists.

HOSPITALS NEAR CAPACITY FOR FIRST QUARTER OF 1955

First quarter reports for 1955 indicate Tulsa's major hospitals are operating at virtual capacity, pointing up an increasingly serious need for additional hospital beds.

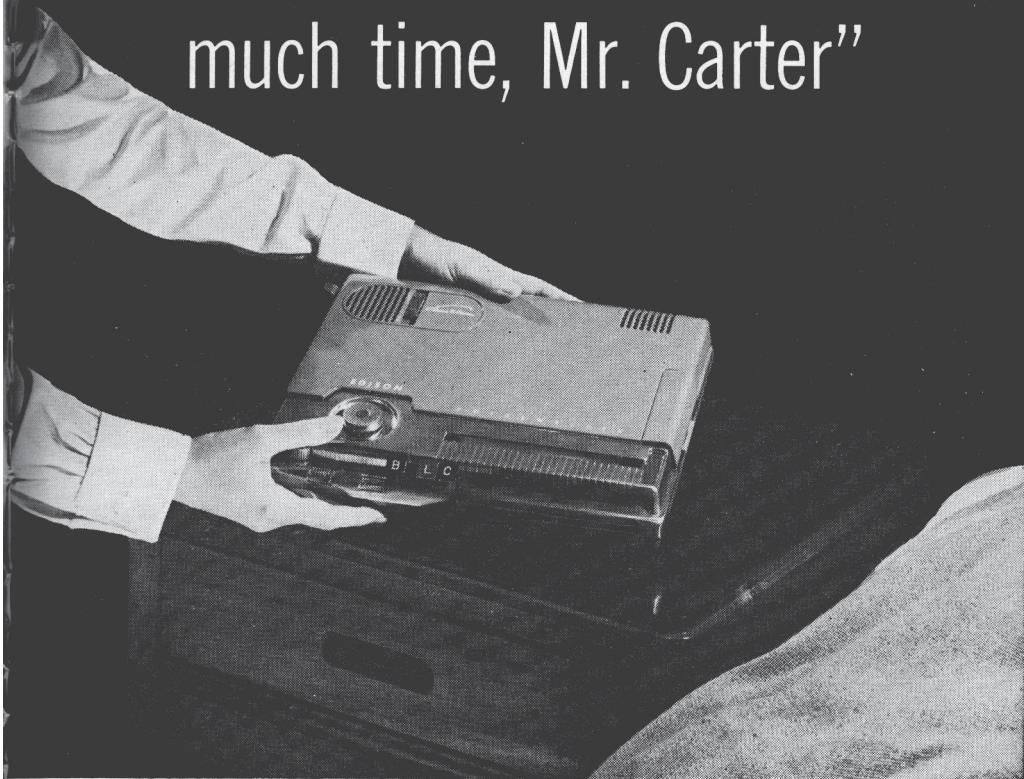

St. John's Hospital reported its 449 beds were 95 per cent occupied during the first three months of the year, while Hillcrest Hospital's 400 beds were 90 per cent occupied. For the same period Oklahoma Osteopathic Hospital reported 95 per cent occupancy of its 60 beds. St. John's recorded 5,533 dismissals in the ninety-day period, Hillcrest 4,766, and Oklahoma Osteopathic 1,342.

The Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals last month announced that St. John's and Hillcrest hospitals had been completely accredited for intern and nurses training.

DR. PAUL A. BISCHOFF appeared on the program of the Armed Forces Obstetrical and Gynecological Seminar held March 28-30 at Brooke Army Hospital, San Antonio, Texas. His subject was "The Use of Vaginal and Cervical Smears as an Aid in Diagnosis of Carcinoma in situ."

DR. ROYAL E. STUART has been elected to fellowship in the American College of Surgeons.

S. G. & O. OBSERVES GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY

In January, 1955, the first number of Volume 100 of Surgery, Gynecology and Obstetrics was issued, and this distinguished publication began celebrating its golden anniversary.

Dr. Loyal Davis, the president editor, tells the story of its birth and growth in this interesting anniversary issue. It was in December, 1904, that Dr. Franklin H. Martin met with some of his former associates and interested them in the idea of a new surgical journal. Each contributed $500 to the enterprise and on July 1, 1905, the first number appeared. On the first day of each month since, it has never failed to appear.

Dr. Betty Conrad, Medical Director of the Tulsa County Red Cross Blood Center visited the St. Louis Red Cross Blood Center in St. Louis, Missouri, last month, studying operations of the huge Center to gain ideas for the coming expansion of the Tulsa Center. The St. Louis Center is now processing 100,000 donors annually.

Despite a comparatively poor replacement record, the Tulsa County Red Cross Blood Center set a new record during the first three months of 1955 when nearly 3,500 pints were taken. If this rate continues throughout the balance of the year, total donations for 1955 should reach 14,000, an increase of 2,000 over last year. The Tulsa Center, incidentally, took more blood in 1954 than the nation's three smallest Red Cross regional blood centers combined. This is an enviable record considering that the local Center operates without the benefit of national Red Cross financing, as do the regional centers.

Doctors are urged to visit the Red Cross Blood Center booth at the 62nd Annual Meeting of the Oklahoma State Medical Association in Tulsa, May 9-11, at the Cimarron Ballroom. Much interesting information about the blood donor program will be available.

DR. LEO LOWBEER attended the American Association of Pathologists and Bacteriologists annual meeting at Houston, Texas, April 4-7.
