Large Crowd Sees Victory Parade

The parade this year heralding Major county's Free Fair fell short in some respects but gained in other inasmuch as those who participated, did so enthusiastically.

According to pre-arranged plans, more mercantile floats were promised, but a shortage of help in many mercantile establishments prevented many from entering floats. All in all, the parade was a success from the standpoint of spectators who flanked the curbs along Main street and Broadway as the parade passed by.

A squadron of airplanes from the Enid Flying Field set off the signal to start the march when they flew over the city, coming from the east. Maneuvers in the sky were made by the flyers all the time the parade was in progress.

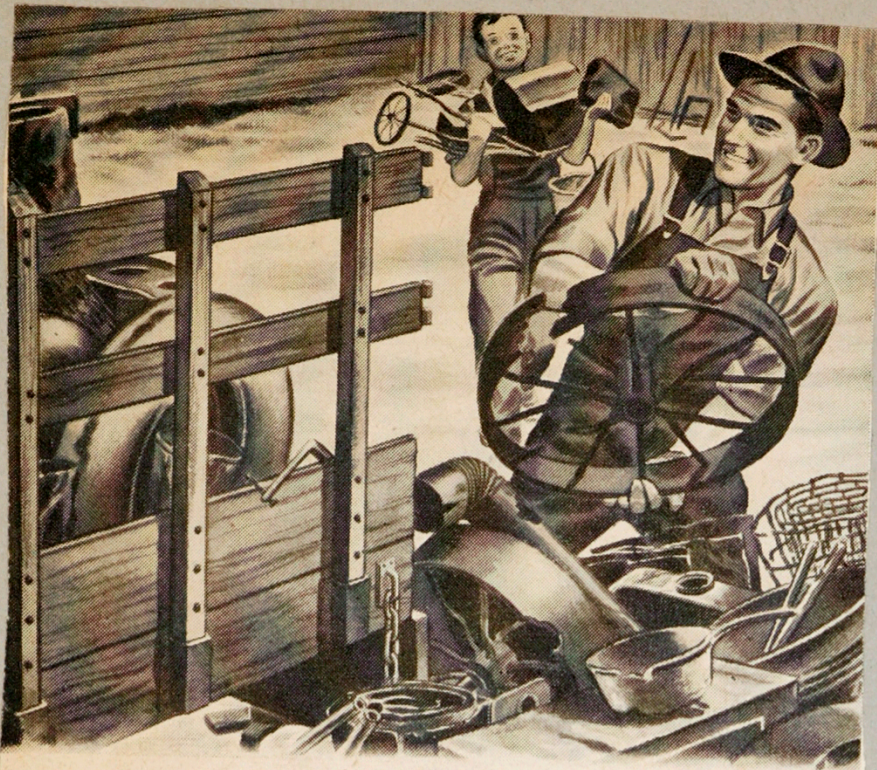

In the horseman division, Ed Sutter was declared first, George Rowley, second and Roy Dow, third. Horsewomen, Mrs. Case, first, Fern Blair, second, Mrs. Jess Doane, third.

Pets and novelties: Leonard Weaver, first, Rodney Glasgow, second, Betty Jean Ratzlaff, third. County schools: Oakdale, first, Roscoe, second, Hensen, third.

Bicycles: Carroll Davison, first, Bruce Graves, second, J. L. Shaffer, third. Shetland ponies: Glen Drumheller, first, Harriet Doane, second, John Richard Shewey, third. Organization: Red Cross, first, Fairview churches, second, Lions club, third.

Description of our Float

On old settlers day we had a celebration at town. Our float was called 'Food for Freedom'. We had all different kinds of fruit and vegetables. The girls wore aprons and bonnets and the boys wore overalls and straw hats. We won second. Which was, Three dollars: ($3.00).

SAVING TO HELP WIN

Uncle Sam needs your junk, especially metals and paper. Steel-making mixes scrap with new iron, and the mills are scraping for scrap. Patriotic job now on every farm is to pile up every ounce of old metal not needed for repair work and call a junk dealer. Toss in everything except pieces you know you will need—and then consider whether they, too, may not be more useful as war material. Magazines, newspapers, paper boxes and bags can be sold, and are seriously needed.

Save and mend every cloth bag. No more jute from India for burlap. Cotton bags can't be made fast enough. How about a bag-mending party?

Save rubber, of course; turn in any that's reclaimable.

Save money to buy defense bonds and stamps and pay taxes.

Waste nothing.

RING THE BELLS OF FREEDOM

Ring the Bells of Freedom is a Christmas play. It was presented by the children last Christmas. The play is about children giving stamps for Christmas instead of toys made of steel and rubber, which Uncle Sam needs.
