A War Message on WAR BONDS from the President of the United States

... The American people know that if we would raise the millions which we now need to pay for the war and at the same time prevent a disastrous rise in the cost of living, we shall have to double and more than double the scale of our savings.

Every dime and dollar not vitally needed for absolute necessities should go into WAR BONDS and STAMPS TO ADD to the striking power of our armed forces.

If these purchases are to have a material effect in restraining price increases they must be made out of current income.

In almost every individual case they should be big enough to mean rigid self-denial, a substantial reduction for most of us in the scale of expenditure that is comfortable and easy for us.

We cannot fight this war, we cannot exert our maximum effort, on a spend-as-usual basis.

We cannot have all we want if our soldiers and sailors are to have all they need.

—Franklin Roosevelt.

12 Rules for Tire Health

STRETCH OUT YOUR TIRE LIFE

- 1 DON'T let tire pressure fall below the maker's recommendations.
- 2 A NEW tire, or one that has just been repaired, may lose pressure soon after inflation. Check it after a few miles.
- 3 DON'T run a tire constantly on the same wheel. Shift your tires from wheel to wheel for even wear. Include your spare.
- 4 DON'T rely on the theory that it is all right to run old tires on back wheels. A rear-tire blow-out can be fatal.
- 5 DON'T go around corners at high speeds. It wears tires faster than anything else.
- 6 EXCEPT to prevent an accident, don't slam on the brakes. The most gradual braking possible is best for tires.
- 7 HAVE your wheel alignment checked occasionally, rear as well as front.
- 8 LOOK over your tires often for stones, nails, cuts, and bruises.
- 9 DON'T drive too fast on hot, dry roads. Extreme heat hastens deterioration.
- 10 START up gently. Don't spin your wheels by gunning the motor in low or second.
- 11 DON'T bump into curbs or run over them. Tires have not yet been perfected that can stand this kind of abuse.
- 12 IF YOUR car begins to steer queerly, slow down, pull off the road, and inspect all four tires carefully. The action often means a tire is preparing to blow out.

Sharp stones, nails, tacks, and other objects should be removed promptly before they cause damage. Never drive a tire against or over the curb.

TODAY'S SAFETY THOUGHT

From Wichita Police Department

IT IS THE DUTY OF EVERY MAN TO PROTECT HIMSELF AND THOSE ASSOCIATED WITH HIM FROM ACCIDENTS WHICH MAY RESULT IN INJURY OR DEATH. DRIVE CAREFULLY.

Shift your tires occasionally from wheel to wheel for even wear, and include your spare in the program. Wheel alignment is important to tire life, and should be checked often

Car-Sharing Club for Neighbors TOGETHER

With gasoline rationing now in effect, what was before only a patriotic duty becomes now a duty and a necessity. We must all plan to save every bit of rubber we can to help the war effort.

We must all plan to share our cars in every way we can, and CUT DOWN ON DRIVING!

Housewives, there is a splendid way YOU can help. Next time you start out on a shopping trip downtown . . . make sure you are not driving alone! Because, by taking along 4 or even 5 neighbors to shop at the same time, you make a very important contribution to victory.

Each of you can take a turn driving your own car. By working together, you make each car . . . each gallon of gas . . . each ounce of rubber . . . do five times as much work.

Also, buy more when you do go (except on rationed items). In these easy ways you save fuel and rubber for victory!

Mottled plumage of this pigeon would hide it from gunners

Capt. Ray Delhauer with a portable loft designed for field use. He breeds birds from strains that served in the first World War

Two specimens of camouflaged pigeons. By cross-breeding, it is possible to produce many plumage combinations

Pigeons Are Bred with Camouflage for War Service

CAMOUFLAGED pigeons, with a mottled plumage to make them almost invisible to an enemy's waiting gunners, have been developed for emergency Army communication by Capt. Ray R. Delhauer, a retired United States Army pigeon expert, at Ontario, Calif. Most of his flock of several hundred birds are descendants of the hardier strains of pigeons used by the Allies and Germans in the last war.

Believing that the World War pigeons were too vulnerable because bright patches of white or colored feathers made them an easy target, Captain Delhauer bred and crossbred his birds until he achieved a strain with mottled gray and dusty white feathers on their underbodies as well as on their wings and backs.

The Army has today only 1,100 pigeons of its own for emergency communication, but Captain Delhauer believes there is just as much need for them as there was in the past. So that birds can be launched from warplanes without being thrust suddenly into a 300-mile-an-hour slipstream, he has built small metal cages with parachutes. Timing mechanisms open the cages and release the pigeons before the cages reach the ground. He has devised also a small metal message capsule, extremely light in weight, which can be inserted into a bird's crop and subsequently removed by gentle massage after the pigeon has reached its destination.

OUR DEMOCRACY — by Mat

We, the People

"in order to secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity"... do, in 1943, resolve:

We will fight to victory on land, on sea and in the air.

We will work for full production in factories, fields and offices.

We will gladly pay our taxes and save and lend our money to keep 'em rolling, keep 'em flying, keep 'em fighting!

Resolute to Win.
