Biographical/Background Content Note

Marilyn Harris Springer, acclaimed novelist, was among the most critically and commercially successful authors from Oklahoma. More commonly known by her pen name, Marilyn Harris, she was born in Oklahoma City in 1931. A multi-talented individual, Harris was a classically trained pianist, and in high school won many awards as a contestant in speech and drama competitions. Harris received a B.A. in Drama from the University of Oklahoma in 1953, and also received a M.A. in Drama from the University of Oklahoma in 1954.

Near the middle of her life, Harris began writing original works of poetry and fiction. Discovered by a literary agent while attending the University of Oklahoma's annual writer's conference, Harris' work reached the public eye with a collection of short stories published in periodicals in Europe and in the United States. In 1969, the short stories were published in an anthology entitled King's Ex. During her career, Harris published twenty books, four of which became national best sellers. In 1977, one of her bestselling novels, Hatter Fox, was adapted into a CBS Movie of the Week entitled A Girl Called Hatter Fox. Harris is most widely recognized for her popular Eden saga, a seven volume historical fiction series that chronicles the history of the Eden family in England from the late 18th century until the onset of World War I. She retired from writing in 1994.

Harris worked with several different publishing companies during her career, including DoubleDay & Co., Random House, Putnam & Sons, and Crown. Combined, these companies printed nine million copies of her books, publishing her works in France, Germany, Poland, Japan, Portugal, Spain, Sweden, England, and Italy. Drawing critical acclaim for her books throughout her career, Harris won several literary awards including the Lewis Carroll Bookshelf Award, the O. Henry Award, and the University of Oklahoma Literary Award. In addition, Hatter Fox garnered a Literary Guild Book Club selection. Harris solidified her place among Oklahoma's foremost authors with her induction into the Oklahoma Hall of Fame in 1987, as well as her 1991 induction into the Oklahoma Professional Writers Hall of Fame.

In addition to her career as an author, Harris served for seven years during the 1970s as Artist-in-Residence in the English Department at the University of Central Oklahoma (then Central State University). She taught a course entitled "The Writing of the Novel," which required her students to write a new novel before completing the class. Several of her students, like their mentor, went on to become published authors.

Harris passed away in 2002 at the age of 70. In recognition of her contributions to the University of Central Oklahoma, Harris was selected as an inaugural member of the UCO Luminary Society in 2015.

Scope and Content

These are the personal papers of Marilyn Harris. There are multiple accession numbers for the collection: 0909001, 1004001, 1006001, 1207001, 1308005, and 1509008. The collection features correspondence, newspaper clippings and articles, Harris' notes and lectures from her novel writing course, and notes and manuscripts for speeches Harris delivered to various groups. In addition, the collection includes manuscripts, both handwritten and typed, for both her published and unpublished works. There are published copies of Harris books, as well as copies of the galley proofs for many titles. The rest of the collection is comprised of Harris' personal memorabilia and keepsakes, several hundred photographs, research for her books, souvenir booklets and brochures collected from various vacation locales, and other miscellaneous materials.

Organization and Arrangement

The collection includes 7 series: I. Correspondence, 1963-2003; II. Manuscripts, 1962-1992; III. Newspaper Clippings & Periodicals, 1949-2002; IV. Memorabilia, 1931-2007; V. Lectures, Speeches, and Notes, 1967-1987; VI. Books, 1966-1995; VII. Photographs, 1951-2000. Since the collection arrived in a number of separate accessions, the materials do not reflect a consistent arrangement pattern. The series descriptions below provide an overview of the materials in each series, as well as their locations within the collection.

Series Descriptions

I. Correspondence, 1963-2003 (112 folders)

This series is comprised of Marilyn Harris' personal correspondence. The series includes letters, greeting cards, royalty statements, publishing contracts, book reviews, and various newspaper clippings. The date range for this series is 1963-2003. Most of this series is composed of correspondence received by Marilyn Harris, though the series does include some copies of her letters. Much of the correspondence consists of materials sent to Harris by publishers and agents, including contracts, royalty statements, editorial suggestions, information regarding the publication of her books, and rejection letters. The series also includes letters and greeting cards sent from family and friends, including some of Harris' fellow authors (most prominently, Alec Waugh). There are also letters sent from readers and fans expressing their appreciation of Harris' work. In addition, newspaper clippings are interspersed throughout the correspondence, often attached to letters or notes. The clippings include reviews of Harris' work, advertisements for Harris' books, interviews, articles that document Harris' various achievements, etc. Though some folders exclusively include one type of correspondence (i.e. Fan Mail), many include a mixture of various types of correspondence. Some of the correspondence folders are arranged in chronological order, from the oldest date to the most recent. However, most of the series, arranged in its original order, does not reflect a consistent arrangement. The folder headings and descriptions detail the date ranges included in each correspondence folder.

Materials in the correspondence series can be found in:

II. Manuscripts, 1962-1992 (594 Folders/Files)

This series includes copies of Marilyn Harris' books in their pre-publication formats. The date range for the series is 1962-1992. The series includes handwritten drafts of the books on steno pads, as well as various typed manuscript drafts. Some of the manuscripts include inserts and/or edits. In some cases, the edits are written directly on the manuscript pages, and in other cases they are written on loose sheets. The edits include those made by Harris' publishers, her husband, Judge Springer, as well as by Harris herself. In addition, the series includes various types of galley proofs. Galley proofs are printed copies of books, made for final inspection by the author, publisher, or proofreaders, and preview what the pages will look like in the final published edition. The galleys vary in size and form. Other materials in the series include character biographies, outlines, and synopses for several of Harris' compositions. The steno pads for each manuscript are numbered sequentially, i.e. "Lost and Found Book 1, Lost and Found Book 2," etc. The pads are arranged according to how they are numbered. Manuscript materials for all of the titles are interspersed throughout the collection. Most of the individual manuscripts are arranged sequentially, either according to chapter number or page number, while others are filed by section (i.e. "Part One"). Some manuscripts are filed in their entirety, including all of the galley proofs. Some boxes exclusively contain manuscript materials for one title, but in most cases boxes contain manuscript materials for multiple titles. This series does not reflect a consistent arrangement pattern.

III. Newspaper Clippings & Periodicals, 1949-2002 30 folders

This series includes clippings from various newspapers and magazines as well as complete copies of various periodicals. Some clippings and periodicals can be found in the Correspondence series and the Memorabilia series. However, the folders in this series exclusively (or almost exclusively) include newspaper clippings and periodicals. The date range for this series is 1949-2002. The clippings in this series include reviews of Harris' works, advertisements for her books, and articles documenting various events, milestones, and achievements during Harris' career (including Harris' induction to the Oklahoma Hall of Fame). All of the newspaper clippings were photocopied, and the originals discarded. The series also includes various newsletters, magazines, book catalogues, and promotional materials distributed by book sellers and publishers. The materials in this series are distributed throughout the collection, and do not reflect a consistent arrangement.

Materials in the Newspaper Clippings & Periodicals series can be found in:

IV. Memorabilia, 1931-2007 (262 Folders/Files)

The memorabilia series includes personal keepsakes and other biographical materials documenting the various stages of Harris' life, from her childhood through her prestigious career as an author. The date range for this series is from 1931-2007. This series includes materials from several scrapbooks, chronicling Harris' formative years into her collegiate career. Some scrapbooks remain intact, while the materials from others (including Harris' baby scrapbook, high school scrapbook, and junior college scrapbook) were removed and placed in folders. The scrapbook materials include greeting cards, awards certificates, newspaper clippings, photographs, graduation tassels, drawings, party and event invitations, music recital and play programs, notes, letters, telegrams, etc. All text from the original scrapbooks was photocopied. This series includes Harris' diplomas from high school, college, and graduate school, as well as various grade cards and report cards from her academic career. In addition, there are various materials from Harris' career as an author, including promotional posters, biographical profiles, lists of published works, signs and posters from book signing events, etc. Additionally, there are copies of the cover artwork for many of Harris' books. Some of the artwork is framed. The series also includes various award certificates, trophies, and plaques Harris received for her achievements. Among others, the awards include certificates commemorating her induction to the Oklahoma Hall of Fame and the Oklahoma Professional Writers Hall of Fame. Other materials include a video of Harris' Oklahoma Hall of Fame acceptance speech, the screenplay for A Girl Called Hatter Fox, a DVD copy of A Girl Called Hatter Fox, booklets, pamphlets, posters and souvenirs collected from vacations in England, Canada, and Hawaii, and other miscellaneous materials. The materials in this series are interspersed throughout the collection, and do not reflect a consistent arrangement.

V. Lectures, Speeches, and Notes, 1967-1987
(64 folders)

This series includes some of Harris' notes and research, as well as materials relating to her speeches and lectures on novel writing. The date range for the series is 1967-1987. The series includes several steno pads containing the handwritten transcripts of Harris' lectures on novel writing, as well as typed copies of Harris' lectures. Additionally, this series includes a copy of the reading list for her novel writing course, and various teaching and lecture notes. Along with the transcripts for speeches that Harris delivered to various groups throughout her career, the series includes some of the notes she used in writing them. For some speeches, there are multiple drafts or versions. Of particular importance and interest are copies of the speech Harris gave at her induction to the Oklahoma Hall of Fame. Lastly, the series includes research materials Harris used for books and potential book topics, including photocopies of books and articles and handwritten notes. The materials in this series are interspersed throughout the collection, and do not reflect a consistent arrangement.

Materials in the Lectures, Speeches, and Notes series can be found in:

VI. Books, 1966-1995
(5 boxes)

This series includes published copies of Harris' compositions, as well as a handful of books written by other authors. The date range for the series is 1966-1995. Overall, this series includes 32 titles, featuring all 20 of Harris' published works. Most, but not all, of her titles are available in both paperback and hardcover editions. Several copies are signed or inscribed by Harris. Some of the paperback editions are uncorrected proof copies, printed by the publisher for preview before final release. There are also international editions of several titles, including copies published in Great Britain, France, Germany, Japan, and Canada. In addition, the series includes anthologies and periodicals that feature Harris' short stories or excerpts of her books. Lastly, there are several books written by Harris' friends and colleagues, all of which are signed and inscribed by the authors. All of the copies of Harris' books in Box 020392 are paperback, and box 020383 includes all hardcover copies. The other boxes include a blend of both hardcover and paperback copies. There is no specific arrangement of the books.

VII. Photographs, 1951-2000 (2 boxes)

This series includes most of the loose photographs in the collection. The photographs that came with specific letters and cards are included in the Correspondence series, and the photographs that were originally stored in scrapbooks are in the Memorabilia series. The date range for this series is 1951-2000. Many of the photographs in the series were taken from a photo album presumably belonging to Harris' sister or another family member. The photographs include images of Harris, as well as of her brother, sister, parents, and other family members. The photographs from the album are stored in the first 6 folders of Box 020892. There are also photographs featuring Harris in various University of Oklahoma theatre productions, photographs of Harris while she was in high school, as well as a few wedding photographs. The series also includes some studio portraits of Harris, presumably used for promotional and/or publication purposes, photographs of a Colorado ghost town that Harris used as research for The Portent, photographs of Harris used for press publications, images of Harris and her husband on overseas trips, and other miscellaneous photographs of Harris and/or other friends and family members. There is no particular arrangement for the Photographs series.
