

Telesis Isolation Vol. III 2020

Gibbs College of Architecture
The University of Oklahoma

Contents

The Telesis Team introduces Telesis: Isolation

Randall Kinnaman shares his childhood experiences of visiting his incarcerated father at various prison visitation centers

Giuliana Vaccarino Gearty explores the positive outcomes from feeling lost in a city

Travis Howell and Tanner Pickens share the history of Oklahoma City's Deep Deuce and Interstate 235

Kate O'Connor introduces Marywood University's Socially Responsible Architecture seminar in which:

Rebecca Douglas combats food deserts

Ian Goodale provides shelter to the homeless

Ben Gravel provides shelter for those displaced by California Wildfires

Ryan Godfrey proposes inclusive design schematics for people with autism

Candelaria Mas Pohmajevic examines COVID 19 outbreaks in Argentina's Shanty Towns

David Swaby investigates prison rehabilitation in the form of educational programs

Jake Lange explores the importance of agency in processes of rehabilitation

Emily Hays calls designers to no longer be complicit in the design of carceral facilities

Johanna Hilmes explores the benefits of incorporating color in prison design

Alex Finklestein interviews Dr. Jae James regarding his experience of incarceration and resultant ambitions