Ho. OF REPA

29th Congress, 1st Session.

much : if stolen by a white man, citizen of the United Scales, the Indian propriet s shall be puid in cash ; and if stolen ' y an Indian from sciences, we be deducted an expressed in the fourth article of the track of Puillsin the investigation and the fourth article of the track of Puills-

JAMES E. RAWLINGS.

MARCH 27, 1846. Read, and laid upon the table.

cause, and be no fotger romanbered webered manded on either why,

Mr. JACOB THOMPSON, from the Committee on Indian Affairs, made the following

REPORT :

The Committee on Indian Affairs, to whom was referred the petition of James E. Rawlings, the heir and representative of Michael Rawlings, deceased, his father, and Asahel Rawlings, deceased, his grandfather, have had the same under consideration, and ask leave to make the following report:

The petitioner represents that in the month of February, 1792, certain evil-disposed Indians of the Cherokee nation killed one very valuable mare, and stole and carried away seven other horses, the property of his father and grandfather, and that no reparation or payment has in any way been made from that day to this for said horses, either by the Cherokee nation or by the government of the United States.

It does not appear that any demand has ever been made of the Cherokee nation at any time for payment for these depredations, nor has an appeal ever been made to the United States to enforce their rights; and, on account of the time which has elapsed since the theft was committed, being more than fifty-two years, the committee are bound to presume there is some mistake in the statements which have been made. A party who has so long slept upon his rights must be presumed to have either wholly abandoned them, or to have had none in the first instance; and, if all the facts set forth by the petitioner were satisfactorily proven, the committee could not, at this late day, for a moment entertain the proposition of granting relief, though no intermediate treaties had been made materially affecting the claim of the petitioner. Time is always an element which makes against a claim; but time, coupled with no action on the part of the complainant, is absolutely conclusive against him.

But it appears that, on the 2d day of October, 1798, more than six years after the depredation complained of was committed, the United States entered into a treaty with the Cherokee Indians, for the purpose of a more perfect understanding between the people of the United States and the Cherokee Indians, and of strengthening the cords of peace and kind feelings between the two parties. Article 9th of that treaty is in these words:

"It is mutually agreed between the parties, that horses stolen, and not returned within ninety days, shall be paid for at the rate of sixty dollars Ritchie & Heiss, printers.

Rb Concretes,

Pager Rug

each; if stolen by a white man, citizen of the United States, the Indian proprietor shall be paid in cash; and if stolen by an Indian from a citizen, to be deducted as expressed in the fourth article of the treaty of Philadelphia. This article shall have retrospect to the commencement of the first conferences at this place in the present year, and no further; and all animosities, aggressions, the fts, and plunderings, prior to that day, shall crease, and be no longer remembered or demanded on either side."

Here, then, was a general settlement and a full liquidation of all outstanding demands. If, between 1792 and 1798, the claimants had pressed and proved their demands to the satisfaction of the government, the United States would have caused payment to have been made. But this they failed to do, and it would now be an act of heinous injustice to grant the prayer of the petitioner, even though he had made out his proof, and deduct the amount claimed from the moneys due the Cherokee nation.

The committee, therefore, are unanimous in their opinion that the petitioner is not entitled to relief, and ask to be discharged from the further consideration of the same.

"the and the Minertal of the hair and representation of Michael Touritograderived, has failer and Anahel Rawlings, descard, his grandfather, "Thereads of the same as the academications and add the hore to incate the fid-

The partitioner represents that in the asonth of February, 1702, certain avid disprazed Ludians of the Cherokes nation killed one very valuable mars, and auto and cauried away seven other herses, the property of his father and grandfather, and that he repration or payment her in any way been made from that day to this for and herses, wither by the Charokee mation or by the government of the United States.

If door not appear that any demand has over heep made of the Chernhee writen at any time for payment for these depredations, nor had an uppeak over heat made in the United States to enforce their rights ; and, on account of the time which fine depred annes the theft was committed, being more than iffy two years, the committed for hound to province their as some minima in the statementic which have been made. A party who are none minima in the statementic which have been made. A party who are none minima in the statementic which have been made. A party who are been done at pay of the order of the first instances, and, field the first and first the payment is a statementic which have been made. A party who are first the theory over hold non-to the first instances, and, field in first and first the first device were sub-instances, and, field in first mot, at the first day, first more sub-instances, and, field in first and, at the first day, first more sub-instances, and, field in first and first in patient over a sub-instances of the rest instances, and first in patient over the instances of the first mater in the first and a non-to the first instances, and, field in first and first in the first day, if the a more sub-instances are done in the more statements in a statement of the part instances and in a more in the particular of the material the part of the first more in the statement of the partition and the material the part of the adject in the part of the partition of the adject of the part of the part of the first instances in the part of the adject of the part of the partition of the first instances in the part of the adject of the part of the part of the part of the part of the adject of the part of the part of the

Just by approach that, ou the bil day of Derober, 1705, more than aix yours after the dependence complained of was controlucly the United Simes entered into a treaty with the Observice Indiana, for the purpose of a more parfect understanding between the people of the United States and the Observice Justions, and of strengthening the cords of people and the Bedings between the people of the that treaty is in the particle water in a construction and in the service of the the deriver and the Observice Justions, and of strengthening the cords of people and ing fieldings between the parties. Article 9th of that treaty is in them

" Is is murphy agreed hotween the parties, that horses atolen, and not rearries within ninety days, shall be pold for at the rate of sixty dollars

MINDER OF HOUSE, DURINGER,