

IN THE SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES.

MARCH 2, 1889.—Ordered to be printed.

Mr. CHANDLER, from the Select Committee on Indian Traders, submitted the following REPORT:

[To accompany Senate bills Nos. 3522, 3582, and 3583.]

The Select Committee on Indian Traders respectfully reports that it has made the inquiry directed by the resolution which passed the Senate on the 5th day of March, 1888, as follows:

Resolved, That the Select Committee on Indian Traders be directed to inquire into the methods of allotting lands in severalty to Indians upon the Court Oreille, Lac de Flambeau, Bad River, Fond du Lac, and other Indian reservations in the northern portions of Wisconsin and Minnesota, and into the system under which Indians to whom lands have been allotted are allowed to sell the timber thereon; and especially to inquire whether or not adequate prices are paid to Indians under such sales, and that for the purpose of this resolution the committee be authorized to exercise all the powers heretofore conferred upon the committee by the Senate.

and presents to the Senate the testimony taken by the committee and the conclusions reached from such testimony.

The facts disclosed by the investigation show—

(1) Inexcusable neglect of duty and serious administrative incapacity on the part of the late Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Mr. J. D. O. Atkins; and

(2) Willful and deliberate disobedience of laws and orders, and gross abuse of official power on the part of the Chippewa Indian agent, Mr. James T. Gregory;

All resulting in the oppression and spoliation of hundreds of destitute, ignorant, and helpless Indians, who, as wards of the nation, had been for care and protection mistakenly confided to these two unfaithful officers.

(3) For the misconduct of Agent Gregory and for the wrongs done by him to the Indians since March, 1888, the Secretary of the Interior, Hon. William F. Vilas, is also fully responsible and is censurable.

It remains to recite the facts which both justify and require the foregoing arraignment of the Commissioner, Agent, and Secretary.

The principal Chippewa Indian reservations included within the La Pointe Agency, located at Ashland, Wis., are (1) the Fond du Lac Reservation in Minnesota, (2) the Bad River, (3) the Lac Court Oreille, and (4) the Lac de Flambeau Reservations in Wisconsin.

The size of the reservations and the Indian population thereon appear as follows :

Reservations.	Acres.	Indian population.
Fond du Lac	100, 121	455
Bad River	124, 333	508
Court Oreille	69, 136	1, 170
Flambeau	69, 824	468
Total		2, 601

These reservations have abounded in pine timber of excellent quality, equal in value to any timber in the neighboring sections. An estimate of the quantity growing in 1882, before any cutting began, is as follows :

	Feet.
Fond du Lac	200, 000, 000
Bad River	100, 000, 000
Court Oreille	400, 000, 000
Flambeau	300, 000, 000
Total	1, 000, 000, 000

This timber, properly disposed of for the benefit of the Indians, should have produced net at least $2 per 1,000 feet, making $2,000,000, amounting for each Indian to $770, which, carefully invested, would have given each an annuity of $40, or enough, taking the Indians in families, to feed them. With the Indians doing the logging themselves, their labor, estimated to average $3 per 1,000 feet, would have brought into circulation among them $3,000,000. This employment of the Indians would have extended over twenty or thirty years, and the habits of labor thereby acquired, with other incidental results, would have greatly benefited the Indians beyond the moneys received, and would have made them self-supporting citizens.

Under the system of disposing of the timber actually adopted the amount of timber which has been cut is as follows :

	Feet.
Fond du Lac :
1885-'86	5, 357, 911
1886-'87	17, 866, 130
1887-'88	41, 461, 910
		64, 685, 951
Bad River :
1882-'83	2, 569, 904
1883-'84	13, 365, 448
1884-'85	888, 933
1885-'86	12, 077, 702
1886-'87	23, 202, 972
1887-'88	31, 405, 420
		83, 510, 379
Court Oreille :
1882-'83	3, 302, 880
1883-'84	31, 391, 950
1884-'85	25, 260, 760
1885-'86	46, 510, 156
1886-'87	78, 069, 770
1887-'88	88, 347, 340
		272, 882, 856
Flambeau :
1886-'87	9, 627, 885
1887-'88	28, 991, 410
		38, 619, 295
Total		459, 698, 481

The timber is thus seen to be nearly half gone from the reservations. The amount cut each year on all the reservations appears as follows:

Amount cut, season of—	Feet.
1882-'83	5, 872, 784
1883-'84	44, 757, 398
1884-'85	26, 149, 693
1885-'86	63, 945, 769
1886-'87	128, 766, 757
1887-'88	190, 206, 080
Total.....	459, 698, 481
1888. Estimated quantity remaining on reservations named.....	540, 000, 000

The financial result of the lumber operations which have thus stripped the reservations of half the pine timber is shown by the following statement:

Statement of logging operations on Court Oreille, Lac de Flambeau, Bad River, and Fond du Lac Indian Reservations, under the La Pointe Agency, for the season designated.

Total, 3,302,200 feet, value of $19,707.01. The average value per thousand would be $5.99, which gives the value of whole amount of timber cut, 5,872,784 feet, $34,908.49.
 † Work done by Indians.

From the above table it appears—

(1) That during the three years prior to the summer of 1885, 206 contracts made by the Indians for the sale of their pine timber, covering 76,979,775 feet, realized $428,316.61, which, as the work was done by the Indians, resulted in the useful introduction of nearly that sum of money among the tribes.

(2) It appears that during the three years after the summer of 1885 1,203 contracts made by Indians, covering 382,918,206 feet, realized to the Indians $394,088.79 in cash and $438,875.50 in merchandise. Reducing the merchandise to a cash value of one-half of the prices charged the Indians, and the amount realized by them appears to have been $613,526.54 for their 382,000,000 feet of timber.

Since 1885 the timber cutting has been done mainly by white lumbermen, and the Indians have derived little if any benefit from the $1,327,552.53 reported as the cost of banking the timber; while on the other hand they have been encouraged in habits of idleness and vice by the distribution among them of the proceeds of their lumber cut and carried away by other hands. Very little of their money is left to them, their timber is one-half gone, and they are likely soon to be dependent on the Government for support. The injury done by despoiling them of their timber will be further apparent as this report proceeds. The first inquiry will be, how happened these remarkable results to come about?

The cutting of timber on the reservations began in 1882 under a system devised by Commissioner Hiram Price and Indian Agent William R. Durfee. The Chippewa Indians under the treaty of September 30, 1854 (10 Statutes at Large, 1109), were entitled to allotments of land in severalty, and about the year 1882 began to ask for such allotments in order to utilize the pine timber thereon. The system first adopted to govern the cutting of timber is described by Agent Durfee in his testimony (page 1007). Its principal limitations upon the rights of the Indians material to be considered in the present inquiry were contained in a circular letter issued by Mr. Durfee (page 11), and were as follows:

They will not be permitted to sell stumpage, neither will white crews be allowed to do the work, but the Indians themselves must cut and sell, delivered on the bank of a driving stream, lake, or at mill, as may be desired.

The censure expressed in this report upon Commissioner Atkins and Agent Gregory is based mainly upon the fact that while the foregoing limitations—that the Indians should not sell stumpage, but should themselves cut and deliver the timber, and that no white crews should be allowed—were observed and obeyed during the three years prior to 1885, in which 76,779,875 feet of timber were cut by the Indians, they were absolutely disregarded and defied during the three years subsequent to 1885, in which 382,548,047 feet were cut almost entirely by white lumbermen.

That the limitations were observed prior to 1885 is expressly stated in Mr. Durfee's testimony (pages 1007 to 1033). With reference to the exclusion of white lumbermen from the reservations, his evidence is as follows (page 1013):

Q. You may state your plan of doing the business or allowing it to be done during those three winters under your system.—A. During the first two winters, at my recommendation Commissioner Price allowed me to employ a white foreman in each camp, a white cook in each camp, and white teamsters. This was done during the first two winters. At the end of that time, as I had had some little trouble caused by men getting an extra number of teamsters and claiming their teams were in the barn, and in lost time of the Indians in having to care for teams, and to conduct the business, I recommended that the use of white men be disallowed altogether, and I was instructed by the Department to that effect, that I should disallow the use of white men.

Q. Do those instructions appear in the book of printed testimony as you have seen them?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was the fact as to white labor in the winter of 1884-'85?—A. There was practically no white labor used during the winter of 1884-'85. There is a great deal of territory to look over, and occasionally a white man would get into the camps, but as soon as he was discovered he would be turned out. There was no large number, however; but in the case of one or two in camp, as soon as we discovered it we turned them out. In two of the camps where, in direct violation of the instructions and after remonstrance they purposely and intentionally violated the regulations by running in a number of white men, I stopped the work until they complied with the regulation.

Q. That is, where the Indian contractor who had sold the timber and was to bank it took white labor on you stopped him?—A. Yes, sir. The farmers on each reservation were instructed to allow no white labor whatever, and where a white man was found in the camps to see that he was discharged immediately.

feet of timber had been cut, there were cut in the winter of 1884-'85 only 26,149,693 feet.

Upon the advent to power in March, 1885, of a national administration eager to serve personal and political ends, one class of its favorites sought out the traderships at the various Indian agencies with black-mailing designs, and another class turned their longing eyes toward the valuable forests of pine timber upon the Chippewa Indian Reservations. But the latter saw that under the system adopted by the previous administration and conducted by Mr. Durfee there could be no chance for plunder or illegitimate profit. To break down the system directly it was seen might be difficult. It was determined to do it more easily by indirection, and, as a first step, to find as Mr. Durfee's successor some person who would wield unscrupulously the vast powers of the Indian agency.

Such a person was found, as is shown by the testimony of John H. Knight, of Ashland, Wis., who came to Washington of his own accord, and was at his own request examined by the committee. He was formerly a Republican and a register of the land office at Bayfield, Wis. He voted for Garfield in 1880, but became a Mugwump in 1884 and voted for Cleveland and Hendricks; and he has, by due degrees, become a Democrat. He is the president and principal stockholder of the Superior Lumber Company, of Ashland, in which Mr. Vilas is a large stockholder, and of which D. A. Kennedy is the superintendent.

Into the service of this company as a scaler or measurer of logs came, in 1881, James T. Gregory, a naturalized Canadian, who had been a store clerk and had also worked in a drug store. After four years' work as a scaler he became a book-keeper for the company. They started the Ashland National Bank and he took office as its cashier, and was so employed in May, 1885. Mr. Knight requested Mr. Vilas, then Postmaster-General, to procure the appointment of Gregory as Indian agent; the appointment was promptly made, and he entered upon his duties May 19, 1885.

Mr. Knight's object in appearing before the committee was to repel impressions that had become prevalent that the reason for the appointment of Gregory had been to enable the Superior Lumber Company to make timber contracts with the Indians, and he testified that the company had made no such contracts, and had not dealt in logs received from the Indian reservations. No reliable testimony appeared to the committee to contradict Mr. Knight's denials, so far as the lumber company was concerned.

The prior belief to the contrary, however, was quite natural and easily accounted for, as will be apparent from reading the following letters, written to the Indian farmer on the Court Oreille Reservation :

ASHLAND, October 6, 1885.

DEAR SIR: The contract with the Gogwayon was intended to be made in the name of D. A. Kennedy, instead of ours, and we return same to you with others drawn in Mr. Kennedy's name, which please have signed instead of those you sent us. We have also sent a copy of the agreement for supplies with Mr. Kennedy's name substituted for Denominie's. Please fix these up and return to Mr. Kennedy and oblige,

Yours, truly,

SUPERIOR LUMBER CO.

Mr. N. E. PERO,
Lac Court Orielle, Wis.

We have left the range number blank in the supplies agreement, as it does not agree with the contract in the papers sent us. Please fill up, and oblige.

ASHLAND, October 30, 1885.

DEAR SIR: Yours of the 27th received. I send you $50 by express for the old lady mentioned. Thought first of sending you a draft, but concluded that currency would be more convenient, and so will send it to your address at Hayward, which I believe is your nearest express office. We inclose the contracts herewith, which are not certified to by the interpreter. Please fill out and sign the certificate, same as you did on other contracts, and also get the name of another witness, and return same to me at your earliest convenience.

Yours, truly,

N. E. PERO, Lac Court Orielle, Wis.

SUPERIOR LUMBER CO.

ASHLAND, October 16, 1885.

N. E. PERO:

I have not had the pleasure of being personally acquainted with you, but I suppose you know me in the same manner that I know you (that is, by reputation). I am superintendent of the Superior Lumber Company. You will recollect my name in connection with the Catholic Knights of this place. I write you this fully because I am asking to change the papers made to Superior Lumber Company to my name. I am supplying John Denomie, and he will do the logging the same as before under contract with me. Anything you can do for me in this matter will be fully appreciated.

Respectfully, yours,

D. A. KENNEDY.

The foregoing letters, signed "Superior Lumber Company," were actually written by direction of D. A. Kennedy, superintendent of the company, by a clerk in the office of the company, who at first supposed the contracts were to be made in the name of that company when they were only the contracts of D. A. Kennedy.

As a matter of fact, Mr. Kennedy engaged to some extent in the business of contracting with Indians for their timber on the Bad River Reservation. Why it was considered expedient that the Superior Lumber Company should refrain from making such contracts under the protection of their late employé, Gregory, who had been created by them the Indian agent, while Kennedy, their superintendent, went on in his own name to make some such contracts, is not apparent to the committee.

Whatever Mr. Knight and the Postmaster-General, when they secured the appointment of Gregory, may have intended concerning the relations of the Superior Lumber Company or its superintendent to timber contracts with the Indians, their purpose with reference to his general management of the business of his agency may be justly inferred from what he actually did. Law and regulation were alike set at defiance by Mr. Gregory. He seemed to have thought that his duty to some one—certainly not the Government nor the Indians—was to open the Indian reservations to rapacious lumbermen, to deprive the Indians of their timber under the flimsiest forms of contracts, and to enrich the lumber contractors within the shortest possible period with the spoils of a dependent, hopeless, helpless, and subject race, having no rights which the agents or supporters of the new administration were bound to respect.

The general result of three years of Mr. Gregory's wrong-doing as agent was stated by this committee in a letter dated March 12, 1888, to Mr. Vilas, who had then become Secretary of the Interior and responsible in form and in fact for the dishonorable and disgraceful treatment of the Chippewa Indians. The letter of the committee (Testimony, page 256) contains the following:

The foregoing condensed summary of the case, as it now appears to the committee, leads to this general result: That a plan originally designed to benefit the Indians, by giving them for many years useful employment and reasonable sums of money, while removing from the reservations only trees which could be judiciously spared and leaving the rest suitably preserved and located, has been perverted into a system under which greedy contractors have rushed upon the reservations; have aroused the desires of the Indians to obtain money without work; have made contracts practically unlimited as to the number of trees to be cut; have brought in swarms of white lumbermen to do the work; have already absolutely denuded the finest timber tracts, and are stripping the allotments so rapidly, that it is probable that within two or three years the pine lumber of the reservations will all be gone, and that not long thereafter the temporary and delusive prosperity of the Indians will cease, and the Government will be asked for appropriations for their support. Unless the testimony taken can be shown to be erroneous, there has been the grossest mal-administration on the part of the local United States officials in charge of the Chippewa reservations.

If the committee's above description of the results of Mr. Gregory's work, after his appointment on the recommendation of the Postmaster-General and Mr. Knight, is correct, it may naturally be asked, Where, during all this period of maladministration, were the Secretary of the Interior, Mr. Lamar, and the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Mr. Atkins? The answer must be, so far as the committee can ascertain, that they were both asleep. It does not appear, so far as the transactions narrated are concerned, that there was any Secretary of the Interior. As to the Commissioner, his ignorance of what was being done upon his responsibility by Mr. Gregory, is pitiful, and would be ludicrous if it were not disgraceful to the Government that one of its officials could be so utterly inefficient.

Let us look at the record. The fact that the reservations were being stripped of their timber by unlimited gangs of white lumbermen had long been known to the Wisconsin public. A representative of this committee had visited Ashland and made a memorandum of such facts as he could learn; which thereby became known to several members of the Senate. On the 1st day of February, 1888, Senator Spooner wrote a letter of inquiry to Commissioner Atkins, to which he received the following elaborate reply (page 257):

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, February 3, 1888.

SIR: Referring to your letter of the 1st instant, requesting to be informed "under what laws, regulations, or restrictions the Chippewa Indians of Wisconsin are permitted to dispose of their timber on lands allotted under the treaty of 1854, or under the Dawes act," I have the honor to state that under the provisions of the said treaty (September 30, 1854, Stat. 1109) over 500 Indians have received patents for 80-acre tracts, variously located on the Lac Court d'Oreilles, Bad River, and Red Cliff Reservations, restricted against sale, lease, or alienation without consent of the President of the United States.

Most of the lands patented are heavily timbered with pine, and the Indians being desirous of turning the timber to account, authority was, on September 23, 1882, granted by the Department for all such patentees to cut and sell the timber from three-fourths of the patented tract, leaving the remaining one-fourth of the timber in a compact body, intact for their future use for fuel, fencing, etc.

The Indians were not permitted to sell stumpage, neither were white crews to be allowed on the reservations to do the work, but the Indians themselves were to cut and sell, delivered on the bank of a driving stream, lake, or at mill, as should be agreed upon with the purchaser.

The logs were to be scaled by a competent person, approved by the United States Indian agent, and scaling charges were to be paid equally between the parties to the contract.

Payment was to be made to the Indian owner from time to time during progress of the work, as should be agreed upon between the contracting parties, final payment to be made before removal of the logs.

The Indians were to be at liberty to make their own contracts, subject to the approval of the United States Indian agent and the Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

Bonds were required to be given by the purchaser in a sum sufficient to insure the faithful performance of the contracts, subject to like approval.

These general regulations have been in force since the winter of 1882, when the logging operations at the La Pointe Agency commenced. Additional instructions, rendered necessary by circumstances and the unforeseen development of the work, have from time to time been given to the several agents in charge, but the general plan, as above outlined, remains substantially the same, and, notwithstanding the provisions of the sixth section of the general allotment act of February 8, 1887 (24 Stat., 388), declaring every Indian born within the territorial limits of the United States to whom allotments shall have been made thereunder by any law or treaty, to be a citizen of the United States, is still held by the Department to be absolutely necessary for the protection of the Indians until Congress shall cease to provide an agent for them.

In cases where patent has not issued, the approval of the selection and allotment by the President, in accordance with article 3 of the treaty of September 30, 1854, is held to be sufficient authority for the allottee to contract, without waiting on the delay for patent to issue.

Forms of agreement and bonds in use at the La Pointe Agency are herewith inclosed.

Very respectfully,

J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

Hon. J. C. SPOONER,
United States Senator.

There did not appear to be the slightest suspicion in the mind of Mr Atkins on February 3, 1888, when he wrote this letter, that there had been any violation on the reservations of the rules which he reports to Senator Spooner as then existing and in force, namely (page 258):

The Indians were not permitted to sell stumpage, neither were white crews to be allowed on the reservations to do the work, but the Indians themselves were to cut and sell, delivered on the bank of a driving stream, lake, or at mills, as should be agreed upon with the purchaser.

Many complaints had been made to the Interior Department by Indians and others of the abominable management of Gregory, and various special agents had been sent to the reservations to investigate and make report. But the agents either failed to discover and report the facts, or their reports fell on deaf ears when they reached the Commissioner and Secretary. The Indian tribes requested permission to send delegations to Washington to represent the distressing condition of affairs, but it was denied. At last some of the Indians borrowed money and came here, and, their complaints coming to the knowledge of this committee, the resolution for an inquiry was, on March 5, 1888, offered in the Senate and adopted.

The first witness summoned was the Commissioner, Mr. Atkins, who testified March 8. His evidence commences on page 2. He produced, as the form of the authorized contract to be made by the Indian with the purchaser of his timber, the following (pages 6 and 7):

This agreement, made and entered into at the La Pointe Indian Agency, Wisconsin, this ____ day of ____, 188__, between ____ of ____, party of the first part, and ____ of ____, party of the second part, witnesseth: That the said party of the first part, having received from the United States a patent, subject to certain reserved rights vested in the President of the United States, to the ____, situated upon the ____ reservation, in the State of Wisconsin, agrees to cut, in a good and merchantable manner, into logs of the length of ____ feet, from the merchantable pine timber upon three-quarters of the said tract, the boundaries of which shall be designated by the United States Indian agent in charge of the above-named agency, and be incorporated into and become a part of this contract, and that none of the logs shall measure less than ____ inches at the small end, and to deliver ____ thousand feet, more or less, of said logs upon the bank of ____, to the party of the second part, for the sum of ____ per thousand feet, board measure, as scaled upon the bank by a competent scaler, who shall be approved by the United States Indian agent above mentioned.

In consideration of the above agreement and sale, the party of the second part agrees to pay to the said ____, so fast as the logs are delivered upon the bank, in lots of ____ thousand feet, ____ of the purchase money; that is to say, when — thousand feet are delivered, the sum of — shall be paid thereon, and for each subsequent — thousand feet so delivered an equal amount shall be paid, and the remainder of the purchase money shall be paid — when the logs shall be considered delivered to the party of the second part, and this contract shall terminate. The expense of scaling the logs upon the bank shall be equally divided between the parties of the first and second part to this agreement.

This contract shall be valid and binding only after having the approval indorsed thereupon of the United States Indian agent in charge of the above-named reservation and the honorable Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and shall not be assigned or sublet under penalty of annulment thereof.

Witness the hands and seals of said parties the day and year first above written.

Mr. Atkins was then examined as follows (pages 9 and 10) :

Q. I will ask you whether the system which was adopted in 1882 contemplated that the cutting of the logs and the drawing them to the place of delivery, whether at the bank of the stream or at the mill, should be done by the Indians themselves who make the contracts, and that other men, white hands from off the reservation, should not be allowed to take part in the cutting; was that the system adopted in 1882 or not?

The WITNESS. I prefer to answer in my own way.

The CHAIRMAN. Certainly; you may do so.

The WITNESS. The stumpage system has not been encouraged since I have been in the Indian Office. Some white men necessarily have been employed, and were at the beginning, to teach the Indians how to cut timber and to bank it—how to haul it. But more recently the Indians have been doing the most of this work themselves under the instruction of some man who probably was sent there by the contractor to assist them and aid them. But they cut the timber and do the work mostly themselves, and the object of the office is to have them do it in order to teach them to work and get them into habits of industry. Does that answer your question?

The CHAIRMAN. You may answer in your own way, and I will ask you another question if I am not satisfied.

The WITNESS. If I have not covered the ground I should like you to state it.

Q. I will ask you the question whether, as you understand, the system which was first adopted in 1882 contemplated that Indians, and Indians alone, should do the cutting of the timber?—A. That was the prime purpose at the beginning, that the Indians should do so. But when the logging system first began, as I endeavored to state to you before, some white men were allowed to assist them, and more white men were allowed to assist them in those days than at this time, because the Indians have learned more about it. But so far as the purpose of the office was concerned, as I understand it, in 1882 that was the object of the office, to let the Indians do the work mostly if they could.

Q. You may look now at the form of contract which has been put in and see whether it provides that the party of the first part (being the Indian) shall cut the timber and deliver it to the party of the second part?—A. Yes, sir; I think it does.

Q. Do I understand you then to say that that clause has been conformed to, or has it been departed from?—A. I do not understand that it was conformed to at the beginning, strictly. But we have conformed to it more strictly recently, at least that is my understanding, and those are the instructions which have been given. But at the beginning it was not so conformed to, for the reason I gave, that it was in the incipency of the work and the Indians did not understand it so well, and hence more white people were allowed at the beginning than now.

Mr. Atkins also produced, as the origin of the system of timber contracts, the circular of Mr. Durfee containing the clause heretofore recited, namely (page 11):

They will not be permitted to sell stumpage, neither will white crews be allowed to do the work, but the Indians themselves must cut and sell, delivered on the bank of a driving stream, lake, or at mill, as may be desired.

As the examination proceeded Mr. Atkins was questioned as follows (pages 26 and 27):

Q. You may state now whether any complaints have been made to you that white men, other than foremen, cooks, and teamsters, have been at work on these Chippewa reservations getting off timber.—A. Recently there have been.

Q. How recently?—A. Well, last week such complaints were made and possibly some of them were made before; I do not recollect.

Q. You do not recall any complaints?—A. No, sir; I do not.

* * * * *

Q. If large numbers of white men have been taken on by those contractors either last winter or this winter, it is not known to you?—A. No, sir; it is not.

* * * * *

Q. There are in Washington now Chippewa Indians to make complaints, are there not?—A. Yes; they are here now.

Q. How many of them?—A. There [indicating] is one, and there [indicating] is one, and there [indicating] is a white man who I suppose came with them. There are about seventeen of them, I think.

Q. They have laid their complaints before you?—A. Yes, sir; they did so last week.

Being examined as to the supposed violation of the rule prohibiting the Indians from selling stumpage, Mr. Atkins testified as follows (page 31):

Q. Has the specific complaint ever been brought to your attention that the contractors with the Indians, having executed the form of contract, turn around and make a contract with him that they will cut and bank the timber?—A. Sublet it, do you mean?

Q. No; that instead of the Indian's going and banking the timber, the contractor himself will do it and charge the Indian a certain price per thousand, to be deducted from the contract price?—A. That may exist, but if it does exist I do not know it, and it is not the policy of the office to allow it.

Q. But no complaint of that kind has been called to your attention?—A. No, sir; I do not think so, unless in this recent complaint; I do not know about that.

Q. If such a system had prevailed, then of course the amount that the Indian would realize would depend not upon the sum named in the contract, but altogether upon what the contractor charged him for cutting and banking the timber, would it not?—A. I presume that would be true.

Q. And if such a system existed that would be a violation of the rules and regulations of the Department and an abuse?—A. I should so regard it; I should treat it as an abuse, yes, I would. But I do not know that that has ever existed; I do not think I have ever heard of it, although I may, for what I have heard and what I have not heard in the Indian Office is something that is beyond recollection.

Q. I am only asking for your impressions. But if any considerable number of white men are on those reservations cutting timber they must cut under some such a provision with the Indian contrary to the face of the contract, must they not?—A. I will say this: If there are any white men on the reservation cutting timber, it is without the knowledge of the Indian Office and would not have been allowed.

Q. And if they are there and doing this work, it must be by a modification of the formal paper contract, must it not? They do not cut the timber for the Indian and pay the Indian the same price?—A. If they are there, they are in violation of the orders and in violation of what the Indian Office understands to be the contract.

Q. I understand you, by way of repetition, to say that you have endeavored rigidly and in good faith to carry out the system that you found in existence when you came in that Office?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you have not altered it to your recollection?—A. I have not. Allow me to say there may have been changes, but I do not call them to mind. I do not know whether there have been any changes or not. It is impossible for me to know almost, unless my attention is called to it at the time and it should make a very serious impression on my mind. I can not recollect those things.

Mr. Atkins, while testifying, read from the report of Commissioner Price for 1884 the following (pages 14 and 15):

By selling the stumpage, the Indian owners would get their money without labor; the remainder of the Indians would be left idle; in a short time the timber would be cut off, and the Indians not having acquired the habit of labor, and naturally improvident, with money easily acquired, would be poorer and more dependent than ever. Owing to the want of knowledge of logging operations, caring for and handling teams, etc., by the Indians, the agent was at an early stage of the proceedings authorized to allow the employment of white foremen, cooks, and teamsters to a limited extent in the lumber camps.

and then Mr. Atkins added:

That is what I have reference to—that at the beginning of the system more white people were allowed there than now (page 15).

Mr. Atkins was further asked (page 34):

Q. I will ask you if you have taken any other action on the complaints of the Indians now in town except what you stated yesterday?—A. The only action I have taken is this: This morning I telegraphed Agent Gregory to know whether there are any white men cutting timber on any reservation under his charge, and, if so, by what authority.

Q. Will you furnish the committee with the answer you may receive to that telegram as soon as received?—A. I will, with pleasure, because if he is employing any white men on the reservation other than a mere teamster, cook, or somebody of that sort that is usually there, he is doing it without any authority from the Indian Office and without its knowledge.

While Mr. Henry E. Hindmarsh, clerk of the land division of the Indian Office, was under examination, Mr. Atkins asked him the following question (page 38):

Commissioner ATKINS. I want to ask Major Hindmarsh if any authority, in any manner that he is cognizant of, has been given to Agent Gregory to allow white men to go there and cut timber?

The WITNESS. No, sir.

The committee, having thus in the outset of the investigation, been met by the positive testimony of Mr. Atkins that no stumpage contracts with the Indians were permitted; that no white men were allowed on the reservations except foremen, cooks, and teamsters; and that even fewer white men were then allowed than formerly, dubiously proceeded to examine, principally through interpreters, the Indians who had found their way to Washington on borrowed money and against the will of Mr. Gregory and Mr. Atkins, and there were immediately developed by irrefragable testimony the most astounding facts, which are here summarized in the language used, when they were at once reported by the committee to Secretary Vilas in the before-mentioned letter of March 12, 1888, as follows (page 256):

I.

Although the form of the original contract is still used, yet the custom is for the purchasers of the timber from the Indians to guaranty that the latter shall realize a fixed amount as stumpage, and the purchasers then cut the timber and haul the logs themselves.

II.

The purchasers of the timber, doing their own lumbering, employ white men. Witnesses estimate that there are now at work upon the Court Oreille Reservation 200 Indians and 1,400 white men; upon the Flambeau 25 Indians and 125 white men; upon the Fond du Lac 25 Indians and 150 white men, and upon the Bad River 30 Indians and 400 white men.

In view of these remarkable disclosures, and as it had in addition, appeared from Mr. Atkins's own testimony that he had approved no contracts whatever allowing any timber to be cut during the season of 1887-'88, the committee also in their letter of March 12 suggested to Secretary Vilas that it was advisable to give orders by telegraph to stop immediately the cutting down of any more trees upon the reservations. The Secretary, under date of March 13, acknowledged the receipt of the committee's letter and said of the testimony taken:

I understand from the Commissioner of Indian Affairs that it is only such as has been produced by the complainants, and that the purport of it was an entire surprise to him.

By this time Commissioner Atkins had rubbed his eyes and aroused himself from his slumbers. He at once began a chase after his agent, Gregory, who, it seems, as the end of each lumber season approached and swarms of white lumbermen in unlimited numbers crowded upon the reservations, slashing down the finest trees of the despoiled Indians, was in the habit of taking a vacation, on account of catarrh, at Hot Springs, Ark. The telegraphic hunt was as follows (pages 162 and 163):

OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, D. C., March 9, 1888.

To GREGORY,
Agent, Ashland, Wis.:

Are any white men cutting timber on any reservation under your charge; and, if so, by what authority, and on what reservation?

J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

ARLINGTON HOTEL,
Hot Springs, Ark., March 10, 1888.

To COMMISSIONER INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, D. C.:

On all reservations where logging is being done white men are more or less employed, but strictly in accordance with my instructions Indians in all cases are given preference, and none who will work are denied, and it is not only necessary but beneficial to allottees and the Indian laborers. I will be here three weeks.

GREGORY,
Agent.

OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, D. C., March 10, 1888.

To J. T. GREGORY,
Arlington Hotel, Hot Springs, Ark.

Your dispatch unsatisfactory. Are any white men cutting timber on reservations? If so, how many, who employed them, and by what authority?

J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

ARLINGTON HOTEL,
Hot Springs, Ark., March 10, 1888.

To COMMISSIONER INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, D. C.:

I am not certain that I understand your inquiry. The white men cutting timber, referred to in my message, are there in the employ of allottees. Allottees sell their logs delivered on bank of streams, and then generally make a contract with experienced loggers to bank them. Some are able to bank logs themselves. In both cases experienced and skilled white men are employed for special duties, and when Indians can not be had, white men are employed as common hands. I can not tell how many white men are thus employed. Those so employed are there under my authority. In this respect it is the same as has been done every year heretofore.

GREGORY,
Indian Agent.

OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, D. C., March 13, 1888.

To GREGORY,
Agent, Ashland, Wis.:

You will immediately put a stop to the cutting and felling of trees on all reservations under your charge, whether under existing contracts with Indians or otherwise.

J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

As soon as possible Agent Gregory was summoned before the committee, and he was examined March 23, 1888. It is sufficient to say that he denied none of the facts in this report already stated. Thereupon, and while awaiting copies of papers from the Indian Office, correspondence took place between the chairman of the committee and Commissioner Atkins and Secretary Vilas as follows:

UNITED STATES SENATE,
SELECT COMMITTEE ON INDIAN TRADERS,
Washington, D. C., March 31, 1888.

SIR: Calling your attention to the testimony before this committee of James T. Gregory, Indian Agent at Ashland, Wis., I desire to be informed whether or not Mr. Gregory and the Indian farmers are to be continued in office during the further investigation which may be made by the committee.

Yours very truly,

WM. E. CHANDLER,
Chairman.

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

UNITED STATES SENATE,
SELECT COMMITTEE ON INDIAN TRADERS,
Washington, D. C., March 31, 1888.

SIR: Copies of the evidence taken by this committee down to and including page 258 have been forwarded to you.

By the testimony of James T. Gregory, Indian agent at Ashland, Wis., the statements made in my letter to you of March 12, showing the destruction of the safeguards of the system of timber contracts, have been completely verified. Mr. Gregory admits the facts substantially as charged by me, and takes the responsibility of his acts and for not reporting them to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

Before proceeding further with the investigation directed by the Senate I desire to know whether or not you intend to retain Mr. Gregory and his subordinates in office or to commit the care of the reservations and of the helpless Indians thereon to other officials.

Yours, very truly,

WM. E. CHANDLER,
Chairman

Hon. WILLIAM F. VILAS,
Secretary of the Interior.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, April 7, 1888.

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt, on the 2d instant, of your communication, dated the 31st ultimo, in which you say that, by the testimony of James T. Gregory, Indian agent at Ashland, Wis., the statements made in your letter of March 12, showing the destruction of the safeguards of the system of timber contracts, have been completely verified; that Mr. Gregory admits the facts substantially as charged by you, and takes the responsibility of his acts, and for not reporting them to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and that, "before proceeding further with the investigation directed by the Senate," you desire to know whether or not I "intend to retain Mr. Gregory and his subordinates in office," or to commit the care of the reservations and the helpless Indians thereon to other officials.

I am also in receipt, by reference of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, of a letter of the same date addressed by you to him, making a similar request.

It does, indeed, seem clear from Mr. Gregory's testimony that the written instructions of the Indian Office were disregarded in some particulars, and, in strict discipline, he merits reprehension for failure to obey them as written. But he strongly negatives any intent of wrong, shows that, in part, his course has been similar to that pursued without objection from the Indian Office by his predecessor and himself since timber was first cut on the reservations, and maintains that in every point of departure his action has been highly advantageous to the Indians interested. So far from appearing to suppose himself guilty of wrong-doing, he has, without apparent concealment or hesitation, testified freely and openly to all the facts, and avowed his solé responsibility for the action taken, in the obvious belief that it merits approval instead of censure, claiming his justification for departure from instructions in the course of business previously permitted and in beneficial results realized under his management, and appearing to think he was clothed with a larger discretion than the instructions authorized.

Mr. Gregory has been for years personally known to me, and his character as an honest, upright, and trustworthy man, of good business capacity and practical acquaintance with the business of timber cutting, warrant at least such confidence in his judgment as to require a careful consideration before it is set aside. If it should appear from further testimony that his management of this business has been to the advantage of the Indians and the public service, as he claims, then, in the absence of any bad intent, perhaps some less severe condemnation than summary dismissal from office may prove more nearly adequate, and sufficiently corrective for discipline's sake. At this stage of the inquiry there seems reason to fear such a judgment might not only be premature but unjust. No harm can arise from sufficient delay to be assured of a safely just determination, both upon the degree of fault, if any, and the proper measure of correction. The cutting of timber for this season has been stopped, as recommended by your committee, because it seemed proper to defer to the urgent judgment of the committee who had had the witnesses before them, notwithstanding my opinion did not concur in it; and, aside from the conceded disregard of instructions, no interest of the public or the Indians now demands, on the evidence thus far presented, further precipitancy in the disposition of this matter.

So far as concerns Mr. Gregory's subordinates in office, my attention has not fallen upon any testimony showing them in personal delinquency or fault, except it be in following the course directed by him.

The further proceeding, with its investigations by the committee, can not but be helpful to a determination on this subject by the Department; and it appears otherwise very desirable to inquire fully into all the facts and circumstances affecting this business. There are many persons of high character thoroughly acquainted with the cutting of timber and manufacture of lumber in the region of country where these reservations lie, and their examination, should it be thought proper to call them, may afford new views of the facts already disclosed, and perhaps suggest changes in the instructions and methods hitherto pursued of much value to the Indians and the public interests. So far as I can, sir, I desire to contribute to and avail myself of the labors of the committee, in a cordial co-operation with its purposes, to advance all the interests affected and to purge the service of any faults or unworthy officers that may be discovered in it.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, yours,

WM. F. VILAS,
Secretary.

Hon. WM. E. CHANDLER,
Chairman Select Committee on Indian Traders, United States Senate.

From this time Commissioner Atkins drops out of the case. He shortly tendered his resignation, and without waiting for its acceptance returned to his home in Tennessee. For all subsequent action concerning timber contracts Secretary Vilas, and not Mr. Atkins, is responsible.

But the case against Mr. Atkins, stated by the committee in the opening of this report, is fully made out. Under his administration of the Indian Office, between 1885 and 1888, 382,548,047 feet of timber were cut and carried from the reservations, almost entirely under stumpage contracts and by white lumbermen; and down to the 12th day of March, 1888, the Commissioner, despite of repeated complaints from the Indians and the many public rumors of the truth, maintained by letters written and on oath when under investigation, that to his knowledge no stumpage contracts had been allowed and no white lumbermen permitted on the reservations. If he told the truth, as the committee are willing to believe he did, he surely was the dullest and most neglectful of all public functionaries of whom there is record, and deserves to be considered as an utterly incompetent executive officer of the Government.

Before proceeding to the sequel of the timber depredations, as conducted under the direct supervision of the new Secretary of the Interior, the committee will consider some of the incidents and aggravations of his system and take notice of the excuses set up therefor.

THE TIMBER CONTRACTS WERE MERE DECEPTIVE FORMS.

It needs no words of the committee to demonstrate the gross maladministration of this timber cutting arising from one prominent fact, that the contracts made with the Indians in writing and forwarded to the Indian Office were never in any sense the actual contracts. The form was one thing, the substance always another. Referring to the form of contract on page 6, it will be seen that the Indian agreed with the contractor that the former would cut from his own land a certain quantity of his timber and himself deliver the logs upon the bank of a river; and the contractor agreed to pay a certain price per thousand feet for the logs so delivered on the bank.

This being the form, the fact was as follows: The Indian agreed to allow the contractor to cut all the timber the latter chose from the Indian's land and haul it off, paying the latter a certain price per thousand feet as stumpage.

Mr. Atkins, it will be recalled, swore positively that no stumpage contracts were allowed. But Mr. Gregory testified (page 191) as follows:

Q. What, if any, alteration or change have you made in the management of this timber-cutting interest out there since you became agent on that reservation?—A. Well, about the only important one I have made is, I have insisted on the Indians having so much stumpage for their pine.

Q. In what shape would the contractors put that agreement?

The WITNESS. How do you mean?

The CHAIRMAN. Would they make an oral or a written agreement?—A. They made a written agreement. Those parties who logged it would make a subcontract and file it with the farmer, agreeing to put the logs in for so much a thousand.

Q. And then that would secure to the allottee so much net?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. That is to say, if the contract price was $6, and this supplemental contract was for $3, the Indian would get $3, and if it was for $3.50 the Indian would get $2.50?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You say you think that system was required for the protection of the allottee?—Yes, sir.

Q. And you favored it?—A. I did.

Q. Do you mean that you originated it?—A. Well, they had not been doing that before.

* * * * *

Q. Did you frame any written orders to this effect?—A. I visited the reservations and told the farmers and contractors about it. I told the farmers and gave them to understand that they would have to do it.

Page 209 :

Q. Do you know when it was that you first deemed it necessary to do this?—A. I did that in the fall of 1885, I think.

Q. Was that system adopted pretty generally after that time?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you make a written report that you had made this requirement of the contractors?—A. No, sir; I did not.

Q. You never have reported that?—A. I do not think so.

Q. Did you not discover that Agent Durfee had also found it necessary to make requirements of this kind?—A. I never discovered that.

Q. Under the system you adopted, where a contract was made for $6 a thousand, who was to determine how much net should be guaranteed to the Indians?—A. The farmer went and looked them over to see how long a haul it was, what it would cost to bank it, and what would be a fair amount.

Q. And he would fix that amount, and the contractor will guaranty that the Indians should get all named in the contract except that?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then under this system of course the important thing to know was, not what the amount per thousand specified in the contract was, but how much was to be deducted from that amount for banking the logs?—A. That was the important thing.

Under this violation of orders thus adopted by Gregory of course the contracts formally signed were the merest waste paper, except as they operated to deceive the authorities at Washington, who ought to have had their eyes opened when they examined the contracts. Take the following schedules, which are fair samples (page 160) :

It is here apparent that both the quantity of timber and the price specified are merely nominal. The real inquiry should have been what stumpage did the contractors agree to pay the Indians.

Mr. Gregory, as above, says the stumpage agreements were in writing, filed with the farmer. But later he admits that they were often oral, and when in writing were sometimes signed only by the Indian and kept by the contractor, leaving the Indian with nothing to show.

He testified concerning the A. M. Sherman contracts (page 224):

Q. What evidence did you have as to the guarantying of stumpage in the Sherman contracts?—A. I think Sherman has filed a list with the farmer; I will not be positive; I told him to.

Q. That was your rule, was it not?—A. Yes, sir; to file a list with the farmer showing how much the Indians were guarantied.

Q. But you do not know that there has been a guaranty there except from conversation with Captain Sherman?—A. No, sir; I do not, except from conversation with Sherman and Allen.

He also testified as to the Patrick Hynes contracts (page 225):

Q. When did you receive information as to what stumpage was guarantied?—A. I received that when I was there in the winter, in December or January. I was talking with Mr. Hynes about it and asked him what he was paying there, and he said that he gave $5 a thousand, but was guarantying so much stumpage; that some logs were worth more than others, being nearer the river than others.

Q. You understood from Mr. Hynes that he did not guaranty a uniform stumpage price, but it varied according to the quality of the timber?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you understand that also from Farmer Cook?—A. I did.

Q. Did you see any written contract guarantying stumpage?—A. I did not.

Q. Was it your information that the guaranty of stumpage was an oral guaranty?—A. Yes, sir, oral; but I think there is a list filed with Farmer Cook; I will not be positive.

Q. Is it in disobedience of your rules, instructions, and suggestions if they are not filed with him?—A. There is always what is called a subcontract filed with the farmer, or at least those are the orders, and the Indians themselves know what the agreement is between them and Hynes.

Q. But if it is oral they have no means of enforcing it?—A. I do not think Hynes would deny it.

Q. You think he would honorably pay them all he guarantied?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You hardly think it is wise to leave a question of that kind to the honor of the contractor, do you?—A. When these contracts are made the farmer is a witness to them, and he knows what private agreement was made and can testify to it.

Charles H. Henry, a contractor, testified about his stumpage contracts as follows (pages 985, 986, and 987):

Q. Now, I want to ask you about those guaranties to the Indians. These contracts that are recorded here were made on printed blanks, I understand, were signed by the Indian and yourself, and witnessed by two witnesses?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were they made in the presence of the farmer in all cases or were they approved by the farmer?—A. Not in all cases. Most of the contracts were made before there was a farmer appointed or sent there.

Q. What was done with those contracts when you wanted to have them filed to be forwarded to Washington for approval?—A. Along late in the season I took them to the farmer and he approved them, or signed them, at least, and from there I took them to Ashland to Agent Gregory.

Q. Did you take them, or did the farmer send them?—A. I took them.

Q. When did you take these thirty-one contracts to him?—A. I took them twice. The first time I had but one copy, the original it was, rather, and there at Agent Gregory's office I got other blanks on which I was to make a copy and have the same witnesses sign, and have them filled out the same, and also get the bonds which have to accompany the contracts and come back to the reservation. Two of the witnesses were away off in the woods and it was ten days before I could reach them.

Q. Did you get them to sign duplicates?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You did not get the Indians to sign duplicates?—A. Not in all cases; some of them were gone, too.

Q. When you could find the Indians did you get them to sign duplicates?—A. There were three or four, probably, who did so.

Q. But the intention was to get the witnesses to sign in all cases?—A. Yes, sir; and have the original before them. There was their own signature there and then they would sign the duplicate or witness the duplicate.

Q. If the Indian was not present how was his name put upon the contract?—A. That was inserted.

Q. By the farmer?—A. No, sir. I could not say who signed the Indian's name, but I think the clerk did in most cases.

Q. But it got there, did it?—A. Yes, sir; it is on them.

Q. What did you do with those two sets of contracts that you had?—A. I took them back to Agent Gregory's office with the bonds. I had to go below to get the bondsmen to sign the bond, and there was delay there again.

Q. You took them back to Ashland personally?—A. No, sir; I think I sent them by express. I will not be positive about it.

Q. What time did you make this final delivery to Agent Gregory of the contracts?—A. I would not be positive. The only thing I have to refer to is my expense-account book. That is about the only way in which I could tell positively about it.

Q. About what time do you think it was?—A. It was in February of this year.

Q. During all this time what did the thirty-one Indians have to show on their part?—A. My guaranty.

Q. Did they have any copy of this contract?—A. No, sir; at least I never gave them one.

Q. Of these duplicates that were sent to Agent Gregory, was one copy retained by him and the other sent to Washington, or were both sent to Washington?—A. I suppose that one copy was retained by him and the other sent to Washington; that is my understanding of the way it was done.

Q. But the Indians had no copy of the contract?—A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. What do you say the thirty-one Indians had?

The WITNESS. What paper?

The CHAIRMAN. Yes.

A. My guaranty.

Q. Did each one of the thirty-one Indians have a guaranty?—A. I think so. I wrote them all off for them and told the man who runs the store to deliver them to them as fast as they came around.

Q. When did you execute these stumpage guaranties?—A. At the time of making the contract.

Q. That was done, then, as far back as last summer?—A. In the summer, fall, or first part of the winter.

Q. How soon after you received the first signed contract by the Indians did you write out your stumpage guaranties?—A. Sometimes while sitting there before parting with them.

Q. And at other times, when?—A. Sometimes I would not have paper with me to write the guaranty upon, and I would tell them that I would leave it at the store, and they could call and get it there.

Q. Did you keep any copy of your guaranty?—A. Usually I did.

Q. Did you keep a copy or a memorandum of it?—A. I always had a memorandum, and I think the book-keeper always made a copy.

Q. Were there any blanks prepared on which to make these stumpage guaranties?—A. No, sir; they were all written by me.

Q. Have you with you, here in Washington, any of those stumpage guaranties?—A. No, sir; I would usually take a sheet of paper and write the guaranty upon it.

Q. State what you would write on that paper.—A. I would state that I guarantied $2 or $2.50 per 1,000 feet for all merchantable timber that I was to cut from the claim, describing the claim, during the coming logging season, and the same was to be paid prior to the removing of the logs from the landing where landed during the logging season. They ran something like that; they were not all written in the same way; I would write off whatever happened to be in mind.

By Senator FAULKNER:

Q. But that was the substance of it?—A. Yes, sir; that was the substance.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. Do you remember any other conditions that you put into those stumpage guaranties, as a general thing?—A. No, sir; I would not have anything in my mind but the guaranty.

Q. You specified the amount per thousand?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And that it was to be paid before the logs were removed from the landing where landed?—A. Yes, sir; I supposed that was the rule and they did, too, and they wanted it inserted.

Q. Then your stumpage guaranties, as a general thing, specified the name of the Indian?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And a description of the land?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Also the amount per thousand, and the condition that the amount was to be paid before the logs were taken from the bank?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember anything else in connection with the conditions of the guaranty?—A. In some cases I think that the closing statement was "the above is subject to the approval of the Indian agent" or "Indian Agent Gregory;" sometimes I would write his name in it, possibly.

Q. Was it customary to put that in?—A. I think it is, on the majority of them.

Q. What became of those contracts as a general thing?—A. The Indians kept them. The Indian usually had a pocket-book or a little sack or something he would put it into, and then he would go away, and if he had a wigwam he would lay it under a roll of clothes, bundles, or sacks under his head; at least that is where he would go to get it; I noticed when he went to find it he had it stored away in there. Others who carried a pocket-book all the time would have it in their pocket-book.

Q. Did these stumpage guaranties (speaking of your own) go to the Indian farmer or to the Indian agent, to your knowledge?—A. I think in some cases they showed them to the agent.

Q. Were they recorded, indorsed, or approved in any form by the Indian farmer or agent?—A. I do not think they were; at least they were not expected to be by me. It was simply a trade or agreement between the Indian and myself.

Q. It was the real bargain, was it not?—A. Yes, sir; it was.

Q. So this writing that you made and passed over to the Indian you kept a copy or memorandum of, and the formal written contract on the blanks furnished by the Indian Office was not the real contract?—A. No, sir; this was the real bargain for stumpage.

But from other testimony it appears that the so-called stumpage guaranties were in fact signed by the Indians and kept by the contractor.

Henry H. Beaser, Gregory's chief clerk and the acting agent in Gregory's absence, testified as follows (pages 1072, 1073, and 1074):

Q. You may state whether or not there was a rule at the agency which, in addition to the contract made upon these blanks, required the contractor to guaranty a fixed sum as stumpage to the Indian.—A. Yes, sir; the agent had given orders to that effect.

Q. Had those orders ever been given in writing?—A. I can not say that they had.

Q. Do you know of any records of the agency or correspondence of the agency in which the agent required this guaranty of stumpage?—A. I do not remember any now.

Q. How, then, did you learn that that was a rule?—A. Because, in making the contracts for the Bad River Reservation, I had a personal acquaintance with those, and met the contractors who made the contracts, and I know in every instance that it was understood that the contractors had to guaranty the Indian a certain amount per thousand.

Q. Now, in reference to the other three agencies, did you understand that was the practice?—A. I did understand so.

Q. Do you understand that that had ever been reduced to writing at any time, anywhere, or by anybody?—A. No, sir; I do not.

Q. You may state, with reference to these guaranties by the contractors, whether they were in writing or not.—A. I think in most cases they were.

Q. I want to know to what extent the stumpage guaranties on the Bad River Reservation were put in writing; what kind of a writing it was, and who kept it in each case.—A. I will say that in most of the cases the contractor had these guaranties. In those instances where there was no dispute I never saw the guaranties, but those that I did see were generally in this form; they were written by the Indian in something after this manner: I hereby agree to sell all my timber standing on such and such a reservation for so much per 1,000 feet; and those were in a great many instances witnessed by the Indian farmer.

Q. You undertake to say, then, that what you call the stumpage guaranties were agreements signed by the Indian?—A. In a great many cases; yes, sir.

Q. Were they in all cases?—A. I can not say as to that.

Q. Were there any stumpage guaranties signed by the contractor?—A. I do not think so.

Q. These agreements signed by the Indians of which you speak were not the contracts made upon the printed forms in duplicate which were sent to Washington?—A. Oh, no.

Q. They were entirely separate?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you mean to say that these stumpage guaranties were written by the Indian and signed by him and kept by the contractor?—A. In a great many cases they were.

Q. Then in those cases the Indian first signed the agreement to cut and bank the timber, and the contractor agreed to pay so much a thousand for it banked, which contract was executed in duplicate and they were sent to Washington for approval?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. In addition to that, in these cases the Indian signed another agreement, that he would sell his timber for a net stumpage price, which agreement the contractor took and held?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you have seen such papers on the Bad River Reservator have you?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you any of them in your possession?—A. I have not.

Q. Were any of them ever filed at the agency?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where are they now?—A. At the agency.

Q. There are some filed with the agency?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Are you able to say that on the Bad River Reservation, in addition to the two kinds of writings that you describe, the contractor also, in writing, agreed to pay the Indian so much stumpage and signed that agreement?—A. I never saw those agreements.

Q. Did the contractor sign the stumpage agreement which you say the Indian gave him and which the contractor kept?—A. No, sir; I do not think he did.

Q. Then the contracts as made upon the Bad River Reservation bound the Indian in the formal contract to a bankage price, and in the other contract to a stumpage price?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. But did not bind the contractor so far as any signature of his was concerned to pay that stumpage to the Indian, net?—A. No, sir; it did not.

Q. Are you not aware that on the other reservations the contractors gave written agreements to the Indians that they would pay them so much stumpage for their logs?—A. Only so much as I have heard brought out in the evidence here.

Q. That is the first you knew of it?—A. Yes, sir; and that I never inquired into.

Q. You have been there since the spring of 1885, all the time since Agent Gregory has been there?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You were familiar with all the contracts which came there to the office from all the reservations for approval?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you have seen in the printed testimony the lists of contracts with the amounts specified of the number of 1,000 feet and the price per 1,000 feet?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You may state whether those amounts mentioned, the number of thousand feet, were estimates simply of an amount of timber that might be cut or designed to be the amount that would be cut.—A. They were estimates.

Q. With reference to the prices that are given in those lists, were those amounts nominal, as you understood it?—A. Yes, sir; nominal.

Q. In all cases?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. So that these contracts, so far as the quantity of timber and price per thousand feet were concerned, were merely nominal and did not represent the true contract?—A. That is what I understand.

Q. The true contract then in all cases, so far as you know and believe, was the price of the contract executed by the Indian and the contractor?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you know of no regulation which required those to be filed at the agency?

The WITNESS. The stumpage guaranties, do you mean?

The CHAIRMAN. Yes.

A. No, sir.

If any possible defense can be made for the elaborate framework of contract thus built up in form by the Indian Office, which in no sense and in no cases represented the real contracts, but which was a deceptive and fraudulent presentation of a system of timber cutting, under which, however, 382,913,206 feet of timber of Indians have been cut, worth $2,160,516.82, which sum they have either been swindled out of or have themselves squandered it, the committee would be glad to see some statement of such defense.

ILLEGALITY OF SALES OF STUMPAGE.

It is clear, upon a moment's consideration, that all these stumpage contracts are illegal and void.

By the third article of the Chippewa Indian treaty of September 30, 1854, the President may allot to each head of a family or single person over twenty-one years of age, 80 acres of land. and issue patents therefor, "with such restrictions of the power of alienation as he may see fit to impose."

All patents issued for such allotments have contained the following clause:

That the lands shall not be sold, leased, or in any manner alienated by the patentee, his or her heirs, to any person or persons whomsoever without the consent of the President of the United States.

While, therefore, an Indian having received his patent might undoubtedly cut his own timber, thus converting it into personal estate, and haul it off and sell it, it is plain that he could not make a valid contract to sell the growing pine timber for a stumpage price. The distinction is evident, and well established, and founded on good reason so far as these cases are concerned, where some of the eighty-acre tracts have contained timber realizing $16,393.84; while the land, after the timber was removed, was not worth $2 per acre.

The committee, therefore, are clear that when Agent Gregory, without hindrance from the Indian Office, deliberately converted all the contracts from what they were in form, namely, contracts by the Indians to cut their own timber and haul and sell it, into sales of standing timber for stumpage prices, he established a system absolutely illegal and contrary to the treaty and the patents issued under it.

TIMBER CUTTING BEFORE ALLOTMENTS APPROVED.

Necessarily a system, the whole elaborate form of which was a fraud and deceit, would abound in details of dishonesty. In many cases the cutting of timber took place before the allotments were approved by the President.

TIMBER CONTRACTS BEFORE ALLOTMENTS MADE.

Frequently timber contracts were made before any allotments of land were made to the Indians signing the contracts. This necessarily resulted in rascality. The Indians, made almost crazy by the vicious system adopted, were anxious to get allotments, so that they might contract to sell the timber and procure advances upon it. Uncertain about obtaining their allotments, they signed timber contracts with any contractor who they thought had sufficient favor with Gregory to secure the allotments.

ALLOTMENTS MADE TO INDIANS HAVING NO RIGHTS.

Indians, mainly half-breeds, not resident upon the reservations, rushed upon them to claim allotments and sell the timber, usually in collusion with some contractor who assured them he could obtain for them the allotments. The old rule required the consent of a council of each tribe to all allotments. This rule was abolished by Commissioner Atkins by his letter of December 9, 1887, to Special Agent Wall, which contains the following (page 21):

It has been the practice heretofore, in making allotments under the treaty, to submit the applications to a council of the Indians, and to allow the council to determine whether the applications should be allowed. This practice will be discontinued.

There are a large number of mixed bloods residing in the vicinity of the reservation who will doubtless apply for allotments for the sake of the timber.

In passing upon these claims you should require the statement of the applicant, under oath, supported by the evidence of at least two witnesses, that he is a member of the particular band of Chippewa Indians upon whose reservation he desires an allotment, or that his father or mother was a recognized member of such band,

Under the management of Gregory it was easy to procure affidavits of an applicant and of two witnesses, which were received against the protest of the councils. Allotments were wrongfully made, timber contracts recognized, and timber cutting begun before either allotments or contracts were approved at Washington.

SWINDLING OF INDIANS BY SELLING THEM DESCRIPTIONS OF LANDS.

No person could go upon the reservations without the consent of Gregory; with his permission they could be overrun with swindlers of the Indians. One such oppression was the sale to Indians anxious to secure allotments, make timber contracts, and get a little money, of paper descriptions to be made the basis of applications for allotments. These being allowed by Gregory and timber contracts made, the lands were stripped of their timber and the seller of the description paid by an order of the Indians upon the contractors.

This particular refinement of the swindling art is best observed by reading the following testimony of John J. Lennon (page 701):

TESTIMONY OF JOHN J. LENNON.

Testimony of JOHN J. LENNON, taken before United States Indian Inspector T. D. Marcum, at Cloquet, Minn., April 27, 1888, in the matter of investigating the affairs of La Pointe Agency, Minn.

Q. When did you sell the first of these descriptions?—A. I think in August last.

Q. Did you have permission from Agent Gregory, the honorable Commissioner of Indian Affairs, or the honorable Secretary of the Interior to go upon said reservation to locate land and sell the descriptions thereof to the Indians?—A. No, sir; I had no authority to do so.

Q. Did Agent Gregory know that you were doing so?—A. I was informed that Indians had stated in council, in Gregory's presence, that the Indians had bought their claims from me.

Q. Did you ever have any conversation with Agent Gregory relative to the matter?—A. When Special Agent Wall was here last January I learned that the applications of the four Prices, who I had sold claims, would be rejected, and I spoke to Agent Gregory about it, and told him I sold these selections to the Prices, and if they were rejected if I could sell them to somebody else, and he replied that he had nothing to do with the buying or selling of claims; that if they were rejected I could sell them to somebody else if I found any one that wanted them.

Q. At whose instance did you locate the claims you sold to the Indians on the Fond du Lac Reservation?—A. At the request of the Indians.

Q. I will ask you if you did not leave descriptions with E. L. Rose, Hynes's book-keeper, for him to sell to Indians who wanted allotments?—A. I left one 40-acre description with him, but he did not sell it.

JOHN J. LENNON.

This form of outrage is also plainly stated in the testimony of James Ruttle (page 652):

TESTIMONY OF JAMES RUTTLE.

Testimony of JAMES RUTTLE, taken before United States Indian inspector T. D. Marcum, at Cloquet, Minn., April 26, 1888, in the matter of investigating the affairs of La Pointe Agency.

The witness, being duly sworn, deposesh as follows:

Q. State your name, age, and residence.—A. My name is James Ruttle; age, fifty-five years; residence, Cloquet, Minn.; occupation, blacksmith.

Q. Are you in anywise connected with the band of Chippewa Indians that reside on the Fond du Lac Reservation?—A. My wife is a Chippewa, by whom I have five children.

Q. Has any land been allotted on said reservation to your wife and children?—A. My wife got a patent some time ago for 80 acres, and last January my wife got a certificate from Special Agent Wall for an additional 80. Also Special Agent Wall, in January last, issued to my son David a certificate for 160 acres; to my son Jacob, certificate for 80; to my son Walter, a certificate for 80; to my daughter Mary, who is married, 160 acres; and my daughter Ellen has a selection of 40 acres, but did not get a certificate for it.

Q. Who located this land for your wife and children?—A. I located some of it and bought the description for 360 acres of it from some white men.

Q. What are the names of these white men, and how much did you pay them for the description you bought?—A. Paid John Lennor $250 for two eighties and one forty selection, and paid Dorris & Hunter $200 for two 80-acre selections, making $450 paid for the 360 acres.

Q. Has the $450 been paid to these parties?—A. Yes, sir; part of it in cash, and the balance I told Pat Hynes, to whom the timber was contracted, to pay it.

Q. Did Hynes contract for the timber on the land for which Special Agent Wall gave certificates last January?—A. Yes, sir; all except the 40-acre tract to Ellen, my youngest child, and the timber has all been cut, except on one 80 to my wife, and a part of Walter's.

Q. Did Special Agent Wall show you or your wife and children the lands described in the certificates he issued to them?—A. No, sir.

Q. What did Hynes agree to pay for the timber?—A. Pat Hynes had it done. He agreed verbally to have it banked for $3 per thousand feet.

Q. Why did you buy the descriptions for the land as above stated?—A. I was told that Hynes would contract for the timber on land located by them. I was told so by Hynes himself.

JAMES RUTTLE.

To note how these descriptions were utilized, consider the testimony of Mrs. Jennie E. Price (page 702):

TESTIMONY OF MRS. JENNIE E. KLINK (NÉE PRICE).

Testimony of JENNIE E. KLINK, taken before United States Indian Inspector T. D. Marcum, at Cloquet, Minn., April 20, 1888, in the matter of investigating the affairs of La Pointe Agency, Wis.

The witness, being duly sworn, deposeth as follows:

Q. State your name and residence.—A. My name is Jennie E. Klink; residence, Cloquet, Minn.

Q. Are you a member of the band of Chippewa Indians who reside on the Fond du Lac Reservation?—A. My mother belonged to that band and drew annuities with them; I am an eighth Chippewa; I was born in Sibley County, Minn., and have resided here since January last.

Q. Have you had any lands allotted to you on the Fond du Lac Reservation, Minn.?—A. No, sir; I have applied for an allotment, but have received no certificate for it.

Q. When did you make application for an allotment on the reservation?—A. I gave the description of the land selected to Patrick Hynes, to be filed with the farmer, I think in August last. The description was in my maiden name, Jennie E. Price.

Q. Why was the claim selected not allotted to you by Special Agent Wall last January?—A. The Indians objected, and the matter was held up for proof to establish my right to the allotment, is what I understood; I did not receive a certificate from the special agent for allotment.

Q. Prior to the time that Special Agent Wall was here in January last, had you contracted the timber on the land selected for you to any one?—A. Yes, sir; to Patrick Hynes.

Q. When did you contract the timber to Patrick Hynes?—A. The same day that I gave him the description to be filed with the farmer.

Q. What did Hynes agree to pay you for the timber?—A. Five dollars per thousand feet for it banked.

Q. Have you had any of the timber cut and banked or authorized it to be done by any one?—A. No, sir.

Q. Has any of the timber been cut?—A. I have received no report of it from the scalers, but I was told to-day by Mr. Rose, Hynes's book-keeper, that some of it had been cut.

Q. Did Hynes pay you anything on the timber contracted for?—A. Yes, sir; the day after I made the contract he paid me $25, which is all that I have received.

JENNIE E. KLINK.

Mark another typical case, the swindling of an Indian girl by John Lennon and Patrick Hynes, abetted by Agent Gregory and Agent Wall (pages 669 and 670):

TESTIMONY OF LIZZIE NA-GA-NUP.

Testimony of LIZZIE NA-GA-NUP, taken before United States Indian Inspector T. D. Marcum, at Cloquet, Minn., April 25, 1888, in the matter of investigating the affairs of La Pointe Agency, Wis.

The witness, being duly sworn, deposeth as follows (John Jibaway, interpreter):

Witness states that she is a Chippewa Indian and a member of the band residing on the Fond du Lac Reservation, Minn., and that in September last one John Lennon, a white man, came to her and told her that he had a number and description for 80 acres of land on said reservation, which he would sell for $50, and that it was worth $700; that she being entitled to an allotment she agreed to pay him $50 for the number and description, and filed the same with Agency Farmer Cook. That in January last she received a certificate of allotment for said land from Special Agent Wall.

That on the day she bought the number and description from Lennon she contracted the timber on the land to Pat Hynes and signed an order, as she was told, for Hynes to pay Lennon $50, but finds that she is charged by Hynes with a payment of $100, paid to Lennon. That during the past logging season 225,310 feet of timber was cut on her land as shown by scale reports. That she does not know what Hynes agreed to pay for her timber, nor that she does not know where the land is situated; that Special Agent Wall did not show her the land, nor tell her where it was situated.

That she is a full-blood Indian and a daughter of the head chief, Na-ga-nup.

LIZZIE NA-GA-NUP (her x mark).

That Special Agent Wall understood that he was hurried to the Fond du Lac Reservation in January, 1888, to lay a foundation for the lumbering operations that winter of Patrick Hynes is apparent from his testimony (page 618):

TESTIMONY OF THOMAS WALL.

Testimony of THOMAS WALL, taken before United States Indian inspector, T. D. Marcum, at Ashland, Wis., May 5, 1888, in the matter of investigating the affairs of La Pointe Agency, Wis.

The witness, being duly sworn, deposes as follows:

Q. State your name, age, residence, and occupation.—A. My name is Thomas Wall; age, forty-eight; residence, Oshkosh, Wis.; occupation, lumberman.

Q. Do you hold any position under the Federal Government?—A. Yes, sir; I am a special agent for allotting Indian lands.

Q. Have you made allotments of land to any of the Indians of the La Pointe Agency? If so, state when, the number of certificates issued and reservation where made.—A. Yes, sir; in January last I issued one hundred and seventy-three certificates of allotments to the band of Chippewa Indians located on the Fond du Lac Reservation, Minn.

Q. Were any of these certificates issued to members of said band who were under eighteen years of age?—A. No, sir; not to my knowledge. I thought it best to allot first to heads of families and those over eighteen years of age, and make allotments to minors at another time.

Q. Were any applications made to you for allotments to children under eighteen years of age and members of the Fond du Lac band of Chippewa Indians?—A. I presume some of the heads of families to whom allotments were made asked to have allotments made to their children, and were told that allotments would be made to all the children on the reservation at the same time.

Q. Did you show the Indians the land described in the allotment certificates issued, or cause it to be shown them?—A. I did not. But I had a surveyor there who was instructed to do so, and he reported to me that he only succeeded in getting six or eight Indians to go with him to see the land allotted to them. The fact is that it was almost impossible to do so on account of the snow, which was 3 or 4 feet deep at the time.

Q. Were the lines run and marked defining the boundaries of any of the lands allotted to said Indians?—A. Only those heretofore mentioned who went out with the survey; I think six or eight in number.

Q. Did you advise the honorable Commissioner of Indian Affairs of the impossibility to go over the reservation on account of the snow before you proceeded to issue certificates for allotments, as before stated?—A. I did not.

TOM WALL.

But the report of the committee would be interminable if it were to exhibit all the details of wrongs done under this head of the inquiry.

THE INEQUALITIES OF THE SYSTEM OF ALLOTMENTS.

The absolute inequalities of the allotments to the various Indians is shown by taking the net results in cases which have been selected for that purpose.

Special Agent Durfee realized the danger of these inequalities in case extensive cutting should take place and endeavored to find some compensation in the fact that if the Indians themselves did all the work of lumbering the whole proceeds would be distributed among the tribe.

He testified as follows (page 1010):

Q. Now you may go on and state the views which led you to propose this system as to the welfare of the Indians.—A. My idea was that it was not to the advantage of the Indian to have all his pine cut off, to sell his stumpage, and get a large amount of money without labor, because he would not know the value of money coming to him in that way and it would soon be squandered; that all he would have left would be the land covered with stumps and would be in a poorer condition than when he began. In giving these allotments it is of course impossible to make, as I might say, an equitable division of the lands among the Indians. One "eighty" will have on it 2,000,000 feet of pine and another "eighty" have perhaps only 50,000 feet of pine; and if the Indian with the 2,000,000 feet of pine could sell off his stumpage at $2 or $3 a thousand and the other at the same rate, one would derive very much more benefit from it than the other.

Q. How did you propose to prevent that by either your system or your management of that system?—A. My idea was that, although the cutting of this pine by the Indians would not be, perhaps, as profitable for the man who owned the stumpage, yet for the general benefit of the Indians the money which came out of the pine, not only the stumpage but the money for the labor, would be distributed among the Indians of the reservation. Instead of getting $2 for stumpage they would get $6 for stumpage and labor; that they were not only getting a greater pecuniary value in the aggregate, but that they were also being educated in the art of supporting themselves.

Q. To what extent did the idea that the Indians would make homes on their particular allotments enter into your plan, if at all?—A. That was the intention, that they should make their homes upon their allotments. I did not expect to be very successful in that; that is to say, I did not expect every one of them, or a large portion of them, would at first make homes upon their allotments; that I left for the future. I expected that under this ruling as to the Indians getting off the pine themselves, that the work would last for a great many years; that one or two new generations of Indians would grow up during that time, and, although it might be difficult to learn the old ones to work, that the younger ones growing up in the community might improve and become self-supporting men, and having acquired the habits of labor and some of them having improved their allotments and made farms, etc., it would be a good example for the others; that there was a possibility and even a probability that many might improve and farm their allotments in time to come.

Agent Durfee, pursuing his plan, and excluding all white labor during his last winter, 1884-'85, brought the cutting down that winter to 26,149,693 feet of timber, as against 44,957,298 feet the previous winter.

But Agent Gregory threw open the reservations, allowed unlimited white crews, put no restraints upon either Indians or contractors, with the result of the irregularities above set forth, which are sufficient to show that there should be no system of allotments of pine timber lands in severalty to the Indians, but the timber should be sold by the United States for the benefit of the tribe.

SQUANDERING OF THEIR MONEYS BY INDIANS.

That under the system of timber cutting which has been described the Indians squandered the small share of the proceeds of the timber which came to them needs no proof. As a general rule, not being compelled to work, they would prefer not to do so. When they desired to work they found difficulty in obtaining employment, because the contractors did not consider their labor as profitable as that of white hands; so the Indians took their money, spent it recklessly, gambled it away, or otherwise foolishly disposed of it.

An attempt was made by Agent Gregory to show that he endeavored to induce the Indians to save their money, and that he tried to protect some of them by a system of bank deposits; but his efforts extended to a very small proportion of the proceeds of the timber. In the judgment of the committee very little of the moneys hitherto received by the Indians can now be found in their possession or judiciously invested.

Agent Gregory testified as follows (page 191):

Q. As a rule what do they do with their money when they sell this timber?—A. Some of them take care of it.

Q. Many of them?—A. Well, no; not a great many of them; but some of them will take care of it. Some of them have got logging outfits and money ahead, good teams, and everything; but others, as soon as they get it, will go visiting, fill up with whisky, have a dance, and, when they come back, they don't have much of it left.

Q. What is the character of this land; is it valuable for purposes of cultivation after the timber is cut off of it?—A. Some of it is.

Q. How large a portion of it?—A. I do not know just about what the proportion would be. Of course, you take it where there is hard wood and pine mixed and it would make good farming land; but there is other land which is sandy, and where there is only Norway pine, and that will not grow anything at all.

Q. From your observation have the Indians been profited by the large amount of timber cut of late years on the reservation?—A. I think it has been a disadvantage to the most of them, as their timber has been cut and they have squandered the money, and have got nothing to show for it and nothing left to live upon.

Q. Have or not a great number of these Indians saved their money or judiciously invested it in land or stock?—A. Some few have done so.

Q. Have or not a great many of them used their money, or some of it, in building houses on the lands allotted to them and making other improvements thereon?—A. Only a few of them have done so.

Q. Have the Indians worked as well during the last year or two as they did the first years that logging was done on the reservation?—A. I don't think they have. Being permitted to sell their timber stumpage, they left it for others to log.

Q. Did or not the Indians work as well during the logging seasons of 1886-'87 and 1887-'88 as they did the first years logging was done on the reservation?—A. No, sir; and there are fewer of them that will work now than in former years; some of these Indians who worked well the first years logging was done have sold their pine and have not worked any for three years, and won't work; in fact, but few of them will work only when forced from necessity to do so.

Q. What percentage of the Indians on this reservation who have sold their pine have taken care of and saved their money, when left free to use it as they desire?—A. Not over 10 per cent. of them. A great many of them spend all they sell their timber for before the timber is removed from the landings, and many others who only have small balances due when the timber is banked. Some few save their money.

Q. Did the Indians on this reservation work as well in 1884-'85 and 1885-'86 as they did in 1882-'83 and 1883-'84?—A. No, sir; only a very few who sold their timber in 1882-'83 and 1883-'84 would work in 1884-'85 and 1885-'86. The Indians who done the work here in 1884-'85 and 1885-'86 came from other reservations, with few exceptions.

Farmer H. T. Young, of the Fond du Lac Reservation, writing to Agent Gregory concerning the complaint of the Fond du Lac band, says (page 1234):

As to that part of the complaint as to preventing the Indians from working on the reservation in assisting in cutting their timber, I only know that just before Christmas Mr. Hynes told me that if any of the Indians wanted to work in the woods that I might tell them they could go up whenever they wanted to. Immediately on the same day (knowing the condition of their families and their need of work) I went on the reservation and told all that I saw that was not at work that they could go up in the woods to work at once, and out of the number that I told not one Indian wanted to or would go at that time. Some of them made the excuse that they were going to work for some one, and others turned away as though insulted; and as to their ability to cut and bank their own timber, I do actually think that if they were so permitted to cut and not advised or assisted in any manner by the whites, that they would not put in thirty millions in thirty years. They might have been more able and willing at one time, before they have had so much money for the pine, but they have become perfectly useless and dissipated in their habits, and will not work when they have a chance, unless driven to it by sheer hunger. This is the truth as to the band, with the exceptions of few, not to exceed one dozen, to my knowledge. I have tried so many times since my stay here to have them work, but I would much rather do the work myself than try to have them work; it would be easier for me.

EXORBITANT PRICES CHARGED INDIANS FOR MERCHANDISE.

The Indians were charged extravagant prices for goods. The evidence to this effect is to be found attached to the report of Indian Inspector T. D. Marcum, who was sent to the reservations under instructions given by Secretary Vilas, March 13, 1888, simultaneously with the orders to stop the further cutting of timber. Mr. Marcum is a resident of Kentucky, well known to Senator Beck, of that State, who indorses him in every respect. He seems to have performed his duties with ability and fidelity, and his report and the testimony taken by him has been printed by this committee, extending from pages 610 to 862. It fully sustains all facts found by the committee. Concerning the exorbitant prices charged the Indians for goods, Mr. Marcum reports as follows (page 612):

I am satisfied, from the testimony and a personal examination of the cost of their wares and the prices for which they are sold, that the complaints made by the Indians of the exorbitant prices they have been charged by these traders for supplies are well founded. There is but little difference in the prices charged for goods by these traders, except for provisions and family groceries; for these supplies the prices of Sherman are more exorbitant than those of Casgriff or Henry.

The testimony shows that Casgriff's goods are marked at a selling price to net a profit of about 70 per cent., which I think, from an examination of cost and sale prices, is below the profit actually made. Turrish, the manager for Henry, fixes their net profit at about 40 per cent., while Isidore Cook, who has charge of Sherman's store, gives their average net profit at from 25 to 33 per cent., but his testimony following this statement shows that the profit is nearer 75 than 33 per cent., and the profits made by Henry is nearer 70 than 40 per cent., and I am satisfied that these traders make a net profit on the merchandise they sell to the Indians nearly three times the amount authorized by Indian Office Circular, No. 157, of date October 5, 1885.

INADEQUATE PRICES PAID INDIANS FOR THEIR TIMBER.

Inadequate prices were paid the Indians for their timber. This question has not been so fully investigated as it might have been if the committee had been willing to expend more money in bringing additional witnesses to Washington, or had been able to visit the reservations, as they were authorized to do by the Senate in a resolution of March 5, 1888.

But enough appears to show that the Indians have been cheated in the prices of timber, whether we consider the nominal banking prices inserted in the contracts or the actual stumpage prices which were paid either in money or goods, or both.

By reference to the statement of logging operations since 1885, heretofore given, it will be seen that the Indians received as an average a little more than $1 per 1,000 in merchandise and a little less than $1 per 1,000 in cash; making, according to any fair mode of estimating, less than $2, probably not over $1.50 net per 1,000 as a stumpage price realized. It is the opinion of the committee that the timber on the reservations judiciously sold might have been made to realize $3 per 1,000 net to the Indians, and that this price can be obtained for the quantity of over 400,000,000 which is now remaining. The difference to the Indians between $1.50 per 1,000 as a stumpage price, and $3 per 1,000 for the value of the trees standing with $3 more per 1,000 circulating among them for their labor and expenses in cutting and hauling the timber, is clearly apparent. This point of the inquiry deserves further investigation. The timber on the Flambeau Reservation is worth more than $3 per 1,000 stumpage, as the testimony shows, as follows:

Duncan L. McKay, of Chippewa Falls, Wis., a competent lumberman, testified as to prices on the Flambeau Reservation (pages 867, 868, and 869):

Q. State the values on the Flambeau in another way. Will you tell the committee what in your judgment is a fair stumpage price for timber on that reservation?—A. I should say about $4 is a fair stumpage price; that is what stumpage is generally held for.

Q. What kind of timber would you expect to get on a stumpage contract for $4.

The WITNESS. Do you mean what sized timber?

The CHAIRMAN. Describe the quality of it in your own language, as you understand the business and I do not. Would you expect to get the best of timber for $4, or timber of medium quality?

The WITNESS. I should say that good four or five log timber, good and straight, would be worth at least $4 a thousand with a half a mile to 2 miles haul.

Q. Cutting down included. What kind of timber would it be that would sell on the stump at $1.50 a thousand?—A. It would be pretty poor timber that would sell for $1.50. It would be very poor timber, if it was first cuttings, to sell for $1.50; it would be very small and largely Norway.

* * * * *

Q. You may give some idea of the variations or the increase in the price of lumber on the Chippewa for the last dozen years; whether it has gone steadily up or whether it has gone steadily down; I mean logs on the Chippewa.—A. It has increased.

Q. Has it been a steady increase or has the price varied?—A. It has varied some, but it has been generally increasing all the time.

Q. What is the difference in the price of logs in the stream during the last dozen years; what has been the rise in price?—A. There has been at least a difference of $4 a thousand.

Q. In twelve years?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Logs then worth $6 would now be worth $10?—A. Yes, sir.

William McKinnon, of Chippewa County, Wis., an experienced lumberman, testified (pages 884 and 885):

Q. I would like you to state what the value was of the pine timber which you saw on the Flambeau Reservation for stumpage.—A. Such as I saw, that I supposed was Sherman's timber as near as I could find out, would be worth to my value $4 a thousand.

Q. You had only agreed to pay as high as what price?—A. I agreed to pay from $2.25 to $3.25, that being more than others were paying at that time that I heard of. I thought I was going high enough then to get the timber.

Q. What was the average of that pine timber worth on the stump that you saw on the Flambeau Reservation?—A. What I saw that was cut in 1886-'87 would be worth about $4, I should judge.

Q. And what as to the value of the timber which you examined which was likely to be cut this winter of 1887-'88?—A. It would be worth about the same. That is the price I set on it at a clean cutting, not a partial cutting.

Q. You mean taking all there was on the various allotments?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What do you estimate that timber would be worth on the bank?—A. From about $8 to $9 I calculated I could get for it.

Q. Did you form an estimate while you were on the reservation about cutting and banking the logs?—A. I had some contracts I looked over.

Q. Did you at the time you were making these offers to those Indians form a judgment as to what it would cost you to cut and bank the logs?—A. Yes, sir; in all the offers I made the Indians I calculated low enough so as to put them in and make me sure.

Q. What did you calculate it would cost you?—A. There was some timber I put in for $2.50 and some cost $3. I put all I looked over with a view of buying at $3.

* * * * *

Q. You speak of the prices you name for stumpage as those to be applied where the timber was cut clean. What would be the value of the timber if it were not cut clean; if the privilege were given to leave some of the logs and take the best ones?—A. It would be worth more. I have seen timber there, and if it had been mine, the way it was cut, I would not allow a man to cut it for $5 a thousand and take what he took.

Q. Did you see tracts of that character?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who cut them?—A. I understood Sherman did.

Q. Describe the way these lots had been cut over.—A. There was one tract in particular that I estimated on; 80 acres that had 1,000,000 feet standing on it, and there were about 200,000 or 300,000 feet cut out on it.

Q. Where was the million that was left standing; on one side of the lot or all over it?—A. All over it.

Q. Do you mean to state to the committee that you saw a lot where Sherman had cut only 200,000 or 300,000 feet and left a million feet standing?—A. Yes, sir; he had cut 200,000 or 300,000 feet and left a million feet standing at my estimate.

Q. You could form an opinion as to the character of the timber from the stumps?—A. Yes, sir; I could.

Q. What do you think the stumpage of the whole lot, as it originally stood on this 'eighty,' was worth?—A. I should say $3 a thousand.

Q. What do you think the timber was worth that Sherman took off?—A. I would not have had it taken off for $5 a thousand.

Q. Do you think it was worth $5 a thousand to the man who took it off?—A. Very near any way to that.

Q. You say the stumpage was worth $5?—A. Yes, sir.

Inspector Marcum, in his report of April 17, 1888, says (page 896):

The contractors have done all the logging on the Lac du Flambeau Reservation, paying the Indians stumpage. The evidence of three out of the four contractors places the value of the logs banked on the reservation at $8 per 1,000 feet, the other at $7.50 per 1,000 feet; while most of the contracts are only for $5 per 1,000 feet. The testimony of two of the three contractors, whose testimony was taken, fix $3 per 1,000 feet stumpage as a fair price for the entire cut on the Flambeau Reservation this year. Other parties not contractors, but acquainted with the reservation and timber, fix $3 per 1,000 feet as a fair price stumpage for the entire cut on the reservation, while the other trader or contractor fixes the bank price at $7.50, and stumpage at $2.50 per 1,000 feet. The greater portion of the Indians are only getting $2 per 1,000 feet stumpage; some less, and a few more. As all the logging has been done by the contractors without any hindrance or interference upon the part of the Indians, I most respectfully recommend that the contractors be required to pay the Indians $3 per 1,000 feet stumpage for all the timber cut this year on the Lac du Flambeau Reservation.

Criticisms have been made during the investigation of some of the persons who have been witnesses and have otherwise aided the committee in bringing to light the important facts of which Commissioner Atkins claimed to be ignorant and the information to which he turned a deaf ear.

The committee, which already had many facts in its possession, heard that ex-Gov. Thaddeus C. Pound, of Chippewa Falls, Wis., was in Washington, representing some claimants of allotments, and called upon him for information, which he readily gave, and he has rendered valuable assistance to the committee in developing the true condition of affairs upon the reservations, and is entitled to commendation.

Mr. James Curran of Rhinelander, Wis., loaned the Indian delegations money to come to Washington, where they disclosed to the committee the great wrongs that were being done them, to which Commissioner Atkins would pay no heed. It has been suggested that Mr. Curran had a personal object in view, to secure a division of one of the reservations. If he had such a desire, his assistance to the Indians was none the less timely, useful, and important.

Mr. Phineas H. Calligan, of Chippewa Falls, had been a contractor for timber, and had been driven from the reservations by Gregory, with whom he had controversy before the Commissioner, and he came to Washington with Governor Pound in pursuit of what he claimed to be his rights. Mr. Calligan was summoned by the committee and gave important testimony. He seemed to be a reputable citizen, and as much entitled to do logging under the vicious and illegal system which prevailed as any other contractor, but for some reason, political or other, Agent Gregory became hostile to him.

James I. Coffey, one of the witnesses, an Indian of mixed blood, a well educated and highly intelligent man, has rendered great service to the Fond du Lac Indians as interpreter and otherwise, and has been a principal obstacle to the schemes of Gregory and his favorites. Therefore he has been the subject of unsparring denunciation and persecution by Gregory, who has had him arrested on false charges and has otherwise oppressively pursued him. It is the opinion of the committee that Coffey has been a useful, judicious, persistent, courageous friend of the tribe with which he has been connected, and this opinion is not qualified by reason of the severe denunciations which have been hurled at him nor because he was once tried, with others, for a homicide with which he does not appear to have had the slightest connection.

One general remark is applicable to all four of the witnesses above alluded to. Upon the testimony of no one of them does the case made by the committee against officials who are condemned by this report depend. All facts to which attention was called by these witnesses and relied upon in this report were abundantly proved by other and later evidence; and assaults upon them can be made only in order to divert attention from the public facts which are indisputable—the mismanagement of public trusts by Commissioner Atkins, Agent Gregory, and Secretary Vilas.

The committee now recur to the transactions concerning timber contracts after Commissioner Atkins disappeared from view, and Mr. Vilas, having become Secretary of the Interior, took sole charge of the business and decided to retain in office his protégé Gregory, notwithstanding he had, as the Secretary states in his letter of April 7, 1888, to the chairman of this committee, disregarded the written instructions of the Indian Office and merited reprehension for his failure to obey them.

It appears to have been determined by the Secretary that some means should be devised for stripping the reservations of all the timber possible before the 4th of March, 1889.

Commissioner Oberly, however, was cautious, and insisted upon specific instructions, and the Secretary was compelled to give such, or see the timber saved.

Under 731 contracts 190,206,080 feet of timber, of the admitted value of $1,083,776.91, had been cut during the winter of 1887-'88. Not one of these contracts had been approved by Commissioner Atkins, although every one had printed upon its face the provision that it should not be valid or binding until approved by the Commissioner. But Gregory, waiting for nothing, had allowed the contractors with their 2,000 white men to go in and seize the timber; the operations of the winter having been attended by the very worst wrongs such as have been described in this report.

The Secretary promptly proceeded with the work.

He first directed that lists should be obtained by Acting Commissioner Upshaw from the contractors of the contracts of 1887-'88, which had not been completed. This letter, dated July 31, 1888, begins by saying (page 1120):

From the consideration which I have given the matter of sale of pine timber from the lands of Indians, I am satisfied that the regulations under which this important business has been conducted are not such as to secure to the Indians the full value of the timber cut and sold from their lands.

Of course the contractors eagerly responded, and they claimed that out of the 731 contracts over 500 had not been completed, and October 20, 1888, Commissioner Oberly made a report to the Secretary, from which the following extracts are taken (page 1135):

The information called for and furnished by Agent Gregory is not such as to enable me to state in each case "what remains to be done to complete performance of contract," but I presume that all contracts, except those in the list furnished in his report, have been fully completed. He states, in fact, that the Indians have been paid in full for all the pine cut, and in some instance (to the amount of $25,000) contractors have made advances in anticipation of the completion of their contracts this winter.

From the schedule presented, you will observe that in some instances the amount of pine cut is greatly in excess of the amount specified in the contract, and yet the agent reports some of these contracts not completed.

This may be allowable, perhaps, from the language of the contract, where the quantity is stated to be so many thousand feet, more or less, the minimum quantity named in any contract on file being 50,000 feet, the maximum 500,000 feet. The quantity cut in some instances exceeds 1,000,000 feet, and in one instance over 2,000,000 feet, the payment for which is not reported by the agent.

It will be observed from this schedule that a large proportion of the contracts made has never reached this office for approval, and those that have been forwarded reached here but a short time before the expiration of the contract, and it is presumed after the pine had been cut. I am not aware, however, that any pecuniary loss to the Indians has been sustained by reason of this delay in forwarding contracts, but it has evidently precluded this office or the Department from exercising any control over the matter, or giving any direction whatever in the premises.

It further appears that contracts have not been limited to patented lands, nor even to allotments that had received the approval of the President, but indiscriminately to such tracts as the inclination of the Indian or the contractor might select. There are isolated cases where the contract was for pine on lands other than those allotted or patented to such Indian. There are other instances where the agent does not give the description of the tracts from which the timber had been cut, and this office has no means of knowing the amount cut, other than the statements of the agent in rendering an account of the payments made therefor. In fact the schedule has been made up largely from said statement of sales, inasmuch as the office had no prior knowledge or intimation of the existence of such contracts or agreements.

Immediate consideration should be given to all cases of contracts existing, and approval of those which should be approved should be made at the earliest possible date, and instructions given to the agent in regard to the execution of the contracts, or the execution of so much as remains to be done for their full performance. The lateness of the season requires this to be done with the greatest expedition in order to prevent injury to the Indians.

The asserted desire of the Secretary that the Indians should not be injured by any delay in robbing them of their pine timber is a part of the hypocrisy which has characterized the whole spoliation of the Indians under the management of the Secretary's representative, Agent Gregory.

By December 3 the Secretary found himself ready to push things, and addressed a letter to Commissioner Oberly directly approving the making of stumpage contracts and removing the restrictions against white lumbermen on the reservations. This is artfully and effectively done, as follows (page 1155) :

If any new contracts are made for cutting this winter during the coming season, I think they should be made so as to provide a clean sum to the Indian for the value of his timber standing, and not subject him to the risks of loss in any of the logging or banking operations. The stumpage value of the timber is a thing easily to be ascertained and much more safely to be estimated than the value of its subject to the risks of deduction by the cost of logging and banking. All such contracts should contain provision that the contractor shall employ Indian labor on equal terms in preference to other, whenever suitable.

December 5, 1888, Commissioner Oberly, by a letter to Gregory, authorized the renewal of the uncompleted contracts of the previous year, with modifications directed by Secretary Vilas, and he stated, concerning the renewals (page 1158):

they will receive prompt consideration and approval, of which you will be notified by telegraph, so that the parties can commence work at once.

It is with difficulty that the committee can use moderate language in characterizing the action of Secretary Vilas in thus authorizing and endeavoring to legalize the finishing this winter of the spoliation of the Indians which had been so nearly completed the previous winter.

One-fifth—200,000,000 feet—of all timber on the reservations had been in one winter season cut and carried away, without the approval and without the knowledge of Commissioner Atkins, under illegal and secret stumpage contracts, by hordes of white lumbermen, not one of whom had the least right to set foot upon the reservations. Secretary Vilas, admitting the violation of the regulations by his agent, Gregory, sends for lists of the contracts which had not been fully carried out, announces his approval of the two vitally important violations of law and regulations, and, in effect, says, go on with stumpage contracts, let in white lumbermen, and finish the spoliation.

It is hardly possible to conceive of greater maladministration on the part of high public officials.

Gregory and the contractors, thus sustained by Secretary Vilas, did not wait for any more formal proceedings. As soon as snow came, in January, 1889, the reckless cutting of timber again began. There was no waiting for Commissioner Oberly's approval of contracts, any more than there had been the previous winter for the approval of Atkins. But the cautious Commissioner soon began to show some regard for his own reputation, and to doubt the honesty of the Secretary's protégé, Agent Gregory.

January 26, 1889, he says to the Secretary, after a long telegraphic chase after Gregory (page 1251):

From the foregoing report of a telegraphic cross-examination of Agent Gregory made by me, it is made evident that unauthorized timber-cutting has been for a long time in progress on the Chippewa reservations, both on allotted and unallotted lands.

and—

I would also suggest that the resignation of Agent Gregory should be accepted, and that a special agent should be put in charge of the agency.

But the Secretary held to his agent to the last, and refused to relieve Gregory. How could he supersede him when he had in his letter of April 7, 1888, said:

Mr. Gregory has been for years personally known to me, and his character as an honest, upright, and trustworthy man, of good business capacity and practical acquaintance with the business of timber-cutting, warrant at least such confidence in his judgment as to require a careful consideration before it is set aside.

Gregory knew the Secretary better than Commissioner Oberly did; and when, at the conclusion of a long telegraphic correspondence, the Commissioner developed the fact that without waiting for any approval of contracts Gregory and his contractors had defiantly gone ahead with the spoliations, the Secretary instructed the Commissioner to ratify what he had done, which he did by a telegram of January 29, 1889 (page 1244).

In accordance with instructions of the Department, I hereby authorize you to permit the resumption of cutting and hauling under contracts made for the completion of contracts of the season of 1887-'88 that were interrupted by the order of this Office dated March 13, 1888, and also the resumption of cutting and hauling under all new contracts made for the present season.

And so, in spite of all efforts to prevent it, 200,000,000 feet more timber of the Indians is being wrongfully taken from them during the present winter against law, against regulations, against honor, and against decency by a dishonest Indian agent, justified by the Secretary of the Interior. If any one doubts the justice of these strictures let him patiently read the following extracts from copies submitted by Mr. Oberly:

Page 1248:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, January 26, 1889.

SIR: I have the honor to call your attention to certain facts relating to timber-cutting operations on the Chippewa reservations, La Pointe Indian Agency.

On October 20, 1888, I had the honor of addressing to you a communication on the subject of logging on the reservations of the La Pointe Agency, in which I transmitted to you certain information that had been called for by you on July 31, previous. In that communication I said:

"I would recommend that the agent be specifically instructed to allow no cutting whatever until officially notified that the contract therefor has been approved."

On October 22, in reply to my communication, you gave me, among other instructions, the following:

[Secretary to Commissioner.]

"(1) The agent should be immediately instructed to send to your office all contracts in his office, or within his control, which have heretofore been made between the Indians and any contractor, and he should be instructed to permit no cutting of timber to be done on tracts of land embraced in such contracts until you shall have considered and approved them."

Under this direction I sent to Agent Gregory, on October 22, the following telegram:

[Commissioner to Gregory.]

"Forward to-day all contracts between Indians and contractors for cutting timber that are on file in your office or under your control, and which have not been approved by this office. You may permit cutting under all contracts that have been heretofore submitted and approved in due form, and which have not been fully performed; but you must permit no timber to be cut under any contract that has not been thus submitted and approved."

Prompt attention was not paid to this telegram, and on October 25 I again telegraphed as follows:

[Commissioner to Gregory.]

"Have you received my telegram of 22d relative to timber contracts? If so, telegraph what action you have taken."

To this, on October 23, the agent replied by mail, forwarding forty-four contracts for the sale and delivery of certain pine timber, and on October 26 telegraphed as follows:

[Gregory to Commissioner.]

"Have forwarded contracts in my possession, and notified contractors to complete their incomplected contracts."

On October 29, referring to this telegram, I instructed the agent in reference to the renewal of incomplected and the making of new contracts, and again instructed him as follows:

[Commissioner to Gregory.]

"It must be distinctly understood that no operations can be commenced until you are notified that the contract has been approved by this office, and that no contracts should be made for the sale of timber upon tracts when the allotments have not been approved by the President."

On December 8, 1888, I transmitted to him a form of original contract for the sale of pine timber, with instructions to permit no operations to be commenced on any tract until he had received notice of the approval of a contract covering the same.

DECEMBER 8, 1888.

You are again instructed to permit no operations to be commenced on any tract until you receive notice of the approval of a contract covering the same.

[Commissioner to Gregory.]

On December 11, 1888, I received a communication from Messrs. Hutchins and Brennan, of West Superior, Wis., transmitting a copy of a complaint against Patrick Hynes and others in connection with logging operations on the Fond du Lac Reservation, purporting to be signed by seven members of the Fond du Lac band, and of an affidavit, purporting to be signed by some sixty-nine members of said band, and giving the proceedings of a council held by said Indians November 20, 1888.

In these papers it was alleged that Hynes had obtained his contracts by fraud, had violated their terms, and was then making preparation to enter upon their lands and cut and carry away their timber without their consent.

[Commissioner to Gregory.]

On December 17, 1888, I acknowledged the receipt of a list of uncompleted contracts between Patrick Hynes and Andrew Gowan and certain Fond du Lac Indians, from Agent Gregory, and informed him that only nine of Hynes's contracts and five of Gowan's covered lands the allotment of which had been approved by the President.

I also informed him of the papers received from Messrs. Hutchins and Brennan (copies of which were subsequently transmitted to Agent Gregory December 21, 1888), and directed him, in case any of the old contracts were presented for approval, to take the greatest pains possible to ascertain whether the Indian parties to the renewal had been imposed upon in any manner, and if any suspicion attached to withhold his approval; also to bear in mind his previous instructions and prevent at all hazards any entry upon lands the allotment of which had not been approved by the President.

His attention was also called to section 5388 of the Revised Statutes, as amended by the act of June 4, 1888 (25 Stats., 166), and to the fact that lands, the allotment of which had not been approved by the President, were still in a state of reservation and within the protection of the statute.

On December 22, 1888, the Acting Commissioner telegraphed Agent Gregory, as follows:

[Commissioner to Gregory.]

"Reported here that Hynes is cutting timber on Fond du Lac Reservation. Cutting must be stopped immediately. Report facts."

On January 3 the following telegram was sent to him:

[Commissioner to Gregory.]

"Report called for in telegram of 22d ultimo not received. What is the cause of delay? It is again reported that Hynes is cutting timber. This must be stopped. Report what you are doing in the matter."

On the 5th instant Agent Gregory telegraphed as follows:

[Gregory to Commissioner.]

"Have ordered Hynes to remove from reservation. Will send report as soon as I hear facts from farmer."

It appears that if Agent Gregory did order Hynes to remove from the reservation, the truth of which statement I doubt, Hynes paid no attention thereto; and there is reason to believe that the agent made no attempt to obtain the facts from the farmer, and if he did, and obtained them, he did not report them, as he had promised to do. Therefore, and for the reason that other reports of continued timber cutting had reached this office, he was again telegraphed to on the 16th instant, as follows:

[Commissioner to Gregory.]

"Reported here under date of 12th instant that from five hundred to six hundred men were then cutting timber on Fond du Lac Reservation; that Hynes has two hundred and fifty and Gowan as many; that 40,000,000 feet had been cut and is now on the skids, and that Farmer Young is doing nothing to stop the cutting. You will report by telegraph immediately whether these statements are true in whole or in part. If true, you will put a stop to cutting and prevent the removal of any and all timber that has been cut. You must act promptly in this matter and report fully your action.

"Steps will be taken to secure the prosecution of all trespassers."

No reply was made to this by Agent Gregory until the 18th instant, when I received the following:

[Gregory to Commissioner.]

"Have notified Hynes and Gowan, if cutting, to stop at once. Will visit reservation Monday and investigate the matter."

Observing the phraseology, "if cutting," I immediately telegraphed as follows:

[Commissioner to Gregory.]

"Is it a fact that Hynes and Gowan, or others have been cutting timber on Fond du Lac Reservation? A specific answer is required by wire immediately."

To this the agent, on the same day (18th instant), replied as follows:

[Gregory to Commissioner.]

"Do not know whether Hynes, Gowan, or any one else has been cutting on lands on which they were not authorized. Will make a personal investigation at once and report."

Observing the phraseology, "cutting on lands on which they were not authorized," I telegraphed again on 19th instant, as follows:

[Commissioner to Gregory.]

"Has Hynes, Gowan, or any one else been cutting, with or without authority from you or any one else? You have avoided specific answer to telegram of 18th instant."

To this Agent Gregory replied on same date as follows:

[Gregory to Commissioner.]

"Government farmer at Fond du Lac wires me there has been some cutting on lands not patented or approved."

This telegram was followed by another of the same date, as follows:

[Gregory to Commissioner.]

"The Government farmer at Fond du Lac wired me this morning that Hynes and Gowan have been cutting on unpatented lands. They have had no authority from me to do so."

It will be observed that the agent is careful to say that he has not authorized the cutting of timber on unpatented lands, but he does not say that he has not authorized cutting on patented lands, and on approved allotments, although he was instructed to allow no cutting, except on allotted lands, the allotment of which has been approved by the President, and not upon such lands, except under contracts approved by this office; and no such contracts have been forwarded to him.

Following up this indication that Agent Gregory had utterly disregarded the orders of this office, made upon your express direction, I sent to him on the 20th instant the following:

[Commissioner to Gregory.]

"Your telegram of 19th as to cutting by Hynes and Gowan on Fond du Lac received. Has any timber been cut on any of the other reservations within your agency since you received instructions to permit no cutting until contracts had been approved by this office? If so, immediately inform me on what reservations the cutting has been done, and of the names of the parties who have been cutting. If cutting is now in progress it must immediately and peremptorily be stopped. You are particularly directed not to permit Hynes or Gowan or any person who has been cutting on any reservation of your agency, or any other person, to remove any of the timber that has been cut."

To this he replied, on the 21st instant, as follows :

[Gregory to Commissioner.]

"Cutting has been done on Bad River Reserve by Maxim Haskins, Denomie, Brown, and Lyons & Sullivan; at Lac Court Oreilles Reserve by Valley Lumber Company, England, Thomas & Clark, and Carroll & Hoffman; on Lac de Flambeau Reserve by Henry and Sherman. Have notified all parties not to remove any of the timber."

To this, on the same day, I made the following reply :

[Commissioner to Gregory.]

"Information reaches this office that timber heretofore cut is being hauled off. This is in direct violation of instructions to you. The fact disclosed by your telegrams, that cutting has been going on in violation of express orders to you, and the fact of your evasive replies to telegrams from this office, leads me to believe that you have, to say the least, been very derelict in the performance of your duties. I repeat, that all cutting and removal of timber must be immediately stopped. I desire a full and complete report concerning this whole matter."

And to this, on the same day, the agent replied as follows :

[Gregory to Commissioner.]

"Your telegram received. Will send a detailed report to-morrow by mail."

This was received by me on the 22d instant, and was replied to as follows :

[Commissioner to Gregory.]

"Your telegram of 21st received. I desire to be informed by wire whether or not timber heretofore cut is being removed."

To this the reply was as follows :

[Gregory to Commissioner.]

"Have given orders that no timber is to be removed. Do not know whether orders are obeyed or not, as reservations are too far apart for me to visit them in less than ten days, but presume they are. Have notified farmers to inform me if any person persists in removing timber."

But this was not satisfactory, and I therefore telegraphed as follows :

[Commissioner to Gregory.]

"Your telegram of 22d received. On what date did you give orders to farmers not to permit cutting of timber, and when did you give orders to farmers not to permit removal of timber? Has any timber been removed since you received orders not to permit cutting until contracts had been approved?"

And this I supplemented as follows :

[Commissioner to Gregory.]

"Information reaches this office this morning that cutting and hauling of timber continues, and that loggers threaten violence to all interfering with them.

"Are loggers still cutting and removing timber, and do they threaten violence as alleged?"

Evading, as you will observe, a candid reply to the question, "On what date did you give orders to farmers to not permit cutting of timber?" the agent replied as follows :

[Gregory to Commissioner.]

"Notified all farmers on 21st to have all cutting and hauling stopped at once. Farmer Young reports that all work has stopped. Have received no reports from the other reservations. Have heard of no loggers threatening violence, and do not believe that they have made any such threat. Timber has been removed up to date of my order."

From the foregoing report of a telegraphic cross-examination of Agent Gregory made by me, it is made evident that unauthorized timber-cutting has been for a long time in progress on the Chippewa reservations, both on allotted and unallotted lands.

No contracts for cutting on any of the reservations of the La Pointe Agency have been approved by this office (with the exception of seven, the approval of which has not been made known either to the parties or Agent Gregory), so that any cutting of timber on these reservations is without authority and in violation of the instructions of this office and the Department, which both the agent and the contractors seem to have entirely ignored.

From the statements of the Fond du Lac Indians and the attorneys claiming to represent them, it is apparent that timber has been cut from allotted lands without the consent and against the wishes of the allottees.

* * * * *

I would also suggest that the resignation of Agent Gregory should be accepted, and that a special agent should be put in charge of the agency.

* * * * *

With the above statement of facts and expressions of opinion the matter is submitted, with request for such instructions as you may deem proper in the premises.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. H. OBERLY,
Commissioner.

The honorable the SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

[In the matter of cutting timber on lands allotted to the Fond du Lac band of Chippewa Indians.]

COMPLAINT.

The members of the Fond du Lac band of Chippewa Indians, to whom allotments have been made under an act of Congress passed and approved February 8, 1887, and who, during the summer and fall of 1887, entered into contracts with Patrick Hynes to cut and deliver unto him certain amounts of logs in said contracts specified during the logging season of 1887 and 1888, respectfully represent to the honorable Commissioner of Indian Affairs:

I.

That the said contracts were fraudulently obtained by the said Patrick Hynes; that the said Hynes falsely and fraudulently represented unto us that he had the sole power and authority from the Government to contract for our timber and that we could sell the same to no other person or persons; that said representations were false and were by him made with the intent to cheat and defraud us, knowing that they were false; that we relied upon said representations and were thereby induced not to seek purchasers for our timber elsewhere and to enter into said contracts.

That the price to be paid for said timber as stated in said contracts does not exceed $5 per M foot, board measure, for logs delivered on the bank of the river. That at the time of the making of said contracts timber of the class called for therein, delivered as required thereby, was reasonably worth and the market price thereof was $6 to $6.50 per M foot and is now reasonably worth $6.50 to $7 per M foot.

II.

That instead of having us cut and deliver said timber to said Hynes, as in said contracts it was provided we should do, he, the said Hynes, let the cutting and banking thereof unto white men, who, with crews composed exclusively of white men, under the instructions of the said Hynes, went in upon our said lands and cut and banked about 30,000,000 feet of logs. That all labor performed in and about said timber was performed by white men.

That we during the logging season of 1887 and 1888 could have cut and banked the amount of logs aforesaid without the aid of white men, excepting their assistance in some cases in furnishing us with teams and logging outfits.

That many of us were ready, willing, and able to cut and bank the amount of logs we had agreed to deliver, but were prevented from so doing by the said Patrick Hynes, who ordered us off our said lands.

That many of us applied to the said Hynes for work, to assist in cutting and banking said logs, and he refused to give us employment, stating that he did not want to be bothered with Indians.

That the said Hynes in cutting said timber selected the best of it wherever found, and did not leave standing on each claim in a compact body one-fourth thereof, as required by the rules of the Department of the Interior, but on the contrary cut and slashed out said timber, selecting the best and rejecting all that was not first-class.

That the said Patrick Hynes cut and carried away timber on lands allotted to many of us with whom he had no contracts. That there are many of us with whom the said Hynes has not settled for what logs he cut and carried away.

That to those with whom he did settle he did not give a correct scale of the logs cut and banked, rejected all logs which were not prime, and has refused to give or furnish to many of us any scale at all. That the false scale so furnished was knowingly used by the said Patrick Hynes as a basis of settlement, and the Indians were thereby cheated and defrauded out of many thousand feet of logs; the exact amount we are unable to state.

That in making said settlements the said Hynes deducted the cost of cutting and banking said timber from the contract price thereof; that he charged high and exorbitant prices for doing said work, and the amount allowed the Indians in any case did not exceed $1.50 per M feet, board measure, and in a majority of the cases it was less than this amount.

That the said Hynes in making said settlements where he had advanced provisions to an Indian in excess of the amount of pine on his claim would transfer said account and charge it to an Indian who had a claim on which there was pine sufficient to pay said account.

That in said settlements the said Hynes charged the Indians $10 for surveying each claim; that the contracts with the said Hynes expired by limitation May 1, 1888.

III.

That the said Hynes is now making preparations to enter upon our said lands and cut and carry away the timber thereon without our consent and against our objections.

That some of his jobbers are now on said lands with crews composed exclusively of white men preparatory to cutting said timber. That neither the said Hynes nor any of his jobbers will employ Indian labor. That the said Hynes claims to have permission from the Department to enter upon said lands and clear up the lands cut over last season. That he does not intend to clear said land but is merely using this pretense to get on to our lands, and cut our timber and carry it away. That we are informed and verily believe that the said Hynes intends to strip our lands of its best timber and cheat and defraud us out of the price therefor.

That many of us are ready, willing, and able to cut and bank our own logs, and we proposed to the said Hynes so to do, but this by intimidation and threats he refused to allow us to do, claiming that he had orders to go in and cut "the whole damn business," and that he proposed to do so regardless of the Indians.

IV.

That the said Hynes, aided and abetted by Farmer Young, at the Fond du Lac Reservation, and J. T. Gregory, Indian agent at Ashland, Wis., as we are informed and verily believe, intend to strip our said lands of the valuable timber thereon and cheat and defraud us out of the same.

That we are informed and believe that the reports heretofore sent by the said Young and those sent by the said Gregory to the honorable Commissioner of Indian Affairs in regard to the cutting of timber on our reservation were false and untrue. That we have been knowingly and willfully misrepresented by said agent and farmer. That we are informed by said farmer that the said Hynes is the only person who can cut timber on our said lands and with whom we can make contracts in reference thereto.

That the said farmer has prevented us from cutting ties upon our said lands. That we intended to clear our land by cutting said ties, and intended selling said ties to obtain means to support ourselves. That the special agents heretofore sent out by the Department on complaints made failed to perform their duty and willfully neglected to investigate matters, and, as we are informed and believe, falsely reported the facts which came beneath their notice.

V.

Wherefore we pray that an order be made restraining the said Hynes, his agents and employes, from cutting any timber upon our said lands, and that we be permitted to sell our timber on contracts subject to the approval of the Department in an open market to the highest bidder.

We object to the said Young and Gregory, or either of them, passing upon any contract made by us, because of their affiliation with those who have heretofore cheated and defrauded us. We can not trust them, and instead of honestly performing their duties as public officers they will do all they can to deprive us of our rights.

In the event you deem an investigation necessary we ask that pending such investigation an order be issued restraining the said Hynes, his agents and employes, from cutting timber on said lands. We ask that said investigation be had on our reservation or at some convenient point thereto; that we be allowed to appear in person and by attorney and produce witnesses in our behalf.

We ask that said investigation be had upon our reservation for the reason that all of us are poor and few of us have means sufficient to more than live. That it would be impossible, owing to our financial condition, to attend and present our case before any tribunal at any great distance from our said reservation; and thus, as in duty bound, shall we ever pray.

In the matter of cutting timber on the Fond du Lac Indian Reservation, in the State of Minnesota.

The Fond du Lac band of Chippewa Indians, by their attorneys, B. F. Hutchins and John Brennan, respectfully represents:

I.

That for the last six weeks and upwards Patrick Hynes and Andrew Gowan have been cutting timber on the Fond du Lac Indian Reservation; that the said Hynes has now in his employ or under his supervision about two hundred and fifty men, and the said Gowan about one hundred men; that they are cutting timber on lands allotted to Indians, which allotments have not yet been approved by the President; that the said Hynes and Gowan have so far this season cut and placed upon skids about 40,000,000 feet of logs.

That they are making preparations to bank said logs and will do so and remove them if not restrained. That said cutting has been done with the knowledge of the Government farmer, H. T. Young, on said reservation, and that he has taken no steps to prevent the same, but on the contrary has connived at the said unlawful acts of the said Hynes and Gowan and aided and abetted them. That he, the said Young, has used his position as farmer to compel the Indians to contract their timber with the said Hynes. That when the said Young received orders from J. T. Gregory, Indian agent at La Pointe Agency, to have the cutting stopped on said reservation, instead of obeying the same he set to work to procure the signatures of Indians to a written instrument the contents of which complainants are unable to ascertain.

That we have by our attorneys investigated the manner in which the signatures to said instrument were obtained, and, after interrogating eight of said persons, were unable to ascertain the nature or character of said instrument, for the reason that none of said persons so interrogated knew the contents thereof. That after the 1st day of December, 1888, the said Hynes entered into a contract with Louis Winnebashe, to whom an allotment was made for a minor child, James Winnebashe, on October 3, 1888, or the NW. $\frac{1}{4}$ of the NE. $\frac{1}{4}$ section 33, township 50, south of range 17 west, to cut timber on land allotted to said minor child. That as we are informed and verily believe the said Young knew of said contract and assisted in bringing the same about.

Wherefore we pray that said cutting be stopped, that the said Young be removed, and that some suitable person of known honor, honesty, and integrity be appointed in his stead; that we be allowed to sell said logs and receive the proceeds thereof without being in any way subject to the control of either the said Young or the said Gregory. We ask that we be allowed to enter into a contract for the sale of said logs and forward the same direct to the honorable Commissioner of Indian Affairs for his approval. And thus in duty bound shall we ever pray.

Chiefs and head-men, in council, to the President.

(Received in Indian Office December 8, 1888.)

GROVER CLEVELAND,

Executive Mansion, Washington, D. C.:

Whereas we, the Indians of the Lac Court Oreille band of Chippewa tribe, once more meet in council to repeat our oft and unheeded prayers and petitions for protection from oppression so burdensome to our people. The following resolutions were passed to be transmitted for your consideration. We are compelled to do this, because all efforts to be heard have proved futile through other sources.

Resolved, first and foremost: We want a new agent. Gregory resigned during the last winter, and why have we not had a new and honest agent? We have not seen Gregory on the reservation for many months. Still, it is as well that it is so. We have no need of him; we will transact no business with him. Our experience with him has schooled us to be wary of his plots and intrigues.

Second. We peremptorily request that no patents be issued in favor of outsiders, the same who were permitted to cut timber without patents by Agent Gregory the past winter; that orders be issued by the proper Department in Washington to suspend all operations done by and for them, because they acquired their claims through fraud and against the free will and assent of the council, and not by virtue of legal right of nativity and permanent residence on the reservation. The benefit of the timber so cut to inure to the benefit of the person, a member of the reservation, applying for allotment of said land.

Third. Our people are desirous that the "Dawes bill" be put in operation, and that the special agent provided by said bill be immediately dispatched, with instructions in accordance to the law which provides the same. Throughout every reservation in this agency he has been looked for, as promised, with great anxiety.

Fourth. Orders from Gregory having been issued that the incompleated contracts of last spring by Department orders be opened and completed this fall, surprised our people, because it is reasonable to suppose that if it were wrong to continue cutting through mismanagement of Indian affairs, why is it not wrong still? Has anything been done to alleviate our troubles; have our complaints, prayers, and petitions been heeded; has our oppression been made lighter by reason of them? Not in the least. The same routine is being pursued by orders from Gregory. The camps are filled with white laborers exclusively, the Indian being entirely unknown, because, as it is said, he estimates the worth of his labor to high. Is it not a common law among all nations, of whatever creed or color, to set a price on his own ware for traffic? Should not the laborendo as much on his own time? If the Indian is expected to reduce his wages to a fair rate to meet the exigency of the times, should not the trader also be expected to reduce his prices on his ware? The trader makes statement that no money is made in logging because of high price of wags, but where do they get the money to buy fast horses and nice equipages, and keep up their fast living, which they have enjoyed since entering in logging speculation? They say they are losing money every year; why is it they do not quit the job and give place to others? They come here of their own free will, and may go when they will. None of them are too good to retain very long; better ship them off before they are thoroughly proficient in the art of Indian traders of old. We would be glad to get rid of some of them.

Fifth. Now that the election is over the white labor can very well be dispensed with and replaced with Indians, which action would be met with a lasting and grateful commendation from our people. Within a few weeks the Indians wrote to Gregory, being anxious to know whether the people who cut timber without patents were to be permitted to cut this fall. Gregory answered that no one will be permitted to cut timber without patents. We felt relieved. At the same time, in the same breath, he was permitting them to cut. This we urgently request to be put a stop to, as it is so much more taken from the mouths of our children to feed adventurers. You certainly know what you would do were you placed in the same predicament we are.

Sixth. We peremptorily request that no new contracts be made without a positive understanding between the Department, traders, and contractors that no white labor be employed unless absolutely necessary, necessity arising from insufficiency of Indian help. The agent should not be empowered to introduce white labor on any other grounds (because as the old saying goes, give him an inch he will take a foot) and that not without consulting the Indians in open council. The price for Indian labor should be determined by a council of Indians, the Government farmer and the traders being present, for the purpose of a compromise in the matter. It is utterly impossible for an Indian living on the reserve to support himself and family by working at the price the Swede and Norwegians do because their wants are few and they are not obliged to buy goods at the store; most of them save all their earnings and take it from the country, whereas the Indian is obliged to pay a high price for his goods and supplies; either he has to take it or leave it alone and go without, for he can not draw money from the trader when he will. The Indian draws a time check from his employer for so many days' work; he needs money and must have it for a special purpose; perhaps his family is living 40 miles away and is in want; he takes this time check to the trader; he gets his money at a discount of 10 or 15 per cent., which is outrageous.

We have nearly exhausted our breaths crying to the Department for justice in behalf of our people; our prayers and petitions have been disregarded; they have been unheeded; our people are being goaded even to the very verge of desperation. We have been crying for protection; we have complained of being robbed of our lands and given to outsiders; we are robbed of means to make a living by introducing white labor on the reservation; we have complained that our fields were being run over and devastated by the white man's cattle and hogs, our crops destroyed by the same, but nothing is done; all is disregarded and unheeded; being unable to cope with them through the process of law; we are therefore left to mourn the loss at our leisure.

We will now proceed to give a detailed explanation of the whole matter. At the spring council of 1886 (it being the annual council) Agent Gregory entered into a compromise with the council after an ineffectual effort had been made by the Indians to erase every one from the list of applicants who was not a permanent resident of the reservation, that in order to be entitled to the selections of land they had made they should be held under obligation to build habitable buildings on said selections; every person not complying with the obligation during the year up to the annual council of 1887 should be erased from the list. The document binding the Indians to that effect was duly signed, while Gregory promised he would do his part in the matter.

During the lapse of the time above mentioned the Indians were informed that Gregory did not mean to do as he agreed, but would send the list as it was to be approved by the President and patents be issued in their favor. The Indians made another effort to enforce the obligation, but Gregory was obdurate and ugly; would not yield. Wherefore during the past winter Gregory permitted these same individuals without patent to cut the timber on their selections. During the summer of 1886 the Indians, exasperated almost to desperate deeds by Gregory's treachery, sent a petition to Commissioner Atkins complaining of the base treatment by Gregory (yet Atkins swore before the investigating committee that complaints had never been made to him). This same petition was sent to Gregory from Washington with instructions to find out whether the signatures affixed to the petition were genuine. Gregory sent the same to Farmer Rusler to do the job, with instructions to hold it until called for, where it remained until last spring and brought to light by Inspector Marcum when investigating on this reservation.

We would therefore refer you to that petition, which is embodied in Inspector Mar-cum's report. The base treachery perpetrated by Gregory has brought to light a small cloud not bigger than a man's hand, which may eventually assume proportions, and would, had it not been for the delegation visiting Washington the past winter, on whom we expected a change would be effected. Until within a few weeks, yea, until the time that Gregory issued orders to commence logging, we had hopes of a change, but now our hopes are dead within us, and hence this petition.

The foregoing recital is the beam in our eyes. Remove this, and we are made whole, the remedy being a compliance with our imperative requests, which are just and honest, notwithstanding representations made by parties who have axes to grind—parties who unconsciously led you to turn the stone for their grinding by approving the claims of individuals mentioned as outsiders.

The term outsiders is applied to mixed bloods or half-breeds, who flocked on the reservation, leaving their farms and homes and other property in the hands of other parties, issuing from different counties in the State of Wisconsin, whose parents have for many long years abandoned their tribal relations, who themselves have never resided on any reservation, but born and bred among white people, claiming citizenship, by virtue of which have acquired land and other property, who, merely to plunder the poor Indian, have appeared on the premises eager to claim relationship; who by bribery and other pernicious devices soon fell into the good graces of a certain class of the Indians, who for the sake of being let alone, and like as not a bottle of whisky, had them enrolled clandestinely.

Repeatedly the chiefs remonstrated with the agent that no more outsiders should be enrolled, while as often the agent would assure them that at the annual council they had the privilege of rejecting any and erase from the list whom they objected to. But this was to deceive and disarm suspicion of his real intentions. The more he had on the list, the more it furthered his own ends, and the more it benefited the trader, but death to the rising generation of Indians.

The entering of selections of land by said outsiders since the existence and approval by the President of the Dawes bill is another beam in our eye to be extracted by an order issued that said list be laid aside forever and the land be allotted to members of the reservation.

Respectfully submitted.

Charges of chiefs against Agent Gregory.

(Received in Indian Office December 8, 1888.)

That whereas at some future day we are to be visited by a "special agent" from Washington, long promised, for the purpose of allotting lands in severalty to the Indians of this reservation.

Therefore, we, the said Indians in council assembled, corporally, claim and hereby assert that a wrong and injustice has been done us by Agent Gregory by usurping our prerogative to discriminate to whom allotment of land should be made upon our reservation, thereby despoiling the pine product of our land by indiscriminately allotting the same to adventurers seeking for plunder, and hence feeding the greediness of timber sharks. A wrong and injustice has also emanated from the Department in Washington, in that no formal announcement officially of the "Dawes bill" has yet been made to the Indians residing on this reservation.

The existence of said bill was known by outside parties through newspapers a long while before it reached any one on the reservation, and while we have been waiting for an official announcement the said outside parties were busy scouring the country on the reservation for the most profitable pine lands, which they have entered either for themselves, wives, or children, thus leaving nothing but their cullings to the residents of the reservation. A few of the last mentioned have entered gleanings. There are many yet to be provided for who are anxiously awaiting the coming of the special agent, in the hopes that the "Dawes bill" will be the course pursued to the letter thereof.

* * * * *

This document was drawn up in anticipation of the coming of the special agent at a council of Indians of this reservation in the early part of the summer, June 12, 1888. We really believe had the special agent come, as was promised, all this difficulty and uneasiness would have been avoided. You will by the inclosed document derive information as to the feeling and sentiments of our people in general.

EXCUSES OFFERED FOR THE WRONGS AND OPPRESSIONS OF THE INDIANS.

Only two excuses for the long series of violations of laws, infractions of regulations, and spoliations of the Indians, committed by Agent Gregory without hindrance from his superior officers and with their final approval, have been suggested to the committee. One is that the interests of the Indians have been promoted by the system of timber cutting adopted by Gregory; and the other is that like things were done prior to March 4, 1885, under the management of Agent Durfee and Commissioner Price.

There is no just foundation for either excuse.

The committee have in this report endeavored to fix the attention of the Senate upon the great and permanent injury to the dependent Indians resulting from the spoliation of their timber during the last three years, the result of which is that the timber is half gone from the reservations, cut not by the Indians themselves, but by rapacious white lumbermen, under stumpage contracts, which have brought inadequate prices to the Indians, who have squandered what money they have received, and who, deluded by temporary prosperity, have acquired not habits of industry but of idleness, and have been, as a general rule, in every way injured and in no way benefited by the wholesale destruction of their forests. The claim, therefore, that the interests of the Indians have been promoted by plundering them is a reckless, discreditable, and false pretense.

Equally incorrect is the claim that any justification for the wrongs done since 1885 can be found in proceedings prior to 1885. As has been shown, the action which alone made it feasible to despoil the Indians was the change made in the contracts, by which, instead of the Indians cutting and delivering their own timber at a price covering its value at the place of delivery, white lumbermen were allowed to go upon the reservations and cut it for stumpage prices. Upon this fundamental change the whole structure of fraud and oppression depended. Without this change the wrongs committed would have been impossible.

This change has been solely the work of this administration. The committee have heretofore shown by the testimony that no stumpage agreements nor logging by white lumbermen were allowed by Mr. Durfee. The cooks, teamsters, and foremen allowed during the winters of 1882-'83 and 1883-'84, were dispensed with during the winter of 1884-'85, and the work being done solely by the Indians, the cutting fell off as follows: We repeat figures heretofore given:

In 1882-'83, there were cut 5,872,784 feet; in 1883-'84, there were cut 44,957,298 feet; in 1884-'85, there were cut 26,149,693 feet. On the other hand, under Messrs. Vilas and Gregory, allowing stumpage contracts and filling the reservations with white lumbermen, the result has been as follows: In 1885-'86, there were cut 63,945,769 feet; in 1886-'87, there were cut 128,766,357 feet; in 1887-'88, there were cut 190,206,080 feet; in 1888, there is being cut as much timber as the contractors choose to cut, contract or no contract; permission or no permission.

The claim that the present administration has only followed in the path and pursued the system of the last administration may well be left to refutation solely by the above figures. It is true that under Mr. Durfee in some cases Indians began to cut their timber and haul it to the bank before the contracts had reached and were approved by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs. But the difference is easily apparent between allowing an Indian to cut and haul his own timber, under the limited and carefully-guarded system of true and honest contracts established by Messrs. Durfee and Price, and allowing white lumbermen, under contracts false, deceitful, and fraudulent, to cut, seize, and carry away the timber of the Indians in unlimited quantities, and under a system in effect one not of purchase but of plunder, established since 1888.

REMEDIES PROPOSED BY THE COMMITTEE.

On the 10th day of August, 1888, the committee adopted the following resolutions:

Resolved, As the sense of this committee:

(1) That no sale of pine timber from the Bad River, Fond du Lac, Court Oreille, or Flambeau Reservations should be allowed to be made by any Indian before his allotment of land in severalty has been formally approved by the President, and the allottee so notified; nor before such notice should any negotiations be allowed with any Indian for such a sale.

(2) That no further sales of pine timber from allotted lands should be allowed until after rules and regulations, specifically and accurately defining and prescribing the terms and conditions of such sales and adequately protecting the Indians both during the making and the performance of the contracts and in the disposition of the money received from such contracts, have been adopted by the Secretary of the Interior and publicly promulgated.

(3) That the pine timber remaining on the reservations upon lands not allotted to Indians in severalty, whenever it is expedient to sell the same, should, if it may lawfully be done, be sold by the Government under law or suitable regulation, and the proceeds held in trust for those members of the various tribes who have not received allotments in severalty of pine-timber lands, or otherwise held and disposed of as may be legal or equitable.

(4) That no further allotments of lands in severalty should be made to the Indians except where the allottee desires and intends to make his home upon the land allotted to him, or to cultivate the same or use it for grazing purposes.

In pursuance of these resolutions the following bills have been reported to the Senate, and the committee recommend their passage:

SEPTEMBER 6, 1888.—Mr. Platt introduced the following bill; which was read twice and referred to the Select Committee on Indian Traders.

SEPTEMBER 19, 1888.—Reported by Mr. Chandler with amendments, viz: Strike out all after the enacting clause and insert the part printed in italics.

[The bill as introduced is not republished here.]

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That it shall be unlawful for any person to contract for, or to purchase from any Indian pine timber upon the Fond du Lac Reservation in Minnesota, or upon the La Pointe or Bad River, Lac Court Oreille, or Lac de Flambeau Reservations, in the State of Wisconsin, until an allotment in severalty of the land upon which said timber is situated has, in pursuance of some treaty or law, been made to such Indian, and formally approved by the President, and the allottee has been notified of such approval.

SEC. 2. That the Secretary of the Interior is hereby directed to make and publish rules and regulations, specifically defining and prescribing the terms and conditions upon which persons may contract for, or purchase pine timber from, Indians to whom lands within said reservation have been allotted in severalty, and adequately protecting the Indians both during the making and performance of any contracts for such timber, and in the disposition of any money received upon such contracts. It shall be unlawful for any person to contract for, or to purchase pine timber from, any lands so allotted in severalty to Indians until after such rules and regulations shall have been made and published by the Secretary of the Interior.

SEPTEMBER 24, 1888.—Mr. Chandler introduced the following bill; which was read twice and referred to the Select Committee on Indian Traders.

OCTOBER 4, 1888.—Reported by Mr. Chandler without amendment.

A BILL to authorize the sale of timber on certain lands reserved for the use of the Chippewa bands of Indians in the States of Wisconsin and Minnesota.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Secretary of the Interior is hereby authorized to cause to be appraised and sold the timber, or such portion thereof as in his judgment it is for the interest of the bands to have sold, upon the lands situate on the Fond du Lac Reservation, in the State of Minnesota, the La Pointe or Bad River, Lac Court Oreilles, and Lac du Flambeau Reservations, in the State of Wisconsin, reserved for the Chippewa bands of Indians, except such lands as have heretofore been allotted to Indians in severalty. The said timber shall be appraised by two or more disinterested appraisers to be selected and appointed by said Secretary, in eighty-acre lots, according to the public survey. Each appraisal shall state the quality, quantity, and value of the pine timber growing or being on each lot, and shall be returned at the appropriate land office and shall be subject to public inspection for at least sixty days before the day appointed for the sale of said timber as herein provided. One copy of each appraisal shall be made and returned to the said land office within six months from the taking effect of this act, or as soon thereafter as practicable, and a duplicate thereof to the Secretary of the Interior; and the persons appointed to make such appraisal shall receive such compensation for their services as may be fixed by the Secretary of the Interior.

SEC. 2. That the timber appraised as aforesaid shall be advertised for sale by notice of not less than two months, to be published in at least three newspapers published in the States of Wisconsin and Minnesota and having general circulation in said States, and shall be offered at public auction, at such suitable place or places as may be designated by the Secretary of the Interior, to the highest bidder, in lots of not exceeding eighty acres, but shall not be sold for less than the appraised value thereof. All of said timber remaining unsold at the expiration of one year after it shall have been offered as aforesaid may, if the Secretary of the Interior shall deem it for the best interests of the Indians, be again advertised and offered at public auction, at such suitable place or places as may be designated by the Secretary of the Interior, at not less than the appraised value thereof, and shall in all cases be sold for cash only. The purchasers of said timber may have five years to remove the same, or not to exceed ten years, in the discretion of the Secretary of the Interior.

SEC. 3. That the sum of ten thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, be, and the same hereby is, appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, for the payment of the expenses of survey, appraisal, and sale of the timber herein authorized to be sold, which expenses shall be reimbursed to the Treasury of the United States from the first proceeds of the sale of timber as hereinbefore provided, and the residue of such proceeds shall be paid to or funded and held in trust for those members of each of the Chippewa bands of Indians belonging to said reservations who have not received allotments in severalty of pine timber lands, in such manner as the President may determine.

SEC. 4. That this act shall be and remain inoperative until full and satisfactory evidence shall have been placed on the files of the office of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs that the sales of timber herein authorized have the sanction of each band interested, evidenced by orders or agreements taken in full council.

SEPTEMBER 24, 1888.—Mr. Chandler introduced the following bill; which was read twice and referred to the Select Committee on Indian Traders.

S. Rep. 2710—IV

VIEWS OF THE MINORITY.

Mr. FAULKNER, from the Select Committee on Indian Traders, submitted the following views of the minority on the subject of the investigation of the cutting of timber on the La Pointe Agency:

The minority of the Select Committee on Indian Traders, after hearing the report prepared by the chairman, intended to be submitted to the Senate, feel that they would be censurable did they remain silent and permit the gross assaults, the unfounded insinuations, and the unsustained statements therein contained, reflecting upon certain officers of the Executive Department of the Government, to go unanswered.

They feel that a sense of justice and a spirit of fair play demand that the unjustifiable attack upon public and private character, made by the chairman in his report, should be met with a courteous, yet firm and emphatic, denial of every statement made in the report which questions the honesty, integrity, and fidelity to official duty and obligation of the present Secretary of the Interior, the late Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and of the United States Indian agent at La Pointe Agency.

The minority has not been furnished with the original report or a copy of it, and in replying to the facts, allegations, and conclusions of that report they will be compelled to rely upon the brief notes taken by them at the time it was read and submitted for the approval of the committee by the chairman. If, therefore, any fact is stated in the report of the committee and not answered in the views expressed by the minority, we can only refer those who are interested in the judicial ascertainment of the facts, under the resolution of the Senate of March 5, to the voluminous testimony which has been taken and printed, and which will be filed as a part of the proceedings of the committee. We have no hesitation in asserting that there are no facts developed in the record which sustain any one of the three propositions which form the basis of the report of the majority.

To intelligently answer the questions submitted to the committee by the resolution of March 5, 1888, it will be necessary to briefly review the origin and progress of the authority granting the Indians the right to sell their timber at La Pointe Agency.

The right to have allotments made in severalty, with the privilege to sell timber therefrom, conceded to the band of Chippewas, was secured to them under the treaty concluded in 1854; from that period to 1882 a number of allotments had been made, and patents issued to individual members of that tribe, but in 1882 the system was for the first time inaugurated authorizing the sale of their timber under certain limitations.

ORIGIN OF THE SYSTEM.

The first information that we have of the adoption of this system, with a view to promote the civilization of the Indians, is contained in a letter of the 13th of September, 1882, addressed to Hon. Hiram Price by the Mississippi River Logging Company, which is as follows :

MISSISSIPPI RIVER LOGGING COMPANY,
Chippewa Falls, Wis., September 13, 1882.

DEAR SIR: We inclose herewith a copy of an instrument such as is held by a number of Indians on the Lac Court Oreilles Reservation. Some of the loggers of this vicinity are of the opinion that the Indians have a right to sell them the pine timber on these lands which have been thus conveyed to them by the United States for the purpose of clearing off the land, and to use the proceeds toward making houses for themselves.

And we prefer not to purchase any of these logs without being assured that the Indians have the right to thus sell their timber.

Will you please explain the rights of the Indians in this matter, and oblige.

Yours, respectfully,

MISSISSIPPI RIVER LOGGING COMPANY,
Per J. D. BARNETT.

Hon. HIRAM PRICE,
Commissioner Indian Bureau, Washington, D. C.

This indirect appeal to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs was promptly considered by him, and on the 21st of September, 1882, he addressed a reply to the Mississippi River Logging Company in which he stated that the Department would authorize the sale of the timber owned by Indians, on lands held in severalty, under certain limitations. The letter is as follows :

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, September 21, 1882.

GENTLEMEN: I have received your letter of the 13th instant, inclosing a copy of an instrument such as you state is held by a number of Indians on the Lac Court d'Oreilles Reservation, and inquiring whether they have a right to sell the pine timber from lands conveyed to them by the United States for the purpose of clearing off the land and using the proceeds towards making houses for themselves.

Upon examination I find the paper referred to is a partial copy of one of a series of patents issued from the General Land Office on the 20th June, 1881, to certain individual Indians of the Lac Court d'Oreilles band of Chippewas under the provisions of the treaty concluded with those Indians September 30, 1854 (10 Stat., 1109), said patents containing a restriction against alienation of the land by the grantee or his heirs without the consent of the President of the United States. The intention of this restrictive clause is obvious. It is that the lands shall be preserved for the exclusive benefit of the Indians and their descendants, and to prevent them from falling into the hands of unprincipled speculators.

In furtherance of this principle the Government will also interpose to see that their lands, which are patented to them in severalty in such manner, are not wholly denuded of timber, or advantage taken of their necessities or inexperience in business matters.

Upon consultation with the honorable Secretary we are of opinion that the interest of the Indians in this case will be properly subserved by permitting them, at their own option, to dispose of not more than three-fourths of the timber on their respective tracts, and so that at least one-fourth of the timber (in compact form, if possible) shall remain for their use, under the supervision of the local Indian agent, to such persons and upon such terms and conditions as to price for stumpage as shall be fixed by him and approved by this office.

Mr. Durfee, the agent for the Lac Court d'Oreilles, will be so instructed.

Very respectfully,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

MISSISSIPPI RIVER LOGGING COMPANY,
Chippewa Falls, Wis.

On the same day the Commissioner addressed the following letter to W. R. Durfee, United States Indian agent at La Pointe Agency, Wis.:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, September 21, 1882.

SIR: I inclose herewith for your information copies of a letter received from the Mississippi River Logging Company, dated 13th instant, relative to the right of the Indian patentees on the Lac Court d' Oreilles Reservation to sell the pine timber from their lands and of my reply thereto of this date.

You will acquaint the Indians holding patents of the views therein expressed, and that, subject to your supervision, they are at liberty to dispose of not more than three-fourths of the timber on their respective tracts, but so that one-fourth of the timber (in compact form, if possible) shall remain for their use, to such persons and upon such terms and conditions as to price for stumpage as shall be fixed by you and approved by this office. You will be careful to see that these instructions are properly carried out, and that the Indians are fully protected in their dealings.

Very respectfully,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

W. R. DURFEE, Esq.,
United States Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Bayfield, Wis.

So far as the record shows, and we think it is complete, this is the first time this question was considered and passed upon by the Department, and the letter to Mr. Durfee is the first intimation that he had received that this system was to be inaugurated at La Pointe Agency.

It is important to note the limitations upon the right of the Indian to sell contained in the letter of the Commissioner. There are two: First, not more than two-thirds of the timber on any one tract was to be sold; second, the timber was to be sold upon such terms and conditions as to price for stumpage as shall be fixed by him (agent) and approved by the Indian Bureau. No other safeguards were suggested by the Commissioner, although acting under the direct instructions of the Secretary of the Interior.

The right and policy of permitting the Indian to sell his timber by the stumpage price is here fully recognized by the distinguished head of the Interior Department, although the majority of the committee now deny that such a right exists.

The agent, Mr. Durfee, differed with the Department, and on the 27th of September addressed a letter to the Commissioner questioning the policy of permitting whites to go upon the reservation for the purpose of cutting timber, and suggesting further that it would be more to the interest of the Indians to require them to cut and bank the logs. Upon receipt of a letter from Hon. Angus Cameron, dated October 5, 1882, Commissioner Price addressed a lengthy communication to the Secretary, reviewing his previous action in the light of the suggestions of Agent Durfee, and concluded by suggesting that the allotments made to Indians should, after appraisement, be sold at public auction and the net proceeds paid to the patentee. The Secretary of the Interior did not, however, concur in the views expressed by the Commissioner, and directed that the sales of Indian timber at that reservation should be made according to the views set forth in a letter addressed by him to Hon. Angus Cameron, which was as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, October 9, 1882.

SIR: I have received and considered your communication of the 25th ultimo, inquiring what terms and conditions in contracts by lumbermen with Indians holding patents for their lands on the Lac Court d'Oreille Reservation, in Wisconsin, would be satisfactory to the Department, etc.

The contracts for the sale of the timber should be made with the Indians owning the lands, under the supervision of the agent for the Indians, subject to the approval of this Department.

The timber should be cut by the Indians and delivered by them on the bank of the river. The price to be paid should be the fair cash value of the timber laid down on the banks of the river, and payment should be made therefor when it is so delivered.

Crews of white men can not be allowed on the reservation for the purpose of cutting the timber. If it should be found necessary, a proper person as agent for the purchaser, and at his expense, may be permitted by the Indian agent to go among the Indians to see to the proper cutting of the timber, its measurement, etc.

The timber should not be cut to waste, and not more than three-fourths thereof on each tract should be disposed of, leaving one-fourth, as near as may be, in a compact form for the further use of the Indians.

These instructions will be communicated to agent of La Pointe Agency, at Bayfield, Wis.

Very respectfully,

H. M. TELLER,
Secretary.

Hon. ANGUS CAMERON,
La Crosse, Wis.

The Commissioner requested Mr. Durfee, as he was more familiar with the subject-matter, to prepare and submit a form of contract to carry out the views of the Secretary. This was done, and the following contract submitted for the approval of the Department:

[Inclosure.]

This agreement, made and entered into at the La Pointe Indian Agency, Wisconsin, this _____ day of _____, 1882, between _____, of _____, party of the first part, and _____, of _____, party of the second part, witnesseth, that the said party of the first part having received from the United States a patent, subject to certain reserved rights vested in the President of the United States to the _____, situated upon the _____ reservation, in the State of Wisconsin, agree to cut in a good and merchantable manner into logs of the lengths of _____ feet from the merchantable pine timber upon three-quarters of the said tracts, the boundaries of which shall be designated by the United States Indian agent in charge of the above-named agency, and be incorporated into and become a part of this contract, and that none of the logs shall measure less than _____ inches at the small end, and to deliver _____ thousand feet more or less of said logs upon the bank of _____ to the party of the second part, for the sum of _____ per thousand feet board measure, as scaled upon the bank by a competent scaler, who shall be approved by the United States Indian agent above mentioned.

In consideration of the above agreement and sale, the party of the second part agree to pay to the said _____, so fast as the logs are delivered upon the bank in lots of M feet, of the purchase money—that is to say, when M feet are delivered the sum of _____ shall be paid thereon, and for each subsequent M feet so delivered an equal amount shall be paid.

When the logs shall be considered delivered to the party of the second part the expense of scaling the logs upon the bank shall be equally divided between the parties of the first and second part to this agreement.

This contract shall be valid and binding only after having the approval indorsed thereupon of the United States Indian agent in charge of the above-named reservation and the honorable Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

Witness the hands and seals of said parties the day and year first above written.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
_____, 188-.

I certify that prior to signature the foregoing agreement was read and carefully explained by me to the above-named _____, who appeared to fully comprehend and voluntarily executed the same in my presence.

Official Interpreter.

This form of contract is the only one that has been authorized by the Secretary of the Interior from the date when operations commenced on said reservation in 1882 to the present time, with the exception of the modifications suggested during the administration of Commissioner Atkins, as follows: "And shall not be assigned or sublet under penalty of annulment."

The majority, in their anxiety to find something to condemn in the administration of affairs at the La Pointe Agency, and with a view of founding a criticism on the administration of the Indian Bureau, charge that the following provisions in the contract hereinbefore given have been virtually set aside and annulled since the fall of 1885:

(1) The contracts, by their terms, were not to be valid until approved by the Commissioner.

(2) The Indians were to cut and haul the timber and deliver it for a fixed price, and were not to be allowed to sell stumpage.

(3) Three-fourths only of the lot of each Indian were to be cleared, the trees on the other one-fourth to be left standing in a compact body convenient for domestic purposes.

(4) The work in all cases was to be done by Indians, except that white men might be allowed to act as foremen, blacksmiths, and cooks.

Before we consider how far these provisions have been disregarded by the officials appointed by the present administration, it is but fair and just to ascertain what was the practical working of the system under the direction of those who put it in operation, and to learn from the evidence the character of the legacy which their predecessors had left to them.

We regret to find that on this subject the majority report is discreetly silent, which might suggest to the suspicious that the facts, if developed, would embarrass the conclusions which they have reached, and tend to dull the edge of the criticism which they have been so free to employ when speaking of the acts of their political opponents.

First. By the terms of the contract it would not be valid until approved by the Commissioner. The evidence found in the record is undisputed and overwhelming that this provision of the contract has from the beginning been uniformly ignored and found to be impracticable. The logging season commences in October and ends about the middle of April. None of the contracts for the cutting of timber have been approved before February by the Indian Office, and some prior to 1885 were not approved by the Commissioner until May, after the timber had been cut and paid for. Commissioner Price, in a letter to Mr. Durfee, of date March 18, 1884, says:

Whilst on this subject, I desire to call your attention to the fact that there appears to be considerable delay in forwarding the logging contracts to this Office. Quite a number are before me which are dated in October, 1883, but do not appear to have been approved by you until the end of last month. Strictly speaking, not a stick of timber should be cut until the contract has been approved by this Office, and if the present system is continued during the next season, there will have to be some different arrangement made, by which the contracts can be submitted to this Office before the season commences, instead of waiting until it is almost practically closed.

And Mr. Durfee, in a communication to the Commissioner of date April 3, 1884, says:

The delay in forwarding contracts from this Office has been caused by the continued errors made in drawing up contracts and bonds, which I have been repeatedly forced to return sometimes two or three times for correction, and also from the delay in getting bonds, some of the contracts remaining in my office for months before the necessary bonds to accompany them were received.

By reference to pages 99 to 102, inclusive, of the record, it will be seen that from 1882 to 1885 three-fourths of the contracts were received after the 1st of March, and a large number as late as July.

From 1885 to 1888, as shown on pages of the record 105 to 115, inclusive, it will appear that nine-tenths of the contracts were received before the 10th of January, and a majority of those contracts were received in the month of December. Agent Durfee reports for the winter of 1883-'84 3,289,820 feet put in without any contract. This improvement in the administration of the affairs of the agency was unfortunately overlooked by the "lynx-eyed" majority.

Second. "Three-fourths only of the lot of each Indian was to be cleared; trees on the other one-fourth were to be left standing in a compact body, convenient for domestic purposes."

This disregard of the policy of the Department was equally observable to one seeking to ascertain the facts in the case prior to 1885, as evidenced by the following letter:

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, Wis., March 14, 1883.

SIR: I am informed that Special Agent Wright, in council with the Indians at Lac Court Oreilles, informed them that they could cut all the pine upon their allotments, and that many of them are no longer paying attention to the clause reserving one-fourth of the allotment. I would respectfully ask if my instructions from the Department to reserve one-fourth are superseded.

Very respectfully,

W. R. DURFEE,
U. S. Indian Agent.

Hon. H. PRICE,
Commissioner Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

Third. The Indians were to cut and haul the timber and deliver it for a fixed price, and were not to be allowed to sell stumpage.

The cutting of timber under stumpage contracts was not a new and novel experiment upon this reservation under the administration of Mr. Gregory. We learn from the report of Indian Inspector Gardner, and also from the letters of Mr. Durfee, the agent, that prior to 1885 the Indians sold their timber by stumpage contract, and also without any contracts approved by the agent at the reservation.

With these facts clearly set forth in the report it is rather strange that they escaped the critical consideration of the majority, when they feel justified in commenting upon similar acts occurring during the administration of Mr. Durfee's successor.

The report of Inspector Gardner to the Secretary of the Interior is as follows:

Attention is invited to the inclosed statement of Agent Durfee, marked Exhibit No. 2. I am credibly informed that a good many of the Indians who sold their stumpage at prices from $2 to $2.50 per 1,000 feet did no labor whatever towards cutting the timber or trying to clear the land; that they received their money for same, and now spend their time in idleness and the money as suits their whims. Instances were reported to me where the proper parties did not get their money for the stumpage sold from their 80-acre allotments, among which were three Indian women, named as follows, to wit: Moien, Shi-ba-gi-gi-go-kue, and Gagi; these three women had 4,453,220 feet, at $2.50 per 1,000, stumpage amounting to $11,133.05.

The working in all cases was to be done by Indians, except that white men might be allowed to act as foremen, blacksmiths, and cooks.

These were the clearly expressed views of the Department, in reference to the cutting of timber with the assistance of white men, during the administration of the office by Commissioner Price, and has been continued as the policy thought to be best by the subsequent Commissioners, with a slight modification.

It is equally true that in the practical operations upon the reservation it was found, even prior to 1885, that this provision could not be enforced under certain conditions with justice to the parties in interest, yet we find no comment, criticism, or expression of condemnation in the majority report for this disregard of the provisions of the regulations but when it was necessary to obtain an additional reason for the wholesale condemnation of the acts of Mr. Gregory, and it was felt to be necessary to array some facts in support of the charge in the report, of his violation of law and order, the majority found no difficulty in ignoring the one while condemning the other.

Mike Diver, a witness called by the chairman, testifies :

He says that Agent Durfee told him that white men would not be allowed to work on a reservation, but if an Indian did not know enough about cutting timber he would be permitted to use three persons to assist him—three white men ; and if the Indian did not know how to cook he should be given the privilege of employing a white cook, and if the Indian did not know how to drive a team, he should be given the privilege of a white teamster and also a white foreman ; and he says that he told him that if the Indians could do all this themselves that the white men would not be permitted to go on the reservation to do the work.

Agent Durfee, in a letter to the Commissioner dated January 14, 1884, says :

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, Wis., January 14, 1884.

SIR: I would respectfully report that having been informed by Mr. Pero, Government farmer at Lac Court Oreilles Reservation, that certain parties were employing white men in putting in their logs, contrary to instructions given me by the Department, and that no attention was paid to his orders that they should not be so employed ; also, that parties were putting in logs without contracts and were stamping logs with the recorded mark of the Pioneer Lumber Company.

And in a communication from Commissioner Price to the Secretary of the Interior, dated January 27, 1884, he says :

It would seem from Agent Durfee's letter that the authority to employ a foreman, cook, and teamster in the camps has been taken advantage of in the employment of white labor to some extent greater than that authorized.

I will discuss the policy of this provision hereafter.

This brief review of the operations under the regulations of the Interior Department in reference to the cutting of timber on the La Pointe Agency presents fairly, in the judgment of the minority, the difficulties encountered in putting them into practical operation.

It is not the purpose or the intention of the minority in calling attention to the disregard of these regulations by officials of the Government, prior to 1885, to throw any aspersion upon the honesty, integrity, or fidelity of those officials to the public trust committed to them. It is introduced by them simply for the purpose of showing the impracticability of their enforcement, not from any want of faithfulness on the part of those whose duty it was to see that they were executed, but as evidence tending to show that in the inauguration of this new scheme errors had been committed in the promulgation of regulations inapplicable to the subject-matter they were intended to control. This will be further developed in the discussion of the administration of this trust from 1885 to the present time.

The majority in their report charge Commissioner J. D. C. Atkins with inexcusable neglect of duty and serious administrative incapacity.

This charge, in the judgment of the minority, is gratuitous, unsustainable by the testimony in the record, and overwhelmingly refuted by the official acts of Mr. Atkins, as shown in his official correspondence filed with the committee.

Mr. Atkins assumed the duties of his office in March, 1885, continuing in that position until June 30, 1888.

The evidence before the committee shows him to have been a careful, watchful, intelligent, and industrious public officer, a man of sterling integrity, and one who carefully guarded the official trust committed to him. Finding that this system had been inaugurated, for the cutting of timber upon the La Pointe Agency, with no limitations upon the right of the allottee to dispose of it, except those contained in the regulations hereinbefore set forth, he instructed his subordinates that the same policy would control his administration of that subject that had governed his predecessor in office.

One single modification was made in the contract to be signed by loggers, and that in the interest of the Indians.

No complaints of the subjects involved in this investigation were submitted to his consideration, or his attention directed to any violation of those regulations until a few days prior to the passage of the resolution of the 5th of March; none of the frequent reports made to his office by Indian inspectors and special agents contained any information of the violation of any of these regulations.

During the fall of 1885 (it being the first cutting done under Mr. Atkins's administration), Acting Commissioner Upshaw addressed a communication to Mr. Gregory, the Indian agent, containing full instructions as to the policy of the Department in reference to the subject of timber-cutting, and instructed him that contracts and bonds for approval of the office must be forwarded promptly; that no contracts would be approved until patents had issued or allotments had been approved by the Department; suggesting that special care should be taken that no more contracts should be entered into than could be performed by the force on the reservation, adding a most important limitation to those contracts approved by the Department, "that they should terminate at the end of the season, or within a reasonable time thereafter;" calling his special attention to the exercise of vigilance over the prices of supplies to be furnished; urging that the claims for labor should be discharged before final settlement, and advising that measures should be taken for the safe-keeping of money due Indians "who were unable to take care of it themselves," that a recurrence of the serious loss which happened under Mr. Durfee's administration might not occur again.

On the receipt of the contracts for that season, and in the examination of them, he found the valuation in prices varying from $4.75 to $6.25. He at once declined to approve them until full explanation of the cause for this variation was given.

In 1887 the whole subject was again reviewed in a letter addressed to the Secretary of the Interior, in which every question arising under the regulations established were reviewed and insisted upon, with the additional light which had been furnished by experience, which communication was fully approved by the Secretary. Every complaint either submitted to him by Indians directly interested, by half-breeds whose purpose was clearly to foment discord, or by prominent citizens who felt an interest in the successful prosecution of the scheme which had been inaugurated by the Department, were considered carefully, and in almost every instance either a special agent or an Indian inspector was immediately sent to the reservation for the purpose of making a thorough investigation and reporting to the Bureau. Without exception those reports were favorable to the administration of the agent, and no intimation given in them of any disregard of instructions which now seems to excite the earnest attention of the committee.

The only exception to the numerous reports made upon the subject of the administration of this agency is found in the report of T. D. Markham, United States Indian inspector, dated May 22, 1888, who, on the receipt of the letter of the chairman of the committee, written four days after the committee commenced to take evidence under the resolution of the Senate, was sent to the agency to investigate and report. Mr. Markham was sent to the La Pointe Agency with full instructions to examine into all the subjects suggested in the letter of the chairman. For the first time, on the receipt of his report, was information obtained by the Indian Bureau of the extent of the cutting of timber and the employment of white labor; that the system was based upon the price of stumpage in fact, though not in form, and that the provision as to the cutting of but three-fourths of the timber on each allotment had not been observed. Mr. Markham, in his report, although not justifying the subordinates of the Commissioner in disregarding the rules and regulations promulgated by him, at the same time felt compelled, under the evidence taken by him upon the spot to indorse these violations so far at least as to express the opinion "that if the best interest of the Indians is to be accomplished in allowing them to sell their pine, then it will be admitted from the testimony on the subject that in permitting them to sell their pine for a stumpage price, and the use by the contractor of white labor in cutting and banking their timber, it will result in large gains to the Indians." This opinion, expressed by Mr. Markham, is fully borne out by the evidence furnished by the result of the operations during the logging seasons of 1886-'87 and 1887-'88.

The minority of the committee, in view of the evidence in the record, feel that gross injustice has been done by the majority in charging Mr. Atkins, either with inexcusable neglect of duty or administrative incapacity.

Not a fact can be culled from the mass of testimony taken by the committee to justify, or even give color to, such a conclusion. The dissatisfied grumblers upon the reservation, the fomenters of discord among the Indians in the form of half-breeds (some of whom bear characters which would not justify their belief on oath), and the records of the Department may be examined and searched in vain to find the evidence upon which the majority of the committee attack the personal character or the official integrity of Commissioner Atkins.

Willful and deliberate disobedience of law and orders, and gross abuse of official power, by J. T. Gregory, United States Indian agent.

This is the second conclusion arrived at by the majority of the committee.

We must be permitted to express our astonishment that three minds could have been induced to concur in the three propositions affecting the personal integrity and the official character of an official of the Government, whose acts of administration have been fully indorsed by every Indian agent and Indian inspector sent to the reservation to examine and report upon the conduct of his administration.

If the conclusion of the majority is sustained by the evidence, their censure of Mr. Gregory is indirectly an attack upon the faithfulness, intelligence, and honesty of all those who have been specially intrusted with the duty of investigating his conduct, among whom are men conspicuous for their ability, and whose official records will compare favorably with that of any men in public life.

This conclusion of the majority embraces three distinct propositions.

- (1) A willful and deliberate disobedience of law.
- (2) A willful and deliberate disobedience of orders.
- (3) Gross abuse of official power.

We will consider each in the order named.

First.—“A willful and deliberate disobedience of law.”

This proposition is based upon the theory that the Indians, under the treaty of 1854 and the Dawes act of 1887, had no right to contract for the sale of their timber at a stumpage price, but could only exercise the privilege of contracting for the sale of the timber with third parties, after they themselves had cut and banked it.

The minority dissent from this construction of the law, and feel that they are justified in assuming that such has never been the view of the Interior Department.

The first suggestion in reference to the cutting of Indian timber on this reservation is in the letter of Commissioner-Price to the Secretary of the Interior, recommending that the Indians be allowed to sell their timber at the stumpage price, and although the contract as drawn by Agent Durfee to carry out the policy thought to be advantageous to the Indians provides that the owner shall cut and bank the timber, yet from the beginning of this system it has been a recognized rule to allow the owners to contract with third persons to do this for them, with the limitation, under the regulations of the Department, that the logger should only employ a certain amount of white labor.

Upon this proposition there can be no room for dispute. Nine-tenths of the cutting has been done in this way since 1882. Under allotments to squaws and minors it would be impossible to carry out the purpose of the law in any other way.

There is no question that it has been the uniform practice not only to authorize these Indians to contract with loggers to cut and bank their timber, but the Department has been called upon to fix the price to be paid per 1,000 feet for such work.

If the owner has the right, under contract with third parties, to sell to them his timber cut and banked on the stream, and the right to enter into a contract with another party to cut and bank that timber, under what conceivable construction of law can the majority hold that, as a legal proposition under the treaty of 1854 and the act of 1887, a contract could not be entered into by the owners of these allotments to cut the timber therefrom which contained a provision to sell for a certain price per 1,000 feet when cut and banked, and authorizing the same person, at a stipulated price, to cut and bank the timber?

To the legal mind the statement of the proposition is its own answer. But as evidence of the fact that such a construction was not held by Commissioner Price when he inaugurated this system, he suggests to the Secretary of the Interior another method of disposing of this timber, which was to have the timber upon the allotments appraised, the Government to advertise and sell it standing, and the net proceeds to be paid over to the Indian owner.

This proposition did not even contemplate the consent of the patentee, which since the act of 1887, investing these Indians with the rights of citizenship, would certainly cause the proposition of the Commissioner to be received with some question.

Second. Willful and deliberate disobedience of orders.

The minority assume that this charge is based upon three violations of the orders of the Department.

(1) In permitting more than three-fourths of the timber on the allotments to be cut.

(2) Permitting the employment of a larger number of white laborers than contemplated by the regulations.

(3) Permitting Indians to sell their timber at a stumpage price.

It is frankly admitted by the minority that Agent Gregory during his term of service was cognizant of the fact that these regulations were not being strictly enforced, but at the same time, in justice to Mr. Gregory, they feel it incumbent upon them to state that, in view of the evidence taken by the committee, his failure to correct the irregularity was the belief upon his part that the interest of the Indians would be promoted by conducting the operations in disregard of those regulations. The testimony upon this question is overwhelmingly in his favor, and the motives which controlled his action we believe to be praiseworthy.

First, "as to allowing more than three-fourths of the timber on an allotment to be cut."

The evidence developed these facts, that the timber upon this reservation is white and Norway pine, mixed in with hard wood.

A number of Indian witnesses and others testified before the committee that, in their judgment, this regulation of the Department was based upon an erroneous view of the subject; that to cut three-fourths of the timber from the allotment, leaving the other one-fourth standing in a compact body, would virtually be a waste to that extent; that the destructive winds that passed over that section of the country and the consuming fires that would be fed by the refuse of the cut timber left from the logging operations would greatly injure the 20 acres that would be left standing, and that the theory upon which this regulation was based, to leave sufficient wood upon the allotment—to supply firewood to the allottee was a useless provision. That experience had demonstrated the impossibility of inducing the Indians to settle upon their allotments; that their roving dispositions lead them continually from the reservation, and when on it they were to be found alone in their villages.

It was the concensus of opinion among witnesses examined that it was to the interest of the Indians that the pine timber upon the allotments should be cut, leaving only the hard wood standing.

Second. Permitting the employment of a larger number of white laborers than was contemplated by the regulations.

In a letter dated June 15, 1886, addressed by Agent Gregory to Commissioner Atkins, he discusses fully the subject of the employment of white labor upon this reservation. I quote from page 388 of the record :

Heretofore all these lumbering operations have been conducted by those engaged in them under many serious embarrassments. Chief amongst these was the fact that the Indian laborers would not carry out their agreements. They understood very well that the contractors for the logs were obliged to employ Indian laborers exclusively and Indian teams when they could be obtained.

From every section those Indian laborers would go to the reservations, engage themselves to work for the contractors at a stipulated price for the logging season. Most of them would work for a few weeks, get their pay, and go away until their money was gone, and after the work was well under way they could combine and put up the wages to twice that for which white labor could be and was obtained in the same locality. In consequence of this state of affairs logging operations were in many cases suspended, great losses occurred, and the spendthrift Indian wasted his own earnings, in which was also consumed the price of the timber, which the allottees should have had. Seeing that the logging operations last winter were likely to be affected from this same cause, I addressed a letter to you on the subject, on September 7, 1885, and in reply thereto you gave me such authority as I thought would enable me to overcome this serious source of loss and injury, and I used it, as I believe, with good result.

I believe it is just as important to teach these Indians honesty and justice, as to labor.

Early in the logging season the same general course of these Indian laborers began to be put into operation, and I personally visited each of these reservations, and frequently afterwards; and I told as many of these Indians as I could see that they must live up to their agreements and remain at their work, and if they left they should not be permitted to return, and that I should see that white men got their places if I could not get honest and industrious Indians to fill them. Instructed the farmers to visit each camp promptly whenever trouble was likely to occur, and to read my letter of instructions (which embodied what I have stated above). These laborers, seeing that there was a determined purpose to break up the course which they had every winter pursued, and which they knew was wrong, remained at their work, and when the camps broke in the spring many of them had considerable money coming to them; the contractors got along well with their work and the allottees received the full amount which they expected to receive.

The custom that is practiced by all lumbermen in this vicinity is not to pay their men until after their camp breaks in the spring, but if a man has a family he can draw enough money to support them during the logging season. The camps are always supplied with such articles of clothing as are needed. The success of any logging operation depends upon the great mass of men, who are employed in the fall, remaining at their special work during the entire logging season.

The Indians should be required to pursue the same general plan which the white people do, as long experience has shown that certain things are necessary for a successful logging operation, and chief amongst them is that the laborers shall remain steadily and contentedly at their work.

The great fault found with Indian laborers is that they can not be depended upon to remain the length of time they agree to; many of them become expert loggers, and very useful in mills, and wherever logs and lumber are handled, but only a few can get places, because they are in the habit of leaving whenever they take a notion to. If they can be made to realize the necessity of performing cheerfully and faithfully their agreement it will be of immeasurable value to them.

If this logging business continues to be carried on much good to them can be obtained if you will insist, as one of the conditions upon which the logger shall employ them, that they shall remain faithfully at their work at good, fair wages.

In reply to this letter, General Upshur, acting Commissioner, under date of August 24, 1836, addresses a letter to Agent Gregory, in which he uses the following language:

To regulate the labor question, insisting that the Indians shall remain faithfully at their work during the logging season, at proper and reasonable wages.

To regulate the question of white labor in the camps, using just as little of it as possible, and only where absolutely necessary, as in the case of a foreman or instructor, cooks and teamsters, holding all such to a strict observance of the intercourse laws and regulations. In the case of the Lac Court d'Oreille Reserve, I understood you to say that little, if any, white help would be needed.

This reply of the Acting Commissioner was construed by Mr. Gregory as giving him a discretionary power, to the extent at least of authorizing sufficient labor, with that of the Indians willing to work, to enable parties to complete contracts made during the season.

There has been no evidence given before your committee that any Indian willing to work has been refused employment by any of the contractors upon the said reservation, although the evidence is that they make poor laborers, and demand a higher compensation for their work than is paid to white laborers.

As the Indians under the regulations have the right, after receiving their allotment and patent, to contract for the sale of their timber without limit, it is practically impossible, in view of the facts disclosed in the record, to confine the work upon those reservations to Indian labor.

The force necessary to execute the contracts annually made, require a far greater number of laborers than can be supplied by the Indians.

To discriminate between Indians, as to who should be permitted each year to contract for the sale of his timber, so as to limit the number of contracts and the amount of cutting, would create dissatisfaction, open the door to partiality and favoritism, throw down the barrier against fraud and corruption which open competition erects, and put a premium on Indian labor that would enable them to absolutely control the price, against the right and interest of the owners of the timber, whose equal right is to have it cut for a reasonable sum. The cost of cutting and banking necessarily falls upon the seller of the timber, and enters into the price which he receives, in consideration of that sale.

In answer to the question by the chairman, found on page 220 of the record, Mr. Gregory explains his action on this question :

Q. "White men logging upon the reservation will be considered and treated as trespassers." What do you say as to that?—A. I say that never has been observed.

Q. Have you ever put any white men off the reservation?—A. I did in 1885-'86; I ordered them off.

Q. Men who came on for the purpose of lumbering?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. To what extent did you have to enforce that?—A. At one time I think there must have been fifty that I drove off the Court Oreille Reservation.

Q. But since that time you have not put anybody off?—A. No, sir; because the Indians raised their wages the next day after those men were put off.

Q. So that white men have been necessary to carry out the contracts? "The scale will be by a party approved by the United States Indian agent in charge of the reservation, the scaler to be paid equally by the first and second parties to the contract." What have you to say to that?—A. At Court Oreille I had the same scaler that was under Agent Durfee; he was up there until last season.

Government Farmer Walker, in an affidavit made April 15, 1886, in speaking of white labor employed on the reservation, says :

In some instances white labor was employed in the camps. Indians were always given the preference for work at logging, and received wages say from $2 to $5 more than whites. When whites were employed it was in consequence of Indians deserting the camps, for various reasons, and it would have been ruin to the contractors not to have employed white labor, failing to secure Indian labor.

Ben. Armstrong, George Forsythe, Chas. Tolliver, and John Denomie (a subcontractor of D. A. Kennedy) employed more or less white labor, under the circumstances above stated.

In the report of Special Agent Heth, dated April 16, 1886, in speaking of the employment of white labor, he says :

In some instances he admits that white labor was employed, and states why it was employed. Indians are always, however, given the preference, at wages from $2 to $5 higher than that paid to whites.

Special Agent Robinson, in a report dated December 3, 1885, in discussing the subject of Indian labor, says :

The desire to educate the Indian as a logger precludes the introduction of white labor, and this has in many cases operated against the allottee, as the Indians combine to force high wages, and frequently get 50 per cent. higher wages than good white labor in logging camps near the reservation. The agent here should have full discretion and power to regulate this matter, and could easily do so if authorized.

We would call attention, as sustaining the views of the agent and inspector sent to investigate these matters at the reservation to the letter addressed by Boutin and Mahan to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, dated December 31, 1883 :

BAYFIELD, WIS., December 31, 1883.

SIR: Our Mr. Boutin has a contract with some of the Bad River Indians, and they are getting out logs for him.

Now it has been the ruling that no white men be allowed to work in the camps other than foremen and team-drivers.

Now this restriction upon the men who are getting out logs, it is damaging, for the reason that the Indians are aware that none but Indians can be here to chop, swamp, saw, load, etc., and for this reason they are demanding exorbitant prices.

White men can be hired at from $15 to $25. Times are very tight in this part of the country and but little work, and plenty of men who are asking for work at any wages.

Indians demand $35, $40, $45 per month; now with this feeling amongst the Indians, and the restriction that none but Indians can be hired to get out logs in the reservation, it will be the cause of driving those away who are desirous of helping the Indians, and create a feeling which will be injurious to them in the future.

While we feel that we would just as lief have the Indian as the white man, and in case of preference would give the Indian the benefit, we do think that the Department should in a measure change this ruling so that we should not be imposed upon by the Indians. Allow the agent to establish a price for wages which to pay the Indian, and in the event the Indian will not work under these wages that the agent be allowed to grant permits to those getting out logs, allowing them to put in white men to fill vacancies, allowing them men enough to get out the logs contracted for. To make our understanding more clear, our Mr. N. Boutin would respectfully ask, that in the event that he is unable to get Indians enough to work in the logging camp now established on Bad River Indian Reservation at $25 or $35 per month, that he may be able to get out the logs already contracted for before April 1, 1884, that the agent, Maj. W. R. Durfee, be authorized to grant him permission to put in white men, and that Major Durfee be instructed to investigate the matter, with authority to grant this permit if in his judgment the case justifies such action.

Your early attention to this matter will much oblige,

Very respectfully, your obedient servants,

BOUTIN & MAHAN.

HON. COMMISSIONER INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, D. C.

That the discretion should be vested in the agent, relative to the employment of white labor, is further shown by the report of Agent Durfee under date of October 4, 1883:

Even last winter towards the latter part of the season some of the Indian loggers paid as high as $50 a month and board for labor which in a white camp would not have commanded more than $20. The result of this would be to take from the owner of the land the value of his stumpage, and, if carried to extremes, even possibly to leave a labor lien upon the logs after the full amount had been paid by the contractor.

In answer to the question propounded by the chairman to Agent Gregory, he explained the circumstances under which he first gave permission for the employment of white laborers:

Q. When did you first begin to allow white men on the reservations for logging more than was specified in Agent Durfee's circular?—A. I will state the first case of that kind; Mr. Denomie probably remembers it. He had a camp about 12 or 14 miles from there on the reservation, the farthest up the river. The Indians would not stay there and work for him. They would come down on Saturday afternoon and stay until Tuesday or Wednesday. Mr. Denomie came and told me that he could not get the Indians to work for him, and that it would ruin him unless he could get help, and he said he would have to have some white men who would go there and stick, or he would be ruined. I told him to go back there and if the Indians did not work for him to put white men in, and he did so, and the consequence was that he made some money that winter; that was the winter of 1885-'86.

Q. Now you may state what instructions, if any, you gave about white laborers for this season, 1887-'88.—A. The instructions I gave for the season of 1886-'87 held for the season of 1887-'88.

Q. Did you not intend to put any limit at all on the number of white men, provided all the Indians who wanted to get work could get it?—A. All the Indians who wanted to could get work.

Q. But if they all got work, did you not intend to limit the number of white men who might come in there?—A. No, sir; I tried to limit the number of contracts, but the Indians raised a howl and claimed I was showing favoritism.

Q. But if it was necessary to execute fully the contracts which you allowed to be made, to let in white men, and if every Indian who wanted work could get it, you put no limit on the number of white men that were necessary to execute the contract?—A. No, sir.

Q. Is that your statement?—A. Yes, sir; they all wanted to contract.

Q. So that, as I understand you, you first established this system of having a net amount guaranteed to the Indians because they were not getting what they ought to have gotten for their timber?—A. No, sir; they were not.

Q. And you let the white men in because if you had not the timber would not have been gotten out and the Indians would have complained that they did not get the money they were entitled to?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. That I understand is your idea?—A. Yes, sir; and because with white men it could be logged much more cheaply and expeditiously than with the Indians.

Q. Now you may state right here what rule you adopted for limiting the amount of lumbering which might be done in any winter on the reservations. You have stated that after the contracts were made you let them have white men enough to get the lumber off. Now you may state what limits you put on the contracts and what your instructions were to the farmer for the three years, and what your own action or policy was?—A. In 1885, I think it was, I told the farmer on the reservation that I would not approve any contracts after a certain date.

Q. Do you remember that date?—A. It was in the fall some time; I think it was in December.

Q. December, 1885?—A. I think so; I will not be positive; I can not remember the dates. But some of my friends who were logging on the reservations said that was for the purpose of shutting them out.

Q. But you adhered to it?—A. No, sir; I did not. I talked to the farmer about it. Those parties were warm friends of mine and they raised such a howl about it that I told them I did not think I would enforce it, because I knew they were capable of testifying to most anything in regard to it.

Q. And so you let the contracts go on?—A. Yes; and let them make a few more of them.

Q. That was in 1885-'86?—A. Yes, sir; I do not remember exactly the date of it.

Q. Look at pages 104, 105, and 106. The first contract on page 104 begins on September 15, 1885, with Kennedy. There is September and October and up to November, and last, on page 107, there are some December and January contracts?—A. January 23, 1886, is one.

Q. What was the date you fixed for stopping the contracts?—A. I intended stopping them along early in the winter. I see that here is one of Calligan Bros., of March 2, 1886; that is on page 107. I do not suppose they cut any under that, because it had not been approved.

The extracts taken from the official correspondence should convince any reflecting mind of the necessity of giving to the agent discretionary power in the employment of white labor, which we think was done in the letter of Commissioner Upshaw, hereinbefore referred to.

The exercise of that discretion by Mr. Gregory, under the circumstances detailed by him, and which, in our judgment, has been confirmed by all other testimony, was wisely exercised. To have declined to have allowed the employment of white labor to execute the contracts would have resulted in the robbery of the Indian allottee, as it would have increased greatly the cost of cutting and banking, and would thereby have greatly reduced the net proceeds paid to the owner of the timber.

The minority know of no complaint against the agent for this exercise of his discretion and judgment until March 31, 1888, when a half-breed of the worst character and criminal antecedents filed such a complaint.

In discussing this question we do not desire to be understood as holding that Agent Gregory had authority to authorize stumpage contracts; nor can we, in fact, say that it was necessary to have the approval of the Department in the form in which they were made. If any such contracts were entered into, the facts hardly justify the charge that has been made that the system of contracting was changed by him.

The circumstances under which this practice originated may be briefly stated, as follows:

A logger, having entered into a contract with the patentees of land to cut and bank their timber, through inexperience and the obligation to employ Indian labor, the entire contract price was consumed in the cutting and banking of the timber. This being called to the attention of Mr. Gregory, he insisted that hereafter all contractors for the cutting and banking of the timber should guaranty a fixed stumpage price per thousand feet. This, perhaps, under any view of the case, was not an excess of authority; it was simply a different way of exercising a power in the interests of the Indians, which he clearly possessed, of saying that the cost of cutting and banking should not exceed a given price, and that the balance should be paid net to the Indians. In other words, if the contract was approved for the payment of $6 per thousand feet, on the bank of the stream, and in his judgment a fair price for the cutting and banking would be $3, he would require the guaranty by the contractor that the Indian should have $3 net per thousand feet for his timber.

It strikes the minority that this was a proper exercise of authority on the part of the agent, and we believe that the evidence fully bears out its wisdom.

Agent Durfee, in a letter to Commissioner Price, under date of June 27, 1884, in speaking of this method of the sale of Indian timber, says :

Have no doubt that could the stumpage be sold directly to buyers, with authority to put in the pine with white crews, that the individual owners would realize more for their pine, yet I still deem the present method of disposing of the timber, with some modifications which I shall have the honor to suggest, as much the most advantageous to the Indians.

Inspector Gardner, early in 1884, disapproved of the present system for the sale of timber, remarking that the manner of disposing of timber on allotted lands under the present mode is liable to fraud, misunderstanding, annoyance, and confusion, and in a great many instances no material benefit is derived by the Indians from the present mode of disposing of their timber.

Commissioner Price, in a letter to the Secretary of the Interior, dated January 21, 1885, concurs with Agent Durfee in the views which he expresses "that to sell the stumpage directly to buyers, with the authority to put in the pine with white crews, would probably realize more money for the individual Indian owner."

Mr. Gregory, in answer to the question propounded by Senator Blackburn as to the practical working of the system, says:

It used to be that an Indian would contract for the sale of his pine. He would get some half-breed who had a logging outfit to put it in, say, for $3.50 a thousand. If the half-breed would run behind on his contract the Indian can go to work and give these contractors orders to honor the checks of this logger. There are several cases where the allottees did not get 10 cents a thousand out of their pine by so doing. I stopped that right off the first fall I took charge; I told them I would not allow it. Some wanted to do it, to insert that in the contract that if the logger would run behind that the allottee would have to stand it, but I would not allow it.

This was followed up by the following question, propounded by the chairman and answered by the agent:

Q. How did you stop it?—A. I told them that the contractors would have to let that man take it for the price that he could put it in for, at a fair price, and if he could not do it I would look to them to fulfill the contract, as they were buying the pine.

Finding that the Indians had the unlimited right to sell; that he had no power to control that right; that if it was exercised it would be necessary to allow white labor upon the reservation, he sought to control the matter by limiting the cutting as far as possible.

The chairman propounded the following interrogatories to him :

Q. What was your policy, if you had any?—A. I always instructed the farmer to keep the limit down and let them cut as little as possible on each lot.

Q. But taking the whole reservation, did you have an eye to prevent the timber being swept off in a few years?—A. Yes; I instructed the farmers on the different reservations to limit the cutting as much as they could. But you could not limit the sale; the Indians had patents, and were going to sell anyway.

Q. I will ask you again if you had any policy in approving contracts with reference to the preservation of pine timber on the reservation?—A. I have stated that I instructed the farmers to restrict the cutting as much as possible; to have as little taken off of each selection as they could.

Q. But as a matter of fact you have approved of the contracts that the contractors have been able to make?—A. Yes, sir; all that the Indians have been able to make.

Q. Or that the contractors have been able to make with the Indians?—A. Yes, sir.

In justification of Mr. Gregory we feel compelled to say that his manner, bearing, and answers while on the witness stand impressed us most favorably. He attempted to conceal none of his acts, and after presenting the authority which governed his action he assumed any personal responsibility that could result from a failure to comply with the instructions of the Department.

He claims in every instance that if he had violated any instruction that his act was controlled by no other motive than that of advancing the interests of the Indians under his charge.

We feel no hesitation in saying that in our judgment he may have acted without full instructions from the Department, but the motives that prompted him were pure, and the hard common sense which he unquestionably possesses guided him in a course that resulted in all cases in promoting the welfare of those under his charge.

Third. Gross abuse of official power.

We challenge the majority to state an instance, testified to by any creditable witness or sustained by any official paper, that justifies them in charging that Agent Gregory was guilty of gross abuse of official power. It is true that complaints have been made to the Department as to his action by those dissatisfied with his decision, but in every instance in which they have been examined, and there have been frequent examinations, he has been exonerated and his action sustained by the Department under the report submitted.

He was placed in the embarrassing position of being compelled to judge of the propriety of allowing any particular contractor to go upon the reservation, and yet the evidence discloses but two or three cases in which, even under such circumstances, the parties in interest questioned the propriety of his decision.

In every instance in which the facts are detailed in the evidence we feel it but fair to Mr. Gregory to say that, in the judgment of the minority, he exercised that discretion with fairness and impartiality.

One witness gives as a reason which in his judgment governed the agent in refusing to approve his contract, that he was a Republican. The absurdity of such a statement was manifest, when Mr. Gregory testified that 90 per cent. of the loggers upon the reservation were members of the Republican party. Of the twenty-eight white persons logging upon the reservation, twenty-two of them are Republicans and six are Democrats.

The complaint filed in 1888, on the subject of allotments under the act of 1887, can have no influence upon the conclusion to be reached on this subject, as under instructions from the Department, Special Agent Wall had exclusive power to decide as to who was entitled to those allotments, and the Department merely suggested to Agent Gregory that he should accompany Mr. Wall and give him any information in his power.

Commissioner Atkins, reviewing the circumstances of the investigation made of Agent Gregory in a letter to the Secretary of the Interior, under date of February 17, 1888, gives a brief résumé of the charge and findings.

A few words now as to Agent Gregory.

Mr. Gregory was commissioned agent at the La Pointe Agency April 30, 1885, being one of the first appointees under the present administration. He assumed charge May 19, 1885.

He has twice been investigated by special agents of this office with reference to his management of the logging operations upon the Lac Court d'Oreilles and other reservations under his charge; once upon charges preferred directly to the President by one B. Cornell, of Chippewa Falls, in the fall of 1885, and later, in April, 1886, upon statements made in the public press of Wisconsin, hereinbefore referred to. In both instances Mr. Gregory was fully exonerated and the administration of his office with fidelity sustained. (Reports of Special Agent Robinson, December 14, 1885, and of Special Agent Heth, April 16, 1886, on file in this office.)

Later, in 1887, certain Indians of the Fond du Lac Reservation, in Minnesota (also attached to the La Pointe Agency) complained to the Department that they were unjustly dealt with in being compelled to contract with one Patrick Hynes solely for the sale of the timber on their patented tracts at a fixed price of $5 per 1,000, thereby shutting out competition and in involving a loss to them in the aggregate of some $30,000.

Investigation of these complaints by an inspector of the Department developed the fact that they had been mainly instigated by one Coffey, a half-breed of unenviable notoriety, and some whites, for selfish purposes and to make trouble for the agent.

The inspector found that the industrious portion of the Indians were well satisfied with their sales, and that the dissatisfied ones were those who spent the most of their time in an adjoining town drinking whisky and leading a life of idleness.

He also found that the prices paid by Hynes—reported to be a man of excellent reputation—to the Indians were fair, and, as an evidence of the satisfaction of the Indians in their dealings with him, stated that at the date of his report more than double the number of Indians—as compared with the previous season—had contracted with Hynes for the sale of their timber to be cut during the present season. (Report of Inspector Thomas, September 29, 1887, also on file in this office.)

In another special investigation made by Inspector Gardner into the management of logging operations on the Lac du Flambeau Reserve (also attached to La Pointe Agency), the inspector found that all the contractors were dealing fairly and honestly with the Indians, and paying them good wages for their labor. (Report of Inspector Gardner, March 10, 1887, on file in this office.)

Pending Agent Gregory's administration the affairs and general management of the La Pointe Agency have been successively investigated by Inspector Pearsons (September 26, 1885), Inspector Thomas (December 9, 1885), Inspector Gardner (December 3, 1886), and again by Inspector Thomas (September 29, 1887), and their reports all bear testimony to the zeal, efficiency, and honesty of Agent Gregory in the discharge of his official duties.

In his report of September 29, 1887, Inspector Thomas says:

"Agent Gregory, who has had personal experience in lumbering and the cutting of timber, etc., has persistently protected the Indians in the making of their timber contracts.

"In thus doing his duty, his experience is that of most good agents—he has incurred the animosity of some people who think the Indians have no rights the agent should protect, and are constantly making trouble for the agent."

Within the jurisdiction of the La Pointe Agency there are no less than seven Indian reservations, viz, Red Cliff, Bad River, Lac Court d'Oreilles, and Lac du Flambeau, in Wisconsin; and Fond du Lac, Grand Portage, and Bois Forte, in Minnesota.

It is due to this officer of the Government, who has been so recklessly attacked in the report of the majority, to show to the Senate from the evidence before the committee his standing as a man and his capacity and integrity as an officer.

Special Indian Agent Heth, in a report under date of April 16, 1886, in referring to Agent Gregory, said:

It is not my business or purpose to comment upon the "manner in which it is alleged Agent Gregory's appointment was procured."—I can only say that his appointment was a credit to the party or parties procuring it, and shows wisdom and good judgment in the appointing power. It is only to be hoped that all similar appointments will be as good. Your informant in stating that the old and corrupt ring is continued, states what is absolutely false. No corrupt ring has existed, or now exists, or could ever have existed under the present "subordinates." When the clause was read and translated to the Indians that they had been "robbed and plundered and reduced to living on diseased horse flesh," this assertion on the part of your informant was met by a general burst of laughter.

The investigation has been conducted "on fair and impartial principles," and has been, as far as I am capable, searching and exhaustive in its methods.

I have diligently inquired and tried to find out who were the possible personal or political enemies of Agent Gregory in this community. I received from political foes and personal friends the same answer: "There is no man in our community who can impugn the honor or integrity of Agent Gregory."

And in speaking of the information conveyed to him by Mr. Gregory, that as soon as he was exonerated from certain charges, then being investigated he intended to resign his position. Agent Heth, urged the Department not to accept his resignation.

Indian Inspector M. A. Thomas, in a letter to the Secretary of the Interior, dated December 9, 1885, says: "Agent Gregory, who I am favorably impressed with as being 'the right man, in the right place,' is very anxious that the inspector should come here at a time when," etc., and in a letter to the Secretary of the Interior, under date of September 29, 1887, uses the following language in reference to him:

Agent Gregory, who has had personal experience in lumbering and the cutting of timber, etc., has persistently protected the Indians in the making of their timber contracts, etc. In thus doing his duty, his experience is that of most good agents—he has incurred the animosity of some people who think the Indians have no rights the agent should protect, and are constantly trying to make trouble for the agent.

Father Dugal speaks in the same terms of Mr. Gregory; while United States Indian Inspector Gardner, in a report to the Secretary of the Interior, dated December 3, 1886, uses the following strong language of indorsement:

The moral character of Agent James T. Gregory is good. I find him a man of extra and superior business capacity; he has push, energy, and good executive ability; is honest and industrious, and is using his best endeavors to advance the Indians under his charge towards civilization, honest industry, and self support.

Mr. Gardner is an old and experienced Indian inspector, a man of the highest integrity, and an earnest and zealous Republican. His value as a public officer was recognized by the Secretary of the Interior, in continuing his services to the Government to the termination of his term in July, 1888.

The following extract from the report of Indian Inspector Markham, in reference to the violation of the regulations, as he assumes, is a decided expression of his opinion as to those violations having been in the interest of the Indians, and the attention of the Senate is specially directed to it. It is as follows:

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 22, 1888.

SIR: In compliance with Department instructions of March 13 and 14, 1888, I proceeded to La Pointe Agency, Wis., and investigated the matters therein referred to, and most respectfully submit the following as my report thereof, together with the testimony of various witnesses taken in connection therewith, and other papers pertaining or relating thereto.

CONTRACTS AND REGULATIONS.

It is shown by the testimony that those provisions of the contract—form prescribed by the Indian Office—in respect to the quantity of timber authorized to be sold, and what was necessary to make the contract binding, have been disregarded by Indians, contractors, and loggers, and consented to by the agent in charge of said reservations. It is also shown that the instruction of the Indian Office prohibiting the employment of white labor to log on said reservations, except as therein provided, and prohibiting the sale of the timber, stumpage, have been disregarded with the sanction of agents in charge of said agency. These violations of the conditions of the contracts and requirements of the instructions, as aforesaid, began in 1883, and have continued each succeeding year. The testimony discloses the fact, which is admitted by the agents, that the Indians, with few exceptions, do not cut and bank their timber as stipulated in the contracts; that the work is done by the parties contracting for the timber, the Indians receiving an agreed price per thousand feet, stumpage, and that contractors have been allowed to employ such white labor as they desired to use in cutting and banking the timber, giving the preference to Indian labor when it could be had, and that they begin cutting the timber before the contracts are even approved by the agent, and instead of taking three-quarters of the merchantable timber, as stipulated in the contracts, from an allotment, it is all cut. But the testimony further shows that the Indians who sold the timber were largely profited by the non-enforcement of these instructions; that in permitting stumpage sales and the use of white labor to cut and bank the timber they were enabled to sell their timber-stumpage for much more than they would have received for it had the instructions been enforced.

Whilst I do not attempt to justify subordinates in acts of disobedience of orders or instructions from their superiors, yet if the best interest of the Indians is the object to be accomplished in allowing them to sell their pine, then it will be admitted from the testimony on this subject that, in permitting them to sell their pine for a stumpage price, and the use by contractors of white labor in cutting and banking the timber, resulted in large gains to the Indians. It is shown by the testimony that most of the Indians who cut and banked their timber, as provided in the contracts and instructions, came out in debt at the end of the logging season, and the few who did not had only small balances in their favor. I shall only refer to such testimony as will show whether the permitting of stumpage sales and the use of white labor in logging the timber has been to the interest or disadvantage of the Indians, and for your information on this point I respectfully refer to the testimony of David Dobie, pages 2 to 13 and 18, 19 and 25, C. H. Henry, Charles Patrick, Fred. R. Calligan, George W. Thomas, Edward Haskins, John B. Denomie, Andrew Gowan, M. W. McDonnell, Pat Hynes, and John McMahon.

The minority feel justified in leaving the uncalled-for denunciation by the majority to the fair and impartial judgment of the Senate, after having called their attention to the earnest indorsement of Mr. Gregory by those whose duty it was to pass judgment as to his personal character and his official capacity to discharge the important trust to which he was appointed.

We will only add that we concur with them, after considering the evidence in the examination before the committee, in the opinions which they have stated above. We do this the more cheerfully, as the evidence shows beyond any peradventure that he is a clean man; that no temptation presented to him during his occupation of this office has lured him from the path of rectitude, or caused a suspicion to exist in the mind of any fair-minded man that would create for a moment a doubt as to his integrity and honesty.

He avoided having any personal interest of any character or description in the logs cut from this reservation, and in this respect his administration differs from that of his predecessor, Agent Durfee, who was a stockholder of a corporation contracting with the Indians at the La Pointe Agency, and whose contracts he had, by reason of his official position, to approve.

This is not said by the minority with the intention of casting any reflections upon the honesty, integrity, and impartiality of Agent Durfee. His record as an official, found in the evidence before the committee, justify the expression upon our part of the opinion that he was a faithful public officer. We feel, however, that we are justified in calling attention to this fact as an additional evidence that the majority report, which so viciously and vehemently attacks another official, against whom not the slightest suspicion of personal advantage could be brought in the transactions of that agency, should be carefully weighed by those who are to pass judgment upon its statement before reaching a conclusion as to its correctness.

For the misconduct of Agent Gregory, and for the wrong done by him to the Indians, the Secretary of the Interior, Hon. W. F. Vilas, is also fully responsible and highly censurable.

Having shown that Agent Gregory has not been guilty of misconduct or of wrongs to the Indians under his charge, we might stop here by a simple denial of this unfounded and uncalled for charge contained in the report of the majority of the committee, but a sense of justice to a faithful, laborious, and honest public official demands that this unjustifiable attack on the personal and official character of Mr. Vilas shall be clearly, and at the same time firmly, exposed in all its revolting nakedness.

In the first place, there was no inquiry ordered which in the least involved him. The resolution of the Senate directed an investigation "into the method of allotting lands in severalty to the Indians upon the reservation; into the system under which Indians to whom lands had been allotted are allowed to sell the timber thereon, and especially to inquire whether or not adequate prices are secured to the Indians under such sales."

Mr. Vilas had but a short time before assumed the office of the Secretary of the Interior, and the inquiry related to matters arising wholly under former Secretaries, and with which he was not connected.

Nothing in the least degree affecting him, or calling upon him for answer, was therefore involved or suggested.

The Commissioner of Indian Affairs, under whom much of this business had been transacted, was promptly summoned before the committee and opportunity offered him for presentation of the facts and any explanations necessary to their proper understanding.

As the investigation progressed, a statement was made by a witness that the Superior Lumber Company, a corporation engaged in manufacturing lumber at Ashland, in Wisconsin, had been or was a contractor on the Bad River Reservation. This was of consequence only because Mr. Vilas was a stockholder in that company, but the manager of that company was called as a witness, and his testimony was so satisfactory that it was agreed by the chairman that it should stand as admitted and established, that the Superior Lumber Company had not been a contractor on said reservation, or been interested in any contract with any Indian on the said reservation, or in sawing lumber cut from the same. Thus the insinuation of any possible connection with the business by Mr. Vilas was entirely dispelled.

No other charge has been in any manner asserted or intimated affecting him by any witness, relating to any matter within the scope of the resolution under which the committee acted.

He has never been called before the committee, nor any intimation given him by it that any occasion existed for his attending, nor for his desiring to be heard.

Communications have been made to him by the committee, to which he has responded promptly. He has been constantly within a few minutes' call, and engaged in a public service than which none is more laborious or exacting of time and thought; yet, without a note of warning, without an opportunity to be heard, without a word of testimony, not only upon which such a charge can be based, but upon which a suspicion might fairly arise, the chairman of the committee submits a report which assumes as one of its conclusions that Mr. Vilas is to be held responsible for transactions of an official of the Interior Department occurring before he was connected with it, and that he is fully responsible and highly censurable for the irregularities assumed to exist.

The history of Congressional legislative inquiries records many which have been partisan in purpose, and sometimes unfair in methods. It will be hard to find one, however, which so flagrantly violates the primary purpose of all investigations, that the party attacked shall at least be notified and heard. Under such circumstances, in the last hours of Congress, when no chance of debate upon the floor of the Senate remains, to deliberately asperse the personal and official character of the head of an Executive Department, about to retire to private life, by insinuations so unfounded, and by assertions which, so far as the minority can ascertain, rest upon no evidence found in that record, is a thing so unjust, so unparalleled, as to appeal to every fair mind for the severest condemnation.

The admiration of the minority has not been excited by the past acts and conduct of the committee, and that its proceedings lacked nothing to prepare the mind for this arbitrary and oppressive act of injustice may frankly be admitted, and the conclusion reached is a fit consummation of its course during the last two years.

The proceedings of a committee of the Senate are supposed to be governed by the same spirit and principles that attend judicial inquiry and determination. To employ the power delegated to it by the Senate for other than public purposes and the furtherance of public interests is not only a prostitution of those powers, but it is their prostitution without excuse or palliation, and will in the natural course of things react upon those who seek to use them for other than legitimate purposes.

These remarks are not only justified by the course of procedure which has been followed during the investigation, but still more by the utter absence of any evidence upon which the assertions of the report might be founded. This investigation has been in progress for almost a year, yet what is there in the enormous mass of testimony and papers which has been printed that gives color to the conclusion announced by the chairman, and which he has incorporated with his report?

It appears that Mr. Vilas recommended Mr. Gregory to the then Secretary of the Interior for appointment as Indian agent in April, 1885. In no other way, in any aspect or manner, is there a single word of testimony from which even an inference can be drawn that he is responsible for the conduct of Gregory as such agent prior to his entering upon the duties of Secretary of the Interior. Not a witness has spoken of any act done or word said by Mr. Vilas upon any of these subjects during that interval of nearly three years during which the transactions took place which this report declares him to be responsible for.

Not only that, but in response to a resolution of the Senate the Secretary has stated that he had no knowledge of the transactions, nor who were concerned in them; and not a breath of testimony exists to the contrary. If the transactions were themselves reprehensible—and elsewhere it is shown that the report is unsustainable in its criticisms upon them—the attempt to link him with them is more reprehensible than the actions complained of.

The attempt to show that the Superior Lumber Company derived some advantage by contracts for Indian timber (which was the form in which for a long time it was sought to cast reflection upon Mr. Vilas) utterly failed. It failed so completely, that the chairman, under an agreement with the minority, made during the investigation, incorporated the fact in his report that this company never had contracted with an Indian, or was interested in any timber from the reservations.

This would have operated with any fair mind to prevent the renewal of this accusation, by insinuation or otherwise, but it would appear rather to have incensed the chairman of the committee, as if he saw with chagrin the innocence of any wrong in one whom he was determined to asperse, and accordingly in the same report in which he is constrained by his agreement to admit the agreed and accepted conclusion that the lumber company was entirely free from any connection with these logging operations, he couples with that conclusion two letters, which can possibly have no other significance than as tending to show that that company was concerned in contracts which one Kennedy had made, and which were proved to be entirely independent of it. Thus, while the report shows, as the conclusion of all the testimony, that the fact was otherwise, the writer, for purposes unknown to the minority, brings forward as important a fragment of evidence which has been so entirely and perfectly explained that the report acknowledges the fact. We ask, for what purpose was this done, except that suspicion might be excited by this unexplained letter, which suspicion, in the judgment of the minority, the evidence has removed. Those letters were fully and satisfactorily explained. By the agreement referred to they were virtually eliminated from this investigation. Under these circumstances we again ask, Why are they given such prominence? Does it not characterize the whole report and give color at least to the belief that they are still clung to and reproduced, in the thought that they may raise, unconnected with the proofs, the suspicions in other minds, that once rose to a degree of hope in the chairman's, that the fact on which this investigation was moved and conducted would be sustained by this testimony?

The injustice of this report is disclosed in another circumstance. Colonel Knight is the friend of Mr. Vilas, and the manager of the Superior Lumber Company. It is shown that never, directly or indirectly, was he interested in any contract or dealing with any Indian or with any Indian timber. Not one word of testimony connects him in the least degree with any person who had anything to do with any of these transactions, except that he recommended Gregory for appointment. He never was associated with any contractor, never dealt with one. He is as free from participation in any of these logging operations as any member of the committee. Why, then, is he made the target for the slurs and taunts contained in the report? Is it because that in his testimony he proved the utter groundlessness of the suspicions and hopes which had arisen, that the Superior Lumber Company had had something to do with the logging business, and so completely overthrew the accusation, that its falsity was and is confessed, and therefore he, too, is assailed, and charged with confederation against the interests of the Indians? Yet, strangely enough, all this was for no benefit to the confederates. Not one is directly or indirectly interested in any manner in any of the fruits of the iniquity that they were to successfully bring into fruition, and the only suggestion is, that it was all done "to enrich the favorites of Vilas and Knight.

The animus of this report is disclosed in the insinuation or fact that, when speaking of Colonel Knight, it says: "At one time a Republican, then a Mugwump, and then a Democrat." The gross injustice of this report, its recklessness of assertion, are peculiarly shown in this fact. It is charged that the contractors with the Indians were "favorites" of Mr. Vilas. Where is the evidence to justify this statement? It is shown that every contract was made, under which any timber has been cut, prior to the time when Mr. Vilas became Secretary, and while he was Postmaster-General. He has stated in a communication to the Senate, that until after that date he did not know who were the contractors. Not a word of evidence has been taken which in the least contradicts this, or shows the least action or influence on the part of Mr. Vilas in respect to these contracts. They were made by the Indians on the different reservations in the forests of Wisconsin, when he was absorbed by official duties in Washington. They were neither personally nor politically connected with him. Politically, 90 per cent. of them belong to the party opposed to the present administration. No sort of personal or business interest or connection with Mr. Vilas is shown in a single instance. In short, this reckless and unjust assertion has not only nothing in the evidence upon which to rest, but it is disproved by the evidence, so far as it throws any light upon the subject.

The statement that Mr. Vilas took charge of the matter, or of the Indian Office after Mr. Atkins went out, is unsupported by any evidence before the committee. On the contrary, the only action taken before Oberly's appointment as Commissioner was the letter of July 31, 1888, to the Acting Commissioner, which was in the nature of inquiry only, and no order or action for the completion of the contracts was taken until the 22d of October. The order will be seen to have been suggested by Commissioner Oberly in his communication of the 20th. An examination of this letter will show that it contemplated no action until full information was obtained, but Commissioner Oberly's letter to the agent of October 29, 1888 (Record, p. 1139), went much beyond that, and authorized new contracts "under the restrictions heretofore in force."

On the subject of the cutting of timber upon the reservation for the season of 1888-89, we file as part of our views the letter addressed by the Secretary of the Interior to the President of the Senate dated February 19, 1889, and which is as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, February 19, 1889.

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of the following resolution adopted by the Senate on the 6th day of February instant, to wit:

"Resolved, That the Secretary of the Interior be directed to inform the Senate whether or not he has recently authorized the cutting of any timber on the Chippewa Indian Reservations within the La Pointe Agency during the present winter season under contracts not approved by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs or otherwise; and, if so, to transmit to the Senate copies of all orders authorizing such cutting of timber, with a statement of the reasons for issuing the same," and in response thereto to transmit herewith copies of four communications addressed to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and bearing date, respectively, July 31, 1888, October 22, 1888, December 3, 1888, and January 29, 1889, which contain all orders given by me to authorize the cutting of any timber on the reservations mentioned during the present winter season.

In further reply I submit in the following statement the reasons for issuing these orders, as required by the resolution.

On the 13th day of March, 1888, I received, in a communication from the chairman of the Select Committee of the Senate on Indian Traders, a copy of a resolution adopted by that committee in these terms, viz:

"Resolved, That a copy of the evidence taken by this committee concerning the Chippewa Indian allotments and timber contracts be transmitted to the Secretary of the Interior for his information; that his attention be specially called to the testimony showing that extensive lumbering operations are now being carried on upon the Chippewa Reservations, under contracts not yet approved by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, by large gangs of lumbermen who are not Indians, in violation of the rules of the Indian Office, under which such contracts have been allowed to be made; and that the suggestion be further made to the Secretary that it is advisable that orders be given by telegraph to stop immediately the cutting down of any more trees upon the reservations under contracts with the Indians until further orders from the Department."

The inquiry of the committee began on the 8th day of March, and, until immediately before that time, my attention had never been given to the subject of the logging operations upon these reservations, having less than two months previously entered upon the duties of this office, and never in my previous life or business affairs having been led to know anything of these operations, the nature of the rights involved or the particular manner in which the business was conducted; so that, beyond the mere fact that logging was carried on, as for some years had been done, upon the lands of these Indians, I had no knowledge or information concerning the transactions, nor who were the persons concerned as contractors, what the terms of the contracts, the extent of the operations, or any of the circumstances connected with the matter. The information which the Indian Office possessed had already been given to the committee, and it was unable to furnish anything of importance beyond what was shown in the testimony taken by the committee during the previous five days, and then submitted.

The further cutting of timber was therefore, in accordance with the suggestion of the committee, immediately and entirely stopped by telegraphic order, and I at once dispatched an Indian inspector of the Department with instructions to thoroughly examine and report the facts, not only in respect to all the matters suggested by the committee, but upon "every point which may be of interest or importance in connection with the subject." His report, with all accompanying papers and testimony, was subsequently furnished to the committee.

Subsequent inquiries and reflection have satisfied me that the order then made was a mistake, unjust and harmful in practical effect, and compensated by no sufficient, if any, resulting benefits. It imposed serious waste and loss, in some cases upon the Indians, and in others upon contractors. It left unfinished operations which would have been better finished then, and which required to be afterwards completed, in good business management, in order to relieve against loss and secure the best results from existing conditions. For this reason, roundly stated, authority was given in the orders mentioned to resume cutting, under certain modifications and restrictions to be mentioned, during the present winter. I submit in more detail the facts and the grounds for this conclusion.

The right to sell their pine timber is derived by these Indians from the fact that, under the treaty of September 30, 1854, with the Chippewas, allotments of 80 acres each have been made to various members of the tribes and bands therein designated, to whom, under order of the President, patents have issued conveying the fee-title, subject only to the restriction that the patentee "and his heirs shall not sell, lease, or in any manner alienate" the land patented without the consent of the President. To the extent of cutting and disposing of the standing timber this consent has been given through regulations which appear to have been first adopted by the Department in 1882, and under which logging operations have been carried on every year since. Assuming consent to be necessary for the disposition of standing timber when consent has been given, there may be question of the legal right of the Department to further interfere with the Indian owner's control and management of his property. Certainly, when the timber has once been severed from the land it is absolutely his, especially since the enactment of the act of February 8, 1887, in which it is provided that "Every Indian born within the territorial limits of the United States, to whom allotment shall have been made * * * under any law or treaty * * * is hereby declared to be a citizen of the United States, and is entitled to all the rights, privileges, and immunities of such citizens, whether said Indian has been or not, by birth or otherwise, a member of any tribe of Indians within the territorial limits of the United States, without in any manner impairing or otherwise affecting the right of any such Indian to tribal or other property."

One of the privileges and immunities thus given the Indian, as enjoyed by other citizens, must be conceded to be the right of control and management of property indisputably his own. How far even consent may be necessary to warrant the Indian citizen in disposing of his standing timber, especially if it be desirable to cut it in the way of clearing the land for agricultural uses, needs not to be considered so far as the present explanation is concerned.

The mode of sale was provided by these regulations and directed to be followed in all cases. A form of contract was prescribed to be entered into by the Indian owner on one side and some person purporting to be a purchaser of the logs, when cut, on the other, and by its terms this contract provided simply that the Indian to whom a certain tract therein described had been patented agreed to cut, in a good and merchantable manner, into logs of a prescribed length and size, from the merchantable pine timber upon three-quarters of the described tract, a stipulated number of thousands of feet, board measure, more or less, and deliver the same upon the bank of a river named for a prescribed price per thousand, which the other party agreed to pay in installments proportioned to the deliveries, the payment being guaranteed by an accompanying bond with sureties, the expense of scaling on the bank to be equally divided; the contract to be valid and binding only when approved by the agent and the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and not to be assignable.

Assuming this contract to represent the true relations of the parties, it appears plain that unless for some reason the agent or the Commissioner thought fit to discriminate between Indian owners, and deny to some the right to sell (either altogether or during a particular year), the only points in approving this contract requiring the supervising care of these officers on the Indian's account were the price to be paid for the logs when banked, and the sufficiency of the security for such payment. It is plain, also, that the price to be so fixed must depend principally upon the character of the logs which the pine then standing in the forest would yield, and upon the manner in which the logs should be cut and delivered; varying, perhaps, to some extent also accordingly as the delivery was made at a higher or lower point on the stream, whereby the driving to market would entail greater or less cost. The determination of this price required, therefore, in each particular case both expert and local knowledge—such knowledge as only the trained and skillful woodsman or "timber estimator" can obtain by going into the forest and carefully examining each tract of land, its circumstances, and location. This is obviously beyond the range of the usual powers of the Indian Office, and necessarily to be left to the agent practically, or to some special agent. This appears to have led to the usage which came to prevail of allowing cutting to begin and proceed every year without the Commissioner's formal approval of the contracts, in reliance upon the agent's approval.

This form of contract was delusive. However simple in theory, it has never, from the beginning, as now appears, represented the real relations of the parties in practical operation under it, and the circumstances of the business were such that it was practically impossible that this contract could be executed according to its terms. It would have been an unwise contract for the white owner of but a single 80 acres of land, unless himself a practical logger and provided with the necessary equipment. The Indian could not execute it directly, and never appears to have attempted it; but the form of the agreement has imposed upon him the risk, and apparently in many cases from the beginning the reality, of failure to secure the full value of the pine timber upon the land. To render these statements easily acceptable, and also to understand the action taken, require a view of the methods and necessities of the logging business upon these reservations.

The pine-bearing lands of these reservations lie in the deep forests of northern Wisconsin and Minnesota. These forests are heavily timbered with various kinds of trees, including maple, oak, birch, elm, poplar, hemlock, and balsam, as well as pine; and the pine trees are usually interspersed among others, and constitute but a small part of the entire body of timber upon a single allotment. It is said there are comparatively few tracts upon which the pine constitutes the greater portion of the timber. These forests are penetrated by small streams, tributaries of the larger rivers below which furnish the means of transporting or "driving" the logs from the forests to the mills, oftentimes far distant. The difficulty and cost of hauling heavy logs through the forests are such that, obviously, the price or value of the standing pine timber upon any tract will depend in considerable degree upon its distance from the driving stream.

The methods of logging requires also to be attentively considered. It is necessary that the operation should be conducted with every circumstance of economical management which long experience in these forests has taught the practiced logger; or otherwise it will happen, as is not infrequently the case, that the heavy rate of expense necessary to be supported will consume the value of the logs when banked. A camp must be prepared many miles from towns or settlements, and a suitable house built for the maintenance of many men during the winter, as well as a stable for the draught animals; roads must be constructed through the forest and to the driving stream, sometimes miles distant; teams of horses and oxen, vehicles for hauling, and the various implements of the business must be obtained, and provision of food for the camp secured; besides which, the engagement of the necessary labor, whether white or Indian, demands a responsible employer. The number of men in an ordinary camp ranges from twenty to a hundred, and the average expense for the winter of such a camp exceeds, it will be generally found, $10,000. The camp requires for successful operation several persons specially skilled in the business, besides a foreman and a cook, who command high wages; and, withal, a diligent and zealous management; all of which is shown in the testimony taken by the committee.

It hardly need be said that the capacity of the ordinary Chippewa is unequal to such requirements; at least, his capacity as limited by his want of education and inexperience in business affairs. Besides this, he possessed neither the necessary equipment of cattle and implements nor the money or credit demanded. It would require, in many cases, more than the value of the timber on a single allotment to provide the teams, vehicles, and implements requisite for a single camp. The expectation that all the Indian land-owners would so provide themselves for the purpose of logging their respective allotments could not be seriously indulged by one familiar with the nature of the business and the circumstances of the Indians.

It has resulted necessarily, from the beginning, that in actual fact the nominal purchaser of the Indian's logs was a practical logger, who, despite the form of the contract, was really employed by the Indian to cut and bank his timber, who managed the business, furnished generally the entire equipment, hired the labor, paid the expenses, and charged all the cost to the Indian as a part of the price stipulated in the contract to be given for the logs on the bank. If he conducted the business thriftily and accounted honestly, and the price for the logs was just, the Indian received all that could be fairly deemed his due for the timber on his land.

But the vice of this system is manifest. The Indian owner bears all the risks of poor management, accident, mischances of weather, overreaching, and whatever else may swell the cost of delivering the logs on the bank, subject only to the correction of the agent in supervising the final settlement. Freed himself from these risks, which are usually all his own, the logger is under a less incentive to thrift and industry, and the cost of the camp may well be expected to be somewhat more in proportion to product, and the net return to the land-owner somewhat less. Such considerations, open to reasonable forecast and approved by experience, compel all prudent owners of small holdings, who do not enjoy the paternal guardianship of Government, to sell their pine standing for its stumpage value, which the competition of loggers usually raises to nearly and sometimes beyond the market value of the banked logs, less the actual cost of cutting and banking them.

Indian labor exclusively, or nearly so, was required in the lumber camps by the regulations, even, apparently, if better and cheaper white labor was at hand. It was a rule of theoretic excellence, but practically, as will readily appear, it was at the cost of every Indian owner to whom the rule was applied. These Indians have not been bred to habits of industry, nor taught to subordinate their feelings and ways to the requirements of business. They could not but be expensive laborers when employed under a rule which protected them from competition; and it is said that they were sometimes willful in failing to continue at their work and in observance of the necessary requirements. To whatever extent the cost of production has been so increased in any case, the net return to the Indian owner was diminished under this contract; and his enforced contribution to the support and industrial education of others of his tribe has resulted from the exercise of authority which, if imposed upon white men, would be deemed despotic. Trustworthy witnesses state that the rule begets exorbitance in demand and indifference in work on the part of the Indians, and that better results to them in every point of view attend the practice of hiring the best and cheapest labor, leaving Indians and whites to the fair emulation which makes the former strive to be skillful, industrious, and faithful forest laborers, as they are entirely capable of becoming under proper influences.

It has seemed to me that the better rule was to require Indian labor to be employed whenever it could be done fairly and without disadvantage. In fact such is the extent of business conducted throughout these forests, outside the reservations, that the demand for laborers of itself affords to the Indian abundant opportunity for employment; and it is well known to all acquainted with the facts that, so far as the Indian is willing to work, he is, in the winter season, abundantly provided with opportunities for it, and that these people avail themselves freely of such opportunities.

Another condition of this business requires notice, both as explaining a prevailing practice and as showing still further the difficulties which limit the Indian's own conduct of the logging operation. A logging camp can be most economically applied to cutting, during a single winter season, 3,000,000 to 5,000,000 feet, board measure, of logs, if within the neighborhood, and may be extended to almost double the quantity; while the average of a single allotment appears not to exceed, if to equal, 500,000 feet, and the agent says is only about 400,000 feet. It is plain, therefore, that it is to the advantage of the owners of different allotments in the same vicinity to employ the same logging camp, by which means the cost of equipment and roads is distributed and diminished to each of the several owners.

It also results from these facts and conditions that when a logging camp is established in the neighborhood of an allotment it becomes to the advantage of the owner of the allotment to avail himself of that opportunity to cut and dispose of all his pine; because if other owners thereabouts then dispose of theirs, and his is left standing, it would require a proportionately greater cost to establish and maintain a camp for the purpose of logging a single allotment only, and oftentimes the timber remaining might be of too small value to justify the separate establishment of a camp for that purpose. Consequently it has been the practice, supported by manifest reasons of advantage to the Indian owner, that the same logger has made contracts with the different allotment owners in the same vicinity, varying in number, naturally, according as there were more or less allotments accessible and according to the quantity of pine which they contained. The contractors who engage in this business must necessarily be possessed of considerable means, and are, with but few exceptions, men of integrity and ability, experienced in the business of logging. Sometimes the same concern may have more than one camp, and thus come to make a considerable number of contracts.

When cutting was stopped last March, so nearly as I can now discern the facts, there were employed on the reservations in Wisconsin, where alone has any cutting been authorized during the present winter season, some seventeen different loggers, firms, or companies, all of good repute, means, and experience, and some of them among the foremost citizens of Wisconsin in personal standing and character. It was wise in the agent to prefer such contractors for the Indians, so far as he did or could exercise any influence in their selection. They were all engaged by contracts in the form prescribed by the regulations of the Indian Office, and they were pursuing the business in substantial accordance with the methods which had prevailed during the previous year. All the contracts had been approved by the agent, but, as in former years, none had been indorsed, before cutting commenced, with the approval of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs. Yet it might well have been supposed, as it was, from the fact that the same course had been pursued for years with the knowledge of the Indian Office, that this point was entirely immaterial and unnecessary to the performance of the contracts. As to all these contracts for pine upon approved allotments belonging to the Indian owners, I have not been able to discover any good reason requiring the peremptory cessation of their execution which would not apply to every case of similar contracting during previous years.

The testimony taken by the committee and all the information at hand tend to show the prices named in the contracts to be as good as or better than in former years; that the business was being conducted in a similar manner and at least as economically, and with the promise of as fair results to the Indian owners. My judgment, already expressed in the last annual report of this Department, does not approve the method of disposition and contracting which the regulations required, because it fails to truly recognize and provide for the actual relations which the parties necessarily sustain, and opens an avenue to, if not almost allures, reprehensible abuses beyond the power of the agent to altogether detect or correct. But in March last, when the execution of these contracts was interrupted, the camps had been in full operation during the winter; much pine had been cut from the allotments under contract; the cost of building camps and roads and of the equipment for the entire winter had been incurred; the labor of many men engaged, and the logging operations were actively in progress, with the expectation of completing, during the month or more possibly remaining available, the work engaged to be done. Necessarily, the complete and unexpected suspension of further cutting imposed waste and loss, and, as I have shown, this could not but fall upon the Indian owners when settlements came to be made upon the basis of the contracts.

There appear to have been contracts made in some cases by Indians who had only selected or claimed for allotment lands under the treaty, and where the allotment had not yet been approved by the President. It is said that this has been suffered to be done for years, because, where the right of an Indian to an allotment under the treaty was clear, so that the subsequent approval would follow in due course of business, this would render the transaction but a beneficial anticipation of the legal title. Notwithstanding this, the contracts in such cases were clearly unjustifiable, because the Indian claimant was not yet entitled to a patent, nor authorized to contract. The official evidence of all allotments being in the Indian Office, these contracts might have been easily compared therewith, and should have been promptly disapproved for this reason, and the agent informed of it and instructed accordingly. On none such has any cutting been allowed by the orders for this winter, nor upon any, unless the Indian has either received his patent or it is due to him as if issued, because the President has approved the allotment, so that nothing remains to be done but to issue the patent, which has always been the rule.

A greater number of contracts was entered into for the cutting and disposition of timber during the last winter than before, and this seems to have been considered a point of serious criticism. It was, however, as it appears to me, a natural result, arising from the recent development of that region, which has been very great during the last four or five years through the completion of railroads, whereby it has been made accessible; from the improvement of driving streams; the construction of "tope" roads, by which logging could be conducted more easily; the building of mills much nearer to these lands, and the increase of settlements. Precisely the same conditions have affected these as other lands on which pine grows. It will be seen by examination that up to last winter the number of contracts regularly increased each year. It is the universal rule, apparently, that the owners desire to realize the benefits of their timber in money when the lands become accessible, so that the pine may be removed to the best advantage. This has caused the almost complete clearing of the pine woods of Michigan, and a very highly-increased activity and production in that region of country where these reservations are situated.

Indian land-owners are like others. They desire to realize the benefits which the money resulting from the sale of their pine will bring them—gratifyingly shown, in many cases, in comfortable houses, horses and wagons, implements of labor and the like, as well as in the disposition of the Indian and his family to support themselves by labor. If the business be well and beneficially conducted, and just results be secured, there appears to me no sufficient reason for denying or postponing to one family the enjoyment of these advantages which another with but an equal right is afforded the opportunity to possess. If it be a good thing for one Indian family to abandon the bark shack or wigwam and live in a comfortable house, it is equally to the advantage of others to do the same thing; and it would appear that the Indians, as a whole, were progressing accordingly as more, rather than less, families changed in this way their modes of life. It is also to be observed that, as already stated, the land upon these reservations upon which this pine grows is chiefly covered with hard-wood timber. It is therefore agricultural land, or at least capable of excellent agricultural uses when cleared of the timber. It is of no use to the Indian while the forest and the pine stand upon it. It is even a positive disadvantage to him, because it tends to continue the condition of life from which all the agencies of the Indian service seek to wean him. So far, then, from its being a point of criticism or disadvantage to the Indian or otherwise, in any respect, that many Indian owners were selling their pine, it appears to me that to whatever extent it was useful to any so to sell and dispose of their timber it was useful to all, and that the fact of a greater number of contracts only signified, provided they were fair in terms and fairly performed, that more Indian owners were realizing the advantages which had been sought for them by the regulations which authorized them to sell their pine at all.

The removal of the pine from the lands belonging to Indians in severalty is no more to be deplored, if they have enjoyed fair compensation for its value, than the clearing of the forests everywhere before civilized improvement. It might, of course, happen in some particular instance that, owing to special circumstances touching the Indian personally or his family, it would be unwise to permit him to sell. But as such circumstances must necessarily be ascertained by and known to the agent, his judgment upon that point would almost inevitably be accepted by the Indian Office. Nor does there appear to have been any point of objection of this kind to any of the contracts in question. It was too late, as it appears to me from these considerations, beyond all question, at the time when the cutting was suspended last winter, to apply the neglected regulation which required the approval by the Commissioner of contracts made for work upon lands belonging in fact to the Indians by allotments approved under the treaty; that, at that time, the status was practically established beyond recall without serious injury to the Indian, upon the basis of the contracts as made, and that all reasons which go to the best results to the Indian under that system of contracting required that, under the circumstances, the work should have continued until the winter's end accordingly.

They show, also, that all the losses which were in cases of this kind sustained, and can not but have been considerable, fell inevitably upon the Indian owners whose own contracts for the disposition of their own property the Government undertook to supervise, with superior wisdom, for their greater benefit; except only in such cases as the contractors, in reliance upon their right to proceed, had advanced moneys for the expenses of camps, roads, equipments, labor, or provisions, or sometimes to the Indians in anticipation of stipulated payments, in excess of the value of the logs cut on their allotments. This happened in many cases because, as already noted, the same logger contracted with many different allottees in the same neighborhood, and as the cutting was ordered with reference to the most profitable results, the work was in different stages of progress upon the various tracts, within the range of the camps, and upon some, perhaps, few trees had been felled at the time of suspension. The agent states that the aggregate advancements by the contractors to the Indians, in all such cases where an insufficient quantity of logs had been cut, amounted to $25,000.

The theory of the instructions follows naturally upon these facts. Complaints to the Department of the injuries sustained by and on behalf of both Indians and contractors were freely made, and demand was pressed for a determination of the course to be pursued during the current winter.

In all those cases where roads and camps had been built and the pine partly cut upon the allotments it is manifest the Indian would be a gainer by making use of them during the succeeding winter, when they would remain available for use with but small cost of repair. In others, where, in good faith, advancements had been made to the Indians upon fair contracts beyond the value of the logs cut, justice required, in view of the usages before prevailing, approval and performance. To elicit the necessary information touching these and other cases, the accompanying communication, under date of July 31, 1888, was sent to the Acting Commissioner of Indian Affairs, to which the response of the agent, under date of August 23, was received, which is also herewith transmitted. This communication was not transmitted to the Department from the Indian Office until the 20th of October, when the letter of instructions, dated October 22, 1888, was returned to the Commissioner; the purpose of which was to require consideration of such contracts only as had been made during the preceding year and the performance of which had been interrupted by the order of March 13, 1888, and to authorize the fulfillment of such of them only as were in all respects proper for approval.

Afterwards the Department received the communication from the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, under date of December 1, which is herewith transmitted, to which the accompanying communication, dated December 3, 1888, was returned. It remained the purpose of the Department to permit no new contracts, unless in some special case where the land was so contiguous to a camp established for the completion of existing approved contracts that it was especially desirable to secure the advantage for the Indian owner, and then only on such terms as appear to me most to his advantage. The Commissioner informs me that in fact, however, no contracts have been made except in modification of those previously existing, in accordance with the instructions given and the new form prescribed to give them effect; that all such modified contracts are upon reservations in Wisconsin, and all the logging operations thereunder are in fulfillment of contracts under which cutting was suspended in March, 1888. The form of amendment to the contract was such that the Indian was made secure of the stumpage value of his pine, while retaining all the rights before possessed, and the title of the logs was held to him until full payment.

It will also be noted that this letter dispensed with the former regulation, which required one-fourth of the pine timber upon each allotment to be reserved from cutting, by directing that upon every allotment under contract all merchantable timber be required to be cut which may be so situated as to be advantageously hauled and banked. This will in nearly every instance take all. The superseded regulation is a striking evidence of the valuelessness of a good theory in conflict with variant facts. The reservation of "one-fourth of the timber in a compact body intact" was explained to be made "for future use for fuel, fencing," etc. In point of fact, as before stated, the white-pine trees on these reservations stand almost invariably interspersed among forests of hard wood, which provide far better fuel and rails for fences, pine being of little value for the latter use, except after being sawed at the mill. Thus the reservation was nugatory for the purpose proposed. And the value of such a reserved body for future logging would be materially impaired, because the quantity so remaining upon an average allotment would be so small, that the expenses of establishing camp and making roads for its removal must seriously reduce the stumpage value or the share of the land-owner in the product. There is also a highly-increased risk of destruction by fire in consequence of the inflammable rubbish left after cutting out the body of the tree. The removal of all that may be conveniently removed ought, in wise management, to take place while the logging camp, established for the winter's cutting, is in full operation. In fact, however, the regulation was never respected, and cutting has ever been substantially as now directed.

After instructions given for this winter, upon one occasion in December the Commissioner of Indian Affairs verbally advised me that he had received a number of agreements in renewal and modification of contracts for the previous winter which remained uncompleted; but the subject was not otherwise particularly brought to my attention by the Indian Office, and it was supposed that, after due approval in all proper cases, the transactions of the winter were proceeding satisfactorily. Late in January, however, the Department was advised that all work of every sort had been suspended upon all reservations, because no approval of any of the contracts had been notified to agent, but yet logging had been commenced by the contractors, as in former years, without awaiting such approval. This action, and voluminous correspondence and papers upon the subject, were submitted to the Department by communications under date of the 26th and 28th of January, and after consideration thereof, the letter of January 29, herewith accompanying, was transmitted to the Indian Office.

Little need be added to what is therein and hereinbefore stated in explanation of the action suggested to the Commissioner. The point of uncertainty which operated to delay his approval was, as he has informed me, only the sufficiency of the prices stipulated to be paid, in respect to which he found himself without other information than was shown by the contracts themselves, and the agent's report. As has been before remarked, this point demands both expert and local knowledge, which it is impossible the Indian Office should possess independently of the reports of the agent, unless a competent special agent makes inquiry upon the ground. For that reason it would have been, perhaps, better, in view of the lateness in the season when the contracts were renewed, to have adopted in the beginning the rule for the winter which is in the last letter prescribed, that the work under the contracts should, if the contractor submits to take the risk, proceed subject to the Commissioner's modification of the price on approval. Thereby the business would sustain no loss by delay of work and sufficient time be afforded the Commissioner to pursue, by his special agent, whatever particular inquiry was deemed essential to safe judgment.

The necessity that the contractor should begin at the earliest possible time in the winter must be plain to whosoever considers the circumstances attending logging operations. It is an absolute condition of a reasonable performance of the contract. Delay increases the cost, diminishes the opportunity of completion, and, in many ways, puts in jeopardy the prosperity of the undertaking.

But, inasmuch as the work under these contracts was again in progress and but partially completed, the same considerations which demonstrate, as I think, the unwisdom of the interruption of the previous year apply with increased force; because the operations are now in progress under amended contracts which contain further stipulations and safeguards of benefit, and which are limited to the proper cases where the disposition of the timber ought to be made for the welfare of the Indians. And notwithstanding the work had again been begun before the approval of the contracts by the Commissioner, the circumstances render it too late to impose that requirement as a condition precedent to their execution during the present winter.

To again drive the contractors and their forces of teams and men from the woods, permitting them only to remove the logs already cut, and to impose on these the disproportionate share of the winter's expenses which they must so sustain, would be to practically finish the destruction of the prospects of the Indian land-owners affected of realizing substantial results from their timber. Moreover, the cost of every day's interruption diminishes the amount which they would otherwise derive. On the other hand, if the timber be cut and removed while the appliances for so doing in a fairly economical way are at hand, and the power is reserved to the Commissioner to see to it that the Indian receives in a fair price his full share of the product, the best result is secured which can be regarded as attainable in the circumstances.

No risk of failure to obtain the proper price which the Commissioner shall fix is undergone. The title to the logs remains in the Indian under the present contracts until payment, and delivery may be withheld from the contractor, either on the banks or in the boom, until the full sum proper to be paid is received.

These are the reasons, although but inadequately presented, which governed the issuance of the orders for the allowance of timber-cutting on the reservations in Wisconsin during the present winter, and which, with added reflection, approve to me the policy pursued as the best which was open to the choice of the Department.

It should be, perhaps, added that efficient measures have been taken to discover all trespasses committed and to seize the logs, if any, which have been unlawfully cut. There is no information, however, to lead to belief of any trespasses except upon the Fond du Lac Reservation, in Minnesota, during this winter.

The pressure of other duties and the necessity of some review of the papers and testimony have delayed the preparation of this communication beyond my expectation.

Very respectfully,

WM. F. VILAS,
Secretary.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE OF THE SENATE.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, January 29, 1889.

SIR: I have considered your letter of the 26th instant relating to the logging operations on the reservations connected with the La Pointe Agency, and have made such examination as I have found time for of the correspondence and contracts submitted by your letter of the 28th, received last evening. It appears that, in pursuance of the instructions of the Department under date of the 22d of October and the 3d of December last, a considerable number of contracts have been renewed or made between Indians owning approved allotments and various different persons engaged in the business of logging, stipulating for the conduct of logging operations on the respective lands mentioned in such contracts, and that in all cases these new contracts contain an express stipulation for the payment to the Indian of at least a certain assured price for the timber taken, leaving also a further margin of possible gain to the Indian of whatever may be secured beyond that, if anything, under the old form of contract.

Bonds have been given by the contractor in every case, also, as required, to secure the payment of the price stipulated absolutely to be paid. The price in every instance has been agreed upon between the Indian owner and the logger, and the agent, who is familiar with the business and the country, appears to have approved the price in every instance as reasonable and fair and to have stated reasons upon which his judgment is based. These contracts were all made with the design of being executed during the present winter, and, accordingly, it appears that the contractors made preparations, as they were bound to do, immediately after the execution of the contracts for the necessary work to fulfill them. The nature of the business is such that large outlays must necessarily be made by the contractors to accomplish the work. Logging camps have to be established in the woods, not unfrequently at considerable distances from the source of supplies; a considerable equipment of teams, tools, and material to be provided; logging roads in many cases to be cut; and a large number of men, many of them experts in the business, to be employed.

It is obvious that prudence requires the loggers to begin their work as early as possible, generally before the winter sets in; and that whenever they are delayed additional expense is caused. Whatever increases the expense of the fulfillment of these contracts diminishes the chance that the Indian may realize gains in addition to the stumpage value of the timber, which, under the new contracts, has been sought to be secured to him absolutely without risk. The consequence of delay under these contracts is one which therefore falls in part upon the Indian owner, and if such expense be much increased may be very heavily visited upon the logger under the new contracts which stipulate an absolute price for the stumpage to be paid to the Indians. It was with a view to this condition that the following quoted clause was inserted in the letter of instructions of the Department to you on the 22d of October, viz:

"Immediate consideration should be given to all cases of contracts existing, and approval of those which should be approved should be made at the earliest possible date, and instructions given to the agent in regard to the execution of the contracts, or the execution of so much as remains to be done for their full performance. The lateness of the season requires this to be done with the greatest expedition in order to prevent injury to the Indians."

This clause was introduced in view of the direction that the agent should be instructed to permit no cutting of timber to be done until you had considered and approved the contracts. It appears to have been the usage of the Indian Office during many years to impliedly, at least, allow the contractors to proceed after the contracts were made with the Indian owners and approved by the agent, without waiting for the approval by your Office. Necessarily this course had to be pursued by the contractors, unless approval was promptly made by your Office; and this becomes especially true when the contracts were, as in the present case, made late in the fall and even after the beginning of the winter. It appears from your communication that you have so far advised the agent of the approval by you of none of the contracts, although the period within which their execution could possibly be completed has now perhaps half passed away; and it appears further that, in reliance upon the expectation that these contracts which had been modified in accordance with instructions and their performance secured by sufficient bonds would be promptly approved, the contractors have not only perfected their preparations, but began cutting the timber in accordance with them. All this work has been stopped by your orders to the agent, because you have not yet notified him of your approval of the contracts. In his recent report, dated the 22d of January, the agent says:

"The contractors, with large and expensive outfits on their hands, have been compelled to wait over two months in suspense, their expenses eating up their profits and impairing their credit. I notified all of them what the instructions of the Department were in regard to cutting before contracts were approved, and more than that I could not do. Loggers can not commence to log the 1st of February and make any money, and relying upon the instructions of the Indian Office that Indians who owned timber could sell it, and knowing that they were cutting in good faith and were ready and willing to pay all the timber was worth, I presume they went on to prepare their roads and get the logs skidded ready for hauling when the snow would come. Very little hauling had been done, and most of the timber cut is still in the woods. The winter is an open one, and the order to stop hauling the logs already cut and skidded means ruin not only to the contractors, but also to many merchants and mill-owners in towns adjoining the reservation. Now is the most valuable time, for the snow is very light and likely to go at any time, and when once gone it will not come again. The logs left in the woods will become food for the worms and flames."

Generally speaking, these statements are probably well supported by the facts. Unless the operations contracted for under your orders can be conducted to completion during the present winter, not only will the Indians suffer much loss in being deprived of the gains they might otherwise make, but doubtless the distress of the contractors and parties involved will be serious. Under these circumstances, it seems to me that the proper course to pursue is to give immediate attention to the question of approval of these contracts. The explanations furnished by the agent, so far as I have been able to examine them, appear to be reasonable, and, if the statements made are true, the prices to be fair. I see nothing disclosed to awaken any suspicion in regard to the sufficiency of the price. There is great difference in the value of different bodies of timber, and the price is also necessarily much affected by the location of the timber, the distance from the streams upon which the logs may be driven in spring, and other circumstances affecting the cost of cutting and driving logs to market.

If, however, you entertain in any case a doubt as to the sufficiency of the price, upon which point alone I suppose the approval to be in suspense, since in all formal particulars the contracts appear to be in accordance with your instructions and to be sufficiently secured, I suggest that you send a competent special agent, at the earliest possible date, to the reservations, and direct him to make the necessary inquiries and report which will furnish such information as will satisfy you upon this point, and also upon any others in regard to which you may desire further information. If you have no special agent who is sufficiently acquainted with the subject, I will detail an inspector for the purpose. On this point I will thank you for immediate advice, so that no delay shall ensue.

Meantime, in view of the facts that the Indian owner, the party chiefly interested in a good price, has agreed upon the price mentioned in these contracts, respectively; that these Indians are generally well informed in respect to matters of this kind and watchful to secure good terms in their dealings, and that the agent has reported the prices named to be fair, and also in view of the facts that the winter is already so far spent, of the great outlays which have been made by the contractors, and of the serious consequences which must ensue from the interruption of the contracts, and of the loss which every day's interruption at this time causes, I think that the operations which have been begun in fulfillment of these contracts upon approved allotments, which belong to the Indian owner absolutely, should be permitted to be at once resumed, subject to your approval of the contracts hereafter, with such modification of the price, if any modification be found necessary, as may be demanded in your judgment. This course will relieve the present difficulty, will leave the title and possession of the logs still in the Indian and subject to the control of the office and agent, and appears to expose the Indian owner to no risk of injury, and to leave his rights still fully under the guardianship of your office.

Such an authorization must be limited to the fulfillment of the contracts mentioned in the instructions of the Department to you under date of the 22d of October and the 3d of December upon this subject, being such contracts only as have been made in accordance with the forms and instructions furnished by you and for timber only upon approved allotments.

If any cutting has been made upon any other lands or by any persons upon any lands not authorized by such contracts, the orders to stop it must be rigorously enforced. If, however, logs in any considerable quantity have been cut under such circumstances it would appear to be wise to allow them to be hauled to the banks for driving in the spring, being carefully and properly marked so as to determine and preserve their identity, if the persons who have cut them are willing to undergo the risk of the expense. This course is necessary to preserve them from loss for the Government if they prove to belong to the Government and no justification can be given to your office for the supposed trespass.

Your letter indicates no such cutting upon any reservation except the Fond du Lac Reservation. Upon this, a communication from you to Agent Gregory, under date of the 17th of December, indicates that at least nine contracts, with a contractor named Patrick Hines, are upon approved allotments, while other allotments have been approved which it seems another logger by the name of Gowan is reported to have some contracts upon. There appears reason to suppose that these persons have been cutting upon lands not contracted for or not allotted so as to be within the terms of the instructions. The extent to which this has been done does not appear, and inasmuch as the agent reports all cutting stopped upon this reservation, it seems best to wait report upon the facts before directing any special action in regard to that reservation.

It needs not to be said that proceedings to protect the interests of the United States and to punish violations of the laws should be taken by the Department of Justice, when occasion requires. But before this Department requests the action of the Department of Justice, it is usual and necessary to procure such information as will enable the Department of Justice to proceed intelligently. It is this Department which is provided with special agents and inspectors for the purpose of ascertaining the facts requisite to authorize the institution of proceedings, and when such facts can be ascertained and the names of witnesses secured, proper action will be taken. For this purpose the special agent or inspector who may be sent, under the previous suggestions in this communication, should be instructed to make the necessary inquiries.

A nomination is pending before the Senate of a person to be agent at the La Pointe Agency who is believed to be amply qualified for the duties of the office, and who is acquainted with the country and the business. I know of no special agent in the service who has any such qualifications as the present agent possesses; and, notwithstanding that agent's earnest request to be relieved, several times repeated, I doubt if the interests of the service and the Indian would be promoted by placing any special agent of your office in charge of that agency at this time. It may be hoped that the nomination pending will soon be confirmed, and that any inconvenience resulting from present conditions will be relieved thereby. The various reservations under the government of the La Pointe Agency are scattered, and each at considerable distance from the agency. Several of them are of large extent and substantially covered with forests. The Bad River and Red Cliff Reservations lie nearest to the agency, the first being some 8 or 10 miles distant, the second 20, by water. The Lac du Flambeau Reservation is about 50 miles distant; the Lac d'Oreilles about 40, and the Fond du Lac Reservation about 75.

The immediate care of the large reservations is in the hands of the farmers, and their respective situations render it difficult for the agent to give personal attention to the details of this business upon the ground. Necessarily he must rely upon the aid of the farmers. He appears to have communicated the instructions of the Office to the contractors and the farmers, and to have given effort and attention to secure action in accordance with those instructions. Action in respect to this matter will be deferred for a short time to await the disposition by the Senate of the nomination pending before it, which it is hoped will soon relieve the difficulty.

If there be any further matters requiring advice or instruction from this office, your submission of them will receive prompt attention.

The contracts and correspondence submitted to me are herewith returned.

Respectfully, yours,

WM. F. VILAS,
Secretary.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, July 31, 1888.

SIR: From the consideration which I have given the matter of sale of pine timber from the lands of Indians, I am satisfied that the regulations under which this important business has been conducted are not such as to secure to the Indians the full value of the timber cut and sold from their lands.

For the purpose of adopting proper regulations and making seasonable arrangements for the cutting of pine timber on Indian allotments, you are hereby directed to call upon the agent for the La Pointe Agency, Wis., to ascertain and report to your Office in time for the information to reach you not later than August 25 next, the names of the Indians to whom lands have been allotted, and who are in possession of their patents therefor, who desire to dispose of the pine timber, or a portion thereof, from their patented tracts, the character, condition, and probable quantity of the timber upon each of such tracts, and whether it is desirable and for the best interest of the respective Indian patentees that they should be allowed to dispose of their pine timber, and also whether as to any of said patented tracts the contracts made for cutting the timber therefrom last winter have not been completed, and if so, which of them, and whether it is desirable and proper that the completion of said contracts or arrangements, or any of them, during the coming winter should be permitted.

The agent should exercise care to prevent the Indian patentees from disposing of all the timber from their allotments. Enough should be reserved for domestic and farm purposes.

No timber will be permitted to be cut and disposed of under any circumstances from any lands except the tracts which have been allotted to Indians in severalty, and for which the respective allottees have received their patents.

Immediately upon the receipt of the information thus called for, it should be submitted to the Department for further instructions in regard thereto.

Very respectfully,

WM. F. VILAS,
Secretary.

The COMMISSIONER OF INDIAN AFFAIRS.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, October 22, 1888.

SIR: Referring to your letter of the 20th instant, accompanied by report of J. T. Gregory, Indian agent at the La Pointe Agency, and various sheets making tabular statement of contracts said to have been made during the year 1887 between various contractors and Indians on the Lac Court d'Oreilles, Lac du Flambeau, and Bad River Reserves, in Wisconsin, and the Fond du Lac Reservation, in Minnesota, all under his agency, I have to direct, at the present time, as follows:

(1) The agent should be immediately instructed to send to your office all contracts in his office, or within his control, which have heretofore been made between the Indians and any contractor, and he should be instructed to permit no cutting of timber to be done on tracts of land embraced in such contracts until you shall have considered and approved them.

(2) You should instruct the agent to furnish you with a correct description and all other necessary particulars of the lands reported as having been contracted, and which upon this tabular exhibit lack description or other features of identification.

(3) Advise the agent by letter of the several descriptions of land for cutting timber upon which contracts are reported as having been made which have not yet been allotted, or where allotments, if made, have not been approved, and instruct the agent to prevent all cutting of timber thereon until the allotments shall have been finally approved.

(4) At the same time direct the agent to give full particulars of what has been done by contractors in each case of reported contracts upon lands which have not yet been allotted, or where the allotments have not been approved, and in such full detail as to enable the office to have a complete view of all the facts and circumstances.

(5) These sheets show that many allotments have been approved by the President which have not yet been patented, although a considerable time has passed, in many instances, since the allotments received the approval of the President. Unless there be some reason not shown by your communication and report, the patents should be immediately issued in accordance with the information and approval.

(6) Immediate consideration should be given to all cases of contracts existing, and approval of those which should be approved should be made at the earliest possible date, and instructions given to the agent in regard to the execution of the contracts, or the execution of so much as remains to be done for their full performance. The lateness of the season requires this to be done with the greatest expedition in order to prevent injury to the Indians.

The lists are herewith transmitted for your use.

Very respectfully,

The COMMISSIONER OF INDIAN AFFAIRS.

WM. F. VILAS,
Secretary.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, December 1, 1888.

SIR: Referring to your communication, dated October 22, 1888, upon the subject of logging operations on the Chippewa Reservations attached to the La Pointe Agency, Wis., I have the honor to report that under date of October 29, 1888, I instructed Agent Gregory as follows:

"In cases where contractors were prevented from completing their contracts, by reason of office telegram of March 13, 1888, said contractors who so desire may be permitted to cut timber sufficient to complete their contracts, but each contractor must file a statement in due form that he was, by reason of said telegram, prevented from completing his contract, and a further statement of the amount of timber he was authorized to cut by the terms of his contract, and the amount necessary to complete said contract; this permission to be confined exclusively to tracts which have been allotted and the allotment of which has been approved by the President. The statements above required, with your approval indorsed thereon, should be forwarded without delay to this Department for consideration and approval.

I am now in receipt of a communication from Agent Gregory dated November 23, 1888, with which he transmits lists of uncompleted contracts between Joseph Allen, A. M. Sherman, C. H. Henry, and Cosgriff and Gilbert, and certain Indians on the Lac du Flambeau Reservation.

Each of these lists gives the name of the vender, the date of the contract, the description of the tract from which the timber was to be cut, the amount of timber the contractor was authorized to cut (in each case given as "all the pine"), the amount cut (in some cases given as "part" and in the remainder as "none"), the amount to be cut, and the amount advanced to the vender by the contractor.

Each of these lists is sworn to by the contractor, who also swears that he was prevented from completing his contract by reason of the telegram from this office of March 13, 1888.

Each contractor embodies the further statement in his affidavit:

"That the said lands are covered by a growth of pine and hard-wood timber, in which the hard wood generally predominates; that there is sufficient hard-wood timber on the said lands to answer all the demands for farming purposes and for timber for the improvement of such lands; that the same is more adapted and better suited for such use than the pine timber thereon; and the pine timber is more valuable to the Indian for the purpose of selling the same to be manufactured into lumber than for any domestic or farming use for which he can adapt the same; and that if a small portion of the pine timber was left on each such tract it would be in danger of destruction by fire, to which it is extremely susceptible; and it would also become comparatively worthless, because profitable logging can not be carried on where there is not a considerable amount of timber to be put in, as the expense of breaking roads and putting in a very small amount of timber would be more than the timber would be worth after being put in."

The contractors ask that they be permitted to complete each of their contracts during the present logging season, under the superintendence of the Indian agent, and that under such superintendence they may apply as part payment for the logs so obtained the amount which each Indian seller is respectively owing the contractor for advances heretofore made under such contracts.

To each list is attached the certificate of Agent Gregory, that he approves of the statement and all matters therein contained, and that he is satisfied.

"That full and proper settlement will be made in the case of each said contract therein mentioned with the said respective Indians, and that where a portion of the timber has been or is cut there is great danger of the destruction of the remainder by fire arising from and fed by tree tops and refuse left on the ground, and it is desirable in all such cases that the balance of the pine timber should be cut and the trees thereby saved in value to the said Indians respectively."

In a few of the cases included in these lists the lands have not been allotted, and in some cases no contracts are on file in this office.

None of the lands covered by the contracts have been patented, but, with the few exceptions above referred to, they have been allotted and allotments approved by the President, from the date of which approval the title is regarded as vesting, the patent being merely evidence of title.

I should not hesitate to permit contractors to complete such unfinished contracts in the accompanying lists as cover allotments approved by the President, but they have requested an important modification of their original contracts, and one which I do not feel authorized to grant without your special direction.

The regulation of the Department upon this subject, embodied in a letter to Hon. Angus Cameron, dated October 9, 1882, is as follows:

"The timber should not be cut to waste, and not more than three-fourths thereof on each tract should be disposed of, leaving one-fourth, as near as may be, in a compact form, for the use of the Indians."

All contracts are made for the sale of the merchantable timber upon three-fourths of an allotted tract, the boundaries or which are to be designated by the Indian agent.

In view of the request of the contractors for a material deviation from the regulations of the Department as well as from the terms of their contracts, the matter of allowing the completion of said contracts in the manner proposed is respectfully submitted for your determination and direction.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. H. OBERLY,
Commissioner.

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, December 3, 1888.

SIR: Replying to your communication under date of the 1st of December upon the subject of logging operations on the Chippewa reservations attaching to the La Pointe Agency, Wis., I have to say that I think the regulation of which you speak, by which the right of the Indian to dispose of his pine is limited to three-fourths of the amount on each tract, should be modified—and you are authorized to so modify it—that he may contract for the cutting, and the contractor may cut all the pine on an 80-acre allotment which is so situated with reference to the natural opportunities or the constructed roads for hauling and banking logs as that it will be most to the advantage of the Indian to have it entirely cut and no part of it left standing. Indeed, in all such cases, the contractor should be required to cut all the merchantable timber, including every tree which will make a log, the smaller end of which shall be 10 inches or more in diameter and of which one-third would be merchantable pine.

The contractor should be in all cases required to cut clean as he proceeds, so that he makes no selection from among the trees to be cut; but if any timber remains uncut it should be in a compact body and so situated as that in the future it may be advantageously logged. The contracts should be required to be in such form as to protect this right of the Indian to have his pine cut in a suitable manner, and if otherwise made, to be amended accordingly.

Where the allotments have been made and approved by the President, and nothing remains but the issuance of the patent, I do not think it necessary to deprive the Indian of the privilege of selling his pine the coming winter. But patents should be, as soon as possible, issued in all such cases.

It is already understood by your instructions to the agent that no contracts are to be made, and none to be completed if hitherto made, for any tracts of land which have not been so allotted and the allotments approved. Particular attention should be given not only to the price, to see that it is sufficient, but to preserve the title of the logs in the Indian owner until the full price is paid. This price should be paid before the log-rolls are broken in the spring, if possible.

If in any case it be necessary to drive to the boom, special permission should be obtained from the agent, and the rights of the Indian owner carefully preserved.

The agent should be instructed to the utmost care and diligence in the preservation of the rights of the Indian owners in all the particulars indicated and in whatever other point may appear necessary as the work progresses.

If any new contracts are made for cutting this winter during the coming season, I think they should be made so as to provide a clean sum to the Indian for the value of his timber standing, and not subject him to the risks of loss in any of the logging or banking operations. The stumpage value of the timber is a thing easily to be ascertained and much more safely to be estimated than the value of it subject to the risks of deduction by the cost of logging and banking. All such contracts should contain provision that the contractor shall employ Indian labor, on equal terms, in preference to others whenever suitable.

Very respectfully,

WM. F. VILAS,
Secretary.

The COMMISSIONER OF INDIAN AFFAIRS.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE,
La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis., August 23, 1888.

SIR: I am in receipt of your communication of the 1st instant, and replying thereto I have the honor to state:

First. It would be impossible to ascertain by actual inquiry of the Indians which of them desire to sell their pine in any reasonable time, as they are at this season widely scattered, and not one-fifth part of them are on the reservations, and I could not by August 25 visit them and get their views on the subject. But it is perfectly safe to state that every one of them is desirous of selling their pine.

Second. To report accurately the character, conditions, and probable quantity upon each of the tracts would require an expenditure of a large amount of money in the employment of expert and reliable woodsmen to survey the lands, note the topography, and estimate the timber; and it would take at least a dozen crews thirty days to do the work necessary to this information with accuracy.

But I can state generally as to all these lands: They are all heavily timbered with a mixture of pine (Norway and white), hemlock, birch, maple, oak, elm, poplar, and balsam. It is safe to estimate that on the allotments made and selected there is of pine an average of 200,000 to each 40 acres. Lumbermen look from large bodies of timber for that much of pine on an average, and it is a fair amount to rely upon.

Third. It is impossible for me to give an opinion as to each individual case as to whether it is desirable, and for the best interests of the particular Indian, to allow him or her to sell the pine timber on their respective allotments, as I am unable to see them and inquire into their necessities and conditions.

The business of logging on these reservations has been of great value to the Indians. Nearly all of them, where logging has been carried on, have abandoned hunting and fishing for a living. They have rapidly become accustomed to the customs of whites, and there is scarcely one who does not now look to the same means of supporting himself and family that white people do, and they will never return to their former modes of living. Probably not in the same proportion that the average white citizen would have saved the proceeds from the sales of their pine, but a large number have saved their money and wisely used it for permanent betterments.

Fourth. There are a large number of cases where contracts of last year have not been completed, and I inclose a list of such with the names of the Indians, descriptions of the lands, and the names of the contractors. On all of them the Indians have been paid for the timber actually cut, and on all of them advances have been made. These advances amount in the aggregate to at least $25,000, and the Indians should be required to make good these contracts. White men would be required by law to live up to their agreements, and no lower standard of right for the Indian's welfare should be applied to him. The contracts were entered into in good faith; the prices are all that the timber is worth under the circumstances, and more in most instances than they can get next winter, because it is evident that the lumber market will soon be depressed greatly, and there is every indication that lumber will be much lower than it was last fall and the beginning of this year. The price of lumber regulates the price of logs. All these contracts should be completed this coming winter.

Fifth. Whenever an Indian is permitted to sell the pine timber on his allotment it should include all sound pine trees on said allotment that will make a log 16 feet long and 10 inches in diameter at the small end.

All the pine left will in all probability be wasted and lost. There will be plenty of other kinds of timber left on the land for domestic and farm purposes.

It is a very rare case that all the timber is pine. I doubt if there is over forty on all the reservations of that character.

Sixth. If logging is not carried on the coming season there will be great suffering amongst the Indians, and the Government will have to feed and clothe a large number of them the coming fall, winter, and spring.

Seventh. The cause of the most serious loss heretofore in these Indian logging operations is the uncertainty as to the operations being allowed, and the delay in giving the authority. The loggers ought to know that the work will go on and where, as early as July, and all contracts should be closed before the 1st of October.

Very respectfully,

J. T. GREGORY,
United States Indian Agent.

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

In addition to the three general points relied upon by the majority, a number of questions have been suggested by the report prepared by the chairman, all of them in a spirit of grievance and complaint.

He speaks of the inequality of allotments as a subject that could be controlled by the agent,

That inequality existed there can be no doubt, from the fact that it would be almost impossible for every 80 acres to contain the same number of feet of timber when cut. The distance from the streams and the inaccessibility to it would also enter into its value, so of course some must be more valuable than others. The rule as stated by the agent in his testimony is, that each Indian is allowed to select his own 80 acres and to allow the first selection to control. Under this rule I understand there has been no dissatisfaction.

Complaint that exorbitant prices were charged for merchandise.

All licensed traders are required to sell under a schedule of prices approved by the Department, and the examinations by the Indian inspectors and special agents have shown that traders have adhered to the schedule prices.

What would seem to be within the boundaries of civilization an exorbitant profit would, under the risks and cost of transportation incurred by these persons, be regarded as a reasonable profit.

The only trouble in reference to this matter was before the suggestion made by Agent Gregory and adopted by the Department, which required all contractors to take out a special trading license. Prior to that those who were not acting under a license were under no obligation to permit the agent to examine into their transactions.

Now all who transact business upon the reservation are required to come under that obligation.

The report of the majority lays great stress upon the inadequacy of the prices received by the Indians for their timber. The evidence in the record is full upon this point, and shows that the value of the Indians' timber has increased yearly and that the prices received by them are fair and reasonable.

The report of the chairman asserts that the prices realized ranged from $1.50 to $2, and that, in his judgment, it should be $3.

The most recent report, that of Mr. Markham, states that the average price received by the Indians is $2.40, and that he regards the stumpage price paid as fair and reasonable. His report but sustains that of all others who have examined carefully into this subject.

We can not concur in the compliment passed upon Governor Pound, wherein the majority remark that he is entitled to the commendation of the Senate. He was in Washington as a paid attorney of the Indians, and, against the protest of one of the minority, was kept in the pay of the committee as a witness for eighty-two days, receiving therefor the sum of $246. The value of his assistance to the chairman in the investigation is of course unknown to the minority, but we are at liberty to suggest that the fact of his presence is shown by the mass of testimony which relates to personal and private matters, and which has caused this record to swell to such proportions.

There have been a number of complaints filed, as suggested by the report in the name of the Indians, but they have related mainly to the question of the allotment of lands and to charges against persons not employed by the Government, to questions of the boundaries of their reservations, and to liabilities of the Government growing out of past transactions; but none of them refer to the subjects investigated by this committee, except certain complaints filed on the 1st of March by Indians then in the city.

It is clear that that delegation did not come here for the purpose of laying the complaints that were filed on the 1st of March. The object of that visit is clearly stated in the contract signed by the chiefs, and by John C. Curran, and which shows that they left home as delegates, for the purpose of securing arrearages that are now due to them.

BAD RIVER RESERVATION,
Adanah, Wis., December 20, 1888.

We, the undersigned, chiefs and members of the Lake Superior band of Chippewa Indians, do hereby promise to pay any sum of money that may be loaned us to pay expenses of sending delegation to Washington to secure the payment of the arrearages that are now due us; and we further promise that when we receive our arrearages we will promptly pay what has been lent us. We, the undersigned, further agree that we will pay the above-mentioned money out any money that may be due us from the United States.

It might have occurred to some parties, after these Indians reached the city, that political capital might be made out of the questions arising in that section of our country, and they may have been induced for that and other reasons to prefer this complaint.

Since writing this report, the minority has received a petition sent to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, by the chiefs and head men of the Flambeau Reservation, opposing Senate bill 5883, and in fact indorsing the administration of the agent as to the advantage to them in the methods of the sale of timber as it has been heretofore conducted. It is as follows:

PETITION.

To the honorable Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.:

DEAR SIR: We, the chiefs and head men of the Lac du Flambeau band of Chippewa Indians, have been informed that the Department of the Interior proposes to change the present policy of allotments in severalty to one of selling the balance of said allotments of pine timber to the highest bidder, which we humbly pray the honorable Commissioner will use his influence to avert.

We implore the confirmation of the allotments already made and approved of by the farmer and Indian agent to date.

We pray you to continue the confirmation of allotments for the reason that one half of our band have already received the benefits therefrom to the extent of an average of over $1,000 each, from which they have built themselves comfortable houses, etc., while the remaining half are yet shivering in tepees, and are largely indebted to their friends who have realized from their claims.

The balance is a literal translation verbatim from the "Speaker" Medueosing.

"Here is how it is if it is as the Indian hears it. He can not his home; also his farm he can not. We wish to move forward the book in—work in and repeating of mind in (or intelligencé). Write to us now of what we tell you."

	WA-SUN-UN-I-BI	(his x mark).
	WA-BI-KE-KEK	(his x mark).
	BE-BA-MASH-I	(his x mark).
	OZA-WASH-KO-GI-ZHIG	(his x mark).
	A-CHI-GWON	(his x mark).
	BESH-E-GE-ZHEK	(his x mark).

Witnessed by Rev. Francis Spies, for many years missionary at Cass Lake, Winnebigoish, Red Lake, White Earth, Minn., and Odanah, Wis.; also Lac du Flambeau, also having a knowledge of their language equal to themselves in fluency of speech, with a critical knowledge of its grammatical construction. Also having a practical knowledge of farming and a thorough knowledge of Indian character, with the power to harmonize discord among them, with an unbounded influence over them.

In concluding this report we only deem it necessary to call attention to the bills reported by the majority at the last session of Congress. Senate bill 5883, as reported by the committee, is a condemnation of the system adopted by Commissioner Price and Secretary Teller, and if passed would be a legislative admission that the method adopted of disposing of the timber of the Indians had proved a failure. It virtually adopts the suggestion made to the Secretary of the Interior by Commissioner Price for the sale of all the timber land on the Indian reservations, and which the Secretary declined to approve.

Senate bill 5522, in the first section, adopts practically the regulations as to the right and power of persons to contract, but requires the patent to issue before the timber is sold. The second section authorizes the regulations to permit the patentee to either cut and bank his own timber or to sell it directly to the contractor at a stumpage price, and carries out the present regulations of Commissioner Atkins for the protection of the Indian in the disposition of the money he may receive. This second section can certainly not be considered a condemnation by the majority of the sale of stumpage where the price is reasonable and fair.

Senate bill 5883, if enacted into law, would be of no practical value whatever. Any allottee would express without hesitation a desire and intention to make his home upon the land allotted; he would gladly promise to cultivate it and to use it for grazing purposes, but as it only depends upon the desire and intention the allotment would have to be made where such intentions or desire was expressed by the Indian, and after once obtaining the patent he could either carry out his previous desires and intentions, or not, as to him might seem best.

After the reading of the report of the majority, and the preparation of the views of the minority, the majority determined to modify and eliminate certain expressions embodied in the report as first read and adopted. This has occurred at so late a period that the minority has found it impossible to entirely revise their report with a view to eliminate all reply to those portions of the majority report which have been qualified and modified. If, therefore, there should be found expressions of statements of fact in our report which apparently are not justified or called forth by the statements or language of the majority report, it should be understood that this is the explanation of such fact.

CHIPPEWA ALLOTMENTS OF LANDS AND TIMBER CONTRACTS.

REPORT OF THE PROCEEDINGS OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON INDIAN TRADERS OF THE UNITED STATES SENATE, UNDER AUTHORITY OF A RESOLUTION PASSED MARCH 5, 1888, DIRECTING AN INQUIRY TO BE MADE INTO THE METHOD OF ALLOTTING LANDS IN SEVERALTY TO INDIANS UPON THE COURT D'OREILLE, LAC DE FLAMBEAU, BAD RIVER, FOND DU LAC, AND OTHER INDIAN RESERVATIONS, AND INTO THE SYSTEM UNDER WHICH SUCH INDIANS ARE ALLOWED TO SELL TIMBER THEREON, AND THE PRICES RECEIVED FOR THE SAME.

WASHINGTON, D. C.,
Thursday, March 8, 1888.

The select committee was called to order by the chairman, Senator Chandler, at 10 o'clock a. m.

Present: Messrs. Chandler, Platt, and Blackburn.

The CHAIRMAN. I will read the resolution adopted by the Senate under which the committee is instructed to investigate the matters now before it.

IN THE SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES,
March 5, 1888.

Resolved, That the Select Committee on Indian Traders be directed to inquire into the method of allotting lands in severalty to Indians upon the Court d'Oreille, Lac de Flambeau, Bad River, Fond du Lac, and other Indian reservations in the northern portions of Wisconsin and Minnesota, and into the system under which Indians to whom lands have been allotted are allowed to sell the timber thereon; and especially to inquire whether or not adequate prices are secured to the Indians under such sales; and that for the purposes of this resolution the committee be authorized to exercise all the powers heretofore conferred upon the committee by the Senate.

Attest:

ANSON G. MCCOOK,
Secretary,

By CHAS. W. JOHNSON,
Chief Clerk.

The CHAIRMAN. I will also put into the record the following letter, dated March 5, 1888, addressed to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs:

COMMITTEE ON INDIAN TRADERS, UNITED STATES SENATE,
Washington, D. C., March 5, 1888.

SIR: The following resolution was this day passed by the Senate:

[Resolution was inserted here.]

The committee desire you to attend their meeting to be held in the room of the Committee on Territories on Thursday, March 8, at 10 a. m., and to state to the committee all the information within your knowledge bearing upon the subject to be investigated. You are requested to bring copies of such papers as may be necessary to show fully all pertinent facts; and also particularly to ascertain and state to the committee whether there are now in force any contracts of Indians for the sale of timber, and whether any timber has been cut during the present winter or is now being cut on any of the reservations mentioned in the resolution, and if so to give the particulars of such contracts and of such cutting of timber.

Yours, very truly,

WM. E. CHANDLER,
Chairman.

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

The CHAIRMAN. I will call Commissioner Atkins as a witness.

TESTIMONY OF J. D. C. ATKINS.

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, was then duly sworn by the chairman.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. Did you receive my letter of March 5, 1888, which has just been read?—A. Yes, sir; and I am here in response to it.

Q. The committee would like to begin at the nearest point of inquiry—that is, the last interrogatory of the letter, whether there are any existing contracts for cutting timber and whether any timber is being cut this winter on any of the reservations in question?—A. Yes, sir; there are some contracts that have been received recently, certainly only a few days ago, that have not yet been examined or approved. What they are I do not know.

Q. You have a list of those contracts?—A. Yes, sir; I have.

Q. Will you furnish that to the committee?—A. Yes, I will.

Q. Please describe the paper so that it may be identified.—A. It is designated by the following heading: "Timber contracts of the Valley Lumber Company with the Lac Court d'Oreilles band of Chippewa Indians, submitted February 25, 1888," containing the number, the name of the Indian, the date, quantity, and price per thousand. I can read it to you if you desire.

The CHAIRMAN. You may omit reading it, but state about how many there are.

The WITNESS. There are 55 Indians whose names are given here and the aggregate quantity of lumber put down is 5,575,000 feet. I have also here a paper headed, "Timber contracts of Dobie & Stratton with the Lac Court d'Oreilles band of Chippewa Indians, submitted February 28, 1888," containing the number, name of Indian, date, number of thousand feet, and price per thousand.

Q. How many are there on that list?—A. There are the names of 103 Indians. These papers have recently come into the office. It is proper to state that in regard to the contract of the Valley Lumber Company the prices range from $4.75 per thousand to $6.50 per thousand and in the contract of Dobie & Stratton the prices range from $5.50 to $7.75, the very highest that it has ever been sold for since I have been commissioner.

By Senator BLACKBURN:

Q. You are speaking now, Mr. Commissioner, of timber contracts that have been submitted but have not yet been acted upon by your office?—A. Yes, sir.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. You are speaking of these contracts which you submit?—A. Yes, sir; of the contracts of 1887-'88, brought in on the 25th and 28th of February last, those of the Valley Lumber Company being submitted February 25 and the contracts of Dobie & Stratton February 28, 1888.

The list of contracts referred to by the witness and laid before the committee is as follows:

Timber contracts of The Valley Lumber Company with the Lac Court Oreilles band of Chippewa Indians.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. I will ask you whether the list you have furnished covers all the contracts that you have received from any of the agencies mentioned in the resolution of the Senate?—A. Yes, sir; it does. My understanding is that those are all the contracts which have been sent in.

Q. What other agencies are there, except those specifically named in the resolution, where there have been allotments and timber contracts?—A. There is the La Pointe Agency, the agency at which Mr. Jennings is agent, and also the agency at which Mr. Gregory is agent. Mr. Gregory is the agent for the Court d'Oreille, Bad River, and Fond du Lac Reservations, and then there are other reservations there.

Q. Is there a reservation called the Saint Louis Reservation, on the Cloquet River, in Minnesota?—A. Not that I recollect. There are three agencies up there. Mr. Stevens is at Sault Ste. Marie. Mr. Gregory is at La Pointe, and I forget the post-office address of Mr. Jennings. I have not the register of it here.

Q. Have you any memorandum with you describing these various agencies?—A. No, sir; I have not. They are in the register of the Indian Office.

The CHAIRMAN. I have to request that you will kindly prepare a memorandum—not now, but for the next meeting of the committee—showing the correct name and location of all the agencies mentioned in the resolution, as you understand it, and also if there is a small map showing the location we would like it.

The WITNESS. I will do so.

Q. Is the Agent Gregory you refer to Mr. James T. Gregory?—A. Yes, sir. He is at Ashland, La Pointe Agency. Mr. Jennings, I think, is at Red Lake, and Mr. Stevens is at Isabella, Sault Ste. Marie.

Q. I understand you to say these are all the contracts in that region covering the years 1887-'88 that you are aware of?—A. Yes; all that have come in that I am aware of; and they have not been examined, for the reason that we have not had time yet to do so.

Q. I desire to ask you whether you have any reason to suppose that any timber is now being cut under these contracts?—A. I think there is; I think they are cutting timber.

Q. Under these very contracts?—A. Yes, I think so. They usually do cut the timber and send the contracts in in just that way.

Q. After the cutting of the timber has been commenced?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is it not a rule of the office that no contract shall take effect until after it is approved by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs?—A. The contract is made by the Indian agent; they begin and cut the timber; and the contract is sent down to the Commissioner and he approves it, but not necessarily before they begin to cut the timber. That has been the practice in the Indian Office always.

Q. Is this one of the blank contracts which are authorized to be used in such a case [handing a blank form of contract to the witness]?—A. Yes, sir; I have a copy of one here.

The CHAIRMAN. The one I show you is made for the La Pointe Indian Agency, Wis. I will put this into the record.

The following is the contract referred to and a copy of the bond required in connection therewith:

This agreement, made and entered into at the La Pointe Indian Agency, Wisconsin, this ____ day of _____, 188—, between _____, of _____, party of the first part, and _____ of _____, party of the second part, witnesseth: That the said party of the first part, having received from the United States a patent, subject to certain reserved rights vested in the President of the United States, to the _____ situated upon the _____ reservation, in the State of Wisconsin, agrees to cut, in a good and merchantable manner, into logs of the length of _____ feet, from the merchantable pine timber upon three-quarters of the said tract, the boundaries of which shall be designated by the United States Indian agent in charge of the above-named agency, and be incorporated into and become a part of this contract, and that none of the logs shall measure less than _____ inches at the small end, and to deliver _____ thousand feet, more or less, of said logs upon the bank of _____, to the party of the second part, for the sum of _____ per thousand feet, board measure, as scaled upon the bank by a competent scaler, who shall be approved by the United States Indian agent above mentioned.

Approved :

Reservation, Wis.

Commissioner.

By the CHAIRMAN :

Q. The last clause of this contract reads: "This contract shall be valid and binding only after having the approval indorsed thereupon of the United States Indian Agent in charge of the above-named reservation and the honorable Commissioner of Indian Affairs."—A. Those contracts are made by the Indian agent under the instruction of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs. He has always obeyed the instructions of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and this system has been in vogue, as I understand, always, in the terms of this contract.

Q. Please define what you mean by the word "always;" how long a period.—A. I mean ever since the cutting of timber began, back to 1882.

Q. Then by "always" you mean "back to 1882?"—A. Yes, sir; there was never any cut before that.

Q. That is the time when the cutting began on this Chippewa Reservation?—A. Yes, sir; that is my understanding of the practice of the office.

Q. Do I understand you to say that this form of contract has always been used since 1882?—A. I think so. If it has been changed I am not aware of it.

Q. And I understand you to say, then, that notwithstanding this clause in the contract it has always been, meaning since 1882, the practice to allow the cutting to commence under the contract before its approval by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs?—A. That is my impression. If that is not correct then I am misinformed.

Q. Have you any knowledge of any other contracts for cutting timber on any of these reservations, authorizing cutting during the present winter, which are in force except these, lists of which you have pre-duced?—A. I can not say that I have, although contracts have been made by Mr. Jennings of this other agency and by Mr. Stevens of the Sault Ste. Marie Agency at Isabella. I suppose that some contracts have been made by them, but I am not certain of it.

Q. Do you understand the contracts to be made for one winter only?—A. Yes, sir; for only one year.

Q. And to terminate at the end of the winter?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Therefore any contracts for cutting timber during the present winter must have been made especially for this winter?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. When you speak of contracts being made by these agents, do you mean that the agents are parties to the contract?

The WITNESS. How parties?

The CHAIRMAN. That they are contracting parties?

The WITNESS. I mean simply that the Indians make contracts with other parties by the approval of the agent.

Q. That is what you meant when you said those agents had made these contracts?—A. Yes, sir; that is what I mean. I supposed as a matter of course that you understood the contract was made between the Indians and the parties.

The CHAIRMAN. I did, but I wanted you to state it on your own account and have it appear plainly.

The WITNESS. I am glad to explain it. I did not mean that the agent made the contract; I simply mean that the Indian and the contractor make the contract and it is approved by the Indian agent and the Indian Office.

Q. And it goes into immediate effect and the cutting begins at once?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And that, you understand, has been the practice since 1882?—A. Yes, sir; I do not know of any change in that regard since they first began to "log," as they call it, which was in 1882.

Q. I will ask you whether the system which was adopted in 1882 contemplated that the cutting of the logs and the drawing them to the place of delivery, whether at the bank of the stream or at the mill, should be done by the Indians themselves who make the contracts, and that other men, white hands from off the reservation, should not be allowed to take part in the cutting; was that the system adopted in 1882 or not?

The WITNESS. I prefer to answer in my own way.

The CHAIRMAN. Certainly; you may do so.

The WITNESS. The stumpage system has not been encouraged since I have been in the Indian Office. Some white men necessarily have been employed, and were at the beginning, to teach the Indians how to cut timber and to bank it—how to haul it. But more recently the Indians have been doing the most of this work themselves and under the instruction of some man who probably was sent there by the contractor to assist them and aid them. But they cut the timber and do the work mostly themselves, and the object of the office is to have them do it in order to teach them to work and get them into habits of industry. Does that answer your question?

The CHAIRMAN. You may answer in your own way, and I will ask you another question if I am not satisfied.

The WITNESS. If I have not covered the ground I should like you to state it.

Q. I will ask you the question whether, as you understand, the system which was first adopted in 1882 contemplated that Indians, and Indians alone, should do the cutting of the timber?—A. That was the prime purpose at the beginning, that the Indians should do so. But when the logging system first began, as I endeavored to state to you before, some white men were allowed to assist them, and more white men were allowed to assist them in those days than at this time, because the Indians have learned more about it. But so far as the purpose of the office was concerned, as I understand it, in 1882 that was the object of the office, to let the Indians do the work mostly if they could.

Q. You may look now at the form of contract which has been put in and see whether it provides that the party of the first part (being the Indian) shall cut the timber and deliver it to the party of the second part?—A. Yes, sir; I think it does.

Q. Do I understand you then to say that that clause has been conformed to, or has it been departed from?—A. I do not understand that it was conformed to at the beginning, strictly. But we have conformed to it more strictly recently, at least that is my understanding, and those are the instructions which have been given. But at the beginning it was not so conformed to, for the reason I gave, that it was in the incipency of the work and the Indians did not understand it so well, and hence more white people were allowed at the beginning than now.

Q. Then I understand you to say that in 1882, after that form of contract was adopted and this system inaugurated, immediately others besides the Indians themselves were allowed to cut the timber, and that the contracts went into effect without being approved by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and the cutting began; do you make that statement?—A. I simply make the statement that I think so. That is not a matter in regard to which I have specifically examined the records, and therefore I could not positively say; but that is my impression.

Q. You may look if you please at this list headed "Abstract of logging contracts made by Indians of La Pointe Agency, Wisconsin, 1882-1887," and which was transmitted by the acting Commissioner, Mr. Upshaw, to Senator Dawes on November 21, 1887 (and which I put into the record), and state the date of the last contract which appears by that list to have been entered into.—A. It seems to have been March 7, 1887. Is that which you refer to [indicating]?

The CHAIRMAN. I think that is it. Will you please take that list to your office and have a supplemental statement prepared, bringing it down to date?

The WITNESS. I will do so.

This whole question is one of detail, which, in the infinitude of the official duties that I have to perform as Commissioner of Indian Affairs, has been a very difficult matter for me to understand in all its details. Hence I have relied upon the land division of the Indian Office for my entire information with reference to it and for the work which has been done with regard to it in the office.

The CHAIRMAN. It is perfectly well understood that you have not at your fingers' ends all the details of your Department, and it is my intention when I ask you any question about a matter of detail to give you an opportunity to ascertain the facts. In making this statement it will not be necessary to duplicate any contract you have already put in.

The WITNESS. You simply want all contracts from that date up to the present time?

The CHAIRMAN. Yes, not including those you have already put in.

The WITNESS. Very well, I will furnish them.

Q. Going back now, if you please, to the origin of this system, give what information you can, derived from the records, concerning this system of timber contracts.—A. As I said, under this order issued in 1882 for making logging contracts, instructions were sent out to the agents as a guide to them for the prosecution of the work.

Q. Give, if you please, the first letter of record of any kind which develops this system.—A. I will. Here is a letter from Mr. Durfee, the United States Indian agent at La Pointe Agency, written in 1882, in which he states in regard to his instructions from the Commissioner of Indian Affairs this—

The CHAIRMAN. You may read the whole of that and put it in the record.

The WITNESS. This is a circular letter written by Mr. Durfee, the United States Indian agent at La Pointe Agency; to parties who desired to cut logs, and this letter was sent out to all persons wanting to cut logs. It reads as follows:

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE,
LA POINTE AGENCY,
—, — 188—.

SIR: My instructions from the honorable Commissioner of Indian Affairs in relation to the sale of pine upon the Indian reservations are to the following effect:

Indians who have received patents for their lands will be permitted to cut and sell the timber from three-fourths of the tract patented, leaving one-fourth of the timber in a compact body, intact, for future use for fuel, fencing, &c.

They will not be permitted to sell stumpage, neither will white crews be allowed to do the work, but the Indians themselves must cut and sell delivered on the bank of a driving stream, lake, or at mill as may be desired.

The logs to be paid for from time to time, as may be agreed between the contracting parties, final payment to be made before they are removed from the landings. White men logging upon the reservation will be considered and treated as trespassers.

The scale will be by a party approved by the U. S. Indian agent in charge of the reservation, the scaler to be paid equally by the first and second parties to the contract. All contracts, in order to be valid and binding, must first be approved by the U. S. Indian agent and the honorable Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

I have blank forms of contract at this office which I will furnish if you desire to purchase pine from any of the parties authorized to sell.

Very respectfully,

W. R. DURFEE,
U. S. Indian Agent.

By Senator BLACKBURN:

Q. Who was the Commissioner of Indian Affairs at that time?—A. I think Mr. Price was Commissioner.

Senator BLACKBURN. I know he was.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. Is that the first writing on the records of the Indian Office which you find which discloses this system?—A. I think it is.

Q. Do you not find the instructions of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs to Mr. Durfee upon which that circular is based?—A. Those instructions may be among the records of the office, but I am not sure; I suppose they are.

Q. Will you look for them and see if you can find them—I mean Commissioner Price's instructions to Mr. Durfee?—A. I will do so.

Q. Have you brought here any other copy of the records of the office showing the way in which this system was to be conducted?—A. I have brought some memoranda here which will probably throw some light on the subject. Here is an extract from the report of Commissioner Price for the year 1884 which treats of the subject of logging operations by Indians at La Pointe Agency, Wisconsin.

Q. You are now going to give an extract from his report?—A. Yes, sir.

The CHAIRMAN. I am desirous that you should show this system first in your own way, and then if you desire to have that extract put in you can do so and we will have it read.

The WITNESS. I desire to say that I do not know of any departure from that rule of the office under my administration or that of Commissioner Price.

The CHAIRMAN. That I have understood you to say. But now I want you to develop the whole of this system as it appears on the records of the Indian Office, and also make such oral statement as you see fit. This extract from Commissioner Price's report may go in the record if you desire it; if so, please read it. But we want such papers as the records of the office show in relation to this system of timber contracts.

The WITNESS. I have a letter here which I will submit. It is a letter addressed by myself to Mr. Gregory, October 29, 1885, which I think gives all the information in the main that I have upon the subject, and the ideas are perhaps expressed in better terms than I could express them orally to you. I read the letter yesterday but had not read it before since 1885.

The CHAIRMAN. Before putting that letter into the record, I desire that you should, if you are willing to do it, give us the earlier records of the office. You have only given us now a circular letter from Mr. Durfee.

Senator BLACKBURN. I thought you asked that he should do that after a conference with his subordinates. I want that letter.

The CHAIRMAN. I will ask you the direct question whether you find, or your clerks have furnished you with, any specific regulations or instructions issued by your predecessor as to how this business should be done?

The WITNESS. I did not think the purpose of this inquiry was to have all the records prior to my administration touching upon this subject brought before you, and therefore I did not bring them. I suppose there are records which I can bring which refer to that period. I have brought this circular letter here because it was in accordance with that that we had been acting.

The CHAIRMAN. The resolution instructed the committee to inquire into the system, and you were requested to bring copies of such papers as might be necessary to show fully any pertinent facts in reference to the subject to be investigated, and then followed the particular inquiry, and of course you must have understood that the committee would want to know the origin of this system.

Senator BLACKBURN. I do not think it is exactly fair, Mr. Chairman, to hold the Commissioner responsible and ready to answer for the policies that prevailed prior to his own administration of this office. I agree with you that we will ask him to furnish us whatever information that office may afford as to the precedents and practices prevailing before he came in there. But under that letter of subpoena that you sent him, I do not think the Commissioner can be fairly held accountable here for answering to more than the policies and practices of the office since he came into it.

The CHAIRMAN. There might be force in that suggestion if he had begun with his letter of 1885. But he has gone back to 1882 and has brought in this little circular of Agent Durfee's, and when I ask for more records from the office he falls back upon his lack of knowledge of details.

Senator BLACKBURN. He says he will furnish them to you.

The CHAIRMAN. I understand. In other words, he adopts his own way of developing his testimony.

Senator BLACKBURN. Allow me to say right here, Mr. Chairman, that it seems to me you are suggesting complaint where it is not merited. The Commissioner of Indian Affairs is here in answer to a summons of yours, and he is here to answer for the conduct of the Indian Office since he took charge of it. Now you ask him as to what his predecessors did, and he answers very properly, it seems to me, and says that he has not come armed with that information, but that he will furnish it to you so far as the records of his office go.

The WITNESS. I will state to you how I came to refer to this circular letter. When your letter came over to me I instructed the chief of the land division to take the letter and get up all the papers, records, and documents that the letter referred to, so that I might have them and bring them with me for your examination. This circular letter of Agent Durfee's I never saw until the chief of the land division brought it to me, that I recollect. I may have seen it, but if I have I have no recollection of it. It was put with these other papers and that is the reason why I referred to it. I supposed you would ask me the question when this system began, and that was the first record that was made with reference to it that I have any knowledge of. But I suppose there are other records in the office, and that was not designedly brought by me. I found it in these letters and papers, put in there by my chief of division under my instruction to get up all papers that your resolution referred to.

The CHAIRMAN. If you are ready to answer the question, I will now repeat it. The reporter will please read the question.

The reporter read as follows:

Q. I will ask you the direct question whether you find, or your clerks have furnished you with, any specific regulations or instruction issued by your predecessor as to how this business should be done?

A. Nothing further than I have already stated.

Q. You do not find any formal or specific regulations?—A. I have not examined.

Q. Are you willing to answer the question whether you know of any such specific formal regulations in relation to these timber contracts?—

A. To say that I know that there are such I can not, because I do not now call them to mind, but I have no doubt that they exist. Now if you wish me to answer the question you put a moment ago I will try to do so, and that was to give my knowledge of the system.

The CHAIRMAN. I will ask you another question. Have you brought with you any copies from the records of the office anterior to this letter of yours of 1885 which you propose to read; if so, what?

The WITNESS. I brought nothing except the circular letter of Agent Durfee's and an extract from Commissioner Price's report of 1883-'84.

Q. Do you wish to put the Price extract into this record?—A. I have no objection; I think it would be well; I think it would throw some light on the subject.

The CHAIRMAN. It may go in, then.

Senator BLACKBURN. Let it go into the record.

The CHAIRMAN. Now you may read the Price extract.

The WITNESS. This is from the report of Commissioner Price for the year 1884. He says:

[Extract from Annual Report of Hon. H. Price, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, for 1884.]

LOGGING OPERATIONS BY INDIANS AT LA POINTE AGENCY, WIS.

Under the provisions of the treaty with the Chippewa Indians of Lake Superior, September 30, 1854 (10 Statutes at Large, 1109), over five hundred Indians have received patents for 80-acre tracts, variously located on the Lac Court d'Oreilles, Bad

River, and Red Cliff Reservations, and restricted against sale, lease, or alienation without consent of the President of the United States. Most of the lands patented are heavily timbered with pine. The Indians being desirous of turning the timber to account, authority was on the 23th September, 1882, granted by the Department for all such patentees to cut and sell the timber from three-fourths of the tract patented, leaving the remaining one-fourth of the timber in a compact body, intact for future use for fuel, fencing, etc.

The Indians were not permitted to sell stumpage, neither were white crews to be allowed on the reservations to do the work, but the Indians themselves were to cut and sell, delivered on the bank of a driving stream, lake, or at mill, as should be agreed upon with the purchaser. The logs were to be scaled by a competent person approved by the United States Indian agent, and scaling charges were to be paid equally by the parties to the contract. Payment was to be made to the Indian owner, from time to time, during progress of the work, as should be agreed upon between the contracting parties, final payment to be made before removal of the logs. The Indians were to be at liberty to make their own contracts, subject to the approval of the United States Indian agent and the Commissioner of Indian Affairs. Bonds were required from the purchasers in a sum sufficient to insure the faithful performance of the contract.

During the season of 1882-'83, forty-two contracts, prepared in accordance with form approved by the Department November 1, 1882, were made by individual Indians holding patents for lands on the Lac Court D'Oreilles, Bad River, and Red Cliff Reserves, variously calling for from 30,000 to 900,000 feet of pine, ranging from $5 to $6.50 per 1,000 feet. These, with accompanying bonds, were submitted by the agent and approved by this office. The result of these operations was in the main very satisfactory, the Indians for the most part coming out considerably ahead of their contracts, many of them at the close of the season being in possession of cattle, horses, sleds, household goods, implements, and in some instances considerable cash balances, independent of supplies furnished by the contractor.

During the season of 1883-'84 the operators were on a more extended scale, eighty-eight contracts, just double the number in the previous season, having been entered into and approved, independently of some cases, where, notwithstanding the vigilance of the agent, logs had been prepared for market by the Indians without the formality of a contract. The returns show that during that season over 48,000,000 of feet of timber were cut and banked, ready for delivery by the Indians, representing a money value of over $250,000. The result of these operations showing the net amount cleared by the Indian owners of the logs may be summarized as follows:

Lac Court d'Oreilles Reserve:

Cash balances paid to Indians after deducting supplies furnished by contractors	$32,466.40
Oxen on hand, value.....	2,585.00
Horses on hand, value.....	2,950.00
Camp outfits, value.....	4,640.00
Leaving (as the net result of the contracts made by 46 Indians).....	42,641.40

Red Cliff Reserve:

Cash balances paid to Indians after deducting supplies.....	1,190.13
Horses, wagons, etc., on hand	918.00
One house and lot.....	1,000.00
One house and lot, value not given
Leaving (as the net result of the contracts made by 5 Indians).....	3,108.13

Bad River Reserve:

Cash balances paid to Indians after deducting supplies (this being the net result of contracts made by 25 Indians).....	18,448.52
---	-----------

This, it will be observed, is independent of supplies with which the Indians were furnished and charged by the contractors during the progress of the work. The figures above given represent only the net gain of the Indians who made the contracts, while, as a matter of fact, all the available male adult population of the reserves were engaged in the work and derived their principal means of support therefrom. In his report accompanying these statistics, the agent remarks that the logging operations have generally been satisfactory to him, and he believes profitable to the Indians, both pecuniarily and as a matter of education, and although he considers that to sell the stumpage directly to buyers with authority to put in the pine with white crews would realize more money for the individual Indian owners, he still deems the present method, with some modifications, the best. By selling the stumpage, the Indian owners would get their money without labor; the remainder of the Indians would be left idle; in a short time the timber would be cut off and the Indians not having acquired the habit of labor, and naturally improvident, with money easily acquired, would be poorer and more dependent than ever. Owing to the want of knowledge of logging operations, caring for and handling teams, etc., by the Indians, the agent was at an early stage of the proceedings authorized to allow the employment of white foremen, cooks, and teamsters to a limited extent in the lumber camps.

That is what I had reference to; that at the beginning of the system more white people were allowed there than now.

He thinks the Indians have now had sufficient experience to dispense entirely with white labor, and recommends that hereafter white labor of any kind be dispensed with, except allowing a white contractor to employ a man at his own expense to see that the work is properly done according to contract. I have been induced to treat this subject at considerable length on account of the experimental character of the work. It has so far proved to be an experiment in the right direction, and I therefore think the benefit derived by the Indians pecuniarily and as a matter of practical education should appear on record, as some answer to the argument that the Indian will not work.

The CHAIRMAN. Now, if you desire, you can proceed to read your letter to Mr. Gregory.

The WITNESS. This is a letter which was sent to Agent Gregory by Acting Commissioner Upshaw upon the subject we are discussing:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, October 29, 1885.

SIR: Referring to your letter of the 7th ultimo, transmitting certain recommendations of W. G. Walker, Government farmer, in regard to the lumbering during the coming season on the patented lands of the Bad River Reserve, with your remarks and suggestions thereon, I have to say that in the absence of sufficient practical knowledge by this office on the subject, the matter of detail attendant upon the logging operations generally must be largely committed to your discretion and judgment, taking care, however, to keep within the line of the general instructions of this office at the outset, in 1882, as set forth in the inclosed circular of your predecessor.

In his report of June 29, 1884, accompanying statement of results for the season of 1883-'84, Agent Durfee, speaking on the subject of white labor, and referring to the fact that owing to the Indians' want of knowledge of logging operations, caring for and handling teams, etc., he had at an early stage of the proceedings been authorized to allow the employment of white foremen, cooks, and teamsters to a limited extent in the lumber camps, expressed the opinion that the Indians had then acquired sufficient experience to enable them to dispense entirely with white labor, and recommended that thereafter white labor of every kind be excluded, except allowing a white contractor to employ a man at his own expense to see that the work was properly done according to contract.

These views, as I am informed, were concurred in by the then Secretary of the Interior at a subsequent personal interview had with Agent Durfee here touching the general subject, but to what extent they were carried out in the operations of 1884-'85 does not appear. The theory of the Department being that the Indian shall be induced to labor, extraneous help of every description should be rigidly excluded, except where in your judgment it is absolutely necessary as a means of education to the Indians, and in such cases only the very best kind of help should be permitted, and only until such time as the Indians can get along without it.

I subjoin a few general suggestions for your guidance in the further prosecution of this enterprise.

(1) Heretofore there appears to have been considerable delay (probably unavoidable) in forwarding the contracts and bonds for approval by this office. They should be transmitted as early in the season as possible.

(2) No contracts will be approved by this office until patent has issued or the allotment has been approved by the Department. I observe by the schedule of contracts entered into during the season 1884-'85, transmitted by you on the 14th instant, that four contracts were made by Indians of the Fond du Lac Reserve aggregating over a million feet of timber, valued at some $8,000. These contracts were never submitted to this office, and I see by a letter addressed to you on the 26th May last, you were instructed that, pending verification of selections on said reserve, no contracts by the Indians thereof for the sale of timber on the allotted tracts for speculative purposes, under Department authority of September 28, 1882, should be entertained.

(See also on this subject office letter to you of the 28th instant.) I presume the contracts referred to were made before your accession to office.

(3) Care should be taken to see that the Indians do not contract for more timber than they can reasonably supply during the season, and each contract should terminate at the end of the season, or within a reasonable time thereafter.

(4) Contracts and bonds will only be received when on the appropriate forms. Bond must accompany contract in all cases.

(5) Some oversight should be exercised over prices of supplies, etc., furnished by contractors to the Indians, in order that the Indians may not be imposed upon.

(6) A plan should be devised whereby all claims for labor should be discharged before final settlement with the Indian.

(7) Precautionary measures should also be taken for the safe-keeping of moneys coming to Indians who are unable to take care of it themselves, and to prevent a recurrence of such cases as that of Moien and Shibagishigóqwa, as to whom I may observe that I await your further report.

(8) At the termination of the logging season a full report of operations and results should be made to this office.

Other questions will of necessity from time to time arise, but it is hoped that with your own familiarity with the business, and the experience the Indians have already had, you may be able to see your way clear to an economic and satisfactory prosecution of the work.

Very respectfully,

A. B. UPSHAW,
Acting Commissioner.

J. T. GREGORY, Esq.,
United States Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis.

By the CHAIRMAN :

Q. Have you brought with you any other documents which you desire to submit in answer to the letter sent you by the committee?—A. Yes, sir; I have a letter here written to Mr. Gregory by myself January 14, 1886, which refers to the prices of these logs.

The CHAIRMAN. I should be glad to have it put into the record if you will read it.

The witness read as follows :

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, January 14, 1886.

SIR: Referring to your several letters of the 29th ultimo transmitting for approval sundry logging contracts entered into by Indian patentees of the Lac Court d'Oreilles reserve with Dobie & Stratton, Donald McDonald, Thomas Gaynor, and Calligan Brothers, I find upon a preliminary examination of said contracts some variation in prices, thus: The Dobie & Stratton contracts range over $6, $5.75, $5.50, $5.25, $5; the McDonald, $6.25, $6, $5.75, $5.50, $5.25, $5, $4.75; the Gaynor contracts, a uniform rate of $5, and the Calligan Brothers $5.75 and $5.50. No explanation is given in your approval or letter of transmittal of this variance, and I do not feel justified in approving the contracts without further light on the subject.

I think it would be well hereafter if your indorsement of approval specified the quality of the logs contracted for, which is, I presume, what governs the price.

What is the ruling figure for logs this season, of all grades? In your letter of September 7 last, you stated that you considered $6 per 1,000 feet for No. 1 logs a fair price, and that you would endeavor to get as good a price as possible for the lowest grade. This, I presume, you have done, but there should be some evidence of the fact on record in this office before the contracts are approved.

Very respectfully,

J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

J. T. GREGORY, Esq.,
U. S. Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis.

By the CHAIRMAN :

Q. Have you any other letters to submit?—A. I brought with me such papers as I thought it probable would be in answer to your resolution.

The CHAIRMAN. If you have any other letters which you think should go into the record as explanatory of the subject we are discussing, you can read them.

The WITNESS. I have here a letter from Agent Gregory of January 25, 1886, addressed to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, which I will read:

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, Wis., January 25, 1886.

SIR: Replying to office letter January 14 (L. 88-1886-89-1886-90-1886)—on the Lac Court Oreille Reservation the logs are not graded but sold for a certain price per thousand feet, straight.

I consider the prices paid by Dobie & Stratton, Donald McDonald, Thomas Gaynor, and Calligan Bros. to be what the logs are worth, as considerable of them are being cut off land that has been logged before, and are of an inferior quality.

No. 1 logs are selling here at from $3.50 to $6 per 1,000 feet and No. 2 logs from $3.75 to $4.50 per 1,000 feet.

Very respectfully,

J. T. GREGORY,
U. S. Indian Agent.

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

The WITNESS. I have here also a letter written by Acting Commissioner Upshaw, addressed to Agent Gregory, dated August 24, 1886, which I will read:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, August 24, 1886.

SIR: I am in receipt of your letter of the 15th June last, with detailed statement of the lumbering operations carried on during the season of 1885-'86, on the Lac Court d'Oreilles, Bad River, and Fond du Lac reserves, respectively, showing a net gain to the Indian owners of the pine of $131,286.46.

I have carefully examined the statement, and apart from the fact that the price of logs during the season appears to have been rather low and the cost of banking somewhat high, the general results to the Indians engaged appear to be highly satisfactory, and such as to warrant, at all events, a present continuance of the undertaking.

I am especially gratified to know that, as a consequence of these operations, the Indians are learning to work; that a goodly number of them have not only accumulated money, but have fine horses, oxen, and other property necessary to complete logging and farming outfits; that many are getting good, comfortable houses, and that the general condition of the Indian communities is greatly improved.

You state that in making settlement with the contractors on the Lac Court d'Oreilles Reservation for last season's operations, you took $12,326.81 belonging to some old men and women, who were incapable of taking care of it themselves, and placed it in Sawyer County Bank, Hayward, Wis.; also $1,595.04 in Seymour's Bank, Chippewa Falls, for their benefit, permitting them to draw sums ranging from $5 to $10 per week as long as their money lasts, all checks of the depositors being indorsed by the Government farmer, and the banks being instructed, when the deposits were made, on no account to exceed the weekly limit specified. This, you state, insures these old people a good living for three or four years, whereas if the money had been paid to them in bulk it would not have lasted them three months.

Your action in this respect has the full approval of this office, and will serve as a precedent for future similar cases.

Referring to the conversation had with you whilst here as to the proposition to confine the contracts in the hands of the licensed traders exclusively, I have given the subject careful consideration, and have arrived at the conclusion that for various reasons it would be impolitic and injudicious to do so.

But I see no good reason why an outside contractor who furnishes an Indian with supplies, outfits, etc., in part payment for his logs, and thereby virtually, though in a limited sense, becomes a "trader" in the Indian country, should not, in all justice to the Indians and the regular licensed trader, be placed under the same restrictions as the latter.

The license in such cases should not be a general license to trade, but a special license to the extent necessary for the purpose only of fulfilling the contract and should terminate with the contract itself.

By this means the regular trader and the Indians would be protected, competition maintained, and all semblance of favoritism avoided. In short, all would be on an equal footing.

You will therefore require all persons other than the regular licensed traders desiring to contract for the pine and proposing to furnish supplies, etc., on the different reservations to the Indians in part payment therefor, before any such contracts are acted upon, to first conform to the regulations of this office (copy inclosed) respecting licensed traders, by taking out license, furnishing bond, etc., and being in all things subject to the restrictions imposed upon regular licensed traders. The number of employés at such trading establishments to be limited to the actual necessities of the case, and to be subject to your approval.

Renewing the instructions heretofore given in office letter of October 29, 1885, you are authorized:

(1) To regulate and fix the price, according to market value, of the different grades of pine below which no contracts shall be approved.

(2) To regulate the labor question, insisting that the Indians shall remain faithfully at their work during the logging season, at proper and reasonable wages.

(3) To regulate the question of white labor in the camps, using just as little of it as possible, and only where absolutely necessary, as in the case of a foreman or instructor, cooks and teamsters, holding all such to a strict observance of the intercourse laws and regulations.

In the case of the Lac Court d'Oreilles Reserve I understood you to say that little, if any, white help would be needed.

(4) To exercise a general supervision over prices charged by contractors for supplies of all kinds, seeing that the Indians are not imposed upon, under penalty of disallowances, revocation of licenses, and refusal to renew contracts.

(5) To see that none but reliable parties are permitted to contract, and that contracts are not made for purely speculative purposes.

(6) To approve such contracts only as are made in good faith, and where the beneficiary manifests an intention of improving his condition and conforming to the habits of civilized life.

(7) In case of beneficiaries being old or infirm, or otherwise incapable of taking care of their money, to see that it is deposited in some reliable bank to their credit, subject to the Indians' weekly or monthly draft, approved by yourself or the Government farmer in limited amounts for necessary subsistence, or in larger sums to pay for improvements.

Other suggestions of a minor degree for the better prosecution of the enterprise may from time to time present themselves to you, which, within the line of the general instructions given you, you are at liberty to adopt.

The blank forms for which you made requisition are now in the printer's hands, and will be forwarded you as soon as ready.

Very respectfully,

A. B. UPSHAW,
Acting Commissioner.

J. T. GREGORY, Esq.,
U. S. Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis.

The WITNESS. I have here also a letter from the Acting Secretary of the Interior, giving authority for continuing the supervision of these logging operations, which I think should go into the record, as it bears on this question.

Senator BLACKBURN. Shall it be read?

The CHAIRMAN. Yes; the subject is new to me, and I wish all the records.

The WITNESS read as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, October 21, 1887.

SIR: I have considered your communication of 18th instant in relation to logging operations on the various reservations under the La Pointe Indian Agency, Wisconsin, under regulations of the Department and provisions of the treaty of 1854 with the Chippewa Indians, and also presenting the inquiry as to whether under the provisions of the sixth section of the general allotment act of February 3, 1887 (24 Stats., 388), the Department will continue to exercise supervision over the making and completing of these timber contracts by the Indians, as heretofore, notwithstanding their status as defined thereunder.

In the consideration of this question you refer to the benefits to the Indians which have resulted from their timber cutting for the past few years, under regulations established in accordance with the instructions of the Department the example to the other Indians, and the necessity for some safeguards to be used in protecting their interests in the future to prevent their being defrauded in the disposal of their timber-

The views expressed by you as to the propriety of continued supervision over the logging operations on lands allotted to Indians have the concurrence of this Department, not only for the reasons set forth in your letter, but also to protect and preserve from waste the property for which the United States is, by the allotment law and the patent issued thereunder to the Indian, made trustee for a term of years.

The inclosures of your letter are herewith returned.

Very respectfully,

H. L. MULDROW,
Acting Secretary.

The COMMISSIONER OF INDIAN AFFAIRS.

The WITNESS. I have copies of the contracts which I told you were sent in. Probably I had better leave that—the list I refer to.

The CHAIRMAN. Those have already been put in. Are these all the papers you desire to submit in answer to the letter of subpoena?

The WITNESS. I have here some letters bearing upon the subject as I understand it, and I only regret that I did not understand, nor did the chief of the land division understand, that you desired to get the records of the office prior to the time of this administration.

The CHAIRMAN. I have no exception to take, now that it appears that the circular of Agent Durfee which you brought here was a part of your communication of 1885.

The WITNESS. Here is a letter addressed by the Acting Commissioner to the Secretary of the Interior, dated November 26, 1887:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, November 26, 1887.

SIR: I have the honor to transmit herewith two schedules of allotments, made to the Chippewa Indians of Lake Superior, on the Fond du Lac Reservation, Minn., certified by Agent Gregory, October 8, 1886, and June 10, 1887, respectively, one to said Indians residing on the Lac du Flambeau Reservation, Wis., certified June 13, 1887, and one to said Indians residing on the Red Cliff Reservation, Wis., certified June 14, 1887, all in duplicate.

Said selections were made under the provisions of the third article of the treaty of September 30, 1854 (10 Stats., 1109).

A portion of these selections were approved by Agent Gregory prior to the passage of the act of February 8, 1887 (24 stats., 388), and a portion subsequent to that act.

Action was delayed upon these schedules because it was expected that a special agent would be assigned to duty in time to complete allotments under the act of February 8, 1887, upon the Chippewa Reservations before the beginning of winter.

This, however, has not been done, and it is now represented that great hardship will result to the Indian allottees who have made arrangements for the sale of timber, supposing their allotments would be approved in time to enable them to enter into logging contracts. If these contracts are not approved, the Indians will also be deprived of the revenues heretofore derived from their labors in the logging camps.

In view of these facts, I have decided to approve the schedules under the treaty, there being apparently no legal objection to this course.

When the allotments come to be made under the act of February 8, the same tracts can be reallocated and, with the additional land selected, patented to the allottees.

It is not intended that patents shall be issued on these schedules, but their approval will enable the allottees to dispose of their timber under the rules and regulations heretofore adopted.

I have the honor to recommend that the schedules be laid before the President for his approval, as provided in the treaty.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. B. UPSHAW,
Acting Commissioner.

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. Give, if you can, the action which followed that letter.—A. These schedules were sent to the Secretary of the Interior and approved by him, recommended to the President and approved by him, and the Indians were allowed to cut the timber after the allotments were made.

Q. Can you give the dates?—A. No, sir; I do not know that I can.

The CHAIRMAN. I desire you to furnish the dates showing when the Secretary of the Interior recommended the approval, when the President made the approval, and when the agent was notified of the approval so that the Indians could make their timber contracts.

The WITNESS. I will do so. Here is a letter to Mr. Wall, who was appointed special agent, addressed by myself to him December 9, 1887.

The CHAIRMAN. That I would like to have you put into the record.

The WITNESS. That comes in in chronological order, and I had better read it now:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, December 9, 1887.

SIR: Under date of June 30, 1887, the President granted authority for making allotments of lands in severalty under the provisions of the act of February 8, 1887, and the treaty of September 30, 1854, so far as applicable, to such of the Chippewa Indians of Lake Superior located upon reservations in the States of Wisconsin, Michigan, and Minnesota as may be found ready, competent, and qualified therefor.

Under this authority you will proceed to the La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis., for the purpose of making such allotments in conjunction with Agent James T. Gregory.

The treaty with the Chippewas of Lake Superior and the Mississippi, concluded September 30, 1854, located the following reservations:

For the L'Anse and Vieux de Sert bands, in Michigan.

For the La Pointe band, and such other Indians as may see fit to settle with them, in Wisconsin.

For the other Wisconsin bands, a tract of land lying about Lac de Flambeau, and another tract on Lac Court Oreilles.

For the Fond du Lac bands, in Minnesota.

For the Grand Portage band, in Minnesota.

For the Ontonagon band in Michigan, and for that subdivision of the La Pointe band of which Buffalo is chief, in Wisconsin.

These reservations are known as the L'Anse and Vieux de Sert, La Pointe or Bad River, Lac de Flambeau, Lac Court Oreilles, Fond du Lac, Grand Portage or Pigeon River, Ontonagon, and Red Cliff.

Allotments have not been authorized on the Grand Portage, and the L'Anse and Vieux de Sert and Ontonagon are not included in these instructions.

The third article of the treaty provided that the President might from time to time, at his discretion, cause the whole of these reservations, or any of them, to be surveyed, and might assign to each head of a family or single person over twenty-one years of age 80 acres of land for his or their separate use.

He was also authorized to issue patents therefor, with such restrictions as to alienation as he might see fit to impose.

Under these provisions many selections have been made on each of the reservations included in these instructions and patents issued therefor, with the restriction that the land should never be aliened without the consent of the President.

The first section of the act of February 8, 1887, provides for allotments in quantities as follows:

To each head of a family, one quarter of a section.

To each single person over eighteen years of age, one-eighth of a section; to each orphan child under eighteen years of age, one-eighth of a section; and to each other single person under eighteen years of age now living, one sixteenth of a section.

The ages of the allottees on the 30th of June, 1887 (the date of the President's orders for making the allotments), determine the class to which they belong, and their ages should be given as of that date.

Allotments should be made in quantity as above, except on the Lac Court Oreilles, hereafter referred to.

Where persons have had 80 acres allotted to them under the treaty, and are now entitled to a larger quantity, they may retain the original allotment and select an additional tract to make up the full quantity, receiving a separate patent for such additional tract, or they may have the original tracts reallocated, in which case a new patent will be issued for the entire selection, which will supersede the patents heretofore issued.

It is believed that this latter course will be best for the Indians, as each person then holds all the land allotted to him by the same title, under the restrictions provided in section 5 of the act.

(1) You will allow the Indians to select their lands, heads of families selecting for themselves and their minor children.

(2) Selections for orphans will be made by yourself and Agent Gregory.

(3) Allotments should be made with reference to the best interests of the Indians, the choice portions of the reservations to be given them, and care taken to see that they have every possible advantage which the reservation affords.

(4) Every allotment should be distinctly marked with permanent monuments and each allottee (of sufficient age) should be personally shown the boundaries of the allotment selected by him, so that he will understand exactly where his land lies, and every possible means should be used to familiarize them with the boundary lines.

(5) The tracts given to each allottee should be contiguous if possible, but an allottee may be allowed to select a detached tract of timber land, if it be impracticable to include such land in a tract contiguous to the selection of farming lands (or vice versa), or for the purpose of securing an equitable division of water privileges, so that it may not be monopolized.

(6) Each Indian should be allowed to select his land so as to retain improvements already made.

Where the improvements of two or more Indians have been made on the same legal subdivision of land, a provisional line should be run dividing the land between them, as provided in section 2 of the act, unless an arrangement can be made between them by which the tract can be given to one of them.

This arrangement, however, must be satisfactory to all the parties.

(7) Indian women, married to white men, should be regarded as heads of families. The white husbands can not take allotments.

In all cases where Indian women have been married to Indian husbands and have children born of such marriages, but have been divorced from such husbands after the Indian custom, the mother should receive an allotment as the head of the family, and should be allowed to select land for her children, not under the charge of the father at the date of these instructions, if competent to do so.

(8) Where an Indian has a plurality of wives, the first wife should be regarded as the legal one, and the others allowed to take allotments as single persons.

Orphans are children who have lost both parents.

A person who has children or other persons legally or morally dependent upon him or her for care or support, and living in the same household, should be regarded as the head of a family.

It has been the practice, heretofore, in making allotments under the treaty, to submit the applications to a council of the Indians, and to allow the council to determine whether the applications should be allowed. This practice will be discontinued.

There are a large number of mixed bloods residing in the vicinity of the reservation who will doubtless apply for allotments for the sake of the timber.

In passing upon these claims you should require the statement of the applicant, under oath, supported by the evidence of at least two witnesses, that he is a member of the particular band of Chippewa Indians upon whose reservation he desires an allotment, or that his father or mother was a recognized member of such band.

While it is the desire of this office to apply the provisions of the act as liberally as possible, it is not considered just to the reservation Indians to permit persons with but a slight admixture of Indian blood, whose affiliations are wholly with the whites, to share in their lands.

Great care and discretion should be used in dealing with such cases, and only those admitted who are clearly entitled to a share in the lands of the reservations.

If applicants are clearly of Indian blood, but have never resided upon a reservation or been connected with the Indians in any way, they can select public lands under the 4th section of the act, so that no injustice will be done them, and the reservations preserved for those living upon them.

Within the Bad River Reservation there are certain tracts, designated as swamp lands, the title to which is vested in the State of Wisconsin.

While these lands are subject to the occupancy of the Indians, the United States can not grant a patent therefor to individual Indians. They should not, therefore, be allotted.

A schedule of these tracts will be forwarded for your information.

The Lac Court Oreilles Reservation does not contain sufficient land to admit of allotments in quantity as provided in the act, and allotments should be made thereon in quantity as follows:

To the head of each family, 135 acres; to each single person over twenty-one years of age, 80 acres; to each single person over eighteen and less than twenty-one years of age, 70 acres; to each orphan child under eighteen years of age, 70 acres; and to each other single person under eighteen years of age, 35 acres.

Heads of families will thus receive 35 acres in addition to the 80 heretofore allotted, while single persons over twenty-one will receive the same as heretofore.

Allotments in this quantity will necessitate the subdivision of a portion at least of the reservation into smaller tracts.

It is thought that it will not be practicable to make such surveys before spring, and work upon this reservation should be deferred until the last.

You will prepare a schedule of the allotments made (a separate schedule for each reservation), each family being grouped by itself and the relationship of each member to the head shown in the column of remarks.

For the purpose of identification, the age (on the 30th of June last) as well as the sex of each allottee should be given if possible.

Both English and Indian names should be entered upon the schedules, and great pains taken to write the latter especially distinctly.

It will save much trouble in posting the allotments in the tract-books if you can arrange them by sections and townships.

The law requires the schedules to be in duplicate.

They should be posted in the agency tract-books before transmission, or copies retained for that purpose.

The duplicate schedules should be certified to by you and Agent Gregory as being correct, and that each allottee is entitled to the lands allotted to him.

Your attention is called to the provisions of the act with reference to religious societies and organizations.

A supplemental schedule will be prepared and submitted by you for the action of the Secretary of the Interior, under the provisions of the general allotment act, showing the lands, not exceeding one hundred and sixty acres in any one tract, occupied upon each of the reservations of the date, February 8, 1887, of the passage of the law by any religious society or organization for religious or educational work among the Indians.

You will also note on the schedule all tracts occupied for agency and school purposes.

If desired by the Indians, you will issue to each allottee a certificate showing the lands selected, for which purpose blanks are herewith transmitted.

You will do such retracing of lines and re-establish such monuments as may be found requisite, employing a surveyor and the necessary assistants, who should be Indians in all cases where practicable.

For such persons you will furnish proper vouchers and subvouchers, and report the employes upon a "list of irregular employes."

Such expenditure without further authority must be limited to $1,000.

It is expected that you will exercise great care in the work, to see that the lands are divided as equitably as possible, and to the satisfaction and welfare of the Indians.

This is especially important in view of the large quantity of valuable timber upon the several reservations.

While the Indians have the right to make their own selections, their choice should be guided and controlled so that injustice will not be done to any individual, or one person permitted to enrich himself at the expense of others.

While making the allotments both you and Agent Gregory will make every possible effort to induce the allottees to locate permanently upon their selections.

The land is given the Indians for the purpose of cultivation and self-support, and it is expected that they will make use of it for this purpose and not merely for the purpose of selling the timber.

No opportunity to impress this upon them should be lost.

Certain schedules of allotments made by Agent Gregory have been recently approved by the President. A duplicate of each is forwarded for your information. These selections should be re-allotted to the same parties and included in the schedules of allotments made by you, as this course is necessary in order that patents may be issued therefor under the act of February 8, 1887.

Certain applications and complaints have been made to this office which will be hereafter sent to you with directions in each case.

Very respectfully,

J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

Hon. TOM. WALL,
Oshkosh, Wis.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. This letter appoints this agent to superintend, as the act requires, the allotments under the severalty act, and it alludes to the fact that allotments under the treaty have already been made by Agent Gregory to certain of those Indians, and that re-allotments are to be made under the act?—A. The reason of that is this: Under the treaty of 1854 heads of families were only allowed 80 acres of land, but under the severalty act they are allowed 160 acres; and the rule of the Department has been to allot to the Indians lands either under the treaty or the allotment act, whichever gave them the largest number of acres.

By Senator BLACKBURN:

Q. When was that policy adopted?—A. Since the passage of the severalty act.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. But does not the act of February, 1887, give in all cases more lands to the Indian than does the treaty?—A. No, sir; not in all cases. For instance, the treaty of 1868 with the Sioux Indians gave to each head of the family 320 acres.

Q. But I refer to the Chippewa Indians.—A. Yes, sir; I think it does in that case.

Q. So that after the passage of the severalty act in February, 1887, there could have been no occasion for approving allotments made under the treaty of 1854 with the Chippewa Indians, except to facilitate the Indians in making their timber contracts?—A. That was the reason given by Acting Commissioner Upshaw in his letter.

Q. But with the intention of having the re-allotments and the larger quantities of land given to the Indians under the severalty act?—A. Yes, sir; they have instructions to that effect, to make the addition up to the quantity which the severalty act gives them—from 80 to 160 acres.

The CHAIRMAN. You may proceed.

The WITNESS. Here is a letter from Mr. Muldrow, Acting Secretary of the Interior, to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, which I wish to put in:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, December 12, 1887.

SIR: The instructions prepared in your office for the information and guidance of the special agent appointed under the provisions of the act of February 8, 1887, and the agent in charge of the La Pointe Agency, Wis., to make allotments of land in severalty to the Indians upon the several reservations under charge of said agency, this day received with your letter of the 7th instant, upon the subject, having received the approval of this Department, are herewith returned.

The resident agent should be informed of the appointment of Mr. Wall as special agent under the provisions of the third section of the allotment act of February 8, 1887, to co-operate with him in making allotments to the Indians upon certain of the reservations under his charge, and that full instructions have been given in the matter in a letter addressed to the special agent, for their guidance in executing the provisions of the law.

Very respectfully,

H. L. MULDROW,
Acting Secretary.

The COMMISSIONER OF INDIAN AFFAIRS.

The WITNESS. Here is a letter addressed by myself to the Secretary of the Interior, under date of December 16, 1887:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, December 16, 1887.

SIR: Referring to office report dated November 27, 1887, I have the honor to transmit herewith two schedules of allotments made to the Chippewa Indians of Lake Superior on the Lac de Flambeau Reservation, Wis., certified by Agent Gregory, November 25, 1886, and December 29, 1886, respectively, and schedule of allotments made to said Indians on the La Pointe or Bad River Reservation, Wis., certified October 30, 1885, all in duplicate.

Said selections were made under the provisions of the third article of the treaty of September 30, 1854 (10 Stats., 1109), and were approved by Agent Gregory prior to the passage of the act of February 8, 1887 (24 Stats., 388).

Action was delayed upon these schedules because it was expected that a special agent would be assigned to duty in time to complete allotments, under the said act, upon the Chippewa reservations before the beginning of winter.

This, however, has not been done, and it is now represented that great hardship will result to the Indian allottees who have made arrangements for the sale of timber, supposing their allotments would be approved in time to enable them to enter into logging contracts.

In view of this fact I have approved these schedules, as in the case of those reported November 26, 1887 (they having been held for explanation of certain conflicts), and recommend that they be laid before the President for his approval, as provided in the treaty.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

By the CHAIRMAN :

Q. Can you give the dates of the action taken on that letter, as in the other case?—A. No, sir; I can not.

Q. Will you please make a memorandum to ascertain the date of the action taken in consequence of your letter of that date, including the Secretary's action, the action of the President, and the time when notice was given to the agents?—A. I will do so. I have here a letter dated December 17, 1887, addressed by myself to Agent Gregory, which I will read.

The witness read as follows :

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, December 17, 1887.

SIR: I transmit herewith, for your information, copy of instructions given Hon. Tom Wall, who has been appointed a special agent to make allotments of lands in severalty to Indians, for his guidance in making such allotments to the Chippewa Indians upon the several reservations under your charge.

You will co-operate with Special Agent Wall and afford him all the assistance in your power. The schedule of allotments upon each reservation, when made, should be certified by yourself as well as by the special agent.

One hundred blank allotment sheets have been transmitted to Special Agent Wall for use in making the allotments.

I have also transmitted 800 blank certificates to be given allottees should they desire the same.

Respectfully,

J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

JAMES T. GREGORY, Esq.,
Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Wis.

The WITNESS. The instructions given Mr. Wall, referred to in that letter I have just read, were contained in the following letter :

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, February 29, 1888.

SIR: I am in receipt of your communication, dated February 15, 1888, with which you transmit schedule of 173 allotments, made to the Indians upon the Fond du Lac Reservation, said schedule being in duplicate and certified by yourself and Agent Gregory.

From a casual examination, this schedule does not appear to meet the requirements contained on page 7 of your instructions, dated December 9, 1887, in that each family is not "grouped by itself and the relationship of each member shown in the column of remarks."

It is impossible to tell from the schedule submitted whether the allottee is a single person, and entitled to 80 acres, or the head of a family entitled to 160 acres. This should be stated in every case.

I also observe that none of the allottees are under eighteen years of age.

In all cases where allotments are made to the head of a family comprising minor children, such head should be required to make selections for such children.

Hereafter in making up schedules you will separate each family from the succeeding allottee by leaving a blank line.

Also, the name of the wife of the head of the family (if living) should be inserted with the family, for the purpose of identification hereafter, but such wife should not be numbered as an allottee.

The schedules are herewith returned for correction.

I desire to be kept fully advised of your movements, and of the progress of your work from time to time.

It is observed that you have as yet submitted no estimate for funds. It is desired that such estimate for the fourth quarter of 1887 and for the present quarter should be forwarded at an early day.

Very respectfully,

J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

Hon. TOM WALL,
U. S. Special Agent, La Salle Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis.

By the CHAIRMAN :

Q. I will ask you now whether those allotments of Agent Wall were any of them re-allotments of allotments made under the treaty with the Chippewa Indians, so far as you know?—A. I can not answer that question. I do not know, but I will make a note of it and ascertain.

Q. Have you now submitted all the documents you desire to place before the committee in answer to the general inquiry?—A. Yes; I have submitted all the documents that I have, except that here is an extract from my report for the year 1886, which I will submit, and also for the year 1887.

The CHAIRMAN. You may put those in.

The extracts referred to are as follows :

[Extract from annual report of Hon. J. D. C. Atkins, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, for 1886.]

LOGGING OPERATIONS BY INDIANS.

During the season 1885-'86, 178 contracts for the cutting, sale, and delivery of pine logs, under Department authority of September 28, 1882 (full particulars whereof will be found in the annual report of this office for 1884), were made by individual Indian patentees of the Lac Court d'Oreilles, Bad River, and Fond du Lac Reservations, attached to the La Pointe Agency in Wisconsin. Under these contracts the Indians banked 63,945,769 feet of timber, at prices variously ranging from $4 to $6.25 per thousand feet. The net gain to the Indians on these transactions was $131,231.46, of which $58,006.70 was taken out in merchandise and supplies, and the balance, $73,274.76, was paid in cash to the individual Indians. The agent reports that the general result of these operations is highly satisfactory; the Indians are all learning to work, are getting good, comfortable homes, and their condition is being greatly improved.

With some modifications in the manner of conducting the business, which the agent has been directed to make, there appears every reason to anticipate that the coming season's operations will be on a more extended scale, and will be still more beneficial to the Indians. White labor, except such as is absolutely necessary, is rigorously excluded from the reservations, and the Indian is taught to labor and permitted to reap the benefit of his toil.

[Extract from annual report of Hon. J. D. C. Atkins, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, for 1887.]

LOGGING BY INDIANS.

La Pointe Agency, Wis.—During the season 1886-'87, under Department authority of September 28, 1882 (full particulars whereof will be found in the annual report of this office for 1884), 294 contracts for the cutting, sale, and delivery of pine timber were made by individual patentees of the Lac Court d'Oreilles, La Pointe or Bad River, Lac du Flambeau, and Fond du Lac Reservations, severally attached to the La Pointe Agency, Wis. Under these contracts the Indians cut and banked 128,766,357 feet of timber, which was sold at prices variously ranging from $4.50 to $6.50 per 1,000 feet, according to quality. The net gain to the Indians, after paying all expenses of cutting and banking, was $273,461.42 (over double the amount realized last season), of which sum $102,285.03 was taken out in merchandise and supplies furnished by the contractors, and the balance, $171,176.39, was paid in cash to the individual Indian owners of the timber. Of these net gains—

Lac Court d'Oreilles Indians (as having a majority of the contracts) received	$177,944.95
La Pointe (or Bad River) Indians received	42,931.76
Fond du Lac Indians received	37,355.94
Lac du Flambeau Indians received	15,228.77
Total	273,461.42

The amount disbursed among the Indians for labor in cutting and banking was $452,953.15.

All who desire it have an opportunity to work, and as a consequence find themselves better fed, clothed, and housed than ever before. A majority of the Indians save their money and accumulate property, whilst some squander it; but the agent states that their general condition is greatly improved, and he anticipates still more beneficial results in the future from the force of example set by the more provident. The work has steadily increased from the commencement. Through it Indians have learned to labor who otherwise would probably have been idle, and the personal acquisition of money and property—the result of their own labor—can not fail to stimulate them to a higher degree of industry.

By the CHAIRMAN :

Q. That is all the documentary information you desire to submit?—A. That is I have with me.

Q. You may state now whether any complaints have been made to you that white men, other than foremen, cooks, and teamsters have been at work on these Chippewa reservations getting off timber.—A. Recently there have been.

Q. How recently?—A. Well, last week such complaints were made and possibly some of them were made before; I do not recollect.

Q. You do not recall any complaints?—A. No, sir; I do not.

Q. Do you recollect whether the matter has been called to your attention by any written complaints within the last three years?—A. There have been complaints of that agency, but what they were I do not recall now. But investigations have been made, two I think at least of that agency embracing any irregularity, no matter what; because when I send a special agent to an agency to investigate it the instructions are general and cover any irregularities which might exist. There have been two investigations at that agency and the agent's reports did not disclose any irregularities of any consequence.

Q. Or of any extent?—A. No, sir; that is my recollection.

Q. I want to know what impression, if any, has been made on your mind in reference to the charge that white labor was used there?—A. I want to say that very recently very many complaints have been made—within the last ten days or the last week.

Q. Excluding these, the subject has not made a serious impression upon your mind?—A. No, sir; it has not, in view of the investigations or the results of the investigations which have been had there; it did not make a serious impression on my mind.

Q. Have you ever, either in writing or orally, authorized any enlargement of the rule concerning white labor on the reservation?—A. I do not think I have further than is disclosed in my report and the letter which has been read here in your presence.

Q. If large numbers of white men have been taken on by those contractors either last winter or this winter, it is not known to you?—A. No, sir; it is not.

Q. Have complaints ever been made to you specifically of Dobie & Stratton that they have large bands of white men at work on the reservation—prior to the last ten days, I mean? A. I think so. I think it was with reference to that to some extent that those investigations were had probably.

Q. As to that charge?—A. I think so.

Q. But it never has come to your knowledge that any large number of white men have been employed by them?—A. I have not been under the impression until very recently that the regulations for the logging and cutting of timber have been materially violated and impinged upon in the prosecution of the work, nor have I believed it, in view of the results of these investigations, until lately. I do not know whether it is so or not. But when I got these complaints, which were filed last week, I ordered the chief of the land division to brief them as soon as possible and make a report of the matter to me, with a view of sending a special agent there to make an investigation, and I told him I wanted the most experienced and competent special agent that we have selected for that purpose. I gave that order to the Acting Commissioner and the chief of the land division last week.

Q. It has been suggested to members of this committee that Mr. Hynes, on the Fond du Lac Reservation, has two hundred men at work and that the majority of them are whites. Has that specific complaint been made to you?—A. Complaints were made of Mr. Hynes before, and that matter was investigated by an inspector, and my impression is that the complaints were not sustained.

Q. But have recent complaints been made against Mr. Hynes such as I have stated?—A. Yes, I think there were last week; I can not recollect about that.

Q. Have complaints been made that Sherman Brothers, traders and contractors on the Flambeau Reservation, have about one hundred and eighty men at work, and that, substantially, none of them are Indians?—A. I do not retain the names in my memory; I have all that in my office.

Q. That suggestion has been made to members of the committee and I call it to your attention in case you have not heard it.—A. I presume that complaints have been made to me in writing, because when these Chippewa Indians came to me and made their complaints last week I gave them an audience of two or three hours, but all that was said I can not recollect. But I stated this to them: Said I, in order to be accurate about this matter it is best for you to put down in writing all your complaints and lay them before me, and at the earliest possible opportunity I will have them investigated, and whatever irregularities exist I will endeavor to remedy.

Q. There are in Washington now Chippewa Indians to make complaints, are there not?—A. Yes; they are here now.

Q. How many of them?—A. There [indicating] is one, and there [indicating] is one, and there [indicating] is a white man who I suppose came with them. There are about seventeen of them, I think.

Q. They have laid their complaints before you?—A. Yes, sir; they did so last week.

Q. You may now state, if you please, what action you have already taken, if you are not unwilling to disclose it.—A. I have no desire to keep anything about it concealed. It is not usual, however, in sending an agent to investigate matters at an agency to give notice to the Indians that I intend to investigate certain matters beforehand.

Q. That is the reason I made that condition.—A. As I have stated, I have given this order to the Acting Commissioner and to the chief of the land division that I wanted these papers briefed, and I took them to my room and read them at night, as I could not get time to read them during the day as they are quite voluminous. I then gave this order to have the agency investigated just as soon as I can get a certain special agent that I want to send there who is a most thorough-going man, the most efficient man we have.

Q. Nothing has yet been presented to you to require you, in your judgment, to stop the cutting of timber on the reservation immediately?—A. No, sir; not in general. I gave an order the other day to stop the cutting of timber upon a certain piece of land because the title of it was in dispute; but not in general; no, sir.

Q. The case has not yet been so presented to you as to require you to take any summary action?—A. No, sir; because my chief of the land division has not been able to make a report and place it before me. We are so crowded with the inquiries of various members of Congress that, with the current work, we have not been able to get hold of it yet.

Q. I now repeat the question: Have you any knowledge, at this moment, of any contracts which authorize timber to be cut during this winter on the Chippewa reservations?—A. I have knowledge of those which have been sent down to me.

Q. You have no knowledge of any except those which have just arrived?—A. No, sir; I have no absolute knowledge, but I presume there are two, or three, or four, or that there are contracts made, but with whom I do not know.

Q. If the cutting of timber is going on now under contracts which provide that the contracts shall not take effect until approved by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, then that cutting is going on in contravention of the language of the contracts, is it not?—A. Well, it may seem so, but as I told you at the outset, my understanding of the matter is that this practice has been always pursued—at least pursued ever since the logging operations began.

Q. I do not ask you with reference to that practice, but I would like to get your opinion, if you are willing to give it, whether these contracts being made on these blanks, if cutting is going on this winter it is going on in contravention of the terms of the contracts?—A. I do not know it to be so.

Q. But if it is it is in contravention of the terms of the contracts?—A. If it is going on it would seem so.

Q. And in pursuance of oral relaxations of that contract?

Senator BLACKBURN. Made by whom; did you make any oral relaxation of it?

The WITNESS. No, sir; I did not make any oral relaxation of the contract.

Q. In pursuance of the practice which has grown up and which you think antedated the administration of your office?—A. That is my opinion; but I have given no oral relaxations to anybody.

Q. I will ask you this question: Whether it would not be advisable to direct the suspension of the cutting of timber in contravention of the language of the contracts and prior to the approval to such contracts by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs?—A. I will answer that by saying that if these papers which have been filed by these Indians shall present such a case as to make me believe that the cutting of timber would not be to their interests, and that there are any irregularities which are unjustifiable on the part of this agent, the suspension ought to be required.

Q. And to do you justice I am to understand you intend to make as prompt an investigation of the complaints as you can, with a view to action?—A. Yes, sir; that order was given last Thursday or Friday, a week ago.

Q. I will ask you now whether your attention has ever been called to the complaint that the contractors instead of obtaining the timber from three-fourths of the tracts allotted to each Indian in many cases cut the whole?—A. I do not recollect whether that has been so or not; I think not.

Q. The system as it appears of record in the Department, as you have already stated, contemplates that three-quarters may be cut off from the tract of each Indian, and that the other one-quarter shall remain in a compact body suitable for his domestic use?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. That provision has never been relaxed by you in any way?—A. Not that I have any recollection of.

Q. Either in writing or orally?—A. Not that I have any recollection of. If there is any such case I do not recollect it.

Q. And no impression has been made upon your mind of complaints of that nature?—A. No, sir; I have not any recollection of them, although such complaints might have been made and have escaped my recollection. But if they had been made to me, my opinion is I should have demanded to know why the rule was violated and why the timber was cut.

Q. I desire to call to your attention the possibility that that has been the result in these cases for such investigation as you may see fit to make.—A. I shall investigate that and everything else which is alleged to exist that is an irregularity.

Q. The CHAIRMAN (to Senator Blackburn). That is all I desire to ask Commissioner Atkins to-day. If you would like to ask him any questions you have the opportunity.

By Senator BLACKBURN :

Q. I want to ask you, Mr. Commissioner, whether you have made any change in the form of timber-cutting contracts since you became Commissioner of Indian Affairs?—A. If there has been any change I do not know it.

Q. You do not now recall any change which you have made?—A. No, sir; I do not. Of course it is a very difficult matter for me to know, as I said, all about these details. But I have no recollection of any deviation from the general system which was adopted before I went into that office.

Q. Well, then, do I understand you to say that so far as you can answer you are following the practices and the precedents that you found prevailing in the office in this regard as to timber contracts when you came into it?—A. So far as I believe and understand; yes, sir.

Q. I want to ask you, Mr. Commissioner, whether your purpose and your effort in this regard has been to employ the labor of the Indian to the exclusion of the white man?—A. Wherever it could be practically done.

Q. Is there any way, or are there any resources of information at your command, by which you can tell whether the cutting of timber was begun before the contract was approved by the Indian Office? I want to get the fact whether heretofore, since 1882, it has been customary for the cutting of the timber to begin in advance of the approval of the timber contract by the Indian Office.—A. It is my understanding that that has been the case all the time. I do not state it to be an absolute fact, but I believe it is a fact.

Q. Answer me this: Tell me whether you have made any change, and if so state what it is, since you became Commissioner of Indian Affairs, in the reservations in regard to letting timber contracts in those reservations?—A. None that I know of. If any change has been made it has not been brought to my attention; at least if it has I do not recollect it.

Q. I will ask you one more question. How do the prices for timber for this present season compare with the prices of former seasons; are they lower or higher?—A. Well, I think in some instances higher, a little.

Q. Can you give me an answer as to the average of this season compared with former seasons?—A. Yes, I have a memorandum here that I think will answer that question. Of course I can not carry those things in my mind.

Q. I do not ask for details?—A. I think these facts that I have before me here are embodied in the reports of the Commissioners of Indian Affairs which I have submitted here this morning. For instance, in 1882-'83 there were 42 contracts, and the price ranged from $5 to $6.50 per thousand. In 1883-'84 there were 88 contracts, and the range about $5.25 on the average. In 1884-'85 there were 76 contracts, and the average price was $5.50. In 1885-'86 there were 178 contracts, ranging from $4 to $6.25 per thousand. In 1886-'87 there were 294 contracts, and they ranged from $4.50 to $6.50. These are the last, except those sent in which have not been approved.

Q. In regard to those which have not been sent in and not yet approved, are they above or below that general average?—A. Of those of the Valley Lumber Company, I see but one below $5, and they range from $4.75 (and only one at that) up to $6.50 with the Valley Lumber Company. In regard to the Dobie & Stratton contracts—running over this hastily—I see none under $5.50. The most of them are over $6, some of them $7, and one as high as $7.75.

Q. Then the average price of these contracts furnished and unapproved as yet by the Department is higher than those of the preceding years?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. I understood you to say that these complaints about this reservation to which your attention has been called have come to you within the last week or ten days?—A. Yes, sir; you understood me to say that the complaints came last week—the most serious complaints. I have heard complaints frequently, and twice investigations have been had of that agency according to my recollection, but they proved to amount to nothing of any material consequence.

Q. These complaints have come to you before and you have ordered at least two investigations, and the reports made to your office satisfied you that the complaints were unfounded?—A. Well, they were not sufficiently serious to merit the recommendation of removal.

Q. Very well. Now, within the last week or ten days these complaints have been renewed?—A. Within less than ten days, I reckon.

Q. And the complaining Indians, I understand, got here about as soon as the complaints did?—A. They came with them, so far as I know.

Q. And on last Thursday or Friday you gave directions to have a report made and a statement prepared, in order that you may send another special agent there to make a third investigation?—A. That was my order to the acting Commissioner and to the chief of the land division.

Senator BLACKBURN. That is all I wish to ask.

By the CHAIRMAN :

Q. The figures of timber which you have been giving are the prices in the contract to be paid the Indian for cutting and delivering the timber?—A. For cutting and banking the timber; yes, sir.

Q. Has the specific complaint ever been brought to your attention that the contractors with the Indian having executed the form of contract turn around and make a contract with him that they will cut and bank the timber?—A. Sublet it, do you mean?

Q. No; that instead of the Indian's going and banking the timber the contractor himself will do it and charge the Indian a certain price per thousand, to be deducted from the contract price?—A. That may exist, but if it does exist I do not know it, and it is not the policy of the office to allow it.

Q. But no complaint of that kind has been called to your attention?—A. No, sir; I do not think so, unless in this recent complaint; I do not know about that.

Q. If such a system had prevailed, then of course the amount that the Indian would realize would depend not upon the sum named in the contract, but altogether upon what the contractor charged him for cutting and banking the timber, would it not?—A. I presume that would be true.

Q. And if such a system existed that would be a violation of the rules and regulations of the Department and an abuse?—A. I should so regard it; I should treat it as an abuse, yes, I would. But I do not know that that has ever existed; I do not think I have ever heard of it, although I may, for what I have heard and what I have not heard in the Indian Office is something that is beyond recollection.

Q. I am only asking for your impressions. But if any considerable number of white men are on those reservations cutting timber they must cut under some such a provision with the Indian contrary to the face of the contract, must they not?—A. I will say this: If there are any white men on the reservation cutting timber, it is without the knowledge of the Indian Office and would not have been allowed.

Q. And if they are there and doing this work it must be by a modification of the formal paper contract, must it not? They do not cut the timber for the Indian and pay the Indian the same price?—A. If they are there they are in violation of the orders and in violation of what the Indian Office understands to be the contract.

Q. I understand you, by way of repetition, to say that you have endeavored rigidly and in good faith to carry out the system that you found in existence when you came in that office?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you have not altered it to your recollection?—A. I have not. Allow me to say there may have been changes, but I do not call them to mind. I do not know whether there have been any changes or not. It is impossible for me to know, almost, unless my attention is called to it at the time and it should make a very serious impression on my mind. I can not recollect those things.

Q. Now about the agents. Mr. Durfee was agent and he was changed and Mr. Gregory took his place?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did Agent Durfee resign or was he removed?—A. I do not know.

Q. Have you made changes of other officers?—A. Yes, sir; all those officers were changed up there; that is, at Sault Ste. Marie the agent was changed and the gentleman who was agent there is now here as a member of Congress, and a man named Stevens is there now. Mr. Jennings also was appointed at the other agency in the place of some one. I do not know whether there were any removals or not; the record will tell.

Senator BLACKBURN (to the Chairman). Do you want that record?

The CHAIRMAN. I should like to have the Commissioner give all the changes, whether by resignation or removal.

By Senator BLACKBURN:

Q. One question and I am through. If any white men are engaged in this work of cutting timber on this reservation now, I understand you to say that they are there not by reason of any modification of the contract made by you, but without your knowledge or without the authority of the office?—A. So far as I know and believe.

The CHAIRMAN. Now if you will give us the original papers showing what this system was as established of record to-morrow, I should be glad to have it.

The WITNESS. I will do so if I can. I have had two or three clerks examining these records since I received your communication.

By Senator PLATT:

Q. I want to ask this question: In 1885 Dobie & Stratton, who I understand are traders at Court d'Oreille, had contracts approved for about 14,000,000 feet of lumber to be gotten off during that year. Now did it not occur to you that that was a pretty large amount to be gotten off by the Indians in one year?—A. Yes, sir, it did; and Dobie & Stratton made application to have no contracts made with anybody but them, and I refused to do it.

Q. Do you think it is a good system to allow the Indian traders to engage in these logging contracts?—A. I do not know, but any contractor we have put there has to be licensed and has to give bonds just as a licensed Indian trader does. All those persons who make contracts in regard to timber have to do so under license and bond.

Q. So that whether it be a regularly licensed trader or a contractor who is licensed to trade, the contractor pays the Indians largely in supplies, does he not?—A. Yes, sir; all contractors pay some in supplies and some in money, I think.

Q. Have you ever had any complaints from the Indians or from any one in their behalf that they were overcharged for the supplies furnished either by the contractor or the regular traders who were contractors?—A. I have no recollection of ever hearing anything of that kind.

Senator PLATT (to the Chairman). I understand, Mr. Chairman, that you have asked to have furnished whatever complaints have been submitted to the office, and a statement of what has been done in the way of investigating those complaints put in here, have you not?

The CHAIRMAN. No, I have not called for the complaints and the reports of investigating agents.

Senator PLATT. I would like what appears on the records of the office in the way of complaint and investigation and reports thereon.

The WITNESS. I said I thought there were two investigations. I know there was one, and maybe there were three.

The CHAIRMAN. I want to call your attention to an article in the Chippewa Falls Daily Independent of February 29, 1888, headed "Lumber news."

The article in question is as follows :

[From the Chippewa Falls Daily Independent.]

LUMBER NEWS.—LE DU FLAMBEAU RESERVATION.

I wish to make a few remarks through the columns of your paper. I am operating this winter on this reservation with 2 camps and employ 100 men. A. M. Sherman, of Eau Claire, has 6 camps and employs 300 men; Captain Henry, of Eau Claire, with 7 camps employing 350 men, making in all 750 men, and not one agent for the Sisters' Hospital of Chippewa Falls has called on us this year.

Every other hospital has been well represented by agents, and went away well pleased. Why is it that our hospital does not or at least has not sent out an agent in our direction?

Every one is at present doing a very thriving business at getting in logs, and if the winter holds good until April 1, the cut will not fall but 30 per cent. short.

J. T. COSGRIFF.

The select committee then adjourned until Friday, March 9, 1888, at 10.30 o'clock a. m.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Friday, March 9, 1888.

The select committee was called to order by the chairman (Senator Chandler) at 10.30 o'clock a. m.

Present, Messrs. Chandler, Platt, and Blackburn.

TESTIMONY OF J. D. C. ATKINS (recalled).

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, was recalled and further examined.

By the CHAIRMAN :

Q. Have you any additional papers to submit to the committee this morning?—A. I have a memorandum of facts here which I would like to submit in reply to some questions which I could not answer yesterday. Agent Durfee's term of service as Indian agent at La Pointe Agency expired, and Agent Gregory was appointed to succeed him. Mr. Andrews, the agent at Green Bay, was investigated, and was suspended for cause. No impeachment, however, of his integrity was shown. Mr. Jennings was appointed to succeed him. Mr. Allen resigned as agent at Mackinac, and Mr. Stevens was appointed to succeed him. That is in reply to questions I was asked yesterday, and which I could not at the moment answer.

Q. Were all three of the officers you have named on these Chippewa Reservations?—A. No, sir; I do not think Jennings or Stevens represented any of the Chippewas. Maj. Henry E. Hindmarsh, who is present this morning, is the clerk in charge of the timber department in my office. It may be that he can furnish the committee with information upon the subject which I do not possess.

You also asked me yesterday a question which I was not entirely able to answer. You asked me if there was any difference between this form of contract and the one under which contracts were made before my appointment to the position I hold, and I told you that I thought it was the same thing, and if there was any difference I did not know it. However, when I returned to the office I found that I had amended it at some time by inserting these words, "and shall not be assigned or sublet under penalty of annulment thereof." So that the whole clause reads: "This contract shall be valid and binding only after having the approval indorsed thereupon of the United States Indian agent in charge of the above-named reservation and the honorable Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and shall not be assigned or sublet under penalty of annulment thereof."

Q. The last clause was your addition?—A. Yes, sir; the words I refer to.

Q. When was that made?—A. I do not know whether it was made one or two years ago. Perhaps Mr. Hindmarsh can tell.

Mr. HINDMARSH. I can not remember when it was made, but I have the most positive recollection that it was made during the present Commissioner's time.

The WITNESS. I wish to state that in response to your request, I expected to call to-morrow and bring all those papers you asked for, but I found it was a physical clerical impossibility to do it. I am making up all the papers which bear on the case which involve any principle or involve any facts. There is a vast amount of correspondence, and, as a matter of course, mere details which would not amount to anything. But all matters which involve facts or principles I can get in time; but it will take time to get up such as you want. In the papers I brought yesterday I included what I supposed contained any material fact or material principle. There may be some few papers that I did not bring in yesterday that have been prepared and sent out since I came in, and if so, I will bring them too when I bring the others.

Q. In view of your statement just made I will ask you to expedite one or two special papers which were asked for. First, the list of contracts between the date of those which are in possession of the committee and the list furnished by you yesterday; and, also, any communication from your predecessor, showing the system of timber contracts and constituting rules and regulations for making them. Please furnish those, if you can, without delay.—A. I will, as soon as I can.

Q. I will ask you if you have taken any other action on the complaints of the Indians now in town, except what you stated yesterday?—A. The only action I have taken is this: This morning I telegraphed Agent Gregory to know whether there are any white men cutting timber on any reservation under his charge, and if so, by what authority.

Q. Will you furnish the committee with the answer you may receive to that telegram as soon as received?—A. I will, with pleasure, because if he is employing any white men on the reservation other than a mere teamster, cook, or somebody of that sort that is usually there, he is doing it without any authority from the Indian Office, and without its knowledge.

I telegraphed him another thing which bears on timber matters. There was a contract between an Indian called Penquiosh and a man named Thayer, and I decided that Penquiosh was entitled to the land. It was referred to the Secretary of the Interior, and in the last day or so he has decided the question confirming my decision. In the mean time there was a contest between those parties. The widow of Penquiosh is making a contract with certain parties to cut timber, and this other claimant, Thayer, was making the contract with parties to cut timber, and they are both cutting timber, and finding that out last week or ten days ago, I telegraphed to Agent Gregory to suspend the cutting on that 80 acres, on both sides, until this question of title could be determined. The question of title was determined yesterday or the day before. I learned of it yesterday afternoon, and this morning I telegraphed Agent Gregory to allow the contract with the widow of Penquiosh to go on and to suspend the other. That is all.

Q. Please also submit, if you can find it, the language which defined the extent to which white men might aid in the logging operations.—A. You will find that in Commissioner Price's report, read yesterday.

Q. I want the first trace of it.—A. That is about the first trace of it, I think. I am obliged to you for allowing me to make this statement about it, and I should remain here in the committee room to-day and hear what is said, for I want to know what is going on as far as I can, but I have to meet the subcommittee of the Depredations Committee, and therefore I can not remain.

Senator BLACKBURN. I do not want to break in upon any order, Mr. Chairman, which you may have established in the presentation of proofs of facts in this matter, but there were some questions that I wanted to ask the Commissioner that I may as well ask of Major Hindmarsh, if it will not interfere with you or your programme, and have him answer them now.

The CHAIRMAN. Unless very material it will, because there are witnesses here from a distance. Some of these Indians I want to examine; there are three here now; I do not want to keep them here unnecessarily.

Senator BLACKBURN. Then I will ask the Commissioner if he can spare me ten or fifteen minutes, as the facts seem to belong right here.

The CHAIRMAN. Do you wish to examine in respect to special points connected with this matter?

Senator BLACKBURN. I do.

The CHAIRMAN. It is immaterial to me, then, whether you examine the Commissioner or Major Hindmarsh on the points.

Senator BLACKBURN. If Major Hindmarsh will be sworn I will ask him.

TESTIMONY OF HENRY E. HINDMARSH.

HENRY E. HINDMARSH, of the Land Division, Office of Indian Affairs, was then duly sworn by the chairman and interrogated as follows:

By Senator BLACKBURN:

Q. How long have you been in the position which you now hold in the Indian Office of the Interior Department?—A. I entered the office the 1st day of May, 1879.

Q. Have you held the same position since that time?—A. No, sir; not the same position, but I have been in the same division, doing the same work. I have been promoted on three or four occasions during that time.

Q. Where did you get your title of major; were you in the military service of the country?—A. Yes, sir; I was.

Q. On which side?—A. On the Union side. I was first lieutenant and adjutant of the Ninety-fifth Pennsylvania Volunteers, and brevetted captain and major.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. What was your place of residence in Pennsylvania?—A. Philadelphia.

By Senator BLACKBURN:

Q. What is the position which you hold in the Indian Office now?—A. I am a fourth-class clerk in the land division of the Office of Indian Affairs.

Q. And what are your peculiar duties?—A. They are chiefly in connection with legal matters belonging to the Indian division. The land division has charge in the first instance of all land matters connected with the Indian service, the lands of the Indians, all matters arising out of their lands, whether with regard to timber, trespassing, contracts, or anything else that may come out of lands. But my duties more especially since I have been there have been in connection with legal matters arising out of their lands, railroad matters, timber matters, trespassing matters, and Indian Territory business, contracts, and a variety of miscellaneous matters that I could not mention.

Q. What I wanted to ask is this: In reference to this practice, if there be such a practice, of cutting timber under contract before those contracts have been approved by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, I want to know whether that practice prevails to-day and whether it has prevailed heretofore?—A. Yes, sir; it has, certainly so far as these particular reservations are concerned.

Q. I am speaking of the reservations in question here. I want to know whether timber has been cut heretofore under contracts before they were approved by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs.—A. Yes, sir; since the inception of the present system.

Q. Has that been the exception, or has it been the rule?—A. It has been the rule so far as these reservations are concerned. I have but little to do with timber matters outside of these reservations, but these matters I have to do with.

Q. I am only speaking of these reservations.—A. Yes, sir; it is so.

Q. I want to ask you if there has been any material change in the form of the contracts under which timber-cutting has gone on in these reservations since you have been in the Indian Office?—A. No, sir; not anything more than the exception mentioned by the Commissioner, where these words were inserted, "and shall not be assigned or sublet under penalty of annulment." That is the only material change. There is an addition usually made in those contracts and generally put in in writing, and that has been the case since Commissioner Price's time. That was recalled to my recollection yesterday by looking over the papers; that these Indians, the majority of them, had to be supplied with camp outfits, sleds, tools, provisions, and so forth, and teams, and there has been a clause generally interpolated in writing this agreement that until the contract is filled the sleds, tools, etc., shall be subject to, or in other words that the contractor shall have, a lien on those things until the timber is supplied. That is the only addition which has been made, and the modification or change is in those provisions against subletting or assignment; that is the only change according to my recollection. This thing has been going on over five years and I cannot carry everything in my head, but when I come to go over the papers it will refresh me. There may be something else, but I am quite sure there is no other change but what I have stated.

Q. I believe I will ask you this question: State to the committee what, if any, material change of policy has been adopted by this administration of the office in the matter of these timber contracts as to these reservations different from what prevailed before?—A. No change whatever that I know of.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. Do you prepare all the correspondence to be signed by the Commissioner concerning timber contracts?—A. I think that every letter in connection with this timber business has been prepared by me, unless it was something when I have been away.

Q. When did Commissioner Price cease to be Commissioner and General Atkins succeed him?—A. In March, 1885.

Commissioner ATKINS. The 26th of March, 1885.

Q. Can you state from recollection how many contracts have been made with the Indians on these reservations for timber prior to that date?

The WITNESS. Prior to March, 1885?

The CHAIRMAN. Yes. Have you any general statement?

A. No, sir. I started to make a rough statement this morning. In 1882-'83 there were forty-two contracts made in respect to the Court d'Oreille, Bad River, and Red Cliff reservations, but that was the first season.

Q. For what winter?—A. For 1882-'83.

Senator BLACKBURN. That was the first time there were any contracts.

Q. And the next season?—A. The season of 1883-'84 there were eighty-eight contracts made. The season of 1884-'85 there were seventy-six contracts made, and that is the termination of Commissioner Price's administration.

Q. Now I understand you to say that under these contracts the cutting commenced before the contracts were approved by Commissioner Price?—A. Yes, sir; I presume it has been so throughout, for the reason that the contracts never arrived at the office until very late in the season; the season would be half way through before we would get the contracts.

Q. And you infer that the cutting had commenced from the delay in receiving the contracts?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you any other reason to believe with reference to those contracts which you have just mentioned that the cutting commenced before they were approved except the delay in receiving the contracts at the office?—A. Yes, sir; I think it appears in the correspondence; I think it does. You see, as I understand it, the logging season commences in August or September really out there, and they have to begin to cut roads and make preparations and all that sort of thing. Agent Gregory had seven reservations altogether under his charge at different points, and at two or three of those logging operations were going on, and I always supposed there was some delay in getting the contracts forwarded to the agent, and then some delay in comparing them with the allotments, and all that sort of thing, which accounted for their delay in reaching the office.

Q. When do you understand in the course of an ordinary season the actual cutting and felling of trees commences; not in August, certainly?—A. No, not in August; it does not begin then; but they have to make these preparations before the snow falls.

Q. When do you understand the loggers go into the woods and begin to fell the trees?—A. I have always supposed somewhere in the month of November; but I do not know that I have any particular data to go by. I never have been up there, and know nothing about logging matters.

Q. Will you examine the records and see when these batches of three lots of contracts which you have given reached the office?—A. Yes, sir; I could tell that without any trouble.

Q. Does the long table which was produced yesterday, and which has been resubmitted to the Commissioner, state the date of approval of each contract?—A. Yes, it does; but then the date of the approval would not be the date at which they reached the office, because it is no easy matter to take up a great batch of contracts and give them a thorough examination at once; they would probably get somewhat mixed.

Q. Therefore I will ask you to ascertain in these cases when they did reach the office and when the other contracts reached the office since that time, if Senator Blackburn desires it, and be prepared to make that statement; what various batches of contracts have reached the Commissioner's office since 1882, which you may do by making a memorandum on the statement already prepared.—A. The bulk of the contracts usually come at one time, and there would be scattering contracts coming along from time to time.

The CHAIRMAN. You may state on the margin of the rolls already furnished those dates, as near as you can ascertain them.

Senator BLACKBURN. Including those which have not yet been approved.

The WITNESS. Those which have not been acted upon and could not in the ordinary course of business be acted upon for weeks.

Q. Those were received when?—A. They were received the early part of this month; Agent Gregory's letters, I think, were dated on the 28th of February.

Commissioner ATKINS. The record shows they were received on the 25th and 28th of February.

Senator BLACKBURN. That may be the date; but the question is as to their reception, which of course would be of later date.

Commissioner ATKINS. They are marked here, "Submitted February 25" and "Submitted February 28."

Q. Was Mr. Durfee the Indian agent when all the contracts were made under Commissioner Price?—A. Yes, sir; Mr. Durfee was there at the commencement of this enterprise, and continued there until March, 1885, when he was succeeded by Mr. Gregory.

Senator BLACKBURN. You mean from 1882?

The WITNESS. Yes, sir; he was there when they commenced.

Commissioner ATKINS. I desire to ask Major Hindmarsh a question right there.

The CHAIRMAN. You may do so.

Commissioner ATKINS. I want to ask Major Hindmarsh if any authority, in any manner that he is cognizant of, has been given to Agent Gregory to allow white men to go there and cut timber?

The WITNESS. No, sir.

Commissioner ATKINS. Perhaps I ought to state with regard to this form of contract here—I stated that that was the only amendment that I had made to it and the only difference there was. That was my understanding of it. Major Hindmarsh says now there was some little change—

The WITNESS. That was in Commissioner Price's time.

Commissioner ATKINS. I wanted to bring to the attention of the committee that I was speaking of the form of the contract, and that I went by what was told me in the office. Of course I do not know outside of what is told me.

The WITNESS. I did not recall that until last night when I was going over the papers.

TESTIMONY OF JOHN C. CURRAN.

JOHN C. CURRAN, having been duly sworn by the chairman, was interrogated as follows:

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. You live in Rhinelander, Wis. ?—A. Yes, sir; I do.

Q. What is your business ?—A. Farming and lumbering.

Q. How far is Rhinelander from the Flambeau Reservation ?—A. About 40 miles.

Q. Did you come to Washington with the delegation of Chippewa Indians now in the city ?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. In what capacity did you come ?—A. I came with them to help them get here and to furnish them with some money to come here with.

Q. Did you come as their friend merely ?—A. Yes, merely as their friend.

Q. Have you ever been on the Flambeau Reservation ?—A. I have.

Q. Have you done any lumbering on the reservation ?—A. No, sir.

Q. Have you any money interest in this question except what you have already stated ?—A. No, sir.

Q. You may state the first time you went on the Flambeau Reservation since the cutting of timber under Indian contracts commenced ?—A. I was there about a year ago the middle of last February.

Q. February, 1887 ?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is there a village on the reservation ?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. About how large ?—A. It is not large; probably there are fifty or sixty houses, or somewhere along there.

Q. What is the population of the whole reservation ?—A. I understand when they are all there there are about 750 who belong on that reservation ?

Q. Do they live mainly at this village ?—A. No, sir; they generally hunt and fish and trap.

Q. Where are their homes; at this village ?—A. No, sir; scattered about on the reservation, and some are outside of the reservation.

Q. How large is the reservation ?—A. I understand it is equal to three townships.

Q. Three townships of six miles square ?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is there any other village besides the one you have mentioned on the reservation ?—A. No, sir; not that I know of.

Q. What is it called ?—A. Flambeau Reservation.

Q. Is there a post-office there ?—A. No, sir.

Q. You may state whether you saw timber banked on the reservation when you were there a year ago in February.—A. I did.

Q. State, if you know, who the contractors were.—A. Sherman Brothers were one of the parties, and C. H. Henry was another party.

Q. The one you call Cap. Henry ?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember how many camps the Sherman Brothers had ?—A. I think they had three camps.

Q. And how many lumbermen did you see at work for Sherman Brothers ?—A. I did not see a great many at work; I did not go through their works much; but I saw them hauling logs and banking them.

Q. Did you see enough of the work of Sherman Brothers, or the work under their contracts, to be able to form a judgment as to how many men were working for them?—A. I could not say unless it was what I heard others tell.

Q. From whom did you hear it?—A. I heard it from the Indians that were there.

Q. From conversation with the Indians?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You may state, if you please, what your judgment is as to the number of men that were working for Sherman Brothers.—A. From what I understood they had somewhere between ninety and one hundred men.

Q. And how many were Indians and how many white men.—A. The Indians told me there was at that time about ten Indians to work; somewhere from ten to fifteen, or along there.

Q. And that the rest were white men?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you see white men whom you understood to be at work for Sherman Brothers?

Senator BLACKBURN. I do not intend to make any point as to the hearsay character of the testimony.

The CHAIRMAN. This is only for getting sources of information, that is all.

Senator BLACKBURN. I agree to that.

Q. Did you see white men at work for Sherman Bros., as you understood?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. State about Captain Henry; how many camps had he?—A. He had one camp that I saw; I think he had no other.

Q. You visited that camp?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you see men at work there?—A. I did.

Q. How many men did he appear to have?—A. I think he had thirty-five or thirty-six men at work, as near as I could get at it.

Q. What proportion were Indians?—A. I think nearly half of them were Indians, as near as I can remember.

Q. Were they actively engaged in cutting and hauling timber?—A. Yes, sir; they were.

Q. You may state whether you had any conversation at that time with Captain Henry.

The WITNESS. In regard to cutting timber?

The CHAIRMAN. Yes, in regard to cutting timber and his timber contracts.

A. I do not think I did at that time—that year.

Q. What kind of timber was being cut?—A. What I saw was white pine and Norway.

Q. All pine?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. When were you there next?—A. I was there again last August.

Q. This last August?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you been there since?—A. I was there again the first of February.

Q. You were there in August, 1887, and in February, 1888?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. State what contractors were getting out timber at this visit in 1888?—A. I understood that Sherman Bros. were at work there again this year, also this Captain Henry and another party by the name of Cosgrove.

Q. Now with reference to Sherman Bros.; did you visit their camp at this time?—A. I did not.

Q. Did you learn anything about the work they were doing?—A. I asked some of the Indians about their work.

Q. Did you see any persons engaged under Sherman Bros.' contracts at this time?—A. No, sir; I did not.

Q. If you conversed with Indians you may state generally what you learned about Sherman Bros.' operations, whether logging was going on under contracts with them or not?—A. Yes, sir; I understood from the Indians on the reservation they had contracts for cutting timber and hauling it.

Q. Did you undertake to learn from the Indians the proportion of whites and Indians then at work?—A. I did.

Q. What did you learn from them?—A. I understood that they did not have more than two or three Indians to work for them.

Senator BLACKBURN. I expect I may as well ask that the stenographer make a note of my objection to this hearsay testimony.

The CHAIRMAN. And I will state that it is for the purpose of ascertaining sources of information.

Senator BLACKBURN. I do not, of course, mean to stop you from pursuing the inquiry.

The CHAIRMAN (to the witness). Now, with reference to the Henry contracts, did you go to his camps?—A. I did not.

Q. Did you see him?—A. I did.

Q. What did you learn from him about work being done under his contracts this year—as to the extent of his operations and the men who worked for him?—A. I understood him to say that he had six camps on the reservation and that he had somewhere about 30 men in a camp.

Q. Which would make about 180 men?—A. Yes, sir; somewhere along there.

Q. Did he tell you what proportion were Indians and what proportion were white men?—A. He did not tell me and I did not ask him.

Q. Did you learn from any source?—A. The Indians on the reservation told me that he had but very few Indians.

Q. Did you see any logging operations going on on this visit in February?—A. No, sir.

Q. Where did you go?—A. Only to the little village.

Q. All that you learned then was from inquiries?—A. Yes, sir; that is all.

Q. Did you see many people at the village?

The WITNESS. White people?

The CHAIRMAN. Yes.

The WITNESS. Yes, sir; I saw quite a number of white people.

Q. Will you state whether the men engaged in logging came into the village at nights or staid in camps distributed over the reservation?—A. They are distributed around over the reservation in camps. There are some white men living in the village also.

Q. What can you state about Cosgrove's contract?—A. I did not learn anything about his contract?

Q. You learned no details of his contract?—A. No, sir; I did not.

Q. Referring to your conversation with Captain Henry, did you learn from him the amount of his contracts and how much timber he expected to get out this winter?—A. I understood him to say that he calculated to get in somewhere about 20,000,000 feet.

Q. Did you have a conversation with him about the nature of his contracts with the Indians?—A. No, sir; I did not.

Q. Did you understand from what you saw, or from Captain Henry's statements, that he himself was doing the lumbering and employing these men, or that the Indians were?—A. I did not inquire into that part of it.

Q. And do you know of your own knowledge, or from information given you on the reservation, whether the Indians were themselves going on and getting out this timber and delivering it to the contractors according to the contracts, or whether the contractors were doing it for the Indians?—A. I understood from Captain Henry—

Q. From conversation of Captain Henry with you?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You may state what he said.—A. I understood him to say that he was putting in the logs for the Indians; that he was to cut them and haul the logs on the bank.

Q. That he was drawing the logs to the bank or that the Indians were doing it?—A. That he was drawing the logs to the bank.

Q. You understood the nature of the contracts that were made with the Indians, that the Indians agreed to cut and deliver the timber on the bank; you understood the form of the contract?—A. I understood only from hearsay.

Q. But you had understood that?—A. I understood how it should be done from other parties; I never saw one of those contracts.

Q. But you understood that in all cases the Indian making the contract was to cut and deliver the timber?—A. I did.

Q. And you understood from Captain Henry that he had what understanding with the Indians as to the way the work should be done?—A. That he furnished the teams, men, and provisions and was to bank the logs.

Q. Himself?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did the Indians work for him?—A. The Indians were to work for him.

Q. How did you understand he paid the Indians who worked for him?—A. I understood that he paid them just the same as he would a white man.

Q. And then in settling with them under the contracts how did he settle?—A. Well, I understood him to say that he generally guaranteed the Indians so much per thousand net for the timber.

Q. That is what I wanted to get at. Did you understand that this winter or last winter?—A. This winter.

Q. You understood that when he settled with the Indians he credited them with the amount mentioned in the contracts, and charged them with the expense of banking the logs?—A. That is the way I understood it.

Q. And that he also paid them the value of their labor the same as he paid any other labor?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You may state whether you saw either last winter or this winter tracts of land which had been cut over or cleared.—A. I did. I supposed they had been cleared or they were clearing them then.

Q. Did you discover the way in which they were cleared; whether each 80-acre lot had three-quarters cut over and one-quarter left with the timber on it?—A. I did not examine it.

Q. Can you state anything on that subject?—A. No, sir; only from hearsay.

The CHAIRMAN. That is all.

By Senator BLACKBURN:

Q. Tell me, do you know Sherman Brothers?—A. I do not.

Q. Did you ever meet them?—A. I do not think I ever did, that I know of.

Q. Where are they from?—A. I think they are from Eau Claire; I do not know that.

- Q. Your own State?—A. Yes, sir.
- Q. How long have they been there?—A. I do not know that either.
- Q. You do not know how long they have been operating there in this line of cutting timber on the reservation?—A. I understand a year ago was the first cutting they had done there.
- Q. Do you know where they came there from?—A. No, sir.
- Q. You say you had no business engagements on that reservation?—A. No, sir.
- Q. And never did have?—A. No, sir; I never did have.
- Q. What took you over there on this visit of yours?—A. I went by request of the Indians.
- Q. Are you in any Indian's employ?—A. No, sir; I was not at that time.
- Q. Are you now?—A. No, sir.
- Q. Were you ever?—A. Never.
- Q. You never have been in their employ?—A. No, sir; I never have been.
- Q. They asked you to go?—A. They did.
- Q. For what purpose?—A. They asked me to assist them, and to talk matters over about coming here to straighten up their matters with the Government.
- Q. What was it that induced you to leave your business and advance money to these protesting Indians to come on here to Washington?—A. Nothing more than friendship.
- Q. You are not an Indian yourself?—A. No, sir; no Indian blood.
- Q. You are not related to any of that tribe?—A. No, sir.
- Q. Were you under any peculiar obligations to the Chippewa Indians?—A. No, sir; nothing any more than friendship. I have been with them for over thirty years. I used to trade with them in former years, fifteen or twenty years ago, and we have always been friends.
- Q. You are paying your own expenses here?—A. Yes, sir.
- Q. And theirs too?—A. Yes, sir; so far.
- Senator BLACKBURN. I believe that is all.

TESTIMONY OF JAMES I. COFFEY.

JAMES I. COFFEY, having been duly sworn by the chairman, was interrogated as follows:

By the CHAIRMAN:

- Q. Where do you live?—A. For the past six months at Moose Lake, between Moose Lake and Cloquet, on the Indian reservation.
- Q. On which reservation?—A. On the Fond du Lac Reservation, and previous to that, from along in last January, I lived on the Fond du Lac Reservation.
- Q. Were you entitled to the allotment on the Fond du Lac Reservation?—A. Yes, sir.
- Q. When did you first go up there?—A. The first of last January a year ago.
- Q. In January, 1887?—A. Yes, sir.
- Q. Was some land allotted to you?—A. Yes, sir.
- Q. Under the treaty?—A. Yes, sir; under the treaty.
- Q. Has your land been re-allotted under the severalty act?—A. I have filed a claim under the act of February, 1887.
- Q. But the land has not been allotted?—A. The land has been granted me through the council with the Indians.

Q. But has not been confirmed, the allotment has not been, by the Indian Office?—A. I do not know that.

Q. Has it been reported by the agent?—A. It was taken by the agent; I do not know whether it has been reported by him or not.

Q. You may state when you went there to the reservation in January, 1887, what contractors were logging on the reservation?—A. Hynes was the only one I know of.

Q. Give his full name, if you please.—A. Patrick Hynes.

Q. Was he the only contractor there then?—A. He was the only one I know of at that time.

Q. Did you see his camps?—A. Well, a year ago this winter the Indians started to put in their own timber, to cut and bank it themselves, and deliver it on the bank of the river, with the understanding that Hynes would buy it from them and pay them for it.

Q. Under the contracts?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. State about how many Indians made contracts that winter, if you have knowledge.—A. I could not state positively how many, but there was quite a number.

Q. State as near as you can judge, or state what you understood about it.—A. I should judge there was not less than 18 or 19.

Q. And those contracts would, if carried out, produce about how many million feet of lumber?—A. I could not tell you how many million feet, because I am not an accurate estimator of timber. But I understood from the farmer, the man who kept Hynes's books—

Q. What was his name?—A. E. L. Rose. He was acting as farmer for the Indians and was paid by the Government, and he was also acting as book-keeper for Hynes.

Q. What did he tell you?

Senator BLACKBURN. Will the stenographer just make another note of this, as this is a new witness, that I object to this testimony as incompetent, and let it go on.

The CHAIRMAN. Note, also, that the chairman stated that it was for the purpose of ascertaining sources of information.

Q. Now, what did Farmer Rose tell you?—A. He told me there was about 17,000,000 feet of logs cut off that reservation during that winter. He told me this in April, 1887, just about the time they were through cutting.

Q. When you were there what did you see going on? A. I saw timber being cut and hauled.

Q. Was that done by Indians?—A. By Indians and white men.

Q. Can you state about how many men you think, both Indians and white men, were at work there that spring?—A. I did not go all over the logging operations. I went to two or three camps, and from what I saw myself I should judge there was about between fifty and sixty white men and about ten Indians; that is what I saw myself.

Q. Did you understand that the white men were all at work for the Indians; had been employed by the Indians?—A. Yes; that they had been employed by the Indians on the recommendation of Hynes.

Q. Did you receive any information from any source that Hynes guaranteed stumpage, so much stumpage to the Indians, or that the contracts should net them so much?—A. Not particularly that.

Q. What information did you receive to show the way the contract was carried out?—A. I understood that Hynes bought the timber from the Indians for $5 a thousand, banked on the river, and that the Indians were to bank the timber themselves; that Hynes was to supply the Indians with camp outfits, supplies, and everything of that kind, and it was to be charged up to them and the expense of supplying them to be taken out of this $5.

Q. What they had was to be charged up to them?—A. Yes, sir; and of course Hynes would pay all the men and everything of that kind.

Q. Now you may state whether you have been on the reservation this winter.—A. Yes, sir.

Q. How much have you been there this winter; when did you go, and how long did you stay?—A. I have been there several times, all the way from three or four days up to two or three weeks.

Q. From what place did you go?—A. From Moose Lake.

Q. How far is Moose Lake from the reservation?—A. About 28 or 30 miles.

Q. Does the railroad run through the reservation?—A. There is a railroad which runs through the reservation, the Northern Pacific road, and when we go to Cloquet we take the Saint Paul and Duluth road.

Q. The Fond du Lac Reservation is directly west from Ashland, is it not?—A. It is about northwest—perhaps a little north of west from Ashland.

Q. And about how far?—A. I should judge about 85 or 90 miles.

Q. How far is it from Duluth?—A. It is about 30 miles from Duluth.

Q. In what direction?—A. It is northwest from Duluth.

Q. State what contractors had logging contracts on the reservation this winter?—A. I understood that Hynes was the principal contractor on the reservation this winter, and I know Mr. A. M. Gowan was another contractor employed by the C. N. Nelson Lumber Company.

Q. Did you understand that any others had contracts on the reservation this winter?—A. No, sir.

Q. Hynes and Gowan were the only ones?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you understand that Gowan's contract was of any size or amount?—A. He showed me a list of the number of contracts—a list of the names of parties with whom he had contracts—Gowan did, and I think there was near about eighteen, nineteen, or twenty.

Q. Did he tell you how much timber his contracts covered?—A. No, sir; he did not.

Q. Did you see anybody at work for Gowan?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. How many men did he have employed?—A. I have seen about twenty or thirty.

Q. Were they Indians or whites, or in what proportion?—A. They were all white men.

Q. Did you have any conversation with him about his contracts with the Indians or the methods in which he was doing business?—A. No; not any further than that he tried to get me to help him in securing contracts with the Indians.

Q. State what you learned about the number of Hynes's contracts, the work he is doing, and the men employed by him?—A. I understand from the Indians that nearly all the men who are at work for him are white men, and that one man in particular—

Q. One Indian?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. State his name.—A. Frank Doquette; he told me that his wife had sold her timber to Hynes and that she had agreed to bank the timber on the river herself or have it banked, and time passed on and Doquette found out that his wife's timber was being cut and hauled away without her giving any contract to anybody to do it—to cut the timber—and that she had agreed to bank her timber on the river, and that the timber was being cut and hauled to the railroad and loaded on cars and taken away.

Q. By whom did he say?—A. He told me it was Hynes who was doing it. But Hynes has got two men in the woods there and in the reservation that are running camps—one of them is named Saunders and the other one I forget his name—and those two men are doing all the cutting and managing the lumber operations.

Q. They are superintending it?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, about their help; who was at work for those Indians, white men or Indians, or both, and in what proportion?—A. All the Indians told me that white men principally are doing all the cutting. There ain't over fifteen Indians or somewhere in that neighborhood to work on the reservation.

Q. Out of what number of men employed by Hynes?—A. I could not state exactly. Perhaps there might be 150 or 200 men working.

Q. Did you learn that from observation or from what the Indians told you?—A. From what the Indians told me those lands are being cut.

Q. Have you seen any men there this winter at work logging?

The WITNESS. On Hynes's logging operations?

The CHAIRMAN. Yes.

The WITNESS. No, sir.

Q. You have not been at his camps?—A. No, sir; I have not.

Q. And what you know about the lumbering now being done under Hynes's contracts is from the statements of the Indians?—A. Yes, sir; the statements of Indians who have contracted with Hynes.

Q. Are there any Indians now in town who have had contracts with Hynes?—A. I could not say positively; there might be, but I could not say.

Q. How many Indians are there in town from the Fond du Lac Reservation?—A. There are three besides myself.

Q. Will you give their names?—A. One is Sang-gha-ah-me-goos, his English name is Mike Diver; and another one's name is In-de-bense, and his English name is Jake Papeau.

Q. Do they both speak English intelligibly?—A. No, sir. Another one is named Ma-dwa-yaw-sang. He has no English name except they sometimes call him John.

Q. As to all these you have named, they do not speak English intelligibly?—A. No, sir.

Q. Are you an interpreter?—A. Yes, sir; I am interpreter and spokesman for the tribe.

Q. In what capacity did you come with these Indians of the Fond du Lac Reservation and others to Washington?—A. I came at the request of the Indians as spokesman for the Fond du Lac Indians and interpreter for the rest.

Q. You may state whether or not you were with these Indians when they made their complaints to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs?—A. Yes, sir; I was.

Q. To whom have they made complaints, if to any one else, besides the Commissioner?—A. I do not know of any one else, unless it is to the President, and to him they did not make any complaint in detail.

Q. They had an interview with him?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. State whether or not you submitted written complaints.—A. Yes, sir; we did.

Q. Was the paper you handed me last night, and which I now hand you, a copy of the complaint which was submitted to them?—A. Yes, sir; that was a copy of what was submitted.

Q. This is addressed to the Secretary of the Interior; what was done with the original of this?—A. It was filed with the Indian Commissioner.

Q. And was the original dated January 26, 1888, as this copy is?—
A. Yes, sir.

The CHAIRMAN. This is a rough copy and I will not put it in now. The original is with Commissioner Atkins, but this can be used to examine the witness with.

Q. I wish to ask you whether or not one of the complaints that was made was with reference to an investigation that was made September 6, 1887, by an Indian agent or inspector named Morris Thomas?—A. Yes, sir; but the name of the man who came up there and that made this investigation was Thompson, or he was introduced to the Indians as Mr. Thompson.

Q. I will ask you whether this complaint which was lodged in writing was in your handwriting and written by you?

The WITNESS. The original?

The CHAIRMAN. Yes.

The WITNESS. Yes, sir.

Q. And this is your copy?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Indeed, this is your original draught from which the copy was made?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You say the agent was introduced to you as Mr. Thompson?—A. He was introduced to the Indians as Mr. Thompson.

Q. But I will state to you that I understand, as a matter of fact, that his name was Morris Thomas. Now, you may describe briefly what took place on his investigation. In the first place, state whether or not written complaints had been previously made by the Indians to the Department at Washington on which he came there.—A. Yes, sir. We wrote a complaint dated about April 16, 1887, and sent a copy of the complaint to the Secretary of the Interior, and also a copy to the President, in reference to the manner that logging operations had been conducted on the reservation. I do not remember now exactly what the complaint did have in it; but the following September, about the 6th of September, Agent Gregory came to Cloquet.

Q. On the train?—A. Yes, sir; they arrived about 9 o'clock in the morning, either 9 or 9.30.

Q. Agent Gregory and another man?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. How did he introduce this gentleman; as an agent of the Department?—A. I will tell you. They went to McKenna's hotel and Page's store; it was about half an hour or an hour after they arrived when Mr. Gregory told the Indians that he would be on the reservation about 2 o'clock that afternoon to hold a council with the Indians. So the Indians prepared themselves and were at the council about 2 o'clock.

Q. How far is the reservation from Cloquet?—A. About a mile and a half.

Q. How many Indians assembled?—A. I should judge there were about 50 or 60, or somewhere in that neighborhood. Mr. Gregory and this other gentleman who came upon the reservation went to the Indian school-house—

Q. Was it out of doors or indoors?—A. They went indoors at first, but they found it was too close in the house, and so they moved all the tables and chairs outside and held a council outside. Then Mr. Gregory introduced this gentleman as Mr. Thompson, who was sent here from Washington. So Mr. Thomas, or Mr. Thompson, got up and made a few remarks, and he pulled a paper out of his pocket—I think it was in his pocket-book that he had it—and from what I could see of the paper I recognized it to be the complaint they had sent in dated April 6. Our old chief was there present, named Nah-gon-ub. He took this paper and showed it to the old man. The old man did not take it in his hand, but he held it out and asked the old man if he ever saw that paper, and the old man can not see very far, and he put his hands up to his forehead and said he did not know. So he unfolded the paper—it was folded up, just folded once, in that way—and there were signatures to it there, and he asked the old man if he ever signed that paper, and the old man of course could not see that far, and he said he did not know. The old man's son was standing by his side and he told his father that that was the paper that they sent to Washington making their complaint; that that was the paper they signed in April. Then the old man remembered it right off and said yes, he had signed the paper. Then other witnesses were called up, Indians that did not know much about matters on the reservation. Anyhow, they did not take enough interest in it to look them up, and of course consequently—

Q. Who examined those other Indians?—This gentleman, Mr. Thomas, or Mr. Thompson, and Mr. Gregory took the notes of the investigation.

Q. What did Mr. Gregory have, a book, or what; pencil, paper, or ink?—A. He had a paper and pencil.

Q. And wrote on a table?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Mr. Gregory took the notes?—A. Yes, sir. There were several witnesses there examined that were not of much importance, but there was one witness brought up who testified in a straightforward manner how he had been used. He knew more than these others who had been examined.

Q. What was his name?—A. Joe Frank. He went on to state how he believed that he was misused and overcharged for supplies that he had got, and everything of that kind, and how Hynes came up there and, as he believed, misled the Indians by making them believe that he had authority to come up there and buy their timber and exclude everybody else, and he went on to testify about that; and so as soon as Mr. Thomas found out that Joe Frank's testimony was bearing directly against Hynes, the man who was buying the timber there, he went to work and turned right around and asked Joe Frank if he had ever brought any whisky on the reservation—just as much as to try and intimidate him, and I think that was his object.

Q. You mean that he changed the subject?

Senator BLACKBURN. I am not objecting to any of the witness' presumptions; he says that he presumes it was to intimidate him.

Q. But he proceeded to examine him about the whisky?—A. Yes, sir; about the whisky. Joe Frank was testifying straight about what he knew, and when he got that far Mr. Thomas turned right around and changed the subject and asked him if he ever brought whisky on the reservation.

Q. Did that end Frank's examination?—A. Yes, sir.

By Senator BLACKBURN:

Q. What did Frank say about the whisky business?—A. He said yes, that he had; and they went on and asked him in what manner, and he said that his wife was sick and he went down and got some whisky from the drug store to mix it with some medicine. He said that was the only time he ever got it.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. Did that end Frank's examination?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long did Mr. Gregory and Mr. Thomas stay there on the reservation at that time?—A. Just about one hour and fifteen minutes.

Q. Then did they drive back to Cloquet?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What notice did they give the Indians before they left the reservation?—A. He said he would be down at Page's store that evening and if the Indians had anything more to say they could come down there and tell them what they had to say.

Q. He informed them that he should stay overnight at Cloquet?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What took place after that?—A. The Indians thought they were not being used right, that the investigation was not complete and they were not given sufficient opportunity to substantiate their complaints, and they sent several down there and asked Mr. Thomas to come back on the reservation and finish the investigation, as the Indians had more witnesses they would like sworn, and Mr. Thomas refused to do so.

Q. He refused to go back?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was that on the evening of that day?—A. That was the following morning.

Q. Did any of them go down that night; he told them he would hear them that evening; did he not?—A. I understood they sent two or three down there that night; I could not say positively, but I went down myself; I was one of them who went down in the morning.

Q. To ask him to come back?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And he declined to do so?—A. Yes, sir; he declined.

Q. When did he go away?—A. He went away about noon that day—let me see, I forget whether they took the noon train or drove to the junction with a horse and buggy; I do not remember that now. Mr. Gregory sometimes takes a horse and buggy and drives to the junction.

Q. What time do you think he went away?—A. I think it was between 10 and 12 o'clock, or somewhere along there.

Q. Did you ever see him again?—A. Not to my recollection.

Q. You may state whether one of the present complaints of the Indians is in relation to the manner of making the allotments.—A. Yes, sir; it is.

Q. That was one of the complaints that had been made at this time?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Had there been any allotments made on the Fond du Lac Reservation under the severalty act?—A. You mean the act of February 8?

Q. Yes; the act of last year; whether any allotments have been made out there?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And is there complaint by the Indians of the manner of making those allotments?—A. Those and others in general.

Q. Others prior to that?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. I will ask you about the allotments under the severalty act; did an agent come there?—A. A gentleman came there named Thomas Wall.

Q. A special agent under the severalty act?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did he come to the Fond du Lac Reservation?—A. They held a council on the reservation January 23 and January 24 of this year.

Q. Who was present at this council besides the Indians?—A. Agent Gregory, Thomas Wall, and the Indians.

Q. Was there a difference between Mr. Wall, Mr. Gregory, and the council about any of the allotments?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And that difference has been the subject of complaint to Commissioner Atkins?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And a statement of that is made in the written complaint of January 26, 1888?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now you may state briefly and concisely what is the character of those complaints about the manner of making the allotments this year.—

A. Heretofore in granting these allotments the claims have always been submitted for the approval of the Indians at the council, but the last council, held January 23 and 24, was not altogether conducted in that manner. Mr. Gregory used his own discretion to a great extent in granting these allotments and there were a great many applicants rejected by the agent. Of course the Indians did not understand any difference from what they always did.

Q. That they were to decide upon disputed cases?—A. Yes, sir; and there were many rejected by the agents, and Mr. Gregory, in cases that were rejected, in some cases, had those parties sworn to show that they were entitled to allotments and to show that their parents at some time were members of the bands, and then he had one or two other witnesses sworn on behalf of the applicant. Well, when the Indians asked Mr. Gregory and Mr. Wall to let them bring evidence to rebut that evidence given by these parties, they would not let the Indians swear any of the witnesses or have them sworn.

Q. That was one of the complaints?—A. Yes, sir; that was one complaint.

Q. So that one of the complaints was that allotments were allowed by Wall and Gregory where the Indians had already made their timber contracts?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And where they had not made timber contracts their claims were rejected?—A. One of the complaints is, that there are parties up there on the reservation whose names were called last May at the council when the Indians did not see fit to grant their claims then, because they wanted to consider them further; they did not want to reject them altogether, because they did not know but what they might do them an injustice, and still they laid them over to consider their applications further. And those parties, they told me themselves, two or three of them this fall, that they had contracted to sell the timber on these claims.

Q. To whom?—A. To Mr. Hynes, and had received or been granted on them money and provisions and groceries. The Indians saw fit to reject those claims at the last council, and when they were brought up and rejected Mr. Gregory would not approve of them at all. He told me and the Indians that he would hold them in spite of the Indians until he was satisfied himself whether they were entitled to the claims or not; and he told me and the Indians there—he was talking to me and I was insisting upon the Indians' demands being respected, or at least a little respect being shown for them—and he told me he was going to see Mr. Durfee, of Ashland, and some other parties in Superior—

Q. Who told you that?—A. Mr. Gregory.

Q. He was going to see whom at Superior?—A. Some parties at Superior who knew these parties, and he would determine then whether these applicants were entitled to their claims or not.

Q. That treatment of those claims was one of the grounds of complaint?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did this complaint of the 26th of January, 1888, to the Commissioner specify the names of Indians against whom the council protested?—A. Yes, sir, a number of them.

Q. Some twenty or thirty?—A. I do not know how many there are.

Q. Is this the list [exhibiting a paper to the witness]? See how many there are.—A. Yes, sir, that is the list; there are twenty-four.

Q. I will ask you whether or not you understand any of those Indians had already sold their timber?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Can you tell how many of them you recognize as having already sold their timber?—A. There are only two here that I recognize myself, although I presume there are more.

By Senator BLACKBURN:

Q. You are an Indian?—A. I am a half-breed.

Q. Is your Indian blood of the Chippewa tribe?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where were you educated?—A. Principally at Fond du Lac, Minn.

Q. Have you always lived with that tribe?—A. I have always been amongst them or near them.

Q. Have you always lived on the reservation with them?—A. Oh, no, sir; not always.

Q. How long have you been on that reservation?—A. I never actually lived on the reservation until about a year ago or over; that is, actually made it my home residence there.

Q. What is your grievance here; what brought you to Washington?—A. What brought me here in the first place, what started me, was because I was asked to come here by the Indians.

Q. By whom?—A. By Indians from our reservation and the Bad River Reservation.

Q. Are you paid to come here?—A. No, sir.

Q. Who pays your expenses?—A. I have not made any arrangement who is to pay my expenses, but it was understood by the delegation who came here that Mr. Curran was the man who would defray the expenses.

Q. The expenses of the whole party?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What has Mr. Curran to do with it?—A. I do not know more than that.

Q. More than what?—A. Anything more than he was to defray the expenses.

Q. What interest has he in this?—A. I do not know any except that.

Q. He is paying the expenses of the party which is on here?—A. The Indians asked him to advance the money, and asked him to assist them in this matter.

Q. You have told about a trip that a man named Thomas made, who, it seems, was sent out by the Indian Office to inquire into the complaints which the Indians have furnished here; were you present at that conference?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Why did you not testify?—A. Because I was not allowed.

Q. Who refused to let you testify?—A. Mr. Thomas.

Q. You asked to testify and Mr. Thomas refused to let you do it?—A. I spoke up several times in reference to the matter, and Mr. Thomas says, "You shut up; when I want you to talk I will speak to you."

Q. Did you ask to testify as a witness, and did Mr. Thomas refuse to let you do so?—A. No, sir; I did not ask to testify.

Q. Did you offer to testify?—A. No, sir.

Q. You sat there and listened to all this and made no offer of testimony for yourself?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where are the Indians who can prove what you have stated as to that conference?—A. On the Fond du Lac Reservation.

Q. None of them are in this city?—A. Yes, sir; there is one here.

Q. Very well; give us his name?—A. Sang-gha-ah-me-goons is the Indian name.

Q. Can he testify to the statements you have made?—A. Yes, I believe so; he was present at the conference.

Q. Is there any other one who can do so?—A. There are two more Indians here, but I do not know that they were present at that time.

Q. Why didn't you bring witnesses to prove these facts you are stating?—A. Because we were in hopes that this investigation might be conducted upon the reservation where we had all our witnesses, and could prove it without a doubt.

Q. Did you expect this investigation to be conducted upon the reservation when you came to Washington to testify as a witness?—A. We came here for the purpose of inducing the Indian Department to send people up there to investigate these complaints. The reason I did not ask to testify in that matter was principally because I believed that Mr. Thomas would not allow me, because I spoke up two or three times to him in that way, and he dried me right up, and that is the reason I did not insist on anything of that kind; I did not think he would allow me anyway.

Q. As you have been so kind as to tell the committee your own belief, will you also be kind enough to tell us the ground of that belief? What right have you to conclude that an agent of the Indian Department would not allow you to appear as a witness if you asked permission?—A. Because he dried me up, and told me to dry up when I spoke to him.

Q. We will not do that now; you shall have a chance to tell all you want and probably more. Was there a single Indian that asked to appear as a witness there who was not allowed to testify, and if so give his name?—A. I do not know of any.

Q. You do not know of any?—A. No, sir.

Q. Mr. Thomas told the Indians that he would stay there at that station that night?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And he asked them to come—any of them who wanted to be heard further?—A. Yes; down at Cloquet, off the reservation.

Q. Very well. Did he stay there that night?—A. I presume he did. He was there the next morning.

Q. You found him there the next morning?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. When you went the next morning did you go by yourself, or go with the delegation?—A. I went with a delegation.

Q. Did you yourself or any of the delegation say to Mr. Thomas that the Indians wanted to offer further testimony?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did he refuse to allow them to do it?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You have so stated?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who was present when that happened?—A. There was the interpreter.

Q. I thought you were the interpreter?—A. I was there myself, and the Indian agent's interpreter, Mr. Gregory, was there also.

Q. Where is he?—A. I presume in Ashland.

Q. Is there a man in Washington to-day who was present that next morning when Mr. Thomas refused to allow further testimony to be taken?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who?—A. A couple of our Indians.

Q. Give me their names?—A. Ani-mas-soo, and I think Mike Diver, or Sang-gak-ame-goons, was present; I think he was there; I do not know that he was present at the very moment when Mr. Thomas refused, but he was there in the building.

Q. Upon what ground did he refuse?—A. I could not tell you.

Q. He did not assign any reasons for his refusal?—A. No, sir.

Q. What did he say?—A. I forget now what he did say.

Q. Who asked him to do it; you?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now tell me his answer to you?—A. He said that he would not do it; that is all; that is the only reason I got.

Q. He simply said that he would not do it?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. He gave no reason for not doing it?—A. No, sir; no reason that I know of.

Q. Now we are getting to understand each other. Were you present at that Wall conference which you have described?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you take any part in that?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What part did you take?—A. I took the part that any of the Indians always take in matters of this kind.

Q. That is what I want to find out. Were you acting as interpreter?—A. I was taking part for the Indians, although the interpreter for the Indian agent was there, and whenever it was necessary to interpret anything to the Indians he was called upon.

Q. When were you called on?—A. I was acting on the part of an Indian.

Q. I am trying to find out what you did.—A. I saw that these allotments were not being granted according to the customary rule.

Q. What was the rule, and what was the difference of the ground of the allotment?—A. The customary rule is that these claims are always submitted for the approval of the Indians.

Q. When did you ever see that done?—A. I saw that last May.

Q. By whom?—A. Between the Indians and Mr. Gregory.

Q. When?—A. Last May.

Q. You saw that done last May?—A. Yes; all those allotments granted at the council held last May were where they had the approval of the Indians.

Q. If I understand you, you say that the complaint of the Wall conference was that Agent Gregory did not do then what Agent Gregory did last May?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. It was the same agent who had followed one practice in May last and adopted another, you say, at this conference?—A. Yes; that varied from the old practice.

Q. Now you say that at that conference Wall and Gregory refused to allow testimony to be taken?—A. Mr. Gregory was the man who refused. I insisted upon that two or three times, and finally (I stood right at Wall's back) I said, "How is this thing going? I do not think this is being conducted right." Mr. Wall says, "If you fellows have got witnesses that you want to bring up I don't see any reason why they should not be brought up." I said, "That is just what we want and what we have been driving at." Then he spoke to Mr. Gregory about it, and Mr. Gregory said no, and we concluded it right there.

Q. Agent Gregory said no?—A. Yes sir.

Q. Did anybody offer any witnesses except you?—A. The old chief's son was there present.

Q. Did anybody offer to introduce a witness except yourself?—A. I do not know; I can not remember.

Q. If they did, please tell me who they were.—A. I can not remember positively.

Q. You did?—A. I did, certainly.

Q. What witnesses did you offer to introduce? Name them.—A. There was Ma-qua-megishig.

Q. Is that the only witness you offered to introduce?—A. There were several others who could have been introduced.

Q. I am not asking you that. You might have introduced the tribe. I am asking who you proposed to introduce?—A. When I was refused once I could not be expected to offer any more.

Q. Then you only offered to introduce this one witness?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where is he?—A. He is up on the reservation.

Q. You did not bring him?—A. No, sir; we could not bring the whole reservation down here.

Q. No; I only wish you could have brought one who could testify to a single fact you have stated. Is there a member of this party of Indians who has come here who can testify to the fact that you have just stated now?—A. I am not certain.

Q. If there is tell me his name, because I want him subpoenaed.—A. I say I am not certain.

Q. Well, guess at it.—A. I know this Mike Diver was there; I am not certain, but I believe he knows about it; he was standing by my side.

Senator BLACKBURN. That is all I wish to ask now. This witness, I understand, is to come back again?

The CHAIRMAN. Yes.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. The tribe at this conference with Wall and Gregory were contesting these twenty-four cases then and there, were they?—A. Yes, sir; right then and there.

Q. And the contention was whether they would give time and opportunity for the examination of witnesses in those cases?—A. Whether they would have any opportunity to furnish testimony.

Q. Who did you understand to make the decision that testimony should not be received?—A. Mr. Gregory.

Q. Did you understand Mr. Wall to join in that decision or yield to it or not?—A. After Mr. Gregory refused then Mr. Wall did not say anything more; I presume he submitted to Mr. Gregory's decision.

The CHAIRMAN. That is all for the present. You may remain, however, if you please.

TESTIMONY OF PHINEAS H. CALLIGAN.

PHINEAS H. CALLIGAN, having been duly sworn by the chairman, was interrogated as follows:

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. Where do you reside?—A. At Chippewa Falls.

Q. You have been lumbering on the Chippewa River in times past?—A. Yes, sir; I have.

Q. In connection with your brother, George M. Calligan?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where were you lumbering before going to Wisconsin?—A. In Maine.

Q. And your brother also?—A. No, sir; he came here when he was quite young.

Q. Where is your birthplace?—A. Princeton, Washington County, Me.

Q. When did you commence lumbering at the West, and where?—A. About six years ago on the Brune River, emptying into the Chippewa.

Q. State whether or not you have done considerable lumbering there outside of Indian reservations.—A. Yes, sir; we have. I was not considered one of their big lumbermen at all.

Q. But that was your business, lumbering, such business as you had?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You have had difficulty with Mr. Gregory, the Indian agent, have you not?—A. I have.

Q. And have made complaints of him in writing to the Interior Department?—A. I have.

Q. You made a complaint January 3, 1888, did you?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Addressed to whom?—A. To Commissioner Atkins.

The CHAIRMAN. I have what purports to be a copy on which is written in pencil that the original was sent direct to Commissioner Atkins January 27, 1888. I will put this into the record subject to verification by the original, as it may not be accurate. I do not know where it comes from.

The letter in question is as follows:

CHIPPEWA FALLS, WIS., January 3, 1888.

DEAR SIR: While in Washington last August Acting Commissioner Upshaw requested me to appear before him and make such statements regarding the transaction of Calligan Brothers with Agent Gregory as were pertinent to the pending controversy between them and said agent. Agent Gregory being in the city, his presence was requested by Mr. Upshaw through Gov. Pound; but he having immediately after such request left the city in obedience to the Commissioner's request, I appeared alone and made a verbal statement, after the conclusion of which Mr. Upshaw requested me to reproduce the same by letter for filing with the Department. This I agreed to do, and intended doing at an early day. My apology for this delay is an apprehension that it would so intensify the hostility of the agent as to cause greater loss to Calligan Brothers, who had already suffered loss by reason of his personal partiality and opposition, having been compelled to sell out the business of our firm at a large sacrifice in consequence of Agent Gregory's refusal to permit us to do business on the reservation.

I now feel justified in reproducing, as requested, my verbal statement. What I am about to state can be better understood when it is known that Agent Gregory, in his official conduct, has openly and notoriously shown personal favoritism to Dobie and Stratton, the regular traders, in utter disregard of the interests of the Indians or the equal rights of all citizens to carry on a legitimate business. In support of this statement I would respectfully call your attention to the fact of record in your office that he, Gregory, personally requested of you authority to limit the sale of timber to the regular traders, which you, by letter, declined to do, but, it is to be regretted, did give him extraordinary discretions, which he has used to compass the same purpose so far as possible to do. In this connection I desire to state that Agent Gregory has represented to George Buffington, of Eau Claire, now a contractor, that I was requested by him to appear before the Commissioner and in his presence (Gregory's) make complaint, but that I declined to do so, referring to the circumstance of our being in Washington at the time above referred to, a most arrant falsification.

The following is what I recall of my statement to the Commissioner, to wit, Calligan Bros., a firm composed of my brother and myself, engaged in the purchase of logs of the Indians upon the Lac Court Oreilles Reservation during the winters of 1885 and 1886. Our transactions were amicable and satisfactory. During the summer of 1886 Farmer Eusler informed us that preference would be given parties who should make advances to the Indians for the purchase of logs, whereupon we proceeded to make large advances to the Indians on account of prospective contracts to be made at the proper time. It being rumored later that the sale of logs was to be confined to Dobie & Stratton, we employed Hon. T. J. Cunningham to see Agent Gregory in our behalf; Mr. Cunningham visited the agency and reported to us that our contracting would be all right, the agent, however, complaining that we were offering too much for logs. Later Agent Gregory instructed Farmer Rustler not to furnish Calligan Bros. with blank contracts, as he should not approve any contracts with them. The farmer, in pursuance of instructions of the agent, informed the Indians that we would not be permitted to purchase logs, whereupon other parties on such information proceeded to contract for the logs of the same parties for which and with whom we had made agreements and advances.

At this juncture Governor Pound interceded for us and persuaded the agent to recede from his determination, and it was agreed that in the cases of such duplicate agreements the Indians should choose, in presence of both parties, which of the parties he desired to contract with, and such choice should determine the question; the farmer being instructed accordingly. Blanks were duly furnished us and the course agreed to proceeded with until the case of Mary Bray was reached, when the agent positively refused to be governed by the choice. The attention of the Department was called to this case, but before action was had the timber had been so far removed that we waived any interference. This was a case of personal favoritism in which the farmer, acting under the advice of the agent, had persuaded Mary Bray to contract with Peter Bergevin, traveling a long distance from his office to Flambeau with Mr. Bergevin for such purpose, and upon the final hearing declined to act as in other cases, but referred it directly to the agent, who flatly refused to approve our contract as desired by Mary Bray, notwithstanding under our contract more would have been realized by Mary Bray than by the contract with Peter Bergevin.

In another case that was brought to the attention of the Special Agent Gardner, Calligan Brothers were caused great annoyance and loss by the partiality of the agent. In this case the agent omitted to approve the contract before forwarding it for the Commissioner's action, but upon its being returned with his conditional approval, he corrected his error. After work had been commenced upon this contract, the agent undertook to annul it in the interest of Dobie & Stratton, ordering work to be discontinued, putting us to much loss, and only withdrawing his opposition when Special Agent Gardner, reviewing the case, advised him to do so. Agent Gregory represented to Agent Gardner that we had no contract in the case, but we produced it, together with other papers showing the agent's prior recognition of the same.

Having contracted with the party holding patents for the north half of the southeast quarter, section 14, township 39, range 8 west, for the logs to be cut from the same, and paying a higher price than other parties were paying for such timber, and presuming upon the agent's approval, we entered upon the fulfillment of the contract, but were ordered to suspend, and did so. We paid the owner in full for all logs secured, after having first tendered the money, in trust, to Agent Gregory, who refused it and complained of us for trespass. He has subsequently approved a contract made by our assignees, The Valley Lumber Company, with the same party, for the same timber, upon the same terms made by us. While we were being prevented by the agent from a legitimate fulfillment of our contract and prosecuted for trespass, Dobie & Stratton were permitted, without interference, to enter upon the premises in question and remove a large amount of timber without the semblance of a contract.

The foregoing is the substance of the statement made by me to Acting Commissioner Upshaw last August.

Since my return, with the purpose of continuing our business, in which we had invested nearly all our means, George Calligan asked the agent if he would accept our contracts for logs cut from the reservation the coming winter. His reply was evasive, saying he had no instructions from the Department and we must take our chances with others. He afterwards instructed his chief clerk to give us no statements of accepted or patented allotments (such as were never denied to others). After our having made agreements for several million feet of logs to be cut this winter, and made advances on the same, the agent made public his determination not to approve any contract made by us, and instructed the farmer accordingly, thus compelling us to abandon our business, or engage in a profitless and probably expensive controversy with the agent and involving an appeal to your office for determination. We have chosen the former course, and sold our outfit to the Valley Lumber Company of Eau Claire, inducing our contractors to substitute the name of the said company for Calligan Brothers, which, upon being done, the agent promptly approved of the contracts.

I send this communication with much reluctance, as neither myself or Calligan Bros. court any controversy with the agent or any other party, and for the further reason that the Department can derive from this letter but a slight conception of the abuses and prostitution of trust by your agent, fast becoming notorious in this community, and unless soon arrested certain to entail upon this administration very damaging scandal.

For any further explanation or information within my knowledge you are at liberty to command me, either to appear in person or present by letter.

Very respectfully, yours,

P. H. CALLIGAN.

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. When did you first commence lumbering on any of these reservations in question?—A. In the winter of 1885-'86.

Q. What reservation did you commence upon?—A. On the Court Oreille.

Q. How far is Court Oreille from Chippewa Falls, and in what direction?—A. It is north, and about 120 miles, by the way that we go, by railroad.

Q. How far in a direct line?—A. It is about 80 miles by a direct line.

Q. Is there any water communication?—A. No, sir.

Q. Does the river on which logs from Court Oreille run come down near Chippewa Falls?—A. They pass Chippewa Falls. The logs are run from Court Oreille right into the Chippewâ River and then come by the falls.

Q. It is not navigable?—A. No, sir; it is not.

Q. Do they go up in canoes or boats?—A. They always have, though they have to carry by the falls and rough places. They used to go that way in old times.

Q. Is there a wagon-road from Chippewa Falls along up the Chippewa River to Court Oreille?—A. Yes, sir; there is.

Q. What is the size of the Court Oreille Reservation—the size of the territory?—A. I think there are three towns in the reservation.

Q. Three towns six miles square?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What is the character of the country on the reservation; to what extent was it originally timbered?—A. It was very heavy with pine; the pine was in bodies.

Q. Was it all covered with wood originally?—A. Yes, sir; but not all pine. I do not think it is half pine; I know it was not originally.

Q. Should you say that the three townships constituting the reservation were originally all forest?—A. Yes, sir; I should say so.

Q. Is there any meadow land or any natural openings?—A. There is some meadow land, what we call wild meadow, but very little. Along where there are creeks coming in there are meadows where the Indians cut hay.

Q. Does this hard wood still remain on the reservation?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Has there never been any considerable amount of hard wood cut?—A. No, sir; there has never been any cut to any extent.

Q. What proportion of the timber should you judge had been hard wood and what proportion pine?—A. Certainly two-thirds of it hard wood, perhaps three-fourths.

Q. Are the pine trees and the hard-wood trees commingled?—A. In most all cases they are.

Q. So that if the pine alone was cut out there would be hard-wood trees left?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What is the character of the hard wood?—A. It is maple, birch, and some oak.

Q. Any other marketable property?—A. No, sir.

By Senator PLATT:

Q. Any spruce?—A. No, sir; none. There is popple growth.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. What has been the growth of the pine?—A. It has been very good pine.

Q. What size?—A. The pines that I have seen and handled there I should think—the way we estimate our timber is so many logs to a tree, and we figure about 16 feet to a log in length, and I should think that the trees would average about four logs to the tree.

Q. What do you think would be the average number of feet to a tree?—A. I should not think over 800 feet to the tree.

Q. A tree that would give you a thousand feet would be an extra large tree?—A. Yes, sir. There are a good many that will cut two and three thousand, but, then, upon an average, I do not think they would go over 800 feet to a tree.

Q. Now you may describe the land for arable purposes after the timber is cut off. What is it worth for agricultural purposes?—A. Where the timber has been cut off I consider the soil worthless; it is very poor; it is sandy and rocky.

Q. Is it as good as the Maine timber land that you used to see after the pine was cut off?—A. Yes; it is considered a little better than that. It raises good crops for two or three years, and that is about all you can get off from it.

Q. Going south from this reservation, how soon do you come to prairie land or broad meadow land that is valuable for agricultural purposes?—A. You have to go about 25 miles, or 20 miles at any rate.

Q. What do you strike then?—A. We strike what is called oak beds, and there are some farms there that have been heavily timbered with hard wood and oak, and they have been cleared off, and they are fine farms with good soil.

Q. Is there a place there called Flambeau Farm?—A. No, sir; that is in another direction. This is called Rice Lake.

Q. In what direction is Flambeau farm from Court Oreille?—A. That is southeast or east of that.

Q. South of the Chippewa River?—A. Yes, sir; and east of the reservation, down the river. The Menominee and Chippewa Rivers come very near together, and the nearest point to prairie land is on the Menominee River.

Q. How far is Flambeau farm from the Court Oreille Reservation?—A. Something like 75 miles by the team road.

Q. Are there any of the Indians from Court Oreille Reservation who live at Flambeau farm?—A. Yes, sir; quite a number. I should think there were somewhere about thirty or forty families at Flambeau farm.

Q. Indian families?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where is their tribe?—A. Their tribe is at Court Oreille; the most of those are half-breeds.

Q. But among them are many who have been entitled to or claim allotments on the Court Oreille Reservation.—A. Yes, sir; most of them have had allotments on the Court Oreille.

Q. Is this Flambeau farm an Indian village entirely?—A. No, sir; it was not considered so; it is considered the same as a white settlement; they are good farmers.

Q. Are there any regulations which confine any of these Chippewa Indians to their reservations and compel them to live there?—A. No; nothing further than I have heard that Agent Gregory gave out instructions that the men, to secure land on the reservation, would have to live on their claims.

Q. But that was with reference to the allotment?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. There is no law or regulation of the Indian Office that forces the Indians to live there?—A. Not that I know of.

Q. So that they can go anywhere else they like to live?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. When Calligan Brothers commenced logging on the Court Oreille Reservation in 1885, with about how many Indians did you make contracts?—A. I should say somewhere between fifteen and eighteen or twenty; somewhere along there.

Q. Did you make those contracts on the regular printed forms that were furnished?—A. Yes, sir; we did.

Q. On this printed form [showing a blank form to the witness, the same as already put in evidence]?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was the clause "and shall not be assigned or sublet under penalty of annulment thereof" in your contract of 1885?—A. No, sir.

Q. But with that exception, you think that was the form of contract?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And by each contract the Indian agreed with Calligan Brothers that he would cut the logs and deliver them at the place where you were entitled to take them?—A. Yes, sir; just in that range.

Q. Where was the place of delivery in this contract?—A. On Court Oreille, Devil's Lake, or Eddy Creek, or any place where it landed.

Q. That was uniform; I mean the terms of the contract?—A. Yes, sir; and the place of delivery was put in writing.

Q. How many million feet did your contracts of that year cover—for 1885-'86?—A. Between five and six million.

Q. Between five and six million feet of pine timber?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember, without referring to the list, what your prices were that you agreed to pay that were filled into these printed contracts?—A. I think it was from $5.50 to $6. I do not think we paid over $6 or under $5.50. As near as I can remember that is what it was.

Q. Do you remember whether your contracts for that year were approved by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs before you or the Indians went to work to actually cut logs?—A. I do not think that they were.

Q. State about that. What season of the year was it that you made or gathered in these fifteen or twenty contracts? Bear in mind we are speaking now of 1885-'86?—A. I commenced in October to gather those in.

Q. And you finished by making your contracts at what time?—A. In November. The 1st of October is when I commenced that year.

Q. And when you commenced lumbering?—A. Yes, sir; that is the first work I had ever done on the reservation.

Q. But before that time had your contracts been approved by Agent Gregory and sent to Washington?—A. They had been approved by the farmer.

Q. Give his name?—A. Mr. Pero.

Q. And sent where?—A. To Ashland, to Agent Gregory.

Q. But had not gone to Washington at that time?—A. I could not say.

Q. When they actually went to Washington you do not know?—A. No, sir; I do not.

Q. You state that you began operations in October?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did they begin to cut down trees?—A. In November.

Q. You may state whether you had any contract or understanding with the Indians other than that appearing on the face of the contract.—A. Yes, sir; we did.

Q. What was it?—A. There were contracts where we guaranteed the Indians so much stumpage in some cases.

Q. How did that arrangement come about?—A. It came about because the Indian had been compelled to let his timber to be cut to some of the Indians.

Q. Why would he make that contract; because those Indians had teams and facilities for doing it?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What had happened when this occurred?—A. It gave those Indians a chance, where there was no guaranty made, to overtrade at the stores, and it would be taken out of the account of the Indian who owned the timber.

Q. Charged up to him, you mean?—A. Yes, sir; so that it would not leave him anything. If the Indian who was putting in his logs saw fit to draw that amount it would be charged to the Indian, and the Indian putting the logs in would get the stumpage instead of the other Indian.

Q. In other words, the Indian making the contract with you would make a contract with other Indians to do the cutting of the timber and give them credit at the store, and there was danger that the Indians actually doing the work would overcharge the contracting Indian and use up all his money?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And therefore you, as contractor, guaranteed the Indian who made the contract with you against the Indians whom he himself employed that they would not overcharge him?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was that done in every case in the first winter of 1885-'86?—A. No, sir, it was not done in every case, but in most cases it was.

Q. Having made that guaranty that the Indian contracting with you should realize so much net, what steps did you take to protect yourselves?—A. The only way we could protect ourselves was that I looked after that myself and kept right around at the camps to see that the Indians worked; to see that they had men there to work, and watched the store to see that this man did not overdraw and get enough supplies ahead to last him until the next summer to be charged up to this Indian.

Q. Do you remember what you guaranteed as net stumpage to the Indians this winter of 1885-'86?—A. It was from two, two and a half, or two seventy-five, or along there.

Q. State how many cases there were where Indians actually cut and hauled their own logs that winter, of yours, that you contracted with?—A. I think that was all put in by Indian contractors, except one-half—

Q. I do not mean that; in how many cases out of all did you guaranty stumpage?—A. I could not say.

Q. Did you guaranty it to one or two?—A. Yes, sir; the most of it was guaranteed, and I will not say but what the whole of it was guaranteed.

By Senator PLATT:

Q. Did you guaranty as much as $3 in any case?—A. I do not think I did the first winter.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. Please state whether or not during this winter the work under your contracts was all done by Indians substantially.—A. Well, until February it was all done by Indian labor; it was all done with Indian labor the first winter up to February.

By Senator BLACKBURN:

Q. What February?—A. This would be the February of the next year.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. Do you mean February, 1886?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were there no white men up to that time?—A. No, sir.

Q. There were some after, were there?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. How many came in then under your contract?—A. I could not say how many, but Agent Gregory said, "You are not going to get in the timber, and you can have the right to put on some white labor"—I do not think he said how much.

Q. How many men were employed that winter executing your contracts, and what proportion of them were Indians and what proportion white men, as near as you can judge, after February?—A. I think there were somewhere about fifteen or sixteen or eighteen white men, and in the whole somewhere about one hundred men, perhaps one hundred and twenty-five.

Q. You mean eighty white men?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. With reference to this work in 1885-'86 and 1886-'87, what class of white men have come in to work under those contracts?—A. There are men of all kinds—teamsters, sawyers, and cooks.

Q. Of what nationality?—A. Irish, German, Scotch, Norwegian, and French.

Q. The lumbermen in that section are not confined to any one race?—A. No, sir; they are not.

Q. I will ask you whether such of the Indians as work at lumbering, able-bodied Indians, are as good as the average of the white men?—A. The best lumberman we ever had was an Indian, but they are not all so.

Q. As a general proposition, are they as good as white men?—A. No, sir; they are not.

Q. What are the drawbacks to employing Indians as lumbermen, as compared with employing white lumbermen, as they average; why do you give preference to white men?—A. Because the white man stays there steadily. He goes up in the fall and does not care about leaving the camp until he is discharged in the spring; whereas the Indian is right near home, and there are always dances going on, and they are off two days out of every six.

Q. Are they controllable at those times?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. I mean can you keep them if they insist on going away?—A. No, sir.

Q. Are they entirely peaceable?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. But if there is a good time, a war dance or anything of that kind, they like to go?—Yes, sir.

Q. But they do not follow the war dance by any war?—No, sir.

Q. They have what they call war dances?—A. No, sir; they have what they call medicine dances. Whenever any of their tribe is sick they have what is called a medicine dance.

Q. And they all want to go to that?—A. Yes, sir. It is to heal the sick. It makes some great cures sometimes, they imagine, amongst them.

Q. Under these contracts of 1885-'86, the nature of which you have stated, you furnished goods to all these Indians?—A. Yes, sir; I did.

Q. Did you keep the store on the reservation?—A. No, sir; it was close by the reservation.

Q. In the village?—A. No, sir; it was on what is called Smith's farm, a place I rented.

Q. A place you rented for that purpose, for your headquarters?—A. Yes, sir. There were 50 acres there on a small creek, called Hay Creek, emptying into the Court Oreille.

Q. And you charged the supplies to the Indians and settled with them before you paid for the timber?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. As a matter of fact, where you had given this guaranty, you had nothing to do with the contract of the Indian except to pay him this stumpage you had guaranteed to him?—A. No, sir.

Q. You never paid him any more than you guaranteed?—A. No, sir.

Q. And you paid him no less?—A. No, sir; no less or more.

Q. So that after that guaranty was made by Indian contractor lost all interest in the expense of doing the work—it was all transferred by that guaranty to Calligan Bros.?—A. Yes, sir; that guaranty was made mostly by the farmer on the reservation.

Q. The Indian farmer undertook to supervise those contracts?—A. Yes, sir; the Indian would write "I hereby authorize Calligan Bros. to go upon my land and cut and remove my timber for so much, or so that I may receive so much stumpage clear of the expense of banking."

Q. That is to say, he made a contract supplementary to this one which we have seen?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you make a written contract in all cases of this kind with the Indian?—A. Yes; in pretty much every case.

Q. And those were supervised by the Indian farmer?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did he supervise the prices you were to guaranty for stumpage?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And those supplemental contracts were known to Mr. Gregory, the agent?—A. I couldn't say.

Q. Were those contracts ever transmitted to the agent?—A. No, sir.

Q. And therefore they were not transmitted to Washington?—A. No, sir.

Q. Who else was logging on this Court Oreille Reservation in the winter of 1885-'86?—A. Dobie & Stratton, Dan McDonald, and Gaynor & Bergeron—the latter a small concern of about 2,000,000 feet, I think.

Q. Did they employ Indians wholly?—A. Yes sir; during that time. I understand the farmer used to go around to our camps and if he saw any white men he notified them to leave, and also notified us to settle with them and discharge them until about some time in February.

Q. During this winter about how much timber did Dobie & Stratton get out?—A. I think about 30,000,000 feet.

Q. How many men were employed in getting out that 30,000,000 feet?—A. On the reservation we figure about one man to 80,000 feet.

Q. Did Dobie & Stratton employ Indians exclusively during that winter?—A. I think not.

Q. Did they employ them up to February?—A. I think not; I believe not.

Q. What proportion of their men were white men and what proportion Indians?—A. I think they had one camp where they had something like forty or fifty white men. You understand that I was not through that camp, but men from the camp told me they worked all that winter on the logs. They were supposed to be working on the dam, but they left the dam in the fall and stopped in the same camps and cut timber on the reservation.

Q. You understood that in that camp there were about thirty white men?—A. Yes, sir; from thirty to forty white men.

Q. But at the other camps, did you understand that the men were mainly Indians?—A. Yes, sir; the most of them were Indians.

Q. How extensive were the contracts of Dan McDonald?—A. I think he put in 10,000,000 feet that winter.

Q. Did you understand that he employed Indians principally?—A. Yes, sir; it was so understood there.

Q. Have you any knowledge, or reason to suppose, that during this winter McDonald and Dobie & Stratton guarantied stumpage to the Indians who made contracts with them, in the same way that you did, and that the Indian farmer supervised and approved those contracts?—A. I rather think they did in some cases; I could not say for certain.

Q. You do not know whether the custom is universal or not?—A. No, sir; I do not. A man doing business on the reservation tries to keep his business to himself as close as he can.

Q. You say this custom of guarantying stumpage, which resulted in these supplemental agreements, grew out of the jealousy of the Indians and fears lest they would not get adequate stumpage?—A. There have been a lot of them which have been obtained in that way.

Q. This custom grew out of that?—A. Yes, sir; it did.

Q. But you have no knowledge that it prevailed with Dobie & Stratton's and the McDonald contracts?—A. I have not; no, sir.

Q. Now, coming to the winter of 1886-'87, how much lumber did Calligan Bros. put in that winter, and with how many persons did you have contracts?—A. We cut between 9,000,000 and 10,000,000 feet, and we had between twenty-five and thirty contracts, I think. I do not state that as a positive fact because I would have to stop and figure up; but I think somewhere near that.

Q. Did you make contracts in the same way at that time, guarantying stumpage?—A. Yes, sir; the same.

Q. What was the proportion of white men and Indians employed under those contracts in 1886-'87?—A. I think there were somewhere about thirty-five white men, and the balance were Indians.

Q. Up to what time—all winter?—A. Yes; you might figure that all winter; and the Indians, I think, numbered somewhere about one hundred and twenty-five.

Q. That was the last winter you were there?—A. Yes, sir; we had about two hundred men, and of that number about thirty-five were white men.

Q. And the rest were Indians; and that proportion continued until you finished the job?—A. Some time the last of February Agent Gregory sent word that we could put on a few more white men.

Q. Did you employ white men more freely after you got that authority?—A. Yes, sir; we did. Understand, before that when we wanted an Indian in some cases we had to go 200 miles to find him.

Q. It became difficult to get them, and then you were allowed to take white men as they came along?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did Gaynor & Bergeron put in any lumber that year; and, if so, how much?—A. I think they put in between 10,000,000 and 12,000,000 feet, and Dan McDonald something over 10,000,000.

Q. How many did Dobie & Stratton put in?—A. I believe 40,000,000 feet.

Q. State what you know about the labor they employed; what proportion of white and what proportion of Indian labor?—A. I could not state how it was that winter; I do not know.

Q. Have you any reason to suppose that they were informed in February, as you were, that they might put on white labor?—A. One of their camps was right in sight of us, and in that camp they were mostly all white men—that one camp. I do not know anything about the rest of their camps. I used to go to my camp often and I would see their men there.

Q. That finishes your lumber operations for 1886-'87?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did you do last summer or fall with reference to lumbering operations for the present winter?—A. I went on and contracted for about 8,000,000 feet.

Q. You had the Indians execute the contracts?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What stopped those contracts?—A. Agent Gregory refused to sign them.

Q. Did the farmer sign them?—A. No, sir; he said that Agent Gregory notified him not to sign them.

Q. What is the farmer's name?—A. William Rusler.

Q. Was that refusal persisted in?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did you do as the result?—A. I was compelled to sell out; it was getting so late that I could not do anything in Washington, I thought.

Q. To whom did you sell?—A. To the Valley Lumber Company, of Eau Claire.

Q. Who represented them?—A. William Carson and George B. Buffington; there is another man, but I do not know his name.

Q. How long is it since you were on that reservation this winter?—A. I think I was there about five weeks ago.

Q. Was the Valley Lumber Company getting out lumber?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you learn how much they intended to get out?—A. Somewhere between 10,000,000 and 12,000,000 feet.

Q. How many contracts did you turn over to them?—A. I think there were forty-one contracts.

By Senator BLACKBURN:

Q. Representing how much lumber?—A. Somewhere about 8,000,000 feet.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. Who else, to your knowledge, have contracts and are getting out lumber?

Senator BLACKBURN. He did not state the source of his information in regard to that 10,000,000 or 12,000,000 feet.

Q. You saw that when you were there?—A. Yes, sir; when I go to the reservation I stop there.

Q. And you saw their men at work, and learned from them their plans for this winter?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who else have contracts there this winter?—A. Dobie & Stratton, Clark & Thomas, and England.

Q. Take Dobie & Stratton. What did you see and learn as to Dobie & Stratton's work during this winter?—A. I have only been to one of their camps, and their crew was not in at that time.

Q. You may state any information you obtained in regard to their plans for the winter, how much they expected to get out, etc.—A. They expected to get 50,000,000 feet, but thought they would fall considerably short on account of deep snow.

Q. You also spoke of Clark & Thomas, and England. How much have they contracts for, if you know?—A. For about 20,000,000 feet.

Q. State what you have learned or have reason to believe as to the men who are being employed under the Dobie & Stratton, Clark & Thomas, and England contracts; whether they are white men or Indians, and in what proportion employed; and having done that I will ask you to state what your sources of information are?—A. I think they have but very few Indians employed; they are mostly all white men in both camps.

Senator BLACKBURN. Of course I object to this testimony as merely hearsay, and I will ask that the objection be noted.

The CHAIRMAN. I would like also to have it noted that the object is to obtain sources of information.

Q. What makes you think that Dobie & Stratton, Clark & Thomas, and England are employing white men mainly?—A. I have not heard of their going off the reservation to hire Indians, and it is impossible to put in that amount of timber with the Indian labor which is on the reservation.

Q. When you were on the reservation did you see anything which conveyed to your mind any information as to the extent to which white labor was being employed?—A. I have seen fifty to seventy-five men at a time going in on the reservation this winter.

Q. You may state anything you know of your own knowledge or what you have heard from others in regard to it?—A. I have come up on the train when those men have come in, claiming that they had hired with Dobie & Stratton to go in on the reservation to work. I could not state anything further than that.

Q. Have you ever heard that Dobie & Stratton have contracted for the timber belonging to minor children?—A. I have.

Q. From whom have you heard that?—A. From a man named William Perry, who lives on Court Oreille, and I have heard it from an Indian now in the city, whose name is Charlie Headflyer.

Q. You say he is now here in Washington?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know of any cases within your own knowledge where lands allotted to minor children have been cut over?—A. No, sir; not that I could swear to.

Q. Have you ever cut any of your own timber from lots belonging to minor children?—A. Yes, sir; on one 80-acre lot.

Q. When was that?—A. I cut that a year ago this winter.

Q. What process did you go through with in order to do that?—A. I put it into the court and the judge appointed a special guardian, who sold the timber to me and turned the funds over to the general guardian of the child.

Q. Did you have to guaranty stumpage in that case?—A. Yes, sir; and give bonds.

Q. How much did you guaranty?—A. It was $3,37½.

Senator BLACKBUEN. I think, in answer to a question put a little while ago by Senator Platt, that the witness stated he never had guarantied as much as $3 yet.

The WITNESS. That was in the first year, but this was the last winter.

Q. In the fall of 1886 did you have some trouble regarding, or some apprehensions concerning, your contracts?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was that in the summer of 1886?—A. No, sir; not in the summer time.

Q. When did you first have apprehensions about them?—A. I think it was some time in August that we understood that the cutting was going to be strictly confined to Dobie & Stratton.

Q. When you heard that, what did you do?—A. I went to Mr. Thomas Cunningham, of Chippewa Falls, who was at that time, I think, mayor of the city.

Q. And an editor?—A. Yes, sir; the editor of a paper. I asked him to go to Ashland and see Agent Gregory and ascertain if that was so, or if we would be allowed to cut timber on the reservation. He went up there, as I suppose. He left the city, and when I met him again he told me that everything was all right; to go ahead and make my contracts, and I did so.

Q. And thereupon you made contracts with thirty or forty Indians?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What next took place to disturb you; what obstacle did you next meet with? We went on and made our contracts. In the first place I went in June and asked the farmer, Mr. Rusler, if there would be any objection to my advancing the Indians supplies with the understanding that we should have their timber. He said, no; that Agent Gregory had notified him that any one stopping on the reservation through the summer time and advancing the Indians supplies should have the preference to the timber. When this news came out, in August, that the cutting was going to be strictly confined to Dobie & Stratton and regular traders, I had then advanced about five or six thousand dollars to the Indians. So I got Mr. Cunningham to go and see Agent Gregory, and he came back and reported that it was all right and told me to go ahead and buy all the timber I could get hold of and make my advances, and I did so.

Q. What was the next obstacle that you met with?—A. The next thing that came up was, Mr. Cunningham notified me that I had better go and see Agent Gregory; he said he thought it would be the best thing I could do to go and see him.

Q. And you went from Chippewa Falls to Ashland and saw him?—A. Yes, sir; and he refused to sign any of the contracts made by me on the reservation.

Q. What reason did he give you for so doing?—A. He would give me no reason. After I went back I asked Mr. Cunningham what his reasons were, and he said Mr. Gregory's reasons were that I was paying too much for timber.

Q. What did you induce Cunningham to do after that?—A. I furnished Cunningham with money to come to Washington, and he came here.

Q. Was that before he had seen Agent Gregory?—A. I think it was.

Q. You may state in regard to Mr. Cunningham's visit to Washington.—A. He came to Washington, and when he returned he reported it would be all right; that any one would be allowed to buy timber; and we kept on advancing supplies.

Q. After that, did he go and see Agent Gregory?—A. Yes, sir; I think so, and Agent Gregory, he claimed, said it would be all right.

Q. Later on Mr. Cunningham advised you to go and see Agent Gregory, and you made the trip with the result you have stated?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did you do next?—A. We saw that we were going to lose our timber that we had contracted for, and we had to do something, and we then went to ex-Governor Pound, of Wisconsin, and he went and saw Agent Gregory, and he concluded to let us on the reservation to buy timber.

Q. In the mean time, had any one else made contracts with the same Indians with whom you had contracted?—A. Yes, sir; after we had contracted with those Indians.

Q. What took place then?—A. Mr. Peter Burgevin, of Chippewa Falls, went and saw the Indians. I had paid a man $3 a day for staying in the woods looking the timber over. I then went to Flambeau farm and made contracts there with some four half-breeds, I think. Mr. Bergevin, after this report was sent out, went up there and saw those half-breed Indians, and told them that Calligan Bros. would not be allowed to log on the reservation, and that he had come there to buy their timber.

Q. Had Agent Gregory given the farmer, Rusler, any directions about furnishing you with blank contracts?—A. He notified him not to furnish us with blank contracts.

Q. And Mr. Bergevin, knowing that, went to these Indians?—A. Yes, sir; and told them that Farmer Rusler had told him that we would not be allowed to buy any timber on the reservation; and he persuaded the husband of this woman to go to the reservation, and he would prove that I would not be allowed to put in a stick of timber on the reservation. The Indians went up there, and went from there home. They could not make any contracts; the contracts had to be made by their wives, and they went back home. Shortly after Mr. Rusler went to Chippewa Falls, and, taking a team over there, he and Bergevin went to Flambeau farm and insisted on these parties making contracts with Bergevin, giving them to understand that unless they contracted with Bergevin they would not be allowed to cut timber that season.

Senator BLACKBURN. May I ask if the witness was present when this was said?

The WITNESS. I obtained that from the parties who contracted; I learned it from the Indians.

Senator BLACKBURN. He does not give the names of the Indians.

The WITNESS. Mary Bray is the name of one of the women.

Q. From how many of the parties with whom you contracted did you learn that they had made contracts with Bergevin as the result of the statement that you were not to be allowed to do business?—A. I think Bergevin made contracts with four.

Q. Did you learn from those four that they made those contracts in consequence of that representation?—A. I did; I went and saw them.

Q. Did any one else make contracts with the Indians who had contracted with you?—A. Yes, sir; Gaynor & Bergeron made contracts with them.

Q. Were they of Chippewa Falls?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was their business?—A. Lumbering.

Q. And Peter Bergevin had been lumbering?—A. Yes, sir.

Senator BLACKBURN. Will you allow the witness to furnish the names of all the parties who gave him this information?

The CHAIRMAN. I will obtain that information from him if he can give it. (To the witness.) Did Gaynor & Bergeron make contracts with Indians who had previously made contracts with you?

The WITNESS. They did.

Q. Did you learn from those Indians that similar representations had been made to them to the effect that you were not to be allowed to make contracts, and for that reason they should make a second contract with them?—A. Yes, sir; that is the reason they gave.

Q. State the names of the Indians who had made contracts with you from whom you learned that these representations had been made to them either by Bergevin or by Gaynor & Bergeron, or in their behalf.—A. I could not do that. At Flambeau there is a woman named Mary Bray, and there are two other parties there who told me so.

Q. Can you tell their names by looking at a list of your contracts?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You may do so after the committee adjourns, and give us that information at our next meeting.—A. There was a man by the name of Maingor with whom Gaynor & Bergeron made a contract in place of the contract he had made with me.

Q. What was the result of Governor Pound's representations in your behalf?—A. Agent Gregory told Governor Pound, in my presence, that I should be allowed to go ahead and contract, and that the parties I had contracted with who had made contracts with others subsequently should have the right to change those contracts to me if they saw fit. All the parties were to be notified by the farmer to appear, and whoever the Indian decided should have the timber should have it.

Q. In other words, that they might do as they pleased?—A. Yes, sir.

A. And that is the arrangement under which you proceeded during the winter of 1886-'87?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You have already stated why you were not allowed to go on during the winter of 1887-'88?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is Peter Bergevin a Frenchman?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was Gaynor?—A. He is an Irishman.

Q. Was Cunningham a candidate for office in the fall of 1886 at Chippewa Falls?—A. Yes, sir; he was a candidate for assemblyman, I think.

Q. What are your politics?—A. I am a Republican.

Q. What are the politics of Bergevin and Gaynor?—A. They are Democrats, I think.

Q. What is the character of the voting population of Chippewa Falls? Are there Irish and French voters there?—A. I think the most of the voting population are Irish and French.

By Senator BLACKBURN :

Q. What were the politics of Cunningham?—A. He is a Democrat.

Q. Was he elected or defeated?—A. He was elected.

By the CHAIRMAN :

Q. Now I wish to ask you something about this Mary Bray contract. Who was Mary Bray?—A. The Indian women there in applying for their patents generally give their Indian name or the name their parents gave them. She is married to a Frenchman named Joseph Perro.

Q. How much land had Mary Bray?—A. She had, it was supposed, one 80 acre piece.

Q. What kind of land was it?—A. Mostly all pine.

Q. Were the 80 acres all covered with pine?—A. Very nearly the whole 80 acres were covered with pine.

Q. How much pine was taken off that 80 acres, do you think?—A. I think a little over 2,000,000 feet.

Q. You have seen it and are now stating what you know personally about the quantity of pine on that lot?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What were the terms of your contract with Mary Bray?—A. Six dollars a thousand, and I guaranteed her $3 a thousand.

Q. That would be $6,000 that you guaranteed her for the timber on that lot?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you succeed in holding that contract under the arrangement Governor Pound had secured?—A. No, sir.

Q. Did she decide against you?—A. No, sir; she decided in my favor and insisted on my having the timber. Mr. Rusler then said that he would not act in the case; that he would refer it to Agent Gregory; and he did so, and Agent Gregory refused to sign the contract.

Q. And therefore you lost it?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who did obtain that contract?—A. Peter Bergevin.

Q. Has the timber all been taken off?—A. I do not think it has. It has been cut over, but there is some timber standing yet.

Q. Was the contract with Bergevin fulfilled, as you understand; did he go on and cut the timber?—A. Yes, sir; I think so.

Q. Is it your judgment that $2,000,000 feet were taken off?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know whether Bergevin paid her the same price?—A. I could not swear to it, but I understand that he did not; that he paid something like $2.75.

Senator BLACKBURN. Will the witness tell where he got that information? He is going on and telling what he understood.

The WITNESS. I could not give the name, but it was talked about there on the reservation by different parties that they did not get as much stumpage.

Q. What condition is that 80 acres of land in now?—A. It is all cut over.

Q. What is left upon it?—A. There is pine left upon it that is 1½ to 2 feet through on the stump.

Q. Is it in one body?—A. No, sir; it is scattered. Every tree that showed rot on it, what we call "punts" sticking out on the side of the tree, has been let alone.

Q. Is the hard wood upon it cut?—A. No, sir.

Q. How much is there left of that?—A. There is but little on there.

Q. Is there a body of timber in one bunch on that Mary Bray land that is uncut?—A. No, sir; I do not think so.

Q. Is that land good for cultivation?—A. No; it is worth nothing; it is rocky and sandy.

Q. What is its value?—A. I consider it worthless.

Q. Is it worth a dollar an acre?—A. No, sir; I would not accept of it as a gift and pay the taxes.

Q. Is it conveniently located for one to live on; is it near the village?—A. It is about five or six miles from the village.

Q. Is it located on a road?—A. No, sir; it is not on a road. There are houses within a mile of there; families are living within a mile of there.

Q. But it is a piece of land that is not fit for use?—A. No, sir. In that country, in the woods where it is rocky, it is very rocky and rough and muddy, so that it is almost impossible to get in there with wagons in the summer season. A man can get around in the winter all right.

Q. State how, under these contracts, which provided that three-quarters of the land should be cut over and the other quarter left, the work was done?—A. The way it is done is this: On the margin of the contract is drawn an outline of the lot, and the end that was designated to be left standing would have a line drawn across with cross-marks on it like this. [Indicating.]

Q. Was that done on each contract?—A. I think it was done on every contract. I think you will find it on all the contracts at the Department.

Q. In arranging the contracts who designated the end of the lot which was to be reserved?—A. The farmer marked it out; but he would ask either the Indian or the man contracting for the timber, or both, where this reservation should be.

Q. And these contracts would come on to Washington with those diagrams on them?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What attention, if any, was paid, in cutting off the timber in the cases which you know of, to that diagram?—A. When our man looks over this land to see if there is any timber on it before we advance supplies or cash, he goes over that 80 acres and there is generally one end of the 80 acres that is hard-wood timber, and when he comes in and makes his report he says, reserve that part of this 80.

By Senator BLACKBURN:

Q. That is your own man you are speaking of now?—A. Yes, sir.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. And that reservation was not always in strict conformity to the diagram on the back of the contract, was it? Was the reserve piece that was not cut always the end which in the diagram was reserved?—A. I do not think it was.

Q. You would not say that ordinarily it was?—A. I would not like to say that; I do not know, because whenever the Indians were cutting timber I never went near the "eighties" at all.

Q. Were these contracts made in duplicate?—A. Yes, sir; they were made in duplicate and sent to Washington, one being returned and the other held here in the Department.

Q. And the diagram is on each of them, and comes back on the one that is returned?—A. Yes, sir.

The select committee then adjourned until Saturday, March 10, 1888; at 10.30 o'clock a. m.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Saturday, March 10, 1888.

The select committee was called to order by the chairman, Senator Chandler, at 10.30 o'clock a. m.

Present, Messrs. Chandler, Platt, Cullom, and Blackburn.

The CHAIRMAN (to Senator Blackburn). If you will waive the cross-examination of Mr. Calligan for the present I would like to take the testimony of some Indian witnesses.

Senator BLACKBURN. That will be satisfactory to me.

The CHAIRMAN. I will recall Mr. Coffey.

TESTIMONY OF JAMES I. COFFEY (Recalled).

JAMES I. COFFEY was recalled and further examined.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. What other interpreter is there in Washington with these Indians besides yourself?—A. Antoine Denomie.

Q. Is he present in the room?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. How many of the witnesses who have been summoned here to testify speak English?—A. There is John B. Denomie, who is the brother of Antoine Denomie, who speaks English, and Ira Isham and Charles Headflyer speak English. Those are all that I know who can speak English intelligibly.

Q. Who among the others to be examined would need interpreters?—A. Sang-gha-ah-me-goons, or Mike Diver, is one and Maw-see-gee-sick. I think Henry Linch can understand English, but I do not think he can speak it. I think he will need an interpreter. A couple of parties here who were not summoned will need an interpreter. Annimossing is one and Indebbeans, or Little Cloud, is another.

TESTIMONY OF ANTOINE DENOMIE.

ANTOINE DENOMIE, having been duly sworn by the chairman, was interrogated as follows:

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. Where do you live?—A. On the Bad River Reservation.

Q. Are you an interpreter?—A. Not a professional interpreter. I was appointed to come with the delegation to stand by the interpreters as an assistant.

Q. You speak the language of the tribe?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And also speak English?—Yes, sir.

The CHAIRMAN (to Senator Blackburn). I propose to swear these men as interpreters.

Senator BLACKBURN. I shall enter an objection against his acting as an interpreter if you are going to have him as a witness also.

The CHAIRMAN. I do not know that I need to use this one as a witness; but I thought I would swear both Mr. Coffey and Mr. Denomie as interpreters.

Senator BLACKBURN. Well, let me note the objection.

(James I. Coffey and Antoine Denomie were then duly sworn by the chairman to act as interpreters.)

The CHAIRMAN. I will now call Charles Headflyer.

TESTIMONY OF CHARLES HEADFLYER.

CHARLES HEADFLYER, having been duly sworn by the chairman, was interrogated as follows:

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. Where do you live?—A. I live on the Court Oreille Reservation.

Q. Do you belong to the band of Indians which live on that reservation?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long have you lived there?—A. Since I was born.

Q. Have you been there this winter?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. During the whole winter?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What have you been doing this winter?—A. I haven't been doing anything this winter.

Q. Do you know about the lumbering which is going on there this winter?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you visited the lumber camps?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Tell the committee what contractors are cutting and hauling lumber there this winter—I mean the men to whom the Indians have sold their timber?—A. You mean the companies? There is Dobie & Stratton, Clark & Thomas, and the Valley Lumber Company.

Q. What is the name of the agent of the Valley Lumber Company?—

A. I don't remember what the agent's name is.

Q. How many of the Dobie & Stratton camps are there this winter?—

A. Twenty-six camps.

Q. Are there white men and Indians at work in all the camps?—A. They are most all white men.

Q. Can you tell us about how many in all are at work for Dobie & Stratton, white men and Indians?—A. There must be about ten hundred Dobie & Stratton men.

Q. A thousand men, you mean?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Are there any Indians among them?—A. Very few.

Q. How many do you think are white men and how many Indians?—

A. There isn't more than seventy-five Indians, I think.

Q. What work are Dobie & Stratton's men doing, or what were they doing when you saw them?—A. All kinds of work; chopping, cutting logs, and driving teams.

Q. Did you see chopping going on?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And trees being cut?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where are the logs being hauled?—A. You mean where the logs are delivered? In the lake.

Q. At Court Oreille?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where do they go from there?—A. To the Chippewa River.

Q. Is there an outlet from the lake to the river?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. They run out from Lake Court Oreille into Chippewa River?—
A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now about the Valley Lumber Company—how many men are they employing?—A. There must be close to 250.

Q. Are they all actively at work, busily at work?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. How many Indians and white men are employed; what portion of the 250 are Indians and what portion white men?—A. I think they are half Indians and half white men.

Q. How many men are Clark & Thomas employing?—A. There must be nearly up to three hundred.

Q. How many of those are white and how many Indians, as near as you can judge?—A. I think there are about forty Indians and the rest are white men.

Q. Have you worked at lumbering on the reservation?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. When?—A. The last I worked was four years ago.

Q. Have you applied for work since, or asked to be employed?—A. No, sir.

Q. Did you come here with the Chippewa Indians to see the Commissioner?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Why did you come; what is your reason for coming?—A. I came here to help the Indians about their matters.

Q. What was the object in their coming?—A. They wanted the Commissioner to fix what was the trouble in the reservation.

Q. State briefly what the trouble is, as you understand it.—A. It is about the school lands and the swamp lands in the reservation.

Q. What else?—A. And about these white men working on the reservation.

Q. What else; any complaint about allotments?—A. About these allotments, that I understood the whites were cutting upon on the reservation.

Q. Anything more?—A. About the reservation getting smaller.

Q. Do you think of anything else?—A. And about this money we received from the timber. The agent took the money and put it in the bank and we don't receive the interest.

Q. Is there anything more?

(No response.)

Q. I will ask you if all the complaints of the Court Oreille Indians have been put in writing?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who put them in writing?—A. Mr. Coffey.

Q. Were they all in one paper or in different papers?—A. They were in two papers.

Q. Were they presented to the Commissioner?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you sign them?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You think they were put in two papers and presented to the Commissioner?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you had an allotment yourself?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. When was your allotment made?—A. It must be near ten years now.

Q. For how many acres of land?—A. The patent says eighty acres of land.

Q. Had you a new allotment two years ago?—A. No, sir.

Q. Have you a right to eighty acres more?—A. I do not think it.

Q. You do not think you have?—A. No, sir.

Q. Have you sold timber for yourself?—A. There was no timber.

Q. So that part of it had no timber upon it to sell?—A. No, sir.

Q. How many Indians have contracts with Dobie & Stratton?—A. I could not tell that, because they are scattered all over the reservation.

The CHAIRMAN. That is all.

Senator BLACKBURN. I do not think I want to ask him any questions.

TESTIMONY OF BEMOSHAGESICK.

BEMOSHAGESICK, of the Court Oreille band of Chippewa Indians, was duly sworn by the chairman and interrogated as follows, the questions and answers being interpreted by Messrs. Coffey and Denomie.

The CHAIRMAN. Where do you live?

Interpreter COFFEY. He says on the Court Oreille Reservation, at the trading post.

The CHAIRMAN. Have you been there this winter?

The INTERPRETER. He says he has.

The CHAIRMAN. Have you been there all winter?

The INTERPRETER. He has been there all winter.

The CHAIRMAN. Has he seen the cutting and hauling of logs on the reservation this winter?

The INTERPRETER. Yes, he saw it.

The CHAIRMAN. State the names of the lumbering companies who are getting out logs?

The INTERPRETER. He says he don't know their names.

The CHAIRMAN. Do you know the names of any of the men who are agents of the lumber companies?

The INTERPRETER. Dobie, he says, is one he knows. He says he knows the names, but he says he can not give them.

The CHAIRMAN. Who keeps the store where he lives?

The INTERPRETER. Dobie.

The CHAIRMAN. Has he been to any of the camps this winter?

The INTERPRETER. He says yes; those around the trading-post where he lives.

The CHAIRMAN. Are there any white men engaged in logging and lumbering this winter?

The INTERPRETER. Yes, sir.

The CHAIRMAN. Are there any Indians engaged in lumbering?

The INTERPRETER. He says there are a few.

The CHAIRMAN. How many men in all, whites and Indians, do you think are lumbering this winter on the reservation?

The INTERPRETER. He says he thinks about 1,600 white men and, perhaps, about a hundred Indians.

The CHAIRMAN. Will you ask him why he came to Washington?

The INTERPRETER. He says that it was because he felt dissatisfied with the reservation in some manner, and he will go on to explain.

Mr. DENOMIE (interpreter). And he says he thinks there are things going on in the reservation on which he is placed that he don't think right.

The CHAIRMAN. State some of the things which are going on which you do not think are right.

The INTERPRETER. He says the way that he understood the reservation was laid out in the first place, when it was set aside, that the size it was made then it is not as large now, the way he understands it.

The CHAIRMAN. Anything else?

The INTERPRETER. And he says that there are schools on the reservation now and that there were no lands set aside for school purposes at the time. He says about sixteen years ago the white men bought pine timber from his old chiefs, his old men, and they were promised $10,000 for one year's cutting of the pine; that they cut the pine two winters, the white men did, and they never received pay for the timber but once, and they say all the Indians got 75 cents each at that time, and that was the only time that he received any money; that was at about the end of the second year's cutting. He says another complaint is, that within the last two or three years some of the Indians have not received the money that is due them; that they received a portion of it but did not receive all that they are entitled to from the timber they had sold; that he sold the timber for $6 a thousand and he was paid $2.25 in settlement and $3.75 kept out per thousand.

The CHAIRMAN. Let him go on and give the details of that; tell the whole story.

The INTERPRETER. He says he thinks the reason the $3.75 was taken out was because of the work done on the timber. He says now, during this latter part of the summer and last fall, minor children have taken allotments of 40 acres each, and those older people, who have taken 80 acres before, have taken additional acre allotments, and all those allotments are now being cut and the timber taken off.

The CHAIRMAN. Does he mean that the timber is being cut from the land which has been allotted to minors?

The INTERPRETER. Yes; that timber is being cut now from the minors' land.

The CHAIRMAN. Have you ever sold any timber; if so, when and to whom, and at what price?

The INTERPRETER. He has sold timber last winter to Dobie, about 500,000 feet, and received $2.75 per thousand for it in money.

The CHAIRMAN. Who did the cutting and hauling?

The INTERPRETER. Antoine Denesher.

The CHAIRMAN. Who employed him?

The INTERPRETER. Dobie.

The CHAIRMAN. Who paid him?

The INTERPRETER. Dobie paid him.

The CHAIRMAN. Did he take out of the contract price what he paid him when he settled?

The INTERPRETER. He says he understands there was $3 taken off from the contract price to pay this man.

Mr. DENOMIE (interpreter). And he says his timber stood right along the bank of the river.

The CHAIRMAN. Was the amount that was taken out too much, in his opinion?

The INTERPRETER. Yes; he says he thinks they took too much money from him.

The CHAIRMAN. That is all I want to ask him.

Senator BLACKBURN. I have no questions.

The chairman called Ira Isham as a witness.

TESTIMONY OF IRA ISHAM.

IRA ISHAM, having been duly sworn by the chairman, was interrogated as follows:

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. Where do you live?—A. I live at Court Oreille Reservation.

Q. Do you own property there?—A. My children do, yes, sir.

Q. What is your nationality?—A. I am an American.

Q. How are you connected with the tribe?—A. I married one of their women.

Q. And have children?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you or any members of your family allotments of land on the Court Oreille Reservation?—A. My children have, yes, sir.

Q. When was it allotted?—A. I could not say exactly the first allotment that they received; I think it was about three or four years ago.

Q. How much was allotted?—A. Eighty acres of land.

Q. To whom was it allotted?—A. To my children.

Q. To how many?—A. There are 80 acres apiece.

Q. How many allotments did that make—how many 80-acre tracts?—A. There are so many, I think I will have to stop and count. There are five, I think.

Q. Has the timber been sold off them?—A. Yes, sir; pretty much all—principally all.

Q. With whom are the contracts made?—A. With Dobie & Stratton.

Q. All with Dobie & Stratton?—A. Yes, sir; all with Dobie & Stratton, except that one of my daughters sold to Gaynor & Bergeron.

Q. When was the first season when timber was taken off?—A. Four years ago, I think; I could not say positively.

Q. That would be in the winter of 1883-'84?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. How soon was it all taken off?—A. Well, they are cutting some of it this winter—that is, cleaning up on it.

Q. When was the last contract made, the nearest one to this date?—A. The last contract was made last fall.

Q. With Dobie & Stratton?—A. No, sir; I do not think there is any contract with Dobie & Stratton this winter.

Q. Who was the contract made with?—A. With the Valley Lumber Company for one of the daughters—that is, there is one with Dobie & Stratton this winter for timber.

Q. Can you tell the prices named in the contract under this year's contracts?—A. No, sir; I could not.

Q. About how much?—A. I think it ranges about $1.50; that is what they received; and I believe they pay him from $1.50 to about $6.25 or $7.

Q. For what, the full price or the stumpage?—A. For the full price, leaving about—I think my daughter gets about $1.50 for her timber.

Q. In those contracts do the contractors agree to do the cutting and banking?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did your daughters sell the timber to them for a certain price, they agreeing to do the cutting and hauling, or for another price which is to be taken from the contract price?—A. Yes, sir; that is the way I understand it. I have not kept myself posted in regard to the cutting and banking of timber.

Q. Have you a good memory?—A. Not very good; no, sir.

Q. Have you been there on the reservation this winter?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is there any cutting and hauling of logs going on there?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. By what contractors?—A. Dobie & Stratton, the Valley Company, and Clark & Thomas.

Q. Are Gaynor & Bergeron doing any cutting this winter?—A. Gaynor is not; I think Bergeron is. I do not think Bergevin is there this winter at all.

Q. Do you know whether any lumber is being cut under his contracts?—A. No, sir; I do not.

Q. Can you state whether there are any white men cutting and logging on the reservation?—A. Yes, sir; there are plenty of white men, I think.

Q. Can you tell how many men are lumbering on the reservation this winter—all the men engaged in the work?—A. I should think there was between 1,600 and 1,800 probably.

Q. How many should you think were Indians and how many white men?—A. I could not tell you. Probably you might find in the neighborhood of 200 Indians, but I do not hardly think there are that many at work.

Q. And are the rest all white men?—A. Yes, sir; they are supposed to be white men.

Q. What class of white men come in there to do lumbering?—A. It is principally the Swedes and Norwegians.

Q. Where do they come there from?—A. I could not tell you.

Q. Are there any Chippewa Falls people there?—A. Yes, sir; there are some, but I could not tell you how many.

Q. Are all the contracts made on the reservation with these companies made in the same way your daughters' contracts were made, as you understand it?—A. I could not say for that, but I think not. I think some of them are made out otherwise, but I could not say.

Q. I mean are the same kind of contracts? You have stated that your daughters made a contract at a certain price, and then the contractors were to go and cut off the timber and guaranty your daughters a certain amount net proceeds of stumpage. Do you understand all the contracts are made in that way?—A. Yes, sir; about in that way.

Q. That the contractors do the lumbering in all cases and charge the cost to the Indians?—A. Yes, sir; that is about the way I understand it.

Q. What do you understand as to whether a certain amount is guarantied to the Indians as the stumpage?—A. That is, after paying the expenses of logging?

Q. Yes; they guaranty, and after that the contractors do the work?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know whether all the Indians are employed who want to be employed?—A. I could not say as to that.

Q. Do you know of any Indians this winter on the reservation who have been seeking employment and have not had it?—A. No, sir; I do not know.

Q. You know of no such cases?—A. No, sir.

Q. Do you know of any cases where the timber is being taken off from allotments to minor children?—A. No; I do not know anything about that.

Q. Did you come on with the band from the Court Oreille Reservation to Washington?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Why did they come here?—A. I was told they wanted me to come to help them look up some of their wrongs—that they thought they had been wronged on their reservation.

Q. Did you sign any of the papers of complaint that were made?—A. I think I did, some of them; I am not certain, but I think I did.

Q. Do you know of any complaints which have been made about recent allotments?—A. Yes; I have heard a good many complaints, but I am not positive about any of them.

Q. Were you present when Tom Wall was there in January?—A. No, sir; I was not; I never saw the gentleman.

By Senator PLATT:

Q. I want to ask this question, as I do not know whether I understood you: Did the contractors, Dobie & Stratton, guaranty to your children that they should get so much out of the contract, or did they buy the lumber for a certain price and then charge them up what they said it cost to get it on to the bank?—A. Yes, sir; that is about the way I understood it.

Q. Not that they guaranteed when they took the contract that they should have so much out of it.—A. No, sir.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. How long have you lived on that reservation?—A. Near about five years.

Q. In the cutting of timber that takes place there on each of these allotments under contracts that three-fourths may be cut off and one-fourth left, do they leave one-fourth of the timber in all cases in one body at one side or end of the lot?—A. No, I believe not. They did, I believe, the first winter.

Q. What winter was that, do you think, 1883-'84?—A. Yes, sir; and since that time they have not done so.

Q. How have they cut since then?—A. They have calculated generally to clean everything right up.

Q. Is that the present system of logging, so far as you know?—A. Yes, sir; about the present system, as near as I understand.

Q. Can you give us any idea of how much timber was on the reservation when cutting began, and how much there is left now?—A. No, I could not.

Q. Can you give us any idea of what proportion of the whole has been cut off?—A. I could not, because I never have kept any track of any such thing as that at all.

Q. The reservation consists of three 6-mile townships?—A. Yes, sir; I believe so.

Q. Can you give any idea how fast the timber is being cut off, and how soon it will all be cut off at the present rate of cutting?—A. The way they are cutting now I should not think it would last more than one or two winters.

Q. But you can not give us an estimate of what part of the pine timber was cut off when you went there?—A. No, sir.

Q. Whether one-quarter, one-half, or two-thirds of all the pine?—A. I should say a good deal over two-thirds of it was cut off.

Q. Already?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. State what the Indians do with their money when it is paid to them.—A. Well, they try to get some property, and some of them have got property.

Q. What is the nearest bank in which money can be deposited?—A. I think the nearest bank is at Hayward, Wis.

Q. How far is that?—It is 18 miles from Court Oreille.

Q. Do the Indians put much of their money in bank?—A. I do not think they do themselves.

Q. How is it usually paid to them—in paper money, gold, or silver?—A. In both paper and gold.

Q. Is the money kept back from them by the agent or the farmer in many cases?—A. That is what I understand, though my children's money was never kept back. But others, I understand, have had it kept or held back from them.

Q. Have some complaints been made in that particular?—A. Yes, sir; I understand so.

Q. To whom was the money due your children paid?—A. To themselves.

Q. In all cases?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And they take good care of it and make good use of it so far as you know?—A. Yes, sir; as a general thing they have made a pretty good use of it. They did not have much left because they did not have a great deal of timber.

Q. What was the largest amount realized by any one of them?—A. I think one of them got the first winter somewhere about $300.

Q. Is that the largest amount any of them received?—A. No, sir; one got $400.

Q. What is the largest amount you have ever known one Indian to receive for his timber?—A. I think about $1,500 or $1,600.

Q. Who was that?—A. I could not tell his name.

Q. That is the largest amount you have in mind?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you known of any guardians to be appointed for minors to receive money coming from timber?—A. No, I do not know of any guardian, yet I have heard of guardians. I do not know of any personally who have been appointed.

Q. When were these various allotments made to your daughters; were they all made at the same time?—A. Pretty much about the same time.

Q. Do you remember in what year?—A. My wife got the first allotment, and then the children got theirs all at one time or about one time.

Q. When did your wife get hers?—A. She got hers three years ago.

Q. How soon after that did your daughters get theirs?—A. The next spring, I think; the next year.

Q. How were those allotments made; first to your wife and next to your daughters, and who made that allotment to your wife?

The WITNESS. Who was the agent?

The CHAIRMAN. Yes.

A. It was Agent Durfee, I think.

Q. Were you present when the allotment was made to your wife?

The WITNESS. When she drew it?

The CHAIRMAN. Yes.

A. I was present.

Q. Was your wife there also?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. When the tract was staked out or marked out giving the boundaries, were you present or your wife?—A. My son was; I was not.

Q. Was the allotment made on the ground by the agent and did your son go on the ground, select the tract and mark the boundaries?—A. No, sir.

Q. How was that done, as a matter of fact?—A. I think a man named Charlie Patrick went with my son and took out those numbers.

Q. And you understand that he and your son went and marked out the lot?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And they agreed upon it?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was your son satisfied that it was a fair allotment for his mother's interest?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, when your daughters' allotments were made, who represented them?—A. I think it was also Charlie Patrick.

Q. What was he?—A. He is a white man on the reservation.

Q. What office does he hold—is he an interpreter or farmer?—A. I do not know of his holding any office under the Government at all.

Q. Who was the agent when your daughters' allotments were made?—A. Mr. Durfee.

Q. Then it was more than three years ago that the allotments were made?—A. I think that Agent Gregory fetched two or three of the girls' patents, but I will not be certain.

Q. When the allotments were made was Durfee or Gregory the agent?—A. When the selections were made Durfee was agent.

Q. Then that was more than three years ago?—A. Yes, sir; that was about four years ago.

Q. Who represented your daughters when those selections were made?—A. Myself and the farmer.

Q. Who was the farmer?—A. Mr. Pero.

Q. Were you satisfied with these as fair allotments?—A. Yes, sir; I was; but the first selections in some way or other were changed; I could not say how it was done or anything of that kind, but the first selections that were made I had a man—I can't think of his name now—go and pick out those numbers for my children.

Q. Didn't you get those numbers?—A. No, sir.

Q. Why not?—A. I could not say; they must have been changed in some way or other.

Q. When the allotment, however, was finally made you assented to it?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. How have the allotments been made recently, do you know?

The WITNESS. What do you mean?

The CHAIRMAN. Who has made them and how have they been made, and have the boundaries been marked out by the Indians and the agent?—A. As near as I can understand they have been selected by different owners, sometimes themselves, and handed in to the farmer.

Q. The Indian himself would go and examine the ground and make the selection, would he?—A. Well, of course, if it was a woman she would have to get some one to represent her.

Q. How recently have there been any general allotments made on the Court Oreille Reservation; how long since there have been new allotments?

The WITNESS. I do not know that I understand you.

The CHAIRMAN. Has the agent been making new allotments under the treaty or under the act of last year?—A. I think not.

Q. You know the severalty act was passed a year ago in February?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have there been any allotments made under the severalty act on the Court Oreille Reservation?—A. I think there have been selections made.

By Senator PLATT:

Q. That is, have they handed in their numbers and names?—A. Yes, sir.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. You think the Indians have made their lists for the allotments?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Has any timber been cut from lots which have been handed in?—A. I could not say; I have heard that rumor that there had been.

Q. But you have no knowledge of any timber being cut on those selections?—A. No. I have not been over the reservation a great deal myself, any farther than my own business required.

By Senator PLATT:

Q. Who is Patrick whom you referred to?—A. Charlie Patrick; he is a man in Dobie & Stratton's employ now, and has been there for some two years.

Q. Was he in their employ when you came and picked out a selection?—A. I think he was not.

Q. Did you pay him anything?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. How much?—A. I paid him $5 for each selection.

Q. Do you know whether he gets pay now; does he look after the selections now for the Indians?—A. I do not know; I think probably he does.

Q. But you do not know?—A. No, sir.

Q. How does it happen that your daughters got only $300 and others got $1,600 for their lumber?—A. I do not know, unless they were charged too much for supplies.

Q. Do you think there was that difference in the selections of allotments; do you think the timber on some tracts was worth $1,600, while it was only worth $300 or $400 on yours?—A. Well, there are some allotments worth more than others of course.

Q. You did not get a first-class allotment?—A. No, sir.

Q. Whose fault was that, yours?—A. In the first place, when they made their first selection we had pretty good timber, but in some way or other the numbers were changed; I could not say how or who did it, or anything.

Q. Is that common; does that happen to other people?—A. I believe that has been done pretty often.

Q. When the selections are made the Indians do not always get the allotment for the lands which they have selected?—A. That is what I understand has occurred in a good many cases.

Q. But you can not tell why it is or how it is done?—A. No, sir.

By Senator BLACKBURN:

Q. You say your information is that they very frequently fail to get the lots selected by them?—A. Yes, I understand that is the case; I have heard that complaint.

Q. Your children failed to get the lots selected by them, did they not?—A. Yes, sir; they did.

Q. That was under the administration of Mr. Durfee as agent?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. How many Indians are on that reservation in these three townships?—A. I should suppose there was something over 900, probably.

Q. All told?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Out of that number how many would be able-bodied working-men?—A. I do not know; that is pretty hard to state.

Q. Give your best estimate?—A. There would be probably 250 able-bodied men.

Q. Men who could work at manual labor?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And your estimate is there are 200 of them employed there this season in lumbering?—A. There might be, I said.

Q. Tell me how many constitute this delegation that has come on here about this matter?—A. I think there are seventeen of them; or eighteen altogether.

Q. At whose instance did this committee or delegation come on here; who asked you to come?—A. The Indians.

Q. Which ones of the Indians organized it; who was the most active in getting this delegation sent here?—A. It was the voice of the whole of them there at Court Oreille that sent this delegation here.

Q. Was there any provision made for your expenses?—A. No; there was nothing said particularly about that. They did talk a little about it, and I told them they had better not say anything about it until they could see how they would do, how they succeeded, and they would not be disappointed, nor I either. I told them I would come on and do the best I could for them, seeing that they had appointed me. I did not want to come, but still it seems that they had put the lot on me to come, and so I told them I would come, being as I had lived with them so long and we had always been friendly with each other.

Q. Are you paying your own expenses here?—A. No, sir; I am not.

Q. Who is doing it?—A. We came under the help of this man who came with us.

Q. Which man?—A. Mr. Curran.

Q. The one who sits there (indicating)?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is he paying the expenses of all the eighteen in this delegation?—

A. That is what I understand.

Q. Has he any contract by which he is to receive his money back again?—A. I think he has.

Q. A contract with whom?—A. With those Indians.

Q. What is the nature of that contract, if you can tell?—A. I could not tell you.

Q. You do not know whether they are simply to reimburse him for any money that he expends, or whether he is to be paid?—A. Of course I heard it read, but I have forgotten how it reads.

Q. Tell us your best recollection of what you heard of it?—A. The Court Oreille Indians, I believe, agreed to pay him if they succeeded in their trip, and if they did not, why, they would try to refund him the money when they get back home.

Q. How much were they to pay him if they succeeded in this mission?—A. I do not think it was stated; I did not hear of any stated amount that he was to get.

Q. You do not know about that?—A. No, sir.

Q. What does Curran do out there?—A. I do not know. I never saw him before until I saw him at Bad River.

Q. Does he live on that reservation?—A. I do not know; I think not.

Q. Did you ever hear of him out there before?—A. I have heard the man's name before, but I never saw him.

Q. Did you ever hear of the business he was engaged in there?—A. No.

Q. Do you know whether he is a man of large wealth or not?—A. No, sir; I do not.

Q. You never knew of his having any connection with the Indians on this reservation before, did you?—A. No, sir.

Q. And you have been living there five years?—A. Yes, sir.

Senator BLACKBURN. I believe that is all I want to know.

By Senator PLATT:

Q. Have the Indians tried to come here or send a delegation before this?—A. Yes, sir; they have been time and time again.

Q. What is the reason the delegation has not come before?—A. They could not get money; they could not get any one to aid them in getting money to come; that is the way I have always understood it.

Q. Have they been ready to come before, and have they been persuaded not to come?—A. I could not say.

Q. Have they ever started and turned back?—A. I think they have.

Q. Do you know why they turned back?—A. On account of not getting money to come through, and they have been advised not to come, too, I think.

Q. Did you not start with them twice?—A. I made two trials this time. We went from Court Oreille to Bad River and went back again.

Q. Why did you go back?—A. They wanted to get some more information, I believe the chief said.

Q. They wanted more information?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did anybody tell the Indians or yourself that you had better not come?—A. No, they did not tell me.

Q. Do you know whether Agent Gregory told any of the Indians not to come?—A. I thing he did, but I won't be certain.

Q. You do not know it of your own knowledge?—A. No, sir.

TESTIMONY OF MIKE DIVER.

SANG-GAK-AME-GOONS, or MIKE DIVER, of the Fond du Lac band of Chippewas, having been duly sworn by the chairman, was interrogated as follows, Messrs. Coffey and Denomie acting as interpreters:

The CHAIRMAN. Where do you live?

Interpreter COFFEY. At Fond du Lac Reservation.

The CHAIRMAN. Have you been there this winter?

The INTERPRETER. Yes; he says that is where he came from.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there any cutting and hauling of logs going on there?

The INTERPRETER. He says there is.

The CHAIRMAN. Who are the contractors?

The INTERPRETER. Mr. Hynds.

The CHAIRMAN. What other contractors?

The INTERPRETER. That is all that he knows of.

The CHAIRMAN. How many men has Hynds lumbering for him?

The INTERPRETER. He says he could not say for certain how many.

The CHAIRMAN. You may ask him about how many; one hundred or two hundred in round numbers?

The INTERPRETER. He says he would put it at one hundred and fifty at least.

The CHAIRMAN. White men and Indians?

The INTERPRETER. He says only white men; at least one hundred and fifty white men.

The CHAIRMAN. How many Indians does he think are working for Hynds?

The INTERPRETER. He says there are probably about twenty.

The CHAIRMAN. Did he come here with the other Chippewa Indians to see the Commissioner of Indian Affairs?

The INTERPRETER. Yes, sir.

The CHAIRMAN. Ask him why he came to see the Commissioner; what he wanted to say to him.

The INTERPRETER. He says there are things that they see that are not going right on the reservation, and when they ask the Indian agent to intercede for them and help them in those matters, that he does not pay any attention to them, and they have the idea that they would receive some respect in Washington; that is why they come here to have the authorities here in Washington look the matter up.

The CHAIRMAN. What particular things does he complain of?

The INTERPRETER. He says one thing in particular is that there are people who do not belong on the reservation, who come on the reservation from around the country and select lands, and when it comes to allotting the lands the Indians want to reject those parties, and that they cannot do; they cannot reject them; and that is one thing that they feel very dissatisfied about.

The CHAIRMAN. Ask him to state some more of his complaints?

The INTERPRETER. He says another thing is, that as long as he feels satisfied now that he does not receive any assistance or respect from the agents up there, that he wants to come down here and find out whether he can get any help here, and if he fails in doing that he will go home satisfied.

The CHAIRMAN. But we wish to know what he wants done; what change he wants made in the manner of doing business up there besides what he has told already?

The INTERPRETER. He says the Indians want only those who belong on the reservation to have allotments on that reservation.

The CHAIRMAN. Has he an allotment there; if so, when was it made?

The INTERPRETER. He says he has not any allotment there.

The CHAIRMAN. Has he ever had any timber to sell there?

The INTERPRETER. No, sir.

The CHAIRMAN. Has he ever worked at logging there?

The INTERPRETER. Yes, sir; he has labored.

The CHAIRMAN. For whom has he worked?

The INTERPRETER. He says the first winter he worked for Mr. Bergeron, that the second winter he worked for the same party, and the third winter he worked for Joe Quidot—this winter.

The CHAIRMAN. Are you a member of the tribe, and if so, why are you not entitled to an allotment of land with timber on it?

The INTERPRETER. He says he is a member the tribe. He says before he takes an allotment he wants to see first what is going to become of this land which will be left after all the Indians there have taken allotments.

The CHAIRMAN. Is he entitled to an allotment?

The INTERPRETER. Yes; he says he is entitled to an allotment.

The CHAIRMAN. How many acres does he understand he is entitled to?

The INTERPRETER. He says he is entitled to 80 acres.

The CHAIRMAN. Has he selected his lot or told the agent what lot he wants?

The INTERPRETER. He says, no, sir.

The CHAIRMAN. Is he married and has he children?

The INTERPRETER. He says he is married and has children.

The CHAIRMAN. How many children?

The INTERPRETER. He has two living and one dead.

The CHAIRMAN. Are the children entitled to allotments; if so, how many acres to each?

The INTERPRETER. He says, no. He says if he thought they were entitled to allotments he would have taken it for them lately.

The CHAIRMAN. He does not think the children are entitled to them?

The INTERPRETER. That is what he says. He says he thinks the children are not entitled to the allotments, and that is the reason he does not select any.

The CHAIRMAN. Has he ever been asked by anybody to sell his timber?

The INTERPRETER. He says nobody ever asked him to sell any timber, knowing that he had not any to sell.

The CHAIRMAN. Has he ever been advised or told by anybody that he had better have his allotment and sell his timber?

The INTERPRETER. He says Agent Durfee advised him to select an allotment, but he did not advise him to sell any timber.

The CHAIRMAN. Has he been advised since Agent Durfee's time?

The INTERPRETER. No, sir; not any since.

The CHAIRMAN. That is all. (To Senator Blackburn.) Do you desire to ask any questions?

Senator BLACKBURN. I do not.

TESTIMONY OF MA-DWA-YAW-SANG.

MA-DWA-YAW-SANG, of the Lac de Flambeau Reservation, having been duly sworn by the chairman, was interrogated as follows, Messrs. Coffey and Denomie acting as interpreters:

The CHAIRMAN. Where do you live?

Interpreter COFFEY. He lives at Waswawganee, Flambeau Reservation.

The CHAIRMAN. Has he been there all this winter until he came to Washington?

The INTERPRETER. He has.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there any lumbering going on this winter on the reservation?

The INTERPRETER. Yes, sir.

The CHAIRMAN. Under what contractors?

The INTERPRETER. He says he only remembers one name and that is Sherman. He says there is another contractor he knows, but he does not know his name.

The CHAIRMAN. How many men in all are lumbering for Sherman Bros.

The INTERPRETER. He says he could not say for certain, but he says he does not know of one Indian working for Sherman Bros., and there might be a hundred white men or more.

INTERPRETER DENOMIE. He says Sherman does not accept any Indian to work for him.

The CHAIRMAN. Does he not know some Indians working for Sherman Bros.?

The INTERPRETER. He says there are some Indians who applied for work to Sherman Bros., but they were not received.

The CHAIRMAN. Now, I will ask him again, does he not know that some Indians are at work for Sherman Bros.?

The INTERPRETER. He says he does not know of any that are working for them.

The CHAIRMAN. Is the other lumber contractor named Captain Henry?

The INTERPRETER. He says that is one.

The CHAIRMAN. Are there Indians working for Captain Henry?

The INTERPRETER. Yes, sir.

The CHAIRMAN. How many Indians and how many white men are working for Captain Henry?

The INTERPRETER. He says he would not say for certain how many white men and how many Indians, but he says that he should judge about fifty white men for Captain Henry and probably about ten Indians.

The CHAIRMAN. Did he come here with the delegation to see the Commissioner?

The INTERPRETER. Yes, sir.

The CHAIRMAN. Did he sign a paper to the Commissioner making complaints with the other Indians?

The INTERPRETER. Yes; he put his name down or signed it.

The CHAIRMAN. What complaints did he make of the way things are managed on the reservation?

The INTERPRETER. He says you can see how old he is. He says his troubles began ever since he was so high [indicating], and he says he could not tell them in one day if he should tell all his troubles.

The CHAIRMAN. Ask him what the present troubles are.

The INTERPRETER. He says one of the complaints is about a certain treaty that was made away back some years ago, the result of which is not satisfactory to the Indians now.

The CHAIRMAN. Was that the treaty of 1854?

The INTERPRETER. He says he means most all the treaties that have been made away back.

The CHAIRMAN. That they have been bad?

The INTERPRETER. Yes; and another thing is that the Indians think that there is something here belonging to them resulting from those treaties made some years ago.

The CHAIRMAN. What are the immediate troubles?

The INTERPRETER. He says another complaint is about the manner in which the timber is being cut on the reservation.

The CHAIRMAN. What fault is there in the way that the timber is being cut?

The INTERPRETER. He says that the Indian agent came there on the reservation and he went into a wigwam about two acres distant from where his camp was, but he did not know that the agent was there. He says another Indian agent came there, and during three weeks he came there three times; and then he heard that the agent and Sherman Bros. were trying to get the timber from the Indian women there without everybody knowing about it.

Interpreter DENOMIE. And that was the object of his visits there.

Interpreter COFFEY. He says he went to the Indian agent and asked him, and he says, "I told him this, that these women sell their timber without everybody knowing about it"—that is, secretly; and that he told the agent that he had better arrange it so that the Indians would go to work and cut their own timber and work on their own timber, so as to get all the benefit of all the proceeds from the timber. And the Indian agent did not say anything to them about it. And he says in a little while there were twelve Indians who went to work and worked for a little while, and then there were about 100 white men came there, and then the Indians all left. He says the Indians were moved away—that is as much as to say they were driven away. He says then those Indians that worked there were given papers on the store there—on Sherman Bros.' store—and they received goods, and were given 6 yards of calico for a dollar, and did not receive any money for the labor they had performed.

The CHAIRMAN. I will ask him whether the tribe found any fault with the allotments of land claimed by Indians that were not accepted by the tribe?

The INTERPRETER. He says they have not had many of those, but there are some mixed-bloods who came there who are nearly all white, and the Indians did not feel satisfied that they should have allotments, and so they refused to grant them their allotments and they went away. He says that all he states is the whole truth and he does not tell anything but the truth.

The CHAIRMAN. Tell him we believe that. What is his relation to the tribe; is he the chief or head man?

The INTERPRETER. He says he does not consider himself a chief, but he is spokesman for his tribe and does the business for his tribe.

Interpreter DENOMIE. He says his name is here in Washington as chief, but he does not want to say that he is a chief.

Senator BLACKBURN. I have no questions to ask.

TESTIMONY OF JOHN B. DENOMIE.

JOHN B. DENOMIE, of the Bad River Reservation, having been duly sworn by the chairman, was interrogated as follows:

By the CHAIRMAN:

- Q. Where is your home?—A. On the Bad River Reservation.
- Q. On the reservation itself?—A. Yes, sir.
- Q. Is there a village there?—A. Yes, sir.
- Q. What is the name of the village?—A. Adanah.
- Q. Have you been there this winter?—A. Yes, sir.
- Q. Have you seen logging going on there?—A. Yes, sir.
- Q. What contractors are logging there?—A. The Superior Lumber Company.
- Q. Who is the individual who represents that company?—A. D. A. Kennedy is the one who buys.
- Q. Who else buys logs on the reservation?—A. A. Maxim is another, and Eastman is another, I think.
- Q. Are those three all buyers of logs?—A. Yes, sir; they buy the logs.
- Q. Are there any others?—A. Yes, sir; two or three more; but I do not know their names.
- Q. How many men in all are cutting and hauling logs on the reservation this winter?—A. I should judge about 400 or 500.
- Q. Of that 400 or 500 how many are Indians, and how many are white men?—A. I should think there were 25 or 30 Indians, and the rest whites.
- Q. Are you quite sure that not more than 25 or 30 are Indians?—A. I think I am not far off.
- Q. And you think there are four hundred white men at work?—A. I should judge between four and five hundred.
- Q. Is all the chopping and cutting down of trees done by white men?—A. Yes, sir.
- Q. Have you had an allotment there?—A. Yes, sir.
- Q. Have you sold timber from it?—A. Yes, sir.
- Q. How many acres has your allotment?—A. Eighty acres.
- Q. When was it allotted?—A. About four or five years ago.
- Q. When did you sell your timber?—A. I did not have but little timber.
- Q. Did you not have any timber at all?—A. Not on my eighty; I had two eighties.
- Q. How much did you have on the other eighty?—A. About 50,000 feet, probably.
- Q. That was allotted four years ago?—A. That was allotted pretty near twenty years ago.
- Q. When was your second eighty allotted?—A. Four or five years ago.
- Q. To whom was that allotted?—A. To my daughter.
- Q. Did you sell that timber?—A. Yes, sir.
- Q. When?—A. That would be two years ago last fall.
- Q. In 1885-'86?—A. Yes, sir.
- Q. To whom did you sell?—A. To the Superior Company.
- Q. How much timber—how many feet?—A. I guess somewhere about five or six hundred thousand.
- Q. What price did you get?—A. I got two prices; one price was $1 and the other price $2.

Q. That was for your daughter's timber?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. For stumpage?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you cut off the timber yourself?—A. Yes, sir; I cut off the timber.

Q. What was the price named per thousand in the contract which you signed for your daughter?—A. There were two grades and two prices. One price was $1 and one price $2.

Q. That was stumpage?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was that in the contract?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you sign the contract on a paper like that [showing a blank form to the witness]?—A. Yes, sir—I can not read, but I think that is the one.

Q. The contract said that you were to cut and bank the timber?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you cut and bank the timber?—A. I did.

Q. You did it yourself?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then why did you not get more money?

The INTERPRETER. He says he had to pay for the labor in getting the timber out.

Q. And when you had paid for getting the timber out it only left you $1 and $1.75?—A. A dollar in one grade and in the other grade $2.

Q. But you did the work yourself?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You hired the men to work for you and paid them?—A. Yes, sir; I hired the men to work for me and the teams and everything, and I paid for them all.

The CHAIRMAN. That is all.

Senator BLACKBURN. I have no questions.

TESTIMONY OF JAMES C. CURRAN (Recalled).

JAMES C. CURRAN was recalled and further examined.

By the CHAIRMAN :

Q. Have you a copy of the complaint signed by the Flambeau band of Indians which was delivered to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is this it [exhibiting a paper to the witness]?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is this a correct copy?—A. Yes, sir; as near as I can say.

Q. It does not appear to be dated; was there a date to it?—A. I think there was no date to it.

Q. When was it handed to the Commissioner?—A. A week ago last Friday, I think it was.

The CHAIRMAN. I want to put that into the record.

The petition referred to is as follows :

Petition of the Flambeau bands.

To the Hon. Commissioner of Indian Affairs :

SIR : The undersigned, your petitioners, respectfully represent that they are Chippewa Indians, and belong to the Lac de Flambeau bands of Chippewas; that they reside upon their reservation in the State of Wisconsin; that a large number of said Indians have had lands allotted to them in severalty as provided by law; that said lands are valuable chiefly for the pine timber thereon; that such of your petitioners as have not received their lands in severalty are desirous of availing themselves of that privilege, and that all of your petitioners desire to sell their pine timber as soon as possible and to the best advantage.

Your petitioners further represent that there is no one on the reservation connected with the Government who has thus far made any effort to protect your petitioners in their rights and interests; that the agent appointed by the Government does not afford them necessary information or protection in the allotment of lands and in the sale of timber; that one Sherman has for some time been engaged in purchasing timber on the reservation and in cutting and logging the same; that your petitioners are not willing to sell their timber to said Sherman, for the reason that he, said Sherman, does not treat them fairly; does not agree to give them as much for their pine as they can obtain from other parties; does not pay them as he agrees, and refuses to explain to them their contracts or to settle with them as to amounts paid or due, and frequently compels them to take, as part payment, goods at exorbitant prices.

Your petitioners further represent that one Joseph Allen is, officially or otherwise, in the employment of the agent in charge of the reservation; that it has been the business of said Allen to attend to the allotment of lands, and that he has either been instructed or assumes to solicit and secure contracts for the sale of timber to said Sherman. That in many instances, when members of the tribe have received their allotments of land, said Allen has requested the Indians to sell their timber to said Sherman, and has used promises and other inducements, and has made use of his position and influence to secure such sales, and when parties have refused to make such sales to Sherman, said Allen has stricken their names out and substituted other names.

Your petitioners, while they do not specifically charge the agent with collusion, do assert that he has been careless of their interests in this respect; has allowed said Allen and Sherman to manage the business in their own interests, and has in some instances himself solicited sales for Sherman. Your petitioners charge that said Allen is in direct collusion with Sherman, and that his conduct in the management of this business is to the serious injury of the rights and interests of your petitioners. That if your petitioners had some one to act for them, without interference from any one connected with the agency, they could make sales of their timber at better figures than can be obtained from Sherman or any connected with him, and for cash, and run no risk of loss.

Your petitioners state that they do not want said Allen to have anything to do with their business; that they want some one of their own choice to make contracts for the sale of their timber, and that until such a change is made their rights and interests are in continual jeopardy.

Your petitioners have unanimously requested John C. Curran, of Oneida County, Wis., to act for them and take charge of their business in connection with the sale and cutting and logging of their timber. Mr. Curran is an old resident of northern Wisconsin, has for many years been engaged in lumbering; is an experienced woodsman; is acquainted with our language, and has the complete confidence of our people.

Your petitioners, therefore, respectfully ask that if said Allen is acting in an official capacity he may be excluded from any connection or interference with the business of allotment of lands and sale of timber on the reservation; that if he is not so acting in an official capacity, the agent in charge may be instructed not to allow said Allen to interfere in any manner with said business, and that said agent may be instructed to recognize Mr. Curran as the agent of your petitioners in all things connected with said business and clothed with full power to act in their behalf.

TESTIMONY OF PHINEAS H. CALLIGAN (Recalled).

PHINEAS H. CALLIGAN was recalled and further examined.

By Senator BLACKBURN :

Q. In answer to some questions submitted to you by the chairman the other day you referred to some trouble that you had with Mr. Gregory, the agent on this reservation?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you state fully what the cause and character of that trouble was?—A. I think I did; I answered all the questions that were asked me.

Q. Did you have any trouble with him except that growing out of his failure or refusal to sign timber contracts with you?—A. No, sir.

Q. Was the contract that you had with Mary Bray the first of the refusals that you received from him?—A. Yes, sir; it was the first that he refused to sign.

Q. When did you make that contract with Mary Bray?—A. I think in August, 1886.

Q. Is there any way by which you can fix that date?—A. There is no way that I know of.

Q. You have no way of doing so here in Washington?—A. No, sir.

Q. Was that a written contract?—A. It was.

Q. Where is that contract?—A. At Chippewa Falls.

Q. You did not bring it with you?—A. No, sir.

Q. You knew you were coming here?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Didn't you know you were going to make this particular complaint of Agent Gregory's refusal to approve that very contract?—A. No, sir; I did not.

Q. When did you first make up your mind to make that point against Agent Gregory in your testimony here?—A. That complaint was sent in here two months ago. I was here myself in August.

Q. It was sent in by whom?—A. It was sent here to the Department some time ago; I sent it; it was sent through me.

Q. And yet you came on here on this mission with these people—A. No, sir; I had been two weeks ahead of those people.

Q. And you did not bring that Mary Bray contract?—A. No, sir.

Q. Why did you not bring it?—A. Because I did not expect I should want it when I came.

Q. Will you state positively that it bears date in August, 1886, and that you held the written contract of Mary Bray bearing date August, 1886, for the purchase of the timber on that land?—A. It might possibly be the very first of September, but I am pretty positive that it was in August.

Q. When did you apply to Agent Gregory to have that contract approved?—A. It was not handed to him to approve, because he refused to sign any contract. But after we had met Agent Gregory on the reservation, then it was taken to him to have him approve of it and he refused to do so; that was in November.

Q. When had he refused to approve any contracts?—A. When he gave orders for the farmer to commence signing the contracts; he is the man who signs them first. I took my contracts to the farmer and he refused to sign them.

Q. When was that?—A. In October, 1886.

Q. Do you know whether it was in the early part or last of October?—A. I could not say.

Q. When did Mary Bray enter into a contract for the sale of that timber on her land to these other parties?—A. About two or three weeks later; I think it was about six weeks after that that she made this contract with me.

Q. That would be some time towards the latter part of November?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, then, suppose the records of the Indian Office show that the contract between Mary Bray and Kegeenganowish, and Ambrose Corbin and Mary Bray with Peter Bergevin were dated on the 11th of October, 1885, you would have to admit that your recollection as to dates was bad, would you not?—A. No, sir; I should not, because I know nothing about the dates on which she made contracts with them.

Q. I thought you said she had made these contracts six weeks after the contract you had, and you located that in October?—A. I was not present when she made the contracts with Peter Bergevin, but I know it to be after she made contracts with me.

Q. What was the price agreed upon by Bergevin; what did he agree to pay her, and what did he pay her?—A. I understood that he agreed to pay her six dollars a thousand.

Q. Was that the same price you had agreed to pay?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you employ Governor Pound as your lawyer?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did he not ask for a suspension of approval of contracts by the office?—A. I could not state.

Q. Governor Pound is here in Washington, is he not?—A. Yes, sir; he is.

Senator BLACKBURN. Mr. Chairman, I will ask for a subpoena for him.

Q. You do not know whether he asked the office to suspend the approval of contracts for that?—A. I could not say.

Q. Did your counsel ever tell you that he had asked for a suspension of the approval of contracts until communication could be had with Agent Gregory?—A. He might have done so; I would not state positively that he did, although I do not know any reason why he would not make the statement.

Q. Did Governor Pound ever tell you that Agent Gregory's letter, or a copy of it, was sent to him, and that he was requested to inform the office whether he withdrew his objection to the approval of these contracts, and that he did withdraw the objection as your attorney?—A. No, sir.

Q. And that no further investigation was needed?—A. I think Governor Pound spoke to him something about that in the spring.

Q. I think it was yourself who spoke of these other contractors who were more successful than you were in getting these contracts as being Democrats while you were a Republican?—A. I spoke of myself as being a Republican.

Q. Did you not say they were Democrats?—A. I do not think you asked the question.

Senator BLACKBURN. I am sure I did not.

The WITNESS. I will answer it now, if you wish.

Senator BLACKBURN. I do not care whether you do or not.

The WITNESS. I think I said Mr. Cunningham was a Democrat.

Q. Didn't you say Gregory was, too?—A. Yes, sir; and I think Bergevin is a Democrat.

Q. How many contracts of Calligan Bros. were approved by Agent Gregory for the season of 1885-'86?—A. I could not state positively, but I think fifteen or twenty.

Q. How many for the season of 1886-'87?—A. I think somewhere about twenty.

Q. Was any objection raised by Agent Gregory to approving of contracts for those two seasons?—A. Not the first year.

Q. Not for 1885-'86?—A. No, sir.

Q. But for 1886-'87 he did?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Why?—A. Of course I imagined it was merely because I was a Republican.

Q. I did not want your imagination; I wanted the fact, if I could get it.—A. The man never told me.

Q. He never told you what reason he had?—A. No, sir.

Q. He objected to you in person?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And yet went on and approved and signed twenty contracts for you?—A. Yes, sir; afterwards, after meeting Governor Pound.

Q. You did not change your politics in the mean time?—A. No, sir.

Q. You thought because you were a Republican that he refused to sign any contracts for you for the year 1886-'87. But without your changing your politics in any way he did go on and signed twenty for that same season?—A. Yes, sir. But now just stop a minute; I am only guessing at the number; they have them in the Department; there might be more or less.

Q. Was not your firm specially licensed by the Indian Office to trade with the Indians for the purpose of your contracts for the year 1886-'87; did you not receive a special license?—A. I think we did receive one along in the spring. I think in the month of February we received it; I think it would be last February a year ago. We should have had our license in the fall of 1886-'87, but we received it the next year.

Q. For that year?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Let us get the dates. You say you should have had your license in the fall of 1886-'87; you mean in the fall of 1886?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Why should you have had it in the fall?—A. I should suppose that when we applied for it we should have had it then for trading that winter and not wait until the winter was over.

Q. But you do not commence cutting timber until the approach of winter there, do you?—A. No, sir.

Q. If you had had your contracts by the first of December, by the time winter began, that would have been in time?—A. Yes, sir; in November.

Q. When did you get your license?—A. In February, 1887; I can not give the exact date.

Q. You do not know the occasion of that delay?—A. No, sir; I do not.

Q. Did Agent Gregory tell you that he would not approve contracts for your firm?—A. He did.

Q. When and where?—A. At Ashland, in September or October a year ago.

Q. What reason did he assign?—A. He would not give any reason.

Q. Who was present at that interview?—A. I had my brother there and he had two book-keepers there; I do not know their names.

Q. Where is your brother?—A. At Chippewa Falls, though he may be in the woods now.

Q. You spoke of a good many other contracts you had made with persons other than Mary Bray; can you furnish the names?—A. There was one with John Maingall, and there was a woman who was married to a man named Rejotte, living on the Flambeau farm—I can not speak her Indian name—and Ambrose Corbin. I do not think of any other just now; that is, their names. There was a man that we contracted with—Corbin; that is, Corbin's contract was approved and passed all right, but Mary Bray's was not. Mr. Gaynor held the contract on Corbin's. I think Gaynor got three contracts and one of them was turned back to us, and we held two and Bergevin three.

Q. Didn't you know at that time that you made the complaint that the Mary Bray contract with other parties antedated yours; didn't you know that Mary Bray had signed a contract for the sale of her timber with these other parties before you made yours?—A. No, sir.

Q. Did you at any time inform Agent Gregory that you had contracted with these parties, Mary Bray and others whose names you have given here?—A. I could not say.

Q. What was the price per thousand fixed in these contracts that you have enumerated?—A. Different prices. I think Mary Bray's contract was $6; that Corbin's was $5.75, and if I am not mistaken Rejotte's was $5.85.

Q. Did you contract for more than $6 with anybody that winter?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. With these parties you have named here?—A. No, sir.

Q. Then Mary Bray got the highest price that you had contracted for in the list named here?—A. The contracts show the highest.

Q. And that is what she received when she sold to Bergevin?—A. No, sir; she only got $2.75.

Q. Didn't she get $6?—A. No, sir.

Q. If you want you may explain or you may leave it as it is.—A. You understand she had to pay for the banking of it, and the banking was charged up to her, and she received $2.75 for her timber.

Q. She would not have had to pay for the banking if she had stood by the contract she made with you?—A. Yes, sir; she would.

Q. I will put it in this way: Did she or not receive exactly what she would have received if she had executed a contract with you?—A. No, sir.

Q. Why not?—A. Because the banking was to be charged at $3, leaving her $3.

Q. And you say it was charged at $3.25?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. How do you know it?—A. I heard from parties that they received $3.25 for banking the timber.

Q. But you know nothing of it?—A. No, sir.

Q. What are you doing out there now?—A. I have been trying to collect some bills standing out on the reservation that are due us; that is all I have been doing since.

Q. You are not in business there?—A. No, sir; I am not.

Q. Your brother is not, either?—A. Yes, sir; he is logging. He and another man have bought timber, and have a nice lot of contracts, but not on the reservation; we are not doing any business for the reservation.

Q. Have you any feeling, prejudice, or bias towards Agent Gregory by reason of your failure to have your contracts approved?—A. I could not really say that I love the man when he has caused me so much loss.

Q. Would you undertake to say that you did not really hate the man?—A. I should say that I did not have any love for a man who would cause me so much damage as that man has.

Q. What is it that brings you here to testify before this committee unless it is that you do not feel altogether amiable towards that man?—A. I do not have any love for that man.

Q. Is that the motive that prompts you as a witness before this committee?—A. Well, sir, I feel that I ought to be here to try and defend my rights. I feel that he has wronged me.

Q. Now, with reference to the relative value of white and Indian labor in this logging business, I understood you to say the other day that the white labor was the more reliable; that they did not go off after all the dances that occurred in the community but staid the week out?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Upon the whole, which is the more preferable labor, white or Indian labor for these purposes there?—A. White labor.

Q. Did you pay them the same wages as a rule that you paid the Indians?—A. No, sir; we did not.

Q. Did you pay by the thousand feet?—A. No, sir; when we were hiring men we paid by the month.

Q. As a rule did you pay the whites more than you did the Indians?—A. No, sir; we did not.

Q. I take it that the wages would range about the same?—A. I think not. The wages for the white man would be somewhat smaller than for the Indian—cheaper than for the Indian.

Q. And better service?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then were you not, and were not all the other gentlemen engaged in looking for this lumber out there, always trying to get as much white labor into your service as possible, as you got it cheaper and better?—A. Well, when the farmer ordered us to discharge a man we did it. I was working for my interest and not for the Indians.

Q. Is it not a fact that you and the others, doing the same thing which any man would do, observing and guarding his own best interests, preferred to work the white labor to the Indian labor, and were you not constantly trying to get as heavy a percentage of white labor on your force as possible?—A. We did try to get as much white labor into our force as possible; but if the farmer told me to discharge that white labor I always did it.

Q. Whenever you were employing white labor—whatever percentage of white labor you had in your service there—is it not a fact that you were constantly increasing the percentage of white labor as against the Indian labor because it was better and cheaper labor?—A. Certainly; that is to a man's interest. We were not trying to beat the Indians in any way, but I was working for my interest, and I supposed that the Government had Mr. Gregory and the farmer there to look after the interests of the Indian, and if they did not object to my hiring a white man, why I did not think it was wrong for me to be hiring him if he came along.

Q. But my question rather was whether all you gentlemen who were engaged in lumbering were not constantly trying to increase the percentage of white labor in your respective forces?—A. I certainly was trying to get on all the white labor I could.

Q. Can you tell me what the proportion was of white and Indian labor that you had employed in February, 1886?—A. No, sir; I could not, because we only put in between five and six million feet that winter. We might have had twenty or thirty men. In February the Indians usually wish to go off to sugar making, and even if in the middle of February we had crews of Indians we might not have had an Indian by the 10th of March. So, as the Indians went off making sugar, if a white man came along we put him in their place, but we never discharged an Indian. About the middle or first of February the agent told us we might put on some white labor. I think that permission was asked for by the other traders and the agent acceded to their request.

Q. You spoke, the other day, of paying too high a price for the lumber or timber you buy. Do I understand you to say that the agent or farmer there ever made any objection to the liberal price that you were offering on your contract?—A. To me; no, sir.

Q. Did you ever hear of their doing it?—A. Yes, sir; through Mr. Cunningham.

Q. Where is he now?—A. At Chippewa Falls.

Q. He said you offered too much?—A. Yes, sir; he did.

Q. Six dollars was the highest you were offering?—A. He did not know what I was offering.

Q. But, in point of fact, $6 was the highest you were offering?—A. I say Mr. Cunningham did not know what I was offering at that time. Mr. Cunningham said all the objection that Agent Gregory raised was that we were paying too much for timber.

Q. What were you paying them?—A. I think we were paying $5.50 to $6.

Q. It seems that these others were buying at as high a price as you were?—A. No, sir; I think not, at that time.

Q. The Mary Bray contract was $6?—A. I think if you will look over the list of contracts you will find that in the first part the contracts will average a dollar more when they first commenced contracting, if the dates are in the contract showing when they were drawn up.

Senator BLACKBURN. I do not wish to ask any more questions, but I would like here to offer to prove the official character of a piece of the official correspondence of the office, as it bears right on this point; and, as Governor Pound is in the city, and one of these letters reaches him, I would like a subpoena for him.

The CHAIRMAN. I have had a subpoena prepared for him. Do you desire to put in the document now?

Senator BLACKBURN. Yes; there is an officer of the Department here who has charge of this division by whom I propose to prove its official genuineness.

The CHAIRMAN. Then you dismiss this witness?

Senator BLACKBURN. Yes.

The WITNESS. Am I to be called on the witness stand again?

The CHAIRMAN. None of the witnesses can go away.

The WITNESS. Shall I have the right to make a supplemental statement?

The CHAIRMAN. You can do so now, if you desire.

The WITNESS. I will not now, but after awhile I should like to make an additional statement.

TESTIMONY OF HENRY E. HINDMARSH (Recalled).

HENRY E. HINDMARSH was recalled and further examined.

By Senator BLACKBURN:

Q. I would like to ask you if you recognize this as a true copy from the official correspondence of the Indian Office (handing a letter to the witness)?—A. I believe it to be a copy; I did not verify the copy myself.

The CHAIRMAN. I have no doubt it is a correct copy.

Senator BLACKBURN. Very well; then I will submit this to go into the record.

The CHAIRMAN. This is a letter from Agent Gregory to Commissioner Atkins, of January 21, 1887.

Senator BLACKBURN. Yes; showing the investigation which was made.

The CHAIRMAN. Will you read it?

Senator Blackburn then read the following letter:

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE,
La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis., January 21, 1887.

SIR: Replying to office letter L, 34072-34503, 1886, the respective owners of the W. $\frac{1}{2}$ of the SE. $\frac{1}{4}$ Sec. 21, W. $\frac{1}{2}$ NE. $\frac{1}{4}$ Sec. 28, T. 39 N., R. 8 W., and lots 1 and 4, Sec. 4, T. 38 N., R. 8 W., went before Mr. Rusler, Government farmer, and made contracts with Peter Bergevin for the sale of the pine timber on their allotments. After the contracts were signed Mr. Rusler forwarded them to me and I approved them. After Mr. Rusler had forwarded the contracts to me, Calligan Bros went to Mary Bray and got her to make a contract with them for \$6 per thousand, the same as Mr. Bergevin paid her, and sent it to me for my approval. I refused to approve it, and they employed Governor Pound to help them out.

The fact that this woman went before the farmer, and, in the presence of witnesses, voluntarily contracted with Mr. Bergevin ought to settle the matter.

I was not aware that Calligan Brothers claimed to have contracted with the owners of the W. $\frac{1}{2}$ of SE. $\frac{1}{4}$ Sec. 21, and the W. $\frac{1}{2}$ of NE. $\frac{1}{4}$ Sec. 28, T. 39 N., R. 8 W., for their pine. They never mentioned the fact to me.

I agreed with Governor Pound last fall to approve any contracts made by Calligan Brothers with the Indians, but did not agree to compel the Indians to sell to them. If they had gone before the farmer and made a contract with Mary Bray before Mr. Bergevin contracted with her, it would have been approved.

I would respectfully recommend that Mr. Bergevin's contracts be approved.

Very respectfully,

J. T. GREGORY,
U. S. Indian Agent.

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

The CHAIRMAN. The committee will now adjourn to meet again on Monday.

The select committee then adjourned until Monday, March 12, 1888, at 10.30 o'clock, a. m.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Monday, March 12, 1888.

The select committee was called to order by the chairman, Senator Chandler, at 10.30 o'clock a. m.

Present, Messrs. Chandler, Platt, and Blackburn.

The CHAIRMAN. I will recall Major Hindmarsh.

TESTIMONY OF HENRY E. HINDMARSH (recalled).

HENRY E. HINDMARSH was recalled and further examined.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. Which of the documents that have been called for are you able to produce to the committee this morning?—A. I have here the abstract of logging contracts made by Indians of the La Pointe Agency of Wisconsin, 1882-'88.

Q. Is this the roll which was taken by Commissioner Atkins the other day?—A. It is.

Q. Describe the alterations and additions which have been made therein generally?—A. The heading has been altered so as to include the season of 1887-'88, and in the body there has been an additional column introduced showing the date of receipt of the contract in the Indian Office. There is a column in connection with that, showing the date of approval, making two columns instead of one. Then at the foot of the list as it formerly was, ending with the contract of March 7, 1887,

Contractor George Forsyth, $1,200 on Bad River, there has been added the list of contracts headed 1887-'88, being all the contracts received thus far at the Indian Office for the present season—fifty-five of the Valley Lumber Company and one hundred and three of Dobie & Stratton.

Q. Does the list as it now stands include all the timber contracts on the Chippewa reservations that have ever been received at the office of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs?—A. As I understand the list I believe it to contain all the contracts which have been approved in respect to the Chippewa reservations. I believe it to be substantially correct. Some of the contracts have been returned for informality, and we never have heard from them again; but that is an abstract, from the record-book, of all the contracts which are recorded.

Q. Does the list include those contracts which have been rejected, disapproved, or returned?—A. No, sir; only those which have been approved.

The paper referred to by the witness is as follows :

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, November 21, 1887.

SIR: In compliance with your informal request, I herewith send you an abstract of all logging contracts made by the Indians of the La Pointe Agency, Wis., so far as the same have been approved by this office.

I also inclose a form of contract and bond used.

Statements of general results of these operations since the commencement thereof in 1882 will be found in the annual reports of this office, 1883 to 1887, inclusive.

A. B. UPSHAW,
Acting Commissioner.

Hon. H. L. DAWES,
United States Senate.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. What other paper are you able to produce this morning?—A. I have a copy of the complaint of the Fond du Lac Indians, dated January 26, 1888, of which you had a rough draught.

The paper produced by the witness is as follows:

RESERVATION OF THE FOND DU LAC BAND OF CHIPPEWA INDIANS,
La Pointe Agency, January 26, 1888.

DEAR SIR: We again beg to invoke your aid in adjusting the wrongs and unjust discrimination against us, which causes immeasurable dissatisfaction and discontent among us. The prime seat of all the trouble and discontent arising upon this reservation lies solely in the manner Indian Agent James T. Gregory deals with the Indians.

Our grievances are not of recent origin nor are they of trifling nature. The incincerity manifested by Mr. Gregory in the performance of his duties on behalf of the Government, and for the interest of the Indians, became apparent more than a year ago, which has materially affected the interests and welfare of the Indians who are actual members of this band, as can be seen by the following statement of a council held on the 23d and 24th instants.

Mr. Gregory opened the council by the introduction of Mr. Tom Wall as a special allotment agent, duly appointed from Washington.

Then Mr. Gregory proceeded to take minutes of claims filed by the Indians in taking their several allotments of land.

During the proceedings of the council several names were brought before council which were rejected by the Indians because those parties were known by the oldest inhabitants upon this reservation as having no legitimate claims as members of this band.

A large number of those rejected had filed their claims with the farmer and had contracted with the timber buyers to cut and bank the timber, and had received advances of money, merchandise, etc., upon such contracts. In selling the pine timber upon the Indian reservation, before the consent and approval of the Indians had been secured, Mr. Gregory then presented certain rules, purporting them to be from the proper authority in Washington, intended to cover cases of this nature, the substance of which was that when an applicant was rejected by the Indians the applicant should be sworn and show cause why his claim should be granted, and prove that his parents were recognized members of this band, and the applicant should procure at least two witnesses to that effect.

Mr. Gregory then proceeded to inform the Indians that whether or not the applicant or their parents ever drew payment or annuities with this band, had no significance.

The clauses above referred to were seemingly constructed specially to fit those cases upon the reservation, in order to hold the timber upon which the advances were made, whether or not the applicant was entitled to any claim, thereby also securing the advances made, whether or not the Indians granted the claims.

While the General Government is liberal to those parties rejected in giving them privileges to secure lands upon the public domain, the Indians have no desire to debar any person rightfully entitled to land upon this reservation.

But they do not wish to have Indians and mixed-bloods who belong upon other reservations come here and crowd out those who are rightfully entitled to allotments upon this reservation.

As there are about one hundred members of this band who are endeavoring to secure suitable claims upon this reservation, but are kept back because most all the land of any value for timber or otherwise has been taken by parties not belonging upon the reservation, and yet Mr Gregory exercises all of his authority, and even abuses the privilege of his office by exhausting every effort to secure the claims to those who have been rejected, seemingly because those parties have received advances from the timber buyer on the timber upon such claims, and those advances have been made with the knowledge that those claims had not been granted by Indians at council. In about every case where an applicant was rejected during the last council, held January 23 and 24, when applicant and his witnesses were sworn to give testimony, Mr. Gregory was asked on behalf of the Indians for a privilege to cross-question witnesses in order that justice may be given both sides, but Mr. Gregory obstinately refused to allow any questioning or any testimony or any interference whatever by the members of this band.

If Gregory has exclusive authority to use his own judgment in the granting or rejecting claims upon this reservation, and if the customary rule of leaving that matter to the Indians has been abandoned we would like to be properly informed of that fact, that we may quietly submit to the inevitable, but until then we shall continue to bring the matter before you in endeavoring to obtain relief. The fact that the testimony taken in those cases rejected were taken only from one side, and that when the proofs were insufficient to warrant the granting of claims Mr. Gregory still insisted in holding those claims for the rejected parties until he could see a certain Mr. Durfee at Ashland, Wis., and some other parties at Superior, Wis., whom he imagined possibly knew something about those parties rejected, which would probably enable him to report the matter to the Indian Department to suit himself, and in such a manner as to cast the reflection of responsibility upon others, and that he would not listen to a word from the oldest Indians who have lived here all their lives, shows conclusively that Mr. Gregory has a much deeper motive than a mere desire to satisfy himself that no injustice is done to those whom the Indians desire to reject.

But there is one notable fact in connection with the favor shown by Gregory to rejected applicants, which shows his sympathy and identity with the people buying the Indian timber, is that when those parties who have not received advances upon their timber were rejected, the rejection was promptly approved by Mr. Gregory and those who have received advances on their timber and rejected by Indians at council, were held by Gregory in spite of all the remonstrance the Indians could bring to bear upon those cases. If Gregory was just to the principles of the Government and to the interests of the Indians, what motive could he have in exhausting every function of authority of his office, and even abusing the privileges of the same, to protect the interests of the timber buyers at the expense of the Indians?

Had Gregory faithfully performed his duties and protected the interests of the Indians, which is one of the most important functions of his office, the present condition of the Indians would have been materially different, and the price paid them for their timber would be from 20 to 25 per cent. greater than they now receive, which can be easily shown by the prices paid for timber at Duluth, Stillwater, and Minneapolis, Minn., the principal lumber manufacturing cities in the State. The very important part that Gregory is taking in this timber business became very conspicuous last May, when the time came for the timber buyers to make settlement with the Indians. When the Indians complained to Gregory of the unjust manner they were being dealt with Gregory would endeavor to intimidate them by threatening to have them arrested for being drunk, etc.; and in one case Gregory closeted a member of this band with himself, and threatened to have him arrested and sent to prison, also expelled from the reservation, for daring to write letters for the Indians in reporting the manner of their treatment to the authorities at Washington.

We also desire to submit for your consideration the following statement of an investigation which took place on or about the 6th day of September, 1887, upon this reservation, which proved to be a genuine farce. A Mr. Thompson (Thomas) arrived here from Washington on or about the 6th day of last September. A council was called by Mr. Gregory, who introduced Mr. Thompson (Thomas) as a man who was sent here from Washington by the Great Father to investigate certain complaints made by those Indians to the authorities at Washington, dated about the 16th day of April, 1887. Mr. Thompson (Thomas) was assisted by Mr. Gregory in the investigation, which was conducted wholly on behalf of and in favor of the timber buyers, against whom the complaints were made. The Indians knew nothing of the nature of Mr. Thompson's (Thomas) mission until the council was opened, and the Indians were not given time to procure witnesses to substantiate the complaints made; the principal witnesses were scattered throughout the reservation, and could not be brought to the Indian village in less time than six hours at the quickest. Mr. Thompson (Thomas) was notified of this fact, and requested to continue the investigation the following day, but he strenuously declined to do so, remarking that "It does not take me long to make up my mind in a case of this kind." The Indians asked for the privilege of cross-questioning what few witnesses that were called to defend the parties against whom the complaints were made. This also was denied them.

However, one witness was called, "Joseph Frank," who testified frankly and honestly how the Indians were misled and himself unjustly dealt with. Soon as it became apparent that his evidence was bearing directly against the timber buyer, Mr. Thompson (Thomas) attempted to intimidate him by asking him if he (witness) ever brought any whisky upon the reservation.

Mr. Gregory took the minutes of the investigation, and we have no doubt he flavored the reports of the investigation to suit his own taste.

Mr. Thompson (Thomas) was asked for a copy of the proceedings of the investigation or permission to take the same, but both were denied the Indians. There are a number of witnesses that could have been procured had one day's notice been given the Indians, by whom the complaints could have been fully substantiated.

But all privileges of a fair and honest investigation was denied the Indians, which resulted so disgracefully to an honest purpose. Thus the timber sharks were extricated by officials whose duty it is to prosecute them.

We respectfully again urge your attention in the proper and further investigation of the complaints above referred to, dated April 16, 1887.

We claim that the investigation made on or about September 6, 1887, arising from those complaints, were partial, unfair, and unjust towards the Indians.

We submit herewith the names of applicants for allotments upon this reservation, which were rejected by Indians at council January 23 and 24, 1888, and which Gregory is doing all in his power to secure the claims to them, and which we urgently request that you take such steps to prevent any patents being issued to those parties, for lands upon the Fond du Lac Reservation of the La Pointe Agency.

It may be inferred that those parties are usurpers of the rights of our children and many of our old people, who have not made selections yet, and who are desirous of making selections. There are a few cases where those parties make applications for claims under assumed names, apparently for the purpose of misleading the Indians. About all the cases where parents have filed claims for their children were not brought before the last council, held January 23 and 24, 1888, thereby delaying the Indians in securing the lands that were filed for their children, also giving room for contention with parties who are liable to file on those claims which were originally filed upon for the children.

There are also cases where claims upon valuable lands have been filed by resident Indians, which were afterward ascertained that those claims were charged in the farmers' books and given to other parties, and the original claimant given other claims which are comparatively of no value, this being done apparently to secure the valuable timber claims to those parties who would readily sell the timber to certain parties which is apparent Mr. Gregory is in sympathy with.

The looseness of the manner in which the farmers' books are kept, upon which all claims of allotments are filed, is notorious and shameful, sometimes depriving old and helpless people in this manner of their rightful claims.

We understand Special Allotment Agent Tom Wall was instructed by you to locate claims for Indians, and designate to them the boundary lines of same, so that allottees would become familiar with the situation of their claims and the boundary lines.

This was not complied with. During the last council, which was held January 23 and 24, 1888, for the purpose of allotting lands, not an Indian was shown the location of his or her allotment, and Tom Wall left the reservation.

We also desire to submit for your investigation claims upon the Northern Pacific Railroad for lands occupied by said railroad in running through the southern portion of the Fond du Lac Reservation. Said road has been in operation the past nineteen or twenty years and we have never received any money or other compensation for the lands occupied by said railroad in the right of way, nor for any timber taken from our lands used in the construction of said railroad, of which there has been a large quantity taken for some distance outside of the right of way. We desire the Government should take this matter up and compel the Northern Pacific Railroad Company to pay for such lands occupied by them, and for the timber said railroad company has taken from our lands used in the construction of said railroad, and for the damages sustained in the destruction of valuable timber by fire along the line of said railroad, originating by the sparks from the locomotives of said railroad company.

Owing to the unsatisfactory nature of the Indian farmer's services, we petitioned Agent James T. Gregory to appoint for that position a mix-blood from our reservation, several of whom are eminently capable to fill any position on this reservation for the public service; we also asked him to give us a mix-blood school teacher. Some of our own people are fully competent to teach even in the public schools among the white people, but Gregory refused to appoint a mix-blood to teach in our school, although the Indian Department urgently recommends such a course. But Mr. Gregory promised to consider our request in the appointment of a mix-blood to the position as Indian farmer, but he has failed to take any definite action in the matter.

We have lost all confidence in retaining the white man as Indian farmer, from the manner they have served us, and we now want a mix-blood who belongs upon this reservation appointed to the position of farmer, who shall hereafter be recommended by the Indians. We see no other method by which the interests of the Indians can be protected from further abuse upon this reservation.

A. DENOMIE.

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR and INDIAN COMMISSIONER,
Washington, D. C.

The WITNESS. Then I produce a copy of the letter which you had before you last Saturday relative to the Mary Bray and other contracts, which is exact, as it has been compared with the original.

The letter referred to will be found on page —, at the close of the proceedings of the committee of March 10.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. Is that all that you are able to supply this morning?—A. Yes, sir; that is all.

TESTIMONY OF THADDEUS C. POUND.

Hon. THADDEUS C. POUND, having been duly sworn by the chairman, was interrogated as follows:

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. Where do you reside?—A. At Chippewa Falls, Wis.

By Senator BLACKBURN:

Q. Were you ever employed as counsel by a lumbering firm known as Calligan Bros. on this Indian reservation in Wisconsin?—A. I was.

Q. At what date?—A. I think it was in November, 1886.

Q. What was the special matter pending which required your employment?—A. Calligan Bros. had been denied the privilege of making contracts with the Indians for logging during the winter of 1886-'87. The agent had instructed the farmer not to give them any blank contracts, saying that he would not approve any contracts made with them.

Q. You think that was in November, 1886?—A. I will not be sure, but it was in the latter part of October or the first of November.

Q. Do you remember any of the contracts specially by name that the firm of Calligan Bros. made?—A. At the time I was furnished by them with a list of the lands upon which they claimed to have made agreements with allottees, but I have not a copy of that list of lands.

Q. And you have not the original?—A. No, sir.

Q. Have you any data in your possession by which you can fix the dates of any contracts that they may have been made with the Indians owning the timber upon any of these allotments?—A. I think I have in my correspondence with the Department, some portion of which I retained.

Q. Do you remember anything about the contract with Mary Bray?—A. Yes; I remember that.

Q. I should like to obtain the date of that contract with her.—A. I have here a copy of a letter which I addressed to Commissioner Atkins under date of December 23, 1886. Shall I read it?

Senator BLACKBURN. If you please.

The witness read the following letter:

GILSEY HOUSE,
New York, December 23, 1886.

MY DEAR SIR: It is incumbent upon me to notify your office that the respective owners of the following-described allotments on the Lac Court Oreilles Reservation of the La Pointe Agency, Wisconsin, to wit, the W. $\frac{1}{4}$ SE. $\frac{1}{4}$ Sec. 21, T. 39, R. 8, the W. $\frac{1}{4}$ NE. $\frac{1}{4}$ Sec. 28, T. 39, R. 8, and lots 1 and 4, Sec. 4, T. 38, R. 8, did, on September 4, 1886, contract to sell to Calligan Bros. their logs to be cut from their lands.

It further transpires that under the representations of the farmer of said reservation, that said "Calligan Bros. would not be permitted to purchase logs to be cut from said reservation," other parties have subsequently made contracts with the same parties for the same logs.

Later, in my presence, and partly by my persuasion, the agent rescinded his expressed purpose to refuse to approve contracts for logs made by said Calligan Bros., and agreed to approve, in cases of disputed contracts, such contracts as the several land owners, in the presence of both claimants, should elect. It is claimed by Calligan Bros. that in the cases above noted the agent has declined to comply with this just agreement, and hence this notification, with the request that you withhold your approval of duplicate contracts covering the lands described.

Very respectfully,

THAD. C. POUND,
Attorney for Calligan Bros.; address, Chippewa Falls, Wis.

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Washington.

By Senator BLACKBURN:

Q. Is that the whole of the letter?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. It is signed by you?—A. Yes, sir.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. Is this a copy or the original?—A. This is a copy.

Q. Where did you date it from?—A. This is dated at New York.

By Senator BLACKBURN:

Q. This is not the original letter?—A. No, sir.

Q. I want the original.—A. I assume this to be a correct copy.

Q. Did you make it yourself?—A. Yes, sir; it is in my own writing.

Q. Did you make this copy before you mailed the original?—A. Yes, sir; I should say that I did.

Q. Is the Mary Bray contract included in the list embraced in the letter you have just read?—A. I take it to be so.

Q. Do you know that?—A. It is my understanding that that list of lands represented the lands covered by her contract.

Q. And only the Mary Bray lands?—A. I will not be sure of that.

Q. You do not know?—A. No, sir.

Q. In this letter you asked for a suspension of approvals of contracts until communication could be had with Agent Gregory. Was that done?—A. I can not answer that question. My impression is that the contract had not at that time been forwarded for approval.

Q. Did the office at any time communicate with you and inclose you a letter or a copy of a letter from Agent Gregory to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and ask you whether you withdrew your objections to the approval of contracts, or whether you wanted the inquiry to go on?—A. They did.

Q. What did you answer to that and when?—A. First I will call your attention to the time. I received a letter from Commissioner Atkins under date of February 5, 1887, referring to the lands. I have the original letter here; shall I read it?

Senator BLACKBURN. I would like to have it read.

The witness read as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, February 5, 1887.

Hon. THADDEUS C. POUND,
Chippewa Falls, Wis.:

SIR: Referring to your letter of the 23d December last, requesting that approval of duplicate contracts for logging on Lac Court d'Oreilles Reservation in respect of W. $\frac{1}{4}$ SE. $\frac{1}{4}$, sec. 21, T. 39, R. 8; W. $\frac{1}{4}$ NE. $\frac{1}{4}$, sec. 28, T. 39, R. 8; lots 1 and 4, sec. 4, T. 34, R. 8, be withheld by reason of conflict between the parties severally claiming to hold such contracts, I have to say that a copy of your letter was transmitted to Agent Gregory with directions to report thereon.

I inclose a copy of his reply, and as I do not find these contracts duplicated amongst those of Calligan Bros., I will thank you to inform me whether your objections are withdrawn.

Very respectfully,

J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

By Senator BLACKBURN:

Q. Now please give me your reply to that.—A. Here is a copy of the letter which was inclosed from Agent Gregory.

Q. That is under date of January 21?—A. Yes, sir.

Senator BLACKBURN. That is already in the record; it has just been put in.

The WITNESS. My reply is under date of February 12. Shall I read it?

Senator BLACKBURN. If you please.

The WITNESS. This was addressed to Commissioner Atkins and was written in Washington.

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 12, 1887.

MY DEAR SIR: Your letter of the 5th instant, covering copy of Agent Gregory's letter of January 21, 1887, is received. I regret to be compelled to disagree with some material statements of fact made by your agent with respect to the matter in controversy. Adhering strictly to my presentation of the case, set out in my letter of December 23, I will briefly and truly restate the case. Calligan Bros., who had been privileged to contract for purchase of logs cut from allotments of the Lac Court d'Oreilles Reservation during the winter of 1885 and 1886, having entered into contracts for other logs to be cut during the present logging season and made large advances thereon, were in the month of October informed by the farmer, Mr. Rusler, that your agent, Gregory, had directed that no contracts by them (Calligan Bros.) be approved; no complaint against the integrity or fair dealing of Calligan Bros. was made, the motive being entirely personal.

This information being by the farmer communicated to the Indian land-owners, some of whom were desirous of selling their timber at once, a number of such owners who had already entered into contracts with Calligan Bros., on the assumption that their contracts would not be approved, proceeded to contract with other parties for the same timber. At this juncture of affairs Calligan Bros. appealed to me to intercede for them, and, if possible, to persuade the agent to recede from his determination to exclude them from a privilege which should be free alike to all good citizens. With reluctance I proceeded to the agency, resulting, as your agent states, in the agreement "to approve any contracts made by Calligan Bros. with the Indians," but with a proviso, which he omits to state, to wit, that where such contracts had been duplicated by reason of his order all parties interested should be convened, and the contract preferred by the Indians should in all cases be approved. This agreement was faithfully adhered to and carried out by the farmer until the case of Mary Bray, referred to in this correspondence, was reached.

Here let me note what the agent says in reference to this case. He says: "I was not aware that Calligan Bros. claimed to have contracted with the owners of [describing] the land. They never mentioned this fact to me." In this he is mistaken. I personally handed the agent a list of lands contracted, which embraced these identical lands. Furthermore, special mention was made of them at the time of the agreement, the farmer expressing the hope to me that Calligan Bros. would conclude to pass them (on grounds which I omit to state, being personal). But Calligan Bros. declining to yield these contracts, the farmer did convene the parties at Hayward, Mary Bray being present in person, Mr. Bergevin by attorney, and Calligan Bros. in person. At this conference Mary Bray, in her own person and behalf, stated that she preferred to adhere to her contract with Calligan Bros., whereupon the farmer declined to act, and referred the case to the agent, who also declined to carry out the wishes so expressed by the owner of the timber; Mary Bray, the only reason then assigned for such action being "that the contract with Mr. Bergevin had already been approved and forwarded to the Department."

The correctness of this latter statement is not confirmed by the records of your office, as several weeks later I was personally informed that no contracts, except those made with the regular traders, Dobie & Stratton, had then been received at your office. A most significant fact in connection with this case is, that the farmer left the reservation and went with Mr. Bergevin to Flambeau Farm to meet Mary Bray for the purpose of securing this contract for Mr. Bergevin. She informed the farmer that she had already contracted the timber to Calligan Bros., and was also persuaded to make the contract with Bergevin, when informed by the farmer that Calligan Bros. would not be allowed to contract. I respectfully suggest that you address the following interrogatories directly to Mr. Rusler, farmer, post-office address, Hayward, Sawyer County, Wis., with instructions to make prompt reply directly to you, to wit:

(1) Were you present when Mary Bray executed a certain contract with Mr. Bergevin for logs to be cut from her land on the L. C. Reservation?

(2) Did Mary Bray inform you at the time of this transaction that she had already contracted with Calligan Bros. for the same timber?

(3) Did you at this time inform Mary Bray that contracts with Calligan Bros. would not be approved?

(4) At what time did you forward the Bergevin contract with your approval to Agent Gregory?

(5) Did Mary Bray in person, Mr. Bergevin by attorney, and Calligan Bros. meet you at Hayward in pursuance of an agreement between the agent and Calligan Bros. to determine which of the two contracting parties should be recognized for confirmation?

(6) At such conference what preference was expressed by said Mary Bray?

It is to be regretted that work is already so far progressed under the Bergevin contract, notwithstanding my timely notice, that little, if anything, can now be done to rectify the injustice to Calligan Bros., and hence no further investigation need be made to that end. Of the importance of such investigation, to the integrity and wise management of affairs under your supervision, as well as the public service generally, you will be the judge.

Other important cases submitted by me some weeks ago are pending in your office, the issue of which may influence your action in the matter of investigation.

Please address me at Ebbitt House, this city, until further advised.

Very respectfully, yours,

THAD. C. POUND.

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

By Senator BLACKBURN:

Q. What source of information had you upon which you predicated the statements contained in your letter as to what occurred between the farmer and Mary Bray at the conference described?—A. I had only the statement of Calligan Bros.

Q. You know nothing of it personally?—A. No; I was not present.

Q. Did you ever have a conference with Mary Bray as to whether she wanted a contract with Calligan Bros. or with the other parties approved?—A. I never did.

Q. When you had this interview with Agent Gregory did he not tell you that the party selling the timber, the Indian, should have the right of election, and that whichever contract the Indian preferred should be approved?—A. That was the agreement.

Q. Did you ever have a subsequent conference with the agent on that subject?—A. I do not recall any other interview with him personally on that subject, though there may have been one.

Q. How do you know that the agent ever refused to carry out in good faith that agreement which he made with you, which was to approve such contracts as the Indian selling the timber might elect?—A. My recollection of the fact that the Mary Bray contract was included is refreshed by the circumstance that the farmer called me aside personally, as indicated in this letter, and expressed a wish that of the contracts included in this agreement he hoped that the one made by Bergevin might be passed, and that Bergevin might be permitted to hold that contract.

Q. I will repeat my question, because your answer does not touch it. How do you know that the agent ever did fail or refuse to carry out in good faith, either in the Mary Bray contract or in any other contract, the agreement that he made with you to the effect that such contract should be approved as the Indian selling the lumber should elect?—A. I only know from the reports made of the conference, which have never been denied to me.

Q. And that report was only made to you by Calligan Bros.?—A. I do not recall now any other source of information. But I am further notified by the Department, from the correspondence already read, that he had refused to approve of this, or that he had approved of the Bergevin contract and recommended its approval by the Commissioner.

Q. It is already in evidence here, in that same correspondence, that Mary Bray in that conference selected the Bergevin contract to be approved, and not the Calligan Bros. contract. It is so stated in the letter sent to you from Agent Gregory?—A. The agent does not refer to any conference at all.

Q. I will ask you to look at the copy of the letter under date of January 21, signed by Agent Gregory, and see if the Department is not told by Agent Gregory that Mary Bray elected to have the contract with Bergevin approved. Here is what he says:

After Mr. Rusler had forwarded the contracts to me Calligan Bros. went to Mary Bray and got her to make a contract with them for $6 per thousand, the same as Mr. Bergevin paid her, and sent it to me for my approval. I refused to approve it, and they employed Governor Pound to help them out.

The fact that this woman went before the farmer and, in the presence of witnesses, voluntarily contracted with Mr. Bergevin ought to settle the matter.

The CHAIRMAN. He sets up there the priority of the Bergevin contract, not an election by Mary Bray, as between the two contracts.

The WITNESS. That is the case with all the contracts.

Senator BLACKBURN. Now, let me ask you if you did not read this sentence in that letter inclosed to you:

I agreed with Governor Pound last fall to approve any contracts made by Calligan Bros. with the Indians, but did not agree to compel the Indians to sell to them. If they had gone before the farmer and made a contract with Mary Bray before Mr. Bergevin contracted with her it would have been approved.

The WITNESS. Let me here state that in all the other cases referred to, which were settled by the convening of all parties interested, the party had been before the farmer, and in his presence the contracts were made and by him noted, as in the case of Mary Bray; the cases are exactly parallel, because in the cases of Calligan Bros., where they had made agreements, the farmer had refused to take any notice or cognizance of anything they were doing with the Indians, while other parties, making duplicate and subsequent contracts to their agreement, had done that in the presence of the farmer in precisely the way that Mary Bray made her contract.

Q. How do you know that?—A. It is the universal custom; that is the only way in which these contracts are made, except that they may be made in the presence of the official interpreter at Ashland. It is the business of the farmer, when a party desires to contract, to be present and to listen to the interpretation of the contract and to certify that he has heard the contract read in the presence of both parties; that is his office, and that office he had performed in every other contract, as I understand it.

Q. Who do you understand it from?—A. I understand it from the universal custom.

Q. Then nobody told you so?—A. Yes; I have been told that that is the manner in which all these contracts were made.

Q. Who told you?—A. Mr. Rusler himself.

Q. Mr. Rusler told you that that was the universal rule?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And Mr. Rusler told you that in one instance it was departed from?—A. No, sir.

Q. Who did tell you that it was departed from?—A. He did not tell me that it had been departed from.

Q. If there was any difference in the conduct of the agent or the farmer in the case of the Mary Bray contract, or any other contract that Calligan Bros. had, from the generally accepted and approved rule, I want to know what it was?—A. There was no departure, as I understand it, so far as the contracts with the parties supplemented the agreements with Calligan Bros. They appeared before the farmer in due form and in the regular way and made contracts the same as in the case of Mary Bray. But it was not a question as to who had the prior contract; that was not referred to for the reason that there was no officially recognized contract with Calligan Bros. at that time; they were simply agreements, the farmer refusing to give them contracts or to recognize them in making contracts.

Q. During the time of your representation of the firm of Calligan Bros. as counsel did the question ever come up, or was the matter of dates ever alluded to—the contracts between Calligan Bros. and Bergevin as to Mary Bray's timber?—A. Only so far as I was informed by Calligan Bros. and the circumstance of this list which was furnished at the same time that the agreement was made, that the agent would approve of Calligan Bros. contract.

Q. Was the question ever raised between you and the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, or between you and the agent, or between you and the farmer as to the priority of date of the Bergevin contract over the Calligan Bros. contract with Mary Bray?—A. I never heard any conversation that I remember between the farmer and agent on that subject.

Q. In your correspondence with the Indian Office was that question ever raised, as to whether Bergevin had not a contract that antedated Calligan Bros. contract?—A. It is referred to here in this correspondence of the agent; a statement of fact which I disagree to.

Q. As to the relative dates of those two contracts?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What information have you as to the date of either one or the other?—A. I can not say as to the date of the contracts, because the date did not enter into the consideration of the approval of the contract at the time it was agreed to. But I recall this fact, that the Bergevin contract was included in the list handed to the agent at that time, and I recall it from the circumstance of the farmer calling me aside and saying to me that he hoped Bergevin might be permitted to obtain his.

Q. I understand that, but it does not get at the point I want.—A. The question of date never entered into it at all.

Q. Under date of January 21 does not Agent Gregory in that letter, a copy of which was inclosed to you and which you have produced here, expressly state that Mary Bray had first made a contract with Bergevin for the sale of her timber, and that Calligan Bros. had subsequently gone to her and induced her to make another contract with them?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then it is raised right there, is it not?—A. But that was not a pertinent question involved in this agreement with Agent Gregory at that time.

Q. Then, as I understand, the difference between you and Agent Gregory was such as to preclude all matters of date or priority between contracts at all?—A. It was simply this: That where Calligan Bros. had made agreements with parties for their timber, and upon the representation by the farmer that Calligan Bros.' contracts would not be approved, other parties had made contracts for the same timber with the same person; that in such cases of duplication, in the first case of agreements not in the presence of the farmer with Calligan Bros., and in the second case of contracts made in the presence of the farmer in due form, that the parties in interest should be convened, the allottees being present, and both parties to the contract being present, and the question of preference being submitted, he agreed to approve of the contract which the allottee should decide or choose to have.

Q. I understand all that, but that does not yet prove responsive to the question I am trying to get you to answer. Did you understand that your agreement with Agent Gregory entitled Calligan Bros. to an approval of contracts if they had made them with Indians subsequent to contracts for the same timber made with other lumbering men, because if they had made their contracts with others before Calligan Bros. claimed the date of their contract to have attached, it could not have been because they had been informed that the Calligan Bros.' contracts would not be approved?—A. You must understand that Calligan Bros. at that time had not made any contracts in due form for timber; they had simply made agreements, but that the contracts with the other parties made subsequently were made in due form. After this agreement was made then blanks were furnished to Calligan Bros., whereupon they proceeded to meet these parties and confer and make contracts in due form, corresponding to the agreements previously made with them.

Q. I will try to put the question in this shape—in fact, I will put it in any shape if I can induce you to answer it, and I will go on and restate it until you do answer it. Do you understand that any agreement that you had with Agent Gregory bound that agent to approve any contract of Calligan Bros. with any Indian for the sale of any timber, provided that same Indian had entered into a contract to sell that same timber to somebody else before?—A. I must answer in precisely the same way again.

Q. I will just keep repeating the question until you answer it. Now, you are a very good lawyer—A. No, sir; I do not plead guilty to any such reputation.

Q. And I am asking you a very plain question in reference to your understanding of an interview you had with the Indian agent. My question is simply this: Did that agent, as you understood it, agree that he ever would approve any contract with Calligan Bros. for any timber, provided the same timber had been sold by the owner under a previous contract to other parties? I do not think it takes an astute lawyer to understand that question.—A. The difficulty is in understanding the difference between an agreement which was informal and a contract in form.

Q. Well, why won't you say, then, either that the agreement might antedate the conflicting contract, or that it was to be a contract, as you say, in due form, that should determine the trade? I want to get at the facts; and there was nobody there but you and the Indian agent, and I haven't him here, although I have asked the chairman to subpoena him, which I hope he will do to-day?—A. I will restate that. Calligan Bros. had made various agreements, not in due form, in the presence of the farmer, who had declined to recognize them, but had made agreements with the various allottees for their timber.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. In writing?—A. Yes, sir; in writing. Now these contractors learned that Calligan Bros. would not be permitted to log, that their contracts would not be approved, and these same parties were induced to sell their timber to other various contracting parties. This agreement made between myself and Agent Gregory was to this effect: That where parties had made contracts in due form for this timber which Calligan Bros. had previously bargained for, that in such case of duplication of contracts these parties should be convened, and the person selling should determine to whom he preferred to sell, and that should settle the question; and this contract of Mary Bray's was distinctly referred to. While I have no copy of the list of lands included, my memory is refreshed from this circumstance: That the farmer specially desired that the contract of Bergevin with Mary Bray should stand, and I so stated to Calligan Bros., and stated to them that their relations might be more harmonious if they did not insist upon their contract with her.

By Senator BLACKBURN:

Q. Now, I think I have been told that so often that I must understand it. But I will come back to my question now. Was that farmer present at the time you had this interview with this agent?—A. He was.

Q. Now, then, pray tell me—I do not care whether you call it agreement, I do not care whether you call it contract, I do not care whether you call it contract in due form, nor how many subdivisions you make of it—did that agent, Gregory, say anything that induced you to believe, or intimate anything that induced you to believe, that he would ever approve any contract for Calligan Bros., provided the same Indian, before entering into a contract or a written agreement, had sold, or contracted to sell, that same lumber to some other party?—A. No, sir; he did not.

Q. That is what I wanted to get at. Now, then, I understand you say—and let me see if I am correct in this—that Gregory assured you that wherever parties had agreed to sell timber to Calligan Bros. and had been induced to make subsequent contracts with other parties because of information to the effect that Calligan Bros. contracts would not be approved by him, that the parties in interest should be convened and the Indian selling should elect as to which contract should be approved and made valid?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, do I understand you to say that you know from information—not personal knowledge, but information given you by anybody except Calligan Bros.—that Agent Gregory ever failed or refused to execute that contract that he made with you?—A. My information comes from them as to the agreement and the conference, and of course I have no doubt, because it has not been disputed that the farmer did convene the parties in interest with respect to this same contract at Hayward, and that the question of preference was determined then and there before the farmer; I never have heard that disputed.

Q. That is not in proof here?—A. It is in this very letter of mine in proof.

Q. You state it, but you state it on the information of Calligan Bros.?—A. Well, it has never been denied.

Q. The agent, in his letter of January 21, expressly tells you that that was not true; that she went and in the presence of witnesses and the farmer elected to have her contract with Bergevin?—A. That is what he did in all cases.

Q. Then it is your statement against the agent's statement, and you have no information except from Calligan Bros.?—A. I do not deny that Mary Bray did make a contract in the presence of the farmer and that it was precisely in the same way as other contracts were made in the presence of the farmer, and it has never been disputed that the farmer in pursuance of that agreement did convene Mary Bray and Calligan Bros., and Bergevin, by his attorney, and confer upon this very question and determine it at Hayward; it has never been disputed.

Q. I see it in dispute in this record, and I see you assert it upon the one hand upon the testimony of Calligan Bros., and I see the testimony of the agent asserting it on the other hand?—A. I can not quite agree with the statements of Agent Gregory.

Q. Very well; we will leave the record to stand and show for itself. Do I do you any injustice in this statement: That you say here that if Gregory ever failed or refused to carry out that agreement that he made with you to approve such conflicting contracts as the seller of the timber might choose, you have no information of that fact except the statement made to you by Calligan Bros.?—A. I do not recall any; no, sir.

Senator BLACKBURN. That is all I want.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. Let me see if you can make this matter more distinct. Do you understand that no case of duplicate contracts was referred over to be again decided by the Indian except where the agreement of Calligan Bros. antedated the agreement of Bergevin?—A. I do not understand that any such provision was made; I do not know that any conference was had.

Q. As to any other kind of contracts?—A. No, sir.

Q. That is to say, do you understand that there was referred to the allottee any case where the contract of Bergevin antedated that of Calligan Bros., or only those where the contracts of Calligan Bros. antedated those of Bergevin ?—A. The agreements or contracts which had been made should antedate, as I understood it, those made with other parties, including those of Bergevin.

Q. To Calligan Bros. ?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you hear of any cases which were re-submitted to the Indian except where Calligan Bros. had already claimed to have the first contract ?—A. I did not.

Q. Were you present at any interview of all these parties ?—A. Only at the time the understanding was had with the agent and the farmer and the instructions given to the farmer.

Q. Who was present at that interview ?—A. Calligan Bros.

Q. Any one else ?—A. I do not recall anybody except Agent Gregory.

Q. Was the farmer present ?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you were present at that interview ?—A. Yes, sir; I was present.

Q. Was the Mary Bray contract referred to specially at that time ?—A. It was.

Q. Was it referred to as a case where Calligan Bros. claimed to have a prior agreement ?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you understood, and have always understood, that Calligan Bros. did have a prior agreement ?—A. I have understood that they included the lands filed at that time, which they claimed to have an agreement for.

Q. And that their agreements were all executed prior to this of Bergevin ?—A. That was the case, I understood.

Q. Did you understand from Calligan Bros., or in any way, that the contracts which Calligan Bros. had made, and which were in controversy, were made upon the printed blanks of the previous year and without having at that time received the approval of the farmer ?—A. My understanding or recollection is that Calligan Bros., being refused blanks which had been printed for that year, secured other blanks to be used in place of them ?

Q. And that their agreements were made upon blanks ?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. In the usual form, but which at that time had not received the approval of the farmer ?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Whereas the Bergevin contracts had received the approval of the farmer; is that the controversy as you understood it ?—A. Yes, sir; that is it.

By Senator BLACKBURN :

Q. You say that in the interview which you had with the agent where there was no one present that you now recall except Calligan Bros. and the farmer, that the Mary Bray contract was alluded to ?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was it alluded to by the agent ?—A. I think not.

Q. Is it not a fact that the farmer called you out one side and spoke to you privately ?—A. Yes, I think that is true.

Q. And that is the only way in which it was alluded to ?—A. Yes, sir.

By the CHAIRMAN :

Q. And he said that it was a contract which he hoped you would not insist upon for Calligan Bros. ?—A. Yes, sir.

By Senator BLACKBURN :

Q. Did he in that interview say that Calligan Bros. by contract or agreement either, had a prior claim on that timber to Bergevin ?—A. No, sir; he spoke of it as one of the lands included in the list furnished to the agent and expressed the hope that Bergevin might be permitted to retain that.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. There was no one in that list, as you recollect it, where Bergevin had the prior contract?—A. It was claimed by Calligan Bros. that in the list handed them they had the prior contract.

Q. In all cases?—A. Yes, sir; in all cases.

Senator BLACKBURN. We admit that Calligan Bros. claim that.

The CHAIRMAN. I would like to have you, before your testimony is considered closed, look over all the correspondence, which will be furnished by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and see if you want to put any of it into the record. I will now defer any further examinations until to-morrow. I desire to-morrow to finish the examination of all the Indians who are in the city, so that they may return to their homes; and if Commissioner Atkins wishes any of them to remain longer than to-morrow or a day or two after that, it will be necessary for him to take some steps to detain them, otherwise they will return home. I speak of those who have been examined and those who have not. Is that entirely satisfactory to you, Senator?

Senator BLACKBURN. Entirely so.

The select committee then adjourned until Tuesday, March 13, 1888. at 10.30 o'clock.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Tuesday, March 13, 1888.

The select committee met pursuant to adjournment at 10.30 o'clock a. m.

Present: Messrs. Chandler (chairman); Platt, Cullom, and Blackburn.

The chairman handed the reporter the following resolution, which he stated was adopted by the committee yesterday, Senators Chandler, Platt, and Cullom voting in favor of its adoption, and Senators Blackburn and Coke voting against it. The chairman also stated that he yesterday transmitted a copy of the resolution, with a letter signed by himself, to the Secretary of the Interior.

Senator Blackburn stated that on the motion before the committee to send the communication referred to by the chairman to the Secretary of the Interior that he and his colleague upon the committee voted no, upon the ground that such action would be premature, as no proof yet developed before the committee, in their judgment, warranted any interference upon the part of Congress in the management of the reservation.

The resolution in question is as follows:

Resolved, That a copy of the evidence taken by this committee concerning the Chip-pewa Indian allotments and timber contracts be transmitted to the Secretary of the Interior for his information; that his attention be specially called to the testimony showing that extensive lumbering operations are now being carried on upon the Chip-pewa reservations, under contracts not yet approved by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, by large gangs of lumbermen who are not Indians, in violation of the rules of the Indian Office under which such contracts have been allowed to be made; and that the suggestion be farther made to the Secretary that it is advisable that orders be given by telegraph to stop immediately the cutting down of any more trees upon the reservations under contracts with the Indians until further orders from the Department.

The CHAIRMAN. I will ask Commissioner Atkins a question.

TESTIMONY OF J. D. C. ATKINS (recalled).

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS was recalled and further examined :

By the CHAIRMAN :

Q. Did you receive from me a letter of which this is a copy [handing to the witness a letter]?—A. Yes, sir; late yesterday afternoon I received that letter.

The letter referred to is as follows :

SELECT COMMITTEE ON INDIAN TRADERS.

UNITED STATES SENATE,
Washington, March 12, 1888.

SIR : The records and correspondence, copies of which are desired for this committee, may be treated as coming under the following heads :

(1) Those which show the origin and growth of the system of timber contracts on the Chippewa Reservations.

(2) The complaints made by the Chippewa Indians up to the time of their present visit to Washington, with the reports of the special agents sent to investigate them.

(3) The written complaints of the Indians now in Washington.

(4) The system and extent of allotments of land in severalty to the Indians, both under the treaty and the severalty act.

Copies which will fairly and fully exhibit the above subjects to the committee are desired as soon as they can be conveniently furnished.

Very respectfully,

WM. E. CHANDLER,
Chairman.

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

By the CHAIRMAN :

Q. Have you any further copies of papers called for to furnish to the committee this morning?—A. No, sir; I have not been able to get them ready; I am having the clerks work upon them.

Q. Have you received any more timber contracts from the La Pointe Agency since you submitted the list the other day?—A. The papers all come to the chief clerk and are opened by him and distributed to the chiefs of divisions. I am not either personally or officially aware that any have been received. Perhaps Major Hindmarsh could answer that question.

Mr. HINDMARSH. None have been received.

The CHAIRMAN. I wish, Mr. Commissioner, that you would telegraph to Agent Gregory to forward all contracts that have not yet been sent to the office.

Senator BLACKBURN. I do not want to be considered importunate, but this is the third day that I have felt forced to ask that the committee will decide upon the application I have made for a subpoena for Agent Gregory, and instead of forwarding that request (unless the committee is to refuse to allow me to subpoena him as a witness) I do not see why he could not bring them with him.

The CHAIRMAN. The application to send for Agent Gregory will be taken up as soon as we can have a full meeting of the committee.

Senator BLACKBURN. There is a quorum here now.

The CHAIRMAN. I would rather it should be considered by the whole committee if it can be done.

Senator BLACKBURN. I do not think we have had a full meeting of the committee yet.

The CHAIRMAN (to Commissioner Atkins). Do you know where Agent Gregory is now?

Commissioner ATKINS. I understand that he is at Hot Springs, Ark. on leave of absence for thirty days.

Q. Who is in charge of the agency at Ashland?—A. I think the clerk is, but I am not sure. That is the usual custom. The office does not dictate or prescribe who shall be appointed to act as agent in the absence of the agent.

The CHAIRMAN. I understand that if Agent Gregory were here Senator Blackburn would put him on as a witness.

Senator BLACKBURN. Yes; I want him as a witness.

The chairman directed the clerk to direct the Sergeant-at-Arms to telegraph to Agent James T. Gregory that his presence was required immediately at Washington as a witness before the committee, and Commissioner Atkins was requested to send a telegram to Ashland, Wis., directing all official papers bearing upon the approval or rejection of timber contracts, and all the contracts, to be forwarded.

The CHAIRMAN. I will now examine Mike Diver.

TESTIMONY OF MIKE DIVER (Recalled).

MIKE DIVER was recalled and further examined:

The CHAIRMAN. Did you see the agent, Morris Thomas, who came to Fond du Lac to make an investigation?

Interpreter COFFEY. He says yes; he saw him.

The CHAIRMAN. Did you ask him to go back from Cloquet to the reservation and investigate further?

The INTERPRETER. Yes; he went down there and asked him.

The CHAIRMAN. What did he ask him to do?

The INTERPRETER. He says he went down there and asked Mr. Thomas to go back on the reservation and finish the investigation; he says there were three of us; myself, Annimossing, and himself.

Interpreter DENOMIE. He says they were sent down there by the Indians.

The CHAIRMAN. What did Mr. Thomas say?

The INTERPRETER. He said that he would not go back.

The CHAIRMAN. Mr. Thomas was an inspector?

The INTERPRETER. He says it was so understood. Agent Gregory so introduced him to the council.

The CHAIRMAN. Ask him to state in his own way what Mr. Thomas's reply was when he was asked to go back and investigate further.

The INTERPRETER. He says that Mr. Thomas stated he would not go back.

The CHAIRMAN. Ask him whether he has ever made any complaints to Agent Gregory; and, if so, when.

The INTERPRETER. He says he has. He complained to Agent Gregory about this timber being cut off the Indian village grounds upon the reservation, and also that the Indian farmer does not stay on the reservation; and there are a great many cases where Indians come there and make their selections for allotments who do not belong on the reservation; he has complained to Agent Gregory of that.

The CHAIRMAN. What did Agent Gregory say when he made complaint?

The INTERPRETER. He says that at the time he complained to Agent Gregory about this timber being cut off the village grounds he explained to the agent that the Indians were given to understand that a certain portion of the land there was set aside for village purposes, to be held in common.

Interpreter DENOMIE. He says that Agent Gregory told him that.

Senator BLACKBURN. Let us have what he said; you two interpreters do not seem to agree.

The CHAIRMAN. What did Agent Gregory say when he made complaint?

Interpreter DENOMIE. He says that when he made complaint to Agent Gregory about cutting timber from the village grounds, he told Gregory that the Indians understood that this ground that was laid out for the Indian village ground was held in common by the Indians for village purposes. He told Agent Gregory that, and Agent Gregory said that was so; he says everybody has not a right to go in there and cut timber. He says this was a year ago last fall.

The CHAIRMAN. What did Agent Gregory say he would do in the matter?

Interpreter COFFEY. He says that Agent Gregory told him that he would stop the people that were cutting the timber on the village grounds, and he did stop it for a little while. But he says they commenced on those grounds again, and are cutting on them this winter; that he has not said anything to Agent Gregory about it since; that he told him once about it, and he thought that was enough.

The CHAIRMAN. Ask him what took place at the council on the 24th of January of this year; what complaint he makes about it, if any?

The INTERPRETER. He says that at the last council there were a great many people given allotments that were not entitled to them on the reservation; the Indians knew they did not belong on the reservation at all; that those parties who filed the claims had one or two persons to help them in securing those allotments; he means witnesses, I suppose.

Senator BLACKBURN. Make a note that we are taking down all the presumptions of the interpreter.

The INTERPRETER. And he says that the applications were only looked at from one side; that those people helped one another all they could, and they got their claims in that way; but the Indians were not allowed any voice in the matter.

The CHAIRMAN. Ask him whether the Indians asked the privilege of putting in testimony on the other side; the Indians who opposed those claims?

The INTERPRETER. He says, yes; that the Indians offered testimony, those who belonged on the reservation, from their side, and Mr. Wall was told they wanted to give testimony; that as these applicants were allowed to bring witnesses to testify on their behalf, doesn't it seem, he says, that the Indians who belonged on this reservation ought to be allowed to have witnesses also, to show which is right, and whether the applicant should or should not be entitled to the claim.

The CHAIRMAN. What answer did Mr. Wall make to that request?

The INTERPRETER. He says at that time the Indian agent was writing on a paper and he dropped it and said, "There is a person down at Ashland who knows all these people, and where they belong;" he says he then answered Agent Gregory in this way: "If that person is down there you ought to bring him up here and have this matter properly discussed before all the Indians, and show cause whether that person belongs here or not." Then he says that Agent Gregory pulled his hat down over his forehead and said "That can not be."

The CHAIRMAN. Ask him if the Indians have had or been promised any opportunity of producing their witnesses?

The INTERPRETER. He says, no, sir.

The CHAIRMAN. I will ask him if he ever saw Agent Durfee?

The INTERPRETER. He has.

The CHAIRMAN. Did he have any talk with him about cutting timber and the plan of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs about timber contracts?

The INTERPRETER. He says he has.

The CHAIRMAN. Ask him what Agent Durfee said to him about his plan?

The INTERPRETER. He says that he went to him in person, and Agent Durfee told him that if he took an allotment he would not have any right to cut all the timber off at once before he would get a patent; that he could cut as much timber off of his allotment as he could clear up in proper shape and put into cultivation, so as to cultivate the following summer and take care of it in a proper manner. He says that Agent Durfee told him that white men would not be allowed to work on a reservation, but if an Indian did not know enough about cutting timber he would be permitted to use three persons to assist him—three white men, and if the Indian did not know how to cook he should be given the privilege of employing a white cook, and if the Indian did not know how to drive a team, he should be given the privilege of a white teamster and also a white foreman; and he says that he told him that if the Indians could do all this themselves that the white men would not be permitted to go on the reservation to do the work.

Senator BLACKBURN. Ask him who has been talking with him about his testimony since he testified here the other day.

The INTERPRETER. He says nobody.

Senator BLACKBURN. Then ask him why he did not tell all this he is telling to-day when he came here last Saturday.

The INTERPRETER. He says that when he stopped he was given to understand they were through with him, and that is the reason, and he did not have a chance to tell.

Senator BLACKBURN. Then how happens it that the chairman of the committee calls you back this morning knowing that there is something else for you to tell beyond what you told last Saturday?

The INTERPRETER. He says he does not know.

Senator BLACKBURN. Neither do I. What interest had you in going down to the town to try to get Inspector Thomas to go back and make a further examination on the reservation?

Interpreter DENOMIE. He says he had lots of things that he could tell him if he had gone there.

Senator BLACKBURN. Ask him if he ever had an allotment, or ever had any timber to sell himself?

Interpreter DENOMIE. No, sir.

Senator BLACKBURN. Ask him if he is or ever was the chief of that tribe?

The INTERPRETER. He says he never was a chief but his father was a head spokesman of this band.

Senator BLACKBURN. Is his father living?

The INTERPRETER. No, sir.

Senator BLACKBURN. When did his father die?

The INTERPRETER. Over twenty years ago.

Senator BLACKBURN. What right had he to speak for the tribe to Inspector Thomas or Agent Gregory about the sale of timber?

The INTERPRETER. He says the Indians wished him to go there and that he has got the papers that the chiefs had; he has them in his possession now.

Senator BLACKBURN. Ask him if he has any papers showing that he held any authority from the Indians on that reservation to act for them in regard to selling and cutting this timber?

The INTERPRETER. No, sir; he has not.

Senator BLACKBURN. Has he ever had an allotment made to him on this reservation of timber of his own?

The INTERPRETER. No, sir.

Senator BLACKBURN. When he went and asked Inspector Thomas to go back and make a further examination, did Mr. Thomas say that he had already examined into the matter thoroughly?

The INTERPRETER. He said that he would not go back, that he had gotten through there; he told him that he had inspected in his way, but had not done anything concerning his own affairs.

Senator BLACKBURN. Ask him what interest he had in the matter.

The INTERPRETER. He says he is interested in the reservation the same as the rest.

Senator BLACKBURN. Ask him, if he has no allotment of land or timber for sale, what interest he has which brings him to Washington to make this complaint now?

The INTERPRETER. He says his property there in the reservation being taken away from him is the reason of his coming here.

Senator BLACKBURN. Ask him if any white men worked on the reservation when Agent Durfee was there.

The INTERPRETER. He says there were a very few.

Senator BLACKBURN. What proportion of men engaged in the lumbering business were white and what proportion Indians under Agent Durfee?

The INTERPRETER. He says he does not know personally, but he understood there were a great many more Indians than white men.

Senator BLACKBURN. Ask him if he did not say just now that Agent Durfee told him that there should not any white men work on that reservation under him?

The INTERPRETER. Yes, sir. He says he did work on the reservation the first part of the winter before he took sick, and he saw only two white men working there. He worked there two days and took sick.

TESTIMONY OF LITTLE CLOUD.

LITTLE CLOUD, of the Bad River band of Chippewas, was duly sworn by the chairman, and interrogated as follows:

The CHAIRMAN. You are of the Bad River tribe of Indians?

The INTERPRETER. Yes, sir.

The CHAIRMAN. Who is the principal chief?

The INTERPRETER. Geeshketowig.

The CHAIRMAN. Is the principal chief in Washington?

The INTERPRETER. Yes, at the boarding-house.

The CHAIRMAN. Is he too old to come here or is he sick?

The INTERPRETER. He is not strong enough, he says.

The CHAIRMAN. You are the next chief?

The INTERPRETER. He says the Indians on his reservation appointed him as assistant or next chief to the old man.

The CHAIRMAN. Ask him if he has been on the reservation this winter.

The INTERPRETER. He says he lives right there.

The CHAIRMAN. What contractors or lumber companies have lumber contracts on the reservation this winter?

The INTERPRETER. He says there are two half-breeds and a white man; Kennedy is one and Maxim is another. He says the white men are doing the most of the lumbering there.

The CHAIRMAN. How many white men and how many Indians are lumbering there?

The INTERPRETER. He says the laborers there come and go a good deal, and he can not keep accurate track of them; he thinks there are between 400 and 500 in all, and out of that number there are about 30 Indians, and the balance are all white men.

The CHAIRMAN. Why did he come to Washington?

The INTERPRETER. He says his people chose him at a council to come here and put their complaints in writing, and gave him the paper to place before the Indian Commissioner.

The CHAIRMAN. Tell him he may state any complaints he would like to make to the committee.

The INTERPRETER. He says that their reservation is greatly reduced in size from what it was when it was originally set apart for them; that swamp lands and school lands were designated on their reservation, and the timber on their school lands is being cut and taken away without their consent.

The CHAIRMAN. Ask him how long it will be before the pine timber will be all gone from the reservation if lumbering goes on at the rate it is going on this winter?

The INTERPRETER. He says if they keep on lumbering the way they are doing now it would take, perhaps, two winters and maybe a little more to clean the pine timber off the reservation.

The CHAIRMAN. Ask him to state the case that he stated to me yesterday about the sale of some timber.

The INTERPRETER. He says that at a council held by all the agents of the tribes and chiefs they granted an allotment to an Indian named Winnabushow. When Winnabushow wanted to sell his timber, the farmer gave him a contract for that purpose and he contracted to sell his timber to Mr. Haskins at Bad River. He says that Haskins did not supply the Indian with provisions; that the Indian was sick and could not work, and Haskins turned around and sublet that contract to the Indian farmer's son-in-law there on the reservation; Walker is the name of the farmer, but he does not know the name of the son-in-law; that was this winter. He says that Winnabushow, seeing that Haskins was not giving them any provisions to live on, and seeing that he had sublet the contract, then Winnabushow turned around and contracted with another party for this same timber, and this second party he contracted with gave him money and things to live on. He says when the Indian agent heard of this he sent a man there to remove those parties that he had contracted with a second time; that Winnabushow asked these parties to remain there, and the Indian agent, Gregory, came there in person and drove them off, and the farmer's son-in-law took possession of the camp and put all white men in it, he would judge about twenty and maybe more.

The CHAIRMAN. Anything else?

The INTERPRETER. Then Winnabushow asked the witness to intercede for him, and he went to see the Indian agent three times, but only succeeded in seeing him once. He says he told the agent that the Great Father sent him there to look after the interests of the Indians. He says the Indian agent told him that the patent had not been returned from Washington, and the allotment had not gone through the Indian Office; that a year after Winnabushow had selected this allotment this same piece of land was selected by Armogeshig.

The CHAIRMAN. When did Winnabushow have the allotment made to him?

The INTERPRETER. He says it is about three years now. He says the Indian agent told him that since that time this Armogeshig had been getting that allotment by the Indians and council. The men who were with him there spoke to Agent Gregory and told him that that man, Armogeshig, was dead, and not only that, but he already, before this one, had an allotment. When those fellows said that, then the agent said, "Then it is that woman." He says he don't know exactly what he meant by that. He says the Indian agent did not want to tell him plainly, or give him to understand plainly, about the matter.

The CHAIRMAN. How much timber was there on this allotment?

The INTERPRETER. The "eighty" was nearly full of pine timber; there was very little other timber on it; he could not say how much, because he is not a good estimator of it.

The CHAIRMAN. Who did this Indian make the second sale of timber to?

The INTERPRETER. The second contract was with Antoine Denomie.

The CHAIRMAN. Ask him whether the Indians made complaints about the timber of minor children being cut?

The INTERPRETER. He cannot remember whether there were any complaints of that kind or not; he does not know of any timber being cut from minors' claims; if that occurs it has occurred in a silent manner.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there an Indian school on the reservation?

The INTERPRETER. Yes, sir.

The CHAIRMAN. Ask him whether the Indian children attend pretty generally.

The INTERPRETER. Yes, sir. He says you can see him, the way he is. There are two school-houses on the reservation and the children interpret for us. He says there is a Sisters' school on the reservation and the Indians are very much pleased with the manner in which the children are taught; they do not show any partiality among the children; they treat them all alike, and they feel very much pleased with them.

The CHAIRMAN. Are they glad to have the children taught?

The INTERPRETER. He says yes; that you and I could not talk together if it had not been for the schools; that God has fixed things in such a manner that we can do it. He says there is something more he would like to state. He says a year ago last fall Inspector Gardiner came out there on the reservation and came to their village with the Indian agent. He says his band selected him to talk to Inspector Gardner about matters. He told the inspector that their reservation was diminishing in size; he told him about the swamp lands and the school lands from which the timber is being cut off, and about the dam on Bad River and also about trespassers cutting timber on the reservation; that the Indians at that time had a farmer that they had got in the position themselves in some way, who went through the reservation running out lines and finding out where the trespass was and all about it, and was working in good faith for the interest of the Indians. When the Indian agent saw that this farmer was working too much for the Indians, then a year ago last fall he discharged him; his name was Weekman, from Green Bay; he was there just a little while. He told this inspector about those things and asked him to have them adjusted and the inspector said he would, and he put the papers in his pocket and came away and he has never heard anything of him since. He says that Inspector Gardiner asked the agent, Gregory, if he had anything to say, and Gregory said no, and their complaints were taken away, and that is the last he heard of it.

The CHAIRMAN. Ask him whether the various complaints have been put in writing and signed by him and others.

The INTERPRETER. He says nearly all of them have been put in writing and signed, but he says there is a great deal more that could be found. He says his tribe sent him here to try and get the inspector to go out there and make an investigation, and the Indians would name a person who would act with the inspector.

Senator BLACKBURN. Ask him how the diminution in the size of the reservation has occurred.

The INTERPRETER. He says at the time the reservation was set aside the boundary lines were designated by the Commissioner for the United States and the head man of the Chippewa Indians, and he wants the United States to adhere to those lines designated at that time. He says there have been other lines run out inside of the old lines.

Senator BLACKBURN. I wanted to see whether he knew that this reservation was set apart under a treaty made in 1872 while General Grant was President, and whether the reservation boundaries were not fixed by a proclamation issued by the President at that time.

The INTERPRETER. He says no; he does not understand it that way, but he understands that his reservation was set aside by the treaty of 1854, when this land on the north shore of Lake Superior was ceded to the United States. He says at the time their reservation was set aside the Indians were told that all that land belonged to them and everything inside of it belonged to them.

Senator BLACKBURN. When were the boundaries drawn in and new boundaries set up?

The INTERPRETER. He says he does not know, but it looks to him that it was an agreement made between them and the Indian Commissioner at the time that reservation was set aside.

Senator BLACKBURN. Ask him whether the sixteenth and thirty-second section of lands are not school lands patented to the State.

The INTERPRETER. He says he does not know of anything of the kind; the only school land that he knows is a piece of ground that they leased to a certain missionary some years ago for missionary purposes right in the Indian village, and a white man has got possession of that piece of land and has sold it for dwelling-houses and other purposes; he thinks there are probably 200 acres right in the center of the village.

TESTIMONY OF JOHN C. CURRAN (recalled).

JOHN C. CURRAN was recalled and further examined:

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. You have been asked about this agreement with the Indians and the money that you furnished them; have you that agreement here in writing?—A. I have.

Q. Please produce it.

The witness produced the paper called for, and it was read by the Chairman, as follows:

BAD RIVER RESERVATION,
Adanah, Wis., December 20, 1888.

We, the undersigned, chiefs and memoers of the Lake Superior band of Chippewa Indians, do hereby promise to pay any sum of money that may be loaned us to pay expenses of sending delegation to Washington to secure the payment of the arrearages that are now due us; and we further promise that when we receive our arrearages we will promptly pay what has been lent us. We, the undersigned, further agree that we will pay the above-mentioned money out of any money that may be due us from the United States.

The CHAIRMAN. That is signed by the Indians with the names nearly all witnessed—their marks—by Jacob Skye. Is that all the agreement you have?

The WITNESS. That is all the agreement I have.

By Senator BLACKBURN:

Q. Do you remember the questions I submitted to you and the answers that you furnished on this matter of the advancement of this money to these Indians when you were on the witness stand last week?—A. I think I do; I do not know that I could state it in the same language now.

Q. I find that I asked you this: "What was it that induced you to leave your business and advance money to these protesting Indians to come on here to Washington?" And you answered, "Nothing more than friendship." Then I asked you whether you were an Indian and you said that you were not and had no Indian blood?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then I asked you if you were related to any of that tribe and you said you were not. I asked you then whether you were under any peculiar obligations to the Chippewa Indians and you said, "No, sir; nothing more than friendship. I have been with them for over thirty years; I used to trade with them in former years, fifteen or twenty years ago, and we have always been friends." I then asked you if you were paying your own expenses here and you said yes, and whether you were paying theirs too, and you said, "Yes, so far."

Now I want to ask you when all that was going on, why you did not tell us you had a contract by which they were bound to pay you back any moneys that you had advanced to them?—A. Because that question was not asked me.

Senator BLACKBURN. I am satisfied with it as it is; that is all.

TESTIMONY OF WASAGWANEPI.

WASAGWANEPI, having been duly sworn by the chairman, was interrogated as follows:

The CHAIRMAN. What tribe do you belong to and where do you live?

The INTERPRETER. He says he comes from the Flambeau Reservation, and he belongs to the Chippewa tribe of Indians.

The CHAIRMAN. Ask him if he has claimed an allotment.

The INTERPRETER. Yes, sir.

The CHAIRMAN. Did he have a talk with one Joseph Allen in the fall of 1886, and if so, what did Allen say?

The INTERPRETER. He says Allen came to him and told him that he wanted him to sell this timber to him.

The CHAIRMAN. Did he have an interview with Agent Gregory at the same time, and did Agent Gregory ask him about his timber?

The INTERPRETER. He says he can not recollect just now.

The CHAIRMAN. Ask him whether Agent Gregory ever asked him to sell his timber to any particular person, and if so, to whom?

The INTERPRETER. He says Agent Gregory named a person to him to whom he wanted this man to let the timber go. He can't remember the man's name, but he might remember it if he heard it.

The CHAIRMAN. Was it Sherman Bros.?

The INTERPRETER. He says yes, it was.

The CHAIRMAN. Did he sell his timber, and if so, at what price?

The INTERPRETER. He did sell his timber a year ago last fall to Captain Henry, who promised to pay him $6, and that he would bank the timber for him; that he would guaranty him $3, and Henry charged $3 for banking the timber. He says Henry did not get it, but somebody else is cutting it; he does not remember their names.

The CHAIRMAN. Was it Cosgrove?

The INTERPRETER. He says yes.

The CHAIRMAN. Ask him if he ever signed an agreement with Cosgrove?

The INTERPRETER. He says not on any timber contract. He says since the time that he signed the contract to let Henry have the timber he was asked to go up to a store somewhere near last New Year's by some of the men who keep a boarding-house there; he says Pufor was the name of the man who was sent after him, and he would recognize the name of the other man if he heard it.

The CHAIRMAN. Was it Cosgrove?

The INTERPRETER. He says it was.

The CHAIRMAN. What conversation took place between him and Cosgrove?

The INTERPRETER. After they got into the store Cosgrove told him—the witness and Mardwaoyasa—"we will make a paper to the Indian agent telling him that I have given you these coats and pants," and he says Cosgrove told him that their paper contained nothing of any importance, only to show that they had established a friendship between those two parties and Cosgrove. He says he put his name to it and five of them signed it, Cosgrove, Pufor and his son, and Pufor's son is the man who did the interpreting.

The CHAIRMAN. Was it claimed afterwards that he had then signed a contract to sell his timber to Cosgrove?

The INTERPRETER. Yes, sir.

The CHAIRMAN. Ask him if he ever did sign a paper selling his timber to Cosgrove of his own knowledge?

The INTERPRETER. He says no, sir.

Senator BLACKBURN. Has Cosgrove ever cut his timber?

The INTERPRETER. He says Cosgrove commenced cutting his timber since New Year's; he says he has heard that Cosgrove intends to cut all of his timber; he says he went out there and saw his timber being cut just before he started down here.

Senator BLACKBURN. How does he know who is cutting it?

The INTERPRETER. He says Cap. Henry asked him if he knew that his timber was being cut, and he said no; and Cap. Henry told him to go out there and see his timber.

Senator BLACKBURN. What did the man who was cutting it tell him?

The INTERPRETER. The man told him that he had instructions to cut all of it; that Cosgrove was the man who hired him.

Senator BLACKBURN (to the interpreter). What answer did he make before you named Cosgrove; you named him before the witness did?

The INTERPRETER. He says that is the man who had the store; that he did not know Cosgrove's name, but he knew it when he heard it.

Senator BLACKBURN. He calls it very pat. I give it up. I find that I am not getting answers to my questions through the medium of the interpreter, and will desist from any further effort in that direction.

The CHAIRMAN. Ask him if he himself has cut any timber.

The INTERPRETER. No, sir.

TESTIMONY OF PHINEAS H. CALLIGAN (recalled).

PHINEAS H. CALLIGAN recalled and further examined:

By Senator BLACKBURN:

Q. What was the amount of loss you stated you had been subjected to by reason of the non-approval of your contracts on this reservation?—A. I think it was somewhere about $20,000 that I claimed. I lost by reason of Agent Gregory's not approving of my contract.

Q. What seasons did you include in that estimate?—A. I included the two seasons.

Q. How much did you lose, do you think, this season?—A. I must have lost somewhere about $10,000.

Q. In what did that loss consist?—A. By losing the timber for instance, and then there are a good many outstanding bills that I shall not be able to collect that I could have collected if I was logging on the reservation.

Q. Did you lose anything on the contracts as you made them and had to sublet them?—A. Yes, sir; because I would have made a profit on the timber.

Q. Were you able to sublet the contracts at the price you had agreed to pay?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. So you did not lose anything in that way?—A. What I lost was the difference between what I would pay for cutting off the timber and what I would receive.

Q. The profit?—A. Yes, sir; the profit, that is all I lost on the contracts.

Q. Did you sublet all your contracts for the purchase of timber?—A. No, sir.

Q. Have you some of them on hand yet?—A. No, sir; those contracts were turned over to the Valley Lumber Company by me with the consent of the Indians.

Q. On what terms?—A. They paid me $10 a contract.

Q. And they assumed your liabilities under each contract?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then for all the contracts that you held for this season the Valley Lumber Company paid you a bonus of $10 on a contract and assumed all your liabilities?—A. No, sir.

Q. Didn't they agree to pay the same price for the lumber that you were obligated to pay?—A. Yes, sir; but understand when those were turned over to the Valley Company they agreed to pay me $10 on each contract they held and to pay me back what I had advanced to those Indians on those contracts.

Q. Then you did not really lose anything on your contracts of this year, not a penny, but you made $10 on each contract as a bonus or premium?—A. But I had men on the reservation all summer looking over the timber, and that I lost.

Q. I will ask you to tell us in what your loss consisted?—A. It consisted of the amount of difference between what we could have sold the timber for and what we paid, and besides we advanced a good deal of money to different parties, who, if we had been allowed to stay on the reservation, would have worked for us, or we would have got something out of them to get back what we had advanced.

Q. Who did you sell your contracts to for the season before this one?—A. We did not sell any of the contracts.

Q. You executed them yourselves?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then all of your $20,000 losses must have been of this season?—A. No, sir.

Q. How did you lose any last season?—A. Because we executed contracts for timber that Bergevin got away from us through Agent Gregory not signing those contracts.

Q. Then your loss there was profit altogether?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And your loss this season is profit altogether?—A. No, sir; it was not profit. For instance, there is one contract where we lost $100 that we had advanced, which we did not get back. Besides, Agent Gregory said that if those parties held those contracts that they should see we got our pay for what we had advanced on them; we did not receive our pay. Then we were at a big expense in contracting for that timber, and that we had to lose.

Q. I will ask you the question again, what, if any thing, to the extent of $1, have you lost there this season or last season, except in the way of profit which you expected to make?—A. In the first place, last year I claim that I paid out something like $600 to $1,000 in securing those contracts that I lost.

Q. What did you pay it for?—A. We paid it in looking over the land and in hunting these Indians up and contracting with them.

Q. That is not included when you come to sublet the contract?—A. No, sir; and then this year we have advanced a good deal to the Indians, and not being there, we can not collect it.

Q. I will ask you to listen to this telegram which I will read to you, and state whether it is the truth or not:

EAU CLAIRE, WIS.

Senator BLACKBURN:

Last October we bought from Calligan Bros. all their property on Lac Court Oreille Reservation, including all contracts for pine with Indians, amounting to $10,000. They did not lose a cent on contracts with Indians for pine.

VALLEY LUMBER CO.
WILLIAM CARSON, President.

Is that a truthful statement or not?—A. I could not say that it is. I have not received the money, and I do not know how I can say it is a truthful statement.

Q. Did you sell on terms to satisfy yourself?—A. I could not state the amount now.

Q. Is the Valley Lumber Company good for its obligations?—A. Yes, sir; it is supposed to be.

Q. Did you sell for cash?—A. It was supposed to be for cash down or as soon as I got to Eau Claire from the store.

Q. You have been there?—A. Yes, sir; I have.

Q. Why didn't you get the money?—A. They refused to pay it.

Q. Why don't you sue them?—A. That is a different thing. I don't want to get into a law-suit if I can help it.

Q. You sold your whole outfit for $10,000?—A. Yes, sir; but there are a good many contracts that they hold to-day that their man at the store refused to give us credit for. So on that I claim that is not correct.

By the CHAIRMAN :

Q. We understand that you have not had a settlement with them?—A. No, sir; we have not.

Q. Did you agree upon a gross amount that they were to pay you, or was an account to be taken?—A. An account was to be taken. There was an account taken at the time, and then it was understood between Buffington and the man who did the business there that as fast as they contracted for timber if we had advanced on that timber they were to give us credit, which they have refused to do since.

Q. You have, then, an unsettled account?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you claim that you have made a loss of profits that you would have made, and the additional loss which you have stated?—A. Yes, sir.

By Senator BLACKBURN :

Q. I will ask you to restate the nature of that additional loss, because I have not heard you state it at all?—A. We have advanced considerable amounts to different Indians who agreed to work for us, and we could have got our pay in different ways, but not being allowed to do any business on the reservation, those Indians are working for other parties, and we have lost what we advanced them, besides the expense of getting the contracts.

Q. If the Valley Company keeps its contract with you, are they not to re-imburse you for these advancements?—A. No, sir; not all of them. There are a good many men that they do not hold contracts on their timber that we have lost money on. Besides that, Dobie & Stratton have a number of contracts that we had contracted for that we have not received anything from. They picked them up when Agent Gregory sent them word that we would not be allowed to contract on the reservation.

Q. Those were controverted contracts, claimed by you and Dobie & Stratton?—A. I do not know what they claim. The Indians say they made the first contracts with us, but through the influence of the former they afterwards made contracts with Dobie & Stratton.

Q. Is not that the same case exactly that you describe in regard to the Mary Bray and other contracts?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. How do you think you lost $10,000 each season when you sold your whole outfit, contracts and all, to the Valley Lumber Company?—A. In the first place horses were sold for $300 a team which cost us $500. Our sleighs were sold for something like $75 a set, and the same sleighs would cost over $100. We were compelled to sell at a low figure.

Q. There was more than one company out there lumbering, was there not?—A. No, sir; not on the reservation who would buy our outfit. Dobie & Stratton and Clark & Thomas both refused to buy.

Q. It is a fact that you stated here in your testimony the other day, and repeated to-day, that in your judgment you lost $10,000 this season and $10,000 last season; and yet you did sell everything you had, teams, outfit, contracts, and all for $10,000?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then you lost as much as you agreed to sell your whole outfit for, so that your profit must have been at least 100 per cent. on what you had invested there every season; if you had $10,000 worth of property there and lost $10,000 of profit, your profits were worth as much as your investments every year, were they not?—A. Well, we made a profit on our timber between what we paid for it and what we sold it for.

Q. Did you make $10,000 a year at it?—A. We made considerable profit on the timber.

Senator BLACKBURN. That is all.

The select committee then adjourned to meet again on Friday, March 16, 1888, at 10.30 o'clock.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Friday, March 16, 1888.

The select committee was called to order by the chairman, Senator Chandler, at 10.30 o'clock a. m.

Present, Messrs. Chandler and Blackburn.

The CHAIRMAN. I will recall Major Hindmarsh.

TESTIMONY OF HENRY E. HINDMARSH—Recalled.

HENRY E. HINDMARSH was recalled and further examined.

By the CHAIRMAN :

Q. Have you any copies of papers from the Indian Office to furnish the committee this morning? If so we will receive them.—A. I have with me the written complaints of the Indians, now, or lately, in Washington, called for by the third subdivision of the chairman's letter of March 12, 1888, to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs as printed on page 132 of the record. There are eight complaints altogether of the different bands.

The papers referred to by the witness are as follows :

RESERVATION OF THE LAC COURT OREILLES BAND OF CHIPPEWA INDIANS, Lac Court Oreilles, Wis., February 17, 1888.

DEAR SIR: We, the Indians of the Lac Court Oreilles Reservation, assembled at council this 17th day of February, A. D. 1888, for the purpose of submitting to you for investigation the following grievances and complaints, and pray that you take such action as to give justice to all concerned :

(1) When our reservation was set aside for our band at the treaty of September 30, 1854, by the Chippewa Indians of Lake Superior and the Mississippi and the United States, the Indians, chiefs, and head-men, were given to understand by Henry C. Gilbert and David B. Herriman, commissioners then acting on the part of the United States, that the tract of land set aside for a reservation for Lac Court Oreilles band of Chippewa Indians embraced all the lands inside of the following boundary lines running from point to point designated by natural and permanent land-marks or monuments that was then known to exist by the Indians, which is as follows :

A line beginning at the north extremity of Gawaweeagamag or Round Lake, running thence nearly or about due east, intersecting with Gabaganagaka Shebeweshae, or Vincent Creek, a line running thence nearly southwest, intersecting with Natabeketogwayog Shebeweshae, or Kenyon Creek, a line running thence nearly due west touching the north extremity of Shada Sagaegan or Lac Chetac (Lake), a line running thence due north to Gashegwanabegokog Sagaegan, or Grindstone Lake, and a line running thence to the point of beginning at the north extremity of Gawaweeagamag, or Round Lake.

We were given to understand by the commissioners for the United States that all those lands inside those boundaries was set aside and reserved for ourselves and our own exclusive use of all benefits arising therein. But we find the white man is coming inside those boundary lines and cutting timber therefrom and settling on some of the lands. Also that the white man has come inside of our reservation and has cut valuable pine timber from whole sections of land, which they tell us is school lands, and take away and sell such timbers without the consent of the Indians, and for which we have not yet received any remuneration.

In the year 1872 a certain William A. Rust, of the city and county of Eau Claire and State of Wisconsin, entered into an agreement with the chiefs and head-men of our reservation, the agreement being executed on the 26th day of October, A. D. 1872, to cut pine timber upon certain designated tracts of land upon said reservation for the term of ten years, for which we were to receive $10,000 annually for the term of five years. This money was to be paid to the Indian agent who was to either pay the sum to us or expend it for our benefit.

The first year the said William A. Rust cut and took away from the reservation a large amount of pine timber, and we received nothing for such timber when the time came for payment of same. He continued to cause to be cut the following year all such pine timbers as he desired. When the time arrived for the second annual payment, we received 75 cents each, the whole number of our band. We then saw that the said William A. Rust was not carrying out his part of the contract. We then stopped him from cutting any more timber. We estimate there are about one thousand members of our band, which would make about $750 received by us for the large amount of timber cut from our reservation for the term of two winters. We have copies of the original contract which we will submit to you, should you so desire.

There is one case on this reservation where a certain Indian woman had about 400,000 feet of timber cut from her allotment. She was to receive $2.50 per 1,000 feet for her timber, on the stump. She should have received $1,000. During the time her timber was being cut she received $152.25 and she could never get a cent more, although she has tried a number of times to get the balance due her, which is about $847.75. There are a number of cases of similar nature that have been standing as long as six years.

There are one or two cases on this reservation where claims have been filed with the farmer for minor children, which claims have not been properly allotted and the timber on such claims are now being cut and taken away.

Chief and head-man:

Chief PEMASAYGYHE (his x mark).

Head-man, CHARLIE HEAD FLYER (his x mark),

G. SHELASHEI (his x mark).

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR and
COMMISSIONER OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, D. C.

(Filed, Indian Office, February 29. 1888.)

THE COMMISSIONER OF INDIAN AFFAIRS:

SIR: The undersigned, your petitioners, respectfully represent that they are Chippewa Indians, and belong to the Lac De Flambeau bands of Chippewas; that they reside upon their reservation in the State of Wisconsin; that a large number of said Indians have had lands allotted to them in severalty as provided by law; that said lands are chiefly valuable for the pine timber thereon; that such of your petitioners as have not already received their lands in severalty are desirous of availing themselves of that privilege, and that all of your petitioners desire to sell their pine timber as soon as possible and to the best advantage.

Your petitioners further represent that there is no one on the reservation connected with the Government who has thus far made any effort to protect your petitioners in their rights and interests; that the agent appointed by the Government does not afford them necessary information or protection in the allotment of lands and in the sale of timber; that one Sherman has for some time been engaged in purchasing timber on the reservation and in cutting and logging the same; that your petitioners are not willing to sell their timber to said Sherman for the reason that he, said Sherman, does not treat them fairly, does not agree to give them as much for their pine as they can obtain from other parties; does not pay them as he agrees, and refuses to explain to them their contracts or to settle with them as to amounts paid or due, and frequently obliges them to take as part payment goods at exorbitant prices.

Your petitioners further represent that one Joseph Allen is, officially or otherwise, in the employment of the agent in charge of the reservation; that it has been the business of said Allen to attend to the allotment of lands, and that he has either been instructed or assumes to solicit and secure contracts for the sale of timber to said Sherman; that in many instances when members of the tribe have received their allotments of land said Allen has requested the Indians to sell their timber to Sherman, and has used promises and other inducements, and has made use of his position and influence to secure such sales; and when parties have refused to make such sales to Sherman said Allen has stricken their names out and instituted other names.

Your petitioners, while they do not specifically charge the agent with collusion, do assert that he has been careless of their interests in this respect; has allowed said Allen and Sherman to manage the business in their own interests, and has in some instances himself solicited sales for Sherman. Your petitioners charge that said Allen is in direct collusion with Sherman, and that his conduct in the management of this business is to the serious injury of the rights and interests of your petitioners. That if your petitioners had some one to act for them without interference from any one connected with the agency, they could make sales of their timber at better figures than can be obtained from Sherman or any connected with him, and for cash, and run no risk of loss.

Your petitioners state that they do not want said Allen to have anything to do with their business; that they want some one of their own choice to make contracts for the sale of their timber; and that until such a change is made their rights and interests are in continual jeopardy.

Your petitioners have unanimously requested John C. Curran, of Oneida County, Wisconsin, to act for them, and to take charge of their business in connection with the sale, and cutting, and logging of their timber. Mr. Curran is an old resident of Northern Wisconsin; has for many years been engaged in lumbering; is an experienced woodsman; is acquainted with our language; and has the complete confidence of our people.

Your petitioners therefore respectfully ask that if said Allen is acting in an official capacity he may be excluded from any connection or interference with the business of allotments of lands and sale of timber on the reservation; that if he is not so acting in an official capacity, the agent in charge may be instructed not to allow said Allen to interfere in any manner with said business, and that said agent may be instructed to recognize Mr. Curran as the agent of your petitioners in all things connected with said business, and clothed with full power to act in their behalf.

Wa-se-quai-be, being first duly sworn, on oath, deposes and says : That he is the head chief of the Flambeau bands of Chippewa Indians, and resides on the Flambeau Reservation in the State of Wisconsin, and has resided in said reservation since it was set apart by the Government of the United States ; that he looks after the general welfare of his tribe ; that deponent verily believes that he is legally entitled to an allotment of land in severalty on said reservation, and that he has made application to Indian Agent Gregory for such allotment, and also requested that some patent or other paper be given him by the proper authorities of the United States to show his title to the lands to be to him allotted.

That during the fall of 1886, one Joseph Allen, a white man residing on said reservation, informed deponent that a certain parcel of land had been allotted to deponent, and at the same time requested this deponent to sell said land to the said Allen ; that about the same time, or a little afterwards, aid Gregory informed deponent that certain lands had been allotted to him and that said Gregory requested the deponent to sell the logs or timber to one Sherman.

That deponent verily believes that said Allen is actually in the employ of said Sherman, and sharing in the profits of the logs and timber bought from the Indian reservation aforesaid, and that he is either in the employment of said Gregory or has undue influence over him.

That about the month of October, 1887, deponent sold his timber on the lands allotted to him as aforesaid to one Charles Henry at the agreed price of $3 per 1,000 feet, and that pursuant to such agreement and sale said Henry gave to this deponent a valuable span of horses, wagon, and harness, sold him supplies and advanced him money, and paid several hundred dollars on such contract; that deponent signed such contract and no other, but that afterward a certain firm of Cosgrove & Gilbert exhibited to said Gregory a certain contract purporting to be a sale by this deponent to said Cosgrove & Gilbert, and bearing date August, 1887; that deponent never sold or agreed in any manner whatever to sell said timber to any one during said year 1887, except said Henry, and that he never signed said paper purporting to be a contract of sale to said Cosgrove & Gilbert, and that if his name appears thereon it was a forgery.

That deponent is informed and believes that the price named in said forged document, which he is to receive for such timber, is $2 per 1,000 feet instead of $3, as offered him by said Henry; but notwithstanding the facts hereinbefore set forth, the said Gregory decided that said Cosgrove & Gilbert were entitled to cut the timber from said land. That deponent is informed by reliable parties that said timber is reasonably worth $3 per 1,000 feet, and furthermore he is informed by reliable white men, who are competent estimators, that there was 14,000,000 feet of pine logs on the tract of land assigned or allotted to him, and by him sold to said Henry, and that this deponent has been defrauded, as he verily believes, out of $1,400 by reason of the forgery aforesaid and of the decision of said Agent Gregory.

STATE OF WISCONSIN, Oneida County, ss:

Met-wa-os-siuk, being duly sworn, on oath deposes and says, that he belongs to the Flambeau bands of Chippewa Indians, and resides on their reservation in the State of Wisconsin; that he is one of the head-men of his tribe, and is their chief spokesman; that he looks after the general interests of the tribe and in that capacity has used his best endeavors to advance and protect their interests in the allotment of lands to them in severalty; that in the fall of 1886, in the interests of his people, he sought an interview with Indian Agent Gregory, and asked for information about the allotment of lands and selling and cutting timber; that said agent, Gregory, refused to give deponent any information on the subject, alleging as a reason that he was in a hurry and had no time; that said agent was at the reservation four times during the last winter and three times during the present winter; that during these visits the Indians have been afforded few, if any, opportunities for conversing with the agent, or for obtaining information necessary to their interests; that said agent gives his time largely to one Joseph Allen, who in some manner represents the agent, and to one Sherman, who is engaged in purchasing and cutting timber from lands allotted to the Indians.

That deponent has frequently asked said agent for information, but has been unable to obtain any, and said agent has paid no attention to deponent's requests; that deponent is informed and believes that said Allen acts in collusion with said Sherman by using his position and influence to induce the Indians to sell their pine to said Sherman; that frequently, when allotments were made, said Allen has asked the Indians to sell their pine to Sherman, and on their refusal so to do has stricken their names from the book and substituted other names; that the young men of the tribe are inexperienced and more subject to personal influences than the older men; and that said Allen, in connection with said Sherman, has frequently tried to induce the young men, in the absence of the older ones, to dispose of their timber to said Sherman, and have refused to negotiate with the young men when the older men were present; that said Allen has caused much injury and loss to the Indians by the course he has pursued, and that the interests of the Indians can not be protected as long as said Allen is allowed to conduct the business.

[Inclosure No. 3.]

STATE OF WISCONSIN, Oneida County, ss :

Ge-ma-ge-shik, being duly sworn, on oath deposes and says, that he is a Chippewa Indian; is a member of the Flambeau bands of Chippewas, and resides on the reservation of said tribe in the State of Wisconsin; that Soh-pe and Wo-nit-tum are daughters of this deponent, are members of said tribe and residents of said reservation; that this deponent and his said daughters, being legally entitled to allotments of land in severalty on said reservation, duly applied for such allotments in October, 1886; that at the time of making such application the Indian agent, Gregory, was absent, and was represented by one Joseph Allen, who, as deponent is informed and believes, was employed by and acted in behalf of said agent; that deponent and the said Soh-pe and Wo-nit-tum had each previously selected 80 acres of land, the descriptions of which they gave to the said Joseph Allen, requesting that such tracts be allotted to them in severalty, as by law provided; that such allotments were accordingly made, as they were informed by said Allen, after which deponent and the said Soh-pe and Wo-nit-tum entered into a verbal agreement with one C. H. Henry for the sale to the said Henry of the timber on the tracts so allotted.

That after said agreement with Henry had been made, and before the season for logging arrived, the said Agent Gregory informed deponent and said Soh-Pe and Wo-Nit-Tum that he, said agent, desired them to sell their pine to one Sherman, offering them several inducements to make the sale to Sherman. That deponent and his said daughters, having already agreed to sell the pine to Henry, were desirous of adhering to their agreement, but were finally induced and in a measure coerced into making a sale to Sherman. That said Sherman, in presence of said Agent Gregory, thereupon drew up three instruments in writing, which, by undue influences, they induced these parties to sign by their usual method of touching the pen; but said Sherman and Gregory did not explain said writings to deponent or his daughters, or cause any portion thereof to be interpreted to them or either of them, although an interpreter was then and there present. And deponent is informed and believes that the said Sherman and Gregory purposely concealed from deponent and his daughters the terms and conditions of said agreements, and have always so concealed them, in order that said Sherman and those interested with him might be enabled to defraud these parties out of their just rights.

Deponent further says that during the winter of 1886 and 1887 the said Sherman proceeded to cut and log the timber on said tracts; that he did not cut the said timber clean, or take all the merchantable timber; but on the contrary logged the same in a most unworkmanlike and improper manner; that he took only the choicest and clearest logs out of the trees cut down, leaving much timber lying on the ground which would make good merchantable saw logs, and many trees standing which were also valuable for logs; and by such negligent and careless logging the timber remaining on said tracts is in imminent danger of destruction by fire, and that nearly or quite one-half of said timber was left standing or lying on the land.

Deponent further says that he has frequently asked the agent and said Sherman and those who acted for him, for payment on said agreements; that from time to time small sums of $5 and $10 have been paid them, and at other times the said parties were required and compelled to take merchandise out of said Sherman's store at such prices as the store-keeper chose to charge. That this deponent and his daughters aforesaid were in need of the money due them for their support, to provide the necessities of life and the means by which to gain a living, and that said agent and said Sherman frequently refused or neglected to pay anything on said agreements when so requested, and put them off with various excuses. That deponent and the said Soh-Pe and Wo-Nit-Tum have frequently tried to get a settlement with the agent and with said Sherman of the amounts due on said agreements, but have been unable to do so. That they are in need of and are justly entitled to the money so due; that deponent has not with him, and is not now able to give the estimated amount of pine timber that was on said tracts when the payments for sale were made, but is informed and believes that such tracts contained at least 2,000,000 feet of standing pine. That the price at which these parties agreed to sell said pine to C. H. Henry was $2.50 per thousand feet, and that said timber was worth at least that sum. That deponent and the other parties do not know and have no means of ascertaining what amounts have been paid them, either in money or goods, on said agreements, but verily believe that not more than $1,000 has been paid them in the aggregate, and that said Sherman is justly indebted to said parties to the amount of several thousand dollars, which thus far they have been unable to obtain.

Deponent further says that he is informed and believes that said Joseph Allen is still employed by said Agent Gregory, and is acting in collusion with other parties to obtain from the Indians the pine timber from their lands as they are allotted in severalty; that said Allen uniformly acts in the interests of said Sherman and parties connected with him, who are seeking to purchase said timber; that such action hinders others from buying, interferes with the freedom of action of the Indians, and is greatly to the injury of the latter, and has resulted in great loss to them in the manner shown in this affidavit. That deponent and all the tribe, so far as he is informed, are desirous that if the Indian agent must have a representative to attend to the details, such representative should be one who would act as much for their interests as for the interests of purchasers; that the Indians have represented these facts to the agent, Gregory, and requested the removal of said Allen from the reservation, or at least that he should not be allowed to control or interfere with the disposition of timber, but that said agent has paid no heed to such requests. That said Allen does not deal fairly with the Indians, but uses his position and influence to defraud them and put them in the power of said Sherman and those connected with him in the purchase and cutting of the timber; and that unless said Allen is removed, or the rights of the Indians shall be better protected, their rights will not be respected, and their property will be seriously impaired in value, if not entirely destroyed.

We-shock, being first duly sworn, on oath deposes and says that he is a member of the Flambean bands of Chippewas, and now resides and for a long time past has resided on the reservation set apart for said bands of Indians in the State of Wisconsin, and he verily believes that he is entitled to an allotment in severalty of a parcel of land on said reservation; that he was requested by Mr. Allen to select certain lands on said reservation and that he was informed that if he did not do so at once he would lose the right to do so; that he finally made a selection and was requested by said Allen to sell his timber, which deponent refused to do, saying that he would hold it for a while and sell whenever he could to the best advantage, and not more than twenty acres in one season. That during the summer of 1887 deponent desired to borrow $20 and that said Allen offered to loan said sum of money to deponent, requesting deponent at the same time to sign an acknowledgment of indebtedness for such loan, and that said Allen informed deponent that said paper which he was requested to sign had nothing to do with his timber; that except as aforesaid the contents of said paper was not explained to deponent, and that he afterwards repaid said sum of $20 to said Allen. That during the present winter said Sherman built a shanty on said parcel of land selected by this deponent and commenced cutting the timber thereon. That deponent never sold said timber or any part thereof to said Sherman or any other person, and never received any money from any person for the same, and that he forbid said Sherman to cut any more timber in said claim, and that deponent does not at present know whether said Sherman is still cutting on said lands or not.

O-sha-wa-bi-yo Kire, being first duly sworn, on oath says that she belongs to the Chippewa Indian tribe, and resides in the Flambeau Reservation of said Indians in the State of Wisconsin, and has so resided for many years last past. That deponent verily believes that she was entitled to receive an allotment of a parcel of land in severalty on said reservation, and made application for such allotment to one Joseph Allen, and that she was informed thereafter that a parcel of land had, in fact, been allotted to her.

That during the summer or fall of 1886 said Allen and one Sherman repeatedly requested deponent to sell said timber to said Sherman, and that they finally coerced her into doing so, and that they agreed, or said Sherman agreed, to pay deponent $5 per 1,000 feet for white pine and $4 for Norway, and that pursuant to such agreement said Sherman entered upon said lands and cut a portion of said timber, leaving all the small and poorer class of timber, and only taking the very best; that in the spring said Sherman allowed deponent only $1 for Norway pine, and $1.50 for white pine, and that deponent believes that said Sherman cut a great deal more timber than he gave deponent credit for; that deponent was compelled to take pay for said lumber or logs out of said Sherman's store, and that she verily believes the prices charged deponent were twice too high; that said contract was made to apply only to the winter of 1886 and 1887, and that in the fall of 1887 said Sherman again wanted to buy what timber he had not cut during the previous year, and that deponent positively refused to sell said timber to said Sherman and informed Indian Agent Gregory that she would not again sell to Sherman, but that during the present winter said Sherman has gone on said premises, and is now cutting and carrying away the remaining portion of said timber, and has made no agreement or promise to pay for the same.

Wa-be-ga-kak, being first duly sworn, on oath says, that he belongs to the Flambeau Band of Chippewa Indians, and that he has resided in and about the reservation set apart for said Indians by the United States Government as long as he can remember, and that he is now quite an old man; that deponent verily believes that he is entitled to an allotment in severalty of 80 acres of land on said reservation, and that he made application for such allotment to the person whom he believed to be the proper party to make it to; that deponent knows Indian Agent Gregory, also one Sherman, who does logging on said reservation, and also one Allen, whom he believes to represent said Agent Gregory in some way, but what his official capacity is deponent is unable to state.

That deponent selected the land which he desired in the fall of 1886, and that after making such selection deponent went a considerable distance on a hunting expedition. That said Allen followed him to the place where he was camped with other members of his band and requested him to go with him to the headquarters of said reservation, and that, after repeated requests, deponent went with said Allen to said headquarters, where deponent met Indian Agent Gregory, and also said Sherman. That said Sherman asked deponent to let him have his timber, and that said Agent Gregory requested this deponent to let said Sherman have such timber, and, in fact, insisted on said Sherman having the same. That deponent informed said Gregory, Sherman, and Allen that he had sold one-half of his timber to one Captain Henry, and that, after repeated requests and much persuasion, he finally consented that said Sherman should have the remaining half of said timber; that said Gregory informed deponent that he would get from said Sherman $6 for his logs, or $12.50 clear for his timber.

That during the ensuing winter of 1886 and 1887 said Sherman entered upon his, deponent's, said lands, and cut over the whole of them and took the choicest pine therefrom, leaving the smaller timber standing and some small logs on skidways, and leaving the balance of said timber in imminent danger of destruction by fire.

That deponent received for said timber cut as aforesaid the sum of $200, and no more, and that said land was heavily timbered with good pine, and that deponent verily believes that said timber was worth much more, and that much more timber was cut than deponent was paid for. That said Captain Henry had offered to pay deponent $6 for his logs or $3 net for his timber, and that he would have received said price had it not been for the interference of said Gregory.

That in the fall of 1887 the said Allen entered upon deponent's land and commenced cutting the timber left by said Sherman. That deponent forbid said Allen to cut any more timber on said lands and asked said Allen for whom he was cutting. That said Allen replied he was cutting for himself, and that he would fix it up when Gregory came.

That shortly afterward said Gregory came on said reservation and invited deponent into a room where said Sherman and Allen were, and that said Gregory then asked deponent to let said Sherman have the remaining timber on said land, and also some owned by deponent's mother; that deponent informed said Gregory that he had sold said timber to said Captain Henry; that said Gregory then informed deponent that he would never see said Henry or his money, and that he would lose it; said Gregory further requested said deponent to let said Sherman have said timber, and that deponent would get all the money he wanted. That deponent refused to let said Sherman have said timber, and that he verily believes that if he did so he would have been cheated by said Sherman, and that deponent verily believes that said Sherman, Allen, and Gregory are conspiring together to cheat and defraud this deponent and other Indians on said reservation out of their timber for a small consideration, which is totally inadequate and but a small proportion of its value, and to share between themselves the profits of such bargains and nefarious contracts.

RESERVATION OF THE FOND DU LAC BAND OF CHIPPEWA INDIANS,

La Point Agency, January 26, 1888.

DEAR SIR: We again beg to invoke your aid in adjusting the wrongs and unjust discrimination against us, which causes immeasurable dissatisfaction and discord among us; the prime seat of all the trouble and discontent arising upon this reservation lies solely in the manner Indian Agent James T. Gregory deals with the Indians; our grievances are not of recent origin, nor are they of trifling nature. The insincerity manifested by Mr. Gregory in the performance of his duties on behalf of the Government, and for the interest of the Indians, became apparent more than a year ago, which has materially affected the interests and welfare of the Indians, who are actual members of this band, as can be seen by the following statement of a council held on the 23d and 24th instants.

Mr. Gregory opened the council by the introduction of Mr. Tom Wall, as a special allotment agent, duly appointed from Washington. Then Mr. Gregory proceeded to take minutes of claims filed by the Indians in taking their several allotments of land.

During the proceedings of the council several names were brought before council, which were rejected by the Indians, because those parties were known by the oldest inhabitants upon this reservation as having no legitimate claims as members of this band.

A large number of those rejected had filed their claims with the farmer, and had contracted with the timber buyers to cut and bank the timber, and had received advances of money, merchandise, etc., upon such contracts. In selling the pine timber upon the Indian reservation, before the consent and approval of the Indians had been secured, Mr. Gregory then presented certain rules, purporting them to be from the proper authority in Washington, intended to cover cases of this nature. The substance of which was, that when an applicant was rejected by the Indians, the applicant should be sworn and show cause why his claim should be granted, and prove that his parents were recognized members of this band, and the applicant should procure at least two witnesses to that effect.

Mr. Gregory then proceeded to inform the Indians that whether or not the applicant or their parents ever drew payment or annuities with this band had no significance.

The clauses above referred to were seemingly constructed specially to fit those cases upon this reservation in order to hold the timber upon which the advances were made, whether or not the applicant was entitled to any claim, thereby also securing the advances made whether or not the Indians granted the claims. While the General Government is liberal to those parties rejected in giving them privileges to secure lands upon the public domain, the Indians have no desire to debar any person rightfully entitled to land upon this reservation, but they do not wish to have Indians and mix-bloods, who belong upon other reservations, to come here and crowd out those who are rightfully entitled to allotments upon this reservation.

As there are about one hundred members of this band who are endeavoring to secure suitable claims upon this reservation, but are kept back because most all the land of any value for timber or otherwise have been taken by parties not belonging upon this reservation, and yet Mr. Gregory exercises all of his authority and even abuses the privileges of his office by exhausting every effort to secure the claims to those who have been rejected, seemingly because those parties have received advances from the timber buyer, or the timber upon such claims, and those advances have been made with the knowledge that those claims had not been granted by Indians at council.

In about every case where an applicant was rejected during the last council held January 23 and 24, when applicant and his witnesses were sworn to give testimony, Mr. Gregory was asked, on behalf of the Indians, for a privilege to cross-question witnesses, in order that justice may be given both sides, but Mr. Gregory obstinately refused to allow any questioning or any testimony or any interference whatever by the members of this band. If Gregory has exclusive authority to use his own judgment in the granting or rejecting claims upon this reservation, and if the customary rule of leaving that matter to the Indians has been abandoned, we would like to be properly informed of that fact, that we may quietly submit to the inevitable. But until then, we shall continue to bring the matter before you in endeavoring to obtain relief.

The fact that the testimony taken in those cases rejected were taken only from one side, and that when the proofs were insufficient to warrant the granting of claims Mr. Gregory still insisted in holding those claims for the rejected parties until he could see a certain Mr. Durfee, at Ashland, Wis., and some other parties at Superior, Wis., whom he imagined possibly knew something about those parties rejected which would probably enable him to report the matter to the Indian Department to suit himself, and in such a manner as to cast the reflection of responsibility upon others, and that he would not listen to a word from the oldest Indians who have lived here all their lives, shows conclusively that Mr. Gregory has a much deeper motive than a mere desire to satisfy himself that no injustice is done to those whom the Indians desire to reject. But one notable fact in connection with the favor shown by Gregory to rejected applicants, which shows his sympathy and identity with the people buying the Indian timber, is that when those parties who have not received advances upon their timber were rejected the rejection was promptly approved by Mr. Gregory, and those who have received advances on their timber and rejected by Indians at council were held by Gregory in spite of all the remonstrance the Indians could bring to bear upon those cases. If Gregory was just to the principles of the Government and to the interests of the Indians, what motive could he have in exhausting every function of authority of his office and even abusing the privileges of the same to protect the interests of the timber buyers at the expense of the Indians?

Had Gregory faithfully performed his duties and protected the interests of the Indians, which is one of the most important functions of his office, the present condition of the Indians would have been materially different; and the price paid them for their timber would be from 20 to 25 per cent. greater than they now receive, which can be easily shown by the prices paid for timber at Duluth, Stillwater, and Minneapolis, Minn., the principal lumber manufacturing cities in the State. The very important part that Gregory is taking in this timber business became very conspicuous last May, when the time came for the timber buyers to make settlement with the Indians. When the Indians complained to Gregory of the unjust manner they were being dealt with, Gregory would endeavor to intimidate them by threatening to have them arrested for being drunk, etc., and in one case Gregory closeted a member of this band with himself and threatened to have him arrested and sent to prison, also expelled from the reservation, for daring to write letters for the Indians in reporting the manner of their treatment to the authorities at Washington.

We also desire to submit for your consideration the following statement of an investigation which took place on or about the 6th day of September, 1887, upon this reservation, which proved to be a genuine farce: A Mr. Thomas arrived here from Washington on or about the 6th day of last September. A council was called by Mr. Gregory, who introduced Mr. Thomas as a man who was sent here from Washington by the Great Father to investigate certain complaints made by those Indians to the authorities at Washington, dated about the 16th day of April, 1887. Mr. Thomas was assisted by Mr. Gregory, in the investigation, which was conducted wholly on behalf of and in favor of the timber buyers against whom the complaint was made. The Indians knew nothing of the nature of Mr. Thomas's mission until the council was opened, and the Indians were not given time to procure witnesses to substantiate the complaints made. The principal witnesses were scattered throughout the reservation and could not be brought to the Indian village in less time than six hours at the quickest. Mr. Thomas was notified of this fact and requested to continue the investigation the following day, but he strenuously declined to do so, remarking thus, "It does not take me long to make up my mind in a case of this kind." The Indians asked for the privilege of cross-questioning what few witnesses that were called to defend the parties against whom the complaints were made; this was also denied them. However, one witness was called, "Joseph Frank," who testified frankly and honestly how the Indians were misled and himself unjustly dealt with. Soon as it became apparent that his evidence was bearing directly against the timber buyers, Mr. Thomas attempted to intimidate him by asking him if he, witness, ever brought any whisky upon the reservation.

Mr. Gregory took the minutes of the investigation, and we have no doubt he flavored the reports of the investigation to suit his own taste. Mr. Thomas was asked for a copy of the proceedings of the investigation or permission to take the same, but both were denied the Indians.

There are a number of witnesses that could have been procured had one day's notice been given the Indians by whom the complaint could have been fully substantiated. But all privileges of a fair and honest investigation were denied the Indians, which resulted so disgracefully to an honest purpose; thus the timber sharks were extricated by officials whose duty it is to prosecute them.

We respectfully again urge your attention in the proper and further investigation of the complaints above referred to, dated April 16, 1887.

We claim that the investigation made on or about September 6, 1887, arising from those complaints were, partially, unfair and unjust towards the Indians.

We submit herewith the names of applicants for allotments upon this reservation, which were rejected by Indians at council January 23 and 24, 1888, and which Gregory is doing all in his power to secure the claims to them, and which we urgently request that you take such steps to prevent any patents being issued to those parties, for lands upon the Fond Du Lac Reservation of the La Point Agency.

It may be inferred that those parties are usurpers of the rights of our children and many of our old people who have not made selections yet, and who are desirous of making selections. There are a few cases where those parties make applications for claims under assumed names, apparently for the purpose of misleading the Indians. About all the cases where parents have filed claims for their children were not brought before the last council, held January 23 and 24, 1888, thereby delaying the Indians in securing the lands that were filed for their children; also giving room for contention with parties who are liable to file on those claims which were originally filed upon for the children.

There are also cases where claims upon valuable lands have been filed by resident Indians, which were afterwards ascertained that those claims were changed in the farmers' books and given to other parties, and the original claimant given other claims which were comparatively of no value, this being done, apparently, to secure the valuable timber claims to those parties who would readily sell the timber to certain parties, which, it is apparent, Mr. Gregory is in sympathy with.

The looseness of the manner in which the farmers' books are kept, upon which all claims of allotments are filed, is notorious and shameful, sometimes depriving old and helpless people in this manner of their rightful claims.

We understand Special Allotment Agent Tom Wall was instructed by you to locate claims for Indians, and designate to them the boundary-lines of same, so that allottees would become familiar with the situation of their claims and the boundary-lines. This was not complied with. During the last council, which was held January 23 and 24, 1888, for the purpose of allotting lands, not an Indian was shown the location of his or her allotment, and Tom Wall left the reservation.

We also desire to submit for your investigation claims upon the Northern Pacific Railroad for lands occupied by said railroad in running through the southern portion of the Fond du Lac Reservation. Said road has been in operation the past nineteen or twenty years, and we have never received any money or other compensation for the lands occupied by said railroad in the right of way, nor for any timber taken from our lands used in the construction of said railroad, of which there has been a large quantity taken for some distance outside of the right of way.

We desire the Government should take this matter up and compel the Northern Pacific Railroad Company to pay for such lands occupied by them, and for the timber said railroad company has taken from our lands used in the construction of said railroad, and for the damages sustained in the destruction of valuable timber by fire along the line of said railroad originating by the sparks from the locomotives of said railroad company.

Owing to the unsatisfactory nature of the Indian farmer's services we petitioned Agent James T. Gregory to appoint for that position a mix-blood from our reservation, several of whom are eminently capable to fill any position on this reservation for the public service. We also asked him to give us a mix-blood school-teacher. Some of our own people are fully competent to teach even in the public schools among the white people, but Gregory refused to appoint a mix-blood to teach in our schools, although the Indian Department urgently recommends such a course. But Mr. Gregory promised to consider our request in the appointment of a mix-blood to the position as Indian farmer, but he has failed to take any definite action in the matter. We have lost all confidence in retaining the white man as Indian farmer from the manner they have served us, and we now want a mix-blood who belongs upon this reservation appointed to the position of farmer, who shall hereafter be recommended by the Indians. We see no other method by which the interests of the Indians can be protected from further abuse upon this reservation.

BAD RIVER RESERVATION OF THE LA POINTE AGENCY,

Odanah, Wis., February 18, A. D. 1887.

The representative Chippewa Indians of the Bad River Reservation, the Fond du Lac Reservation, and the Lac Court Oreilles Reservation assembled at council this 18th day February, A. D. 1888, on the Bad River Reservation of La Point Agency, adopted the following resolutions:

Resolved, That whereas the interests, welfare, and advancement of the condition of the Indians belonging to the above-named reservations depend entirely upon the harmonious actions of the Indian agent in furthering the interests of said bands of Indians; also upon the honesty in the faithful performance of the duties of said Indian agent toward the Indians and the General Government.

Resolved, That whereas such harmonious action in the advancement of the interests of the Indians and the General Government by Agent James T. Gregory, does not exist, and that the unfaithfulness of Agent James T. Gregory in the performance of his duties has been substantially established, as set forth in our several complaints to the Secretary of the Interior and the Indian Commissioners.

Whereas, that under such circumstances and relations with the present Indian agent, James T. Gregory, the interests of the Indians become seriously involved on account of the reasons herein set forth:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Interior and the Indian Commissioners be, and are hereby, urgently requested to suspend and remove Indian Agent James T. Gregory, and fill the office thus made vacant with an honest, reliable, efficient person.

The foregoing resolutions are unanimously adopted after a careful investigation and due deliberation by the following representative men of the above-named reservations:

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR AND INDIAN COMMISSIONER,

Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 1, 1888.

DEAR SIR: We, the undersigned delegates of the Chippewa Indians of Lake Superior, request (earnestly) that Indian Agent Gregory and Government Farmer G. W. Walker be removed from their offices (that this is one reason we have endeavored to come to Washington), on the ground that they do not work for the interest and welfare of the Indians, but, on the contrary, they are working for the interest of certain lumber companies, one of whom is the Superior Lumber Company, Ashland, Wis., and he (the Indian agent) is the cause of our logs to be sold for a little more than one-half the real value, besides the enormous waste, both in scale and in cutting of our timber; and he is cross to us, and does not listen to us whenever we make complaints on the way we are treated. All of the above facts, all of which we can prove; and that there are parties, namely, Ed. Haskins, Ed. Brown, and Rod Ogarry, logging on unpatented lands on the reservation, one of whom has not got contract with the Indian owning the timber.

They also often cut timber outside of these lines, for which they were never made to settle by the agent after being told of the facts, all of whom logs for the Superior Lumber Company, and in one case the agent and the farmer caused an Indian to be removed from his band and his work, causing him a great deal of damage, because he, the Indian, would not sell his timber to said Superior Lumber Company; he threatened the Indian to take his logs away from him, or anybody else, who would buy the said logs, and deprive him of all benefits therefrom. The lands, viz, lots 6 and 9 on section 1, and lot 7 on section 2, and southwest one-fourth, northeast one-fourth, section 12, all on township 46, range 3 west, was duly allotted to said Indian (Jo Wagnabosho), by council in 1886, and when a trespass was committed on said land last winter, the agent caused the parties trespassing to pay the money to said Indian as recognized owner of said land, and the Government farmer granted him authority to cut and sell his timber, but he was stopped cutting when they found out he was not going to sell to Superior Lumber Company. We therefore request you to cause those logs to be restored to said owner as soon as it can be done with convenience.

The COMMISSIONER OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, D. C.

Filed March 1, 1888.

The COMMISSIONER OF INDIAN AFFAIRS:

The bands of Lac de Flambeau Chippewa Indians respectfully address to you the following inquiries and statements touching matters which concern their rights:

They desire to know why their reservation has been located 1 mile north of the line which they supposed had been agreed upon as the northern and southern boundaries of the reservation. The effect of this erroneous location has been to exclude from the reservation a strip of finely-timbered land, 14 miles long and 1 mile in width, and to put into its place on the northern boundary a desert strip of the same area.

They desire to know by what authority the Milwaukee, Lake Shore and Western Railroad has located a railroad line within the reservation and is about to build a railroad.

They desire to know under what authority white men have gone on their reservation and cut down timber on the school sections.

They desire to know under what authority white men have gone on the reservation and cut down timber on lands still held in common.

They beg to be informed what number of allotments have been made by the Government in the year 1887 and up to date within the reservation, and what is the area of the same.

They desire to know whether any person has been appointed by the Government Indian farmer on their reservation, and if one has been appointed, when he was appointed. If any person has been so appointed they respectfully request that he be removed on the ground that he has rendered no service in that character.

They desire to know whether any white woman has been appointed school-teacher on the reservation. One is now on the reservation claiming to be school-teacher who is entirely unfit for the position, and should be removed and her place be supplied by another.

They respectfully join in the request made by other bands of Indians for the removal of James T. Gregory as Indian agent on grounds similar to those alleged by them. They add to the statement made on that subject that, in their opinion, he is not performing his duties in a proper manner. Should a commission be appointed to inquire into these allegations, they ask that they may be allowed to name one of the commission.

The COMMISSIONER OF INDIAN AFFAIRS:

The bands of the Lac Court Oreilles Chippewa Indians respectfully address to you the following inquiries and statements touching matters which concern their rights:

They desire to know by what authority white men have cut timber on the land held in common on the reservation. They have made repeated inquiries of the Indian farmer in regard to these depredations, and have been able to get from him no satisfactory explanation in regard to them.

They desire to know by what authority timber has been cut on the minor's land embraced in the reservation.

They desire to bring to your attention the fact that through the neglect or inefficiency of the Indian agent, they have obtained entirely inadequate prices for timber cut upon the allotted lands, and that in other cases timber has been cut on the allotted lands without any contract at all.

They desire, in case a commission should be appointed to inquire into these allegations, to have the privilege of naming one of the commissioners, in order that their rights may be duly protected.

ODANAH, WIS., BAD RIVER RESERVATION,
La Pointe Agency, February 18, 1888.

DEAR SIR: We, the Indians of this reservation, assembled at council, this 18th day of February, A. D. 1888, and the following resolutions was adopted, to ascertain the boundaries of the above-named reservation. Resolved that,

Whereas, according to the treaty of 1854, by Henry C. Gilbert, agent for the United States, and the Chippewas of Lake Superior, the boundaries of a tract of land set aside at said treaty as a reservation for the La Pointe band of Indians are not being duly recognized by the white man according to the specification of said treaty, the boundaries that were agreed upon according to the understanding of the Indians present at said treaty be duly defined and submitted to the Secretary of the Interior and to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, which are as follows. According to the treaty of 1854 the boundaries of this reservation was defined by the Indians as follows, to wit:

Beginning on the south shore of Lake Superior, in the State of Wisconsin, about 1 mile west of Montreal River, at the mouth of Kitchishibiwisko (Big Creek), a line running thence directly south to a point across Odapinkesioing (Potato River), near the foot of the Penokee iron range, thence a line running directly west to a point directly south of the mouth of Shawano Creek, which empties in Lake Superior near Bay City, thence a line running directly north to the mouth of Shawano Creek, Bay City, thence a line running nearly northeast to a point on Chegwamikon Point, about 4 miles out from the mainland, at the old Indian portage, thence a line running nearly southeast to the point of beginning.

That the white man is coming inside of those boundaries and trespass on our timber, of which he has cut by whole sections and taken it away and sold it without our consent, but under protest, and this has been done with the knowledge of the Indian Agent Gregory. When we went to Gregory and told him of those trespasses, he told us that the Government had permitted this timber to be cut from the reservation. When this tract of land was reserved for our use we understood that everything thereon was also reserved for our exclusive use and benefit. The white man has also taken from us a large and best tract of land lying nearly in the center of our village, and has gone so far as to sell the same to Indians and white men in small fractions for sums of money ranging from $40 to $50 for each fraction or lot. Gregory is also cognizant of this fact. Gregory even went so far as to retain $50 from an Indian to pay a white man for a lot which the Indian agreed to buy. Also that a certain company operating in Ashland, Wis., had constructed a boom across Bad River, a stream running through the center of our reservation its entire length, on the banks of which we have our gardens and hay-fields in the spring of each year. This boom becomes completely blocked and jammed with logs, which holds the water back and causes the overflow of our lands, gardens, and hay-fields, thereby damaging our crops, hay-fields, and rendering the land useless. Our cellars are overflowed, and in many cases causing the water to raise high enough to run into our houses. It also renders the river useless to navigate with our boats and canoes nearly the entire season. We have told Gregory to intercede for us and have the boom removed, and he has never done anything for us. In one case our crops were completely destroyed by the water and logs running over our garden, and the ground washed away.

There are also a number of cases where Indians who belong upon other reservations, who come here and make selections of land upon our reservation, and contract to sell and cut the timber upon such selections before the claims have been granted by council.

In the fall of 1885 Agent Gregory insisted upon having the timber cut from this reservation being graded into two classes. For the first grade the Indians should receive $6, and for the second grade they should receive $4.50 banked. The Indians do not understand why their timber should be graded into two grades. If a piece of such timber should be defective and not up to the standard, it is a very easy matter to deduct sufficiently in the scale to make good the deficiency in the remainder of the timber, as is done in all other cases of this kind. Although the Indians insisted that their timber be graded under one class, and any deficiency in the timber be made good in the scale, but Gregory would not consent to this and gained his point through weakness of the Indians.

James Blackbird entered a claim in the center of our village, known as the Government or Indian Farm, having been cleared by us for such purpose, to be used by us in common, and was intended to be used for farming purposes by the Indians who desired to do so, and not for one man to monopolize the same. This man, James Blackbird, secured this land by the aid of the Indian Commission, and under the protest of the Indians in common or as a body, and we want the Government to annul the patent issued on said land, and allow said land to remain as common property for the Indians for garden and farming purposes.

And the Indians request the Commissioner of Indian Affairs to have the agent (Gregory) be removed, as he surely does not do anything for their interest, but, to the contrary, causing the Indians to be greatly misused. The Indians also request the Commissioner to give them authority to choose their own men as Government employes on their reservation. Also investigating their affairs, and be paid the same as those appointed by the Department. We would also wish to know why the agent makes payment on only a few of the reservations.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. What other papers do you desire to submit to the committee?—
 A. I have copies of the telegrams which have been sent by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs to Agent Gregory, and the replies thereto. The CHAIRMAN. Hand them to the reporter to go into the record. The telegrams referred to by the witness are as follows:

[Telegram.]

OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
 Washington, D. C., March 9, 1888.

To GREGORY,
 Agent, Ashland, Wis.:

Are any white men cutting timber on any reservation under your charge; and, if so, by what authority, and on what reservation?

J. D. C. ATKINS,
 Commissioner.

[Telegram.]

ARLINGTON HOTEL,
Hot Springs, Ark., March 10, 1888.To COMMISSIONER INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, D. C. :

On all reservations where logging is being done white men are more or less employed, but strictly in accordance with my instructions Indians in all cases are given preference, and none who will work are denied, and it is not only necessary but beneficial to allottees and the Indian laborers. I will be here three weeks.

GREGORY,
Agent.

(Received in Indian Office on date.)

[Telegram.]

OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, D. C., March 10, 1888.To J. T. GREGORY,
Arlington Hotel, Hot Springs, Ark. :

Your dispatch unsatisfactory. Are any white men cutting timber on reservations? If so, how many, who employed them, and by what authority?

J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

[Telegram.]

ARLINGTON HOTEL,
Hot Springs, Ark., March 10, 1888.To COMMISSIONER INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, D. C. :

I am not certain that I understand your inquiry. The white men cutting timber, referred to in my message, are there in the employ of allottees (sic). Allottees (sic) sell their logs delivered on bank of streams, and then generally make a contract with experienced loggers to bank them. Some are able to bank logs themselves. In both cases experienced and skilled white men are employed for special duties, and when Indians can not be had, white men are employed as common hands. I can not tell how many white men are thus employed. Those so employed are there under my authority. In this respect it is the same as has been done every year heretofore.

GREGORY,
Indian Agent.

(Received in Indian Office March 11.)

[Telegram.]

OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, D. C., March 13, 1888.To GREGORY,
Agent, Ashland, Wis. :

You will immediately put a stop to the cutting and felling of trees on all reservations under your charge, whether under existing contracts with Indians or otherwise. Charge Indian Office.

J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

[Telegram.]

OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, D. C., March 13, 1888.To ACTING INDIAN AGENT,
Ashland, Wis. :

Gregory subpoenaed to appear here before Senate committee. Send to this office at once, by express, all official books and papers connected with logging operations on the various reservations within the agency, including all contracts and bonds hitherto made.

Charge Indian Office.

J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

By the CHAIRMAN :

Q. I will ask you about the telegram from Agent Gregory to the Commissioner, of March 10, in which the word "allotter" is used?—A. I have looked at that telegram very closely and I make the word out to be "allotter." It evidently means "allottees;" it can not be anything else.

Q. Therefore it means the Indians?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who had the word "sic" put in there?—A. I had it put in there in order to call attention to the word. The allotter is the Government or special agent.

Q. Have you anything else to produce?—A. No, sir.

Q. Can you state when the Commissioner will be ready to submit copies of other papers called for?—A. I can not state precisely. There is a great mass of correspondence and it is very difficult to separate it so as to cover everything you want. We have three type-writers at work and will get the papers ready as speedily as possible. It may, however, take some days to complete it.

The CHAIRMAN. What the committee desire in reference to the four subjects mentioned in the letter of the chairman to the Commissioner dated March 12, 1888, is, as expressed in the last line, "copies which will fairly and fully exhibit the above subjects to the committee;" and of course the Commissioner must be the judge of that, in the first instance certainly.

The WITNESS. The Commissioner has instructed me to prepare everything that can possibly be of service to the committee, and I am going through all the papers and having them prepared as rapidly as possible.

The Commissioner authorizes me to submit this question to the committee. I have here a report of logging operations of Agent Gregory for the season of 1886-'87. He desires the committee to look at that statement and instruct him whether they want full copies of matters of that kind.

Q. Is the paper which you produce the original?—A. Yes, sir; it is the original paper.

Q. Is that the report for the whole of the agencies or only in reference to the Court Oreille Reservation?—A. It goes over all of them. It refers to other reservations; they are all distinguished in that list. But this is the whole report for that season; that is to say, it is the table of statistics; the report itself is a separate document.

The CHAIRMAN. I will say this for the present, that we would like the Commissioner, when he submits the reports themselves, to omit making copies of the tables, but to bring them up with him and allow them to be inspected, and we will then determine whether they shall be printed or not. We would like to examine them all and see the reports which they accompany, but they need not be copied at present. Have you anything further?

The WITNESS. There is one thing I would like to state. Late in the evening of the 14th of March there was received in the Indian Office 37 additional contracts in respect to the Court Oreille Reserve, and 54 in respect to the Lac de Flambeau Reserve.

The CHAIRMAN. Of which you have not yet made a list?

The WITNESS. No, sir; I have not made the list, for they have not yet come to my desk.

The CHAIRMAN. I will ask you to furnish that list as soon as finished, prior to furnishing the other documents. I will ask you with reference to the lists produced to-day of the Patrick Hynes contracts, whether the contracts themselves show the lot of land of each Indian?

The WITNESS. I presume so, although I have not examined the contracts personally; but every contract does show the allotment on which the timber is cut.

The CHAIRMAN. The Sergeant-at-Arms informs me that he has received a telegram from Agent Gregory at Hot Springs, Ark., stating that he will go to Ashland and get the records and bring them here, and will arrive in Washington on next Tuesday. The committee will therefore adjourn until that time.

The select committee then adjourned until Tuesday, March 20, 1888, at 10.30 o'clock a. m.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Tuesday, March 20, 1888.

The select committee met, pursuant to adjournment, at 10.30 o'clock a. m. Present, the chairman (Senator Chandler) and Senator Blackburn.

TESTIMONY OF HENRY E. HINDMARSH.—Recalled.

HENRY E. HINDMARSH was recalled and further examined.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. Have you any additional copies of papers from the Indian Office to furnish to the committee?—A. No, sir; there are no additional copies ready yet of the papers called for. I produce, however, a list of timber contracts made by the Lac de Flambeau allottees with A. M. Sherman for the present season, numbering 42, and also that of the Lac de Flambeau allottees with Joseph Allen for the present season, numbering 12, received in the Indian Office March 16, 1888.

I also produce a list of timber contracts made by the Court Oreille allottees for the season of 1887-'88, with England, Thomas & Clark, numbering 37, received in the Indian Office March 16, 1888; also a list of timber contracts made by allottees on the Bad River reserve for the season of 1887-'88, with Alphonse A. Maxim, jr., numbering 18, received in the Indian Office March 17, 1888; also a list of six contracts made by the Bad River allottees with Peter P. Ferguson, all of this present season.

The papers referred to by the witness are as follows:

1 A.

The WITNESS. I will also state that I am advised by the files clerk of the Indian Office that on the 19th instant 31 contracts made by the Lac de Flambeau allottees with Charles H. Henry, were received in the Indian Office; also 23 contracts of Bad River Indians with Edward Hoskins, and 13 contracts of Bad River Indians with Edward Brown, a list of which will be furnished as soon as it can be made out; they have not come down to my desk yet.

Senator BLACKBURN. They were received on the 19th—yesterday?

The WITNESS. Yes, sir; the last were.

The CHAIRMAN. What can you state as to the time within which the various copies called for from the Indian Office will be completed and ready to furnish to the committee?

The WITNESS. I think in order to get them all completed and properly compared it will certainly take a week or perhaps ten days. A great deal of the correspondence has yet to be gotten up. Some of the communications I have seen are quite long and have a great number of exhibits with them. But we are getting along with them just as fast as we can, and working day and night at them.

Q. Has agent James T. Gregory reported at the Indian Office yet?—

A. I inquired this morning of the Assistant Commissioner and he said that he had not heard anything from him at all, but that he had heard that he was in town, though he was not certain about it, and I have not seen him.

The CHAIRMAN. I will recall Mr. Coffey for a few questions.

TESTIMONY OF JAMES I. COFFEY.—Recalled.

JAMES I. COFFEY was recalled and further examined.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. Have you examined the printed lists of contracts for the season of 1887-'88, printed in your testimony?—A. Yes, sir; those made by the Fond du Lac band of Indians.

Q. State whether you notice the names of any Indians in that list whose claims to allotments were rejected by the council in January; if so, please give the names.—A. Yes, sir; I found several; I made out a list of them and have it here.

Q. State how many you found?—A. There are fifteen that I am certain of.

Q. Of those whose claims were rejected by the council?—A. Yes, sir; who were rejected.

Q. Will you write out a list of those fifteen and hand it to the reporter?—A. I will do so.

The list of names furnished by the witness is as follows :

List of Indians whose claims to allotments were rejected by council in January.

Ben Lagoo.	Julia Defauld.	Delma Fragean (2).
Joseph Fragean.	Charles Fragean.	Sophia Roberts.

By the CHAIRMAN :

Q. State whether you find the names of others who had not received allotments up to the time of this council.—A. Yes, sir; I do; those on the Fond du Lac Reservation.

Q. How many do you find who did not receive allotments until the council in January?—A. There are thirty-nine I am certain of.

The CHAIRMAN. You need not make a list of those.

SÉNATOR BLACKBURN. Mr. Chairman, I would like to have him make a list of those.

The CHAIRMAN. Very well, then; also hand a list of those names as well to the reporter.

The list furnished by the witness is as follows :

List of Indians whose claims for lands were not allotted until January 23 and 24, 1888.

Bid-wa-we-gis-jig.	Margaret Martell.	Angeline La Fave.

By Senator BLACKBURN :

Q. Now let me ask you what you mean. You say there are fifteen names of Indians on that list whose contracts for the sale of timber have been approved by Agent Gregory that were never allowed allotments by the council?—A. Yes, sir; fifteen were rejected at the last council.

Q. Have they ever been allowed allotments before or since?—A. Not on our reservation.

Q. Have they been allowed allotments anywhere?—A. I do not know that.

Q. Could they have been allowed allotments on that reservation except by the consent of the council of that band?—A. No; in the way that we understood it at the time the council was held.

Q. Is any contract for the sale of timber ever approved unless the allotment has been agreed to by the council?—A. That I could not tell you.

Q. You do not know?—A. No, sir.

Q. Is there any law or regulation requiring that the council should approve an allotment before a contract for the sale of timber shall be made and approved?—A. I could not tell you that.

Q. Then all that you can say is that you find on that list 15 names of Indians with whom contracts for the sale of timber have been approved, which 15 Indians were refused allotments by the last council?—A. Those 15 Indians were refused their allotments at the last council, and in examining the list I find their names there as having made contracts to sell timber on those allotments.

Q. Do you know whether those contracts have been approved or not?—A. I could not say.

Q. You do not know?—A. No, sir.

Q. Do you know whether any of those 15 Indians have sold any timber or not?

The WITNESS. Before?

Senator BLACKBURN. Now.

A. Yes, sir; they told me so; several of them told me themselves.

Q. Which ones told you? Give their names.—A. Mary Frageau was one; in fact, she was the only one who ever told me in person.

Q. Nobody could tell you unless they did tell you in person, could they; how would they tell you unless they told you in person? Then that is the only one who told you?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who did she say she had sold her timber to?—A. To Hynes.

Q. What did she say she got for it?—A. She didn't tell me what she got for it.

Q. That was for this season?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. As to the others you do not know?—A. No, sir.

Q. Now, about these 39 that you find there; what is it that you say of them?—A. I say those 39 are the names which I find in that list.

Q. That is the list furnished by the Indian Office?—A. Yes, sir. They are the ones who had not been granted allotments before January 23 and 24, or had not been granted them until then.

Q. Were they granted them then?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have they sold that timber?—A. It appears so from what I see in the list.

Q. Do you know anything about it personally or in regard to any one of them?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Well, tell how many, who they are, and what you know.—A. There is Marcelline Cotlier. She told me that she had sold her timber to Hynes.

Q. When did she tell you?—A. Some time in the fore part of the winter; I could not say when.

Q. Did she sell before or after her allotment papers appears to have been made?—A. I could not state exactly now which.

Q. Name any other one.—A. And Mary Drew.

Q. What did she tell you?—A. She told me that she sold her timber to Hynes.

Q. When did she tell you that?—A. She told me that some time ago; before Christmas, or just about Christmas.

Q. Before or after the allotment appears to have been made?—A. That was before.

Q. You are sure of that? What did she tell you she got for it?—A. She didn't state to me what she got.

Q. Did any of them tell you what they got?—A. I believe they did, but I don't recollect now what they did state.

Q. How came you to be inquiring into all these matters?—A. I didn't have to inquire in order to learn; the people would talk.

Q. How came you to learn about it?—A. We got talking over the subject.

Q. How came you to be talking it over; did you have any interest in it?—A. No particular interest.

Q. Did you have any general interest—any sort of interest at all?—A. Not any more than a desire to know and see that the matters on the reservation were conducted right; that was all.

Q. Are you being paid for that general supervision of the tribe?—A. No, sir.

Q. It is all free love service of yours?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you ever been in any trouble out there in that tribe?

The WITNESS. What kind of trouble?

Senator BLACKBURN. Have you ever been indicted for crime?—A. Yes, sir; I was once.

Q. What was it?—A. Well, I have told that quite a number of times to different people —

Q. Will you tell it to this committee once?—A. —and I would prefer to refer that matter to the records of the county court.

Q. I prefer to have you answer my question.

The CHAIRMAN. Just state as concisely and as briefly as you can the whole transaction.

Senator BLACKBURN. What were you indicted for out there?—A. I was indicted with others for murder in the first degree.

Q. How long ago?—A. The indictment was made in the fall of 1883; I think.

Q. Was anybody else joined in that indictment with you?—A. Yes, sir; there were three others.

Q. What became of them?—A. We were tried under the indictment and dismissed.

Q. Were you acquitted?—A. We were dismissed; I don't know whether you might call it acquitted; I am not well enough versed in law to say.

Q. Then you were not tried, were you?—A. We were tried by a legal court, I presume.

The CHAIRMAN. And the jury did not agree; go on and state about it.

The WITNESS. The jury did not agree; there were nine in favor of acquittal and three for conviction.

The CHAIRMAN. Go on and tell what became of the indictment at the next term.

The WITNESS. And then our counsel asked for a change of venue.

By Senator BLACKBURN:

Q. He was not willing to try it there again?—A. I do not know; it was his own opinion. I do not know that he consulted me or anybody else. But it was the general opinion, anyway, that it would be better to take it to Saint Louis County court, and we were taken down there, and as soon as we got into the court-room we were dismissed.

Q. Were you all three tried together, or separately?—A. All together.

Q. Was that the result of the deliberation of the jury as to all three cases—nine for acquittal and three for conviction as to all three of you?—A. That is what I understood.

Q. Have you been on pleasant terms with the agent and the farmer, and the representative of religion, the priest who is out there on that reservation?—A. I have nothing against the priest, surely.

Q. Do you know whether that priest ever tried to have you removed off that reservation?—A. I do not.

Q. You do not know?—A. No, sir.

Q. You never heard that he asked the Indian Office here to move you off of that reservation in order that those Indians might be allowed to live at peace?—A. The priest? No, sir; I never heard that. But Agent Gregory told me that he would undertake to do that.

Q. You never heard of the priest doing it?—A. No, sir.

Q. What sort of a man is that priest out there?—A. He seems to be very well liked.

Q. What is his name?—A. Father Dugal. As far as Agent Gregory is concerned, I have nothing personal or anything of that kind against him.

Q. Have you always been on pleasant terms with Father Dugal?—A. Nothing very intimate.

Q. But you know him?—A. Yes, sir; I know him.

Q. And he seems to be a good man?—A. Yes, sir; a very nice man.

Q. A man who is conscientious in his efforts to promote the welfare of the Indians?—A. Yes, sir; apparently.

Senator BLACKBURN. That is all.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. Is there anything more that you want to state about that indictment and trial? If so, you may state it.—A. Nothing further than what I have stated, unless the committee desire to ask me questions.

Q. Who was the man who was killed?—A. His name was Willett.

Q. Where was he supposed to have been killed?—A. In his saloon at Moose Lake.

Q. Were you there at the time he was killed?—A. No, sir; I was down on our farm.

Q. How far is that from the saloon?—A. Two miles.

Q. You were not at the saloon when he was killed?—A. No, sir.

Q. You can state anything more you want to about it.—A. I do not know that there is anything in particular to state about it. I have nothing to hide or anything of that kind. The matter has been all worked up and everybody knows all about it, it seems, all that can be known about it.

Q. What business have you been engaged in since that time, and for whom have you worked?—A. I have been engaged as a telegraph operator and station agent for different railroad companies; for the Saint Paul and Duluth Railroad.

Q. At what place?—A. At various places.

Q. State all the places where you have worked.—A. At Hinkley, Moose Lake, Rice's Point, and Pine City. I worked for a number of months for the Western Union Telegraph Company at Saint Paul, Minn.

Q. Are you a telegraph operator?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. State the individuals connected with those companies who have employed you or under whose immediate supervision you have worked.—A. Mr. H. P. Breed was the superintendent when I first went to work after this affair; Mr. W. H. Fisher, of Saint Paul, is general superintendent and president, and Mr. C. F. Copeland is assistant superintendent; George H. Smith, jr., is superintendent of telegraphs.

Q. Do they all know you?—A. Yes, sir; they all know me personally.

Q. Have you any present employment?—A. No, sir; I have not.

Q. Did you give up any employment to come here with these Indians?—A. No, sir; I gave up my position a year ago last January to go on to the reservation.

Senator BLACKBURN. Mr. Chairman, if you will wait until I can step to my desk in the Senate I will bring the letter of Father Dugal and offer it in evidence, and have it attested officially, if necessary.

Senator Blackburn having procured the letter in question, then read it to the committee as follows:

CLOQUET, CARLTON COUNTY, MINN.,
May 8, 1887.

To the Hon. J. D. ATKINS,
Commissioner Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.:

I wish to address a few lines to you in regard to the affairs on the Fond du Lac Reservation, and would be pleased to have you give the matter your kindest consideration.

Mr. Gregory, the Indian agent, has been here during the past week settling with the Indians, and he has had considerable trouble with them, and I am certain the trouble has been caused by a mixed blood named James Coffey, who has been stirring up the Indians against the agent and Mr. Hynes, the contractor.

I have been on the ground the past winter and during all of the past week, while the agent was here, and I have watched everything very closely and am satisfied that they have been treated fairly by both gentlemen, who are personally known to me, and I can vouch for their integrity. The Indians are under my charge, and they also have a missionary priest, and we could manage them without any trouble were it not for this man Coffey, who is a desperate character and will stop at nothing to accomplish his designs. He has once been tried for murder, and escaped punishment by the jury disagreeing. If anything can be done to have him removed from the reserve it would be a blessing to all of us.

Asking your forbearance for troubling you so much,

I am, honorable sir, very respectfully, yours,

Rev. Father DUGAL.

The WITNESS. If the committee desires to know whether the Indians all concur in that opinion, I think there can be sufficient proof brought here that that is some of his own work. I do not believe that matter was ever submitted to the Indians, and I do not think they know anything about it, because if they did I should certainly have heard of it in some manner. If the committee desires to further find out as to my character and reputation I can refer them to respectable people, prominent men out where I live, and they could ascertain from them as to my character and reputation, as to whether I am a desperate character or anything of that kind.

Senator BLACKBURN. That is all I want, Mr. Chairman.

The CHAIRMAN. I will recall Mr. Calligan.

TESTIMONY OF PHINEAS H. CALLIGAN.—Recalled.

PHINEAS H. CALLIGAN was recalled and further examined.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. Have you received your contract with Mary Bray?—A. I have.

Q. Will you produce it?

(The witness produced the paper called for.)

The CHAIRMAN. I will put this into the record.

The contract referred to is as follows:

This agreement, made and entered into at the La Pointe Indian Agency, Wisconsin, this 4th day of September, 1886, between Mary Bray, of Lac Court Oreille Reservation, party of the first part, and Calligan Bros., of Chippewa Falls, Wis., party of the second part, witnesseth: That the said party of the first part, having received from the United States a patent, subject to certain reserved rights vested in the President of the United States, to the lot No. 1 and 4, R. 4, T. 38, R. 8, situated upon the Lac Court Oreille Reservation, in the State of Wisconsin, agrees to cut, in a good and merchantable manner, into logs of the lengths of 12 to 24 feet, from the merchantable pine timber upon three-quarters of the said tract, the boundaries of which shall be designated by the United States Indian agent in charge of the above-named agency, and be incorporated into and become a part of this contract, and that none of the logs shall measure less than 10 inches at the small end, and to deliver 150,000 feet, more or less, of said logs upon the bank of Lac Court Oreille River, to the party of the second part, for the sum of $6 per thousand feet, board measure, as scaled upon the bank by a competent scaler, who shall be approved by the United States Indian agent above mentioned.

In consideration of the above agreement and sale, the party of the second part agrees to pay to the said Mary Bray, so fast as the logs are delivered upon the bank, in lots of 25,000 feet, one-half of the purchase money; that is to say, when 25,000 feet are delivered, the sum of $75 shall be paid thereon, and for each subsequent 25,000 feet so delivered, an equal amount shall be paid and the remainder of the purchase money shall be paid April 15, 1887, when the logs shall be considered delivered to the party of the second part. The expense of scaling the logs upon the bank shall be equally divided between the parties of the first and second part to this agreement.

It is also agreed that no portion of the logs hereby contracted shall be removed by the party of the second part until payment therefor shall have been made in manner herein stipulated, the reserved portion being the west 20 acres. Further, that all money or supplies furnished by the order of the party of the first part for the purpose of banking said logs, or other purposes, shall be considered as part payment for said logs, and that all cattle, horses, sleds, blankets, or other equipments furnished by the party of the second part for banking said logs shall be and remain as their property until paid for by the party of the first part.

This contract shall be valid and binding only after having the approval indorsed thereupon of the United States Indian agent in charge of the above-named reservation and the honorable Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

Witness the hands and seals of said parties the day and year first above written.

[SEAL.]

MARY (her x mark) BRAY.

In presence of—

J. G. NORTON.

O. C. NORTON.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. That contract appears to be dated September 4, 1886; is that the time when it was made?—A. Yes, sir; that is the time.

Q. Were you present when that was made?—A. I was.

Q. Did you see her sign it?—A. I did.

Q. Was there a duplicate of it?—A. Yes, sir; we always make two contracts.

Q. So that after being approved by the agent there is one for each party?—A. No; we always supposed one was held here in the Department and we received the other one, but it seems not.

Q. After the contracts were signed by her what was done with them?—A. We held them.

Q. Was this ever offered to the farmer for approval?—A. Not until after Agent Gregory agreed to give us the right to contract.

Q. So that this contract rested in this way until after the intervention of Governor Pound?—A. Yes, sir. You understand that the contract was refused and Mr. Rusler took and made another contract, copied one from that.

Q. Made on this same blank, the one with Bergevin?—A. No, sir; with us, the one with Calligan Bros., and that was the one taken to Agent Gregory to have signed.

Q. Have you that now?—A. No, sir; Agent Gregory has it.

The CHAIRMAN. That is all I want to ask you this morning.

Senator BLACKBURN. I want to ask you some questions.

By Senator BLACKBURN:

Q. Who are J. G. Norton and O. C. Norton?—A. They are merchants at Flambeau farm, and I think postmasters, if I am not mistaken.

Q. Where are they?—A. On the Chippewa River, on what is called Flambeau farm.

Q. They were witnesses to this contract?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did each of them sign his name, or did one sign both names on here?—A. I think they both signed separate names; I never knew one man to sign two names.

Q. Take this contract and look at those two attested signatures and tell me if you do not think the same man signed them both?—A. No, sir.

Q. You think not?—A. I do.

Q. This purports to have been made on the 4th of September, 1886?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did you do with it then; did you take it to Mr. Rusler?—A. No, sir.

Q. Did you take it to Agent Gregory?—A. Agent Gregory refused to sign our contracts, so that we did not take it to him.

Q. That answers my question; you did not take it to Mr. Rusler or to Mr. Gregory?—A. They refused to sign our contracts.

Q. I am not asking you that; but you did not take it to Mr. Rusler or Mr. Gregory. How long after the 4th of September—A. Just wait one moment; I would not say I did not take that to Mr. Rusler; I could not say that now.

Q. Will you say that you did?—A. No, sir; I will not say for certain about that.

Q. Then let me ask you this: How long after the 4th day of September, 1886, was it before you will say that you called the attention of either Mr. Rusler, the farmer, or Mr. Gregory, the agent, to the existence of this contract?—A. I think it was in November before Mr. Rusler allowed any other contract with Mary Bray in favor of Calligan Bros.

Q. You think it was in November?—A. I think so.

Q. Don't you know that on the 11th of October, 1886, Mary Bray had made contracts with Peter Bergevin?—A. Yes, sir; I do.

Q. Then it was in the month following her contracts with Bergevin?—A. Yes, sir; it was after that.

Q. And you know that the attention of Mr. Rusler and Agent Gregory was called to this contract of yours dated September 4?—A. You understand that there was a list made out of each and every Indian's name and description with whom we had a contract on that reservation. Agent Gregory called for it and it was presented to Governor Pound, and he presented it to Agent Gregory.

Q. When?—A. Perhaps Governor Pound could give the date better than I can.

Q. Can't you guess at it?—A. It would not do any good for me to guess, for I might guess right or might not.

Q. Was Governor Pound employed by you earlier than October?—A. I think there are lots of dates printed here that give the date.

Q. Did you employ Governor Pound before October, 1886?—A. I think it was in that month, but I will not say for certain that we employed him. He took that list with the understanding that the farmer was to notify these parties, and when any of them came forward and said they wanted our contracts carried out as they had signed them first with us, that that should be done; those parties met the farmer and he made another contract in November, I think, and it was taken to Agent Gregory to sign.

Q. I understand you to say that you do not know that notice of that 4th of September contract which you have just produced here was given either to Mr. Rusler or to Agent Gregory until after the list was furnished by you to your counsel, Governor Pound, and by him submitted to Agent Gregory?—A. I do not rightly understand you.

Q. Have you any recollection of having called the attention of either Agent Gregory or Mr. Rusler, the farmer, to this 4th of September contract, this Mary Bray contract right here, prior to the time that, through your counsel, Governor Pound, you submitted a list of all your contracts that you had made with Indians to purchase timber?—A. The farmer, Rusler, understood—I told him myself—that I held contracts on that timber of Mary Bray's before ever there was a contract signed by Peter Bergevin.

Q. But I want you to tell me when you told him that?—A. It was before the contract was made with Bergevin.

Q. When was that?—A. It was in September.

Q. You told him in September?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you show him this contract?—A. I can not say that I did show him that contract.

Q. Who was present, and where did you have that interview with him?—A. At his office.

Q. Who was there?—A. I can not say who was there now.

Q. You do not know that anybody was there?—A. I never was in the office in my life—

Q. Was this Mary Bray contract the only contract that you had had then?

The WITNESS. The only contract we had with the Indians?

Senator BLACKBURN. Yes.

A. No, sir.

Q. Then how came you to single out this and tell him you had the Mary Bray contract?—A. For this very reason: Those parties went up there to see whether Calligan Bros. would be allowed to contract.

Q. Who did?—A. Mary Bray's husband.

Q. When?—A. It was before Bergevin made his contract on the 11th of October, so that it was in September that they went there and the farmer told them that those contracts that they had made with Calligan Bros. could not be approved.

Q. The farmer, Mr. Rusler, told them that?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And then he afterwards told them that they should be, didn't he?—A. I suppose he did.

Q. He told Governor Pound so, did he not?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And he told you so, did he not?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, then, I did not understand you right awhile ago if I understood you to say that you did not know that notice of this contract was given, either to Mr. Rusler or Agent Gregory, earlier than the furnishing of the list of all the contracts which you had given to them by your counsel, Governor Pound?—A. I went to Mr. Rusler myself and asked him if he would approve of any of our contracts, and he told me he would approve of no contracts at all.

Q. Then did you tell him with whom any of the contracts were made?—A. I think likely.

Q. Are you positive about it?—A. I most always did; he knew that I had contracts with those Flambeau people.

Q. Did you ever tell either Mr. Rusler or Agent Gregory that you had a contract with Mary Bray, dated September 4, 1886, prior to the service of the notice through your counsel, Governor Pound, who submitted the whole list of contracts which you had?—A. Yes, sir; I did.

Q. Now, then, let us be positive about that. Where did that happen?—A. Right in the farmer's office.

Q. Can you tell me when?—A. I could not give you the date.

Q. How long was it before you employed Governor Pound?—A. Three or four weeks or something like that; it was quite awhile. We were trying to get Agent Gregory to sign our contracts for some time before we employed Governor Pound.

Senator BLACKBURN. I will ask Governor Pound to tell, if he can, the date of his employment as counsel by Calligan Bros.

Mr. POUND. I think I stated in my testimony that it was in the latter part of October or early in November.

Senator BLACKBURN. That is my recollection. I believe that is all, Mr. Chairman.

TESTIMONY OF THADDEUS C. POUND.—Recalled.

Hon. THADDEUS C. POUND was recalled and further examined.

By the CHAIRMAN :

Q. Can you state these dates any more accurately or the transactions any more clearly than they have hitherto appeared; if so, make your statement?—A. I desire to give in as supplementary testimony, that when called on the former occasion my memory was not quite clear as to exactly from what source I secured the data which was embodied in my letter to Commissioner Atkins with reference to not only the Mary Bray contract, but, it seems, two other contracts. After retiring from the committee-room I felt quite sure that I had the contracts themselves from which I gathered the data, and hence suggested to Mr. Calligan that he send and secure them. He has done so, and they confirm this later impression, that it was from them that I got the data as to the dates and descriptions of contracts, etc., and there are two others also, as will appear from the descriptions in this letter. The names were not originally given in my letter, but the descriptions of land were given, and they correspond to the descriptions embodied in my first notification. There is one which covers the west half of southeast quarter section 211, town. 39, range 8. This contract was between Kegani-ganis, and Calligan Bros., and is dated September 4, 1886. The other is between Ambrose Corbine and Calligan Bros., of the same date, and is for west half of northeast quarter section 28, town. 39, range 8. It will be observed that these descriptions correspond with the descriptions embodied in that first letter of notification other than the description relating to the Mary Bray contract.

The contracts submitted by the witness are as follows :

This agreement, made and entered into at the La Pointe Indian Agency, Wisconsin, this 4th day of September, 1886, between Kegani-ganis, of Lac Court Oreilles Reservation, party of the first part, and Calligan Bros., of Chippewa Falls, Wis., party of the second part, witnesseth: That the said party of the first part, having received from the United States a patent, subject to certain reserved rights vested in the President of the United States, to the W. $\frac{1}{2}$, SE. $\frac{1}{4}$ Sec. 21, T. 39, R. 8, situated upon the Lac Court Oreilles Reservation, in the State of Wisconsin, agrees to cut, in a good and merchantable manner, into logs of the lengths of 12 to 32 feet, from the merchantable pine timber upon three-quarters of the said tract, the boundaries of which shall be designated by the United States Indian agent in charge of the above-named agency, and be incorporated into and become a part of this contract, and that none of the logs shall measure less than 12 inches at the small end, and to deliver 150 thousand feet, more or less, of said logs upon the bank of Lac Court Oreilles River, to the party of the second part, for the sum of \$6 per thousand feet, board measure, as scaled upon the bank by a competent scaler, who shall be approved by the United States Indian agent above mentioned.

In consideration of the above agreement and sale the party of the second part agrees to pay to the said Ke-gani-ganis, so fast as the logs are delivered upon the bank, in lots of 25 thousand feet, one-half of the purchase money; that is to say, when 25 thousand feet are delivered, the sum of $75 shall be paid thereon, and for each subsequent 25 thousand feet so delivered an equal amount shall be paid, and the remainder of the purchase money shall be paid April 15, 1887, when the logs shall be considered delivered to the party of the second part and this contract shall terminate. The expense of scaling the logs upon the bank shall be equally divided between the parties of the first and second part to this agreement.

And it is further agreed between the parties that no portion of the logs hereby contracted for shall be removed until payment therefor shall have been made in manner herein stipulated; the reserved portion being the north 20 acres of said tract; and further, that all money or supplies advanced by order of the first party shall be applied as payment on logs.

This contract shall be valid and binding only after having the approval indorsed thereupon of the United States Indian agent in charge of the above-named reservation and the honorable Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and shall not be assigned or sublet under penalty of annulment thereof.

JOSEPH PERRON.
AGRIL LANGLOI.

By Senator BLACKBURN:

Q. There have been put in three contracts here. The contract with Ke-gani-ganis and Ambrose Corbine are the only two you put in, are they?—A. Yes, sir. However, the Mary Bray contract I have here in duplicate.

Q. They are all dated September 4, 1886?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. The contracts of record in the office for each of these parties with Bergevin are all dated October 11. Now, I ask you when those contracts were forwarded?—A. I do not know that these particular contracts were ever forwarded. My understanding is that these contracts never were forwarded to the farmer for his approval or to Agent Gregory, for the reason that notification had been given that they would not be approved.

Q. And of course, then, they were never forwarded to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs?—A. Being refused contracts, the blank sent to the agent for that year, Calligan Bros. had to use other contracts which differed, as they understood, in form from those which were furnished for this particular year, and hence when contracts were made in pursuance of the agreement, they were made on the new blanks and bore later dates, which was not regarded as important since the parties in interest would be convened and determine with whom they would contract.

Q. Allowed their right of election?—A. Yes, sir. I want to be permitted also to call the attention of the committee right here, in this connection, to the fact that the agent in his letter to the Commissioner, which is now in evidence, made no mention of these other contracts, and that so far as I know now neither he or the Commissioner has ever taken any notice of the communication with reference to this contract which I submitted at that time.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. Nor with regard to the other two contracts, either?—A. No, sir; and so far as I know has not taken advantage of the means I suggested to ascertain from the farmer the truth of my statements embodied in that letter.

By Senator BLACKBURN:

Q. Did you not, in your letter to the Commissioner, tell him that it was not necessary to prosecute the inquiry any further?—A. I said this in substance: That so far as securing any reparation or justice to Calligan Bros. it was not important, but that it might be important so far as the integrity of the office and the public service was concerned.

Q. Can you produce a copy of that letter?

The CHAIRMAN. It is in evidence.

Senator BLACKBURN. I know it is; but I do not remember it in that way.

The WITNESS. It is not the exact language in my letter, but it is the substance, I think. Here it is in the record. After suggesting several questions to be propounded to the farmer with respect to this transaction I close by saying:

It is to be regretted that work is already so far progressed under the Bergevin contract, notwithstanding my timely notice, that little if anything can now be done to rectify the injustice to Calligan Bros., and hence no further investigation need be made to that end. Of the importance of such investigation to the integrity and wise management of affairs under your supervision, as well as the public service generally, you will be the judge.

Senator BLACKBURN. That is it.

The WITNESS. I desire here to add that after the reception of this, these same contracts were approved, as will appear from the list furnished to-day; that it was after this letter of mine having been received by the Department that not only the Mary Bray contract was approved, but the other two embodied in the first notification.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. With whom?—A. With Corbine and the Indian I have named, Ke-gani-ganis.

Q. In whose favor?—A. They were approved in favor of Bergevin.

Q. They were not approved in favor of Calligan Bros., then?—A. No, sir; all three were approved in favor of Bergevin.

Q. Have you anything further to state?—A. No, sir; I have not.

Senator BLACKBURN. I want to ask Mr. Calligan a question.

TESTIMONY OF PHINEAS H. CALLIGAN.—Recalled.

PHINEAS H. CALLIGAN was recalled and further examined.

By Senator BLACKBURN:

Q. Who made this contract with this Indian, Ke-gani-ganis, and the others?—A. I did.

Q. Did you make them all at one time?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you have these people together?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where?—A. At this man's store; his name is on there; Mr. Norton.

Q. Did they meet you there by arrangement?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You had sent out for them?—A. I went to their houses and notified them that I came to buy their timber.

Q. And told them to meet you down at the store?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were they all three there?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you make any more contracts that day?—A. No, sir.

Q. Those are the only contracts you had dated September 4?—A. Those are the only three I made that day.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. This was at Flambeau farm?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And not at Flambeau Reservation?—A. No, sir.

The select committee then adjourned to meet again on Thursday, March 22, 1888, at 10.30 o'clock a. m.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Thursday, March 22, 1888.

The select committee met pursuant to adjournment at 10.40 a. m.

Present, Messrs. Chandler (chairman), Platt, and Cullom.

The CHAIRMAN. Agent James T. Gregory has reported in obedience to the subpoena of the committee. As soon as Senator Blackburn arrives he no doubt will desire to have him examined as a witness.

Senator Blackburn subsequently came into the committee-room and said: Agent Gregory, I understand, arrived in Washington night before last. I saw him yesterday, and expected to be here this morning at half-past ten, but having to attend another committee meeting I was detained; and I observe that the hour of the meeting of the Senate is almost reached. Therefore I will ask the committee to adjourn for the day and to meet again to-morrow at 10.30, when I desire to put Mr. Gregory upon the witness stand.

The CHAIRMAN. I will state that the committee are waiting for copies of papers and documents from the Indian Office, which I have no doubt Commissioner Atkins is doing his best to give us. But there will necessarily be a little delay on that account. The committee will now adjourn until to-morrow, when Senator Blackburn can proceed to examine Mr. Gregory.

The select committee then adjourned until Friday, March 23, 1888 at 10.30 o'clock a. m.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Friday, March 23, 1888.

The select committee met at 10.30 a. m., pursuant to adjournment. Present, the Chairman (Senator Chandler), and Senators Platt, Culom, and Blackburn.

The CHAIRMAN. I will recall Major Hindmarsh.

TESTIMONY OF HENRY E. HINDMARSH—recalled.

HENRY E. HINDMARSH was recalled and further examined.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. What copies of papers have you to present to the committee this morning?—A. I have the list of contracts made by the Lac du Flambeau allottees with Charles H. Henry for the season of 1887-'88, received in the Indian Office March 19, 1888; thirty-one contracts in all.

Also a list of contracts made by the Bad River allottees with Edward Haskins for the season of 1887-'88, received in the Indian Office March 19, 1888; twenty-three in number.

Also a list of thirteen contracts of Bad River allottees with Edward Brown for the same season, received in the Indian Office on the same date. That is all I have to submit this morning.

The papers submitted by the witness are as follows:

Senator BLACKBURN. I will ask to have Mr. Gregory sworn.

TESTIMONY OF JAMES T. GREGORY.

JAMES T. GREGORY, United States Indian agent at La Pointe Agency, Wis., was then duly sworn by the chairman and interrogated as follows:

By Senator BLACKBURN:

Q. Please give your full name?—A. James T. Gregory.

Q. Are you in the employ of the Government? If so, state what position you hold, how long you have held it, and where you are stationed.—A. I am in the employ of the Government; I am acting as United States Indian agent at La Pointe Agency, Wis. My appointment was dated April 30, 1885, and I took charge of the agency on May 19, 1885.

Q. Whom did you succeed?—A. I succeeded William R. Durfee, whose term of office expired at that time.

Q. How many reservations are embraced in your agency?—A. Seven.

Q. Please name them?—A. The Red Cliff, Bad River, Court Oreille, and Lac de Flambeau, in Wisconsin; the Grand Portage, Vermillion Lake, and Fond du Lac, in Minnesota.

Q. Upon which of those seven reservations is the cutting of timber going on, or has it been going on since you have been agent there?—A. Upon the Fond du Lac, Bad River, Court Oreille, and Lac de Flambeau reservations.

Q. That is four altogether?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What regulations, if any, have prevailed with reference to the employment of the labor in this logging business as to Indian and white service?—A. Well, during these last two winters there has been more white labor employed than heretofore.

Q. What instructions have you, if any, from the Indian Office in reference to the employment of Indian labor upon these reservations?—A. The instructions from the Department are here. I have a letter from the Acting Commissioner of Indian Affairs, A. B. Upshaw, dated October 29, 1885, upon that subject.

[The letter referred to by the witness is already in evidence and will be found upon page 15 of the record.]

Q. Please give the date of your next instruction?—A. The next instruction I received was in a letter written by A. B. Upshaw, Acting Commissioner of Indian Affairs, dated Washington, D. C., August 24, 1886.

[The letter referred to by the witness, heretofore submitted in evidence, is printed on page 17 of the record.]

Q. Have you any other letters of instruction?—A. I have also a letter here from Acting Commissioner Upshaw, dated Washington, October 27, 1887, which reads as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, October 27, 1887.

SIR: I inclose herewith, for your information, a copy of Department letter of the 21st instant, concurring in the views expressed by this office in a report made to the Department on the 18th instant, as to the necessity of a continued supervision of the logging operations at your agency, notwithstanding the status of the Indians, as defined by the general allotment act of February 8, 1887; also a copy of a letter written to Hon. T. C. Pound, in reply to a telegram from him on the subject.

Very respectfully,

A. B. UPSHAW,
Acting Commissioner.

J. T. GREGORY, Esq.,
U. S. Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis.

By Senator BLACKBURN:

Q. Where are the inclosures referred to in that letter?—A. I have them here. The one addressed to Governor Pound is as follows;

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, October 27, 1887.

SIR: Replying to your telegram of the 12th instant, inquiring "Is license required to purchase timber on reservation; if so, what character?" I have to inform you that by direction of the Department all existing regulations touching the making and approval of contracts, the issuance of special licenses, and in all other respects relating to the logging operations on the reservations attached to the La Pointe Agency, will continue as heretofore.

Very respectfully,

A. B. UPSHAW,
Acting Commissioner.

Hon. THADDEUS C. POUND,
Chippewa Falls, Wis.

The WITNESS. The other inclosure referred to in the letter from the Indian Office is dated October 21, 1887, and is addressed by Acting Secretary Muldrow to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

[The letter referred to by the witness is already in evidence and is printed on pages 18 and 19 of the record.]

By Senator BLACKBURN:

Q. Is that all that was covered in that communication?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Are those all the instructions you have had from the office?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Since you entered upon the discharge of your duties?—A. Yes, sir; they are the only ones I have received.

Q. These are all of the nature of general instructions which you have had?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What is the practice there to-day in the matter of employment of labor for these logging operations?—A. Well, where Indians will work they are employed.

Q. Is any preference given to Indians as against white labor?—A. Yes, sir; and it always has been so.

Q. What proportion of white and Indian labor, in your best judgment, is to be found upon these four reservations where this logging is going on now?—A. I could not answer that question, as I have not been in all the camps. It is impossible for me to visit them. I have not the time to, and I do not know.

Q. How long has it been the practice to employ white labor in any proportion in this service; does it antedate your service there?—A. Yes, sir; it does.

Q. Was that permitted under your predecessor?—A. It was.

Q. Now tell me, as a rule do these parties who are engaged in purchasing this timber from the Indians prefer white or Indian labor?—A. They prefer white labor.

Q. Is it or not a fact that they are constantly endeavoring to get as large a proportion of white labor into their service as they can?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What are the relative rates of wages paid to white and Indian labor there?

The WITNESS. Do you mean now?

Senator BLACKBURN. Yes, and heretofore?

A. When they used to employ just white teamsters, cooks, and foremen, the Indians were getting from $40 to $60 a month on the reservation, and white men working off the reservation were getting from $20 to $30 a month.

Q. I am talking now about those employed in the logging operations. Do the Indians work cheaper or do they demand more pay than the white labor?

The WITNESS. Do you mean now?

Senator BLACKBURN. Yes, for logging operations?

A. They get just as much now as white men; there is no difference in the wages unless it is an extraordinarily good man. Of course some men get higher wages in camps for the same work than others do.

Q. Was it the practice originally to allow no white labor to be employed in this logging business except cooks, teamsters, and foremen?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was that ever rigidly enforced?—A. No, sir; it was not.

Q. When you came there as agent were there any white men employed on any of these logging operations other than teamsters, cooks, and foremen?—A. Yes, the loggers said there were. But if they had six teams they would have about twenty teamsters about the camp; all the white men would be teamsters then, even if they had only six teams at work there. That is the way they got around it.

Q. Is there more timber being cut now this season upon those four reservations than heretofore?—A. I do not think there will be; if they had had a good winter I think there would have been more cut.

Q. Are the contracts increasing in number?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What difference, if any, results to the Indians, the owners of the timber, between the sale of timber from a small number of allotments and a large number of contracts being made?—A. Well, a man who can get the job of cutting and banking that pine, having a large amount, can do it much cheaper than for a small amount.

Q. How?—A. Because if he has to cut a small amount he has to build his camps, and it will cost quite a considerable sum of money to cut his roads, and he could just as easily haul 5,000,000 or 10,000,000 feet over those roads as to haul a hundred thousand.

Q. How about the water-ways and driving streams which are employed for the getting of this timber down to market; do they need to be improved in order to get the lumber out?—A. They all have been improved; at least the most of them have been.

Q. At whose expense?—A. At the loggers' expense; the white men who buy the lumber.

Q. Would the price range as high? Could the lumbermen or loggers pay as much money for this timber if they bought only a few allotments in a certain section of the reservation as though they had bought double or ten times as many?—A. No, sir; they could not, because it would cost them much more to drive a small amount, in proportion, than a large amount, to get it from the small streams into the river.

Q. Do you have any complaints made to you of Indians who want employment in this logging business out there and are refused it?—A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever have any?—A. No, sir; I never have had any.

Q. Since you have been there as Indian agent have you ever known of an Indian who wanted to be employed at this work who could not get employment?—A. No, sir; I have never known it.

Q. Now tell the committee about this regulation of reserving one-quarter of the timber upon each allotment from the operation of these cutting contracts; is it not a regulation of the office that one-quarter of the timber upon each allotment shall be reserved?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is that enforced?—A. I do not know; I do not think it is.

Q. Was it ever enforced?—A. No, sir; it was not.

Q. What is required there in the reservation of that one-quarter of the timber? Is it that it shall be reserved in bulk on some portion of the reservation, or that an amount equivalent to one-quarter of the timber on the reservation shall be spared in cutting it off and left to the lumberman to select and scatter as he pleases?—A. I think that means that one-quarter of the allotment shall be left untouched with the timber on it.

Q. In bulk?—A. No, sir; just the timber on one 20 acres.

Q. And that 20 acres be left standing together, or might it be skipped over and left covering sparsely the whole 80-acre allotment?—A. I do not think that was the intention of the regulation.

Q. What is the truth as to the practical workings of that regulation?—A. If I had a quarter-section of pine and I had cut three-quarters of it, I should calculate that the other quarter would probably be burned the next summer.

Q. Do these lumbermen in cutting this timber clear up and remove all the limbs and branches and inflammable material, or do they leave it on the ground?—A. It is left on the ground.

Q. Do you ever have any of those forest fires out there?—A. We have them every summer, most; every summer in portions of the country it is burned over.

Q. Does this débris that is left on the ground, after it becomes thoroughly dried and seasoned, become combustible matter easily fired?—A. Yes, sir; it does.

Q. Is there any way to limit the amount of timber contracted to be sold and cut over every year?—A. I do not see how it can be done. If you tell a certain number of the Indians that they shall sell, why, the balance will think you are showing partiality and are not treating them fairly.

Q. Are they all anxious to sell that timber?—A. Yes, sir; they are so anxious that they will sell it to three or four different parties during the summer to get money out of them. They will contract verbally with as many men as come along who will advance money to them.

Q. Are they disposed to observe scrupulously the contracts which they enter into, or is there trouble in having them enforced?—A. They consider after they go before the Government farmer and have had witnesses to the contract that that is binding.

Q. They recognize the force of that?—A. Yes, sir; but before that they will sell to anybody who has a mind to advance them money.

Q. Now tell me about the prices of timber being paid this season; how do they compare with the prices ruling in previous seasons?—A. They are getting more stumpage this season than ever before; that is, realizing more from the sale of the timber. They are getting $3.75 a thousand on the Court Oreille Reservation. I know of that being paid.

Q. I see by some of the transcripts of contracts which have been filed this morning that upon the Bad River Reservation the prices range from a minimum of $5.50 to $7, the maximum per 1,000; that is the Haskins contracts.—A. Well, that is delivered on the bank.

Q. And the range is from $5.50 to $6.25, under Mr. Brown's contracts on that reservation. Are those prices higher than those which have prevailed in former seasons?—A. Yes; they are. I do not remember of $7.50 ever having been paid on that reservation for pine.

Q. I see on the Lac de Flambeau Reservation for the season of 1887-'88 under the Henry contracts that they range from the minimum of $5 to a maximum price of $6. Are those higher or lower than the prices of preceding seasons on that reservation?—A. There was never any cutting done there until last winter, and I think there was $6 paid there for some last winter.

Q. Is that the highest price paid?—A. Yes, sir; it is the highest price.

Q. Please tell how many firms or individuals are engaged in this logging business, and name them, on each of these four reservations where this timber cutting is going on.—A. On the Court Oreille Reservation there are Dobie & Stratton; England, Clark & Thomas; Charles Bergeron; and the Valley Lumber Company.

Q. They are on the Court Oreille Reservation?—A. Yes, sir. On the Flambeau Reservation there is Charles H. Henry, A. M. Sherman, Joseph Allen, and John T. Cosgrove. On the Bad River Reservation there is D. A. Kennedy, Edward Brown, Edward Haskins, A. A. Maxim, and a man named Ferguson—I have forgotten his initials—I think it is in some of these lists of contracts—and John B. Denomie.

Q. Is Denomie an Indian or a white man?—A. He is an Indian. He is sitting there [indicating]. I may not have named them all. Yes, Edward Waters is on the Bad River Reservation. On the Fond du Lac Reservation is Patrick Hynes and Andrew Gowan. I may add that Gowan's contracts were sent back for correction. He had taken the forms, and had a lot printed in, binding the allottees to stand all the losses that the loggers might make during the logging season, and if they ran behind, the allottees would probably get no stumpage from the pine at all. I sent them back and would not allow them to go in, and he is getting new ones made. They are not here yet.

Q. You have named over, now, as well as you remember, all the parties who are engaged in the logging business on these four reservations?—A. I have.

Q. What is the process employed by those contractors in their dealings with the Indians in the making of contracts? What part do you have to bear in it?—A. Well, when the contracts are made before the farmer he sends them to my office for my approval.

Q. Do you have one farmer for this whole agency?—A. No, sir; there is a farmer at each reservation—at each one of them—and they go before the farmer and make the contracts.

Q. The Indian and the lumberman?—A. Yes, sir; and the farmer fills them out and sends them to me for my approval. After I check them over and see that there are no mistakes in them I send them to the Department for approval.

Q. Have you had any trouble because of the refusal or failure of either of those farmers upon either of those reservations to approve contracts that were presented by any of the lumbermen there?—A. I think Mr. Calligan claims that Mr. Rusler would not approve of his contracts.

Q. Which reservation is Mr. Rusler farmer for?—A. The Court Oreille Reservation.

Q. And Calligan Bros. are lumbermen on that reservation, or have been heretofore?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were they contractors or loggers on any other reservation but that since you have been there?—A. No, sir.

Q. They complained that Mr. Rusler would not approve their contracts?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was the matter brought to your attention?—A. Yes; it was.

Q. By whom?—A. I think G. M. Calligan told me.

Q. Is that the gentleman who is present here?—A. No, sir; he is not here; that was G. M. Calligan.

Q. Did you ever have any conferences with the Mr. Calligan who is in the room here now, Phineas H. Calligan?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did he ever complain to you about the failure or refusal of the farmer to approve these contracts?—A. I do not recollect whether it was he or his brother; they were together at one time, and I think his brother did the talking.

Q. Did they name to you any of the contracts that they claimed to have made?—A. Not that I remember at that conversation; they spoke in a general way, that he would not approve them.

Q. Did you refuse to approve any of Calligan Bros. contracts?—A. I did.

Q. Upon what ground?—Because I did not think they were men fit to be on the reservation; and I have had no reason to change my mind since.

Q. What ground did you have for that conclusion?—A. The first season they logged there they kept stirring up disturbances all the time, especially Phineas H. Calligan, and I have complaints from the Indians that they charged them more for their goods than anybody else did.

Q. You mean that they had a store?—A. Yes, sir; off the reservation; it was on the reservation, but it was on the swamp 40 owned by the State. That was the first winter they were on there; the winter of 1885-'86. I made up my mind that I would not have them in there if I could help it, and I so stated to them. But some of my friends came to me and wanted me to let them go in. After I had decided I would let them go in, another friend came to me and told me that Phin. Calligan and his brother had offered him $1,500 if he would bribe me to let them go in.

Q. Who was that?—A. It was T. J. Cunningham, of Chippewa Falls. He said they offered him $1,500 to bribe me to let them go in there. That was after I had consented to let them go in. I did not say anything about it. I told him I did not want the $1,500, and they went on. That was during the season of 1886-'87. I made up my mind that they would not go in there again. But in the spring of 1887 it was brought to my notice—or in the summer, at least—that Calligan had contracted with an Indian woman; there were brother and sister; that the Indian had overdrawn and taken more supplies out of the store than his pine would amount to. Calligan gave orders to his foreman—the allotments laid side by side—to take pine from the woman's allotment and tell the scaler at the banking ground that that pine belonged to this Indian until he got enough to square the Indian with him.

Q. To cover his advances?—A. Yes, sir; and he did so. That was brought to my notice. I think the party to whom he gave the orders will testify to that, too; in fact, I am sure that he will. That was in the spring of 1887. And another thing satisfied me there was something wrong: When Calligan Bros.' contracts were sent to the Indian Office, all the witnesses' names were signed by the same party; the four names, the contractor's, the Indian's, and the two witnesses'. It was so plain that it was returned from the Department to me for correction. And in another case Calligan brought a contract to the farmer claiming it was signed by John Quarter's wife—I do not know her Indian name. He said it was signed by her, and he wanted the farmer to approve it. The farmer would not do it, but said, "Bring the woman here." They did not bring her there. The farmer asked Mr. Calligan where she signed it, and he said down at the store. The farmer asked her if she had signed that contract, and she said no. He said, "He says that you have, in Calligan's store;" and she said, "I never have been to the store and will make affidavit to it." They brought that contract paper claiming to have been signed by her, and it was witnessed; and she will swear she was never in the store at the time. That is the reason I did not let them in.

Q. Do you remember anything about a Mary Bray contract that they claimed to have made in the early days of September, 1886?—A. I do not remember when he claimed to have made it; I know there was a dispute about it. I know that Mary Bray sold her pine to four different parties, made a verbal contract, and received money from them all. And then when Peter Bergevin came there she went before the farmer and signed the contract with Bergevin, and I sent that here for approval and it was approved.

Q. In the matter of approving or refusing to give approval to these contracts, did politics cut any figure there?—A. I do not see how it can, because about 90 per cent. of the loggers there are Republicans.

Q. You say the large majority of the men engaged in this business on the reservation are Republicans?—A. Yes, sir; you can name them over and I will go on and give the politics of each of them.

Q. Just do so?—A. On the Court Oreille Reservation there is Dobie & Stratton. I think there are two Dobies and Milton Stratton; one of the Dobies is a Democrat and the other is a Republican, and Milton Stratton is a Republican. England, Clark & Thomas are all Republicans. In the Valley Lumber Company Mr. George A. Buffington is one of the leading Republicans in his part of the country, and I think he is the secretary or treasurer of the company. That is on the Court Oreille Reservation.

On the Lac de Flambeau Reservation, A. M. Sherman is a Republican, Captain Henry is a Republican, and Joseph Allen is a Republican; Cosgrove is a Democrat.

On the Bad River Reservation Edward Hoskins—I do not know what his politics are, and about Denomie I do not know. They are Indians. Brown is a Republican, Maxim is a Republican, and D. A. Kennedy is a Republican. Waters is a Democrat. I think I have named them all. I do not know what Ferguson's politics are.

On the Fond du Lac Reservation Hynes is a Democrat; Gowan, I do not know what his politics are, but I think he is a Democrat. He is in the employ of the O. N. Nelson Lumber Company, and they are all to my certain knowledge Republicans. Senator Sabin was—I do not know whether he is now—a stockholder in it. That constitutes their politics.

Q. Did the fact of Calligan Bros. being Republicans have anything to do with your action in the matter of your refusal to approve their contracts?—A. No, sir; it did not.

Q. You have stated the ground, and the only ground, upon which you refused?—A. Yes, sir; I have.

Q. Before you were subpoenaed to come here as a witness, had you been advised of the fact that there was dissatisfaction and complaints being made about the proportion of white labor that you allowed to be employed in this logging business out there?—A. No, sir; there had been no trouble about that at all that I had heard of.

Q. Who was it that had been making complaints to you about the methods employed for the management of these lumbering interests out there?—A. There had been nobody complaining to me, but I understood that some of the Indians were counselling amongst themselves, and had some outsider in with them to help them out.

Q. That is what I want to get at. Were those the Indians who were selling their lumber?—A. Yes, sir; a great many were selling their lumber.

Q. The ones who were complaining?—A. Some of them were; I do not know just who they were. I do not know who came here; I have not got the names of all that delegation.

Q. Have you any turbulent characters out there amongst those Indians—that is, have you had difficulty with them because of their efforts to stir up dissatisfaction and trouble in the tribe?—A. Yes, sir; I have.

Q. Who were the worst ones?—A. About the worst I have got is Mr. James Coffey.

Q. He has been here as a witness?—A. Yes, sir; he is interpreter here.

Q. What is his character out there?—A. I do not know much about the man, having seen him only a few times, but every time I go to the Fond du Lac Reservation there have been complaints made that when he comes there he is always drunk and raising a disturbance with the other Indians, and there have been complaints made that he has been taking whisky on the reservation. I have a case against him now in the United States court in Saint Paul for taking whisky on the reservation, and I have three others I am going to report when this one is taken care of.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. You have three cases against Coffey?—A. Yes, sir. He does not live on that reservation, but he comes there often enough to keep things moving pretty lively.

By Senator BLACKBURN:

Q. Has he ever lived there since you have been there?—A. No, sir; he lives at Moose Lake, about 20 miles distant.

Q. Do you know of any effort being made to have him kept off of that reservation?—A. I saw in the testimony given here that a letter had been written by Father Dugal asking that. But the Indians complain to me right along about his actions while there. He is not there all the time, though; only a very small portion of the time.

Q. Now I want to ask you about a practice which seems to prevail there; of allowing timber to be cut under contracts made and approved by you upon the recommendation of the farmer, and before being approved by the Indian Office here in Washington?—A. That has been done ever since they commenced logging there, long before I took charge.

Q. It is unavoidable that it should be so?—A. If they could be allowed to make their contracts along in the summer some time, that could be done away with. But this idea of not issuing general orders or instructions until along in October, it would keep them until spring most before they could get to work.

Q. When does the logging season fairly close there?—A. It closes on the first or middle of April some time, depending on how long the snow lasts. But the lumbermen like to go into the woods about September and build the camps, cut the roads, and commence skitting the logs. If the orders were issued about the 1st of July or August, these contracts could all be made and sent here and approved by the time they wanted to put their camps in.

Q. In point of fact that regulation is not observed?—A. No, sir; and it never has been.

Q. Cutting is allowed to begin before the formal approval and final action by the Indian Office here upon those contracts?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you find that practice was prevailing before you took charge of the office?—A. Yes, sir; I did.

Q. What, if any, alteration or change have you made in the management of this timber-cutting interest out there since you became agent on that reservation?—A. Well, about the only important one I have made is, I have insisted on the Indians having so much stumpage for their pine.

Q. That is just what I want to get at.—A. It used to be that an Indian would contract for the sale of his pine. He would get some half-breed who had a logging outfit to put it in, say, for $3.50 a thousand. If the half-breed would run behind on his contract the Indian can go to work and give these contractors orders to honor the checks of this logger. There are several cases where the allottees did not get 10 cents a thousand out of their pine by so doing. I stopped that right off the first fall I took charge; I told them I would not allow it. Some wanted to do it, to insert that in the contract that if the logger would run behind that the allottee would have to stand it, but I would not allow it.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. How did you stop it?—A. I told them that the contractors would have to let that man take it for the price that he could put it in for, at a fair price, and if he could not do it I would look to them to fulfill the contract, as they were buying the pine.

By Senator BLACKBURN:

Q. That was in the case of subletting?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Practically, I mean?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What would be the effect, in your judgment, upon the Indians? Would it be satisfactory if the office should undertake to limit the number of contracts that might be made for the sale of timber during the season?—A. I do not think it would, because they are always very anxious to sell.

Q. As a rule what do they do with their money when they sell this timber?—A. Some of them take care of it.

Q. Many of them?—A. Well, no; not a great many of them; but some of them will take care of it. Some of them have got logging outfits and money ahead, good teams, and everything; but others, as soon as they get it, will go visiting, fill up with whisky, have a dance, and, when they come back, they don't have much of it left.

Q. What is the character of this land; is it valuable for purposes of cultivation after the timber is cut off of it?—A. Some of it is.

Q. How large a portion of it?—A. I do not know just about what the proportion would be. Of course you take it where there is hard wood and pine mixed and it would make good farming land; but there is other land which is sandy, and where there is only Norway pine, and that will not grow anything at all. Another thing that I have done that was not done heretofore, I have allowed more white labor than was heretofore allowed.

Q. What induced you to do that?—A. Because the Indians could realize more out of their pine by employing whites than by employing Indians. When they depended on Indian labor aside from teamsters and cooks, they figured on paying from $40 to $60 a month for common help. Those parties who would take the contract from the Indians to log their pine for them, and they had to figure on that.

Q. Let me understand you. When an Indian sells the pine on his allotment to the lumberman, who has to employ the labor necessary to cut and bank it?—A. The man who puts it in. The Indian agrees to deliver that pine there.

Q. So that it is the Indian who has to employ this labor?—A. Why he gets this logger, or whoever he has, to go to work and put his pine in for him; he employs him.

Q. Then it is not the contractor who is benefited if there be a saving in the labor employed, but it is the Indian?—A. It is the Indian, yes, sir; because the man whom he hires to put that in can put it in cheaper if he can get white labor. He can take the job cheaper and leave more stumpage for the allottee than if he had to depend on Indian labor.

Q. You say that is the only material alteration or change that you have made in the management of this logging business since you have been there?—A. Yes, sir; that is, in the management of the logging business. But in the management of the funds belonging to the Indians I have arranged to have it taken care of for them. I have stated that in my report; I do not know whether it is in the report or not.

Senator BLACKBURN. No, it has not been put in; you may add it if you want to.

The WITNESS. A year ago last spring I put about $14,000 in the bank belonging to them, in the United States Depository, allowing them so much a week. An Indian who wanted to make an improvement, such as clearing his land or building a house, I would see it was paid to him. It was placed to their individual credit. It was out of my hands; I had no more control over it than they had. When it was placed in the bank I made the arrangement with them that it should be checked out so much a week, or to pay for any improvement necessary. But the Government farmer would have to witness those checks. Last spring I kept something over $30,000, and there is a great portion of that left yet. Some of them do not check at all, do not come around once a week to get their money.

Q. What is the condition of those Indians on the reservation; is their condition improving?—A. Yes, sir; on all the reservations but the Flambeau they dress just as well as anybody. The Flambeau Reservation is quite a distance from the railroad, and there are a good many blanket Indians there, and they never have done anything until a year ago last winter. But their condition has improved, and there are over thirty houses now they are living in. Two years ago there were not over half a dozen at the Flambeau Reservation. In the other reservations they are well advanced in civilization.

Q. You were not on the reservation when you were subpoenaed to come here?—A. No, sir; I was at Hot Springs, in Arkansas.

Q. Had you any information to the effect that there was a delegation of Indians here complaining about your management of that office?—A. Yes, sir; they left Ashland before I went South. I knew there was a delegation here. I did not know what the nature of their charges was, only what I could hear through the newspapers.

Q. When did you get here?—A. I got here on Tuesday night at 7.10.

Q. Have you had any conferences with the Secretary of the Interior or the Commissioner of Indian Affairs since you came here?—A. I have not seen either of them. I have not been near them at all. I considered my business was before this committee; they summoned me.

Q. In reference to these changes, these alterations that you have referred to as having been made in the conduct of your office since you have been there, were they done by your own suggestion or by a suggestion emanating from the Indian Office to you?—A. I think in that letter of 1885, in the instructions, it states that some steps ought to be taken to protect the Indians against the loss of money. We had a couple of cases where some women received $8,000 or $10,000, or ought to have received it, and did not get it; somebody else received it, and they were beaten out of it. The letter of 1885 called particular attention to that. Acting on that I took that money the next spring and placed it in the bank.

Q. There has been an order issued, probably since you left Hot Springs, certainly since you left the reservation, stopping the cutting of timber there?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What effect is that going to have?—A. It is going to hurt a great many loggers there.

Q. In what way?—A. It will shut them out when they could do their best work, cleaning up, and it will throw a lot of men out of employment—Indians as well as whites.

Q. They have their outfits, teams, and their force in the woods now at this season?—A. Yes, sir; they are all there.

Q. Have you any idea as to the gross amount of lumber that will be cut this season?—A. I have not; I do not know.

Q. As compared with the last or preceding season?—A. I do not think it will be any more than last on account of this weather, and the condition of the roads through the winter on account of deep snow.

Q. Did you know that the firm of Calligan Bros. at one time employed Governor Pound, of Wisconsin, as their attorney?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you have any conferences or dealings with Governor Pound as the counsel or attorney of that firm?—A. We talked matters over in a general way. I think I told Governor Pound that I would allow them to contract.

Q. For what season was that?—A. For the season of 1886-'87.

Q. Did you do it?—A. I did.

Q. Did you ever agree with Governor Pound that they should have the privilege of contracting for the present season?—A. No, sir; I did not.

Q. You did not?—A. No, sir.

Q. Do you know of any arrangement having been entered into by which, in regard to disputed cases where Calligan Bros. were claiming to have made contracts with Indians for the purchase of timber and other parties were also claiming to hold that timber under contract with the parties in interest, they were to meet, and the Indians to be given the right of selecting the party with whom they would close their contract and to whom they would deliver their timber?—A. Yes, sir; I remember that.

Q. What was done in those cases?—A. The matters were settled before the farmer, Mr. Rusler.

Q. That was on that one reservation where Mr. Rusler was the farmer?—A. That was the only one.

Q. There was no controversy anywhere else?—A. No, sir.

Q. Calligan Bros. did not haul or log anywhere else?—A. No, sir; that is the reason that I did not have any trouble anywhere else.

Q. Were the Indians given their right of election according to that arrangement?—A. So Mr. Rusler told me.

Q. Did Mr. Calligan or anybody else ever complain to you that that agreement had been violated, and that the Indians were not allowed to exercise their right of choice?—A. They did.

Q. Who did that?—A. I think Governor Pound wrote me a letter once from New York, and then Mr. Calligan called my attention to it on the reservation. Mr. Rusler said that this woman came to him and said she was willing to sell to Bergevin, and she did so. That Mary Bray contract is the only one I remember any trouble about.

Q. You do not recall any trouble about any others?—A. No, sir; but I know Governor Pound handed me a list of names at that time, stating that Calligan Bros. had contracted with them, and there were quite a number of names of the Indians—I think they had the names of nearly all the Indians on the reservation.

Q. Did you hand that list to them?—A. Mr. Rusler did.

Q. And they declared they never had made any contract with them at all?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You spoke of two logging firms of contractors on the Bad River Reservation, Haskins and Denomie?—Yes, sir; Edward Haskins and John B. Denomie.

Q. Are they small or extensive and large contractors up there?—A. I do not how much business they did. I think Haskins claims he wants to get in 5,000,000 or 6,000,000 feet this winter, and Denomie about as much.

Q. Are there any other lumbermen on that Bad River Reservation than those?—A. They are the two largest, and they will cut the most of any two loggers there.

Q. And they are Indians?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Are they employing a disproportionately large amount of white labor?—A. They employ about the same as the rest of them.

Q. About the same as the others?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you ever have any correspondence with the Indian Office calling the attention of the Commissioner to the great saving that would accrue to the Indians by reason of the employment of white labor as against Indian labor?—A. I think I did, in 1886.

Q. Have you any of those letters which you wrote, or the answers to them?—A. I have copies here in my letter-book. Here is one of June 15, 1886; an extract from a letter which I called his attention to.

Q. That is your letter-book you are reading from?—A. Yes, sir.

The extract from the letter read by the witness is as follows:

Heretofore all these lumbering operations have been conducted by those engaged in them under many serious embarrassments. Chief amongst these are the fact that the Indian laborers would not carry out their agreements. They understood very well that the contractors for the logs were obliged to employ Indian laborers exclusively and Indian teams when they could be obtained. From every section these Indian laborers would go to the reservations and engage themselves to work for a contractor at a stipulated price for a logging season. Most of them would work for a few weeks, get their pay, and go away until their money was gone, and after the work was well under way they would combine and put up the wages to twice that for which white labor could be and was obtained in the same locality.

In consequence of this state of affairs logging operations was in many cases suspended, great losses accrued, and the spendthrift Indian wasted his own earnings, in which was also consumed the price of the timber which the allottees should have had.

Seeing that the logging operations last winter were likely to be affected from this same cause, I addressed a letter to you on the subject on September 7, 1885, and in reply thereto you gave me such authority as I thought would enable me to overcome this serious source of loss and injury, and I used it as I believe with good results. I believe it is just as important to teach these Indians honesty and justice as to labor.

Early in the logging season the same general course of these Indian laborers began to be put into operation, and I personally visited each of these reservations, and frequently afterwards, and I told as many of those Indians as I could see that they must live up to their agreements and remain at their work, and if they left they should not be permitted to return, and that I should see that white men got their places if I could not get honest and industrious Indians to fill them.

I instructed the farmer to visit each camp promptly whenever trouble was likely to occur and to read my letter of instructions (which embodied what I have stated above). The laborers seeing that there was a determined purpose to break up the course which they had every winter pursued and which they knew was wrong, remained at their work, and when the camps broke in the spring many of them had considerable money coming to them, the contractors got along well with their work, and the allottees received the full amount which they expected to receive.

By Senator BLACKBURN :

Q. Did you get any answer to that?—A. Yes, sir; that is the letter of general instructions which has already been printed, of August 24, 1886 (see page 17 of the record).

Q. Are you provided with a printed copy of the testimony taken by this committee?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. I will call your attention to page 55. Do you see a letter there, beginning on page 55 and ending on page 56, dated Chippewa Falls, Wis., January 3, 1888, signed by P. H. Calligan, and addressed to Mr. Atkins, the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, at Washington?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. I will ask you to notice in the very first paragraph of that letter the following :

While in Washington last August Acting Commissioner Upshaw requested me to appear before him and make such statements regarding the transaction of Calligan Brothers with Agent Gregory as were pertinent to the pending controversy between them and said agent. Agent Gregory being in the city, his presence was requested by Mr. Upshaw through Governor Pound; but he having immediately after such request left the city in obedience to the Commissioner's request, I appeared alone and made a verbal statement, after the conclusion of which Mr. Upshaw requested me to reproduce the same by letter for filing with the Department.

Is that a true statement of the facts?—A. No, sir; it is not.

Q. In what does it fail to state the facts?—A. Well, I was here in August; I have forgotten just the date this happened, but it was on Wednesday afternoon. I was stopping at the Ebbitt House at the time. I came down from the Interior Department to the hotel and found Mr. Calligan's card there, and shortly after that I was out in front of the hotel talking to a friend, and Mr. Calligan came to me and told me he would like to see me. I turned and told him if he had anything to say to me he could say it through his attorney. That is all that passed. I saw Governor Pound a short time after that, and told him I intended leaving Washington that night, but would postpone it until the next night in order to give Mr. Calligan a chance to go before the Commissioner of Indian Affairs with me; that was at the Ebbitt House that I told that to Governor Pound; I also told Mr. Hindmarsh the next morning. I went up to the Indian Office, and told him I was going to stay there to meet Mr. Calligan, and I was there all day and he did not appear. In the evening I saw Governor Pound and told him that I had stayed over to see Mr. Calligan and he had not come around, and I had some business that had to be attended to at home, and I was going to leave that night, and I told him that I thought Mr. Calligan would brace up and go around after I left; that was about the way he did business, I said. Governor Pound said, no, he would not have it that way at all; that he would not approve of such a course as that. I left on Thursday night, and on Saturday Mr. Calligan went before the Commissioner; at least so I was informed by friends of mine.

Q. You stayed here one day longer than you intended to in order to go there with Mr. Calligan?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you did then request him to go, through his attorney, Governor Pound?—A. Yes, sir; I did. I stated it to Mr. Hindmarsh, and also to another employé in the Indian Department, and stated why I was remaining over a day longer than I intended to.

Q. A little further on in this same letter, on page 55, Mr. Calligan says:

In this connection I desire to state that Agent Gregory has represented to George Buffington, of Eau Claire, now a contractor, that I was requested by him to appear before the Commissioner and in his presence (Gregory's) make complaint, but that I declined to do so, referring to the circumstance of our being in Washington at the time above referred to, a most arrant falsification.

Q. Did you make that statement to Mr. Buffington, and if you did, was it substantially true that you had requested Mr. Calligan to go with you to the Indian Office to make his complaint in your presence?—A. I did not request Mr. Calligan to; I requested his attorney.

Q. Did you ever make any complaint to Mr. Cunningham, or anybody else, to the effect that Calligan Bros. were paying too high a price for lumber on that reservation?—A. No; I did not.

Q. Did they ever contract at higher prices than the usual prices ruling on the reservation?—A. I do not think they did. The records of the Indian Office will show whether they did or not. I am pretty positive that they did not, but we can easily find that out.

Q. Do you know Mr. John B. Denomie?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. I now refer to page 87 of this printed testimony. In answer to the first question he says his home is on the Bad River Reservation?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. In answer to the seventh question, "What contractors are logging there," he answers, "The Superior Lumber Company"; is that true?—A. No, sir; it is not.

Q. Has the Superior Lumber Company been logging on that reservation this or any other season since you have been there?—A. They never have. I was with the Superior Lumber Company when they organized, as their book-keeper, and they never have bought a log off that reservation since I have been there; and I was with them when they organized the company.

Q. Before you became Indian agent?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Has the Superior Lumber Company, during the present season, or the last season, had any man representing it for the purchase of lumber on that reservation?—A. No, sir; it has not.

Q. I notice that you gave the name of a Mr. Kennedy among those who were logging on that reservation.—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was he cutting for this company or for himself, or for whom?—A. He was cutting for himself.

Q. Now, look further down on that same page 87, towards the bottom of the page, and you will find this question:

Q. When was your second 80 allotted?—A. Four or five years ago.

Q. To whom was that allotted?—A. To my daughter.

Q. Did you sell that timber?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. When?—A. That would be two years ago last fall.

Q. In 1885-'86?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. To whom did you sell?—A. To the Superior Company.

Was there any sale made by Denomie, or anybody else, of lumber on that reservation?—A. No, sir; there was not; and Denomie was logging for Kennedy, who purchased the pine Denomie put in.

Q. And you approved the contract?—A. No, sir. Denomie bought from the Indians, but Kennedy furnished him the money to buy, and the books of the company would show whether Denomie ever had any dealings with them in that capacity or not.

Senator BLACKBURN. I believe that is all that I care to ask the witness.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. When did you go to Hot Springs, Ark.?—A. I left on the 7th of March, at 7.30 in the evening.

Q. Did you take a leave of absence from the Indian Office?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long before had you obtained it?—A. I applied for it in February some time.

Q. For how long a leave did you apply?—A. For thirty days.

Q. Did you specify the time during which you wanted to be gone; the period of thirty days?—A. Yes, sir; and, I think, in my letter I stated I wanted it to take effect on or about the 7th of March.

Q. And it was granted?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Why did you wish to go to Hot Springs?—A. On account of having catarrh so badly. It was the worst time on the lake for it.

Q. About what time does the cutting of timber cease on the reservation?—A. Sometimes it lasts along until the middle of April.

Q. Does it ordinarily run as long as the middle of April?—A. No, not the hauling.

Q. I mean the cutting and hauling.—A. The cutting and hauling run together generally.

Q. Does it not end usually after the first week in April?—A. Sometimes; yes, sir.

Q. Ordinarily, I mean?—A. I do not know. I suppose it would on the average there on the Flambeau and Court Oreille Reservations, but it lasts longer than that on the Fond du Lac Reservation—the snow lasts longer.

Q. Then the thirty days during which you desired leave of absence to go to Hot Springs were the last thirty days of cutting and hauling timber on the reservation?—A. It might have been the last fifteen days.

Q. It naturally would be the last thirty days?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And your catarrh was the only reason why you wanted to be absent?—A. That is the only reason.

Q. Have you been to Ashland from Hot Springs?—A. I came here by the way of Ashland.

Q. How long were you there?—A. I got into Ashland on Friday night and left Sunday night.

Q. Who represents you at the agency when you are absent?—A. My chief clerk.

Q. What is his name?—A. Henry H. Beaser.

Q. Has he authority from the Indian Office to represent you?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Written authority?—A. Yes, sir; written authority.

Q. When you reached there had a telegram been received there to stop the cutting of the timber?—A. No, sir; not when I reached the Springs; when I reached Ashland it had been received.

Q. How long before?—A. I think it was the 15th it was received; I can not be positive about that. I got home the 16th, on Friday.

Q. Had it been promulgated to the various reservations?—A. Yes, sir; Mr. Beaser had done that.

Q. How did he notify them?—A. He notified the farmers in charge of each reservation that they should stop cutting.

Q. Did he notify them by telegraph or letter?—A. By letter.

Q. State how soon a letter would reach the farmer on each reservation.—A. At Bad River it takes about half an hour to run there by train. At Court Oreille it takes about three hours to go from Ashland to Hayward. And at Flambeau it takes about two and a half hours or three hours to go from Ashland to Fifield, and they would get it the next morning on the Fond du Lac Reservation.

Q. So that in the ordinary course of mail, within twenty-four hours your representative could have notified the farmer at each reservation?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And he did so, as you understand it?—A. Yes, sir; he did so.

Q. When did you arrive in Washington?—A. I arrived on Tuesday evening, at 7.10.

Q. You have stated that you have not seen the Commissioner or Secretary of the Interior.—A. I have seen nobody connected with the Interior Department except Major Hindmarsh.

Q. With whom have you had conferences since you have been here?—A. I conversed with Senator Blackburn.

Q. Except any conversation you may have had with him?—A. I had none with anybody here in the city at all.

Q. You have talked with no one?—A. No, sir.

Q. When did you first see the testimony taken before this committee?—A. I saw it on Wednesday; I came around to the room and Mr. Lasier, the clerk, gave me a copy of it.

Q. Had you seen that before your talk with Senator Blackburn?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You have referred to your employment for the Superior Lumber Company; state your whole connection with that company.—A. I commenced to work for them as scaler of logs on the Bad River bottom seven years ago the 1st of June.

Q. That would be June, 1881?—A. Yes, sir. I staid with them until 1884. After I got through scaling that summer I came to Ashland, and they commenced building their mill. They employed me as book-keeper, and I stayed with them until 1884. Then I got the position of cashier in the Ashland National Bank; they just had started the bank. I went in there as cashier; I think that it was in March they organized the bank—either March or April; and I staid there until May, 1885, when I got this appointment. Since then I have been in the Indian service.

Q. When you took this appointment of Indian agent you were in the employ of the bank?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long before that had you left the employment of the Superior Lumber Company?—A. About fourteen months. I left it some time in March, 1884.

Q. What had been your business before you were employed in 1881?—A. I was a scaler or measurer of logs.

Q. What is your age?—A. I am thirty-one years old.

Q. What was your first avocation?—A. I was clerking in a store.

Q. Where was your home?—A. I was born in Canada.

Q. And your business was that of a clerk in a store?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. In Canada or in this country?—A. I always went to school in Canada. I was in Illinois when I commenced clerking.

Q. Where did you first commence to work in the United States?—A. I commenced at Joliet, Ill., or right near there, in a small town. After that I worked in Joliet at a drug store. It was in 1875 that I left there, thirteen years ago.

Q. Are you a naturalized citizen?—A. Yes, sir; I am.

Q. When did you first go to this region?—A. I went there seven years ago, I think, this next month.

Q. About the time you commenced working for the Superior Lumber Company?—A. Yes, sir; about that time.

Q. What business was done by the Superior Lumber Company while you were connected with it, and indeed up to the time when you became Indian agent?—A. They manufactured lumber, laths, and shingles, and had a machine-shop in connection with it at Ashland, and a sash and door factory.

Q. Anywhere else?—A. No, sir; they had no mill anywhere else.

Q. Then their lumbering operations may be said to have been at Ashland?—A. Yes, sir; at Ashland.

Q. Did they saw lumber for other parties, or handle their own lumber?—A. While I was there they sawed for William Knight. Colonel Knight was a stockholder, and I think they cut some for him.

Q. Was it their ordinary business to saw their own lumber or other people's lumber?—A. They sawed their own and put in their own; but if they had not stock enough of their own, they would take a contract from somebody else to cut.

Q. How did they procure their lumber, by purchasing it after it was cut or logging and purchasing stumpage?—A. The first winter's work they put in themselves; they had their own pine, and then they purchased some from Colonel Knight that they put in.

Q. Was this year when you worked for them the first operations of the Superior Lumber Company?—A. Yes, sir; I think they had been incorporated along in the spring or preceding fall. That was the first operating they had done.

Q. Is the Ashland Bank connected with the Superior Company?—A. It is not. The only stockholder at the time I left the bank that belonged to the Superior Company was John H. Knight, and he had $1,000 of stock out of $50,000.

Q. So that they are distinct institutions, so far as their stockholders are concerned?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did the Superior Lumber Company at any time within your knowledge, obtain any logs from the reservation?—A. No, sir; they never have.

Q. Have any of the logs which have been cut since you were agent on the reservation gone to their mills?—A. Not to my knowledge. I could not say as to that, because I have nothing to do with the mill, and know nothing about it since I left there.

Q. Do you know where the logs on the Bad River Reservation have gone?—A. They have been sawed at the mills at Ashland. I know the Union Mill sawed quite a number of them.

Q. How many mills are there?—A. There are five mills there.

Q. Do you know the extent to which logs from the Bad River Reservation have been sawed at the Superior Lumber Company's place?—A. I do not.

Q. You have no doubt that some have?—A. I could not say as to that, either.

Q. You can not say about that?—A. No, sir.

Q. You would not say that they have not been?—A. No, sir; I could not say that.

Q. What was Mr. Kennedy's business when you first knew him?—A. He was hired by the Superior Lumber Company as superintendent. He came there, I think, in 1882, and has been there since.

Q. State, if you know, what his connection was with the Superior Lumber Company; when it terminated; and what his business has been since.—A. He has been superintendent, or was in 1882. He came there as superintendent, and has been superintendent ever since, so far as I know.

Q. He is superintendent now?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where do the logs which he gets from the reservation go to be sawed?—A. They go to these mills in Ashland—the different mills there.

Q. Do they not go to the Superior Lumber Company?—A. I do not know. I know of logs having been sawed by the Ashland Lumber Company and the Union Mill Company from the reservation, of Kennedy's logs; but I do not know how many, or how many were sawed by the Superior Lumber Company, or if any were so sawed.

Q. Have the Superior Lumber Company ever had any contracts with Indians on the reservation?—A. No, sir; never. There has never been a contract brought to me for approval made by the Superior Lumber Company.

Q. Running to the Superior Lumber Company?—A. No, sir.

Q. But you have approved contracts for Kennedy?—A. Yes, sir; I have.

Q. Has he been a contractor for logs with the Indians on the Bad River Reservation every year since you have been there?—A. Yes, sir; he has.

Q. And his connection with the Superior Lumber Company has not ceased, to your knowledge?—A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Have you ever known any contracts made with Indians in the name of the Superior Lumber Company which have afterwards been changed so as to read to D. A. Kennedy?—A. No, sir; I never have known any of them.

Q. If there have ever been any contracts made in the name of the Superior Lumber Company and afterwards changed to Kennedy, it was without your knowledge?—A. Yes, sir; without my knowledge.

Q. Is or is not Kennedy now logging upon the reservation for the Superior Lumber Company?—A. He is not, to my knowledge. The Superior Lumber Company have not bought any pine where Kennedy is logging. He may be logging for the Superior Lumber Company, but I do not think he is.

Q. Have you any knowledge on the subject?—A. Yes, sir; I have. I went there a year ago to see for myself if the Superior Lumber Company had handled or bought any of that pine, and I went through their books. They laid them open to me. There was a special agent named Heth who was there at that time. It was two years ago, and we went there and examined to see if their books showed that they had had any dealings with Indians.

Q. Why did you do that?—A. Because they had made charges that the Superior Lumber Company was purchasing pine of Indians, and I wanted to know whether Mr. Kennedy was purchasing for himself or the company.

Q. You thought you ought to know that?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. That is, if he was really logging for the Superior Lumber Company or for himself personally, you thought you ought to know it?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did you find upon examination?—A. I could not find that the Superior Lumber Company had ever had any dealings with the Indians at all. Mr. Kennedy had a separate set of books of his own, and it showed with whom he contracted, the amount of money paid and due them, and the amount of pine cut.

Q. Why did you care to know whether the Superior Lumber Company had these logs, or whether Kennedy handled them personally, so long as he made the contract and gave bonds and was responsible for the full amount?—A. I wanted to know for my own satisfaction, because the newspapers there had been accusing me of being a stockholder of the company, and standing in with it, and had said we were robbing the Indian, and I wanted to know how much of that was going on.

Q. It was on account of these newspaper rumors that you thought you would ascertain the facts?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you did ascertain the fact as well as you could, that the Superior Lumber Company had nothing to do with Kennedy's contracts?—A. Yes, sir; that it had nothing at all to do with them.

Q. How did you happen to take the appointment of Indian agent?—A. It was offered me, and I was tired of staying in-doors. There is some out-of-door exercise connected with it, and there was an increase in the salary.

Q. Did you apply for the appointment?—A. A friend of mine applied for me; that is, I wrote a letter to a friend of mine making application.

Q. State, if you have no objection, who recommended your appointment.—A. I do not know. General Bragg was the one who recommended me; I do not know who else, or, in fact, I never looked into it.

Q. You do not know upon what recommendation you were appointed?—A. No, sir.

Q. You can state all the persons who recommended you.—A. I know that General Bragg did; I was told that in February General Bragg had recommended that I be appointed.

Q. State all the persons whom you asked to aid you in securing the appointment.—A. I did not ask anybody. Some of my friends in town—young fellows—came to me and asked me if I would take it, and I said I did not know. They said the salary was greater than I was getting, and advised me to take it.

Q. If you did not solicit any office, or make any advocacy of your cause personally, who did solicit in your behalf your appointment as Indian agent?—A. The only one that I really know of who did anything about it was Col. John H. Knight.

Q. Who was then a stockholder in that bank?—A. Yes, sir; he was then and is to-day.

Q. What is his connection with the Superior Lumber Company?—A. He is secretary and treasurer of the Superior Lumber Company.

Q. And a large stockholder?—A. I think he is the largest stockholder in the Superior Lumber Company, or one of the largest; I do not know how the stock is divided.

Q. Have you stated all the persons whom you think of whose influence was solicited to procure your appointment as Indian agent?—A. I have stated all who ever talked with me about it.

Q. I not only ask your personal information, but what you have ever heard as to who recommended or assisted in procuring your appointment.—A. I do not know how to answer that question. I do not want to swear that anybody did, not knowing that they did.

Q. Well, that you ever heard of.—A. No; I never heard of anybody that had done anything in that way, except Colonel Knight. General Bragg was willing I should be appointed.

Q. That was General Bragg, the member of Congress?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Outside of General Bragg and Mr. Knight, you do not consider yourself under obligation to any one for that appointment?—A. No, sir; I do not.

Q. And do not know that any one else solicited or aided in procuring that appointment, except those named?—A. I could not swear to it.

Q. You can not state any others?—A. No, sir; I can not.

Q. When you commenced your duties as Indian agent did you investigate the system that had prevailed of allotments, and of timber contracts?—A. As soon as I got straightened around in the office I did.

Q. You had some knowledge of it before that?—A. No, sir · not of the Indian business.

Q. You knew Agent Durfee?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What is his full name?—A. William R. Durfee.

Q. Where is he now?—A. At Ashland, Wis.

Q. You knew him, as you have said? Did you know that lumbering had been done on the reservation?—A. Yes, sir; I knew his partner had bought logs when he was agent.

Q. What was his name?—A. Horace J. James. The contract is in the name of the Union Mill Company, and they were members of the Union Mill Company.

Q. You knew they had bought logs?—A. Yes, sir: their contracts are in the office now.

Q. Did you know that at the time?—A. Yes, sir; I knew it at the time.

Q. And you were living at Ashland and had general knowledge of the way in which allotments were being made?—A. No, sir; I knew nothing about the allotments; that was out of my line of business. I knew there was logging done there.

Q. You knew that the Union Mill Company, with which Mr. Durfee and Mr. James were connected, had been doing business?—A. Yes, sir; I knew that because the Superior Lumber Company owned the boom where all this Indian pine has to be rafted. I had to keep the books and I had to make out the accounts for those parties, and in that way I found out about it.

Q. Then the lumber from the Bad River Reservation has to go through the Superior Lumber Company's boom?—A. No, sir; there is some on the shore bank on Lake Superior that does not have to go through.

Q. How is that shipped?—A. They tow it into Ashland in rafts.

Q. What is the boom on, Bad River?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And all that comes down Bad River has to pass their boom?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And that is the way you had the knowledge about the Union Logging Company?—A. Yes, sir; I was keeping the account of the rafting done. You have to keep an account of the different marks and owners so as to collect from them.

Q. When you made an investigation as to the system of allotments and timber contracts, what did you find was the case as to the allotments to the Indians in severalty; all allotments were then made, were they not, under the treaty of 1854?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. To what extent had allotments been made at that time?—A. I do not know just how many there were on the different reservations; I could not tell without looking at the records.

Q. You could not tell how many allotments had been made at that time?—A. No, sir; I could not.

Q. I want you to examine the records, so far as you can have access to them, and ascertain how many allotments had been made on all the reservations under your charge in 1885, when you took possession of your office. What were the first allotments that you supervised?

The WITNESS. The selecting of them?

The CHAIRMAN. Yes; the allotments of land in severalty to the Indians.

A. I think it was at Bad River; I will not be positive though.

Q. How many different allotments have you recommended to the Department from Bad River?—A. I could not tell you without looking the records up. There are four different reservations.

Q. Have the allotments been frequent or at intervals?—A. They have been about once a year, or sometimes twice a year.

Q. Speak now of the allotments prior to 1887, when the severalty act passed; speak only of allotments under the treaty; were allotments made about once a year on each of the reservations?—A. At Court Oreille we used to make them once a year; that is, when we made a settlement in the spring for the winter's logging, when the Indians would all be together and we would make additional allotments.

Q. And on the other reservations?—A. At Bad River I think it has been made as high as twice a year, but I would not be positive, and I think at Flambeau.

Q. I desire that you will examine the records and be prepared to inform the committee of the date of each allotment, each list of allotments recommended by you from each of the reservations, together with the number of allottees in each case; that will be the gross number.—A. Yes, sir; I will do so.

Q. Speaking of allotments under the treaty, what has been the course of procedure when allotments have been made?—A. There has been a council held and the chiefs and head-men have decided as to the eligibility of the candidate.

Q. Were there written instructions in the office as to the part you were to take and the principle upon which you were to conduct these allotments?—A. I do not think there was, but there is a certificate attached to these selections; we were to certify to what had been done.

Q. The agent has to do that?—A. Yes, sir. You have to certify that these names have been presented in open council to the chiefs and head-men in council assembled, and that they were in favor of allowing the party to have the selection.

Q. Then the general rule was that the agent would not recommend the approval of allotments except they were approved by the council and chiefs?—A. Yes, sir. That was under the treaty.

Q. Now state what has taken place under the severalty act.—A. The instructions under the severalty act, as printed on page 21 of the record, about the center of the page, say:

It has been the practice heretofore, in making allotments under the treaty, to submit the applications to a council of the Indians, and to allow the council to determine whether the applications should be allowed. This practice will be discontinued.

That is the instruction in regard to making allotments; and then, further, about the mixed bloods residing on the reservations.

Q. Up to that time all allotments, to wit, those made under the treaty, had required the approval of the Indians?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the Indians had always consented to all allotments to which you had given your approval?—A. Yes, sir; they had. Of course there were many of them rejected by the Indians which I did not send in.

Q. Did those Indians whose allotments were rejected undertake to appeal or pursue a remedy in any way?—A. Yes, sir; some of them have.

Q. In what way did they proceed; what method did they adopt?—A. I think there are some cases before the Commissioner now where Indians have been rejected by the council.

Q. State what has taken place under the severalty act.—A. Selections have only been made on one reservation and that is at Fond du Lac. Agent Wall and myself went there, and he read the instructions to the Indians who were there. I think there were something like one hundred and ninety-odd names presented. Out of those one hundred and ninety there were thirty-six in dispute, that the Indians objected to. We talked the matter over and they finally agreed with us that there were fifteen of those thirty-six who were entitled to lands there.

Q. Who agreed to that?—A. The Indians; quite a number of them; there must have been a couple of hundred of them there. So that there was fifteen of them that we said, after we found out who they were, that were entitled, and that left twenty-one in dispute. Out of that twenty-one I think there were nine or ten, I can not tell without looking at my papers, that could not establish any relationship to the tribe, and we rejected them. But the balance of them (in some cases they were brothers or sisters to parties who had passed the council), we sent their names in.

Q. Notwithstanding the Indians objected you allowed out of the fifteen— A. Out of the twenty-one we allowed a dozen or so.

Q. On such evidence as seemed to you sufficient?—A. Here are the instructions:

In passing upon these claims you should require the statement of the applicant, under oath, supported by the evidence of at least two witnesses, that he is a member of the particular band of Chippewa Indians upon whose reservation he desires an allotment, or that his father or mother was a recognized member of such band.

They established that fact, those Indians did; they brought witnesses to testify. That is where Mr. Coffey makes the charge that he wanted to introduce testimony and was not allowed to. That is true. The testimony he wanted to introduce was that he was going to get two or three people to swear that such and such an Indian had not received his annuity at Fond du Lac twenty-five or fifty years ago.

Q. Whatever evidence he wanted to introduce you declined to receive it, having before you such evidence as the instructions required?—A. Yes, sir; we could have got one hundred Indians to have sworn that their parents were there at the payment and were recognized members of that band.

Q. But you based your report not on what testimony you could have obtained, but on the testimony you did have, that is, under the instructions?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now you may state in reference to the allotments since the passage of the severalty act in February, 1887, which have been made under the treaty, notwithstanding the passage of the severalty act?—A. There was a list (there are nearly two hundred) from Court Oreille that was made the year before, and the Indians requested me to hold that list for a year to see if these mixed bloods who had passed the council would go on the reservation and settle down and become citizens there. Those selections were made in 1886. I held that list as they asked me to and sent it on in 1887. Then there were other selections made along in the winter and spring of 1887 that I sent in which were made under the treaty; they were made really before this became a law.

Q. You may look at the testimony and turn to the correspondence on pages 18 and 19. Do you see General Upshaw's letter to the Secretary of the Interior of November 26, 1887, on page 19?—A. Yes, sir; I see it.

Q. He speaks of two schedules of allotments, one on the Fond du Lac and the other on the Flambeau Reservation, and another on Red Cliff?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. As having been made under the treaty but which he recommends to be approved notwithstanding the passage of the severalty act of February 8, 1887. Were either of those allotments the one to which you have just referred as being one you had held over?—A. No, sir; it was neither of them.

Q. Has the one that you speak of as having been held over been sent on?—A. Yes; it was sent on in 1887.

Q. And approved?—A. I have received no official notice of the approval.

Q. You have not been informed of its approval?—A. No, sir.

Q. State what you know about the allotments mentioned in the Acting Commissioner's letter of November 26, 1887, as printed on page 19 of the record.—A. Why, they were made under the treaty and forwarded to Washington the same as all other selections were made—forwarded to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

Q. Were they forwarded after Agent Wall received his instructions?—A. I think not; no, sir; they were not; they were forwarded, one list on October 8, 1886, that is my recollection, and June 10, 1887, and June 13, 1887, and one on June 14, 1887. I think you will find those other dates on those schedules—my dates.

Q. I will ask you when the schedule of October 8, 1886, was forwarded by you to the Indian Office?—A. October 8, 1886, that is my date.

Q. And where the letter states they were certified by you that is the date when you forwarded them?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is that the way you understand it?—A. Yes, sir; on October 8, 1886, June 10, 1887, and June 13 and 14.

Q. None of those were approved until after November 26, 1887?—A. No, sir.

Q. Do you know what the cause of delay in approving them was?—A. It was the rush of work in the Indian office, so I was informed when I was down here last summer; that they were way behind in the work and had not sufficient help.

Q. Now you may revert, if you please, to the condition of things when you went into the office. What did you then find in writing to guide you in reference to timber contracts?—A. I do not know; it is hard to answer that question.

Q. Answer it as well as you can?—A. There was not a great deal to show me, and I wrote for instructions.

Q. Was there anything to show you what the system of letting timber contracts there had been?—A. There was a blank or a printed form there of instructions to agents; I had some of them in my office.

Q. Signed by whom?—A. Signed by Mr. Price, the commissioner.

Q. You are quite sure of that, are you?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you one of those with you?—A. No, sir; I have not. I think I can get a copy at the Indian Office.

Q. Were there any copies of circulars which had been issued by Agent Durfee like that on page 11 of the testimony?—A. Those are the ones I have reference to.

Q. Do you mean that is what you had reference to when you said—?—A. I was mistaken there; there were only a few in my office.

Q. But that is what you found in your office?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you find anything else in your office?—A. I did not look through his correspondence.

Q. I am not asking you what you failed to find, but state what you did find, as well as you can recollect, when you went to that office in 1885, that was in print or writing, to guide you in the timber-contract matters?—A. I found some of those circulars.

Q. Then when you stated a moment ago that you found instructions signed by Commissioner Price you think you were mistaken, do you?—A. Yes, sir; I do, because this is the one I had reference to.

Q. And you do not remember finding any instructions from Commissioner Price?—A. No, sir.

Q. Did you find printed forms of contracts?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Anything else that you remember?—A. Some blank bonds.

Q. Anything else?—A. No; not that I can remember.

Q. Then, so far as you are now able to state to the committee, all that you had to guide you, besides any general knowledge you had of what had been going on there from your residence in Ashland, and your working for the Superior Lumber Company and the bank, was the Durfee circular and printed blank contracts and bonds?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You have stated that you asked for instructions shortly after?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you ask for them by letter?—A. Yes, sir; by letter.

Q. You may produce that letter if you have it, or a copy of it.—A. On September 7, 1885, there is one letter on that subject. I think you have that letter already in the record. It is a letter of mine.

The CHAIRMAN. You may read it; that has not been printed, I think. The witness read as follows from his letter book:

LA POINTE, ASHLAND, WIS., September 7, 1885.

SIR: I have the honor to inclose herewith a copy of a letter received by me from William G. Walker, Government farmer, Bad River Reservation, regarding the lumbering operations on the reservation.

After the inclosed letter was received by me I went to the Bad River Reservation and had a council with the chiefs and head-men, and they expressed to me the same views which are contained in the inclosed letter.

They assign as a reason for desiring the number of camps limited to three, that there are not enough of young men, and those able to work in clearing the lands and taking care of the timber, to supply more than that number of camps, and if more are allowed their reservation will be infested with Indians and half-breeds from Minnesota and Canada who are unreliable and drinking men, and who cannot get work in the neighborhood where they are on account of their habits and bad character.

It is true that much trouble has come from that class of Indians and half-breeds who have been employed and who would stay about and create trouble by trying to have their wages raised, and if their wishes were not complied with would try to induce all other men to quit, and in many instances almost break up the camp, to the great loss of the allottees.

But there may be other allottees who will want to commence their clearings and who can not get it done from one of these camps, and they may be able to get good men to do the work, and I do not think that there should be an absolute rule made in the matter. I am not prepared, either, to recommend that they be allowed, wholly at their discretion, to employ white teamsters. It is true that very few of the Bad

River Indians are skilled in driving a team, and it will be necessary to hire some white teamsters; but as many Indians as are apt and can be trained to be teamsters, ought to be so trained, and I suggest that this matter be left to my discretion.

In the matter of cooks it will be necessary to employ a white man for head cook. This is a very important man in a logging camp, and he must be a good and experienced man, but his assistant can be an Indian boy, and I will visit these camps at the proper time and see that as many of those Indians are put into those places as can be usefully so employed.

I think that $6 per thousand feet for No. 1 logs is a fair price, and I will endeavor to get as good a price as possible for the lower grade of logs. I understand personally these matters, and will be able from my experience to tell what is the best if these matters are left to my discretion.

Very respectfully,

J. T. GREGORY,
United States Indian Agent.

HON. J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

The WITNESS. There was an inclosure with that from the Indians. They held a council and wanted the camps limited to three, and they wanted a certain number of white men. There was a copy sent with the letter, and I think it is in the Indian Office.

Q. Have you a copy of the letter of Mr. Walker, the Government farmer?—A. That is the one I am speaking of; I inclosed a copy of that letter to the Commissioner.

Q. Then in reply to that letter you received the letter from the Acting Commissioner of October 29, 1885?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And that letter is supposed to have been your guide since that time?—A. Yes, sir. I think there is another letter here also prior to the last one. (After examining the letter book.) No; that is the only one.

Q. You found in the office, as you have stated, these blank forms of contracts?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. So the blank form which is in the record on page 6 is the correct form of the blanks which you found in your office?—A. I think there is an addition. The end of this, the latter part, does not read the same.

Q. You think the words "shall not be assigned or sublet under penalty of annulment thereof" is a later addition?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. But with that exception the form is the same as that which you found in the office, having been prepared, as you understand it, by Agent Durfee?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. This form of contract contemplates that in each case the Indian shall contract with the lumberman, the purchaser of the lumber, to cut timber upon three-quarters of his land and deliver it on the bank of the stream or at the appointed place of delivery; that is the contract?—A. Yes, sir; that is the contract.

Q. Is that the form of contract which has always been used from that time down to this?—A. Yes, sir; it is.

Q. Has the Indian in all cases himself cut and delivered the timber?—A. No, sir; it would be impossible for him to do it.

Q. And that stipulation in the contract has not been literally complied with; I mean that the Indian who was the contractor should cut and deliver the timber?

The WITNESS. I do not understand your question.

The CHAIRMAN. Whether the Indian has done it himself in all cases?

A. No, sir; he has not.

Q. You stated, in the course of your examination, to Senator Blackburn that you found that under the system, as it had existed before you became agent, the Indian was not getting as much net result for his timber as he ought to have received?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And therefore you required the contractors, the lumbermen, to make a different arrangement?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. State more definitely what that was.—A. Well, when the contractors bought from the Indians, say they gave them $5 a thousand to deliver on the bank, they would sublet it to some Indian or mixed blood. The Indians would get them to log it for them and put it on the bank and agree to pay them $3 a thousand for getting it on the bank. I told those contractors if it cost an Indian any more than $3 to get it on the bank they would have to pay it themselves, and that the allottees should get what was due them, the original amount.

Q. How did you determine, in cases of that kind, what the allottee ought to receive net?—A. It depends on the quality of the pine and the distance required to haul it to get it to the river.

Q. So that the amount to be deducted from the price named in the contract would depend on the expense of handling the timber?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And they had been in the habit of making that too large and giving the Indian too small a net result?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you were determined to put a stop to that, as you supposed, for the benefit of the Indians?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. In what shape would the contractors put that agreement?

The WITNESS. How do you mean?

The CHAIRMAN. Would they make an oral or a written agreement?—A. They made a written agreement. Those parties who logged it would make a sub-contract and file it with the farmer, agreeing to put the logs in for so much a thousand.

Q. And then that would secure to the allottee so much net?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. That is to say, if the contract price was $6, and this supplemental contract was for $3, the Indian would get $3, and if it was for $3.50 the Indian would get $2.50?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You say you think that system was required for the protection of the allottee?—Yes, sir.

Q. And you favored it?—A. I did.

Q. Do you mean that you originated it?—A. Well, they had not been doing that before.

Q. As it had been going on before, you conceived that it had injured the Indians?—A. I considered that it cost too much to put it in.

Q. Did you frame any written orders to this effect?—A. I visited the reservations and told the farmers and contractors about it. I told the farmers and gave them to understand that they would have to do it.

Q. So that this method of doing business you wanted to make universal as nearly as you could on all the reservations?—A. Yes, sir. Of course there are some cases—I can cite a case where an Indian had an "eighty" of pine, and he put it in himself. He had an outfit, but after he got his camp started he was down town drunk most of the time, and when he came to settle up in the spring his pine was gone and he had nothing to show for it, but was in debt.

Q. In that case who put the lumber in for him?—A. He had a foreman there, but the foreman neglected his duties.

Q. That might be a white foreman or might be the agent of the man who purchased the lumber?—A. No, sir; I do not think so. The man who has an outfit of his own can employ nearly anybody he chooses.

Q. But his own foreman cheated him?—A. He probably had a man in there who did not understand his business.

Q. And if the Indian did not work the foreman would make a bad job of it?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You gave the farmers to understand that you wanted the Indians protected in that way, did you not?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know when it was that you first deemed it necessary to do this?—A. I did that in the fall of 1885, I think.

Q. Was that system adopted pretty generally after that time?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you make a written report that you had made this requirement of the contractors?—A. No, sir; I did not.

Q. You never have reported that?—A. I do not think so.

Q. Did you not discover that Agent Durfee had also found it necessary to make requirements of this kind?—A. I never discovered that.

Q. He never thought it was necessary to do that?—A. I do not know. I never discovered that he had issued any such order; in fact, I do not think he did, for the reason that there were Indians on the Court Oreille Reservation who did not get 10 cents a thousand stumpage through bad management—not through Agent Durfee.

Q. The money would be used up?—A. Yes, sir; to bank the logs.

Q. Under the system you adopted, where a contract was made for $6 a thousand, who was to determine how much net should be guaranteed to the Indians?—A. The farmer went and looked them over to see how long a haul it was, what it would cost to bank it, and what would be a fair amount.

Q. And he would fix that amount and the contractor would guaranty that the Indian should get all named in the contract except that?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then, under this system of course the important thing to know was, not what the amount per thousand specified in the contract was, but how much was to be deducted from that amount for banking the logs?—A. That was the important thing.

Q. If the contract was for $7, and $4 was to be deducted from the $7 and the rest paid to the Indian, he would get $3; and if the contract was for $6 and only $3 was to be deducted, he would still get $3, and if $4 was to be deducted he would only get $2?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you mean to say that you think that system was a wise one for the allottees?—A. Yes, sir; I do.

Q. Do you feel justified in your own conscience in adopting that system, and giving those instructions to the farmers, and enforcing that system upon the contractors?—A. I do.

Q. You have stated in answer to questions by Senator Blackburn that the clause in the contracts that the logs should be cut from three quarters of each allotment had not been observed?—A. No, sir; I do not think it has been observed.

Q. To what extent has it been disregarded?—A. I do not know. It is impossible for me to go to all these allotments myself and look over them. I never had any complaints made that they had been cutting them.

Q. Who would be likely to complain?—A. The Indians, probably.

Q. The Indian would not be likely to complain unless he wanted the one-quarter left in one compact body, would he?—A. I do not know. In some cases I know that the Indians have requested that the loggers leave that quarter alone; I know that to be the fact in some cases.

Q. But as a general thing what has been the wish of the Indians?—A. They have not said anything about it.

Q. The Indians, under this system, have been anxious to get all the money they could, haven't they?—A. Yes, sir; most of them wanted to get all that pine cut in one winter, but some did not want over 15 or 20 acres cut.

Q. But, as a general thing, the more lumber was cut the more money they got and the better satisfied they were?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What do you say about the improvidence of the Indians? Is an Indian receiving a large sum of money for timber likely to take care of it?—A. Some will take care of it and some will not.

Q. Tell me whether there is any difference in the tribes; whether one tribe is more careful and prudent than another, or whether they are all about alike?—A. They are all about alike. You take old people and give them money and there are a lot of young and smart half-breeds that will get it away from them in twenty-four hours. If they can not get it away from them by playing poker, they will knock them down and get it; and others do not know the value of money, because they never have had any.

Q. To what extent did you feel that it was your duty to look after and take charge of the money after it was paid to the Indians?—A. In 1886 I took about $14,000, and in 1887 I took thirty thousand and some odd dollars of theirs and placed it in bank.

Q. What was your rule or system under which you took this money of the Indians; what Indians did you take it from and what measures for saving or taking care of the money did you adopt after you had taken it?—A. This was mostly taken from old men and women who were not able to take care of themselves.

Q. Who determined whether it should be given to the Indian or taken and kept for him?—A. The farmer; he knew them better than I did.

Q. Did he have authority from you to give or withhold the money as he saw fit?—A. No, sir; I was there when the settlement was made; on every reservation I make the settlement.

Q. When a settlement was made was it made on a given day?—A. Yes, sir; it takes sometimes a week to make a settlement.

Q. You go to the reservation and settling takes place?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. When you were there with the farmer on each reservation you determined then and there on the spot what Indians should have money and what ones should not?—A. I would ask the farmer who he thought was capable of taking care of it, and in many cases the Indians came to me and asked me to take care of it.

Q. What did you do with that money?—A. I placed it in the bank, in the national depository.

Q. In all cases?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. The nearest bank is at Hayward?—A. The nearest bank to the Court Oreille Reservation is the Sawyer County Bank; there is some money in that; that is a private bank. There was three or four thousand dollars placed there in 1886.

Q. You never held any of the money yourself or put it in your individual name in the bank yourself?—A. No, sir; hardly.

Q. You always took pains to get it out of your hands?—A. I will state just how I did that business if you would like to know. When I got that money I gave them my official receipt for it. I receipted for it officially, so that if I kept it my bondsman would be responsible. Then I took it to the bank. I got two bank books, an original and a duplicate. The original I sent to the Indian and the duplicate I sent to the farmer. This money was deposited to the individual credit of each Indian. An Indian would say that he wanted five or six or seven dollars a week, and I had the bank put down that the Indian should be allowed to draw so much a week on a check witnessed by the Government farmer. He could not check it out unless the farmer did this.

Q. So that in all cases where you withheld the money from the Indian, and did not think he was competent to do what he liked with it, you adopted measures to prevent his drawing it out too rapidly?—A. Yes, sir; and in cases where they wanted to make improvements, build a house or buy a team, I saw that they could get the money to do it.

Q. What proportion of the different Indians did you withhold money from in this way—I mean what proportion of the whole number? Supposing you had fifty Indians to settle with, what proportion would get their money in full?—A. There were more than that; I had two hundred to settle with.

Q. I mean, taking any given number, what was the proportion of the Indians you thought could take their own money and do what they liked with it, and what proportion did you think it was necessary to guard by requiring this deposit to be made?—A. At Court Oreille Reservation I think there are forty odd who have placed their money in my charge; there must have been two hundred altogether.

Q. Then in that case perhaps not quite one-quarter of them?—A. No, sir. I could not tell you just exactly the proportion, but somewhere in that neighborhood.

Q. There is a clause in the contract which says that—

This contract shall be valid and binding only after having the approval indorsed thereupon of the United States Indian agent in charge of the above-named reservation, and the honorable Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

Have logs been cut there on any of the contracts before their approval by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs?—A. I think probably some of them have been cut, and they are cutting on others.

Q. Has not that been the general rule?—A. Yes, sir; ever since they commenced logging there.

Q. Under Agent Durfee, as well as yourself?—A. Yes, sir; I can show you where a contract was transmitted after the pine had been cut and paid for; Agent Durfee so states in his letter.

Q. So that if that clause is to be construed as prohibiting the cutting of timber until after the contract is approved by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, it has been a dead letter?—A. Yes, sir; it has been.

Q. From the beginning?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. How is it with reference to the provision that the contract shall be approved by the Indian agent; has cutting ever taken place before the contract was made in writing and approved by the agent?—A. No, sir, I think not; in fact, I am pretty sure it has not. The farmer makes all those contracts, and when he gets a lot of them in his office he sends them to me. I do not know of any such cases; there may have been some, though.

Q. You have not given any authority to have the cutting go on until you approve the contracts?—A. No, sir.

Q. But being approved by you, you felt justified in withholding them until spring before forwarding them?—A. No, sir; not in withholding them; I was waiting until they could get bonds, and lots of times you have to send them back for correction. Unless you have a good man on the reservation you have to send them back four or five times.

Q. As a matter of fact, however, the contracts usually have not come forward until the spring of the year?—A. Last year my contracts were forwarded in February.

Q. Do you know of any reason why those contracts could not be forwarded one by one immediately when they are made?—A. I do not know of any reason.

Q. Do you know of any reason why contracts made in the summer should not be at once approved by the agent?—A. No, sir.

Q. What is the ordinary time taken by the mails in coming from Ashland to Wisconsin?—A. They come through in two days.

Q. And the farmers could all reach you by mail in one day—in twenty-four hours?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And in two days the contracts could reach Washington, and in two more days they could get back there again?—A. Yes, sir; but one trouble about not having these contracts made early in the season is, the instructions from the Commissioner of Indian Affairs relating to logging have never been issued in time.

Q. Do you refer to the general instructions?—A. I mean as to whether they will allow any cutting or not during the ensuing winter.

Q. Do you mean that you have required special instructions from the Indian Office each year in order to allow contracts to be made?—A. Yes, sir; I have received them every year and have them here.

Q. Will you produce them if you have them?—A. They are on record. One of the letters, of October 9, 1885, I have read, and there is a letter of August 24, 1886, which I gave the committee to-day, and one written in 1887.

Q. This letter of October 21, 1887, is not a specific authority to allow contracts to be carried out?—A. It is a continuance of the order of 1886.

Q. But without regard to that letter, the making of contracts went on during the summer?—A. They went on against my orders if they did. I got a letter from the Department last summer stating that no contracts should be made until further orders from the office (I think it was in 1887), and I so notified all the farmers.

Q. Please show me that letter?—A. I haven't got it here, but I can get a copy at the Indian Office.

Q. Show me what you understand to be the letter which was a revocation of that order from the Department?—A. I haven't it here.

Q. You have neither the orders not to cut nor the orders allowing contracts to be made?—A. Yes, sir; I have the orders allowing contracts for 1886. I wrote again for other orders and that letter of 1887 is the order; it says the same rule applies.

Q. With reference to controlling the proceeds; but it is not specific authority to go on and make contracts?—A. I took that to be authority enough to go on and make contracts. It assumes authority enough.

Q. Had you approved any contracts before that date in 1887?—A. No, sir; I had not.

Q. You had been aware that various contractors had gone on and made advances?—A. Yes, and told them they were taking their own chances if they were so doing.

Q. But you did not feel authorized to approve the contracts until that date?—A. No, sir; I did not.

Q. Now, you sent no contracts to Washington until February 25 this year?—A. No, sir.

Q. Will you state more clearly to the committee why it was necessary to detain those contracts so long?—A. They did not get them to me, or get them completed to send in to me, until along about the 1st of February, and they had all to be compared and checked over. I think some of them may have come in in January, but I will not be positive. But they have to be checked over and compared, and sometimes, in many cases, sent back for correction.

Q. Have you sent in any contracts on the Flambeau Reservation for the winter of 1886-'87?—A. No, sir; I have not.

Q. Was any logging done on that reservation?—A. Yes, sir; there is a report on file in the Indian Office showing what was done.

Q. That was a year ago?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Why were not the Flambeau contracts for 1886-'87 sent in?—A. Because I had no form of contracts for them. There is a letter there which I can find in which I explained the matter. (After examining his letter book). Here is the letter; it is dated March 31, 1887.

The witness read the letter referred to, as follows:

LA POINTE, ASHLAND, WIS., March 31, 1887.

SIR: I have the honor to reply to Department letter L. 6869, 1887, as follows:

I would state in beginning that much delay in getting the logging operations on the Lac du Flambeau Reservation into proper shape has been caused by the isolated position of the reservation and the absence of any employé who was competent to take charge of such work. I will not attempt to give a general report of the logging operations at this time, as I expect to include it in my report at the end of the present season, but will confine myself to answering specifically the questions asked by you.

(1) Has the cutting and sale of timber on the Lac du Flambeau Reserve been limited exclusively to those Indians whose selections are now pending before the Department?

In answer to this question I would say yes. No pine has been cut on land not sent in for patent.

My logging report will contain a list of the lands cut on, together with the names of the respective allottees, and the contractors to whom sold.

(2) Do the several contracts above referred to call for a greater quantity of timber than was contemplated by office telegram of November 4, 1886, viz., "sufficient for actual necessities;" and if so why in the present incomplete condition of the allotments was this permitted?

My instructions to the contractors were not to cut more than 20 to 40 acres on each allotment, according to the thickness of the timber, and I think this amount comes within the limit of "sufficient for actual necessities," for this reason: In making preparations to log any certain tract of land a large amount of money must be expended putting in a main road; cutting roads through the tract and building skidways from which to load the logs on to the teams before any timber can be banked.

Now, it would cost more than the logs are worth to go on to an eighty allotment, and go to all this expense simply to clear 3 or 4 acres of land.

In my judgment the amount of land above named is the lowest that can be logged with profit in each allotment, and I therefore do not think I was exceeding the quantity of timber contemplated by office telegram of November 4, 1886, when I allowed the amount above stated to be cut.

(3) Why were not bonds given by the contractors? Why were the contracts not forwarded to this office in the usual course?

I would answer these two questions by saying that I did not consider the usual forms would cover the ground in these cases.

The Indians had no patents to the land, and in the forms now used on the other reservations the contract states "that the said party of the first part, having received from the United States a patent," etc., and the bonds also state "an Indian holding patent for the," etc. I thought I would be warranted in doing as has been done formerly on the Fond du Lac Reservation, where the Indians cut their pine without contracts and sold it in the spring, the agent in charge seeing that they had received just compensation therefor. The logs were banked on the reservation and could not be removed by the contractors until they had settled with the allottees in a satisfactory manner. That is to say, I did not consider the rights of the Indians were at any disadvantage under the method I was pursuing, as the contractors put in the logs at their own risk and trusted to the good faith of the allottees to deliver the logs in the spring.

If, however, the Department thinks the usual contracts and bonds will cover the ground, or that the rights of the Indians are not sufficiently protected under the method I am pursuing I would respectfully request that you instruct me, and I will comply at once.

The contractors in question did submit contracts to me, but they were void, by reason of numerous defects, and I did not take steps to have them properly completed for the reasons stated above.

(5) Why were not the several contractors required to take out special licenses to trade, as in the case of Calligan Brothers and others on the Lac Court Oreilles Reservation?

Before my departure on leave of absence, January 31, 1887, I instructed Mr. A. M. Sherman to make application for license to trade with the Flambeau Indians. Upon my return I found he had neglected to do so.

On or about March 20, 1887, he completed his bond and forwarded it to this office, but it had to be returned for correction. Upon its return I will forward it at once, as also bonds of Charles H. Henry and Daniel Donnet, together with their applications for special licenses to trade with the Lac du Flambeau band of Chippewas.

In regard to Charles H. Henry's agreement with the Indians to guaranty them $2 per stumpage, I would state that it is verbal. Inspector Gardner is mistaken when he reports A. M. Sherman as occupying the old mission house as a trading store. He occupies the old school-house and has put it in good repair. I have notified him to pay rent at the rate of $100 per annum, and at the end of the quarter will deposit $25 in the United States Treasury to credit of the Lac du Flambeau band of Chippewas. In conclusion, I would state that I have acted in good faith throughout and tried to manage for the best interests of the Indians, and I am certain that at the end of the logging season the net profits per accruing to them will be as great, if not greater, than to those living on the reservations when the pine has been sold by contract.

Very respectfully,

J. T. GREGORY,
U. S. Indian Agent.

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. And that letter is a full statement by you of the reason why you had forwarded no contracts on the Flambeau Reservation for 1886-'87?—
A. Yes, sir.

Q. You say that you allowed white men to come in on the reservations to aid the contractors?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you say that had been done under Agent Durfee?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you have stated, in answer to Senator Blackburn, that you conducted the business as Agent Durfee had conducted it?—A. Yes, sir; I think I stated there were more white men employed under my administration, did I not?

Q. I want to ask you in the first place about your means of knowledge of what took place under Agent Durfee; do you state that from hearsay or from your own knowledge?—A. I state it from letters which are in his letter-books, written to the Commissioner, and from what people have told me about it.

Q. You mean from general report?—A. Yes, sir; from the general report of parties who had been logging under him.

Q. But you had not been on the reservations yourself?—A. No, sir.

Q. You knew what any resident of Ashland giving attention to the subject might have known?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did you first begin to allow white men on the reservations for logging more than was specified in Agent Durfee's circular?—A. I will state the first case of that kind; Mr. Denomie probably remembers it. He had a camp about 12 or 14 miles from there on the reservation, the farthest up the river. The Indians would not stay there and work for him. They would come down on Saturday afternoon and stay until Tuesday or Wednesday. Mr. Denomie came and told me that he could not get the Indians to work for him and that it would ruin him unless he could get help, and he said he would have to have some white men who would go there and stick, or he would be ruined. I told him to go back there and if the Indians did not work for him to put white men in, and he did so, and the consequence was that he made some money that winter; that was the winter of 1885-'86.

Q. Do you know what white men he put in there?—A. I do not know; I never asked him. I told him to go on and complete the job.

Q. How many he took in you do not know?—A. No, sir.

Q. Did you give that same permission to other contractors in 1885-'86?—A. They did not ask for it; their camps were nearer town, and it would not take them so long to go up and down.

Q. In 1885-'86 there were not so many white men there?—A. No, sir; unless they could steal in on me, and I am satisfied that all the contractors on the Court Oreille Reservation ran in white men whenever they could do so. That was the first permission I gave, which was to Mr. Denomie.

Q. That was the only permission you gave in 1885-'86?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Take the season of 1886-'87; what did you do about allowing white labor to go in upon the reservations?—A. I told the Indians if they could not go to work and work for $35 a month or along there in the camps that they would have to put white men in; that it cost so much more to log it, paying them such big wages, that the allottees did not get what was right. No man could take a logging job, on account of those high wages.

Q. And the Indians' money would all be used up in the expense of logging?—A. Yes, sir. And as the Indians did not stay at work I told them to put in white men.

Q. Did you give all the contractors that privilege?—A. I did.

Q. Did you tell the contractors that as well as the Indians?—A. I told the farmer to tell them that after that if those Indians did not work that they could put white men in their places.

Q. Do you remember what time in 1886-'87 you gave that permission?—A. That was early in the fall.

Q. And so far as you know every contractor had the same opportunity?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You did not give the privilege to one contractor and not to others?—A. No, sir; I did not.

Q. You intended that the farmer should give that privilege to all of them?—A. Yes; and I think he did.

Q. That was in the fall of 1886-'87?—A. It was.

Q. Do you remember what limitations you put upon the employment of white men; what was to guide the farmer, the Indians, or the contractors as to the extent of that practice?—A. No; I do not remember exactly what they were.

Q. You have stated that it was to obviate the difficulty caused by the Indians quitting and going away?—A. Yes, sir; that was all it was for.

Q. And it was to enable the lumber to be gotten out that was contracted for during the winter?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You state that no Indian has ever been refused work that you know of?—A. No Indian that I know of.

Q. At any time since you have been agent?—A. No, sir; at any time.

Q. But they have been given the preference?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. But you think subject to the right of every able-bodied Indian to be employed, you were justified in letting white crews come in?—A. I do.

Q. Now you may state what instructions, if any, you gave about white laborers for this season, 1887-'88.—A. The instructions I gave for the season of 1886-'87 held for the season of 1887-'88.

Q. Did you not intend to put any limit at all on the number of white men, provided all the Indians who wanted to get work could get it?—A. All the Indians who wanted to could get work.

Q. But if they all got work, did you not intend to limit the number of white men who might come in there?—A. No, sir; I tried to limit the number of contracts, but the Indians raised a howl and claimed I was showing favoritism.

Q. But if it was necessary to execute fully the contracts which you allowed to be made, to let in white men, and if every Indian who wanted work could get it, you put no limit on the number of white men that were necessary to execute the contract?—A. No, sir.

Q. Is that your statement?—A. Yes, sir; they all wanted to contract.

Q. So that, as I understand you, you first established this system of having a net amount guaranteed to the Indians because they were not getting what they ought to have gotten for their timber?—A. No, sir; they were not.

Q. And you let the white men in because if you had not the timber would not have been gotten out and the Indians would have complained that they did not get the money they were entitled to?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. That I understand is your idea?—A. Yes, sir; and because with white men it could be logged much more cheaply and expeditiously than with the Indians.

Q. Now you may state right here what rule you adopted for limiting the amount of lumbering which might be done in any winter on the reservations. You have stated that after the contracts were made you let them have white men enough to get the lumber off. Now you may state what limits you put on the contracts and what your instructions were to the farmer for the three years, and what your own action or policy was?—A. In 1885, I think it was, I told the farmer on the reservation that I would not approve any contracts after a certain date.

Q. Do you remember that date?—A. It was in the fall some time; I think it was in December.

Q. December, 1885?—A. I think so; I will not be positive; I can not remember the dates. But some of my friends who were logging on the reservations said that was for the purpose of shutting them out.

Q. But you adhered to it?—A. No, sir; I did not. I talked to the farmer about it. Those parties were warm friends of mine and they raised such a howl about it that I told them I did not think I would enforce it, because I knew they were capable of testifying to most anything in regard to it.

Q. And so you let the contracts go on?—A. Yes; and let them make a few more of them.

Q. That was in 1885-'86?—A. Yes, sir; I do not remember exactly the date of it.

Q. Look at pages 104, 105, and 106. The first contract on page 104 begins on September 15, 1885, with Kennedy. There is September and October and up to November, and last, on page 107, there are some December and January contracts?—A. January 23, 1886, is one.

Q. What was the date you fixed for stopping the contracts?—A. I intended stopping them along early in the winter. I see that here is one of Calligan Bros., of March 2, 1885; that is on page 107. I do not suppose they cut any under that, because it had not been approved.

Q. Now state how you finally limited contracting for 1885-'86; how you stopped it, and at what point?—A. Well, I did not stop it.

Q. Then you let all the contracts be made which the Indians wanted to make and the contractors wanted to make in 1885-'86?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And then having allowed the contracts to be made, you felt obliged in justice to the contractors and the Indians both, to let the lumber be taken off, and to facilitate taking it off even if it took white labor to do it?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now take the season of 1886-'87; the most of those contracts were made in the fall, were they not?—A. Yes, sir; up until you get to page 113. Here is one with John B. Denomie made in January, and he has some others which were made in January, and Calligan Bros. have one made April 1, 1887.

Q. Could not those contracts have been sent into the Indian Office earlier than they were?—A. They were sent to me, and as soon as I could check them over they were forwarded.

Q. You forwarded them as expeditiously as you could, you think?—A. Yes, sir; I did.

Q. Now take the contracts for 1887-'88. Those have been going on all winter, have they not, clear down into February?—A. The most of them are in October, 1887, and some in February.

Q. The first one on the list was in November, 1887?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And then there are October and November contracts, many of them, and those were only received at the Indian Office March 1, 1888?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, if you will look at the number of feet specified in these various contracts you will see that it varies from 50,000 up to 700,000. What was that, a mere estimate of the amount there would be upon the contract?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was it an estimate of the total number of feet of timber embraced in the contract?—A. No, sir; I do not think it was.

Q. What was the guide to determine what quantity should be put in as the approximate quantity on each contract?—A. I do not know exactly just how they did figure on that.

Q. What is your own idea about it?—A. I judge there could not have been but very little timber on that where it is put at 50,000 feet.

Q. You think the amount has reference to the amount of timber there was?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Take pages 112 and 113, contracts with Bergevin of October 11, 1886, with Mary Bray, with Ke-gani-ganis, and Ambrose Corbine. There are 700,000 also 800,000 and 700,000; those are very large amounts?—A. There was more than that on those claims.

Q. You understand those were very heavily-timbered tracts?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Those were what would be called "fat" contracts?—A. Well, they were not bad.

Q. Was it fine timber?—A. Yes, sir; I think so; I did not see it; it was away down on the reservation.

Q. Do you know how much stumpage those three allottees received themselves?—A. I think it was $3 a thousand; it may have been $5.25.

Q. Were there not 1,000,000 feet taken off of each contract probably?—A. I think there was more than 1,000,000 feet.

Q. Were there not 2,000,000 feet on the Mary Bray contract?—A. I could not say.

Q. If she received $3 and there were 2,000,000 feet she got $6,000 ?—
A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did she get about that amount ?—A. I do not remember. At the time I made that settlement I settled with about two hundred others. I know when they settled that Bergevin came up there to pay and he had been running no store and it was all cash that they got ; it was a large amount.

Q. Do you remember whether Corbine and Ke-gani-ganis got $5,000 or $6,000 each ?—A. No, sir ; not that much. I think Bergevin had about $10,000 when he came up there to settle.

Q. And were those the only contracts he had to settle ?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. He paid in money. Did you have to take care of any of that money for the Indians ?—A. No, sir.

Q. Were they all competent to take care of it ?—A. Yes, sir ; they are all mixed bloods, and I guess they have all got land off the reservation.

Q. Did you not fix last summer and fall any limit to the extent to which the Indians might sell timber for the winter ?—A. They went on and sold without consulting with me.

Q. And you approved the contracts ? Did the contractors go in and begin to cut the timber before you approved the contracts ?—A. Yes sir ; they did.

Q. This winter ?—A. This last winter and the winter before they did.

Q. Before you approved the contracts they went on ?—A. Except in case where there was a dispute as to ownership.

Q. But where the title was clear they went on before the contracts were approved by you ?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, did you have no question in your own mind as to how long this timber ought to last ; whether it ought to be cut off in three years or in ten years ; what was your policy in that regard ?—A. I would like to see it last longer than that.

Q. What was your policy, if you had any ?—A. I always instructed the farmer to keep the limit down and let them cut as little as possible on each lot.

Q. But taking the whole reservation did you have an eye to prevent the timber being swept off in a few years ?—A. Yes ; I instructed the farmers on the different reservations to limit the cutting as much as they could. But you could not limit the sale ; the Indians had patents and were going to sell anyway.

Q. They were anxious to sell as fast as they got their allotments ?—A. Yes, sir ; and so anxious that they sold several times to three or four parties before they cut anything at all. If they could get an advance they would get it and go to one store and then get another advance at another.

Q. And then by the time the contracts reached you the business was being conducted, was it ?—A. Yes, sir ; it was.

Q. If you had refused to approve a contract which had gone into execution, you would have angered the Indian, the contractor, and everybody else ?—A. Yes sir ; I would have been showing favoritism then.

Q. What amount of timber contracts, in millions of feet, do you think have been made this winter ?—A. I have not figured it up.

Q. You do not know ?—A. No, I do not.

Q. Have all the contracts come in or not ?—A. All but Andrew Gowan's contracts. As I have said, they have gotten up a form of contract of their own, and I sent them back.

Q. Have all the others come on?—A. I think so.

Q. Have you seen those which have come within a day or two, a list of which Major Hindmarsh produced to-day?—A. No, sir; I have not seen them.

Q. These are the ones [exhibiting the list to the witness]?—A. Yes, sir; I have.

Q. Have you looked at those?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Tell me whether there are any more contracts for this winter outstanding.—A. No, sir; I do not think there are; none that I know of.

Q. To the best of your knowledge and belief, everything is now in?—A. Yes, sir; except the Gowan contracts.

Q. How long do you think the timber, at the rate at which cutting is going on, will last on these reservations—I mean pine timber—assuming the cutting to be the same as last year and this year?—A. I do not know. I never have seen an estimate of the timber which was originally on those reservations. Some people say there are 150,000,000 on the reservation, some say 250,000,000, and some only 75,000,000.

Q. To what extent have you been over the reservation?—A. Only where the roads run through.

Q. You never have tramped through to examine?—A. No, sir.

Q. You get your impression from talking with farmers and contractors?—A. Yes, sir; by talking with the lumbermen.

Q. Can you give an opinion, supposing the lumber cutting to go on as it has this winter, how long it will be before the pine timber will be gone on the four principal reservations?—A. I do not know. If I had any estimate of the timber there I could get at it.

Q. I am not asking you to tell me why you can not tell, because you have explained that. But I ask you to state whether you have any opinion or judgment as to how long pine timber will last at the present rate of cutting.—A. Knowing as little as I do about the body of timber on there I do not think my opinion would amount to anything; I do not think I could give a close guess.

Q. You are not willing to give an estimate?—A. No, sir; I am not.

Q. I will ask you again if you had any policy in approving contracts with reference to the preservation of pine timber on the reservation?—A. I have stated that I instructed the farmers to restrict the cutting as much as possible; to have as little taken off of each selection as they could.

Q. But as a matter of fact you have approved of the contracts that the contractors have been able to make?—A. Yes, sir; all that the Indians have been able to make.

Q. Or that the contractors have been able to make with the Indians?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Will you look at Agent Durfee's circular as printed on page 11 of the testimony and tell me how many of the instructions which he says he has received from the Commissioner of Indian Affairs have been observed under your administration of that agency? Read the first clause, if you please. He says:

My instructions from the honorable Commissioner of Indian Affairs in relation to the sale of pine upon the Indian reservations are to the following effect: Indians who have received patents for their lands will be permitted to cut and sell the timber from three-fourths of the tract patented, leaving one-fourth of the timber in a compact body, intact, for future use for fuel, fencing, etc.

Has that been observed under your administration?—A. I stated before that I did not think that had. I do not know how it is, not having visited the reservation.

Q. So far as you know it has not been observed?—A. No, sir.

Q. He also says in this circular, "They will not be permitted to sell stumpage, neither will white crews be allowed to do the work, but the Indians themselves must cut and sell delivered on the bank of a driving stream, lake, or at mill, as may be desired." Has that been observed?—A. No, sir; that never was observed when Mr. Durfee himself was agent.

Q. Has that been observed under your administration?—A. No, sir.

Q. He also says, "the logs to be paid for from time to time, as may be agreed between the contracting parties, final payment to be made before they are removed from the landings." Has that been observed?—A. Yes, sir; that has been observed.

Q. "White men logging upon the reservation will be considered and treated as trespassers." What do you say as to that?—A. I say that never has been observed.

Q. Have you ever put any white men off the reservation?—A. I did in 1885-'86; I ordered them off.

Q. Men who came on for the purpose of lumbering?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. To what extent did you have to enforce that?—A. At one time I think there must have been fifty that I drove off the Court Oreille Reservation.

Q. But since that time you have not put anybody off?—A. No, sir, because the Indians raised their wages the next day after those men were put off.

Q. So that white men have been necessary to carry out the contracts? "The scale will be by a party approved by the United States Indian agent in charge of the reservation, the scaler to be paid equally by the first and second parties to the contract." What have you to say to that?—A. At Court Oreille I had the same scaler that was under Agent Durfee; he was up there until last season.

Q. The scaling has been fairly done?—A. Yes, sir. Mr. Stevens was there under Agent Durfee and remained there until last fall, when he left to go West, and I had to get another man.

Q. You think there has been no cheating of the Indians in regard to scaling?—A. Only in the case I have stated this morning, where the timber was taken from the squaw of an Indian, but otherwise I think it has been honestly done. The large lumber companies who buy the pine take that pine by the scale that my scalers get. The contractors buy from the Indian by their scale, and these companies down the river buy the logs from the contractors by that same scale; so that it is to the traders' interest to get as big a scale as they can, and if they do the Indian does.

Q. And of course they get a nearly exact measurement?—A. Yes, sir; these big companies have their inspector there all the time checking up the scale.

Q. "All contracts, in order to be valid and binding, must first be approved by the United States Indian agent and the honorable Commissioner of Indian Affairs." Has that been observed under your administration?—A. They have been approved.

Q. Before the contract has gone into operation?—A. I think so. I think they have been approved before they were all cut, but not before they commenced work on them.

Q. Now you have specified certain departures from the conditions mentioned in Agent Durfee's circular, will you point out if you can any authority from the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, written authority, to make those departures?—A. The only authority that I have from the Commissioner is in these letters.

Q. If the authority to make these departures is not to be derived from those letters then —?—A. If it is not I am responsible for it.

Q. Have you ever had any oral authority different from that contained in the circular from Commissioner Atkins, Assistant Commissioner Upshaw, or any one else?—A. No, sir; I have not.

Q. Then if those departures have not been authorized by the Indian Office, you alone are responsible for them—you and Agent Durfee?—A. Yes, sir; of course Mr. Durfee is not responsible for my action, nor am I for his.

Q. But each is responsible for his own departures?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Has the Commissioner of Indian Affairs had any knowledge of the way the business has been done down to and including the allowing of white men upon the reservation?—A. I think Mr. Calligan informed him of it, but he had nothing officially from me.

The select committee then adjourned until Saturday, March 24, 1888, at 11 o'clock a. m.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Saturday, March 24, 1888.

The select committee met, pursuant to adjournment, at 11 a. m.

Present, Messrs. Chandler (chairman), Platt, Cullom, and Blackburn.
The CHAIRMAN. I will recall Mr. Gregory.

TESTIMONY OF JAMES T. GREGORY.—Recalled.

JAMES T. GREGORY was recalled and further examined.

By the CHAIRMAN :

Q. Will you state again the banks in which you have placed the various deposits of moneys belonging to the Indians?—A. I think I omitted one of them yesterday. I put $1,490 and some odd in Seymour's bank at Chippewa Falls at the request of the woman that the money belonged to. The other banks are the Sawyer County Bank, at Hayward, and the Ashland National Bank.

Q. How much did you ever deposit in the Ashland National Bank?—A. I took up there about $30,600, and some odd dollars.

Q. That was the bank in which you had been employed?—A. Yes, sir; and I am a stockholder in that bank now. I reported that fact to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs before I made the deposit.

Q. State the other principal stockholders in the Ashland National Bank?—A. I think the largest individual stockholder is Mr. Fuller, who lives at Belvidere, Ill., the president of the bank. Thomas Barden, of Ashland, is another, and Dr. Ellis, of Ashland, is a large stockholder. Mrs. Vaughn, of Ashland, is a large stockholder. William Knight has some stock. At the time I quit the bank Colonel Knight owned $1,000 worth of stock.

Q. Is that the same man?—A. No, sir; they are brothers.

Q. Has Mr. Rust any stock?—A. No, sir; none at all.

Q. Does the bank pay any interest to the Indians on their deposits?—A. They pay no interest to anybody on deposits.

Q. Is there a writing which specifies how much the Indians may draw lodged with the bank?—A. Yes, sir; there is.

Q. The limitation which you put on their right to draw is filed with the bank?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who were the farmers on the reservations when you became agent?—A. Mr. Walker was on Bad River.

Q. State as you name each whether he still remains there or whether there has been a change.—A. Mr. Walker was farmer when I took charge and had been for ten or twelve years previous to that, and is yet on the Bad River Reservation. There was no farmer on the Flambeau Reservation.

Q. When did you first appoint one there?—A. In the fall of 1885, I think. Philetus G. Cook was the first farmer and resides at Cloquet, Minn. I am pretty sure that Mr. Cook was the first man I appointed at Fond du Lac. He was away for one winter.

Q. Who took his place?—A. Edward L. Rose, of Cloquet.

Q. Who succeeded Mr. Rose?—A. Mr. Cook came back again and he is the present farmer.

Q. Name the farmers on the other reservations?—A. Mr. Nelson E. Pero was the farmer on Court Oreille Reservation when I took charge in May, 1885. He was discharged in January or February, 1886, and is now in Ashland, Wis.

Q. Who succeeded Pero?—A. William Rusler. He is still the farmer and lives at Hayward, Wis. At Vermillion Lake there is a farmer also.

Q. I do not care for those, only the ones on timber reservations. You say that you never knew of any contracts made by the Superior Lumber Company with Indians approved by Mr. Pero?—A. He was on the Court Oreille Reservation, and no timber from there goes to Ashland.

Q. Then you never knew the Superior Lumber Company to make any lumber contracts for Mr. Pero's approval?—A. No, sir.

Q. Was Pero an acting farmer on the Bad River Reservation?—A. No, sir.

Q. So that if any contracts were presented to him for approval in all probability they must have been on the Court Oreille Reservation?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What method did you adopt for securing to the Indians a fair price for their timber?—A. The going price is what regulated it; the price that logs are selling for delivered in the main river. That had a good deal to do with what the Indians got for their pine.

Q. You undertook to scrutinize the price before you approved the contract, did you not?—A. Yes, sir. Of course in some cases the timber was not worth as much. One lot of timber would not be worth as much by $1 a thousand, or even more, as other timber.

Q. But you undertook to familiarize yourself with the market price of timber when you approved a contract, did you not?—A. Yes, sir; I did.

Q. Did you or not undertake to ascertain something with reference to the quality of the timber embraced in the contract?—A. I had the farmer do that.

Q. I am speaking now of what you and the farmer did. Either yourself or the farmer undertook to ascertain the market price and the character of the timber on each lot that was contracted for?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you seek in all cases to get the full price for the Indians?—A. I did.

Q. What was the difference in the quality of the timber on the various reservations; was the pine on one reservation as good as that on another?—A. No, sir; it was not.

Q. Which had the best pine?—A. I think the best pine was on the Court Oreille Reservation, and the next best on the Flambeau, then the next on Bad River, and Fond du Lac Reservation has the poorest quality of pine.

Q. Did you aim to have prices correspond to these varying qualities in the pine?—A. The position of these reservations has a good deal to do with the price with reference to getting it to market.

Q. And those variations you undertook to consider in fixing the price?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you consider that it made any difference in price as to the size of the trees on the allotments?—A. It generally follows that large timber is better than small timber and has better lumber in it.

Q. So that logs from a reservation having large and sound trees would bring a better price?—A. It would be better lumber, but it might cost more to get it to market.

Q. But other things being equal, large sound trees would bring the best price?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And if an allotment contained small trees as a general thing you would not expect the price to be so large?—A. I would not. Those matters are largely regulated by the Indians themselves, the contractors, and by competition.

Q. Did you consider that as agent you were bound to supervise these contracts to see that they were fairly made and that the interests of the Indian were protected?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. If a contract was made for the timber on an allotment at so much a thousand and the contractor was allowed to go in and cut all the best trees and leave the smaller and poorer ones, the Indian would lose by such a contract, would he not?—A. He would.

Q. Did you guard against that?—A. I tried to; I gave my farmers instructions to have them cut it clean, that is, the merchantable timber. Of course logs 6 inches through are not merchantable.

Q. You did not mean that the lot should be cleaned of all trees but of the marketable lumber, whether large or small?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Please define the size of a tree which you would think ought not to be cut.—A. Some lumbermen contract that they will not take anything smaller than 8 inches at the smallest end of the log. I have seen contracts where they will not accept logs under 12 at the small end, and many of them specify 10 inches at the small end.

Q. Do the contracts undertake to define what is merchantable pine timber by any other words written in the body of the contract?—A. Yes; I think you will find many contracts specifying that nothing shall be cut under 10 inches at the small end; any others they would not consider merchantable.

Q. Is there any fixed rule about it?—A. I do not know. Some will take logs 8 inches at the small end and others will not.

Q. You would have to consider that matter in giving your approval to a contract?—A. Yes, sir. The farmer has time to visit the place and see the timber, and he would attend to that. It is impossible for me to go around on the reservation.

Q. On page 166 of the record there is printed a list of forty-two contracts with A. M. Sherman, each of them for 50,000 feet in quantity at the price of $5 per 1,000; also twelve contracts with Joseph Allen, each for cutting 50,000 feet at $5 per 1,000?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. On page 167 is printed a list of eighteen contracts with A. A. Maxim, jr., each to cut 100,000 feet at $6, and on page 168 a list of six contracts with Peter B. Ferguson, each to cut 100,000 at $6 per 1,000?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. How do you account for those contracts being all of a uniform price?—A. I have not had time to visit those reservations, and I have had a farmer there but a short time at the Lake Flambeau Reservation.

Q. What is his name?—A. Stephen Edwards. I do not know the timber, but I should judge the most of it is in a block and they pay $5 a thousand. I know that the stumpage has been guaranteed on that reservation.

Q. On all those contracts?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Therefore you do not regard the price named here as material so far as the Indian is concerned?—A. No, sir; as the Indian is guaranteed that he will get $2 per 1,000 stumpage on the Sherman contracts, and on the Allen or Sherman or some other contract they get $2.25. It is the difference in the quality of the timber.

Q. You approved of these contracts and sent them to the Department?—A. I did.

Q. You approved them all before you went to Hot Springs?—A. Yes, sir; I think it was the 23d of February that I approved them.

Q. What steps did you take to ascertain whether those were fair prices?—A. I calculated that $2 or $2.25 a thousand was a fair valuation for that stumpage situated where it is.

Q. Then you did not base your opinion as to whether it was fair or not by the price of $5 or $6 put in the contract?—A. I looked at it that $2 or $2.25 was a good price for the timber situated where it was and considering the length of the driving. There had to be two dams built to get those logs to the main river. The Indians do not build those dams; the parties who buy the pine build them. That will make a difference of 25 to 50 cents a thousand in the lumber gotten out next year in favor of the Indian. Those streams have never been driven.

Q. State clearly what you relied upon, when you approved those contracts under which lumbering had already commenced, to enable you to determine that they were fair contracts for the Indians?—A. I stated to you that knowing the distance from the drive to the main river and that no improvements had been made, I calculated that is a fair price for stumpage; it was all it was worth.

Q. You do not think in this case there would be any considerable difference in the value of the timber on the different lands?—A. I do not.

Q. You consider it would all be of the same quality?—A. Well, some might have been a little better than others, but it would average about the same. Some Indian might have had a little better timber, probably a little larger.

Q. It was evident to you that no such Indian had stipulated for and succeeded in obtaining any better price than an Indian whose timber was less in size?—A. Yes, sir; it was.

Q. Had you any reason to suppose that he had?—A. No, sir; but in some cases some were guaranteed $2.25 per 1,000 for stumpage.

Q. What evidence had you as to what stumpage was guaranteed?—A. I talked with Captain Sherman about it.

Q. Did you see the contract?—A. It was a verbal contract between him and the Indians, but I should say it was carried out.

Q. What evidence did you have as to the guarantying of stumpage in the Sherman contracts?—A. I think Sherman has filed a list with the farmer; I will not be positive; I told him to.

Q. That was your rule, was it not?—Yes, sir; to file a list with the farmer showing how much the Indians were guaranteed.

Q. But you do not know that there has been a guaranty there except from conversation with Captain Sherman?—A. No, sir; I do not, except from conversation with Sherman and Allen.

Q. Did you approve these contracts from your general knowledge of the reservation and the timber on it?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. On pages 160 and 161 there is a list of contracts made by the Fond du Lac Indians with Patrick Hynes for this season, received at the Indian Office March 13, 1888, containing one hundred and fifty-one contracts in all?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. The quantity in each case is specified at 100,000 feet and the price at $5. Did you approve those contracts?—A. I did.

Q. And the timber is being cut under them?—A. Yes, sir—at least until this last order was issued.

Q. When did you receive those contracts?—A. The latter part of February, I think.

Q. Not until that time?—A. No, sir.

Q. Cutting had begun under them long before you received them?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What evidence can you give the committee as to the value of the timber upon that reservation which led you to approve those contracts at $5?—A. Well, they are guarantied from $1.50 to $2 and $2.25 on those contracts.

Q. How do you know that?—A. I know it from Mr. Hynes and from the farmer.

Q. Who is the farmer there?—A. Philetus G. Cook.

Q. When did you receive those contracts?—A. In February, I think.

Q. When did you receive information as to what stumpage was guarantied?—A. I received that when I was there in the winter, in December or January. I was talking with Mr. Hynes about it and asked him what he was paying there and he said that he gave $5 a thousand, but was guarantying so much stumpage; that some logs were worth more than others, being nearer the river than others.

Q. You understood from Mr. Hynes that he did not guaranty a uniform stumpage price, but it varied according to the quality of the timber?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you understand that also from Farmer Cook?—A. I did.

Q. Did you see any written contract guarantying stumpage?—A. I did not.

Q. Was it your information that the guaranty of stumpage was an oral guaranty?—A. Yes, sir; oral, but I think there is a list filed with Farmer Cook; I will not be positive.

Q. Is it in disobedience of your rules, instructions, and suggestions if they are not filed with him?—A. There is always what is called a sub-contract filed with the farmer, or at least those are the orders, and the Indians themselves know what the agreement is between them and Hynes.

Q. But if it is oral they have no means of enforcing it?—A. I do not think Hynes would deny it.

Q. You think he would honorable pay them all he guarantied?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You hardly think it is wise to leave a question of that kind to the honor of the contractor, do you?—A. When these contracts are made the farmer is a witness to them, and he knows what private agreement was made and can testify to it.

Q. When the settlements are made with the Indians what sort of an account is made up?—A. There is an itemized statement made of cash and supplies received during the winter by each Indian, and that account is read over to him. It also shows the amount of logs placed to his credit, and then the cost of banking is taken out. That is rendered by the contractor.

Q. Is the actual cost made up where the stumpage is guaranteed, in making the account, or is the amount of lumber which has been taken from his reservation simply set down and multiplied by the $5 or $6, and then the deduction of $3 made so as to leave $2?—A. Yes, sir; that is charged. Of course there is no account made of the cost of banking. I think this year $3 will not cover it.

Q. But as a matter of fact is the actual cost, where the stumpage is guaranteed, charged up to the Indian, or only enough to reduce the gross price down to the stumpage guaranteed?—A. They deduct the price of the stumpage guaranteed from the price of the logs charged to them. They are guaranteed $2 as stumpage, and that is deducted from the $5, no matter what it costs.

Q. Then in this case where the stumpage is guaranteed the amount charged to the Indian does not determine how much it actually costs to put his lumber on the bank?—A. No, sir.

Q. It is a mere arbitrary sum agreed upon between the contractor and the Indian?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. But in cases where there is not that guaranty the actual amount is entered up to the Indians?—A. There are no instances, I think, now, except where the man is putting in his own pine, where there is no guaranty made.

Q. Are there many of those cases?—A. On the Court Oreille Reservation there are quite a number there who have logging outfits and pine of their own.

Q. What is the market price per 1,000 feet of pine timber at Ashland or on the banks of the Bad River; I mean the market price of pine logs?—A. I have not seen any contracts this fall, but I was talking with a gentleman who said he had bought Waters's logs for $6.50 a thousand. He is on the Bad River Reservation and I think his contracts are on file in the Indian Office.

Q. Those are logs from the reservation which the contractor has sold?—A. Yes, sir; to some Chicago lumber company.

Q. Do you know anything personally about the character of those logs?—A. I do not, but I think they would average with the logs which are cut on Bad River; probably there are some good lots of them that they get more for.

Q. What is the highest price you have ever known paid at Ashland for pine logs?—A. When I was with the Superior Lumber Company we never bought many; we only bought one lot and they were calculated to be a fine lot. That was in 1882, and we paid $7.50 for them at Ashland.

Q. Is there any expense of getting logs out of Bad River to Ashland?—A. The expense is about 50 cents a thousand to get them from the banking ground up the river to the boom, about 25 miles. There are pretty bad rapids there on Bad River, and they have to be driven the same as any stream. I will state what it costs to get them down the river. It cost 50 cents a thousand to get them into the boom, and the boom rafting cost 75 cents, that is, selecting the logs in the boom and putting them up in rafts, each marked separately. Then they had to tow them from there to Ashland, about 24 miles, and when the Superior Lumber Company was lumbering there we used to credit the towing company 40 cents a thousand for towing; it may be more now.

Q. That would make $1.65 a thousand the difference between the price of the logs at the place where settlement was made with the Indians and at Ashland?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What is the lowest price you have known decent logs to be bought for?—A. I have known of logs being bought in Ashland for $4.50, but they were small and defective.

Q. What do you estimate the cost of cutting logs and hauling them to the bank?—A. That depends on the distance and the lay of the country.

Q. How is it on the Bad River Reservation where these contracts are made?—A. There are places there that can not be logged for $4 a thousand, where logs are in ravines, and they have to take a block and tackle to get them up hills or else build bridges at an enormous cost. There are places there where I would not take a job to-day to log at $4 a thousand. Then, again, there are places which could be logged for $2 a thousand, but there are not many of those left.

Q. What is the cost which governs your judgment in determining the price of logs to an Indian in reference to this reservation?—A. The length of the haul and the quality.

Q. Those are the circumstances; but what is the price that governs you?—A. The general going price.

Q. I mean the price you allow to be deducted from the sum on the face of the contract in order to get the stumpage which the Indian is to receive?—A. I stated it is the length of the haul.

Q. What ground do you fix in your mind to determine whether these contracts are right?—A. As a general thing the Indians go there with the contractors and determine what it could be logged for.

Q. You do not undertake to fix the $3, or whatever it is?—A. I have not time to do it. In no cases are they charging over $3 a thousand for logging there.

Q. In no case do they deduct from the price on the face of the contract over $3?—A. No, sir; but last year it cost more than that in places in the ravines they are cleaning out.

Q. Are there any allotments from which the timber can be banked at $2?—A. I do not think there are now, because those right near the river have been cut over.

Q. You may state something now about the price of logs on the other reservations and how they vary from the Bad River Reservation prices?—A. They do not vary much. On the Court Oreille of course hauling is getting to be considerably longer than it used to be, which increases the price.

Q. Where do the Court Oreille logs go?—A. To the Chippewa River, and from there down the Mississippi.

Q. Are logs worth more on the banks of the Chippewa River than on the banks of the Bad River?—A. It is a better class of timber and is worth more, but you can not sell it for any more.

Q. Is it easier to market timber from the Bad River than from the Chippewa River?—A. It is not, but there is a company on the Chippewa River that you can not get the worth of the logs from; they control the river and all its tributaries, called the Mississippi Logging Company. They drive the streams themselves and own all the improvements on the streams, which increases the cost of getting logs down to the Mississippi.

Q. And therefore increases the price?—A. No, sir; not the price. You can not realize as much on your logs as you could if there was competition there.

Q. What is the market for timber on the Flambeau Reservation?—
A. That goes to the Chippewa River.

Q. And the Fond du Lac lumber?—A. That goes to St. Louis River and runs into Lake Superior. But they have a boom at Knight Falls, where they charge 50 cents a thousand, and by the time the logs get through there the water is gone and you can not get them to Duluth the same year.

Q. Who controls that?—A. The C. N. Nelson Lumber Company own that.

Q. Is that the only way of marketing logs from Fond du Lac?—A. It is.

Q. Have you ever shown any favoritism to any contractors?—A. No, sir; I have not.

Q. Have you ever tried to induce Indians to contract with one lumberman rather than another?—A. I never have told an Indian to sell to any man. I have had them come and ask me if they should sell to such and such a party, and I have told them to do as they pleased; that they wanted to sell to the man who would pay them the most money.

Q. What has been Joseph Allen's business, who I see has some contracts?—A. He has been working there for Captain Sherman, I think.

Q. Are those twelve contracts which he has made this winter contracts for Sherman?—A. He contracted for them himself.

Q. Are they really for Sherman, do you know?—A. I do not know; I do not know what mark they are putting on.

Q. Has he ever been connected with the Government in any way?—
A. No, sir; he has not.

Q. He has never been an official of the Indian Office nor employed in any way by the Government?—A. No, sir.

Q. If he has been making contracts with the Indians he has been making them for himself or some other lumberman?—A. That is what he has been doing. But he never has been in the employ of the Indian Department in any way, shape, or manner; the records of the office will show that.

Q. Have the farmers ever shown any preference to contractors?—A. Not so far as I know.

Q. On page 17 of the record is a letter from Acting Commissioner Upshaw to yourself, in which he says:

Referring to the conversation had with you whilst here as to the proposition to confine the contracts in the hands of the licensed traders exclusively, I have given the subject careful consideration, and have arrived at the conclusion that for various reasons it would be impolitic and injudicious to do so.

You had made such a recommendation orally, had you?—A. No, sir. We were talking the matter over in the office; that was in 1886. Complaint had been made to me that the Calligans had been charging more than they ought to have charged. They were not licensed traders and I could not go and look at their books; besides, they were not on the reservation. And I think Major Hindmarsh suggested that the parties who bought pine there should have a license.

Q. Then you never made a recommendation that the logging contracts should be confined to licensed traders, did you?—A. No, sir, not to licensed traders; but I recommended that a man who should buy pine should have a limited license, so that I could have access to his books and see what he was charging, so that he would be under the same restrictions as licensed traders were.

Q. As a matter of fact did they all have such licenses?—A. I think so, but I will not be positive; I can ascertain at the Indian Office.

Q. Had you ever in writing recommended that the contracts be confined to one party?—A. I sent a copy of that letter which the Indians got up at Bad River, requesting that only three camps be allowed on the reservation, and the letter here shows that I recommended that more be allowed; that I did not think it would be wise to confine it to three camps.

Q. Then this was not a recommendation to confine contracts or limit the number of contractors for timber on any reservation?—A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever recommend that?—A. I do not think I did.

Q. Did you ever recommend that Dobie & Stratton be the only contractors allowed on Court Oreille?—A. I do not think I did.

Q. They were the regular traders on the reservation?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Are they now?—A. They are not the only ones; they have a license to trade with the Indians. England, Thomas & Clark have made application to trade and keep a store on the reservation; all the contractors have who keep stores there at all.

Q. Have you ever had any interest in lumber contracts since you have been there?—A. I have not.

Q. Have you received anything from any of the contractors?—A. No, sir; I have not.

Q. You never have received any presents of any kind from them?—A. No, sir; I have not.

Q. You spoke of the politics of some of these parties. Is William Carson connected with the Valley Lumber Company?—A. Yes, sir; and he is a Democrat. I think I stated that Carson was a Democrat and Buffington a Republican. Carson is president and Buffington is an officer of the company.

Q. You know Carson well?—A. I know him pretty well.

The CHAIRMAN. I will put in at this point a letter from Secretary Vilas, of March 13, 1888, with an inclosure from Commissioner Atkins dated March 12, 1888.

The letters referred to are as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, March 13, 1888.

SIR: I have the honor to transmit herewith copy of a communication of the 12th instant, and accompanying papers from the Commissioner of Indian Affairs in the matter of the alleged cutting of timber and logging operations on the several reservations of the La Pointe Agency, Wis., by white men.

Very respectfully,

WM. F. VILAS,
Secretary.

The Chairman of the Select Committee on Indian Traders, United States Senate.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, March 12, 1888.

SIR: It having been stated to the select committee of the Senate which is charged with the investigation of allotments and the cutting and sale of timber on the several Indian reservations in northern Wisconsin and Minnesota that white men in large numbers are cutting and logging on the several reservations within the jurisdiction of the La Pointe Agency, I on the 9th instant telegraphed Agent Gregory for information on the subject (copy telegram inclosed, Exhibit 1), to which the agent, who is now at Hot Springs, Ark., replied under date of the 10th instant (copy of agent's reply herewith, Exhibit 2).

The agent's reply being unsatisfactory, I again telegraphed him on the 10th instant (copy telegram inclosed, Exhibit 3), to which he replied the same day (copy inclosed, Exhibit 4).

In forwarding these papers I desire to say that if white men are cutting timber or logging on any of said reservations, or are employed for that purpose further than as foremen or instructors, cooks, and teamsters, it is done without the knowledge and in violation of the instructions of this Department. Hitherto no complaint has been made to this office that large numbers of white men were cutting timber and engaged in logging on any of the said reservations, and I had no knowledge that such charges were made until I was apprised of the statements made to the committee by the Indians, and which I find to a certain extent are contained in papers filed in this office by them about the same time.

Further than the receipt of certain contracts between Indians and Dobie & Stratton and the Valley Lumber Company I have no specific information relating to logging operations on the several reservations during the present season.

I recommend that the inclosed papers be forwarded to the select committee for its information.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

The CHAIRMAN. The exhibits contained in the Commissioner's letter have already been printed in the record, and need not be duplicated. Exhibit 1 is printed on page 162, exhibit 2 on page 163, and exhibits 3 and 4 on page 163.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. Are the telegrams signed by you and printed on page 163 of the record correctly printed or not?—A. Yes, sir; with the exception that the word "allotlers" should be "allottees."

Q. You went away on leave of absence a year ago, did you?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. State when you took your leave and how long you were gone.—A. I went away in January and came back the last of February or first of March.

The CHAIRMAN. I have received the following letter, dated March 21, 1888, from Secretary Vilas, inclosing a letter from Commissioner Atkins and a letter from the Valley Lumber Company of Eau Claire, Wis., which may go into the record.

The letters referred to are as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, March 21, 1888.

SIR: I have the honor to transmit herewith for your information copy of a communication of 20th instant from the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, inclosing copy of a letter from the Valley Lumber Company, of Eau Claire, Wis., containing statements relative to its business transactions with Calligan Bros., in connection with certain timber contracts made by Indians of the Lac Court d'Orielle band of Chippewas in Wisconsin.

Very respectfully,

WM. F. VILAS,
Secretary.

The Chairman Select Committee on Indian Traders, United States Senate.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, March 20, 1888.

SIR: Acknowledging receipt by Department reference of the 16th instant, of a letter without date, addressed to you by the Valley Lumber Company of Eau Claire, Wis., relative to its business transactions with Calligan Bros., in connection with certain timber contracts made by Indians of the Lac Court d'Oreilles band of Chippewas in Wisconsin, I have the honor to inclose herewith a copy of said letter, and to recommend that the same be transmitted to the chairman of the select committee of the Senate on Indian traders, authorized by resolution of March 5, 1888, to inquire into the method of allotment of lands to, and the system under which, the Chippewa Indians are allowed to sell timber—for its information.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

[Valley Lumber Company, manufacturers of lumber, lath, shingles, etc. William Carson, president and treasurer; G. A. Buffington, vice-president; William H. Smith, secretary.]

EAU CLAIRE, WIS., ———, 188—.

DEAR SIR: I saw in the Saint Paul Globe of Saturday the testimony of Phineas Calligan before a committee of Congress. Calligan Bros. did business on Lac Court Oreilles, Wisconsin, Reservation up to the fall of 1887. P. Calligan came to me last October and represented to me that he had contracts with Indians for about 8,000,000 feet of pine timber, and said that Mr. Gregory was not willing to let them stay on the reservation. We made a bargain with them for the interest that they had on the reservation, including the contracts for timber with Indians, amounting to over $10,000, and have paid them $9,681 in cash. Mr. Gregory did not know anything about our buying the contracts for timber from Calligan.

P. Calligan made false representations to us in regard to the contracts that they said they had. One-half of the contracts they said that they had was worthless, we did not get. We have contracted to pay to the Indians about $3 per 1,000 for their pine, considering that it is in small lots, sometimes 100,000 feet in a place. I do not know of any timber being taken without a written contract with the Indian that owns the land and a permit from the Government farmer to cut the timber. I think the interest of the Indians of the Lac Court Oreilles Reservation has been taken care of by Mr. Gregory. Indians could have got work if they wanted to work. All Indians that want work are at work. I have heard of no complaints from Indians.

Very respectfully,

VALLEY LUMBER COMPANY.
WILLIAM CARSON, President.

WILLIAM F. VILAS,
Secretary of the Interior.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, March 15, 1888.

Respectfully referred to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

GEO. A. HOWARD,
Chief Clerk.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. I see that Mr. Carson speaks of their having contracted to pay Indians about $3 per 1,000 for their pine?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. The prices in the list furnished of the Valley Lumber Company contracts are printed on pages 113 and 114 of the record and are given at from $4.75 up to $6.50. What does Mr. Carson mean when he says $3?—A. He says it averages that, I think; he says "about $3"; he means the stumpage is about $3.

Q. What the stumpage realizes to the Indians?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You stated yesterday some of the reasons why you determined to exclude Calligan Bros. from the reservation. Did you communicate with them in writing your decision that you would not allow them to make any contract?—A. I think I did.

Q. Is this the letter [exhibiting a letter to the witness]?—A. Yes, sir; that is my letter.

The CHAIRMAN. That may be printed in the record.

The following is the letter referred to:

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE,
La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis., 8, 29, 1886.

GENTLEMEN: I will not approve any contracts that you may make with the Indians at Lac Court Oreilles for the logging season of 1886-'87.

Very respectfully,

J. T. GREGORY,
U. S. Indian Agent.

CALLIGAN BROS.,
Hayward, Wis.

By the CHAIRMAN :

Q. Did you ever give Calligan Bros. any of your reasons for excluding them from the reservation?—A. I think I stated to them at one time in Chippewa Falls why I did not want them there.

Q. To which one did you make the statement?—A. They were both there.

Q. You think you stated to both of them that you did not want them there. What reasons did you give them?—A. I told them that they were disturbers and had been charging too much for their supplies to the Indians.

Q. Do you remember any other reason that you ever gave them?—A. There were several personal matters; I have forgotten just what they were. They had been making statements about me which were untrue and I did not want to have anything to do with them at all. I have forgotten just what I did say to them. I talked with them at the Stanley House at Chippewa Falls probably an hour or so in my room; I think it was after I had written this letter.

Q. Did either one of them come to Ashland to see you at any time with reference to your refusal to let them contract?—A. I think they did, but I will not be positive.

Q. Which one was it that came there?—A. I could not answer that question.

Q. As you remember the conversation, did you give them any reason?—A. I can not state whether they came there, and consequently could not state what the conversation was.

Q. When did Mr. Cunningham first intervene in behalf of Calligan Bros.?—A. I think in the fall of 1885 he wrote me a letter stating they were friends of his and were coming up there to log. He either wrote me or came to see me, I forget which.

Q. He commended them to you?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You had no trouble with them in 1885-'86?—A. Yes, sir; they had not been there two weeks before they wanted the whole reservation—they wanted it all—and because they could not have everything they wanted they made threats that they were going to defeat my confirmation by the Senate. I had not been confirmed then and was not until March or April, 1886.

Q. I would like to ask what your politics are?—A. I am a Democrat.

Q. Have you always been a Democrat?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You were always a Democrat while you were at Ashland?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What votes have you cast since you became a citizen?—A. I voted for Hancock—that was my first Presidential vote—and for President Cleveland.

Q. You never have been a Mugwump?—A. No, sir; but I will tell you this, that I voted for Sam S. Field, the Republican candidate for lieutenant-governor, but will never do it again. I voted the straight Democratic ticket with that exception.

Q. Did you ever vote for Governor Pound for office?—A. No, sir; he had quit running then.

Q. When did Mr. Cunningham commence to show any interest in Calligan Bros.?—A. As near as I can recollect it was in the fall of 1886.

Q. What took place then?—A. He was present at that meeting of ours in Chippewa Falls; I think Mr. Cunningham was there when Calligan Bros. were there. I did not see Mr. Cunningham again. I had told Governor Pound I would allow them to go in there and log.

Q. You saw Cunningham with the Calligans?—A. Yes, sir; I am positive he was there that night.

Q. Did you know that Cunningham came to Washington in behalf of Calligan Bros., or interested himself while here in their behalf?—A. No, sir; he never told me about it.

Q. Did Cunningham come to Ashland in their behalf? A. I think in the fall of 1885 he either came there or wrote.

Q. I mean in 1886?—A. I don't remember whether he did or not. I know he was up there several times in the summer, out on the Iron Range.

Q. State the extent and character of Cunningham's intervention with you in behalf of Calligan Bros.?—A. I do not remember of his having come there during the summer of 1886 to see me on their behalf, and do not think he did. But he did see me at Chippewa Falls and he asked me what was the matter with the Calligans. I stated to him that I didn't want them in there, and I think I gave him my reasons. Nothing was said about it then. I went home the next day. Then I did not see Cunningham until after I had seen Governor Pound and told them that I would allow them to go in there and log. Then Cunningham told me that the Calligans would give me $1,500 if I would let them in there.

Q. Where was that?—A. That was at Chippewa Falls, I think.

Q. Who was present when he said that?—A. Nobody. That was private.

Q. You were told of that after you had made this agreement with Governor Pound?—A. Yes, sir; after that.

Q. Did you ever tell any one of that?—A. Not that I remember—yes, I told it to a man down here last fall on the street in front of the Ebbitt House.

Q. Did you ever tell the Commissioner or anybody connected with the Indian Office?—A. I do not know; I may have told Major Hindmarsh something about it.

Q. Did you ever assign that as a reason for not letting them come on to the reservation?—A. I did to this gentleman last fall in front of the Ebbitt House.

Q. Was he an official or a person who had a right to know about it?—A. No, sir; he asked me what was the matter and I told him. It was Mr. Bell, the Superintendent of Foreign Mails. He was standing there and Mr. Calligan came up and wanted to see me.

Q. Did you decline to talk with him?—A. I did, and Mr. Bell asked me what was the matter between us, and I told him that that gentleman had tried to bribe me—I don't know whether I said "gentleman."

Q. Had you not seen Mr. Calligan from the time Cunningham told you until then?—A. Yes, sir, I had; I saw him almost every time I would go to the reservation.

Q. Had you talked with him?—A. No, sir; I didn't talk with him.

Q. You had not conversed with him during that time?—A. No, sir; I did not wish to.

Q. But you made an adjustment with Governor Pound to allow them to continue, notwithstanding what Mr. Cunningham had told you?—A. I told the governor I would let them go on, and I did so.

Q. But the first time you had an opportunity of showing your indignation to Mr. Calligan was when he spoke to you here?—A. No, sir; I had opportunities enough before that, but I never have cared to talk to him.

Q. Was that the first time he had spoken to you?—A. No, sir; I think he had spoken to me before and I had turned around and walked away; that was on the reservation; and then he spoke to me again in my office.

Q. But from that time until you turned away from him on the street here?—A. I have seen him probably a couple of times a month right along, but never had any conversation with him.

Q. You never had refused to speak to him, had you?—A. He kept out of my way and I never looked for him.

Q. Had he ever offered to speak to you when you refused?—A. I think he said "good-day" to me once, but I did not pay any attention to him.

Q. You never assigned any reason—this offer to bribe you—to him, for your coolness towards him?—A. No, sir.

Q. And you never told any one of it until you told Mr. Bell?—A. Not that I can remember; I did not give the matter a thought after that. I may have told Major Hindmarsh, but I don't recollect.

Q. Who else?—A. I think I told Mr. Bell, the next man.

Q. And whom after Mr. Bell?—A. I do not know; I have told several, I think.

Q. Name the persons?—A. I cannot name all of them; my friends up in that country; I know I have talked with parties about it in my office.

Q. Please try and remember any one else to whom you stated that Cunningham told you that Calligan had wanted him to offer you $1,500 to be allowed to go on the reservation?—A. I told Mr. H. H. Hayden, of Eau Claire, and I think I told my clerk, Henry H. Beaser; that is all I recollect.

Q. And, notwithstanding this, you went on during that season and allowed him to fulfill all contracts?—A. Yes, sir; but I made up my mind he would never do it again.

Q. And the next winter you excluded him entirely?—A. Yes, sir; I did. I had additional evidence then as to his work on the reservation.

Q. Anything in addition to what you stated to Senator Blackburn?—A. No, sir; nothing only last night I thought of a conversation I had with a conductor on the Omaha road last fall. He came by one night and said to me, "Do you know some fellows named Calligan or Callahan, or some name like that?"

Q. What was the name of that conductor?—A. Perry Sharp. He says, "They are lumbermen." I said, "I guess you mean Calligan Bros." He said, "That is the name." I have forgotten whether he said I could make $200 or whether he could; my recollection is that he said, "I can make $200." I said, "How?" "Well," he says, "if you will write a letter to them stating that you will approve their contracts, I can get $200."

Q. When was that?—A. In the fall of 1887, about the time they were making the deal with the Valley Lumber Company.

Q. That was last fall?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did you tell Sharp?—A. I told him I did not need $200, and I think I said to him, "I do not think you need it very badly either."

Q. Now in regard to this time you were in Washington you stated that you were willing to meet the Calligans before the Commissioner?—A. I stated to Governor Pound that I would stay over until the next night to meet Mr. Calligan at the Indian Office before General Upshaw. The Commissioner was not here.

Q. You did get away, however?—A. I went away the next night. I staid over twenty-four hours, as I had agreed to.

Q. Where did you go?—A. I went to New York.

Q. How long did you stay there?—A. I got to New York in the morning, and went out that evening for the West.

Q. Whereabouts in the West?—A. To Wisconsin.

Q. At what place?—A. I went right through. The first stop I made was at Milwaukee.

Q. How long did you stay there?—A. Only a short time.

Q. Did you stop anywhere between Milwaukee and Ashland?—A. No, sir; I went right on through, I think. I remember it was in August.

Q. Can you tell how long you were getting to Ashland?—A. I can not.

Q. Had you understood at that time, when you refused to speak to Mr. Calligan—from Governor Pound—that Calligan wanted this interview with you before General Upshaw?—A. I did not. I did not talk with Governor Pound about Mr. Calligan before he came up there to speak to me.

Q. Did you afterwards understand from Governor Pound that Mr. Calligan wanted an interview with you before General Upshaw?—A. No, sir; I did not. I broached the subject myself, and I said to Governor Pound I would stay over twenty-four hours in order to have it.

Q. Did Governor Pound ever tell you that Mr. Calligan would be glad to meet you before General Upshaw?—A. I don't recollect just what he did say.

Q. Did he approve of the interview or not?—A. My recollection is that he did.

Q. Will you say that he did not tell you that Mr. Calligan would be very glad to meet you there and would meet you before Mr. Upshaw?—A. I will not say that he did not.

Q. Did you say you would remain a week if necessary to bring about an interview?—A. I think I did, but I went to the Indian Office the next morning and told Major Hindmarsh what I was there for and the reason I didn't get away the night before. I staid there and Mr. Calligan did not show up, and then I said to Governor Pound that night that I had waited over one day and Mr. Calligan had not come to the Indian Office and that I was going home that night and supposed Mr. Calligan would go around and make a statement after I left, or something to that effect. Governor Pound said no, he would not approve of anything of that kind at all; that he would not want Mr. Calligan to do anything of that kind. I told him I knew the man pretty well and was satisfied that he would do it; and he did do it; he went around Saturday and did not go around Friday.

Q. Your statement to the committee is that you were willing to have this interview and did not go away to avoid the interview?—A. No, sir; I did not go away to avoid it; I staid over twenty-four hours to have it.

Q. Did you stay as long as you could?—A. Yes, sir; as long as I could.

Q. What business took you away?—A. I had some private business which required my attention.

Q. In New York?—A. No, sir; not in New York. I wanted to go up there and see a party about business that made it necessary for me to go to Lake Superior.

Q. When you came to this determination that you would not let Calligan Bros. on the reservation did you know that the Valley Lumber Company wanted to buy Calligan Bros. contracts if they were not allowed on the reservation?—A. I made up my mind in the spring that that was the last logging they would have there. I made up my mind about the latter part of April, and the Valley Lumber Company, so far as I know, did not try to buy them out until about September.

Q. Did Calligan Bros. make any effort to go on the reservation this winter?—A. I understood they made a lot of contracts some time in the summer.

Q. Did they make any in August after they got your letter?—A. It was in 1886 that I sent that letter.

Q. Did you give them any formal notice last year that they could not go on this year?—A. I told the farmer not to have anything to do with their contracts.

Q. Then your decision of last year was an oral one?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. At the time they were making an effort to get on the reservation last fall when did you first know that the Valley Lumber Company intended to buy them out?—A. I do not remember; Mr. Buffington told me once they were trying to buy them out; that was some time in the fall before the logging season set in.

Q. Did you tell Mr. Buffington that if the Valley Lumber Company bought out Calligan Bros. you would approve the contracts for them?—A. I told Mr. Buffington I would approve the Valley Lumber Company contracts no matter whether they bought out Calligan Bros. or not.

Q. Then they understood at that time that you would not approve the contracts with Calligan Bros., but that you would with the Valley Company?—A. I don't know whether they did or not.

Q. Did not Mr. Buffington know at the time you said you would approve the Valley Lumber Company contracts that you would not approve Calligan Bros. contracts?—A. He told me he was trying to buy them out, and asked me if I would approve the contracts, and I said yes.

Q. In any conversation that you had with Governor Pound have you ever told him of this supposed willingness of Calligan Bros. to pay you $1,500?—A. I don't remember having told him; I may have told him.

Q. Don't you know that you never have told Governor Pound of this?—A. I do not know; I will not be positive; I have no impression whether I told him or not.

Q. What argument did he use with you in 1886 to induce you to consent to allow Calligan Bros. to remain on the reservation?—A. I will allow the governor to state that.

Q. They were proper arguments, were they not?—A. Yes, sir; I think so.

Q. He did not offer you any money or personal inducement?—A. No, sir.

Q. But it was through his intervention that you allowed them to remain?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And not through the intervention of Cunningham?—A. No, sir.

Q. I now want to ask you something more about these Flambeau allotments. How many allotments had been made on the reservation before you allowed any cutting of timber there?—A. There were twenty-two, I think, in that list, and there were two of them where the descriptions were wrong, and they were not allowed.

Q. When were those made?—A. In the fall of 1886.

Q. And the timber was cut from those allotments during the winter of 1886-'87?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who were the contractors?—A. Captain Henry, Captain Sherman, and D. H. Donaldson.

Q. The bulk of the contracts were made with Sherman Bros.?—A. I think they had more than others. My recollection is there were about 8,000,000 feet cut, and Sherman and Donaldson got about 6,000,000 between them, and Henry about 2,000,000.

Q. Please explain what authority you gave for making those contracts and cutting that timber?—A. In that letter which was put in yesterday there is a telegram from Acting Commissioner Upshaw granting me authority to allow them to go on. That was before they had made any for 1886-'87.

Q. What did you do upon receipt of that telegram?—A. They claimed that the Indians wanted to sell to them, and I notified the parties that they would be allowed to purchase.

Q. Did you furnish them any forms of contracts?—A. Yes, sir; I did. The letter so states.

Q. Why didn't they make written contracts?—A. They did make them, but they were all wrong; they never had any before; the letter states why those contracts were refused.

Q. Did the contracts reach you before the cutting was finished?—A. Yes, sir; and they were sent back.

Q. But you did not stop the cutting of timber?—A. I did not.

Q. Were the contracts ever made as you required them to be made?—A. They were not; it was so late I did not require it.

Q. So that this lumbering on the Flambeau Reservation for 1886-'87 was done without any authority from the office except this telegram, and without any written contracts approved by you?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the whole business was closed up at the time you made settlement?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was a detailed report made of that settlement which is now on the files of the Indian Office?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. How many allotments have been made there since the Dawes act?—A. I could not say, but I think there were twenty or twenty-two on the first list under the treaty.

Q. But there have been no allotments made under the severalty act on the Flambeau Reservation?—A. No, sir.

Q. Can you tell in how many cases you have allowed contracts to be made before the patents were received by the allottees?—A. I can not tell, but the descriptions will show.

Q. Will the description show whether it has been patented or not?—A. No, sir; but we can compare it with the books here.

Q. The point I want to get at is whether contracts were made before the patents were received by the Indians?—A. Yes, sir; they have been. Sometimes they receive the patents a short time after the selection is made, and then again it will go a couple of years before the patent gets around.

Q. In making these timber contracts you have not waited until the patents were received by the Indians?—A. Not in every case. On the Court Oreille Reservation there are quite a number which have been approved by the Department which they hold as equivalent to a patent.

Q. I am speaking now of patents. Has it been your practice to wait for patents to be issued or not?—A. Generally speaking, yes, sir.

Q. In a majority of the cases you think patents have been received before the contracts were made?—A. I think so, but I do not want to swear to it without looking at the records.

Q. Take this winter; is there any cutting being done on lands which have been patented to the Indians?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What proportion of this winter's contracts?—A. I think there has been more cutting on those selections which have been approved and no patents issued than on those with patents.

Q. I will ask you now about the making of timber contracts before the allotments have been approved by the Indian Office; how is that this winter?—A. If there is any of that done it is against my orders; I think there are some which have been done.

Q. Don't you know that in all cases where contracts have been made for cutting this winter they have been made in advance of the approval of the allotment by the President?—A. I have not noticed it.

Q. Some of the contracts were on those allotments before February, 1887, I suppose?—A. I have not noticed that; you can tell by the record of contracts sent in.

Q. Mr. Coffey has given a list on page 169 of Indians whose claims to allotments he understands were rejected by the council in January?—A. If Mr. Coffey would read the reports of the special agent he would find that the agents have nothing to say about it.

Q. You explained yesterday that according to the instructions to Mr. Wall the practice of requiring the council to approve had been abolished and that the special agent and yourself were at liberty to approve allotments notwithstanding the council rejected them?—A. Yes; if they could furnish the proof required.

Q. But as a matter of fact have timber contracts been made by the fourteen or fifteen Indians specified in that list?—A. I do not know.

Q. Assuming that contracts were made and passed upon by you and the cutting of timber allowed, that was done upon your decision and Agent Walls before the approval of the allotments by the Indian Office?—A. They had no orders to do any cutting on those allotments and if cutting has been done it has been against my orders.

Q. State what your orders were.—A. I told them that the selections that had been sent in and had been approved by the Department could be located, but not others.

Q. Then you did not authorize contracts to be made with those Indians?—A. I did not, because I had no authority to do it.

Q. So that although you understood that the agent and yourself could make the allotments in spite of the council you did not intend to have the Indians to whom allotments were made under those circumstances make timber contracts until the Department approved them?—A. I did not.

Q. Will you between now and Monday examine and see whether contracts have come on made with those Indians?—A. I will do so.

Q. Assuming that such contracts are on the list, then they have been approved by you?—A. I approved them as my clerks gave them to me; I haven't time to examine them.

Q. Suppose those fifteen contracts of Indians were approved by you, were they approved without your intending to do so?—A. They were.

Q. All the contracts for this winter are for allotments which have not been approved by the President?—A. No, sir; not all of them, not by a good deal.

Q. In regard to contracts which are not completed during the season—have you allowed timber to be cut under the same contract the next winter?—A. No, sir; it is specified in the contract that it terminates at the end of the logging season.

Q. And you have required a new contract the next winter in such cases?—A. Yes, sir.

Senator BLACKBURN. I want to call attention to pages 143 and 144 of the record so as to give Mr. Calligan a chance, if he desires, to make any statement in the light of the letter filed this morning from the Valley Lumber Company. He says there that his firm sold their outfit to the Valley Lumber Company for $10,000 cash, and that payment had been refused and they had not gotten the money. A letter has been filed this morning from the Valley Lumber Company stating that they paid him $9,600.

The CHAIRMAN. I put that letter in in order that he might have the benefit of it. His brother is there, and they may have had some payment since he came here.

Senator BLACKBURN. Of course the proof on that point will come up. One point more. I do not know whether Governor Pound is held here as a witness under a subpœna that I asked for several days ago or not. If he is, I want to relieve the Government from any expense of having him recalled, and ask him two or three questions, when I will be ready to cancel any obligations of the subpœna.

The CHAIRMAN. I should keep him until next week anyway, even if you examine him now.

Senator BLACKBURN. Very well, then, I will postpone my examination until then.

The select committee then adjourned until Monday, March 26, 1888, at 10.30 o'clock, a. m.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Monday, March 26, 1888.

The select committee met, pursuant to adjournment, at 10.30 o'clock a. m. Present, Senators Chandler (chairman), Cullom, and Blackburn.

The CHAIRMAN. I will state that the testimony taken before the committee, although in print, has not yet been stereotyped, and an opportunity is now afforded to correct any typographical errors before the pages are stereotyped. I understand Mr. Calligan desires to have his testimony corrected.

TESTIMONY OF PHINEAS H. CALLIGAN—Recalled.

PHINEAS H. CALLIGAN was recalled and further examined.

By the CHAIRMAN :

Q. Do you desire to make some corrections of your testimony?—A. I do.

Q. On page 176 of the testimony you are made to say, "I never was in the office in my life," with a period at the end of the sentence. What did you say or intend to say at that time?—A. I desired to say that "I was never in the office in my life but what there was some one there."

Q. You were interrupted by the next question and had not concluded your answer?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is there anything else you desire to call attention to?—A. I think, in my testimony, I stated that the three contracts dated September 4 were all three made at the store. After I got home and got thinking it over I remembered there was but one made at the store, the Mary Bray contract; the others agreed to come but did not. So we started to find them, and this Corbine we met just below the store and stepped into another little grocery-like to sign his contract there, and the woman sent us word that she was not able to come over and we would have to cross the river and have it signed at her house.

By Senator BLACKBURN:

Q. That occurred on the 4th of September?—A. Yes, sir; on the same day. I had a few corrections marked in the book that I have down at my room, but I did not fetch it, so that I can not tell you now what they were. But they did not amount to much; it was only a few words and didn't amount to anything.

Q. Are those all the corrections you wish to make?—A. Yes, sir.

TESTIMONY OF JAMES T. GREGORY—Recalled.

JAMES T. GREGORY was recalled and further examined.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. When you commenced testifying before the committee you stated that you wrote a letter to a friend of yours making application for appointment as Indian agent?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What friend was that?—A. I wrote the letter to Colonel Knight.

Q. Is that the letter you meant when you stated that you wrote to a friend?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You spoke at the last hearing of the prices of logs at Ashland, but you spoke of logs from the reservation. Can you tell the committee anything more about the prices of timber not from the reservation?—A. No, I do not know anything about that. When I was with the Superior Lumber Company we never bought any except that one lot I spoke about; they always put in their own timber.

Q. But you of course undertook to make the price of reservation logs depend upon what the market was for other logs, did you not?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Can you tell us anything more about the price of logs or lumber at Ashland, without reference to the place from which they came?—A. I can tell more about the price of lumber. I know if it is a good quality of logs they will get $12 a thousand, mill-run, that is, sawed. It is an extra quality of logs; they will not average that. No mill company there puts any pine that will average near $12.

Q. How do the prices of sawed lumber vary, from $12 down and up?—A. It runs from $10; I have known it as low as $10.

Q. And how high?—A. You might get a select grade of logs and get $15 a thousand by picking out the very best of them; but that would not be as they are put in in the woods; they have not any such timber up there.

Q. What is the highest price you have known for sawed pine lumber at Ashland?—A. I have seen them get $40 a thousand for pine lumber there.

Q. What kind of lumber?—A. Three-inch lumber for the English market, what is called "deal." A man putting in about twenty million feet might be able to get about a million feet of "deal" out of the twenty million.

Q. Deal is the commercial article sent abroad in large quantities?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What is the quality of the deal as compared with ordinary sawed lumber?—A. It is the best lumber you can get; free from knots and shakes. They want it wide, and the price is governed by the width of it.

Q. That is an extra quality and runs very high?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Starting again with $12 as the average, how high have you known what you call ordinary lumber to sell above that?—A. I do not know of any having been sold above that.

Q. You do not jump in price from $12 to $40 for sawed lumber, do you?—A. As I say, if you pick it out and get about one-twentieth of your cutting you can get lumber worth that.

Q. But what are the prices of lumber between $12 and $40 that you have known?—A. I know of no sales having been made of mill-run lumber above $12; that is, just as it is put in in the woods and taken to the mill and sawed; you take everything.

Q. You can not give any other standard price, the price for any given quality of lumber which you have in mind except the lowest and the highest; $12 for ordinary sawed logs and $40 for selected lumber?—A. I have known of mill-run lumber being sold for $10.

Q. I mean above $12?—A. No, sir; I do not know of any being sold above that.

Q. You can not give any customary price of lumber above $12 unless you reach the prices of selected deal?—A. No, sir; and that is the first grade of deal; the second grade is about $37.

Q. And so on way down?—A. No, sir; there are only three grades of deal; the other grade is about $32, I think; I am not sure, though, for we did not have much if any of that grade.

Q. How extensive is the trade in deal?—A. It used to be ten or twelve years ago that they would get considerable of it, but not of late years.

Q. How do they send it to the sea board?—A. They put it on boats and take it from Ashland into Lake Superior and into the St. Lawrence River to Quebec.

Q. Have you ever known any deal selected from any reservation logs?—A. No, sir; I have not; it may have been, but not to my knowledge.

Q. Has Ed. Haskins ever been employed by the Superior Lumber Company?—A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Has he ever been connected with them in any way?—A. Not that I know of.

Q. Have you ever heard that he was?—A. No, sir; I have not. I think if you could subpoena some of the members of the Superior Lumber Company they could throw more light on it than I can.

Q. But I want your information.—A. I do not think he has ever been connected with them in any way.

Q. Your knowledge is somewhat material to the investigation and I want to know what that is. Have you ever heard it charged that Haskins was connected with the Superior Lumber Company?—A. I stated the other day that I saw in newspaper articles that the Superior Lumber Company is getting pine there through Haskins and Kennedy.

Q. Is that the first time you ever heard it?—A. Yes, sir; as to Haskins.

Q. You heard that before as to Kennedy?—A. No, sir; that was the first time I heard of Kennedy.

Q. You never heard before that that it was thought that Kennedy was lumbering for the Superior Lumber Company?—A. No, sir; I did not. There was no talk made about it until it came out in the papers.

Q. Not when you knew that he was superintendent of the Superior Lumber Company?—A. No, sir.

Q. Notwithstanding that, you never heard it suggested that he was lumbering for the Superior Lumber Company?—A. It was never suggested to me.

Q. What made you go and examine the books of the Superior Lumber Company?—A. Because, as I stated, when it came out in the newspapers I thought I would go and see.

Q. When was that?—A. That was three years ago. I have the papers at home; I have preserved them.

Q. But at one time you did hear that it was thought the Superior Lumber Company were getting some of the logs?—A. I stated that I heard it through the newspapers when I read it there.

Q. But haven't you just stated that you never heard that Kennedy was logging for the Superior Lumber Company until the other day?—A. Until the day it came out in the newspapers, I said, and in my testimony I stated that was two or three years ago.

Q. You did hear charges of that kind then?—A. Yes, sir; in the newspapers.

Q. Have you heard that from time to time since?—A. Oh, yes, sir.

Q. Then, as to Kennedy, you have heard that suspicion and charge that he was logging for the Superior Lumber Company?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. More or less during three years?—A. Since it came out in the newspapers at that time. I have heard it since then; I do not know how often; I did not pay any attention to it.

Q. As to Haskins, you never heard it suggested until recently?—A. No, sir; I did not; I never heard that Haskins was connected with the Superior Lumber Company at all, and I do not know that he has been.

Q. There have been some charges made by Thad Thayer in connection with some of Mr. Calligan's contracts, have there not? Do you recognize the case of complaints made against the management of the agency by Thayer?—A. I do not know of any complaints having been made officially. I know there has been some trouble there about some claims of his two children, but the selections were made before I was agent. He claims they were made for his children, but they have been fighting it, and finally the Secretary decided that his children were not entitled to them.

Q. Have you had anything to do with it?—A. The claims were made before I took charge, but last summer during the investigation I was present when the special agent, Mr. Parsons, was there.

Q. Has the timber been cut off on the tracts in dispute?—A. The Calligans cut some a year ago last winter, and there is a case in the United States court about it now. I ordered them not to cut it, and they went on and cut it.

Q. Has anybody else had any timber from those tracts?—A. Then the Valley Lumber Company contracted with this woman, whom the Secretary decided was the rightful owner. They had some of it cut this winter, and I got orders to have them stop it and not remove any they had cut, and I did so.

Q. That was the Valley Lumber Company?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. That is the present state of that case, is it?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is the controversy all described in the reports of the Department?—A. Yes, sir; there was a full report made of it. Mr. Parsons, the special agent, was the one who made the report.

Q. You have spoken of Calligan Bros. as disturbers on the reservation?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Tell us more particularly what they did that you conceived to be a disturbance.—A. Well, if I would issue an order, or decide in a case, why they would have to go around and talk and say I had no business to decide in that way; that they would have it turned up; that they would send somebody to Washington here who would fix matters all straight. Well, I do not know, but I had an idea once that they were agents themselves—I did several times.

Q. That was your feeling and judgment about them, but I want you to state what you know about them. You may state your opinion and judgment once as fully and emphatically as you desire, if you have not already done so, and then I want you to state the facts upon which your opinion is based.—A. I can not recall those things as they came up to me at the time.

Q. Name any one case or instance in which they were disturbers.—A. Well, to show the kind of a man that George M. Calligan is, I will state a little instance that happened. He came up to my office one night to see me; I was not in the office, but at my room. I was up there with some friends and Mr. Calligan came up. He stated his business and we talked a few minutes and he got up and left. The next morning he came back and said he had lost a ring—worth two dollars and a half or three dollars I should judge from the looks of it—and asked me if I had seen it. I said I had not, and he said he thought he had left it in my room. I swept the carpet to see if it was there, and it was not there. Then he went to Hayward and told W. D. Stephens that I had found that ring and kept it.

Q. That was very offensive to you?—A. Yes, sir; and it would be to anybody. When I asked him about it six or eight months afterwards he denied it, and said he found the ring in his vest pocket, and had put it there when he went to wash.

Q. Is that one of the reasons why you declined to let them go on the reservation?—A. No, sir; it is not.

Q. Is it something else? You said they wanted the whole reservation. Now give some facts contradistinguished from your opinion to justify your statement.—A. Well, they had some trouble about a claim there of Penosagiesick, I think it was; I am not certain, but Calligan and Dobie & Stratton were quarreling about it. I got the facts in the case as near as I could, and I decided that they should have it.

Q. That who should have it?—A. That Calligan should. But there were some logs cut by a half-breed who had been working for Dobie & Stratton logging, and they were dissatisfied, or this gentleman here was, with what I had decided should be done with those logs. I think I decided that Squires, the half-breed, should be paid for his work there, and Mr. Calligan here was very indignant about it and said he was going to have this thing settled in Washington; that he had friends who could go there and get pretty nearly everything they wanted.

Q. He said that to you?—A. No, sir.

Q. Then how do you know he said it?—A. He said it to a gentleman working for them at the time, in their employ, and he told me. He said he was going to have things fixed to suit himself. That was another reason. And then they charged more than the traders did for their supplies; that was the principal reason.

Q. Was that the principal reason why you excluded them from the reservation?—A. No, sir; but that is the reason I objected to them in the winter of 1886-'87. I did not exclude them that winter, but I objected to them on that ground.

Q. Before you come to the question of the prices charged by them for supplies, state any other acts of theirs in opposition to you, or which led you to draw the conclusion that they ought not to be on the reservation.—A. I do not recollect anything during the winter of 1885-'86; but I stated that the principal reason for objecting during the winter of 1886-'87 was that they were charging too much for their supplies.

Q. How did their operations compare in amount with Dobie & Stratton?—A. They didn't put in as much as Dobie & Stratton.

Q. They put in less?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did you examine the prices that were charged by the contractors to the Indians for supplies?—A. I looked them over along during the summer.

Q. How did you do that?—A. I had the accounts and an itemized statement sent me.

Q. Sent by the farmer?—A. No, sir; by the contractors or loggers.

Q. Did you ever go to Calligan Bros.' store to examine the prices?—A. I went there to make the settlement and I got the statement at their store.

Q. Did you also examine prices when the settlements were made?—A. I did not in detail; I had not time to. I took the statement home with me from all the loggers there and examined them.

Q. Then when did you make the corrections, if any were made?—A. I could not make any corrections with them, as they were not licensed traders.

Q. Did you ever make any corrections in their charges; did you ever have any overcharges corrected?—A. No; I could do nothing with them. They were not doing business on the reservation—at least, had not their store on the reservation.

Q. I thought you stated on a previous examination that all the dealers had to be licensed traders?—A. No, sir; not in 1885-'86.

Q. And you did nothing about correcting prices at that time?—A. No, sir.

Q. Did you the next year?—A. The next year they were under the same rules that licensed traders were. They had to post up their prices in their store.

Q. Did you ever correct any of the prices?—A. No, sir. The Commissioner made a schedule of prices to be charged, the percentage to be charged by the traders, and they posted that notice up in their store.

Q. Did they conform to those prices so far as you know?—A. Yes, sir; so far as I know they did.

Q. Did you or not correct any of their overcharges?—A. No, sir.

Q. The first season because you had no right to, and the second season because you had no occasion to?—A. I do not think I had any occasion to; I had no complaints.

Q. You had no complaints except in 1885-'86?—A. No, sir.

Q. Do you remember any articles on which they overcharged?—A. The main articles they overcharged on were camp outfits. They would charge, the half-breeds claimed, too much for the old outfits they had.

Q. How did you find that out?—A. I saw a party charged for old stuff, as the Indians claimed it was, and they charged just as much as for new.

Q. Can you recall any case that you investigated where Calligan Bros. sold to any Indians an outfit for more than it was worth?—

A. I can not recall the man's name, but I know him, the one who got orders to haul pine.

Q. Did he complain they were overcharging him?—A. Yes, sir; he did.

Q. Describe the man if you can not remember his name?—A. He claims to be a half-breed but looks more like a Frenchman than a half-breed.

Q. Should you know his name if you heard it?—A. It is "Ronger," or something like that; that is the way it sounds. That was in the winter of 1886-'87.

Q. Was it Bellenger?—A. It sounds something like that; I would know the man if I should see him.

Q. Did you investigate his complaint?—A. I told him I could not do anything with the complaint, that I did not know whether the supplies were old or new. I saw that they had charged him the same for his outfit as they had charged others, but he said his was old or second-hand.

Q. It was the right price, but it was the quality he objected to?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. The price was fair enough if the quality was good?—A. Yes, sir; I do not know anything about that.

Q. All you know about the quality was the complaint of Ballenger, or whatever the name was?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Name some case of overcharging.—A. That was in the winter of 1886-'87. I made up my mind when they went in there in the winter of 1886-'87 that they would never log any more there. That is all the reason I can give.

Q. That you have told us two or three times; but the main reason, you say, was their overcharging?—A. Yes, sir; in 1885-'86; and then after straightening up matters and consenting to their going there, then they sent me word that they would give me $1,500; and that was the main reason I determined they should not go in there again.

Q. There was no exclusive right for anybody to make contracts with the Indians in 1885-'86?—A. No, sir.

Q. Although you recommended the number of contractors be limited?—A. I did not recommend that.

Q. Then the Commissioner is mistaken?—A. No, sir; I recommended it be put in the hands of the licensed traders; that is in his letter. If you will read it you will find that I recommended that whoever logged in there should have a license the same as traders.

Q. You recommended that it be confined to licensed traders?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. But there was never competition, so far as licensed traders are concerned; the number of those licensed traders is always limited?—A. No; sir; it is never limited; anybody who applied for a license always got it.

Q. As a trader?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. How many licensed traders have there been on the Court Ouille Reservation?—A. In 1886-'87 the parties logging there—there was Gaynor & Bergeron, Peter Bergevin, Calligan Bros., Dobie & Stratton, and Donald McDonald.

Q. And those all were logging contractors?—A. Yes, sir; and they were licensed.

Q. I want you to state—on any of those reservations, those four larger reservations—any persons or firm who took out a license to trade who were not loggers.—A. None of them; they all logged who had a license to trade.

Q. Then, if you recommended that the logging should be confined to licensed traders, you had recommended that it should be confined to one firm only on the reservation?—A. I do not see it in that way at all. As I have stated before, anybody who applied for a license got one to trade or buy logs; that always follows; the licensed traders always buy logs.

Q. Have not the logging firms always required licenses?—A. No, sir, they have not.

Q. Were there any in 1885-'86 that had not any license?—A. Mr. McDonald had not a license, and Calligan Bros. did not have and didn't need any.

Q. Did your recommendation mean simply that all the loggers should be compelled to take out licenses as traders?—A. Yes, sir. They are under the same regulations that the regular licensed traders are, I think you will find.

Q. The language of the Commissioner's letter of August 24 is, "Referring to the conversation had with you whilst here, as to the proposition to confine the contracts in the hands of the licensed traders exclusively, I have given the subject careful consideration," etc.; and then he declines to confine the logging contracts to the licensed traders exclusively, but decides that every logger should take out a license as trader.—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, who ever had been on the reservation as licensed traders who did not do logging when they first came there?—A. I do not know how it was before my time.

Q. Had Dobie & Stratton a store there for trading with the Indians before they commenced logging?—A. I do not know as to that.

Q. Then you say that the reservations have always been open to anybody to contract with the Indians for logging, and have always been open to traders who might procure a license?—A. I have always forwarded any applications sent in to me for a license.

Q. You have not recommended that the number of logging firms or number of traders should be limited at any time or anywhere?—A. No, sir; I have not.

Q. Now I will ask you again whether you actually corrected any overcharge of Calligan Bros.?—A. No, I did not, that I can remember.

Q. I see that the original forms for timber contracts, like those on pages 6 and 7 of the record, contemplate a bond in each case from the contractor, running to the United States for the use and benefit of the Indian who sold the lumber.—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have these bonds been exacted in all cases where a contract has been entered into?—A. Yes, sir; they have all been required to give bonds.

Q. Has there never been any omission to give bonds?—A. I think in the Flambeau case there was, where there were no contracts; but those people are licensed to trade there.

Q. But on the Flambeau Reservation in 1886-'87 there were no contracts?—A. No, sir.

Q. And then, of course, there were no bonds?—A. No, sir.

Q. Do I understand you to say that bonds had been required in all other cases?—A. Yes, sir. Where there are a small number of contracts the bonds are always forwarded with the contracts, but with a larger number we generally send the contracts in and ask that one bond be made out to cover the whole lot, and that has been done.

Q. Instead of a separate bond on each contract?—A. Yes, sir; to make one bond to embody all those contracts.

Q. Look at the list of contracts on pages 113 to 117 of the record; the contracts for 1887-'88. You see in the column "bond" there is no entry?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were there bonds given on those contracts?—A. You will see in my letter of transmittal that I state I would like to have one bond cover them all, and I would like to have them sent back and executed.

Q. That is not yet in the record?—A. No, sir; it is in the Indian Office. That is the way it has been done heretofore.

Q. Like the cases on page 109, 110, and 111, where there is one single bond mentioned in the Dobie & Stratton case?—A. Yes, sir; that is the way I have been doing it.

Q. You never have agreed to waive a bond in any case?—A. No, sir; I never have.

Q. Is the Mr. Bergeron here a different person from the Mr. Bergevin?—A. Yes, sir; they are two different persons.

Q. Give the full names of each, if you can?—A. Charles Bergeron and Peter Bergevin.

Q. You have spoken of Indians who claim that they never have contracted with Calligan Bros., as Calligan Bros. had alleged they did. You spoke of cases of that kind; name any of them.—A. I can not name any of them. I think Mr. Rusler, my farmer, can.

Q. You yourself can not give any?—A. No, sir; I could not state the three contracts that they had there last winter; I could not name them.

Q. I wish to ask you some more questions with reference to the allotment of lands. There was a provision for allotments in the Chippeewa treaty of 1854?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know how many allotments had been made to Indians in severalty under the treaty before any of these timber contracts in 1882 and 1883 commenced?—A. No, sir; I do not know; they are working on that list in the office.

Q. That treaty has been in existence thirty years?—A. My recollection is that there are some of those selections which were made along in 1870 somewhere, but I would not be positive.

Q. Can you state why the Indians during those thirty years never had any allotments made in severalty?—A. I do not know why; it must have been because they never asked for them.

Q. You judge they never cared to have them?—A. That is what I think.

Q. Were they living on the reservations mainly?—A. No, sir; they were scattered around all through the country.

Q. Did they have any disposition to build houses on the reservation prior to 1882?—A. At Bad River they built some. I was never on the Court Orelle Reservation.

Q. Was there any cultivation on the Bad River Reservation?—A. Yes, sir; there has been for many years there.

Q. Were they on lands allotted to the Indians in severalty, or built wherever they happened to take a notion?—A. Where their buildings mostly are is on some land taken by a half-breed named Blackbird.

Q. Was that allotted to him?—A. It was allotted to him after they had built all their houses there.

Q. Did he collect money from them?—A. He is trying to now.

Q. What do you know with reference to cultivation prior to 1882?—A. I do not know much about what was going on there prior to 1882, but I was up the river a couple of times. The Indians cultivated along the river-bottoms mostly. I do not know whether the land was owned in common or in severalty.

Q. Or whether allotted?—A. No, sir.

Q. Then you can not give me any reason why, for twenty-eight years, there were no considerable allotments made under the treaty?—A. I do not know why; I can not state.

Q. Now, then, coming to the allotments which have been made since timber-cutting commenced, what method has been adopted for making the allotments equal between the Indians?—A. They generally select their own "eighties" and file the number of the selections with the farmer.

Q. The land with the timber on it, of course, was not all of uniform value?—A. I do not know; they seemed to be satisfied; they went to work and made their selections, some of them, and filed them with the farmer, and I never heard any complaints about it.

Q. Some, you say, was very heavily timbered?—A. Yes, sir; and some not so heavily timbered.

Q. And some were good for cultivation, and others not?—A. Yes, sir. Some had hard-wood timber, and they liked to select that for sugar-bushes; some would rather have that than pine timber.

Q. Have there never been any cases where two or more Indians would seek to get the same lot?—A. Oh, yes, sir; they would quarrel amongst themselves about that.

Q. Did they settle it in council?—A. They would settle that with the farmer. Whoever would go there first and file it is the one who got it.

Q. But the lands had been open to claims for nearly thirty years?—A. I know, but they never had been selected until recently; I think they commenced in 1882.

Q. Do you think that disposition to select has grown up because of the permission to sell the timber.—A. I think it has.

Q. Have there not been controversies among the Indians as to which should have the best and most heavily-timbered lots?—A. Yes, there have been controversies, but that is generally settled with the farmer.

Q. Had it not been settled by the council prior to the allotments under the severalty act?—A. When the farmer settles it it does not go to the council. The party who owns that land is entitled to the selection, but it is not determined whether he is to have it in preference to any other Indian.

Q. Who does settle such a controversy?—A. The farmer settles it.

Q. If there were a number of choice eighties and different Indians were contending for the right to select, would the farmer settle that question?—A. I will state just how that has been done. The farmer has a record which he keeps. If an Indian comes to him and says: "I will select that description," and he gives him that selection; that is his. Some one might come along a week afterwards and claim it belonged to him, and the farmer would say, "You never filed on it."

Q. Would he settle it then according to priority of application?—A. Certainly.

Q. First come first served?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then you understood that the Indians who rushed first for the choice timber got it if they were entitled to the allotment?—A. I think they did.

Q. Do you not think the farmer had any influence in determining which Indian should get a particular lot?—A. I know when Pero was working there the Indians claimed to me that he used to sell them numbers.

Q. That he showed favoritism corruptly?—A. Yes, sir. I know in the case of Robert Boyd he promised to give him $40 or $50 if he would get him a good piece of land.

Q. Did he give it to him?—A. He got the land, but the Indian didn't give him the money. Once in a while you will find dishonesty amongst them.

Q. We have heard of some of these lots where the Indians realized $5,000 or $6,000 for the timber, and there have been others where they received only $200 or $300.—A. No; they never get as little as that on any of those timber reservations.

Q. It would be very much less than $5,000?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who would determine whether the Indian should have a lot which would give him $5,000 or one which would only give him $500 or $1,000?—A. I have stated that they come and file all those claims with the farmer, and the man who filed it first got it, or ought to have got it.

Q. But you do not understand that the farmer had any discretion to give the lot to any particular Indian?—A. He ought not to have any.

Q. The rule is like that in a barber shop, first come, first served?—A. Yes, sir; that is the way it was done before I was agent, and that is the way it has been done since.

Q. Would not the result of that produce a great rush for the choicest timber?—A. There was a big rush, and the choicest timber was taken on those reservations that had been open in time, before I was appointed agent.

Q. When do you think the choicest timber was taken up?—A. On the Court Oreille it was taken up, the best of it, in 1884. There was a large list of selections sent to Washington, here, I know that were lost on the way; that was by Agent Durfee.

Q. Was the loss supplied?—A. It was in the fall of 1884 that he sent in the original, and then in the spring of 1885 he sent in a duplicate list.

Q. Is it your idea that the choicest timber was taken up on all the reservations under Agent Durfee by some Indian or other?—A. No, sir; I said on the Court Oreille Reservation.

Q. How about the others?—A. On Bad River I am positive that the choicest timber had been taken before I became agent; it was timber convenient to the river. But on the Flambeau Reservation they had taken none; under Agent Durfee they had only made forty selections on the Fond du Lac Reservation.

Q. And the selections subsequent to those forty have been made under you?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Has the choicest timber all been selected?—A. I do not know; I think it would have been. Those people are there and are looking out for number one.

Q. As you understand it, the rule has prevailed with your farmers of first come first served?—A. That has been the instruction to them. I have had no complaints made to me since Pero was working for me, when that man told me he had agreed to give him $40 or $50.

Q. Was that the reason you discharged Pero?—A. No, sir; there were several reasons for discharging him.

Q. Were they reasons affecting his management of the office?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. If the farmer had the right to assign different lots to different Indians and to decide which should have the preference, it would give him great power over them, would it not?—A. Yes, sir; it would. The only way he could do it, as I have instructed them when an Indian comes and files on a piece of land, is to carry out the date in pen and ink when that was filed and the name of the Indian.

Q. But if the farmer had that right and did not exercise it honestly, it might be a source of corruption?—A. Yes, sir; it might; that is true.

Q. And to avoid that your orders have been to give the first man who applied the preference?—A. Not only my orders, but those were the orders of Agent Durfee, too, and it has always been carried out.

Q. That was the rule when you first came to the reservation?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. If an Indian was seeking a lot of land and his title to it was doubtful—it was doubtful whether he was a member of the tribe, for instance—then if the power existed on the part of the farmer, or the agent, to determine whether he should have it or not, and the farmer or the agent was dishonest, there would be an opportunity for corruption by forcing the Indian to make a timber contract, for instance?—A. I do not understand that the farmer or agent has ever settled whether a man has belonged to a tribe or not.

Q. Who has settled that?—A. It has been settled in council.

Q. Up to this last allotment?—A. Yes, sir; that has all been settled in council.

Q. But coming down as late as January and February of this year when that rule had been cancelled?—A. That was settled by the instructions from the Department to the special agent.

Q. And the power existed on the part of the agent (the special agent and the regular agent) in the first instance to determine whether the evidence was sufficient to warrant an allotment?—A. Under this new act; yes, sir.

Q. It was so settled by you in the January council?—A. The instructions require that the applicant must certify under oath that he is (or that his father or mother were) a recognized member of such band, and it must be supported by at least two witnesses.

Q. Now, take a doubtful case where the council objected to it and where you and Special Agent Wall stated that the evidence was sufficient—of course those Indians were at a disadvantage if anybody sought to take advantage of them, were they not?—A. I do not see how anybody could take advantage of them, because the instructions are very plain and are read over a half a dozen times.

Q. Suppose somebody was trying to make a bargain for their timber while the title was in doubt?—A. I do not know what that would have to do with me.

Q. You do not think that would influence you at all?—A. No, sir.

Q. Or Agent Wall?—A. No, sir; I do not think so.

Q. Did any of those Indians make contracts to sell their timber before you and Mr. Wall made your decision—any of the Indians whose title was disputed by the council?—A. I do not know whether they have or not.

Q. Did you know it at the time?—A. I did not know it at the time. I never looked or asked them, and I am pretty sure Mr. Wall did not.

Q. But you did pass contracts made by such Indians since the allotment was made and before it was approved by the Department?—A. I stated the other day how that was done. I do not look at those contracts at all; my clerks do that. They compare them to see if the descriptions are right, and I approve them.

Q. And your attention was not called to the fact that some of those timber contracts were on allotments which had not been approved at Washington?—A. No, sir; it was not.

Q. What do you understand was the object of the treaty and of the severalty act in making these allotments to the Indians in severalty; the object of giving to each Indian eighty acres of land more or less; was it that he should settle on them and make a home there?—A. I think that was the object.

Q. Have you any doubt that that was the policy of both the treaty and the act?—A. No, sir; I have no doubt.

Q. And were or not the original rules for selling timber, which are set out by Agent Durfee in his circular, framed in order to conform to that policy and having the Indians make homes upon their lands?—A. Yes, sir; I think they were.

Q. Has that policy prevailed and been carried out under the system as you have administered it?—A. Well, I might go back to Agent Durfee's administration, too.

Q. Sometimes when I include Agent Durfee you say leave him out, and at other times you include him. Answer as to yourself first.—A. I do not know. I have not been all over the reservation to find out whether the Indians are settling all through there or not; it would be impossible for me to. But I know that a great many of them, from the proceeds of their pine, have built residences in the village and have their children go to school, and they claim to come and go to their work on their farms out of the village.

Q. And their farms have been on these allotments?—A. Yes, sir; and they raised potatoes and other things.

Q. You spoke of the danger of fire in case the lot was partly cut over and timber left, the balance of it in one bunch; you say there would be danger that the brush would get on fire, the débris on that portion of the lot which was cut over, and the standing timber would be destroyed the next year; was that your statement?—A. That is what I said; yes, sir.

Q. Would it not be possible to protect the timber remaining from fire?—A. It would be possible if the Indians looked after their allotment and the underbrush and burnt it off before it got dry; they could save it in that way.

Q. Then they could protect the timber left standing?—A. Yes, sir; they could protect it in that way.

Q. What is your observation as to the desire of the Indians; do they desire to settle on their allotments or to live in the village?—A. They all want to get together and live in the village.

Q. Do they have any desire to cultivate those lots?—A. Yes, sir; some of them; in fact, there is a good deal of stuff raised there every year.

Q. What proportion of these lots which have been cleared of their timber have been put into cultivation on the various reservations?—A. I could not answer that; I do not know.

Q. Can you give any idea?—A. I have no idea.

Q. The policy of the statute and the Department being to promote cultivation of those lands, ought you to know something about it and the extent to which it is done?—A. I think my farmers can give you some information about that, but I do not know. I can give you the amount of stuff raised on each reservation; the census in the Indian Office here shows the amount of stuff raised for the last two years.

Q. But does not tell where it was raised?—A. No, sir.

Q. That is a statement of gross figures?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You spoke of the improvidence of the Indian. What is his disposition to work at logging?—A. Some of them work all right. The most of them are good men when they will work. Some will work three or four days and lay off a week.

Q. What is the disposition of the Indian who has a timber lot which is going to bring him in considerable money under a contract; is he disposed to work or is he disposed to stand still and take the money?—A. The majority of them are disposed to stand still.

Q. About the care of their money, what is the general disposition there?—A. Some of them take care of it and some of them won't; they are a good deal like white people.

Q. Can you give any figures to show the amount of money received by the Indians, and also the amount that you caused to be deposited in bank and took care of for them since you have been there?—A. I can get it from the Indian Office.

Q. Will you prepare a statement while you are here showing the total net receipts by the Indians on each reservation and the total amount taken care of by you?—A. Yes, sir; I will do so.

The CHAIRMAN. I will suspend.

By Senator BLACKBURN:

Q. The bank in which you made the bulk of the deposits of this Indian money, was the one you used to be associated with as cashier, was it not?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What is the name of that bank?—A. The Ashland National Bank.

Q. Is that a United States depository?—A. It is.

Q. Is it the only one in that section of the country?—A. At that time it was the only depository in the State north of Milwaukee or Madison; I think they have one at Oshkosh since then.

Q. You have been asked the reasons you had for refusing to allow Calligan Bros. to log on this reservation during the last season, which was 1887-'88. You stated in your testimony on some day previous to this that they had instructed their employes to charge up the pine cut from a squaw's land to a contract that they had with her brother who had been overpaid in advances?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You also stated here this morning that after you gave them instructions not to cut the timber on that Thad Thayer allotment that they went on and cut and removed it in the face of your instructions to the contrary.—A. Well, a portion of it; they finally stopped.

Q. Did those two things have anything to do with influencing you against allowing them to log on that reservation any more?—A. Yes, sir; during the winter of 1887-'88.

Q. What about these bonds which are required? Explain to me what good, if any, they do, or what necessity there is of giving bonds. How does it protect the Indian any?—A. I do not know. The Indian is pretty well protected, because none of the timber is removed off the reservation before a settlement is made.

Q. They are not allowed to remove the lumber until it is paid for?—A. No, sir; the timber is never taken out before May or June, and the settlement is generally made in April, and even if it was removed before the settlement those Indians could attach it anywhere.

Q. So that practically the Indians are made no safer by the requirement of the bond?—A. No, sir; but it always has been given them.

Q. There has been some complaint made by some of the Indians themselves before this committee about the reservation growing smaller, as they describe it; that they haven't as much land on the reservation as they formerly had. Do you know how the boundaries of the reservation were fixed?—A. The treaty of 1854 describes how that is.

Q. Is it not a fact that under an executive order of the President in 1872 the boundaries of this reservation were fixed by that order of General Grant's, in conformity with the treaty of 1854? Has there been any change of boundary in the reservation since you have been there?—A. No, sir; there has been no change.

Q. Do you know a man by the name of John O. Curran?—A. I do not know him; I never have seen him that I know of.

Q. Do you know what interest he has in the presentation of complaints here before this committee?—A. I do not know anything personally; this is merely hearsay.

Q. State, and we can find out what your source of information is.—A. Last fall or summer some time I was at Flambeau Reservation and Curran had been there. I did not know the man; he had been there before I got there. Joe Allen told me that this man Curran had been there holding councils with the Indians. I asked him what he was doing. He said he wanted the Indians to divide the reservation. I did not say anything more. Then, in the fall or winter Captain Henry told me that Curran was over there and had been counselling with the Indians, and wanted to divide the Flambeau Reservation with a line running from north to south, which would give him and his friends the timber on the eastern half of the reservation to take to the Wisconsin River, and he wanted Henry to go in with them to aid them, and Henry would control the western half and take it to the Chippewa River. Captain Henry said he would have nothing to do with them. A short time after that I heard that he was in Washington with the Indians.

Q. Since you have been agent out there how many special agents or inspectors have been there to investigate?—A. There was Inspectors Thomas and Gardner and there was an inspector there when I came away, Mr. Markham. Of special agents there have been Messrs. Parsons, Heth, and Robinson; I think those are all who have been up there.

Q. What did they come for?—A. To investigate the affairs of the agency and sometimes to see about this charge against me of favoritism.

Q. What reports have they made?—A. I do not know, they would not let me see. I know the reports must have been favorable or I would have heard from them; I never have heard.

Q. You say you tried to limit the number of contracts for the sale of timber, and that the Indians complained?—A. Yes, sir; they said one had as much right to cut as another.

Q. Is there any way to regulate the number of contracts unless it be arbitrarily done by the agent?—A. That is the only way.

Q. Is there any other way except to say that this Indian may sell and that Indian shall not?—A. There is no other way to do it.

Q. What good is to come from the preservation of the timber on this reservation if one half or one quarter is allowed to be cut this year and another quarter next year, covering a period of four years, instead of allowing them to sell in one year; what is the difference to the Indian?—A. That is a difficult question to answer.

Q. Does it do him any good?—A. No, sir; I do not think it does.

Q. If he is going to open up a farm there the sooner he gets rid of the timber the better?—A. Of course if an Indian does not take care of his money he would be likely to have more in that way at the end of the four years.

Q. He would not have any now until the end of the four years came?—
A. No, sir; he would live off some of his relatives or friends, probably.

Q. You say you undertook to put a limit on the time when these contracts should be made?—A. Yes, sir; that was in 1885.

Q. Who were the contractors who complained about it?—A. I think George Forsyth, at Bad River, made complaint about it; he was the only one there that I remember. Gaynor & Bergeron made complaint at Court Oreille, and the Calligans. I think the time was too short; that they could not get around and make their contracts, they said.

Q. Now in reference to the white labor allowed to be employed and the increased amount of white labor allowed; was that done by you on your own responsibility as best for the Indian, or was it done in obedience to instructions given you by the Indian Office here?—A. The only instructions I received are already in the testimony.

Q. That you have put in in the shape of your letter?—A. Yes, sir. But what I did I am satisfied was for the benefit of the Indians.

Q. There have been three contracts referred to here, one the Mary Bray contract, another with an Indian, Ke-gani-ganis, and with Ambrose Corbine. Those three contracts have been put in evidence here, and are dated September 4, 1886. I see by the records of the Department, which are in evidence, that Bergevin's contract with those three parties were dated on the 11th of October, 1886. Prior to the 11th of October, 1886, did you know, or had Calligan or anybody else ever told you, that they had contracts with these same parties for this same timber dated earlier than the 11th of October?—A. Not that I can remember. The only thing I remember about Calligan's contract was that Governor Pound gave me a list.

Q. Did you have any information from Calligan or anybody else about his contracts, or the dates of them, earlier than the list which was furnished you by Governor Pound after he was employed as counsel for them?—A. No, sir; I had not.

Q. Can you tell about when that was?—A. I can not just tell when it was.

Q. Governor Pound has stated in his testimony it was the latter part of October or early in November, 1886.—A. It seems to me it was earlier than that, because the weather was nice and warm at that time, I remember.

Q. Has the cutting of timber on these reservations been closed by the recent order of the Department?—A. The order was sent out from my office. I have no reports to the contrary.

Q. Did you see that order?—A. I saw a copy of it.

Q. What timber does it stop the cutting of?—A. Of everything.

Q. Not only these contracts not yet approved by the Commissioner, but all contracts whether approved or not approved?—A. On everything. It is an order to stop cutting at once on the reservation, it does not matter whether approved or not. It is to stop it in all cases.

Q. You spoke of a boom on Bad River as the Superior Lumber Company boom. Is that a private boom of that company through which logs are only to be rafted that go to its mill, or is it a boom through which all the logs are rafted out of that river and taken to Ashland to such mills as may own them?—A. In calling that the Superior Lumber Company boom I was mistaken; it belongs to the Ashland Boom and Canal Company, a separate company, but whose stock is held by the stockholders of the Superior Lumber Company. It is a general boom.

It is for the booming and rafting of logs that come down the Bad and White Rivers. The logs are held in the boom, assorted, the different marks put by themselves and towed to the different mills wherever owned.

Q. Have you any connection, direct or other, with the Superior Lumber Company?—A. I have not.

Q. You are in no wise interested in it?—A. In no wise.

Q. Do you know anything of the Union Mills Company?—A. Yes, sir; it is a company in Ashland. Their mill was right up the bay from the Superior Lumber Company mill.

Q. Did it handle timber off these reservations, too?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know any of the stockholders?—A. Horace J. James and W. R. Durfee were the principal ones.

Q. Is that the agent who preceded you?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was he a stockholder in the Union Mills Company whilst he was agent?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And that company was then handling lumber off these reservations?—A. Yes, sir; off the Bad River Reservation.

Q. How do you know that?—A. I have a letter here in which he admits that he was a stockholder in the company.

Q. Let us have it.—A. This is a long letter here in my letter-book, and is in reply to a complaint made by a special agent, I should judge. It does not bear on this subject, except the extracts, which I will read. It is dated February 23, 1883, and is addressed to Hon. Hiram Price, Commissioner of Indian Affairs. It says:

In relation to the purchase of pine by the Union Mill Company from the Indians, Mr. H. J. James is the president and business manager of the company. He came to me, as did others, mill and lumbermen here, to inquire about the terms upon which Indians were allowed to sell, and I gave him the same information. I told him that while I did not feel that I should debar him from the same privileges which others had, that personally I would have nothing to do or say in assisting in the matter; that all I could do was to see that the Indian received as fair terms and favorable treatment from him as from others, and in justice both to him and myself I would say that he would have been surprised had I done otherwise. I learn from him that he has advanced more to them than all the logs they have yet got out amount to, though the teams and outfit being paid for, they have the opportunity to make money for the remainder of the season. I know that he has spent more time with them, showing them about the work, etc., than all the other parties with whom they have contracted. He is a practical lumberman. Many of these Indians have worked for him in the mill, and I believe his advice has been of much assistance to them, and I know that his contracts with them have been as favorable as any they have made, and farther than being a stockholder in the company of which he is president and manager I have had no interest in these contracts, except such as it was my duty to take as Indian agent.

The WITNESS. That is one extract; here is the other:

In relation to my connection with the Union Mill Company: This is a chartered corporation in which I have been a stockholder since its organization some six years since, and nominally (being one of two resident stockholders) secretary and treasurer for a number of years, actively so previous to taking charge of this office. Since that time I have had nothing to do with the books, financial or other business management of the company. The business manager of this company has occasionally consulted with me, but I have taken no active part and devoted no time to the business during the nineteen months in which I have had charge of this office.

The WITNESS. That is signed W. R. Durfee.

Q. The form of contract that you found in existence when you went there as well as the one that you use now, if indeed there be any difference between the two—in either the one or the other is there any prohibition against the employment of white labor?—A. No, sir.

Q. Is there any reference made to the character of labor to be employed?—A. Not in the contract.

The CHAIRMAN. I propose to adjourn this hearing until we get copies of the papers called for from the Indian Office. The committee therefore will adjourn subject to the call of the chairman. Before adjourning I want to put into the record a letter addressed by me to Secretary Vilas, and his reply thereto; also a letter dated February 3, 1888, from Commissioner Atkins to Senator Spooner, of Wisconsin.

The letters submitted are as follows:

COMMITTEE ON INDIAN TRADERS, UNITED STATES SENATE,
Washington, D. C., March 12, 1888.

SIR: I have the honor to furnish to you a copy of a resolution this day adopted by the Senate Select Committee on Indian Traders, as follows:

"Resolved, That a copy of the evidence taken by this committee concerning the Chippewa Indian allotments and timber contracts be transmitted to the Secretary of the Interior for his information; that his attention be specially called to the testimony showing that extensive lumbering operations are now being carried on upon the Chippewa Reservations, under contracts not yet approved by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, by large gangs of lumbermen who are not Indians, in violation of the rules of the Indian Office under which such contracts have been allowed to be made; and that the suggestion be further made to the Secretary that it is advisable that orders be given by telegraph to stop immediately the cutting down of any more trees upon the reservations under contracts with the Indians, until further orders from the Department."

The evidence taken by the committee, which, by the above resolution, I am directed to transmit to you, is being printed at the Government Printing Office. A copy will be handed to you as soon as it is in type.

It appears from the evidence submitted that the Chippewa Indians to whom lands were allotted in severalty were first allowed to cut and sell the timber thereon under a plan recommended by Special Agent Durfee and Commissioner Price. Certain rigid provisions to regulate the business were adopted.

(1) The contracts, by their terms, were not to be valid until approved by the Commissioner.

(2) The Indians were to cut and haul the timber and deliver it for a fixed price, and were not to be allowed to sell stumpage.

(3) Three-fourths only of the lot of each Indian were to be cleared, the trees on the other one-fourth to be left standing in a compact body convenient for domestic purposes.

(4) The work in all cases was to be done by Indians, except that white men might be allowed to act as foremen, blacksmiths, and cooks.

The safeguards of the system thus carefully prescribed it appears, however, have been entirely broken down. The evidence taken by the committee shows:

(1) That none of the timber contracts for the present winter have been approved by the Commissioner, the same having only recently reached his office; but that, nevertheless, all the contracts have gone into operation, and the timber is being cut and removed thereunder.

(2) Although the form of the original contract is still used, yet the custom is for the purchasers of the timber from the Indians to guaranty that the latter shall realize a fixed amount as stumpage, and the purchasers then cut the timber and haul the logs themselves.

(3) The rule that only three-fourths of each lot shall be cut over is disregarded, and substantially all the trees are felled.

(4) The purchasers of the timber, doing their own lumbering, employ white men. Witnesses estimate that there are now at work upon the Court Oreille Reservation 200 Indians and 1,400 white men; upon the Flambeau 25 Indians and 125 white men; upon the Fond du Lac 25 Indians and 150 white men, and upon the Bad River 30 Indians and 400 white men.

The foregoing condensed summary of the case, as it now appears to the committee, leads to this general result: That a plan originally designed to benefit the Indians, by giving them for many years useful employment and reasonable sums of money, while removing from the reservations only trees which could be judiciously spared, and leaving the rest suitably preserved and located, has been perverted into a system under which greedy contractors have rushed upon the reservations; have aroused the desires of the Indians to obtain money without work; have made contracts practically unlimited as to the number of trees to be cut; have brought in swarms of white lumbermen to do the work; have already absolutely denuded the finest timber tracts, and are stripping the allotments so rapidly, that it is probable that within two or three years the pine lumber of the reservations will all be gone, and that not long thereafter the temporary and delusive prosperity of the Indians will cease, and the Government will be asked for appropriations for their support. Unless the testimony taken can be shown to be erroneous, there has been the grossest mal-administration on the part of the local United States officials in charge of the Chippewa reservations.

If upon inquiry the facts should appear to you substantially as above stated, it is not doubted that you will gladly adopt the suggestion of the committee and cause orders to be given by telegraph to stop the cutting of any more trees upon the reservations. This action would not interfere with the proper disposition of any timber already felled, and justice as near as may be would, of course, be accorded by the Commissioner to all parties. It is to be regretted that the present lumbering season is nearly over; but it is to be hoped there may not be any hesitancy and delay in action which will enable the perniciously active contractors to succeed in realizing the full benefit of their vicious contracts, which are as yet unapproved by the Department and therefore null and void.

It is due to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Hon. J. D. C. Atkins, to say that he has on oath before the committee disclaimed the possession of any knowledge, until very recently, of any of the injurious facts above recited, except that he admits that he knew that the cutting of timber had been allowed to begin when the contracts were signed, and before their approval by the Commissioner, which practice of violating the terms of the contracts he avers began before he took office; that he expresses the determination if wrongs have been done to correct them if possible, and that he asserts his confidence in the faithfulness of the Indian agent in control of the reservations, Mr. James T. Gregory, of Ashland, Wis. But the subject is evidently one requiring your personal consideration and such action as your knowledge of the localities, and possibly of the parties, will doubtless enable you to make prompt and efficacious.

Yours, very truly,

WM. E. CHANDLER,
Chairman.

Hon. WM. F. VILAS,
Secretary of the Interior.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, March 13, 1888.

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your communication of the 12th instant, delivered to me late last evening, and in response thereto to say that the subject shall have my personal attention, as suggested, and such action shall be taken in respect to the matter as may be found proper when the facts shall be ascertained. Orders will be transmitted by the most expeditious means which will protect the interests of the Indians, if they be in jeopardy, in the particulars mentioned.

The testimony spoken of has not yet been received; but I understand from the Commissioner of Indian Affairs that it is only such as has been produced by the complainants, and that the purport of it was an entire surprise to him.

Very truly, yours,

WM. F. VILAS,
Secretary.

Hon. WM. E. CHANDLER,
Chairman of the Select Committee on Indian Traders, U. S. Senate.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, February 3, 1888.

SIR: Referring to your letter of the 1st instant, requesting to be informed "under what laws, regulations, or restrictions the Chippewa Indians of Wisconsin are permitted to dispose of their timber on lands allotted under the treaty of 1854, or under the Dawes act," I have the honor to state that under the provisions of the said treaty (September 30, 1854, Stat. 1109) over 500 Indians have received patents for 80-acre tracts, variously located on the Lac Court d'Oreilles, Bad River, and Red Cliff Reservations, restricted against sale, lease, or alienation without consent of the President of the United States.

Most of the lands patented are heavily timbered with pine, and the Indians being desirous of turning the timber to account, authority was, on September 23, 1882, granted by the Department for all such patentees to cut and sell the timber from three-fourths of the patented tract, leaving the remaining one-fourth of the timber in a compact body, intact for their future use for fuel, fencing, etc.

The Indians were not permitted to sell stampage, neither were white crews to be allowed on the reservations to do the work, but the Indians themselves were to cut and sell, delivered on the bank of a driving stream, lake, or at mill, as should be agreed upon with the purchaser.

The logs were to be scaled by a competent person approved by the United States Indian agent, and scaling charges were to be paid equally between the parties to the contract.

Payment was to be made to the Indian owner from time to time during progress of the work, as should be agreed upon between the contracting parties, final payment to be made before removal of the logs.

The Indians were to be at liberty to make their own contracts, subject to the approval of the United States Indian agent and the Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

Bonds were required to be given by the purchaser in a sum sufficient to insure the faithful performance of the contracts, subject to like approval.

These general regulations have been in force since the winter of 1882, when the logging operations at the La Pointe Agency commenced. Additional instructions, rendered necessary by circumstances and the unforeseen development of the work, have from time to time been given to the several agents in charge, but the general plan as above outlined remains substantially the same, and, notwithstanding the provisions of the sixth section of the general allotment act of February 8, 1887 (24 Stat. 388), declaring every Indian born within the territorial limits of the United States, to whom allotments shall have been made thereunder, or any law or treaty, to be a citizen of the United States, is still held by the Department to be absolutely necessary for the protection of the Indians until Congress shall cease to provide an agent for them.

In cases where patent has not issued, the approval of the selection and allotment by the President, in accordance with article 3 of the treaty of September 30, 1854, is held to be sufficient authority for the allottee to contract, without waiting on the delay for patent to issue.

Forms of agreement and bond in use at the La Pointe Agency are herewith inclosed.

Very respectfully,

J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

Hon. J. C. SPOONER,
United States Senate.

The select committee then adjourned, to meet again at the call of the chairman.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, April 2, 1888.

SIR: I have the honor to transmit herewith copy of a communication of 2d instant from the Commissioner of Indian Affairs with its accompanying papers, comprising copies from the records and correspondence in his office, relative to the logging operations of the Chippewa Indians in Wisconsin and Minnesota; the allotment of lands in severalty to them, and the matters of complaint made by the Indians on the subject which appear to have been called for by your committee, in a letter addressed directly to him, under date of 12th ultimo.

Very respectfully,

WM. F. VILLAS,
Secretary.

The CHAIRMAN SELECT COMMITTEE ON INDIAN TRADERS,
United States Senate.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, April 2, 1888.

SIR: In compliance with the request contained in the inclosed copy of a letter dated the 12th ultimo, addressed to me by the chairman of the Senate Select Committee on Indian Traders, to be furnished for the information of the committee, with copies of such official records and correspondence of this office as will fairly and fully exhibit the system of timber contracts and allotments of land in severalty on the several Chippewa reservations in Northern Wisconsin and Minnesota within the jurisdiction of the La

Pointe Agency, Wisconsin, also the complaints of the Indians thereon, I have the honor to inclose herewith the under-mentioned papers, and respectfully recommend that they be transmitted to said committee, which now stands adjourned awaiting their receipt, viz:

Group No. 1.—Copies of original records and correspondence showing the origin and growth of the system of timber contracts on the Chippewa reservations within the jurisdiction of the La Pointe Agency, Wisconsin.

Group No. 2.—Copies of the complaints made by the Chippewa Indians of the La Pointe Agency, Wisconsin, up to the time of their visit to Washington, in February, 1888, with the reports of the special agents sent to investigate them.

Group No. 3.—The written complaints of the Indians now (or lately) in Washington. (These copies were furnished to the committee on the 16th ultimo, and appear in the printed record of proceedings, pages 145-160.)

Group No. 4.—Copies of original records and correspondence showing the system and extent of allotments of land in severalty to the Chippewa Indians of Wisconsin, within the jurisdiction of the La Pointe Agency, under the treaty of September 30, 1854 (10 Stat., 1109), and the general allotment act of February 8, 1887 (24 Stat., 388), with roll of excerpt copies of allotment schedules. The original schedules subject to the call of the committee as arranged with the chairman.

I also transmit (supplemental group No. 5) copies of sundry reports made from time to time, during the past six years, by the Department inspectors, upon the affairs and general management of the La Pointe Agency, and the condition of the Indians, which are not included in the papers composing the groups previously enumerated.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

GROUP No. 1.

Copies of original records and correspondence, showing the origin and growth of the system of timber contracts on the Chippewa reservations within the jurisdiction of the La Pointe Agency, Wis.

MISSISSIPPI RIVER LOGGING COMPANY,
Chippewa Falls, Wis., September 13, 1882.

DEAR SIR: We inclose herewith a copy of an instrument such as is held by a number of Indians on the Lac Court Oreilles Reservation. Some of the loggers of this vicinity are of the opinion that the Indians have a right to sell them the pine timber on these lands which have been thus conveyed to them by the United States for the purpose of clearing off the land, and to use the proceeds toward making houses for themselves.

And we prefer not to purchase any of these logs without being assured that the Indians have the right to thus sell their timber.

Will you please explain the rights of the Indians in this matter, and oblige,
Yours respectfully,

MISSISSIPPI RIVER LOGGING COMPANY.
Per J. D. BARNETT.

Hon. HIRAM PRICE,
Commissioner Indian Bureau, Washington, D. C.

[Inclosure.]

To all to whom these presents shall come, greeting:

Whereas there has been deposited in the General Land Office of the United States an order bearing date May 23, 1881, from the Secretary of the Interior, accompanied by a schedule with return dated May 10, 1881, from the Office of Indian Affairs, containing a list of selections of land for certain Indians of the Lac Court Oreille lands, as contemplated by the treaty concluded September 30, 1854, with the Chippewa Indians of Lake Superior and the Mississippi, whereby it appears that on the 11th day of May, 1881, the President in accordance with the provisions of the third article of said treaty, approved the selection of Ma-na-dis, being the south half of the southwest quarter, sections 32, 39,

8 west, in the district of lands subject to sale at Eau Claire, Wis., containing 80 acres, according to the official plat of the survey of said land returned to the General Land Office by the surveyor-general:

Now know ye that the United States of America, in consideration of the promises and in conformity with the said treaty, the order and return, with schedule aforesaid, have given and granted, and by these presents do give and grant, unto the said Ma-na-dis and to her heirs the said tract above described, but with the stipulation that said Ma-na-dis and her heirs shall not sell, lease, or in any manner alienate said tract without the consent of the President of the United States.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, September 21, 1882.

GENTLEMEN: I have received your letter of the 13th instant, inclosing a copy of an instrument such as you state is held by a number of Indians on the Lac Court d'Oreilles reservation, and inquiring whether they have a right to sell the pine timber from lands conveyed to them by the United States for the purpose of clearing off the land and using the proceeds towards making houses for themselves.

Upon examination I find the paper referred to is a partial copy of one of a series of patents issued from the General Land Office on the 20th June, 1881, to certain individual Indians of the Lac Court d'Oreilles band of Chippewas under the provisions of the treaty concluded with those Indians September 30, 1854 (10 Stat., 1109), said patents containing a restriction against alienation of the land by the grantee or his heirs without the consent of the President of the United States. The intention of this restrictive clause is obvious. It is that the lands shall be preserved for the exclusive benefit of the Indians and their descendants, and to prevent them from falling into the hands of unprincipled speculators.

In furtherance of this principle the Government will also interpose to see that their lands, which are patented to them in severalty in such manner, are not wholly denuded of timber, or advantage taken of their necessities or inexperience in business matters.

Upon consultation with the honorable Secretary we are of opinion that the interest of the Indians in this case will be properly subserved by permitting them, at their own option, to dispose of not more than three-fourths of the timber on their respective tracts, and so that at least one-fourth of the timber (in compact form, if possible) shall remain for their use, under the supervision of the local Indian agent, to such persons and upon such terms and conditions as to price for stumpage as shall be fixed by him and approved by this office.

Mr. Durfee, the agent for the Lac Court d' Oreilles, will be so instructed.

Very respectfully,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

MISSISSIPPI RIVER LOGGING COMPANY,
Chippawa Falls, Wisconsin.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, September 21, 1882.

SIR: I inclose herewith for your information copies of a letter received from the Mississippi River Logging Company, dated 13th instant, relative to the right of the Indian patentees on the Lac Court d'Oreilles reservation to sell the pine timber from their lands and of my reply thereto of this date.

You will acquaint the Indians holding patents of the views therein expressed, and that, subject to your supervision, they are at liberty to dispose of not more than three-fourths of the timber on their respective tracts, but so that one-fourth of the timber (in compact form, if possible) shall remain for their use, to such persons and upon such terms and conditions as to price for stumpage as shall be fixed by you and approved by this office. You will be careful to see that these instructions are properly carried out, and that the Indians are fully protected in their dealings.

Very respectfully,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

W. R. DURFEE, Esq.,
United States Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Bayfield, Wis.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, Wis., September 27, 1882.

SIR: Referring to Department letter of September 21 (L. 16940, '82), I would make the following suggestion, subject to approval of Department, as to the proper course to pursue in regard to the sale of timber by the Indians: I do not think lumbermen should be allowed to purchase the stumpage and put their own crews in the timber to cut it. The result of this would be that the timber would be scalped, the tops and hollow or shaky butts would be left in the woods, only the best logs taken, and the rest a total waste. Whites upon the reservation should be considered trespassers. The Indians should be allowed to make contracts for their logs, subject to Department approval, through me, delivered upon the bank of river, and should do the work themselves, thus getting the greatest benefits from the timber.

The white purchasers would, of course, have to furnish the supplies for the work, and might be allowed to put a foreman in the camp to instruct the Indians to do the work properly. There are a great many thousand dollars' worth of pine on the Lac Court d'Oreille reservation, and whether the Indians get any benefit from it or otherwise depends entirely upon how it is handled. If the timber is allowed to be slaughtered all at once the result will be that the reservation will be denuded of its most valuable feature and the Indians poorer than at present. If they do the work and receive the benefit there is value enough there to make them all independent.

I would further say in this connection that it is considered a full amount of business for one man to give proper attention to three or four lumber camps run by competent men who are accustomed to the business. If I have to look after all this work and give it the attention which its importance demands, I shall have but very little time for office work; and I would earnestly request that I might be allowed some stipulated sum per diem for necessary expenses while traveling, instead of the present way of taking subvouchers for each item. I do not suppose I can convey to the Department any adequate idea of the annoyance caused an agent in this country by the subvoucher system, but I will give a few illustrations:

Our ticket offices at railroad stations are open a few minutes before a train starts, and there is a rush for tickets. The crowd are waiting while I fill up a voucher, and naturally indulge in remarks unpleasant to listen to.

In Saint. Paul lately, while the agent was being hurried by some other person wanting a ticket, he remarked that he proposed to read the voucher before signing, as he was not going to receipt for a lot of Indian goods. At the eating-houses there is always a rush, with disagreeable features, connected with the signing of subvouchers.

It seems to me that if the Department can not place sufficient confidence in an agent to believe that when he takes oath to the fact that he has paid 50 cents for a meal he has done so, it is not surprising that the general public should look upon the incumbent of the office as a doubtful character.

I would also ask for authority to travel to and over the reservations in this agency as the interests of the service may seem to require.

Very respectfully,

W. R. DURFEE,
U. S. Indian Agent.

Hon. H. PRICE,
Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, October 3, 1882.

SIR: Referring to office letter of the 21st ultimo, relative to sale of timber on the Lac Court d'Oreille reservation, and your reply thereto dated 27th ultimo, you are directed to withhold all action in the matter until further instructions from this office.

There appears to be considerable competition looming up for this timber, and the subject is now undergoing further consideration by this Department with a view to devising some practical means whereby the Indians may be more fully protected.

Very respectfully,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

W. R. DURFEE, Esq.,
U. S. Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Wis.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, October 5, 1882.

The Hon. SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

SIR: I have received by Department reference, for report, a letter addressed to you by Hon. Angus Cameron, dated 25th ultimo, wherein, referring to Department telegram to him of the 20th ultimo to the effect that the Indian patentees on the Lac Court d'Oreille Reservation can sell the timber on the tracts patented, subject to the approval of this Department, which will approve all contracts honestly and fairly made, he inquires (at the request of several persons desiring to purchase and willing to pay the fair cash value of the timber) what regulations, if any, have been adopted to govern in the sale of the timber, putting the following specific questions:

"How are you to be satisfied that the contract was honestly and justly made? Will you have the timber on each patented tract examined and estimated, or will you accept as satisfactory the certificate of the Indian agent?"

"What terms of sale will you approve? Must the entire consideration be paid down, or may it be paid in installments?"

"Within what time must the timber be cut and removed from the land? Purchasers would not be willing to agree to cut and remove all the timber in less than five years, and would prefer to have eight or ten. If you are satisfied that it is for the interests of Indians that the timber be sold, I suggest that you have prepared a form of contract of sale so that there will be uniformity in the business."

Mr. Cameron states that the standing timber is worth from $1 to $2 per thousand feet, the value depending upon the quality and location of the timber, that the Indians are suspicious, and it is believed that but few of them will sell or sign any contract of sale unless they are paid the whole consideration at the time of signing the contract, and that purchasers will not wish to pay the whole consideration until the contract is approved by you.

He further states that he is informed that certain Indian traders on the reservation or in its vicinity have made some purchases of timber from the Indians, and have paid therefor with whisky and trinkets.

The reservation for the Lac Court d'Oreilles band of Chippewa Indians was established by the second article of the treaty, concluded September 30, 1854. (10 Stat. 1109.)

Under the third article of said treaty 186 patents for land, aggregating 14,774.65 acres, on said reservation were issued to individual Indians of the Lac Court d'Oreille band, on June 20, 1881. These patents, in accordance with treaty provisions, contain a clause against alienation of the land without the consent of the President of the United States.

In the case of the Omaha Indians, who are prohibited by treaty from alienating the tracts assigned to them in severalty, except as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior, you held that "there is no authority on the part of the Government to prevent such Indians from selling the timber on the lands unless it is in exercise of the authority of the Government as the protector of these and all other Indians to see that they are not defrauded of their rights. If the Indian cuts and sells his timber, the Department will not interfere unless it is a clear case of incapacity on his part to manage his own affairs, and that he is being defrauded in such sale." (Department letter to Miss Fletcher, May 19, 1882.)

Upon a recent inquiry of the Mississippi River Logging Company, whether these Indians had a right to sell the pine timber on lands patented to them in severalty, informally submitted by me to you on the 21st ultimo, you were of opinion that the interests of the Indians would be properly subserved by permitting them, at their own option, to dispose of not more than three-fourths of the timber on their respective tracts, and so that at least one-fourth of the timber (in compact form if possible) should remain for their use; under the supervision of the local Indian agent, to such persons, and upon such terms and conditions as to price for stumpage as shall be fixed by him and approved by this office.

On the same date Agent Durfee (La Pointe Agency) was so instructed.

On the 27th ultimo Agent Durfee replied as follows:

"I do not think lumbermen should be allowed to purchase the stumpage and put their own crews in the timber to cut it. The result of this would be that the timber would be scalped, the tops and hollow or shaky butts would be left in the woods, only the best logs taken, and the rest a total waste. Whites upon the reservation should be considered trespassers. The Indians should be allowed to make contracts for their logs, subject to Department approval, through me, delivered upon the bank of the river, and should do the work themselves, thus getting the greatest benefit from the timber. The white purchasers would, of course, have to furnish the supplies for the work, and might be allowed to put a foreman in the camp to instruct the Indians to do the work properly. There are a great many thousand dollars' worth of pine on the Lac Court d'Oreille Reservation, and whether the Indians get any benefit from it or otherwise depends entirely upon how it is handled. If the timber is allowed to be slaughtered all at once, the result will be that the reservation will be denuded of its most valuable feature, and the Indians poorer than at present. If they do the work and receive the benefit there is value enough there to make them all independent."

In view of this report of the agent, and of the large prospective competition for the timber, I deemed it advisable to instruct Agent Durfee to withhold all action in the matter until further instructions from this office.

Two plans for the disposal of this timber now present themselves for consideration; one, that proposed by the agent, of permitting the Indians to make contracts, subject to the approval of this Department, for the sale of their logs, delivered upon the bank of the river, the Indians doing the work themselves, and thus obtaining the greatest benefit from the timber. This arrangement would appear to have its advantages, in that it would render the presence of whites on the reservation unnecessary to any greater extent than would be required to instruct the Indians how to do the work properly, and would furnish the latter with employment during the winter months. By this means the Indians would receive not only pay for the timber, but also for their labor, less the value of any supplies furnished to them by the purchasers.

All this would necessarily involve great labor and detail, and it would appear to be almost impracticable for the agent, who has four reservations under his charge, to give that attention to the matter which its importance demands, without neglecting his regular official duties.

The other plan which, since the magnitude of the work and probable competition is more apparent, has suggested itself to me is as follows:

(1) To appoint one or more disinterested and experienced persons to appraise the timber on the several tracts of such of the Indian patentees as may desire to sell, reserving one-fourth of such timber (in compact form, if possible) for the use of the owner of the tract, such appraisement to be in 40-acre lots, according to the public survey, when practicable, and in a lesser quantity upon tracts whereon the timber to be reserved for the use of the Indians is standing.

The schedule of appraisement to state the quality, quantity, and value of the pine timber growing or being on each lot, and when returned to the office of the Indian agent within whose jurisdiction the lands are situated, to be subject to public inspection for at least sixty days before the day appointed for the sale of said timber as hereinafter recommended. One copy of such schedule of appraisement to be filed in the office of the Indian agent aforesaid, and a duplicate thereof in this Department. The compensation of the appraisers to be fixed by the Secretary of the Interior.

(2) After appraisement, the timber to be advertised for sale by notice of not less than two months to be published in at least three newspapers having general circulation within the district of the land office wherein the lands are situated, and thereafter to be offered for sale at public auction at the La Pointe Agency, or such other place as may be most convenient, under the direction of the agent, to the highest bidder, for cash, in lots not exceeding 40 acres, or fractional part thereof, as hereinbefore mentioned, but not to be sold for less than the appraised value thereof.

All timber (save and except that reserved for the use of the individual Indian owners) remaining unsold at the expiration of one year after it shall have been offered as aforesaid, to be, with consent of the Indians interested therein, again advertised and offered at public auction at the La Pointe Agency, or such other place as may be most convenient under like direction of the said agent, at not less than the appraised value thereof, and sold for cash only. The Secretary of the Interior to give such time for the removal of said timber as in his judgment seems proper, not exceeding five years.

(3) The proceeds of sale to be applied by the agent (1) to the payment of all expenses of appraisement and sale of said timber, and (2) the residue to be paid to the individual Indian patentees, owners of said timber, in proportion to their several interests therein, taking the schedule of appraisement as the basis of quantity in each case, with power to the agent to equitably apportion the amount of expenses between the several Indians entitled, if necessary to do so.

The foregoing is an outline of a plan which, although perhaps susceptible of improvement in its details, will in my opinion be a quicker, less troublesome, and at the same time more effective plan of realizing something like the value of the timber for the benefit of these Indians, and I therefore recommend its adoption in preference to that suggested by the agent.

In regard to the capacity of the Lac Court d'Oreille Indians to handle their own money carefully, and which may be of interest in connection with this subject, I extract the following from Agent Durfee's annual report for the current year, just received.

"The younger Indians as a class are industrious and thrifty and are making rapid progress in civilization.

"The lumbering interests upon the Chippewa River in their vicinity furnish, in the various operations of cutting and driving the logs, employment for many of them during the winter and early spring and a ready market for the produce of their farms. I am pleased to report that instead of squandering their earnings from day to day, as was formerly the case with them, I saw many of these Indians last spring, on their return from the camps, investing their surplus earnings—from $75 to $150 each—in provisions, implements, etc., and in the employment of assistance in clearing and planting upon their patented and allotted lands."

Mr. Cameron's letter is herewith returned.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

LA CROSSE, WIS., September 25, 1882.

DEAR SIR: I telegraphed you on the 19th instant asking if the Chippewa Indians of the Lac Court d'Orielle band who have received patents for lands on the Lac Court d'Orielles Reservation can sell the timber on said lands.

You answered on the 20th instant as follows:

"If the Indians have patents they may sell the timber, subject to the approval of the Department, and the Department will approve contracts honestly and fairly made.

"H. M. TELLER,
"Secretary."

This reservation embraces four townships of land.

A considerable portion of the land is covered with pine timber. Men engaged in the lumbering business would like to buy this timber, and I write this at the request of several persons who desire to purchase.

The standing timber is worth from $1 to $2 per 1,000 feet, the value depending upon the quality and location of the timber. The Indians are suspicious, and it is believed but few of them will sell or sign any contract of sale unless they are paid the whole consideration at the time of signing the contract.

Purchasers will not wish to pay the whole consideration until the contract is approved by you.

I am informed that certain Indian traders on the reservation, or in its vicinity, have made some purchases of timber of the Indians and have paid therefor with whisky and trinkets.

The parties at whose request I write are willing to pay the fair cash value of the timber, and they desire to know what regulations, if any, you have adopted to govern in the sale of the timber.

How are you to be satisfied that the contract was "honestly and justly made?" Will you have the timber on each patented tract examined and estimated, or will you accept as satisfactory the certificate of the Indian agent?

What terms of sale will you approve? Must the entire consideration be paid down, or may it be paid in installments?

Within what time must the timber be cut and removed from the land? Purchasers would not be willing to agree to cut and remove all the timber in less than five years, and would prefer to have eight or ten.

If you are satisfied that it is for the interest of the Indians that the timber be sold, I suggest that you have prepared a form of contract of sale, so that there will be uniformity in the business.

Please write me as soon as practicable in regard to this matter.

And oblige, yours, very truly,

ANGUS CAMERON.

Hon. H. M. TELLER,
Secretary of the Interior.

[Inorsement.]

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
October 9, 1882.

Respectfully returned to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, inclosing copy of letter of this date to Hon. Angus Cameron, United States Senate, on the subject of sale of timber to lumbermen by Indians holding patents to their lands.

The views set forth in that letter should form the basis of instructions to be communicated by you to the agent on the subject.

H. M. TELLER, Secretary,

[Inclosure.]

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, October 9, 1882.

SIR: I have received and considered your communication of the 25th ultimo, inquiring what terms and conditions in contracts by lumbermen with Indians holding patents for their lands on the Lac Court d'Oreille Reservation, in Wisconsin, would be satisfactory to the Department, etc.

The contracts for the sale of the timber should be made with the Indians owning the lands, under the supervision of the agent for the Indians, subject to the approval of this Department.

The timber should be cut by the Indians and delivered by them on the bank of the river. The price to be paid should be the fair cash value of the timber laid down on the banks of the river, and payment should be made therefor when it is so delivered.

Crews of white men can not be allowed on the reservation for the purpose of cutting the timber. If it should be found necessary a proper person as agent for the purchaser and at his expense may be permitted by the Indian agent to go among the Indians to see to the proper cutting of the timber, its measurement, etc.

The timber should not be cut to waste, and not more than three-fourths thereof on each tract should be disposed of, leaving one-fourth as near as may be in a compact form for the further use of the Indians.

These instructions will be communicated to agent of La Pointe Agency at Bayfield, Wis.

Very respectfully,

H. M. TELLEB,
*Secretary.*Hon. ANGUS CAMERON,

SIR: Referring to office letter to you of 3d instant, wherein you were directed to withhold action upon the Lac Court d'Oreilles timber question pending further consideration and instruction from this office, I have now to inform you that the matter has been fully laid before the honorable Secretary, whose views will be found in the inclosed copy letter from the Department to Hon. Angus Cameron, dated 9th instant, which will also serve as a basis of instructions to you on the subject.

Before taking action thereunder, and in order that there may be some degree of uniformity in the business, you will please prepare and submit to this office a form of contract, such as you deem will be appropriate, having due regard to the honorable Secretary's views as embodied in the inclosed letter.

Very respectfully,

SIR: In conformity with Department letter of 11th instant (L. 18,329, 1882) I have the honor to submit a form of contract which in my judgment would, with some modification to cover particular cases, space for which should be left before the words "This contract shall be valid and binding only, etc.," meet the necessities of the case.

Very respectfully,

W. R. DURFEE,
*U. S. Indian Agent.*Hon. HIRAM PRICE, letter to Hon. Angus Cameron, of the 9th instant, I have to report that a copy of said letter was duly transmitted to Agent Durfee as a basis of instructions, and he was directed, with a view to uniformity in procedure, to prepare and submit to this office a form of contract appropriate to the subject.

I have the honor to submit herewith, for your perusal, a form of contract transmitted to this office by Agent Durfee on the 17th instant, which appears to be in substantial compliance with your views as expressed in the letter to Mr. Cameron, and I therefore recommend its approval and adoption.

Very respectfully,

Care should be exercised in all cases that the stipulations of the contracts are fully complied with, both by the agent in the performance of his duties and by the parties with whom the Indians are allowed to enter into contract.

Very respectfully,

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, November 6, 1882.

SIR: The form of agreement for sale of pine timber upon the tracts patented to individual Indians of the Lac Court d'Oreilles band, transmitted with your letter of the 17th ultimo, has been duly submitted to the honorable Acting Secretary of the Interior and approved by him.

To save labor in writing and insure uniformity in the contracts, I have had 500 copies printed, which are forwarded to you by this mail. All agreements should be executed in duplicate, each party retaining one part.

There appears to be considerable competition for this timber, and several applications have been made to this office for information. All such applicants have been referred to you, as holding the Secretary's instructions on the subject. I presume that the Indians interested have been notified of these instructions, and informed that, for their own protection, no contracts will be approved unless they are in specified form and submitted through you.

The suggestions contained in your letter of the 7th instant to employ a competent person to supervise the logging operations, and to establish a depot upon the reservation, to furnish the Indians with the necessary supplies, have not been overlooked; they are both good, but unfortunately impracticable for want of funds. If it shall be found in any case that the Indian is unwilling or unable by force of circumstances to perform the labor, I see no alternative, in view of the Secretary's ruling against the presence of crews of white men upon the reservation, but to let matters remain as they are, approving only such contracts as can be carried out according to the letter of his instructions, as contained in his letter to Mr. Cameron, a copy of which was sent you on the 11th ultimo. In this connection I especially draw your attention to that portion of the Secretary's letter wherein he says: "If it should be found necessary, a proper person as agent for the purchaser and at his expense may be permitted by the Indian agent to go among the Indians to see to the proper cutting of the timber, its measurement, etc."

The Government farmer and his assistant upon the Lac Court d'Oreilles Reservation should be also fully posted as to the Secretary's instructions, and directed to use their utmost endeavors towards a faithful execution thereof.

You will acknowledge receipt of the agreements and report progress.

Very respectfully,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

W. R. DURFEE, Esq.,
U. S. Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Wis.

MISSISSIPI RIVER LOGGING COMPANY,
Chippewa Falls, Wis., October 26, 1882.

DEAR SIR: In accordance with the tenor of your letter (16940-'82) we have suggested to some of our loggers that they make bargains with some of the Indians of the Lac Court Oreilles Reservation for not more than three-fourths of the pine timber on their allotments at such price for the stumpage as shall be approved by the local agent and by the General Government, making a fair price for the same, and so far as possible to encourage the Indians to cut and haul the timber himself, and for our own protection and that of our loggers, we have gotten up the inclosed blank form, to be used in every case where we were expected to buy the logs which only transfers the Indian's option to us to buy a portion of his pine timber on such terms and conditions as we could make with the local agent, with the approval of the General Government. Many of the Indians are anxious to sell some of their timber, and we are willing to buy and pay what it is worth. If we should deal with them in the manner suggested by this blank form, will the Government approve? If the Government does approve, please instruct the local agent to proceed to make terms and prices with us, and oblige,

Yours, respectfully,

F. WEYERHAEUSEL,

SIR: I have received your letter of the 26th ultimo, transmitting for approval of this Department a form of agreement which you propose to make with individual Indian holders of patents on the Lac Court d'Oreilles Reservation, giving you ninety days' option of purchase of the pine timber on three-fourths of their respective tracts.

In reply I have to state that since the date of my letter to your company of the 21st September last the general subject of the sale of this timber has been further considered by the honorable Secretary, and his instructions, with approved form of an agreement to be made, transmitted to Agent Durfee at the La Pointe Agency, to whom you are respectfully referred for further information.

The inclosure contained in your letter is herewith returned.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE,
Agency, 1882.

SIR: My instructions from the honorable Commissioner of Indian Affairs in relation to the sale of pine upon the Indian reservations are as follows:

Indians who have received patents for their lands will be permitted to cut and sell the timber from three-fourths of the tract patented, leaving one-fourth of the timber in a compact body intact for future use for fuel, fencing, etc.

They will not be permitted to sell stumpage, the work to be done by white crews, but must sell delivered on the bank of a driving stream, lake, or at mill as may be desired. White men logging upon the reservation will be considered and treated as trespassers.

The logs to be paid for from time to time as may be agreed between the contracting parties, final payment to be made before they are removed from the landings.

The scale will be by a party approved by the United States Indian agent in charge of the reservation, the scaler to be paid equally by the first and second parties to the contract. All contracts, before becoming valid, must be approved by the United States Indian agent and the honorable Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

I have blank forms of contract at this office which I will furnish if you desire to purchase pine from any of the parties authorized to sell.

Very respectfully,

SIR: In compliance with the request contained in your letter of the 8th instant, I have had printed and herewith inclose 100 copies of the circular letter in reference to sale of pine timber on the Lac Court d'Oreilles reserve. I have slightly varied the wording of the circular, but the substance remains the same.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, Wis., December-8, 1882.

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt this day of 500 blank forms of contract for sale of pine timber on Indian reservation. I would respectfully ask for the following modifications of my instructions in regard to the delivery of the pine, which I think would be in the interest of the Indians. The Indians are dependent upon parties to whom they contract their logs for the necessary supplies, etc. Some of them are in need of teams. These of course must be furnished before the logs are delivered and parties deem it too great a risk to advance $500 or $600 in a team besides other supplies, before there is any security in sight. I have suggested that teams be furnished conditionally that the teams be rented to them at a fair rate per day, the amount to apply as purchase money for the team in case the Indian is able to purchase it from proceeds of logs. To this the objection is made that they do not like to intrust a valuable team to Indians unaccustomed to the proper care of them. I would respectfully ask that I be authorized, when in my judgment advisable, to allow of the employment under such circumstances of a competent white teamster from whom the Indians could learn how properly to care for and work a team when it became their own.

Second. There being no official interpreter upon the Lac Court d'Oreille reservation, and the distance from this office being so great, that the Government farmer and assistant be authorized to have the contract properly explained to the Indians without expense, and that their certificates be received in lieu of that of the interpreter.

Third. That I be authorized to incur such expense as may be necessary in making trips to Bad River, Red Cliff, and Lac Court d'Oreille reservations when, in my judgment, it may be for the interest of the service. I would say that these, at this season of the year, are no desirable pleasure trips, and the expense and inconvenience will not be incurred except when I deem it absolutely necessary.

Very respectfully,

W. R. DURFEE,
U. S. Indian Agent.

Department letter referred to is dated, by clerical error I presume, November 6.

Hon. H. PRICE,
Commissioner Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, December 20, 1882.

SIR: I have received your letter of the 8th instant, wherein you ask for certain modifications of existing instructions on the subject of the disposal of the pine timber on the Lac Court d'Oreilles Reserve. You state that the Indians are dependent on parties with whom they contract for the necessary supplies, etc., and that some of them are in need of teams, which must be furnished before the logs are delivered; that intending purchasers decline to risk $500 or $600 in a team and supplies before there is any security in sight; that you have suggested that teams be furnished conditionally that they be rented to the Indians at a fair per diem rate, the amount to apply as purchase money for the team in case the Indian is able to purchase it from proceeds of logs. To this you say objection is made by the owners that they do not like to intrust a valuable team to Indians unaccustomed to the proper care of them, and in view of this state of facts you ask that you be authorized, when in your judgment advisable, to allow of the employment of a competent white teamster from whom the Indians can learn how properly to care for and work a team when it became their own.

I see no objection to such a course being adopted, provided it is clearly understood by all parties that the teamster is to be employed and paid for his services by the Indian for whom they are performed, out of the proceeds derived from sale of his logs, and that in no event is the teamster to look to the Government or yourself individually for pay; also, that he is a proper person to be upon the reservation. It would be well to limit the employment of such teamsters to a specified time, of which you will be the best judge.

Second. There being no official interpreter upon the Lac Court d'Oreilles Reservation, and on account of the great distance thereof from your office, you ask that the Government farmer and assistant farmer be authorized to have the contract properly explained to the Indians without expense, and that their certificates be received in lieu of that of the interpreter. To this also I see no objection, provided that the Indian fully comprehends the nature and terms of the contract he enters into.

Third. You ask that you be authorized to incur such expense as may be necessary in making trips to Bad River, Red Cliff, and Lac Court d'Oreille reserves, when in your judgment it may be for the interests of the service. Application to make such trips should, whenever practicable, be made to this office, stating what benefit, if any, will accrue to the service therefrom and the estimated expense thereof. If, however, it is not practicable to take such action before making the trip, a full and complete account of all expenses should be kept, and upon return from the journey be at once submitted to this office for approval. In this connection your attention is called to sections 41 to 45 of Instructions of October 1, 1880, and to blank form for traveling expense account on page 107 thereof.

Very respectfully,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

W. R. DURFEE, Esq.,
United States Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, January 10, 1883.

SIR: On the 9th October last you transmitted to this office a copy of a letter written to Hon. Angus Cameron, on the same date, relative to the cutting and sale of timber by the Chippewa Indians holding patents on the Lac Court d'Oreilles Reservation, in Wisconsin, and directed that the views therein set forth should form the basis of instructions to be communicated by this office to the agent on the subject.

On the 11th October a copy of said letter was transmitted by this office to Agent Durfee, at the La Pointe Agency, and he was directed to prepare and submit for approval a form of appropriate contract, having due regard to Department views as expressed in the letter to Mr. Cameron.

On the 17th October Agent Durfee transmitted a form of contract, which in due course was submitted to the Department, and returned to this office approved on the 1st November last.

Primarily the instructions emanating from the Department and given to Agent Durfee had reference only to the Indians resident on the Lac Court d'Oreilles reserve; but from the tenor of certain contracts which he has recently forwarded to this office for approval he appears to have assumed that such instructions were applicable to all Indians holding patents for land upon the several reservations within the jurisdiction of the La Pointe Agency, under the treaty with the Chippewas of September 30, 1854 (10 Stat., 1109), viz: The Lac Court d'Oreilles band, occupying the Lac Court d'Oreilles reserve; the Lac du Flambeau band, occupying the Lac du Flambeau reserve; the La Pointe band, occupying the La Pointe or Bad River reserve, and the La Pointe band, of which Buffalo is chief, occupying the Red Cliff reserve.

Of these, certain individual Indians belonging to the Lac Court d'Oreilles, the La Pointe or Bad River, and the La Pointe (Buffalo Chief) bands, have had patents issued to them under said treaty, alike restricted against alienation of the lands without consent of the President.

No allotments have hitherto been made to the Lac du Flambeau band. I presume that your intention was that all Indians holding patents under the treaty of September 30, 1854, should be accorded like privileges and placed under the same restrictions in regard to the disposal of their timber, and that the instructions given might be held to apply equally to all interested under said treaty, but in order to avoid any future question I respectfully suggest, if it meets your approval, that said instructions be formally extended so as to meet the requirements of the case.

As contracts entered into by certain Bad River Indians are now before this office for approval, I have the honor to request your early reply.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

[Indorsement.]

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY,
January 11, 1883.

Respectfully returned to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, whose recommendation that the instructions of the Department relative to the allowance of contracts between the Indians of Lac Court d'Oreille Indian reservation, under charge of La Pointe Agency, and citizens of the United States for disposal of timber on patented lands be extended to include all Indian parties to treaty of September 30, 1854 (Chippewa), who have patents for their lands, is hereby approved.

H. M. TELLER,
Secretary.

DEPARTMENT OF INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, January 22, 1883.

SIR: Upon further consideration of the form of agreement prescribed for the sale of pine timber upon the patented lands of the reservation within the limits of your agency, I am disposed to think that it does not sufficiently protect the Indians, and that some modification will be necessary before any of the agreements already forwarded can be approved.

Under the agreement as it now stands the Indian agrees to deliver so many thousand feet of logs—say, upon the bank of Lake Superior. The purchaser agrees to pay so fast as the logs are delivered on the bank in lots of 100,000 feet; two-thirds of the purchase money, that is to say, when 100,000 feet are delivered, the sum of $433.33 (assuming the price agreed upon to be $6.50 per 1,000), and for each subsequent 100,000 feet to pay an equal amount, the remainder of the purchase money to be paid not later than a stated period named in the agreement, when the logs shall be considered as finally delivered.

This arrangement is all very well so long as both parties live up to the terms of the agreement, but suppose the Indian after delivering his logs finds that the cash is not forthcoming, and is beguiled into parting with the possession upon some plausible pretext of payment the next day, or next week, or with a check for which there may be no funds, or the logs are taken from him by force, where is his remedy? I do not say that this will occur, but if it should, the Indian will naturally look to this Department to see that he obtains redress.

My attention has been more specially directed to these contingencies, since I have perceived the extent of the proposed operations, and the amount of money involved in the few contracts which have already been submitted.

As a general proposition I think it may be correctly stated that, owing to his anomalous position, an Indian can not successfully maintain a suit in court unless specially authorized thereto by statute. The neighboring State of Michigan by her statutes confers upon all Indians judicial rights and privileges, including the right to sue and be sued in the State courts, but I am unable to find any such provision in the laws of Wisconsin. As a measure of protection therefore to the Indians in these transactions, I have concluded to require from the purchaser, in each case, a bond, in double the amount of the entire purchase money, with two approved sureties, conditioned for the faithful performance of his (the purchaser's) part of the agreement, such bond to be given to the United States for the use and benefit of the Indian with whom the agreement is made.

I have prepared a form of bond, which is now in the printer's hands, and in a few days an installment of copies will be sent you, with instructions as to manner of execution, etc,

In the mean time I return herewith the agreements heretofore forwarded for approval, viz:

No.	Name.	With.	Remarks.
1	Thomas Scott	Haskins & Denomie.....	Bad River; submitted with your letter of 19th ultimo.
2	John Kakagondo.....	Bad River reserve; received January 2, 1883 (no letter of advice).

Upon receipt of the blank forms, you will supply the respective purchasers therewith, and require them to execute a bond in each case with two surties, of whose pecuniary responsibility you will assure yourself, and transmit the same with your approval indorsed thereon for the action of this office.

Referring to office letter to you of November 6 last, you were instructed that "all agreements should be executed in duplicate, each party retaining one part."

I presume this has been done in the cases before me, but in every case both parts of the agreement should be forwarded to this office for approval, in connection with the bond, so as to make one uniform and complete transaction.

I would also suggest that the following additional clause be incorporated in the agreements (in the blank space left), namely:

"It is further agreed that no portion of the logs hereby contracted for shall be removed by the said party of the second part, until payment therefor shall have been made in manner herein stipulated."

In the agreement (No. 3) Ba-dan-sin-o-kwa with Haskins and Denomie, the tract from which the logs are to be cut is erroneously described as northeast quarter of southeast quarter, township 47 north, range 1 west, whereas it should be northwest quarter as previously recited from the patent. This error should be corrected before the agreement is returned for approval.

Very respectfully,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
January 25, 1883.

SIR: Referring to office letter of the 22d instant, requiring purchasers of pine timber from the Indian patentees within the limits of your agency to give bond for the faithful performance of the agreement, I inclose herewith blank form of bond, with pencil suggestions, for your guidance in the premises. A package of blanks is also transmitted to you by this mail.

The sureties will make affidavit of sufficiency preferably before a United States commissioner, but if there is not one convenient it may be taken before a notary public, whose official acts should be certified in the usual form by the clerk of the court in whose district such notary resides.

Very respectfully,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

W. R. DUFFEE, Esq.,
U. S. Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, Wis., February 12, 1883.

SIR: Referring to Department letter of January 22, 1883 (23146-1882, 142-1883, 1144-1883), I will endeavor to procure the required bonds immediately. While carrying out the instructions, I would respectfully request their modification for the following reasons:

I have on previous occasions urged upon the Department the necessity of allowing the Indians to sell their pine as a business proceeding calculated to tend to their benefit, not only by encouraging them in business habits, but also as furnishing them with capital wherewith to make further improvements upon their homestead. Upon receiving the required permission I found it somewhat difficult to get log purchasers to invest at fair rates, owing to the irresponsibility of the Indians who had necessarily to be supplied in advance with everything needed for commencing the work, and during its progress with everything necessary for carrying it on. The preference of buyers was to contract with responsible parties who did not need continuous watching and were responsible for the fulfillment of contracts.

I have made arrangements by which I supervise final payments, and have gone out of my limits to assist the Indians about details, so far as I could spare the time, regulating to considerable extent the prices paid among themselves for hauling, etc., and have the work in this immediate vicinity, as I think, pretty well regulated, though I have not given it my personal supervision, having no team and not wishing to incur expense without the definite instructions for which I asked. The Indians will not, I think, get out half the logs for which they have contracted. Every party with whom they contract will have paid half or two-thirds of the price of the logs on the bank without acquiring any title, and it seems a hardship and a discouragement to the business, which will militate against the interest of the Indians, to require buyers to give bonds in twice the amount of value covered by contract, which will be more than four times the value of the actual amount of business involved in the transaction (owing to short crop, as stated above). All this will have a tendency to discourage fair buyers from dealing with the Indians, and will force the Indians to pay for the extra difficulties imposed upon parties purchasing from them by receiving lower prices for their pine. I am satisfied that if the honorable Commissioner could personally inspect the matter he would be convinced that the Indians had ample security, and that bonds, if any, should be required by the purchaser who invests two-thirds of the money without any other security than the contract of an irresponsible party that logs shall become his upon the payment of the other one-third of the contract price.

I believe it to be in the interest of the Indians that bonds be not required, and if the Department, upon these representations, coincides with my views, I would respectfully ask to be so instructed.

Very respectfully,

W. R. DURFEE,
United States Indian Agent.

Hon. H. PRICE,
Commissioner Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, February 23, 1883.

SIR: I have considered your letter of the 12th instant, suggesting, for the under-mentioned reasons, a modification of the requirements of this office in regard to bonds to be given by purchasers of the pine timber upon the Lac Court D'Oreille and other reservations:

(1) That the Indians have to be supplied in advance by the purchaser with everything needed for commencing the work, and during its progress with everything necessary for carrying it on.

(2) That the Indians will not get out half the logs for which they have contracted, and that every purchaser will have paid half or two-thirds of the price of the logs on the bank before he acquires title. Under such conditions I agree with you that it will be unreasonable to require the purchaser to give bond in double the amount of the value of the logs called for on the face of the contract, and in all such cases I think that the interests of the Indians may be fully protected by requiring a bond in a penal sum sufficient only to cover the amount which may be justly estimated to be due and payable to the Indians on final settlement, having due regard to the circumstances of each individual case. As I do not see how you can possibly supervise each final payment, this appears to me only a proper precaution on behalf of the Indians, and one to which no purchaser should object. Instructions of the 22d ultimo are therefore modified accordingly.

Very respectfully,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

W. R. DURFEE, Esq.,
U. S. Indian Agent, Ashland, Wis.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Pahquauhong, February 2, 1883.

DEAR SIR: Would you be kind enough to give me instructions in regard to the inclosed letter of Messrs. Dobie, Stratton & Thayer?

The Hon. W. R. Durfee, United States agent for this agency, is absent at Lake Vermillion, and it may be some days before his return.

It is getting late in the season now, and I should judge this was an important question, which should be impartially decided.

Your early answer will oblige, yours, respectfully,

WM. WETENHALL,
Assistant Government Farmer.

Hon. COMMISSIONER INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, D. C.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, February 28, 1883.

SIR: During your absence at Vermillion Lake, I received a letter from Assistant Government Farmer Wetenhall, dated the 2d instant, transmitting the inclosed letter from Dobie, Stratton & Thayer, and requesting instructions thereon.

These parties complain that certain lumbermen making contracts with the Indians for logs delivered on the Lac Court d'Oreilles River at $6.50 per 1,000 furnish a white foreman, cook, and teamster, and their own teams and necessary supplies, and that when the logs are on the ice they pay $3.50 per 1,000 and charge $3 for putting them in. This they claim is in violation of the orders given that no white labor was to be employed in getting the logs upon the ice, and places them at a disadvantage, and they inquire whether they are justified in employing a white man as foreman, a white man as cook, and hired horses and oxen with white men for teamsters. I presume from the wording of the letter that Dobie, Stratton & Thayer are Indians.

The theory of the honorable Secretary in regard to this timber question is that the Indians shall do the work themselves as a means conducive to one common end, viz, that of educating them to habits of industry; and with that view he directed that white crews would not be permitted upon the reserves. An exception was, however, made in favor of white foremen as instructors and to see that the work was done properly.

Permission has also been given for the employment by the Indians, at their own expense, of a limited number of white teamsters to teach them how to care for and manage the horses, and I presume a white man for cook is an absolute necessity.

It is apparent that the Indians have to be supplied with teams to do the work; if they have not got them they have to hire them. The authority to do a thing carries with it the authority to obtain and use all necessary appliances to that end, subject always to the controlling principle in this case that Indian labor is to be predominant throughout.

Whatever the accommodations furnished by the lumberman to the Indian are reasonably worth, and of this you are more competent to judge than this office, should be taken into consideration upon settlement.

Very respectfully,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

W. R. DURFEE, Esq.,
U. S. Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, Wis., March 7, 1883.

SIR: I am in receipt of several contracts for sale of pine timber covering next winter's operations, which I do not consider it desirable to approve, for the reasons—

(1) That this would open the door for speculators to cover all the pine on the reservations.

(2) Experience may make it seem desirable in the future to change the method of doing business.

(3) I may not be in charge of this agency and I do not wish to hamper the operations of my successor.

Other reasons bearing upon the subject may occur to the Department and I would respectfully ask instructions to guide me in the matter.

Very respectfully,

W. R. DUFEE,
U. S. Indian Agent.

Hon. H. PRICE,
Commissioner Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, March 14, 1883.

SIR: I have received your letter of the 7th instant, stating that you are in receipt of several contracts for sale of pine timber covering next winter's operations, which you do not consider it desirable to approve for reasons stated, chief amongst which is that it would open the door for speculators to cover all the pine on the reservations. Your suggestion in this regard is approved, and no contracts contemplating operations next winter will be considered at present.

On the 22d January last, I returned to you for amendment and necessary bond fourteen contracts between certain individual Indians of the Bad River reserve and Haskins and Denomie, Moore and Hart, and the Ashland Lumber Company, also between certain individual Indians of Red Cliff reserve and the Ashland Lumber Company, Fred Fisher and Frank Boutin, jr., respectively; and on the 29th January, I also returned to you for like purposes a contract between Ka-gua-je-shug (Bad River) and Edwin Ellis.

Having heard nothing further from you in relation to said contracts, and being practically without information as to the extent of logging operations which have been carried on upon the reservations of your agency during the present winter under Department instructions of September 28 last, and your circular letter thereon, you are directed to inform this office as early as practicable the number of contracts which have been entered into by the Indians, giving date, names of parties, location of tract, quantity of timber contracted for, price agreed upon, and terms of payment in each case; also how far such contracts have been fulfilled up to date by the respective parties thereto.

You will also state to what extent generally the Indians have been furnished with supplies, teams, etc., by the contractors, and the probable average amount of cash per M coming to them upon termination of the contracts.

As required by office letter of the 22d January, all contracts (in duplicate) with bond to accompany, should be transmitted to this office for examination and approval.

Very respectfully,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

WM. R. DUFEE, Esq.,
U. S. Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, Wis., March 14, 1883.

SIR: I am informed that Special Agent Wright in council with the Indians at Lac Court Oreilles, informed them that they could cut all the pine upon their allotments, and that many of them are no longer paying attention to the clause reserving one-fourth of the allotment. I would respectfully ask if my instructions from the Department to reserve one-fourth are superseded.

Very respectfully,

W. R. DUFEE,
U. S. Indian Agent.

Hon. H. PRICE,

CHIPPEWA ALLOTMENTS OF LANDS.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, March 20, 1883.

SIR: In reply to your letter of the 14th ultimo, Department instructions of September 28, 1882, are unchanged, and the Indians will be held to a strict compliance therewith in reserving one-fourth of the timber on their allotments intact.

Very respectfully,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

W. R. DURFEE, Esq.,
U. S. Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, February 15, 1883.

SIR: I am very desirous to confer with you personally regarding the business of this agency, more especially regarding the cutting of the pine timber, which is at present the most important business in the agency. There is a very large amount of money value in the Indian pine, and I am desirous of seeing it handled judiciously and in the interest of the Indians. The length of time taken up in correspondence at such a distance is so great and the detail of the business is so interminable that I think a much better understanding of the matter could be had and I could go on with the business with much more satisfaction to you and to myself after a personal conference. I can not well spare the time from my duties here, and should not ask to be called to Washington did I not consider it important to the proper conduct of the affairs of the agency.

Very respectfully,

W. R. DURFEE,
U. S. Indian Agent.

Hon. H. PRICE,
Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, March 27, 1883.

SIR: I have received your letter of the 15th ultimo, asking to be ordered to this city in connection with the affairs of your agency, more especially in reference to the cutting and sale of the pine timber.

It seems to me that the instructions of the honorable Secretary upon the timber question are now pretty well defined and understood, and that there is no necessity for a personal interview on the subject, but apart from this, there are no funds at present available for the purpose suggested.

Very respectfully,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

W. R. DURFEE, Esq.,
U. S. Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, Wis., April 17, 1883.

SIR: I have the honor to submit herewith for Department action contracts for sale of pine timber upon the Lac Court Oreille Reservation with Dobie, Stratton & Thayer: Baupio, Pin-wa-wiscon-o-kwa, Ga-ba-way, Be-je-go-iash, Nin-gi-wain-sic, Nan-zhi-na-quay, Shingibiz, Mu-ka-da-gishig, Otes-qua-gan-i-que, Oquogan, Ne-barr-i-gishig-oqua.

These contracts having been completed, paid up, and the receipts in my hands, I did not demand the bonds to accompany the contracts, it seeming unnecessary unless instructed by Department to the contrary.

I also inclose copy of a report made to me at my request by late Assistant Farmer Wetenhall of the results of the winter's operations as affecting the Indians.

Very respectfully,

W. R. DURFEE,
U. S. Indian Agent.

Hon. H. PRICE,

UNITED STATES INDIAN AGENCY, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Pahquahwong, April 10, 1883.

SIR: I have the pleasure of forwarding you the following report of the logging done by the Indians upon this portion of the reservation, all of which has been done under my personal inspection and directions both as regards the building of camps, houses, etc., the logging and the scaling of the logs, also the lines and boundaries of the different parcels of land. In making up this report I have endeavored to give you an impartial statement of facts. And the settlements have been made in my presence and have been satisfactory, and the balances have been paid in gold and receipts taken for the whole amount.

Yours, respectfully,

WM. WETENHALL.

I have personally inspected the scale of all of these logs and the scale has been carefully gone over by the inspector of this district, and I know of my own knowledge that they have been carefully scaled by Duncan A. McMillan, who as well as myself has had many years experience as a scaler. All of which is respectfully submitted.

Yours,

WM. WETTENHALL,
Late Assistant Farmer Lac Court Oreilles.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, Wis., May 7, 1883.

SIR: I would respectfully report in relation to the timber contracts made upon Red Cliff Reservation by Fred. Fisher, that J. B. Goslin banked 689,281 feet of saw-logs.

That at the end of the season, on settlement, he had as the result of his winter's operations, two yoke of oxen, costing $320, and a cash balance of $361.70, which has been paid to him.

Joseph Ray banked 751,206 feet. The balance due and paid in cash on conclusion of his contract was $600.10.

Abidosh banked 892,582 feet of logs. At conclusion of contract had one pair of horses and harness, cost $300, and cash $253.05.

John Buffalo, jr., banked 236,835 feet. Has one pair of horses and harness, cost $450, and is in debt for the balance of account, $92.96.

These Indians do not and can not be made to do their work as economically as white men. With good credit they buy many needless articles and support many of their friends and neighbors. I have requested contractors to furnish them as little in supplies and money as they could during the operations, and endeavor to keep them in such condition that a handsome balance in the spring might show them the benefits of labor and economy.

Mr. Fisher has given his almost continuous supervision to this work, and I regard the result as very satisfactory. The Indians, in addition to the above, have household goods, implements, etc., and are in much better condition than before the commencement of work.

Very respectfully,

W. R. DURFEE,
U. S. Indian Agent.

Commissioner Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

LA POINTE AGENCY, BAD RIVER RESERVATION,

August 8, 1883.

SIR: We, the Indians of this reserve, believe that certain white men are making arrangements to buy pine stumpage in this reservation the coming winter. Now, we respectfully request that you will instruct the Indian agent for this agency to prohibit any white men cutting or buying standing pine.

We are able and willing to cut our own pine on our allotments covered by patent under the direction of the agent and employes. We can cut and haul the pine timber to bank of the river or lake and dispose of it in the spring of the year to the highest bidder. Then we will have the means to start our farm work and so make a good living for ourselves and our children inside of our reserve. Now, we hope you will look favorably on this request and protect us in disposing of our pine, as it is the main thing we have to depend on for our winter support.

Respectfully,

Edward Haskins, John Smet, Neganegzhig (his x mark), David Blackbird (his x mark), Jacob Sky, Antione Kabee (his x mark), Mechl Shopogos (his x mark), John B. Green, Mechel Smart, J. B. Denison, John Kawayiash (his x mark), Frank Simon (his x mark), John Sowler (his x mark), Frank James, Mechel James, Masko-gwan (his x mark), George Star, John Holleway, Babwa-ne-iash (his x mark), Wassanah-neebe (his x mark), Joseph Current, Thomas Tkeres, Kijionbise (his x mark), Thomas Scott, Eshkeve-geve-he-iash, John Started (his x mark), Op-ikwa-ney (his x mark), Moses White, chief, Manitogezhy (his x mark), Antoine Couture (his x mark), John Deven, David Green, John Kakagan (his x mark), Joseph Beso (his x mark), Ki-ji-gemin (his x mark), Ki-ji-goizes (his x mark), Akiwauze Ahmos (his x mark), Nawakamegevebs (his x mark), Joseph Kawayiash (his x mark), Wa-we-yeash, Naz-he-ka-wa-song (his x mark), Frank Sag-konin, Jos. W. Martin, Samuel Green.

Hon. COMMISSIONER OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, D. C.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, August 23, 1883.

SIR: I have received a communication, dated the 8th instant, at Bad River Reservation, signed by Edward Haskins, John Smet, Ne-ga-ne-ge-zhig, David Blackbird, Jacob Sky, Antoine Karbee, and some thirty-eight other Indians of said reservation, stating that they believe that certain white men are making arrangements to buy pine stumpage on the reservation during the coming winter, and requesting me to instruct you to prohibit any such traffic, for the reason that they (the Indians) are well able and willing personally to cut, haul, and dispose of the timber on their allotments, secured by patent, under your direction, thereby obtaining means to start their farm work and make a good living for themselves and children inside the reserve.

In view of existing regulations of the Department on the subject of this timber, under which the Indians have hitherto worked, any further instructions from this office would appear to be superfluous, but I have deemed it advisable to lay the subject of the communication before you, in order that you may take the necessary measures to quiet the Indians' apprehensions.

Very respectfully,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

W. R. DURFEE, Esq.,
U. S. Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Wis.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, August 30, 1883.

SIR: Acknowledging the receipt of Department letter of 23d instant (L. 15187, '83), I have received a number of applications for permission to purchase pine stumpage from Indians, but have informed all applicants that no propositions would be entertained which varied from the instructions as contained in my circular letter except as modified by subsequent instructions in relation to the employment of white cook and teamsters. As the season for preparation for the coming winter's operations is now at hand, I would ask if the regulations governing the past winter operations are still in force. The business seems to me to have been very successful, and I see no change which could be introduced to benefit the Indians.

Very respectfully,

W. R. DURFEE,
U. S. Indian Agent.

Hon. H. PRICE,
Commissioner Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, September 8, 1883.

SIR: In reply to your letter of the 30th ultimo, in which you state that the season for preparation for the coming winter's logging operations is now at hand, and inquire whether the regulations heretofore issued on the subject are to be considered as still in force, I have to say that in view of the favorable reports which have been received from you as to the successful results of the operations generally, I see no necessity for any change.

You will therefore consider office instructions of October 11, 1882 (announced in your circular letter), as modified by subsequent instructions relative to employment of white cook and teamsters as still extant and be governed accordingly. No propositions looking to purchase of stumpage, the employment of white crews on the reserve, or in any manner at variance with Department regulations hitherto conveyed to you, will be entertained until it can be shown that the present system is a failure.

Very respectfully,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

U. S. Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, Wis., October 4, 1883.

SIR: During the last winter's logging operations I had the honor to request permission to visit Washington for the purpose of holding a personal interview with you with regard to the contemplated operations, which request was refused.

As the logging season is again at hand, I feel more than ever the importance of a personal conference upon the subject, as it is already to be seen that there will be more complications, and that it will be a much more difficult business to handle during the coming season than during that which has passed. Last season the experiment was new and comparatively few log buyers were possessed of the confidence to make the necessary advances to the Indians; consequently but a small amount of logs were contracted for, a sufficiency of labor was to be had upon the reservations, and the logging operations were generally a success both to the Indians and the purchasers. As an effect of this, there is to be a much greater competition the present season, and though at the first glance this might seem desirable, I fear the result may not be so favorable. The natural disposition of an Indian possessing anything convertible into money is to make the exchange as quickly as possible, hence every Indian having a tract of pine desires to log it during the present winter.

There is upon each the Bad River and Lac Court Oreilles Reservation, perhaps, a sufficient number of laborers to bank, say, 8,000,000 feet of logs, if judiciously employed.

Now, there are contracts in contemplation, I presume, covering three or four times the amount that can be put in by Indian labor. I still believe the system of confining the work to Indian labor to be the true one, as it will furnish them work to make them self-supporting for many years, and such a mistake as is contemplated will have a tendency to rectify itself for coming seasons, but I fear that for the present one it will be disastrous. The result will be that the Indians will be furnished with a large amount of supplies on the credit of contracts they can not fill, leaving them in debt and no security for the creditor, for my idea would be distinctly to specify in each contract that it had no binding force after the present year, otherwise the Indian would be placed in the power of the purchaser. Now, while I am not the guardian of the white man, I think the result will be demoralizing to the Indian. I do not want to teach him that a debt is no obligation. Then another bad effect will be the competition for labor, which within reasonable bounds is desirable, but with their limited business intelligence may prove the reverse. Even last winter towards the latter part of the season some of the Indian loggers paid as high as $50 a month and board for labor which in a white camp would not have commanded more than $20. The result of this would be to take from the owner of the land the value of his stumpage, and, if carried to extremes, even possibly to leave a labor lien upon the logs after the full amount had been paid by the contractor.

The effect of such competition would also be to render the Indians less steady and reliable at their work. I do not think it advisable to stop the work, but am only anxious to devise some scheme by which it can be regulated so that the Indian can realize the greatest amount of honest money from his timber and his labor. A large part of my time during the winter is taken up in making the distribution of annuity goods and payment at points inaccessible during the summer season, so that I can not give the logging operations as close personal supervision as is desirable. The business is of considerable magnitude, requiring from its importance more attention than any other branch of agency work. In this connection I would respectfully urge the confirmation of my nomination of an issue clerk, thus relieving me from a portion of the office duties and giving me time to attend to the important outside duties of the agency.

Very respectfully,

W. R. DUFFEE,
U. S. Indian Agent.

Hon. H. PRICE,
Commissioner Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, October 13, 1883.

SIR: I have received your letter of the 4th instant.

Whilst I am not insensible to the fact that the logging operations of the coming season will quite probably be on a more extended scale than the last, I do not see that a personal conference will accomplish anything more than can be reasonably provided for in the regular correspondence.

You refer to the fact [that there is upon each the Bad River and the Lac Court d'Oreilles reserves perhaps a sufficient number of laborers to bank, say, 8,000,000 feet of logs, if judiciously employed, but that there are contracts in contemplation covering three or four times the amount that can be put in by Indian labor, the result being that the Indians will be furnished with large amounts of supplies on the credit of contracts they can not fill, leaving them in debt and no security for the creditors. It seems to me that this result can be readily guarded against by a careful supervision of the contracts, and by your positively refusing to approve, or transmit for approval of this office, all such as call for an excess of timber over and above the average quantity which you, from your knowledge of the Indian and his capacity and appliances for work, consider he can reasonably deliver.

In this way, and by giving the Indian to understand that the logs which he contracts to deliver will produce him in value just so many dollars, which he can either work out for supplies or cash or part cash and part supplies, as may be agreed upon, but in no case to exceed the value of the logs actually delivered under the contract, and by giving the contractor also to understand that credit shall only be given to the Indians in proportion to the value of the logs contracted for and progress made in the work, under pain of refusal by this office to approve any further contracts, and by inserting a clause in the agreement limiting its duration and binding force and effect to a given date or the termination of the logging season, I think the chances of excessive credits can be obviated and the possibility of the Indian being brought in debt avoided.

In regard to the question of labor, as to which you say there is great competition, this office will not, of course, assume to attempt to regulate the prices which shall be paid. If, as I have suggested, the contracts are carefully supervised and limited as to quantity of logs to be delivered to the ability of the Indian contracting, the demand for labor will be correspondingly lessened, and the prices adjust themselves accordingly

Very respectfully,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

SIR: I would respectfully ask for instructions as to the proper course for me to pursue in case of trespass upon the reservations in this agency by whites cutting timber contrary to regulations or otherwise violating the laws.

I think there is a possibility of cases of this kind arising this winter, and I desire to be able to act promptly at the first instance coming to my knowledge and without making any mistake.

Very respectfully,

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, October 13, 1883.

SIR: I have received your letter of the 6th instant, asking for instructions as to the proper course for you to pursue in cases of trespass upon the reservations attached to your agency by whites cutting timber or otherwise violating the laws, instances of which you expect will arise during the coming winter. In reply you are advised—

(1) As to simple trespassers on the reservations.

Under section 2147, Revised Statutes, you have authority to remove all persons found thereon contrary to law. Under section 2148 any person who has been removed from an Indian reservation and thereafter returns is liable to a penalty of $1,000. In such cases the offender should be immediately reported to the United States district attorney for the necessary proceedings under the statute.

(2.) As to timber depredations upon the reservations, the work should be immediately stopped and the names of all parties implicated be reported without delay to the United States attorney for proceedings under section 5388, Revised Statutes, which provides as follows:

"Every person who unlawfully cuts or aids, or is employed in unlawfully cutting or wantonly destroys, or procures to be wantonly destroyed, any timber standing upon lands of the United States, which in pursuance of law may be reserved or purchased for military or other purposes, shall pay a fine of not more than $500 and be imprisoned not more than twelve months."

Names and addresses of witnesses by whom the trespasses can be proved, location of offense, quantity of timber cut, and all material facts should be included in the report to the United States attorney, and a duplicate of each report so made to him should be transmitted to this office.

Other offenses upon Indian reservations are provided for in sections 2111-2157, Revised Statutes (Compiled Indian Laws, pages 30 to 40), to which you are referred.

In all cases requiring judicial cognizance they should be referred to the United States Attorney as above directed.

Very respectfully,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

LAC COURT OREILLES, November 18, 1883.

DEAR SIR: I write to you concerning that appointment of a special timber agent or supervising scaler here for the Indians that we have talked about before, you will remember, when seeing me last time in Eau Claire, that you thought you would be in Washington ere this, and it would be well for me to write you in case the matter slipped your mind. I was talking with the Government farmer here last night and he says there must be some one to attend to the matter, and will urge the agent, Durfee, to have the appointment made by the Department.

Dick Wilson is up here buying logs, and a number of other parties, and they all want the Indians to put in big ones that will go $4 per 1,000, and you can see that will have a tendency to make the Indians slaughter their timber and cut over all of their ground, which they are not allowed to do; they must reserve at least 20 acres out of each 80 acres.

They, the Indians, have contracted, all told, thirty to forty millions, as near as I can learn, and will probably put in twenty millions. Now, I would suggest that a man be appointed to look after all the cutting on the reserve, run their lines for them, and be held responsible, paid a reasonable salary, or let the Indians pay so much per 1,000, say 5 cents, for all timber cut on the reserve.

Not wishing to trespass upon your valuable time I will close, hoping to hear from you when convenient.

I remain yours, respectfully,

WALLACE D. STEVENS,

Phipps, Northern Wisconsin Railroad, Sawyer County, Wis.

Hon. W. T. PRICE, M. C.

[Indorsement.]

Mr. Stevens is capable I know, and honest I think. If the lines are not run and the salement of logs made by an agent of the Government, the Indians will be wronged and the timber will be slaughtered or wasted.

Respectfully submitted.

W. T. PRICE,

Member Congress, Eighth Wisconsin District.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, November 28, 1883.

SIR: Hon. W. T. Price, M. C., Eighth district Wisconsin, has referred to this office a letter, dated the 18th instant, from Wallace D. Stevens, of Phipps, Northern Wisconsin Railroad, Sawyer County, asking to be appointed as scaler of the timber contracted to be cut by the Indians of your agency on their patented tracts during the forthcoming season.

Mr. Price indorses the application favorably with the remark that "if the lines are not run and the salement of logs made by an agent of the Government, the Indians will be wronged, and the timber will be slaughtered or wasted."

If you know of no reason to the contrary I shall be glad to act upon Mr. Price's recommendation and have the appointment made, it being understood that he shall receive pay according to the terms of your circular, viz, each party to the contract paying an equal share.

Please reply.

Very respectfully,

Commissioner.

SIR: Referring to letter from Wallace D. SIR: Referring to Department letter of 28th ultimo, L. (just received, having been misssent to Bayfield).

Mr. Wallace D. Stevens is now acting as scaler of the logs taken out under the contracts of Messrs. Dobie & Stratton, licensed traders upon the Lac Court Oreille Reservation, and I should be much pleased to have his supervision extended over the entire cut of logs made upon the reservation, as I understand that he is a practical and trustworthy man. I have been requested by the Government farmer there to authorize Mr. Stevens to take charge of the entire scale, and was about to do so, but receiving your letter, would prefer that the authority should come direct from you.

SIR: The Indians upon the Bad River Reservation are logging at many camps and at considerable distances apart, necessitating the employment of a number of scalers.

I would respectfully request that I be allowed to expend a sum, not exceeding $200, in employing the district scaler of this district, at a rate not exceeding $4 per day, to visit the camps and test the scale and see that the work is properly done in the interest of the Indians. The service need not be continuous, but visits should be frequent. I do not see how I can get payment for this service from the logs, one scaler being already employed at each camp. I believe this service would be of great benefit to the Indians.

W. R. DURFEE,

In reply, I have to say that I do not feel justified in recommending to the Department that such authority be granted. I consider it exceedingly doubtful whether such an expenditure in behalf of individual Indians would be a legitimate charge against the Government, and whether, in fact, it would not be a perversion of the contingent fund. If the scalers who are already employed are incompetent or unreliable, they should be removed, and others appointed in their places. Of course I have no objection to the appointment of a district scaler to supervise the scaling, provided the parties to the contracts are willing to pay him themselves.

SIR: Our Mr. Boutin has a contract with some of the Bad River Indians, and they are getting out logs for him.

Now it has been the ruling that no white men be allowed to work in the camps other than foremen and team-drivers.

Now this restriction upon the men who are getting out logs, it is damaging, for the reason that the Indians are aware that none but Indians can be here to chop, swamp, saw, load, etc., and for this reason they are demanding exorbitant prices.

White men can be hired at from $15 to $25. Times are very tight in this part of the country and but little work, and plenty of men who are asking for work at any wages.

Indians demand $35, $40, $45 per month; now with this feeling amongst the Indians, and the restriction that none but Indians can be hired to get out logs in the reservation, it will be the cause of driving those away who are desirous of helping the Indians, and create a feeling which will be injurious to them in the future.

While we feel that we would just as live have the Indian as the white man, and in case of preference would give the Indian the benefit, we do think that the Department should in a measure change this ruling so that we should not be imposed upon by the Indians. Allow the agent to establish a price for wages which to pay the Indian, and in the event the Indian will not work under these wages that the agent be allowed to grant permits to those getting out logs, allowing them to put in white men to fill vacancies, allowing them men enough to get out the logs contracted for. To make our understanding more clear our Mr. N. Boutin would respectfully ask, that in the event that he is unable to get Indians enough to work in the logging camp now established on Bad River Indian Reservation at $25 or $35 per month, that he may be able to get out the logs already contracted for before April 1, 1884, that the agent, Maj. W. R. Durfee, be authorized to grant him permission to put in white men, and that Major Durfee be instructed to investigate the matter, with authority to grant this permit if in his judgment the case justifies such action.

Your early attention to this matter will much oblige, to admit of your being authorized to issue permits for the employment of white labor in case they can not adjust a satisfactory rate of wages with the Indians, so that they can get out the logs already contracted for before April 1, 1884.

As already stated, this office will not attempt to regulate the price of labor, but it might, however, be well to point out to the Indians that by demanding excessive wages they are only standing in their own light, and to suggest to them the advisability of making their prices conform to those at which white labor can be obtained.

Under no circumstances will white crews be permitted to lumber on the reservations, and any attempt on the part of contractors to introduce them in defiance of Department regulations will be followed by prompt removal of the intruders.

W. R. DURFEE, Esq.,
U. S. Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, Wis., January 14, 1884.

SIR: I would respectfully report that having been informed by Mr. Pero, Government farmer at Lac Court Oreilles Reservation, that certain parties were employing white men in putting in their logs, contrary to instructions given me by the Department, and that no attention was paid to his orders that they should not be so employed; also, that parties were putting in logs without contracts and were stamping logs with the recorded mark of the Pioneer Lumber Company—

I left Ashland for the Lac Court Oreilles Reservation on Tuesday, January 8, arriving at Lac Court Oreilles on the evening of that day. The next morning I took a team and visited most of the logging camps in that vicinity. I found the logging operations progressing favorably and satisfactorily except in the camps where the logs were contracted to, or nominally bought without contract by the Pioneer Lumber Company, a corporation of Eau Claire, Wis.

In the camps where the logs were contracted to them I found a large majority of the logging crews were white men, employed in violation of orders. I ordered that all such be immediately discharged. The Indian putting in the logs told me that in accordance with my instructions, he had once previously discharged all such employes, and that they had been sent back to camp by the foreman in charge of work for the Pioneer Lumber Company, with orders to go to work again.

I also found a Frenchman, Peter Cournoyer, married to a Chippewa woman, putting in logs without a contract on a written agreement with the Pioneer Lumber Company, upon a price according to grade of logs and one which I could not approve in a regular contract. These logs were stamped with the recorded mark of the Pioneer Lumber Company. I ordered him to desist from further stamping these logs, and told him that I should sell them to the highest bidder in the spring for the benefit of his wife, who had a patent. On the next day I went to Pa-quah-wong, upon the same reservation, and visited the logging camps in that vicinity. I found the work progressing favorably, but here also I found an Indian putting in logs without a contract and stamping them with the Pioneer Lumber Company's mark. I also ordered him to mark no more logs, and informed him that these logs would be sold to the highest bidder in the spring for his benefit. I told the Indian that I did not understand that there would be any objections to such of them as could supply themselves putting in their logs, to be sold under my supervision in the spring, but that no logs could be sold in advance of putting in without a contract in regular form.

Mr. R. P. Wilson, who is vice-president, and has attended to this business for the Pioneer Lumber Company, was furnished with a copy of my printed circular of instructions, and fully informed by me of the method approved by the Department for cutting and selling Indian pine, and I can see no excuse for his proceeding in direct violation thereof. The Pioneer Lumber Company have also a store and blacksmith shop upon a State forty in the reservation—I think southeast quarter of northeast quarter of section 18, township 39, reservation 8. These institutions, I am informed, are kept open and working on Sunday as regularly as during the week.

The licensed traders close their place of business on Sunday in accordance with instructions, but I do not understand that I have any authority over parties located upon State lands. I consider it very desirable that titles to these lands located within the boundaries of the reservation be acquired by Government, otherwise no control can be exercised over parties desiring to trade upon the reservation who locate upon these lands.

In view of the above facts, I would respectfully recommend that the approval of the honorable Commissioner be withheld for the present from all contracts which have been forwarded from this office between the Pioneer Lumber Company and Indians of the Lac Court Oreille Reservation.

Very respectfully,

W. R. DURFEE,
U. S. Indian Agent.

SIR: I have received your letter of the 14th instant, reporting your action in the case of the Pioneer Lumber Company, of Eau Claire, Wis., which was been putting logs on the Lac Court Oreilles Reservation without having the necessary contracts with the Indians, and for that purpose has been employing crews of white men upon the reserve—all in violation of Department regulations on the subject.

Your action in arresting the progress of the work done for the Pioneer Lumber Company until such time as proper contracts have been obtained and approved, and in directing the removal of the white logging crews is sustained, and in accordance with your recommendation the approval of this office will be withheld from all contracts between said company and the Indians of your agency until such time as you certify that the company is complying strictly with Department regulations.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, Wis., January 21, 1884.

SIR: I have the honor to report that the past week has been spent by me upon the Bad River Reservation visiting and inspecting the work at the several lumber-camps thereon.

I was very much pleased with the manner of conducting the work and with the industry of the Indians, who are fast becoming practical loggers; the timber put in is much of it of good quality, and the logs are cut in a workmanlike manner. The operations were satisfactory to me except in one camp. In the camp where the logs were being cut for McDougal & Raymore, I found almost exclusively a white crew employed. Earlier in the winter I heard that they were employing white men in excess of the number allowed, and I not only gave them circular letters of instruction, but explained the matter fully to them, and also the effect of violating the instructions, and they promised to comply with them for the future.

I have now discharged all the men employed in that camp and ordered a cessation of work until instructions are received from you. If lawful to do so, I would respectfully recommend that the contracts of McDougal & Raymore be annulled, that the logs now cut in the woods be put in and sold to the highest bidder, and the legitimate labor employed be paid from the proceeds, the balance being paid to the Indian owning the pine; the remainder of the laborers not legitimately employed looking to McDougal & Raymore for their pay. These parties (McDougal & Raymore) are responsible for the violation of the law, and not through any mistake, as they had ample warning, and the violation was willful.

I inclose herewith a letter of explanation handed me by Mr. McDougal, with the request that it might accompany my report.

Very respectfully,

W. R. DURFEE,
U. S. Indian Agent.

[Inclosure.]

ASHLAND, WIS., January 18, 1884.

TO THE RESPECTIVE BOARD OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,

GENTLEMEN: We, the undersigned, McDougal and Raymore, having contracts with two Indians by the name of William and Henry Lapoint, according to the rules and regulations of the Indian Department, for the Pine on two 80 acres of land, at the rate of $5.00 dollars per thousand, delivered on the bank of White River. Have furnished said Indians with supplies and teams and cash, to the amount of six thousand dollars, more or less, and have lived up to our contract as best possible. Last night we were informed by your worthy Agent, Mr. Durfee, that the work would have to be stopped, on account of some white men on the works, the facts of which we wish to explain.

Last week there were a number of Indians left camp to return in a few days, which left the teams idle, as there was not men enough left to keep the work running the foreman of said camp employed white men to keep the work running until said Indians would return, as it was impossible for him or us to find Indians to work, and we wish to be frank in the matter and explain the exact circumstances, we have our entire worth invested in the camp outfit and supplies and if the work is stopped completely it will ruin us, besides being a damage to the Indians that own the pine. So if you will overlook this breach of contract, if you consider it one, which we trust you will not, as we done everything in good faith, thinking we were doing everything for the best, we will pledge you our word as gentlemen that the like shall not occur again. We have just got fairly started, we had to build a road two and a half miles to get to the pine, which was very expensive and which is of great benefit to the reservation, as it is the only road in that locality, and the Indians can get out 50 millions of pine on that same road. Mr. Walker, the Indian farmer at Odanah, has seen the road, and we will refer you to his judgment in regard to our statement. We will let the work run along with Indian help the best we can, until we receive further orders from the honorable Commissioner of Indian Affairs, which we trust will be at the earliest possible convenience.

Yours respectfully,

MCDUGAL & RAYMORE.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,

Washington, February-1, 1884.

SIR: I have received your letter of the 21st ultimo, reporting the employment of white logging crews on the Bad River reserve by the firm of McDougal & Raymore (holding contracts for pine with Henry La Pointe and William La Pointe), in willful violation of Department regulations. You report that you have discharged all the men employed in that camp and ordered a cessation of work until further instructions from this office, and you recommend that, if lawful, the contracts with McDougal & Raymore be annulled; that the logs now cut in the woods be put in and sold to the highest bidder, the legitimate labor employed be paid from the proceeds, the balance being paid to the Indians owning the pine, and the remainder of the laborers not legitimately employed looking to McDougal & Raymore for their pay.

Accompanying your letter is one from McDougal & Raymore under date 23th (18th) ultimo, stating that they have furnished said Indians with supplies, teams, and cash to the extent of \$6,000, more or less, having their entire worth invested in the camp outfit and supplies, that quite recently a number of Indians left camp to return in a few days, leaving the teams idle, and it being impossible to find Indians to supply their places, and there not being enough Indians left to keep the work running, the foreman of the camp employed white men temporarily until the Indians should return. They further say that if the work is entirely stopped it will ruin them, and pledge themselves that if the occurrence is overlooked it shall not happen again. It also appears from their statement that they have at great expense built a road $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles long on the reserve in order to get to the pine, which is of great benefit to the reservation, being the only road in that locality.

As it appears from your letter to be the second time these parties have violated Department regulations in the introduction of white men on the reservation, I should, if there were no redeeming features in the case, be disposed to follow your recommendation, and direct a total stoppage of the work; but if the facts are as stated by McDougal and Raymore, that they have made advances to the Indians to the extent named, that they have their entire worth locked up in the camp outfit and supplies furnished, and that the employment of white men was in a measure due to the fact of the Indians employed leaving the work, and was intended only as a temporary substitute until the Indians should return; if all this is so, then I think they are entitled to some consideration, and may be permitted to proceed with the work upon the distinct understanding that the subsequent labor shall be performed by Indians only, and that the laborers heretofore not legitimately employed shall be paid by McDougal and Raymore out of their own pockets, and not charged against the Indians, owners of the timber.

In the mean time approval of the contracts in question will be suspended until such time as you shall certify to this office that McDougal and Raymore are strictly complying with all regulations of this Department on the subject.

Very respectfully,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

SIR: Having been assured by the officers of the Pioneer Lumber Company that Department regulations shall hereafter be strictly complied with in all camps which are putting in logs for them, and also having information from the Government scaler upon the Lac Court Oreilles Reservation that they are now strictly complying with those regulations, I would respectfully recommend that their contracts be approved.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
March 18, 1884.

SIR: Referring to your letter of the 29th ultimo, recommending that the logging contracts with the Pioneer Lumber Company heretofore suspended, be now approved, satisfactory evidence having reached you that said company is now strictly complying with Department regulations, I have to say that upon investigation I find four contracts with the Pioneer Lumber Company now before this office for approval, as follows:

No.	Name.	Description.	Section, town-ship, and range.
1	Shi-ba-ji-go-kwe.....	E. $\frac{1}{2}$ S. E. $\frac{1}{2}$	28 39 8
2	Go-gl.....	N. $\frac{1}{2}$ S. W. $\frac{1}{2}$	27 39 8
3	Moien.....	S. $\frac{1}{2}$ S. W. $\frac{1}{2}$	27 39 8
4	John La Roche.....	E. $\frac{1}{2}$ N. W. $\frac{1}{2}$	20 39 8

The three first named appear to be Indian women, and the contract in each case calls for the delivery of 1,700,000 feet of logs by 1st June proximo, the pecuniary value thereof being $10,200. Bond is given in each case in $4,100.

The quantity of logs contracted for appears to be so far in excess of the average, as to raise a doubt in my mind as to the ability of the Indian, especially a woman, to fill the contract, unless she has extraordinary facilities of labor at her command with which I am unacquainted. You will remember that this very question of Indians entering into contracts for more logs than they could reasonably supply during the season was raised by you previous to the commencement of the present logging season, and was the subject of correspondence with this office. (See office letter October 13, 1883.) I do not feel warranted in approving these contracts without further light on the subject, nor until it is shown to my satisfaction that they can be carried out strictly in accordance with Department regulations.

I should also like to be informed as to the character and probable amount of supplies, etc., which I presume the Pioneer Lumber Company is furnishing to these Indians.

Whilst on this subject, I desire to call your attention to the fact that there appears to be considerable delay in forwarding the logging contracts to this office. Quite a number are before me which are dated in October, 1883, but do not appear to have been approved by you until the end of last month. Strictly speaking, not a stick of timber should be cut until the contract has been approved by this office, and if the present system is continued during the next season, there will have to be some different arrangement made, by which the contracts can be submitted to this office before the season commences, instead of waiting until it is almost practically closed.

Very respectfully,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, Wis., April 3, 1884.

SIR: Referring to Department letter of the 18th ultimo, L, 4253, 4254, 4341, 4384. The three women who contracted with the Pioneer Lumber Company to put in logs upon the reservation were the wife of Thad. Thayer, late licensed trader upon the reservation, and two of her aunts. These women have all been supported by Thayer and authorized him to act for them in this matter, which, in my opinion, was the best thing they could do. Thayer made arrangements with Alex. Bellisle, a half-breed living upon the reservation, recognized as an Indian, a man who has had considerable experience in lumbering, having put in a number of large contracts for lumbermen off the reservation in previous years, and who was well supplied with teams, etc., to put in the logs for these women, and I presume it was through the influence of these two, Thayer and Bellisle, that the labor was obtained. The logs have been put in substantially as per contract in number, and, I am satisfied, in conformity to Department regulations, except as reported in my letter of January 14.

The logging transactions upon this reservation amount to a large sum, say from $150,000 to $170,000, and all of the accounts should be gone over in detail, and verified by a competent man, skilled in accounts and familiar with logging operations. I have this day telegraphed for authority to employ such a man, as I have not the time to attend to it personally without neglecting my other duties. I have requested Mr. Wilson in charge of Pioneer Lumber Company's logging matters to forward to me copies of the accounts against the parties above named which will be transmitted to the Department on receipt.

The delay in forwarding contracts from this office has been caused by the continued errors made in drawing up contracts and bonds, which I have been repeatedly forced to return sometimes two or three times for correction, and also from the delay in getting bonds, some of the contracts remaining in my office for months before the necessary bonds to accompany them were received. I shall have the honor to report in a few days upon the logging operations of the past season, and also to suggest some modification of existing regulations which it seems to me could advantageously be made.

Very respectfully,

W. R. DURFEE,
U. S. Indian Agent.

Hon. H. PRICE,
Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Office of Indian Affairs, April 26, 1884.

SIR: Referring to your letter of the 3d instant with explanation of the Go-gi, Moien, and Shi-ba-ji-go-kwe contracts with the Pioneers Mill Company; also to your letter of the 14th instant transmitting contract between Boshking and said company, and certified extract from the charter, by-laws, and proceedings of the board of directors of said company, authorizing the execution of contracts and bonds, etc., I find on reference to said last-mentioned paper the following:

[Extract from proceedings of board of directors held at Eau Claire September 15, 1883.]

"Resolved, That R. F. Wilson, vice-president, and Fountain Wilson, secretary, be, and are hereby, authorized and empowered to make such contracts, notes, and bonds, and to pay out such moneys as will be necessary to secure the stock of logs for the year 1884, as mentioned in said resolution of the stockholders, and the secretary is hereby empowered to affix the corporate seal to said contracts and bonds as will be necessary to carry out the intent of said resolution.

"On motion the said resolution was unanimously adopted."

As I understand this resolution, and as is customary in all cases where instruments are executed by a corporation, the contracts and bonds should be signed by the vice-president in the name of the corporation, and the corporate seal be affixed and attested by the secretary and treasurer.

In the several cases of Go-gi, Moien, Shi-ba-ji-go-kwe, John La Roche, and Boshking, the papers do not appear to be so executed, and they are herewith returned for correction, in manner indicated in pencil on each contract and bond respectively. In the Boshking case the bond appears to be properly executed and the contracts only are returned.

In the La Roche case the seal of the corporation and attestation by the secretary to the contracts is wanting, independently of the signature of the vice-president to the bond.

Very respectfully,

H. PRICE, Commissioner.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, Wis., May 3, 1884.

SIR: Referring to the matter of the contracts of Gogi, Moien, and Shi-ba-gi-ji-go-kwe with Pioneer Lumber Company.

As explained in my letter of April 3, these parties were (Gogi) the wife of Thad Thayer and her two aunts, who are old women. Thayer has managed the business for them and had received from them a power of attorney to do all business in their name, which he had recorded; I informed him that I did not consider the power of attorney any value, as I did not understand that the Indian was competent to execute such an instrument. He then asked me if an order from these women was given him to draw their pay for the logs, if I would indorse my approval on it. I replied that while I believed that that was the best thing they could do, and in my opinion it would be entirely satisfactory, I did not indorse any papers relating to these logging matters except such as it was my duty to do, not desiring to assume any responsibility except such as was imposed upon me.

United States Inspector R. S. Gardner, who is now inspecting this agency, has received information that these aunts of Thayer are now in a destitute condition, he having drawn their money in the settlement with the Pioneer Lumber Company. Colonel Gardner informs me that it was my duty in this case to have taken charge of this money and deposited it in bank, issuing to them a regular weekly stipend by check, as agreed upon, therefrom. I did not understand that I had any authority or control over the proceeds of their pine, except to see that it was paid according to contract and in such manner as was directed by them. I was satisfied that if this money came directly into the hands of these women that it would be a total loss, as they have no ability to properly care for or use such a sum. Thayer has, as I learn, for years furnished a large share of their support, and probably will have to for the future, and I considered it the best disposition they could make of the money, not knowing that I had authority and having no desire to assume any such responsibility myself. The logs are yet where I can get at them if the above is not considered a legal payment, and payment can be enforced from the Pioneer Lumber Company, leaving them recourse upon Thayer for the amount paid him.

Will you please give me instructions regarding the matter at as early a day as convenient that I may be able to attend to the matter of payment (if that already made is illegal) before the logs are driven?

These orders were interpreted and signed in the presence of two witnesses, though not in my presence. One of the signatures is witnessed by the Government farmer and another, the other two (unofficially) by William Wetenhall, a notary public, and another, and, I have no doubt, were voluntarily given; and further, I have no doubt that Thayer will provide for them judiciously to the amount drawn. The matter of their destitution I will examine into.

Very respectfully,

W. R. DURFEE,
U. S. Indian Agent.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE.

SIR: It certainly must be very wearisome to your honor to have to run over so many communications pouring into your office from all parts of the country, yet I am in hopes you will condescend to con this over and consider the matter herein contained in its true light and merits. By so doing you will confer great benefit to the Indians of this reservation. To begin this epistle I would remark that in former times when trade and traffic with the whites was so remote from the reservation that a licensed or permitted trader was a blessing to the Indians, which is now a curse, a wrong, a monopoly which should be done away with at once. At present we have stores where goods are sold cheaper than at the traders. One at Bakweiawa and three in the neighborhood of Court Orielle, also at Hayward; the four first mentioned are just outside the limits of the reservation, while Hayward is only 12 miles from this place. They are all accessible and sell goods reasonable. Lawful and transient traffic should be allowed and introduced, but the whisky law should be rigidly enforced. The Indians during the past winter have failed to better themselves by logging, caused by enormous prices paid to the reserved traders, especially those who were dependent upon the reserve traders. The Indians who sold their logs to other parties, with a very few exceptions, have done well and are flush with money.

November 29, 1882, I received the first lot of goods from Dobie, Stratton & Thayer, having made arrangements with them to be delivered at their own expense. The goods being furnished me at a discount of 20 per cent. for the benefit of parties with whom I could secure contracts for their logs. You will please understand that besides the three individuals of the firm there was an agent and a head clerk, who seemed to have a right to direct affairs in the business. It was actually so in the business entrusted to my charge. Each one had his idea how best and manner to dispose of the goods. One or two would direct that $10 or $15 per month is sufficient for the support of any one of the parties, and that no more be sold to any one of them on account of their contract. Another would direct to let them have what they wanted. When I informed them that I was directed to let them have only $10 and $15 they most all talked of recalling their contracts, and would have nothing to do with the company. It is then that I had to work; I told more lies for their sakes, the company, to humor the Indians from whom I had secured contracts than I had done during the forty and over years I was in the office of this agency. I chose to follow the latter direction, because I had been made to understand that these goods were sold them to bind their contracts, and as I had informed them that in a case like this, among whites, $250 would be the least paid to bind a contract of $4,000 or $5,000.

Some time in the month of August, 1873, I was directed by Dobie & Stratton, two of the firm, to discontinue selling goods to any of them on their contracts, because they were not yet approved by the Department; that the contracts were yet in their hands and had not been sent, when previously informed by one of the firm, as well as by their agent, that they had been sent and approved by the Indian agent. I was also directed to inform them that within a month they would have a store where they then could have all the goods they wanted. This was a great embarrassment to me, and put my energies to work to full extent to devise plausible stories to humor the Indians to whom I was selling goods on contracts; but the building of the store lingered on till fall, purposely, as could be seen by any half-witted human. As soon as the store was in running order, a number of them visiting me complained that they had been refused to get all they wanted, and even two of them had been refused altogether, and wanted me to explain why this was so. I was unable to give any reason. From that time forth many of them went over to Hayward, and with him made contracts regardless of their former one with Dobie & Stratton. Through my advice some held out, for which I am now sorry for doing, because most of them coming out behind in their logging enterprise had nothing to eat when they quit, and were requested to return oxen or horses with all appliances, and were left with nothing after working hard all winter.

A widow woman who had committed the crime of selecting an eighty at Devil's Lake, which lies about 2½ miles from the main tributary of Chippewa River, but connected by a small creek upon which dams were built, by which three or four million feet are to be drove by the Pioneer Lumber Company, was made to sign another contract from the one I had secured from her for Dobie & Stratton, had been made to understand by them that it was necessary for her to sign another one in place of the old one, and then and there, without her father or brother or son to advise her, signed a contract, thinking that all the contracts were the same, with an additional stipulation that $1.50 per 1,000 feet would be retained and held back to drive her logs to the main tributary. She averred to me the other day most emphatically that she did not understand that she was to pay for driving the logs she sold to them. This, your honor, is one of the daring deeds of the company who monopolizes the trade on this reserve.

Now, sir, I have come to the main purpose of this epistle. I am one of the victims who came out at the hind end of the horn. At an interview at my house with the firm then known as Dobie, Stratton & Thayer, all three being present, made my earnest and long wished for necessity in order to further my farming operations, to provide for me a team of horses to be paid in toting for them whenever I had no particular use for them on the farm, all three assenting with fervor. They wished to know when I would have them. I answered by the 15th of May, when my farming operations would begin. I would surely have the team then. About six weeks or more from the interview came Stratton with the firm's agent at my house to inquire about the business, etc. On leaving, and when out of Stratton's hearing, the agent wished to know why I had not spoken about the team. I answered I was ashamed to do so, because I had written to them so often about it and never even deigned to answer me, I had given up the idea.

The next time I met the agent, again at my house, stated that he had spoken to Stratton about the team, and that Stratton wished to know why I had not spoken to him about it when both at my house. He was answered that I was ashamed to do so, having done so so often. Then I should surely have the team as soon as they could be got here. Subsequent to this interview with the agent I chanced to meet Dobie, one of the firm. I asked him about the team; he answered, this in his own words: "We have got a team intended for you at New Richmond, and I am now on my way down and will ship it at once; it will be at Phipps by next Saturday." Describing them so minutely for size and weight, I thought sure they were coming. On the day the horses were to be at Phipps I sent over for them, but no horses had come. I met him again soon after. Without referring to his last promise he said that he now had on the road hauling supplies horses intended for me, but would request that I would let the team on the road, as they had a big lot of supplies to haul before the roads got in a worse condition, and could not do without them. I answered the team belonged to them and could do with it as they chose.

On the 12th day of September I concluded, by the advice of Dobie & Stratton, to build a camp on the eighty, belonging patented to Mrs. Therese Bellisle (with whom I am now living), to be as near the center of my operations in jobbing by the 1,000 for Indians. They, the company, had promised to secure work for me from whom they had secured contracts, I believing that when a contract was signed that an understanding was had as to who was to have the job. They, the company, was to let me have four oxen besides the horses they had been letting me have for over a year to carry on my operations. I was informed that in a few days a lot of oxen would be shipped for this place and that I was to have the first choice. Stratton, who was the one to go down in a few days, promised I should have first choice. I afterwards happened to meet him on his way down for the purpose of shipping the cattle, he then promising to mark the best cattle for me, or tell the man who was to drive them over from the railroad that I was to have the choice of the lot. Hearing that the cattle had come I repaired hither with great haste, and lo! the choice had been made and nothing but the refuse left. As I needed cattle very much in building my camp I selected three of the refuse and could not make a fourth because the balance seemed worthless and worked out. But a mate to my odd one would be procured in a few days when another lot will be shipped. The lot of cattle did finally come, but no mate for my ox. Again promising that the first time either one would go down they surely would send up a mate, and so on repeatedly till late in fall, when work had begun in earnest and finally had to take one unmated to the one I had. I calculate to charge them for the damages done me. This is a sample how they dupe the Indians.

About the latter part of November, 1883, Stratton asked me when I would make and sign a contract for the timber on Mrs. Bellisle's eighty. I told him distinctly that I had not, neither would I have anything to say nor do with it; but I would ask her, and if she was willing I would come down with her, and you and her can make a contract when I even refused to witness the signature. I thereupon contracted with her as I would with any one else to cut and land the logs at $2.50 per 1,000 feet. Subsequent to this she proposed to allow me at the rate of $3 per 1,000, provided I assumed her bills at Dobie & Stratton's, to which I assented. Now, the question is, has Dobie & Stratton any right to hold from the rightful owner the money for those logs (as much as coming to her) and apply it to my credit, making me an involuntary assumee of that money? When I came to have a settlement with them, the first thing I asked on behalf of Mrs. Bellisle was her money. I was told that the money had all been credited to my account. I was surprised, but was ready for it, because I knew that they would not hesitate to use means, however low and mean these might be, to further their ends and purposes. I therefore proposed to turn over to them the horses, oxen, sleighs, with all the appliances of logging, if the money was paid to Mrs. Bellisle. They refused to do that. I again proposed to buy from them one team of horses with the money if they would accept of my proposition. They refused to do that also. Then I asked them how much percentage they would discount on the account. They refused to allow any. I picked up my papers; folding them up, I left the office. I made them understand that whenever they were ready to pay over that money I was ready to settle; and that in any case I would not do anything about it until I heard from you. No argument, however weighty, nor from whom it may originate, will ever convince me that I am in the wrong in this matter. I have revolved the matter in my mind in all its bearings during the day and many sleepless hours of night with the result "right." This, sir, is an illustration of the manner in which the Indians are subjected to on the reserve by the trader.

I here inclose the account against me for your inspection. It is a sample of their prices. It is a burden to Indians who have to depend on them for supplies.

I was offered the very best timothy hay, delivered at my camp, for $25 per ton, but having no money to buy with, I applied to them to buy it, and then would buy from them, but they would not do so, threatening to have any man who sold supplies to any of their camps arrested, so we had to put up and buy the very worst kind of hay from them for twice as much as quoted in Saint Paul and elsewhere for good hay. I was offered feed, the best in market, delivered at my camp, at $28 per ton. But we had to buy from them at $40 and $44 per ton.

Keeping back Mrs. Bellisle's money leaves me, as well as her and her children, entirely destitute. I see no way to get food for our support during this coming summer.

I am almost sure to get worsted by them in the end, but I am going to fight them all I can, and as long as I can. I shall await your views upon this matter with great anxiety.

Accept, most honored sir, my sincere gratitude, in condescending to pay attention to, and your ever promptitude to answer, my communications.

Your most humble servant,

JOSEPH D. GURNOE.

Hon. HIRAM PRICE,

Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Office of Indian Affairs, May 15, 1884.

SIR: I inclose herewith a copy of a letter received from Mr. Joseph D. Gurnoe, complaining of the high prices charged the Indians by Dobie & Stratton, licensed traders on the Lac Court d'Oreilles reserve, and stating that those Indians who have dealt with them during the past winter have failed to better themselves by logging operations, owing to the enormous prices paid, whilst those who have sold their logs to other parties have, with very few exceptions, done well, and are now flush with money.

Mr. Gurnoe, it appears, has been acting as agent for Dobie & Stratton in the procuring of logging contracts, they furnishing him with goods at a discount of 20 per cent. to be supplied to the Indians making such contracts with the firm. Some difficulty has now arisen between them on the settlement of his (Gurnoe's) accounts, mainly owing, as it appears, to Doby & Stratton's applying a balance due Therese Bellisle, on her individual contract, as a credit on Gurnoe's account.

I have advised him that upon the state of facts presented, and in the absence of any authority to that effect from Mrs. Bellisle, Dobie & Stratton would, in my opinion, have no right to make such application of the balance due her.

You will investigate the circumstances of this case, and see that Mrs. Bellisle is properly protected in her rights as against the traders, and that whatever balance is lawfully due under the contract is paid to her.

You will also examine into the prices charged by Dobie & Stratton, and ascertain how they compare with those charged at other stores where the Indians deal. If, as stated by Mr. Gurnoe, they can afford to allow him 20 per cent. discount and still make a profit on their goods, as it is reasonable to suppose they do, it is not surprising that the Indians who make contracts with them find themselves short at the end of the season. Dobie & Stratton should be required to supply the Indians at fair and reasonable prices, not higher than under similar conditions they can purchase elsewhere, and unless they are willing to do this it will be a question for the consideration of this office whether any further contracts with them will be approved.

The account referred to by Mr. Gurnoe (which is very lengthy) has been returned to him.

Your early report upon the foregoing matter is desired, and I shall be glad to have the results of the past season's logging operation as early as convenient.

Very respectfully,

E. L. STEVENS,
Acting Commissioner.

WM. R. MURFEE, Esq.,
U. S. Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS, May 15, 1884.

SIR: This office is in receipt of a recent letter from you (without date), from which it appears that you have been acting as agent for Dobie & Stratton, licensed traders, in the procuring of logging contracts with sundry Indians holding patents to lands on the Lac Court d'Oreilles reserve, they furnishing you with goods at a discount of 20 per cent. to be supplied to the Indians making such contracts.

It further appears that you entered into an agreement with Therese Bellisle, to cut and land certain logs, which she had contracted to sell to Dobie & Stratton, at the rate of $3 per 1,000, it being understood that you should assume payment of her indebtedness to the firm for supplies furnished. When you came to have a settlement with Dobie & Stratton, you find that the cash balance properly due to Mrs. Bellisle under her contract has been credited to your individual account with them, and they now refuse to pay her the amount.

You ask my opinion as to the right of Dobie & Stratton to make this application of the money.

Upon the state of facts presented, and in the absence of any direction from Mrs. Bellisle that the money should be so applied, I am of opinion that Dobie & Stratton have no such right. The contract referred to appears to have been made by them with Mrs. Bellisle; supplies have been furnished to her on account thereof by you, acting as Dobie & Stratton's agent, and upon its completion, she would, provided she has not authorized any other disposition of the money, be legally entitled to receive whatever balance is coming to her.

Other points in your letter, which mainly refer to exorbitant charges of Dobie & Stratton in their dealings with the Indians, have been referred to Agent Durfee for investigation.

I return the account which was inclosed with your letter.

Very respectfully,

E. L. STEVENS,
Acting Commissioner.

Mr. JOS. D. GUÉNOE,
Lac Court d'Oreilles reserve, La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, June 6, 1884.

SIR: Referring to Department letter of 15th ultimo (L 8584, '84), inclosing copy of a communication from Mr. J. D. Gurnoe, of Lac Court Oreilles, I would respectfully report that the matter as between Mrs. Therese Bellisle, Gurnoe, and Dobie & Stratton has been settled. In relation to the general matter of the letter, the circumstances, as near as I can learn, are that Mrs. Bellisle, with whom Gurnoe lives as man and wife, and for whom he is the business manager, made a contract with Dobie & Stratton for the sale of her pine. Gurnoe, who was to put it in, then commenced drawing from Dobie & Stratton, put up buildings and cut roads all through her land, and made all the necessary improvements for successful logging, and then commenced work on pine for other parties.

Messrs. Dobie & Stratton furnished him a large amount of supplies, including four horses, four oxen, camp outfit, etc., keeping the matter as one account, making no separate account with Mrs. Bellisle. Seeing that Gurnoe was coming behind, they urged him to put in his own or rather Mrs. Bellisle's logs, but he preferred to continue his work for other parties. The result was Gurnoe came out away in debt, which debt is utterly worthless to Messrs. Dobie & Stratton, and Mrs. Bellisle—virtually Gurnoe—has a very large share of the work of logging her land for next winter done and has put in but very little of the timber. I informed Messrs. Dobie & Stratton before receiving your communication that however the matter might be as a matter of equity, that I could not see any way for them to collect Gurnoe's debt from the Bellisle logs, but that they must pay for their want of sagacity in trusting him after the length of their acquaintance, and advised them to settle on the best terms he would propose and leave him alone for the future.

He is a sharp, well-educated half-breed, plausible, and, in my opinion, his idea of honesty is synonymous with want of common sense. The goods which Dobie & Stratton furnished him for sale they furnished at cost, as they had no post at that time at Lac Court Oreilles, and it was in consideration that he should assist them in their logging contracts. Finding that he was trusting the goods out and coming in debt, they stopped the arrangements. I have no doubt he tells the truth about the amount of lying he did in their interest, except he underestimates the number with which he compares them. I have compared the prices of Dobie & Stratton with others in the vicinity, and think they average about the same and are not greater than a man should have doing that business. As Mr. Gurnoe states, there are stores all about the vicinity equally accessible to the Indians and the competition is sufficient to keep their prices reasonable. They are, I believe, honorable business men and parties contracting with them were as successful as with others. They state, and I believe it to be a fact, that they would much prefer locating off the reservation and taking their chances with the others were it not for the large expense they have been at for buildings, etc., at their present location.

Very respectfully,

W. R. DURFEE,
U. S. Indian Agent.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, Wis., May 17, 1884.

SIR: In accordance with instructions contained in your telegram of 9th instant, I left this office on the 12th to visit Lac Court Oreilles Reservation to investigate the circumstances of payment to Thayer by the Pioneer Lumber Company, for logs sold by Moien and Shibagishigoqua. On my arrival (Tuesday, the 18th) I found that Thayer was in Saint Paul purchasing goods and had been absent for the past week. I looked up first Shibagizhigokwa, whom I found living at Thayer's house. I took her by herself and told her what was the object of my visit and that I wanted the exact facts. I told her that reports had come to me that she did not wish Thayer to draw her money, and that he having drawn it was not using it for her benefit, but that she was suffering for the necessaries of life. I give her reply as nearly as possible in her own words. Shibagizhigokwe says: "Thayer has always furnished her what she needed, that he is the only white man whom she knows upon whom she could depend, that he selected the land for her, that he is furnishing her with what she needs, that she authorized him of her own free will to draw her money, and that she is still of the opinion that he is the best person to care for it and for her interests, that she is amply supplied with all she needs, and that Thayer has contributed principally to her support for the last six years."

Moien says she gave Thayer authority to draw her money, and is entirely satisfied that he should have charge of it. If she had it herself everybody would have it, and she likes this way best. She gets what she wants, money and goods, from Thayer, and has been in the habit of doing so in years past when in need. She gave the order to Thayer to draw the money of her own free will. I told her that I had heard that she was in destitute circumstances, and that Thayer was not supplying her wants. She replied that whoever told me so lied; that she was supplied with everything she needed. That she tried to economize so that the money would last her a long time, but that her husband was extravagant. These statements were made to me freely in answer to my questions, and without any influence being brought to bear, no one upon the reservation knowing of my coming, and I believe they are the actual sentiments of the parties. These women are old. One of them, Shibagizhigoqua, quite feeble, a widow, living principally with Thayer's family.

My impression is that the arrangement is the best they could have made, as if the money was paid to them directly it would through the influence of the other Indians go like chaff, and without their getting any permanent benefit.

Thayer's wife, Go-gi, also expressed herself as entirely satisfied with his having drawn her money, and also said that it was very much better that he should have charge of her aunt's money, as he had always cared for them, and they were not capable of caring for themselves.

She said that Moien's husband, who is much younger than herself, had whipped his wife for not furnishing him money to go about to the different reservations, he being a sort of leader of the dancing Indians, and that he was the author of the reports which I had heard. Neither of these old women have any children, their nearest heir being Mrs. Thayer. Upon Thayer's return I instructed him to open accounts giving the parties credit for the amount received and have the accounts plainly itemized so that they could be readily examined in case it should be desired at any time by the Department. I notified Mr. Wilson, of the Pioneer Lumber Company, that the logs must not be driven until authority was received from the Department. As these logs are in a small stream, and it is necessary to drive them on the early freshets to make them available for this year, Mr. Wilson, was very desirous to receive the necessary authority at as early a date as possible to avoid unnecessary loss. I would respectfully ask as a matter of equity to him your early attention to the matter. The sums drawn by Thayer over and above the expense of banking the logs were, for account of—

Moien	$4,405.00
Shibagijigokwe	2,352.30
Go Gi (his wife)	4,375.75

Thayer is now keeping a store adjoining the reservation near Pahquahwong.
Very respectfully,

W. R. DURFEE,
U. S. Indian Agent.

Hon. H. PRICE,
Commissioner Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Office of Indian Affairs, May 27, 1884.

SIR: I have received your report of the 17th instant, of the investigation had in the matter of the payment to Mr. Thaddeus Thayer by the Pioneer Mill Company of certain moneys due to Go-gi (Thayer's wife), and Moien and Shibagizhigokwa (her aunts), under logging contracts entered into by them respectively with said company; from which it appears that the reports heretofore made as to the destitute condition of the two last-named women are without foundation; that each, of her own free will, authorized Thayer, who has mainly supported them for years past, to draw her money from the company; that they get all they want in money and goods from Thayer; and that they each express the utmost confidence in him and appear perfectly satisfied with the arrangement made, and that he should continue to have charge of their moneys.

You express the opinion that the arrangement is the best these women could have made, as if the money had been paid to them directly it would, through the influence of other Indians, be rapidly squandered without their getting any permanent benefit.

It appears that Go-gi (Thayer's wife) has also expressed herself as entirely satisfied with the disposition of her money in the payment to her husband.

You state that you have instructed Thayer to open accounts, giving the parties credit for the amounts received, and to have the accounts plainly itemized, so that they can readily be examined in case it should at any time be desired by the Department.

Under the circumstances stated, and there being no imputation of bad faith on the part of the Pioneer Mill Company in the matter, I do not perceive that this office can interfere further as against the company; and if the contracts have been completed and all moneys lawfully due thereunder paid, you are authorized to permit the removal of the logs. The contracts have been approved and will be forwarded as soon as recorded.

In his recent report of inspection of La Pointe Agency Inspector Benedict, in speaking of these particular contracts, states that he is informed by some of the business men of Ashland that Mr. Thayer is "pecuniarily irresponsible; the result of his obtaining this sum of money from the Pioneer Lumber Company, which should have been paid to these three women, will be to enrich himself at their expense."

Whether this is true or not, it would seem only proper that Mr. Thayer should furnish approved security for the moneys placed in his hands by Moien and Shibagiznigokwa, and you will use all possible endeavors to obtain such security from him.

Very respectfully,

E. L. STEVENS,
Acting Commissioner.

WM. R. DURFEE, Esq.,
U. S. Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis.

PIONEERS LUMBER COMPANY,
Eau Claire, Wis., May 23, 1884.

SIR: The Pioneers Lumber Company have suspended their driving operations on the Lac Court Oreilles Indian Reservation in accordance with your instruction to Agent W. R. Durfee, and as this action will cost us some money and it may be much delay in getting our logs to the mill at Eau Claire, I thought it but justice to our company, and all concerned, to offer for your consideration the following facts, in hopes that you will remove the interdiction at as early a date as possible. We have paid every cent and dollar to the Indians from whom we purchased logs, in gold, on or before the 15th April last, and before any of the logs were moved from the landing, the payments being all made under the direction of the agent, who had an accountant on the ground on the day of settlement, who scrutinized the accounts and went over them item by item and explained them to the Indians in interest, who were all completely satisfied. It has been the intention of our company to live up to their contracts made with these Indians through and under the direct supervision of your Department for their benefit, and to do a little better by them than others buying logs of them for the following reasons, if no other: We are the only parties buying logs of these Indians who manufacture the logs; the other buyers resell and must have a profit. We are anxious to so deal with the Indians that they will see that it is to their interest to deal and sell to us.

When we commenced buying logs last fall from this reservation we found parties there who had previously purchased the Indian logs. These parties treated us as interlopers, trespassers, and meddlers with their business, and caused us much trouble and expense through their influence with the Indians and the farmer—so much, in fact, that Agent Durfee for a time was under the impression that we were not following his instructions. We have no doubt that Agent Durfee is now satisfied that we used our utmost endeavors to comply with his rules and instructions in every case when we understood them, and well knows that we could not afford to do otherwise, as we had given large bonds to the Government, and should we forfeit them our punishment would be severe and sure. We desire to deal with these Indians in the future—to buy their logs, etc.—and believe that we can afford to pay better prices for their logs than any other company operating on the Chippewa waters, and will do so if we can have just and fair treatment (of which we have no doubt) from those who have these Indians in charge. The logs we have already purchased from the Indians last season (1883-'84) amount in value to about $50,000, every dollar of which has been paid, and at the times and dates agreed upon, and we have purchased about the same amount from other parties. Now, by the suspension of the Indian drive we necessarily are compelled to stop the drive on our other logs on the river, as they have come down and are mixed in with the Indian logs, and by complying with your order (unless soon revoked) we will soon be compelled to shut down our mills for want of logs, and if we are delayed until the spring "drive" is over the damage to our business will be almost incalculable.

We do not believe that it is your intention or desire to cause us any embarrassment, or to injure us in our affairs, but you can easily see from the above statement that you are in great danger of placing us in a very unpleasant (not to say dangerous) situation in regard to our business for the present season. We are under the impression that the post traders, Messrs. Dobie & Stratton, who appear to believe that all the Indian timber belongs to them, have caused us this delay and trouble, as it is no doubt greatly to their pecuniary interest in the future to keep other parties from buying the Indian logs. Especially are we aimed at, as we are in condition to pay more for the property than Dobie & Stratton can sell for to other parties after paying to the Indians what we are prepared and able to offer them. I would very much wish to see you before any contracts are granted for next season's logging, and will come to Washington and consult with you on the subject, if you have no objection. I think I can make some suggestions which will be of advantage to the Indians on this reservation, having given the subject much consideration.

Will you be kind enough to give the matters mentioned above your very early attention? Our sawing season here is very short and we are depending on your prompt action for logs, without which our business for this season will prove disastrous.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. F. WILSON,
Vice-President and Manager Pioneer Lumber Company, Per F. WILSON, Secretary.

Hon. H. PRICE,
Commissioner Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Office of Indian Affairs, May 28, 1884.

SIR: In reply to your letter of the 23d instant, I have to say that Agent Durfee was, by letter of yesterday's date, directed to permit your company to drive certain logs purchased of three Indian women, viz: Go-gi, Moien, and Shobagizhigokwa, the removal of which had been temporarily interdicted pending an investigation into the circumstances connected with the payment to Mr. Thayer of the moneys due thereon, as to which payment this office had but very imperfect data at the time the order of suspension was issued.

It is due to the Pioneer Mill Company to say that no imputation rests against them in the matter referred to, and so far as this office has any knowledge the firm of Dobie & Stratton is not responsible for any delay or trouble that may have arisen, as you seem to think.

Very respectfully,

E. L. STEVENS,
Acting Commissioner.

R. F. WILSON, Esq.,
Vice-President Pioneer Lumber Company, Eau Claire, Wis.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Office of Indian Affairs, June 23, 1884.

SIR: You will please forward to this office, as early as practicable, a report upon the results of the last season's logging operations on the Lac Court d'Oreilles, Bad River, and Red Cliff reserves. Certain incomplete abstracts furnished by you to Inspector Gardner have been filed with his report, but of the practical outcome to the Indians, and result, beneficial or otherwise, which is the most important feature, this office has received no information from you.

Very respectfully

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

WILLIAM R. DURFEE, Esq.,
U. S. Agent, La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, Wis., June 27, 1884.

SIR: Referring to Department letter of June 23 (L. special), apologizing for the delay which has been caused by a constant press of business in this office, I have the honor to report that the logging operations upon the reservations in this agency have been in the main satisfactory to me and I think profitable to the Indians, both pecuniarily and as a matter of education. I have no doubt that could the stumpage be sold directly to buyers, with authority to put in the pine with white crews, that the individual owners would realize more for their pine, yet I still deem the present method of disposing of the timber, with some modifications which I shall have the honor to suggest, as much the most advantageous to the Indians. By selling the stumpage the owners would receive their payments without labor themselves, the remainder of the Indians would be left in idleness, in a short time the timber would be entirely cut off and the Indians, not having acquired the habit of labor and being naturally improvident with money easily acquired, would be poorer and more dependent than ever.

The disadvantages of the present system are that the anxiety to realize causes them each to be in a hurry; to contract his pine; then the competition for labor runs the wages up exorbitantly leaving a small margin for stumpage. The money is however generally distributed among them, and all are well fed and well clothed from the results of their labor, there being no poverty or want upon the reservations. Owing to their want of knowledge of logging operations the Department has allowed upon my recommendation the employment of white foremen, cook, and teamsters in the lumber camps. They have now had sufficient experience upon the three reservations where logging operations have been carried on in my opinion to dispense entirely with white labor and I would respectfully recommend that white labor hereafter be entirely dispensed with, allowing, of course, a white contractor to employ at his own expense a man to see that the work is properly done according to contract. I make this recommendation for the following reasons: Allowing white labor under restrictions leads inevitably to a violation of the regulations. The work is scattered over such an extent of country that I can not give it constant supervision, and when I visit a camp there is always some excuse either that there is no work for the teams and they can't pay white men to lay idle—something to account for white men chopping and sawing.

With the help of white labor the work of denuding the reservations is progressing more rapidly than is desirable.

With Indian labor alone I think on Lac Court Oreille Reservation there is timber to furnish employment and support for that band for forty years, and upon Bad River for nearly as long a time. I would recommend that those Indians who have been logging and have teams and camp outfits be allowed to take contracts from other Indians to put in their timber at reasonable prices, availing themselves of the proceeds of their industry, thrift, and experience. I think that this would be desirable for all parties. It would be desirable if possible to restrict the parties allowed to contract for this timber, say to licensed traders. I am aware that charges of monopoly and favoritism would be made, but in no other way that I can see can a proper control be kept over the amount of timber contracted for and the rate of wages. It is very difficult with open competition for me to decide that this Indian shall contract his pine and that one shall not, or that this white man shall make a contract and that one shall not. The result is, preparation for more work than can be done, and the labor market being limited it is run up by competition to exorbitant rates at the expense of the stumpage. I presume this arrangement, however, could not be made. As a suggestion of this sort looks as though it might cover a job, I desire to disclaim here any personal interest in the matter further than that I believe it would be beneficial to the Indians.

Many of these Indians are making good use of the money they have received; some of them are no better off than before. Their unusual supply of money has of course induced unprincipled parties to furnish them whisky, and there has been much drunkenness among them. Upon the whole, I believe the business results have been favorable, and I know of no plan for doing this work which in my opinion would accomplish more for the benefit of the Indians. If control could be exercised over the expenditure of their money it might accomplish more, but the inducement to labor would be withdrawn, and this I consider one of the most important points. The soil upon Lac Court Oreille and Bad River Reservations is of good quality, and if it were possible to keep whisky out I should have great hopes that in the near future these would be among the most prosperous lumbering and farming communities in the State. In this connection I would say that I asked Inspector Gardner to recommend the appointment of an Indian agent for Lac Court Oreilles Reservation, detaching it from this agency, and I would respectfully make this recommendation myself. It will be evident that with the multiplicity of my duties I can not have the time to give the work upon that reservation the close supervision which its magnitude requires; and it seems to me that a first-class man could put in his full time there to advantage, and that the business interests of the reservation could well afford to pay the expense.

Very respectfully,

W. R. DUFFEE,
U. S. Indian Agent.

Hon. H. PRICE,
Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, D. C., July 10, 1884.

SIR: I have the honor to invite your attention to the remarks of Inspector Gardner, as contained in his report to the Department of 6th May last, on La Pointe Agency, Wis., with reference to the logging operations by Indian patentees upon the several reservations within the jurisdiction of said agency, as authorized in Department letter to Hon. Angus Cameron, September 28, 1882, a copy of which was, as directed, duly transmitted by this office to Agent Durfee as a basis of instructions, on the 11th of October following.

These instructions were substantially as follows:

"Indians who have received patents for their lands will be permitted to cut and sell the timber from three-fourths of the tract patented, leaving one-fourth of the timber in a compact body intact, for future use for fuel, fencing, etc.

"They will not be permitted to sell stumpage, neither will white crews be permitted to do the work, but the Indians themselves must cut and sell delivered on the bank of a driving stream, lake, or at mill, as may be desired.

"The logs to be paid for from time to time as may be agreed between the contracting parties, final payment to be made before they are removed from the landings. White men logging upon the reservation to be considered and treated as trespassers.

"The scale to be by a party approved by the United States Indian Agent in charge of the reservation, the scaler to be paid equally by the first and second parties to the contract. All contracts, in order to be valid and binding, must first be approved by the United States Indian Agent and the Commissioner of Indian Affairs."

After recommending that a delegation of not more than ten Indians, to be selected from the various bands attached to the agency, accompanied by the agent and an interpreter, be permitted, in accordance with their earnest request made to the inspector, to visit Washington for the purpose of adjusting certain claims they allege to have against the Government—the settlement of the troublesome question of applications of mixed-bloods for allotments of land within their respective reservations; the construction of the Northern Pacific Railroad upon the Bad River reserve, and of the application of the Ashland Boom and Canal Company to use the White and Bad Rivers on the Bad River reserve for booming purposes, and other matters, Inspector Gardner says:

"Should this application to visit Washington be not favorably entertained I would most earnestly recommend that Agent Durfee be ordered to report in person to the Department for an interchange of views regarding the most satisfactory manner of disposing of the timber on allotted lands, as in my opinion the present mode is liable to fraud, misunderstandings, annoyances, and confusion, and in a good many instances no material benefit is derived by the Indians from the present mode of disposing of their timber. It will be observed from the reports of timber cut within this agency on Bad River, Red Cliff, and Lac Court d'Oreilles, that the aggregate is considerable, amounting to 47,963,389 feet, or approximating forty-eight millions. Attention is invited to the inclosed statement of Agent Durfee, marked Exhibit No. 2. I am credibly informed that a good many of the Indians who sold their stumpage at prices from $2 to $2.50 per 1,000 feet did no labor whatever toward cutting the timber or trying to clear the land; that they received their money for same, and now spend their time in idleness and the money as suits their whims. * * * By reference to Exhibit No. 2 it will be seen that quite a number of the Indians cut and delivered logs without the knowledge or consent of the agent, and when he did ascertain that they had done so he sold the same at public sale without advertisement, but subject to the approval of the Hon. Commissioner of Indian Affairs. It is rather a late day to ask for approval. The Indians have been paid for the logs and stumpage, and the purchasers have, to all intents and purposes, received the logs. I recommend no further action in this matter, as I believe Agent Durfee did it in good faith and for the best interest of the service.

"I ascertained from the records of the office that the Lac Court d'Oreilles Reservation contains 69,136 acres; that in 1883 there were 842 Indians living upon the same, but that they have now increased to about 1,041, all told, and that 283 patents of 80 acres each have been issued by the Department, and that 148 additional selections have been made for allotments and patent, but have not yet been forwarded by Agent Durfee to the Department. It is estimated that there is 200,000,000 or 250,000,000 of pine yet on the Lac Court d'Oreilles reserve. Should the Indians be permitted to cut the same as during last season but a few years would elapse until the reservation would be stripped of timber.

"I apprehend it was not the intention of the Department to permit this wholesale lumbering, but that it is the desire that each individual Indian allottee should do some work towards clearing up his land or his 80-acre allotment. If such was the intention, the Indian has failed so far to do so. I am at a loss to recommend what would be for the better for the future cutting of the pine timber on these reserves, only this: I would respectfully recommend the discontinuance of the present mode, and perhaps in the interview solicited for Agent Durfee a different and a better mode may be arrived at than at present."

During the season of 1882-'83 forty-two contracts (prepared in accordance with the form approved by the Department November 1, 1882) made by individual Indians holding patents for lands on the Lac Court d'Oreilles, Bad River, and Red Cliff reserves, respectively, variously calling for from 30,000 to 900,000 feet of pine timber at prices ranging from $5 to $6.50 per 1,000 feet, according to quality of timber, with bonds to insure the faithful performance thereof by the purchasers, were submitted by Agent Durfee and approved by this office.

The result of these operations appears on the whole to have been very satisfactory, the Indians for the most part coming out considerably ahead of their contracts. For detailed reports I beg to refer to Agent Durfee's letters of April 17th and May 7th and 15th, 1883, herewith, marked respectively A, B, and C, from which I make a few extracts:

LAC COURT D'OREILLES RESERVE.

- "Ondog, or Alex. Bellisle.—Contract 500,000; has banked 508,680 feet at $5.50 per 1,000 (in addition has skidded logs to value $1,300, and has banked 1,003,000 feet for Sherman Lumber Company at $3 per 1,000); has built two good houses and one stable; and has bought three yoke oxen, one span horses, two log sleds, one tote sled, and one year's provisions, and has $1,200 coming to him in June from Sherman Lumber Company, and has received payment in full for above logs.
- "Baupies.—Contract 400,000; banked 373,000 feet at $5.50 per 1,000; has built house and barn; bought a good yoke of cattle, a cow, a fair logging kit, comprising cook-stove, blankets, etc.; has $150 provisions on hand, and received balance $391.94 in gold; is free from debt, and prepared to cultivate 10 acres this spring.

Appended to this report are the following remarks by Agent Durfee:

"These Indians do not and can not be made to do their work as economically as white men; with good credit they buy many needless articles and support many of their friends and neighbors. I have requested contractors to furnish them as little in supplies and money as they could during the operations, and endeavor to keep them in such condition that a handsome balance in the spring might show them the benefit of labor and economy. * * * I regard the result as very satisfactory. The Indians, in addition to the above, have household goods, implements, etc., and are in much better condition than before the commencement of the work." (Report May 7, 1883, B.)

During the season of 1883-'84, just closed, the operations have been on a more extended scale, eighty-eight contracts in respect of the three reservations, just double the number in the previous season, having been entered into and approved, independently of the cases referred to by Inspector Gardner, in which the logs were cut and banked by the Indians without contract.

From the abstracts of logging operations furnished by Agent Durfee to Inspector Gardner I gather the following statistics:

LA COURT D'OREILLES RESERVE.

Number feet of logs banked, 31,591,950; average price per 1,000, about $6; amount in value as per schedule, $187,880.08, exclusive of certain accounts in which the figures are not carried out, owing to discrepancies in Indian names in the scaler's reports; but inclusive of those cases in which no contracts were made, as above stated.

BAD RIVER RESERVE.

Number feet logs banked under contract, 9,142,330; average price per 1,000, about $6.50; amount in value, per schedule, $57,991.37; add on Palmer contracts, improperly scaled, and figures not extended, 3,200,000; number feet cut without contract, 1,023,018; total number feet cut on this reserve, 13,365,348.

RED CLIFF RESERVE.

Number feet logs banked, 3,005,991; average price per 1,000, about $5.50; amount in value, per schedule, $13,761.31; exclusive of cases in which no contracts were made and in which money value is not extended.

The foregoing figures, although necessarily incomplete, indicate the extent of operations during the past logging seasons, showing that over 48,000,000 feet of timber have been cut and banked by the Indians, representing a money value of over $250,000.

Patents for allotments on these three reservations have been issued from time to time as follows, viz:

Lac Court d'Oreilles	281
Bad River	216
Red Cliff	30
Total	527

In addition to the above twenty-one allotments on Bad River reserve are now waiting approval in this office.

Of the holders of these patents probably from 150 to 175 have availed themselves of the privilege to cut and sell the timber on their tracts, including those who have done so without contract, and it is fair to presume that if the system is to be continued the coming season's operations will be largely in excess of all previous ones.

The jurisdiction of La Pointe Agency extends over nine different reservations located in the States of Wisconsin and Minnesota respectively, viz:

Wisconsin.—La Pointe or Bad River, Lac Court d'Oreilles, Red Cliff, Lac du Flambeau.

Minnesota.—Bois Forte, Deer Creek, Fond du Lac, Grand Portage, Vermillion Lake.

With the exception of Fond du Lac, all the reservations in Minnesota are situated at points remote from the agency, and inaccessible except during the winter season, a large portion of which the agent is compelled to devote to visiting those reservations distributing annuity goods, making payments, etc., thereby preventing him from giving the logging operations, upon the reservations nearer home, that close personal supervision which the importance of the subject demands.

In this connection I beg to call attention to a copy of a letter inclosed herewith, marked G, written by Agent Durfee on the 17th December last to Hon. Isaac Stephenson, M. C., in which, referring to the logging business, he says:

"This is the most important work in the agency, involving, as it does, a large sum annually. The duties of my office are such that I can not give the business the close supervision which it should have; in fact, as you can see, one man could not under any circumstances efficiently superintend the work, scaling, etc., upon all these reservations. It is important that a practical lumberman of intelligence and honesty should be employed upon each of the reservations who could estimate the quantity and price of logs to be cut, to guide me in approving contracts, and to see when contracts were made that the work was properly done, and the logs properly scaled so that the Indians may derive full benefit from their property and labor."

It is only due to Agent Durfee to say that, so far as this office is able to judge, the extra duties imposed upon him by reason of this new undertaking of the Indians have been faithfully and zealously performed, an opinion which is confirmed by Inspector Gardner, when, speaking of the agent personally, he says: "In his intercourse with the Indians intrusted to his care, I believe his every-day actions tend to their advancement" (copy report of Inspector Gardner, May 6, 1884, herewith, marked H).

Since the foregoing was prepared I have received from Agent Durfee the inclosed letter, dated 27th ultimo (marked I), transmitting a statement of the results of the logging operations upon the three reservations before mentioned for the season 1883-'84, showing the net profits to the Indians engaged.

A summary of this statement shows the following figures:

LAC COURT D'OREILLES.

Cash balances paid to Indians after deducting supplies furnished them	$32,466.40
Oxen on hand	2,585.00
Horses on hand	2,950.00
Camp outfits on hand	4,640.00
as the net results of the work of 46 Indians.	42,641.40

RED CLIFF.

Cash balances paid to Indians	$1,190.13
Horses, wagons, etc., on hand	918.00
House and lot on hand	1,000.00
House (value not given)
	3,108.13

5 Indians

BAD RIVER.

Cash balances paid to Indians	$18,448.52
25 Indians.

In transmitting this statement Agent Durfee remarks that the logging operations have in the main been satisfactory to him, and he believes profitable to the Indians, both pecuniarily and as a matter of education, and although he considers that to sell the stumpage directly to buyers, with authority to put in the pine with white crews, would realize more for the individual Indian owners, he still deems the present method with some modifications, the best. By selling the stumpage the owners would get their money without labor; the remainder of the Indians would be left idle; in a short time the timber would be cut off; and the Indians not having acquired the habit of labor, and naturally improvident, with money easily acquired, would be poorer and more dependent than ever.

The disadvantages of the present system appear to consist in the Indian's anxiety to realize, which causes them each to be in a hurry to contract for his pine, resulting in excessive competition for labor and running the wages up exorbitantly, leaving only a small margin available. The money, however (Agent Durfee says), is generally distributed amongst them, and all are well fed and well clothed from the results of their labor, there being no poverty or want upon the reservation.

Owing to the want of knowledge of logging operations, caring for and handling teams, etc., by the Indians, Agent Durfee was at an early stage of the proceedings authorized to allow the employment of white foremen, cooks, and teamsters in the lumber camps. He thinks that the Indians have now had sufficient experience upon the reservation where logging operations have been carried on to dispense entirely with white labor, and recommends that such labor be dispensed with, except allowing a white contractor to employ at his own expense a man to see that the work is properly done according to contract. It would seem from Agent Durfee's letter that the authority to employ a foreman, cook, and teamsters in the camps has been taken advantage of in the employment of white labor to some extent, greater than that authorized, for he says:

"With the help of white labor, the work of denuding the reservation is progressing more rapidly than is desirable. With Indian labor alone I think on Lac Court d'Oreilles Reservation there is timber to furnish employment and support for that band for forty years, and upon Bad River for nearly as long a time."

Agent Durfee then recommends that those Indians who have been logging and have teams and camp outfits be allowed to take contracts from other Indians, to put in their timber at reasonable prices, availing themselves of the proceeds of their industry, thrift, and experience. This, he thinks, would be desirable for all parties.

He also suggests that it would be desirable to restrict the parties allowed to contract for the timber to licensed traders only, in order to properly control the amount of timber contracted for and the rate of wages. He states the difficulties he encounters with the present system of open competition in deciding upon the contracts submitted to him, and shows that the result is preparation for more work than can be done, and the labor market being limited it is run up by competition to exorbitant rates at the expense of the stumpage. He, however, candidly admits that such a course would be open to charges of monopoly and favoritism, although he believes it would be beneficial to the Indians.

Report further shows that many of these Indians are making good use of their money; some of them, however, are no better off than before. Their unusual supply of money has induced unprincipled parties to furnish them with whisky, and there has been much drunkenness among them.

On the whole, Agent Durfee believes that the business results have been favorable, and states that he knows of no plan for doing the work which, in his opinion, would accomplish more for the benefit of the Indians. If control could be exercised over the expenditure of their money it might accomplish more, but the inducement to labor would be withdrawn, and this he considers one of the most important points. The soil on the Lac Court d'Oreilles and Bad River Reservations is of good quality, and if it were possible to keep whisky out the agent has great hopes that in the near future these Indians would be among the most prosperous lumbering and farming communities in the State.

The report concludes with a recommendation for the appointment of an agent specially for the Lac Court d'Oreilles Reservation, detaching it from La Pointe Agency, urging that owing to the multiplicity of his (the agent's) duties he can not give the work on that reservation the close supervision which its magnitude requires, and that a first-class man could devote his whole time there to advantage.

In view of the facts thus presented, and of the conflict of opinion between Inspector Gardner and Agent Durfee as to the best method of disposing of the timber, the former recommending the discontinuance of the present system, but presenting no substitute therefor, the latter contending for its continuance with some modifications as accomplishing the most for the practical education and benefit of the Indians, I have the honor to submit the following questions for your consideration:

(1) Whether or not the present system of logging operations upon the reservations of the La Pointe Agency shall be continued, subject to the modifications recommended by Agent Durfee, except as to limiting contracts to licensed traders only, which, for the reason stated by the agent, I consider impracticable and unwise.

(2) Whether or not, upon the whole showing, Agent Durfee shall be directed to report in person to the Department for an exchange of views in regard to the most effective way of conducting the logging business in the future, having regard to its probable increasing magnitude, the extent of his agency, and the manifold duties connected therewith; and in the event of his being ordered here, whether or not it will, in your judgment, be advisable for a delegation of Indians to accompany him, as suggested by Inspector Gardner.

Personally I am inclined to think that an interview with the agent would result in a better understanding by this office of the logging business and the interests involved, and would avoid much correspondence, which hitherto has occupied a great deal of time at both ends of the line, with every prospect of increase as the logging seasons progress.

There are other matters upon which it is desirable to have a clear understanding with the agent, notably an application of the Ashland Boom and Canal Company, which now has a bill (S. 2277) pending in Congress, granting to it the right to occupy and use certain lands of the Bad River reserve for the purpose of driving, booming, and rafting logs on the White and Bad Rivers, which seriously affects the interests of the Indian occupants of said reserve collectively and individually; also, an application of the Milwaukee, Lake Shore and Western Railway Company to extend its road through the Bad River Reservation.

I would therefore respectfully recommend that Agent Durfee alone be authorized to come to Washington at such early date as he can leave his agency without detriment to the service, for a conference on the subjects herein presented.

As the logging season for 1884-'85 is rapidly approaching, I venture to suggest that early action by the Department in the matter would be desirable.

The return of the papers herewith submitted is respectfully requested.

Very respectfully,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, July 12, 1884.

SIR: I return herewith the inclosures which accompanied your letter of 10th instant, relating to logging operations by the Indians upon the La Pointe Indian Reservation in Wisconsin.

Agreeably to your recommendation, authority is hereby granted for Agent Durfee, of La Pointe Agency, to proceed from his agency to this city, at such early date as he can leave his agency without detriment to the service, for a conference upon the subjects presented in your communication above referred to. The actual and necessary traveling expenses of the trip, stay in this city while upon official business, and return to his agency to be defrayed from funds applicable upon presentation of proper vouchers.

Very respectfully,

M. L. JOSLYN,
Acting Secretary.

The COMMISSIONER OF INDIAN AFFAIRS.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Office of Indian Affairs, July 15, 1884.

SIR: Replying to your several communications concerning the logging matters at La Pointe, you are advised that authority has been granted by the honorable Secretary of the Interior for you to visit Washington at such early date as you can leave the agency without detriment to the service, for a conference upon the subjects presented in your letters above referred to; and the actual and necessary expenses pertaining to the trip, including your stay in Washington while on official business and your return to the agency, will be allowed you in the settlement of your accounts, upon presentation of the proper vouchers. It is expected that the Secretary will be absent for the next two weeks, in view of which you may wish to postpone your visit until he returns.

Respectfully,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

W. R. DURFEE,
U. S. Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Wisconsin.

ASHLAND, August 22, 1884.

SIR: Having cut logs last winter on the Bad River Reservation, and desiring to do so the coming season, I applied to Mr. Durfee some time prior to his visit to Washington for leave to do so. He told me that on his return he would let me know in regard to it. Upon his arrival I asked him in regard to it, but he told me he had to go to Washington some time during the fall, and then on his return he could give me the required information. Now other parties here are making preparations for moving on the reserve for the purpose of cutting logs. If I have to wait until late in the fall it will then be too late to do anything to advantage. I am on good terms with the Indians, being in fact a half-breed myself, although not residing on the reserve. I have a camp there and timber that I did not finish cutting last winter. I have, therefore, taken the liberty of appealing directly to you in the matter. I take the ground that under the circumstances that I have as good right as any to operate on the reserve the coming season.

Will you inform me in regard to it, and oblige,

Your obedient servant,

GEO. M. ARMSTRONG.

The SECRETARY OF INTERIOR.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Office of Indian Affairs, August 30, 1884.

SIR: Replying to your letter of the 22d instant, addressed to the honorable Secretary of the Interior, and by him referred to this office, relative to logging operations on Bad River Reservation for the ensuing season, I have to say that Mr. Durfee is perfectly correct when he states that he can give you no definite information about the matter at present. Whether the present system shall be continued or not rests entirely with the honorable Secretary, who is now absent from the city, and until his return nothing can be done. I should not advise you or any others to take any active steps in the matter until after the honorable Secretary's decision is known. It is safe to say that no contracts will be approved by this office pending such decision.

Very respectfully,

E. L. STEVENS,
Acting Commissioner.

Mr. GEORGE M. ARMSTRONG,
Ashland, Wis.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Office of Indian Affairs, August 30, 1884.

SIR: For your information I inclose herewith a copy of a letter this day addressed to Mr. George M. Armstrong, relative to logging operations on Bad River during the coming season.

Very respectfully,

E. L. STEVENS,
Acting Commissioner.

WM. R. DURFEE, Esq.,
U. S. Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, January 21, 1885.

SIR: I am in receipt, by Department reference, for remark, of a letter (referred by Hon. Isaac Stephenson on 15th December last) from B. Cornell, dated at Lac Court d'Oreilles Reservation, Wisconsin, deprecating the present system of logging operations on the reservation, and urging the introduction of white labor, and the establishment of a savings bank under charge of the resident Catholic priest, as an inducement to the Indians to save a portion of their earnings.

In reply I have the honor to invite attention to Department letter to Hon. Angus Cameron, dated October 9, 1882, a copy of which was on the same date furnished to this office as the basis of instructions to be communicated by this office to the agent on the subject, in which letter it was (amongst other things) expressly stated that "the timber should be cut by the Indians, and delivered by them on the banks of the river.

* * * Crews of white men can not be allowed on the reservation for the purpose of cutting the timber. If it should be found necessary, a proper person as agent for the purchaser and at his expense may be permitted by the Indian agent to go among the Indians to see to the proper cutting of the timber, its measurement, etc."

Under these instructions white labor has been excluded from the lumber camps, except in a very limited degree in the employment of white foremen, cooks, and teamsters, rendered necessary at the commencement of the work by the Indians' inexperience in logging operations, caring for and handling teams, etc. The agent is now of the opinion that the Indians have had sufficient experience to dispense entirely with white labor, except allowing a white contractor to employ a man at his own expense to see that the work is properly done according to contract, and the present season's operations are, it is believed, now being conducted on that plan; at least such was the understanding had by this office after Agent Durfee's interview with the honorable Secretary upon the subject last fall.

A brief history of the logging operations upon the Lac Court d'Oreilles, Bad River, and Red Cliff reserves, severally attached to the La Pointe Agency, will be found in the last annual report of this office (see copy herewith, pp. LIII, etc.), from which it will be observed that in his report accompanying the statistics furnished the agent expresses himself as generally satisfied with the work and its results, and although he considers that to sell the stumpage directly to buyers, with authority to put in the pine with white crews, would probably realize more money for the individual Indian owners, he still deems the present method, with some modifications, the best, as a matter of education and incentive to the Indians to labor.

Touching Mr. Cornell's suggestion to establish a savings bank, I would remark that whilst it might be a good thing for the more improvident Indians if control could be exercised over the expenditure of their money, I do not see how it could be done without conflicting with the general theory of the Department in treating the Indian as a free agent pro hac vice, capable of making his own contracts, and of properly applying the proceeds thereof. It is a question whether any attempt by the Department to supervise the Indians' expenditure would not result in the withdrawal of all inducement to labor, which after all is one of the most important considerations.

Whilst on this subject I will say that I think that the interests of the Lac Court d'Oreilles Indians can be more efficiently subserved by the appointment of a resident agent for them, some practical man capable of overseeing the important logging business on their reservation, thus relieving the agent at the La Pointe Agency, who already has his hands full in the labors devolved upon him in attending to the eight other reservations at remote distances in Wisconsin and Minnesota under his charge.

Mr. Cornell's letter is herewith returned.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, January 22, 1885.

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt through your reference, under date of 15th ultimo, of a letter addressed to this Department by Mr. B. Cornell, dated Lac Court d'Oreilles Reservation—without date—upon the subject of logging operations upon said reservation, with suggestions concerning the introduction of white labor upon said reservation, and the establishment of a savings bank under control of the Catholic priest, etc.

The subject having been referred to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs for remarks, I inclose herewith a copy of his letter of reply of 21st instant, in which he expresses his views upon the subjects presented by Mr. Cornell; also copy of the Indian Office report referred to in the letter of the Commissioner.

Very respectfully,

M. L. JOSLYN,
Acting Secretary.

Hon. ISAAC STEPHENSON,
House of Representatives.

CHIPPEWA INDIAN MISSION,
Court Oreilles, Wis., December 19, 1884.

DEAR SIR: I would like to say a few words through you to the honorable Commissioner in regard to lumbering operations on this reservation.

I desire to do this in behalf of the Indians and of the lumbering company on the reservation. The firm of Dobie & Stratton have their headquarters right here, and I board at their boarding-house, and I can speak confidently and safely of their character and manner of doing business with the Indians.

I feel sure that the agent, Mr. Durfee, and the office in Washington can safely rely upon the statement in regard to this company that in their business transactions with the Indians they will deal honorably and justly, once and always.

I hear often of what has been written the office by some two men perhaps in regard to this company. I am considerably acquainted with these men, and from what I know of them I certainly could not give the least credence to their statements; they are very unworthy men.

A few days since the Government farmer here received a communication from Agent Durfee containing instructions in regard to contracts for buying logs by lumber companies of the Indians, which, if carried out, will result disastrously to the company or companies who are furnishing the Indian supplies for cutting their timber.

The instruction were not to allow contracts to be made by the company for logs to exceed 10,000,000 feet.

This order comes now after contracts are very generally made and the Indians lumbering have already received supplies in teams, sleds, and tools of all kinds necessary for the work and provisions, camp fixtures, etc., to an extent requiring about 15,000,000 feet to make a safe and profitable business to both parties.

If these contracts are now to be revoked, I should suppose it would result in ruin to the company, as the amount allowed to be cut (10,000,000 feet) would not pay for supplies, and would give the company no opportunity to regain the expense and losses of running the business.

The expense of outfitting the camps in the way of hauling supplies, pay of clerk, teamsters, blacksmiths, sled-makers, etc., is very heavy. I think Dobie & Stratton have contracts to the extent of 8,000,000 feet.

The other company have about as much contracted, I am told. I hope this matter will receive the attention of the office, and such instructions will be sent as will quiet all concerned in the business and stop the mouths of these men, whose intent is to demolish everybody and business which they can not control.

Excuse this—I wrote this because I thought it duty to speak.

Very truly yours,

S. G. WRIGHT.

Hon. E. L. STEVENS.

P. S.—It is unfortunate, very, that there is not an agent here to attend to this important business.

The Indians who have sold timber in the past have built for themselves (all done last season) some twenty-five good substantial dwellings, and some have cleared and cultivated considerable land. Too much out (?) ruling by the agent may set this progress all back or bring it to dead standstill, and this is the reason why I venture to speak of it.

The Indians should certainly be allowed to go on and fill their contracts.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, Wis., February 18, 1885.

STR: Referring to the contracts for the winter of 1883-'84 for logs upon Lac Court Oreilles Reservation, Pioneer Lumber Company with Gogi, Moien, and Shibagi-shingokwa. This matter I had supposed was closed, but within the last month complications have arisen with regard to it, and I would respectfully ask for Department instructions. The parties to these contracts, as stated in my previous letters upon the subject, are Gogi, wife of Thad Thayer, for many years licensed trader upon the Lac Court Oreilles Reservation, and two old women, her aunts. These parties agreed that Thayer should receive and have charge of the proceeds of the logs for their benefit, which agreement was subsequently ratified by the Department.

Previous to this approval Thayer, with Mr. R. F. Wilson, business manager of the Pioneer Lumber Company, visited my office to inquire if the payment to Thayer would be satisfactory and if I would indorse my approval upon the orders drawn by the women in Thayer's favor. This I refused to do, but told them that an order bearing upon it a certificate of a competent and responsible interpreter that the women understood what they were doing would be satisfactory to me and, I presumed, also to the Department. I gave them the form of certificate which would be satisfactory to me, and also suggested Mr. Wetenhall as a proper party to do the interpreting.

The form is that which appears upon the copies of orders herewith inclosed.

Subsequently I saw the women, and ascertained from them that Thayer was chosen by them to act in their behalf.

This arrangement received my consent, for the reason that I considered the old women utterly unfit to have the control of so much money, and that Thayer, as a business man and their relative, upon whom they had for many years been more or less dependent for support, was the most proper person to act for them.

It appears that Thayer had a further contract with the Pioneer Lumber Company, by which, in consideration of his driving the logs into the main stream, he was to receive a compensation of $2 per 1,000 upon the logs above the contract price made by the women for delivery upon the bank.

The Pioneer Lumber Company has since become insolvent, but claim to have paid Thayer in full for the logs, and produce orders from the women for the full amount and more in each instance. Thayer denies having received payment in full, and submits a statement showing amounts received on these orders, as follows:

Pioneer Lumber Company to Gogi, Moien, and Shebagishigokwe, Dr.

To 4,453,220 feet logs, at $6 per 1,000	$26,719.32
CR.
By paid for banking logs, at $3.50 per 1,000	$15,586.27
Feb. 15. By cash	1,000.00
Feb. 24. By merchandise	903.77
Mar. 12. By merchandise	114.96
Mar. 16. By cash	2,000.00
Mar. 16. By merchandise	39.18
Mar. 15. By cash	20.00
Mar. 15. By merchandise	14.20
Mar. 15. By merchandise, Moien	10.35
Apr. 5. By merchandise	10.05
Apr. 19. By merchandise	2.15
By one-half scale	222.65
	19,923.53
Balance due	6,795.79

This statement substantially agrees with that of the Pioneer Lumber Company so far as it goes, but they claim to have paid on Thayer's order a further sum of $1,800 for banking the logs and over $4,000 for driving a portion of them, the two amounts covering the full balance as shown by Thayer's statement to be still due.

The logs were banked by an Indian named Alex. Bellisle on a contract at $3.50 per 1,000, the Pioneer Lumber Company furnishing him supplies, also supplies for some other camps which he was running. Bellisle's account overran the amount due him on these contracts, and for this amount the order for $1,800 was given by Thayer, it being a part of his personal contract to see that this work was done, but the amount is not properly chargeable to the women; the $4,000 for driving is also a charge proper against him, but not against the women. Thayer claims that these amounts were paid on his own personal contract and not against the amounts due the women.

Thayer also bought of a Minneapolis house (Wyman, Mullen & Van Dyke) a stock of goods, giving them his private contract, guaranteed by the Pioneer Lumber Company as collateral security. Including these matters the Pioneer Lumber Company claim that Thayer is paid in full on both contracts; they claim also that having received orders from the women in favor of Thayer, that they were under no obligations to make a distinction in the account, but that the whole business became Thayer's, and any orders from him applied to both matters. Thayer, on the contrary, claims that his personal order for the $1,800 was on funds due or to become due him on his personal contract, and had nothing to do with the contracts of the women; also, that the $4,000 charge is also a private matter of his own, and that he never gave any order for this payment.

The matter is too intricate for me to decide and I would respectfully ask for instructions.

A large portion of the logs still remain upon the reservation, amply sufficient for the security of the women if their claim is good, but it needs attention as soon as possible as the logs will be driven out this spring unless steps are taken to prevent. This matter has caused me more trouble and is altogether the most unsatisfactory to me of anything which has occurred during my administration of the affairs of this agency, but under the same circumstances, with the information I possessed at the time, I should take the same course. My error, which I sincerely regret, was overestimating Thayer's business ability, but I hope that the rights of the women may still be secured through the logs.

I have the honor to inclose copies of the orders held by the Pioneer Lumber Company; also a copy of my letter written to Mr. Geo. W. La Pointe, the assignee, upon finding the matter still unsettled.

Very respectfully,

W. R. DURFEE,
U. S. Indian Agent.

Hon. H. PRICE,
Commissioner Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, Wis., January 26, 1885.

DEAR SIR: Upon examining the matter of the logs purchased by the Pioneer Lumber Company from Gogi, Maïen, and She-ba-gi-zhi-go-qua, females, members of the Lac Court Oreilles band of Chippewas in this agency, I find that the amount of logs banked under said contracts was 4,453,220 feet, which, at $6 per 1,000, would amount to $26,719.32; that there has been paid on this amount, as per statement herewith inclosed, $19,923.53, leaving a balance still unpaid of $6,795.79.

Under the terms of the contract the total amount was to have been paid on or before June 1, 1884, and none of the logs became the property of the Pioneer Lumber Company until the full amount should have been paid. Now, unless this matter can be adjusted at once, I shall ask instructions from the Department to sell these logs as the property of these women, to secure for them the balance due under their contracts.

Please let me hear from you at once, as I shall be away from home from now until Friday next, and then shall only be at home for a few days, and at that time I wish to take the proper steps in the matter, which has too long remained in abeyance.

Very respectfully,

W. R. DURFEE,

EAU CLAIRE, WIS., February 26, 1885.

Hon. COMMISSIONER OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington:Please defer action on Agent Durfee's letter regarding Pioneer Lumber Company.
Write you to-day.G. W. LAPOINTE,
Assignee.

PIONEER LUMBER COMPANY,
Eau Claire, Wis., February 26, 1885.

SIR: As assignee of the Pioneer Lumber Company I have received from W. R. Durfee, esq., United States Indian agent at the La Pointe Agency, a copy of his communication of the 18th instant, addressed to you, in regard to the contracts for the winter of 1883-'84 for logs upon the Lac Court Oreilles Reservation, between said company and Gogi, Moiem, and She-bargeshe-goqway, which I am informed he has forwarded to you.

Upon examination of the matter referred to by Mr. Durfee in that communication I find that the questions submitted by him for Department instruction were settled and determined in May, 1884, by correspondence then had between R. F. Wilson, vice-president of said Pioneer Lumber Company, W. R. Durfee, esq., Indian agent, and Hon. E. L. Stevens, Acting Commissioner of Indian Affairs. Mr. Wilson, in his letter to the Commissioner, dated May 23, 1884, fully stated the facts in regard to the matter and requested a revocation of the order which had then been made by the Department, forbidding the removal of logs from the reservation by the company; and the Acting Commissioner, by his letter of May 28, 1884, in reply thereto, informed the company that such order had been revoked, and authorized the driving of the logs. (L. 10110-'84.)

In view of this fact I must beg leave to express my surprise that the company or myself, as its assignee, should now be subjected to further trouble, annoyance, and expense, and be again threatened with seizure and sale of these logs, which have once been fully and fairly paid for in accordance with instructions from the Indian Agent, and, as the company's officers believed, with the sanction and approval of the Department.

I am about soon to make preparations for driving the logs, as the driving season will soon arrive, and any delay then caused in the driving thereof will cause serious loss, and be likely to prevent getting the logs to market or place of manufacture during the season. The order of the Commissioner last year operated to prevent the driving of the logs during that year.

I therefore respectfully request that no order may be now made by the Commissioner interfering with the driving of these logs by me, and if further examination into this matter is desired by the Commissioner that I may at once be informed thereof, and be permitted to personally explain the entire transaction to the Department at Washington.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
G. W. LA POINTE,
Assignee.

Per F. WILSON.

Hon. HIRAM PRICE,
Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, March 30, 1885.

SIR: I have received your letter of the 18th ultimo, wherein, referring to the logging contracts severally made by Gogi, Moiem, and Shi-ba-ji-she-go-kwa, Indians of the Lac Court d'Oreilles reserve with the Pioneer Lumber Company during the winter of 1883-'84, you state that fresh complications have recently arisen in regard to settlement, as to which you ask for instructions.

It appears from your letter that Thaddeus Thayer, husband of Gogi, who was chosen by the three women named as their representative to carry the contracts into effect, had a separate and independent contract on his own behalf with the Pioneer Lumber Company to drive the logs into the main stream at $2 per 1,000; that the Pioneer Lumber Company has since become insolvent, but claim to have paid Thayer in full for the logs, and produce orders from the women for the full amount, and more, in each instance; that Thayer denies having received payment in full, and submits a statement showing a total amount received on these orders of $19,923.53, leaving a balance due the owners of the logs of $6,795.79.

You further state that this statement substantially agrees with that of the Pioneer Lumber Company as far as it goes, but that the company claims to have paid on Thayer's order a further sum of over $1,800 for banking the logs and over $4,000 for driving a portion of them, the two amounts covering the full balance claimed to be still due on the logs.

It further appears that the logs were banked by an Indian named Alex. Bellisle on a contract at $3.50 per thousand; the Pioneer Lumber Company furnishing him supplies, also supplies for some other camps which he was running; that Bellisle's account overran the amount due him on these contracts, and for the excess the order for $1,800 was given by Thayer, it being a part of his personal contract to see that this work was done; that this amount of $1,800, as also the $4,000 for driving, is properly a charge against Thayer but not against the women, owners of the logs, and that Thayer claims that these amounts were paid on his own personal contracts, and not against the amounts due the women.

It also appears that Thayer bought of a Minneapolis house a stock of goods, giving them his private contract, guaranteed by the Pioneer Lumber Company, as collateral security; that including these matters the Pioneer Lumber Company claim that Thayer is paid in full on both contracts; they claim also that, having received orders from the women in favor of Thayer, they were under no obligation to make a distinction in the accounts, but that the whole business became Thayer's and that any orders from him applied to both matters.

Thayer, on the contrary, claims that his personal order for the $1,800 was on funds due or to become due him on his personal contract, and had nothing to do with the contracts of the women, also that the charge of $4,000 is a private matter of his own, and that he never gave any order for such payment.

By the agreements of September 27, 1883, Go-gi, Moien, and Shi-ba-ji-she-go-kwa severally agreed each to deliver to the Pioneer Lumber Company 1,700,000 feet, more or less, of logs at the price of $6 per 1,000, payable as therein mentioned, the final payment to be made on or about June 1, 1884.

Said agreements contain a provision that "no portion of the logs hereby contracted for shall be removed by the party of the second part until payment shall have been made in full as herein stipulated."

It appears that under these agreements logs were delivered as follows, viz:

Name.	Quantity.	Price per 1,000.	Total.
	Feet.
Go-gi.....	1,750,300	$6.00	$10,501.80
Moien.....	1,762,000	6.00	10,572.00
Shi-ba-ji-she-go-kwa.....	940,920	6.00	5,645.52
Total on the three agreements.....			26,719.32

The question then remains, have or have not these Indians been paid for their logs by the Pioneer Lumber Company according to the terms of the agreement?

Thayer, who, it is to be regretted, has had the management of affairs for the women, contends that they have not, and claims that there is still a balance of $6,795.19 due them under the agreements.

On the other hand we are confronted with the following orders held by the Pioneer Lumber Company, viz:

Go-gi—
Feb. 6, 1884.....		$4,612.00
Mar. 20, 1884.....		6,000.00
		10,612.00
Moien, March 10, 1884.....		12,000.00
Shi-ba-ji She-go-kwa—
Feb. 6, 1884.....	3,960.00
March 13, 1884.....	8,040.00
		12,000.00
		34,612.00
Deduct from this the amount actually due for the logs under the three agreements.....		26,719.32
		7,892.68

in respect of which orders have been issued, apparently without consideration; besides Thayer's personal order in favor of Belleisle for $1,818.94.

It does not appear, and I am unable to trace intelligently, from the statement rendered by Thayer, to what extent the orders of the Indians have been honored by the company. The burden of proof will necessarily be upon the company to show specifically what payments have been made thereon, and, in stating the account, care should be taken that the company has credit only for such items as it may properly claim credit for under its several contracts with these Indians, and that the Indians are not charged with any payments which are properly applicable to Thayer's contracts for driving or banking, which I understand to be his personal contract, and entirely independent of those of the Indians.

The matter is somewhat complicated by reason of the extent of the orders given by the Indians, but I think a sufficient case is established to warrant detention of the logs remaining on the reservation, and you will accordingly take measures to prevent their removal until such time as the accounts between the Indians interested and the Pioneer Mill Company have been fully investigated and adjusted to your satisfaction, and the ascertained balances due the Indians respectively shall have been paid over.

In the case of Moien and Shi-ba-ji-she-go-kwa, especially, it would appear desirable that whatever balance may be found due them should be paid over to you as their agent.

You will report for further instructions if necessary.

Very respectfully,

JNO. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

WM. R. DURFEE, Esq.,

U. S. Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, March 30, 1885.

SIR: This office is in receipt of a letter from you, dated the 26th ultimo, in reference to a recent communication addressed to you by Agent Durfee, La Pointe Agency, upon the subject of certain logging contracts entered into in the winter of 1883-'84, between the Pioneer Lumber Company and certain Indian women of the Lac Court d'Oreilles Reservation, viz: Go-gi, Moien, and Shi-ba-gi-shi-go-quia; and requesting that the driving of the logs be not interfered with.

In reply I have to say that it appears by the record of this office that on the 28th May, 1884, Agent Durfee was directed that "if the contracts have been completed, and all moneys lawfully due thereunder paid," to permit the removal of the logs in question.

You state in your letter that the order of the Commissioner operated to prevent the driving of the logs last year.

Referring now to the letter of Agent Durfee to this office, of the 18th ultimo (a copy of which you state he has forwarded to you), it appears that according to the statement furnished him by Thaddeus Thayer, who had the management of affairs for the Indian women in connection with these contracts, there is still a balance of $6,795.79 due them in the aggregate from the Pioneer Lumber Company thereunder.

This balance the company claims to have satisfied by certain payments to Thayer, which he claims should have been applied on his personal contracts with the company for driving and banking the logs. These contracts, I am informed, were separate and distinct from those of the three Indian women, with which they had nothing to do, and with any payments on account of which they could not rightfully be charged.

In this state of facts, I have felt it my duty, for the protection of these Indian women, to instruct Agent Durfee not to permit the removal of the logs cut under the contracts and now remaining on the reservation, until such time as the accounts shall have been adjusted to his satisfaction, and the balances found due to the Indians respectively paid over.

I would therefore suggest that you at once place yourself in communication with Mr. Durfee on the subject.

Very respectfully,

JNO. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

SIR: I would respectfully ask for an early reply to my letter of February 18th in relation to logging contracts with Pioneer Lumber Company.

The driving season will very soon be here, and the logs once driven out there will be no security for the parties in interest should the Department decide that the Indians still have a claim upon the logs.

Very respectfully,

W. R. DURFEE,
U. S. Indian Agent.

SIR: Referring to Department letter of March 30 (L. 3818, 1885, and 4435, 1885), I would respectfully report that on the 24th instant I went with the members of the Pioneer Lumber Company, their assignee and attorney, also the attorney of the Minneapolis house which makes a claim against these logs for an account of Thayer's. After a careful examination of the contracts relating to the latter transaction I can not see that my Indians are under any obligations, morally or legally, for that indebtedness. Examination of the Pioneer Lumber Company's accounts satisfied me of the following facts, which did not appear in my previous statement. The matter of $1,800 therein referred to (the exact amount being $1,818.94) was the actual cost of banking the logs above the price ($3.50 per 1,000) for which Bellisle, an Indian, had agreed to do the work. In other words, Bellisle came out that much in debt for his labor and supplies.

As the labor was a lien upon the logs the Pioneer Lumber Company paid this, taking Thayer's order and charging it as payment on the logs, which, in my judgment, was legitimate. This, with some small items of payment which did not appear in the statement given me by Thayer, amounting to $100.55, leaves a balance due the Indians who made these contracts, of $4,876.30 with interest from June 15, 1884. It being important that the driving of these logs should be done immediately before the spring freshet is over I would respectfully ask telegraphic instructions to permit the drive to be made upon payment to me of that sum.

Very respectfully,

W. R. DURFEE,
U. S. Indian Agent.

DURFEE, Agent, Ashland, Wis.:

Permit Pioneer Lumber Company to drive the logs on payment to you of $4,876.30, without interest from June 15, 1884, as recommended by yours of 25th instant.

See office letter of this date.

JNO. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, May 1, 1885.

SIR: I have received your letter of the 25th ultimo reporting result of your investigation of the accounts of the Pioneer Lumber Company with Go-gi, Moien, and Shi-ba-ji-she-go-kwa, respectively, in the finding of a balance due those Indians in the aggregate of $4,876.30, and recommending, in view of the importance of driving the logs before the spring freshet is over, that telegraphic instructions be forwarded you to permit the drive to be made upon payment to you of that sum.

In accordance with your recommendation, I telegraphed you this morning as per copy message inclosed.

The proportionate shares of Moien and Shi-ba-ji-she-go-kwa, respectively, should be retained by you pending some disposition of the money by which these Indians may be made secure in the possession and enjoyment of it.

Upon this point I await your suggestions.

The share of Go-gi (Thayer's wife) I do not perceive you can control, except by her especial request.

Very respectfully,

JNO. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

WM. R. DURFEE, Esq.,
U. S. Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, Wis., May 20, 1885.

SIR: I would respectfully state in relation to the matter of the logs purchased by the Pioneer Lumber Company from Go-gi, Moien, and Shibagizhigoque, Indian women of the Lac Courte Oreilles Reservation, that the balance due on the logs, $5,175, has been paid. The assignee desiring a receipt from them, I took order from the parties to pay the money to me individually and have it deposited to my credit in L. C. Wilmarth's bank of this place. As the official duties connected with the transaction have been completed and as I have been familiar with the matter throughout I will, with your approval, go to Lac Court Oreilles, examine the accounts of Mr. Thayer with these parties, and pay the money to them in the proportion in which it is due. I do this not with the intention of getting any profit from it but from the fact that the money being paid to me upon their orders and my being acquainted with the parties and with the transaction throughout, I think that I can, perhaps, settle the matter more satisfactorily with all parties. Should this arrangement meet your approval please notify me and I will report the result when the matter is closed.

Very respectfully,

W. R. DURFEE,
Late U. S. Indian Agent.

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

P. S.—The orders are not in favor of W. R. Durfee, U. S. Indian Agent, but to myself personally.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, June 8, 1885.

SIR: I am in receipt of your letter of the 20th ultimo, wherein, in relation to the matter of the logs purchased by the Pioneer Lumber Company from Go-gi, Moien, and Shibagizhigoque, Indian women of the Lac Court d'Oreilles band, you state that the balance due on the logs, $5,175, has now been paid by the assignee of the company to you (unofficially) on the order of the parties interested, and deposited in bank to your credit, and inasmuch as the official duties connected with the transaction have been completed, and you have been familiar with the matter throughout, you propose, with the approval of this office, to go to Lac Court d'Oreilles to examine the accounts of Mr. Thayer with the parties, and pay the money over to them in the proportion in which it may be found to be due. In reply I have to say that your proposition meets the approval of this office, and I shall be obliged by your reporting the result when the matter is closed. Perhaps in the course of settlement you may be able to suggest some plan for the safe-keeping of the moneys of Moien and Shibagizhigoque which may be satisfactory to them, and prevent the money from being squandered or falling into the hands of unprincipled persons.

But this I offer merely as a suggestion for the benefit of the Indian women, and not that you shall assume any responsibility in the premises.

Very respectfully,

JNO. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

W. R. DURFEE, Esq.,
Ashland, Wis.

LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, Wis., February 26, 1885.

SIR: I have the honor to report that I reached this agency at 1 o'clock a. m. February 13, having been detained en route several days on account of the storms which prevailed to such an unusual extent during the present winter in the west.

Mr. W. R. Durfee, the agent here, was absent at Lac de Flambeau Reservation on business connected with the agency.

I examined carefully the books and accounts at the agency, and have to report them correct. Thus far in my inspection of the agencies I have uniformly found great care and correctness in the keeping of the accounts, and shall be very much disappointed if the Department finds occasion to differ from me in my reports based upon the most thorough investigation I have been able to give them.

The Lac Court D'Oreilles Reservation, which I visited in company with Agent Durfee, has an area of nearly 70,000 acres, a large portion of which is heavily timbered with valuable pine. Much of this land has been patented to the Indians, who are engaged in cutting, skidding, and hauling the logs to the bank of the Chippewa River. I am informed that over 20,000,000 feet of logs will be cut and banked this winter, representing a value, say, of $120,000.

The magnitude and importance of this business, it seems to me, is sufficient to warrant the employment of a resident agent upon the reservation, which has a population of over 1,000, and is the most important of the nine reservations under the charge of Agent Durfee. It is important not only that the agent should be able to see that the Indians get full value for their pine and labor, but far more important that he should be able to use his personal influence towards directing them in the manner of expending the money so obtained, that a foundation be laid for the future prosperity of themselves and their descendants. The soil is said to be of good quality and productive in all vegetables and cereals adapted to the climate, and if the money obtained from the sale of the pine could be utilized for clearing and preparing farms these people would soon be placed upon a footing of equality with any of the settlers of the new portions of the Northwest.

I would earnestly recommend the appointment of a competent agent for this band, as the number of reservations comprising the La Pointe Agency and the extent of territory over which they are scattered renders it impossible that a single agent can do full justice to the diversified interests of all. Having visited personally the lumber camps of this reservation, I desire to make mention of the skill and efficiency displayed by the Indians in their conduct of lumbering operations, and this without the help of any white labor, which is wholly excluded from the reservation the present winter.

One of the chief difficulties with which the agent has to contend is the facility with which the Indians obtain whisky. He informs me that he has made frequent application for the appointment of a detective to assist in bringing to justice the parties engaged in this nefarious traffic, but can not get the necessary funds for the purpose. If any funds for this purpose are available, I would most earnestly recommend that Agent Durfee be allowed an employé for this purpose, to be used upon the different reservations in the discretion of the agent, and changeable as may seem to him in the interest of the service. I visited the Bad River Reservation at "Odanah." The school taught by Mr. J. D. Miner upon this reservation is in a fairly prosperous condition, though its numbers have been constantly depleted by the withdrawal of children by the Catholic school under care of "Father Chrysostom." I visited both schools and found them well conducted and a fair degree of proficiency in the scholars.

William G. Walker farmer upon this reservation is a most valuable man in the assistance he renders the Indians in all their business affairs, and in the example of a correct moral and religious life.

The Indians upon this reservation are capable of self-support from the cultivation of the soil, which is of excellent quality, and from their labor, in furnishing ties for railroads and in lumbering pursuits.

There are upon the reservation 128 families and 118 children from six to twenty years of age.

I also visited the Red Cliff Reservation, near Bayfield, distant from Ashland about 26 miles. The day school upon this reservation, which I visited, is under the care of the Catholic Order of St. Francis, and is in a prosperous condition. This band of Indians is entirely capable of self-support.

In concluding this report I desire to say, in simple justice to Agent Durfee, that I have no criticism to make upon his management at this agency. He is a man of marked intelligence, good judgment and discretion, conscientious in the discharge of his duties, and deeply interested in the welfare of the Indians under his charge. Any suggestions coming from him are well worthy of the consideration and approval of the Department. He has lived in the vicinity of these Indians for thirty years and thoroughly understands their wants and characteristics, and his understanding and speaking with fluency the Chippewa dialect makes him a most efficient agent of the Government. It is enough to say that he enjoys both the confidence and affection of the Indians under his care.

Very respectfully,

GEO. B. ANDERSON,
U. S. Indian Inspector,

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR, Washington D. C.

SIR: You will please furnish this office, as early as practicable, with a report upon the logging operations conducted by the Indians of your agency during the season of 1884-1885, under Department authority of September 28, 1882.

The report should contain a list of all contracts, which have been entered into by the Indians, the quantity of timber cut and delivered, and the net results to the Indians, with such recommendations as you may deem advisable to make in the premises.

A reference to page LIV of the annual report of this office for 1884, will give you some idea of what is required.

A. B. UPSHUR,
Acting Commissioner.J. T. GREGORY, Esq.,
U. S. Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis.UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, Wis., September 22, 1885.

SIR: On September 19 I visited the Lac Court d'Oreilles Reservation with Inspector Gardner.

While there we were visited by two squaws, Moien and She-be-gi-shi-go-kwa, who asked Mr. Gardner if he would not try and get their money from Thad. Thayer and put it some place where they could get it as they needed it.

The money in question was the balance due them from the Pioneer Lumber Company for their pine timber. The Pioneer Lumber Company paid the money to ex-Agent Durfee, and he turned it over to Thayer on or about June 30, 1885.

Thayer was to have paid the women a certain sum each month, and he has not paid them as stipulated, and the women claim that when they go to Thayer's house after money that he keeps out of their way and his wife pays them what little they get.

Thayer claims to have been and is at the present time their agent, and he has transacted all their business.

They, the squaws, claim that they never knowingly signed a paper authorizing him to act as such.

They made the statement under oath, in open council with the Indians of the Lac Court Oreilles Reservation, on the evening of the 19th instant.

On September 21 Mr. Gardner and myself visited Thayer, and I, as agent, asked Thayer to turn over to me the amount due the squaws, and he declined to do so, and gave no reason for refusing.

From my personal knowledge, and from information derived from reliable sources, I consider Thayer unfit to handle the money, and think that unless he is made to turn over the money in a short time there will be none left for the women, and I have further been informed by a reliable man that $500 of that money went to help build a house of prostitution in Hayward for a man named Barker.

I would respectfully suggest that if the money be turned over to me as agent, that I be allowed to deposit the same in the Ashland National Bank of this place, to the individual credit of each of these women, and that they be paid therefrom the sum of $15 each every two weeks upon a check being signed by them and witnessed by the additional farmer in charge of the Lac Court Oreilles Reservation.

The traders will take up the checks and pay them the cash without any expense to them.

I would respectfully request that directions be furnished me as to the way to proceed in this matter.

Very respectfully,

J. T. GREGORY,
U. S. Indian Agent.

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, October 3, 1885.

SIR: I am in receipt of your letter of the 23d instant stating that in a recent visit to the Lac Court d'Oreilles Reservation you had been requested by two squaws, Moien and Shi-be-gi-shi-go-kwa, to assist them in getting certain moneys, their property, from Thad. Thayer, and put it in some place where they can draw it as needed.

The money in question was the balance due the women from the Pioneer Lumber Company, for their pine timber sold under contract, and was paid by the company to the late Agent W. R. Durfee, who, it appears, turned it over to Thayer on or about June 30, 1885.

You further state that Thayer was to have paid the women a certain sum each month that he has not paid them as stipulated, and that the women claim that when they go to Thayer's house after money, he keeps out of their way, and his wife pays them what little they get.

Thayer claims to have been, and to still be their agent, and to have transacted all their business. The women claim that they never, knowingly, signed a paper authorizing him to act as such.

This statement you report was made under oath by the women, in open council with the Lac Court d'Oreilles Indians on the 19th ultimo.

It further appears that on the 21st ultimo you visited Thayer, and requested him to turn over the moneys of the squaws to you, but he declined to do so, and gave no reason for his refusal.

From your personal knowledge and from information derived from reliable sources, you consider Thayer unfit to handle the money, and think unless he is made to turn it over, that in a very short time there will be none left for the women, $500 of the money having, as is alleged, been already used to help build a house for immoral purposes at Hayward, Wis., for a man named Barker.

You suggest that if the money be turned over by Thayer to you as agent, you be allowed to deposit it in the Ashland National Bank to the individual credit of each of the women, and that they be paid therefrom the sum of $15 each, every two weeks, upon checks signed by them and witnessed by the additional farmer in charge of the Lac Court d'Oreilles Reservation, the traders at which will cash the checks free of charge.

In reply: The preliminary history of this case will be found in office letter to Agent Durfee of March 30 last (doubtless on the agency files), in which, with reference to certain complications which had arisen in the settlement of the accounts of the Pioneer Lumber Company with Go-gi (Thayer's wife) and the above named Moien and Shi-be-gi-shi-go-kwa, in respect of logging contracts with those parties, he was directed to prevent the removal of the logs until such time as the accounts between the Indians interested and the Pioneer Lumber Company had been fully investigated and adjusted to his satisfaction, and the ascertained balances due the Indians respectively, paid over. In the same letter Agent Durfee was further specially directed as follows: "In the case of Moien and Shi-be-gi-shi-go-kwa, especially, it would appear desirable that whatever balance may be found due them should be paid over to you as their agent." This was done in order to prevent the money due those women getting into the hands of Thayer, who had acted for them in the matter of the contracts, but about whose business capacity Mr. Durfee had expressed some doubt. (See copy letter of Agent Durfee to this office February 18, 1885.)

As to the other woman Go-gi (Thayer's wife), this office did not consider it its province, to interfere.

On the 25th April last, Agent Durfee reported to this office that after a careful examination of the contracts and accounts between the Pioneer Lumber Company and the Indians in question, he was satisfied that no moral or legal obligation existed on the part of the Indians in respect of a claim set up by the company against the logs for an individual account of Thayer's, and that after giving the company credit for all legitimate payments, there remained a balance due the Indians collectively, of $4,876.30, with interest from June 15, 1884. It being important that the driving of the logs should be done before the spring freshet was over, Agent Durfee requested telegraphic instructions to permit the drive to be made upon payment to him of that amount.

On the 1st May last, Agent Durfee was telegraphed, directing him to permit the Pioneer Lumber Company to drive the logs on payment to him of $4,876.30 with interest from June 15, 1884, as recommended in his letter of the 25th April.

In office letter of the same date confirming the telegram, Agent Durfee was thus instructed: "The proportionate shares of Moien and Shi-be-gi-shé-go-kwa, respectively, should be retained by you pending some disposition of the money, by which these Indians should be made secure in the possession and enjoyment of it. Upon this point I await your suggestions.

"The share of Go-gi (Thayer's wife), I do not perceive you can control, except by her special request."

On the 20th May last, Mr. Durfee, whose term of office as agent, had then expired, advised this office that the balance due on logs, $5,175, had been paid to him personally by the assignee of the Pioneer Lumber Company, upon the order of the parties entitled, and that he had deposited it to his (Durfee's) credit in L. C. Wilmarth's bank at Ashland.

Mr. Durfee further stated that as the official duties connected with the reservation had been completed, and he had been familiar with the matter throughout, he would, with the approval of this office, go to the Lac Court d'Oreilles reserve, examine the accounts of Mr. Thayer with the parties, and pay the money to them in the proportion in which it might be found due. Mr. Durfee added: "I do this not with the intention of getting any profit from it, but from the fact that the money being paid to me upon their orders and my being acquainted with the parties and with the transaction throughout, I think that I can perhaps settle the matter more satisfactorily with all parties. Should this arrangement meet your approval, please notify me, and I will report the result when the matter is closed."

By office letter of June 8, last, Mr. Durfee was advised that his proposition met with the approval of this office, and he was requested to report the result when the matter was closed. The letter concluded as follows:

"Perhaps in the course of settlement you may be able to suggest some plan for the safe-keeping of the moneys of Moien and Shi-ba-gi-zhi-go-qwa, which may be satisfactory to them, and prevent the money from being squandered or falling into the hands of unprincipled persons. But this I offer merely as a suggestion for the benefit of the Indian women, and not that you shall assume any responsibility in the premises."

No subsequent report was received from Mr. Durfee in the matter.

After the doubts which Mr. Durfee had expressed as to Thayer's business capacity, and the repeated instructions of this office as to the disposition of the moneys of these Indian women, it was not for a moment to be supposed that he would pay their shares over to Thayer, notwithstanding the fact that at an earlier stage of the contracts in question, when Thayer's integrity had been assailed, the women (who are relations of his by marriage) had severally expressed the utmost confidence in his management of their affairs.

I am at a loss to understand the reason for Mr. Durfee's action, and have written him for an explanation.

In the mean time you will ascertain from Mr. Durfee what amount he paid Thayer on account of Moien and Shi-be-gi-shi-go-kwa, respectively; obtain the necessary orders from them and notify Thayer to at once pay over all such moneys to you as their agent, less any legitimate payments he may have made to them in the interim.

Should he comply with your demand, I see no objection to your depositing the amounts in the Ashland National Bank to the individual credits of each of said women, subject to their individual checks in the sum of $15 each, every two weeks, or such other sum or period as may be agreed upon, such checks to be good only when signed by the depositor in the presence of and witnessed by the additional farmer in charge of the Lac Court d'Oreilles Reservation, and to be subject to such other safeguards as you may deem necessary in the premises.

Should Thayer refuse to pay over the money to you, you will report the fact to this office, with such additional information as you may, without publicity, be able to obtain touching his pecuniary status, or any evidence tending to show that he has fraudulently misapplied the funds belonging to the women, for such proceedings as may upon further consideration be found applicable to the case.

Very respectfully,

J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

J. T. GREGORY, Esq.,
U: S. Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, October 3, 1885.

SIR: Referring to office letter to you of the 8th June last touching the settlement of the accounts of the Pioneer Lumber Company with Go-gi, Moien, and Shi-ba-gi-shi-go-kwa, women of the Lac Court d'Oreilles band, and approving your suggestion then made that you should go to the Lac Court d'Oreilles reserve, examine the accounts of Mr. Thayer with the parties, and pay them the money received from the company in the several proportions in which it might be found due (as to the result of which I may remark that no subsequent report from you appears to have been received in this office), I am now in receipt of a letter dated 22d ultimo, from Agent Gregory, in which he states that at a recent visit to the Lac Court d'Oreilles reserve he was applied to by Moien and Shi-ba-gi-shi-go-kwa to assist them in obtaining from Thayer certain moneys, the balance due them under their logging contracts with said company, alleged to have been paid by you to Thayer for their account on or about June 30 last.

Agent Gregory states that he understands that Thayer was to have paid the women a certain sum per month; that he has not paid them as stipulated, and the women claim that when they go to Thayer's house after money he keeps out of their way and his wife pays them what little they get.

Thayer claims to have been and still to be their agent, and to have transacted all their business. The women claim that they never knowingly signed a paper authorizing him to act as such. This latter statement, it appears, was made under oath by the women in open council with the Lac Court d'Oreille on the 19th August last.

After the doubts which you expressed in your official communication to this office of the 18th February last relative to Thayer's business ability, and the repeated views and instructions of this office on the subject of the disposition of the moneys coming to Moien and Shi-be-gi-shi-go-kwa as expressed in office letters to you of March 30, May 1, and June 8 last, I can scarcely believe it possible that you should have paid over the money to Thayer—certainly not without taking adequate security from him.

As it is represented to this office that there are grave doubts of Thayer's financial responsibility, and his actions in keeping away from the Indian women would seem to look suspicious, I beg that you will at once write me a full explanation of the matter.

Very respectfully,

J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

W. R. DURFEE, Esq.,
Ashland, Wis.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE,
Springfield, Dak., September 26, 1885.

SIR: In my report on this agency of May, 1884, I had occasion to refer to the timber cut upon the allotments of two women, Moien and Shi-ba-jo-she-go-kwa. It occurred to me then that the placing of the funds due them for sale of the timber cut from their respective 80-acre allotments should not be placed in the hands of Thaddeus Thayer, to be retained by him and paid them as requested by them. Upon my arrival at Lac Court Oreilles I was met by these two women, who informed me that they did not want their money left in the hands or custody of Thaddeus Thayer, in open council with the Indians at Lac Court Oreilles. I reduced the statements of these women to writing and swore them to same; also at same time and place I took the statements, under oath, of Rev. S. G. Wright and Akiwainse, which are herewith, numbered respectively 2, 3, 4, and 5, to which attention is respectively invited.

On the following day I proceeded to Pah-quah-wong, and met Mr. Thaddeus Thayer, and informed him of the action of Moien and Shi-ba-jo-she-go-kwa, and requested him that under the circumstances he had better comply with the request of these women and turn the money over to the agent, Mr. Gregory, who was with me. He declined to do so and became indignant and profane in his declination.

On my return to Ashland I met ex-Agent W. R. Durfee and communicated to him the contents of the affidavits of these two women regarding the placing by him of their money in his hands (Thad. Thayer's). This interview with ex-Agent Durfee elicited from him the inclosed statement, Exhibit Nos. 6 and 7, from which it will be seen that he gave Thaddeus Thayer the sum of $2,891.02 alleged balance due these two old women. The amount due these two women last year was $6,757.30. According to this statement these two old women spent during the last year $3,866.28, or at least some one did for them. When I met Shi-ba-ji-she-go-kwa on the 19th instant she was in rags and filth, and apparently an object of charity, and upon inquiry of the farmer, Mr. Nelson E. Pero, he informed me that he had but recently issued her rations, as she was in a suffering condition.

Ex-Agent Durfee could not but know the character and reputation of Thaddeus Thayer for honesty and integrity, as it was a matter talked of between he and myself in May, 1884, and knowing his character, he should have not given him the money belonging to these two women. Whilst at Lac Court Oreilles, Pah-quay-wong, Hayward, and Ashland I made inquiries of respectable and reputable business men regarding the character of Mr. Thaddeus Thayer. I was repeatedly informed that he was a dishonest man, and not worthy of credit or belief.

These two old women being the wards of the Government, the funds obtained from the sale of timber from their respective 80-acre allotments should be controlled by the agent by depositing same in some national bank to their individual credit, subject to check at the rate of $10 or $15 every two weeks. This course would enable these women to live comfortably for some years. As it is now, it is very doubtful if they ever get much more from Thayer. In conversation with these two women they both told me that they had never seen and, in fact, knew nothing about the 80-acre allotment made them until the matter was told them in Thayer's house. This whole transaction seems of fraud, and Mr. Thaddeus Thayer appears to be at the bottom of the whole of it, and he should be dealt with accordingly.

Very respectfully,

ROBERT S. GARDNER,
U. S. Indian Inspector.

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, D. C.

Q. Had he ever given you any money or supplies of any character before the spring of 1885?—A. In 1884 he gave me merchandise amounting to about $200. I have bills for this amount of merchandise furnished me. I got merchandise from Thayer's store, at Pahquahwong.

Further the deponent saith not.

[Inclosure No. 3.]

Personally appeared before me She-ba-gi-she-go-kwe, a full-blood Indian woman, who, being duly sworn to make true answers to such questions as are hereinafter asked her, upon her oath deposes and says as follows, to wit:

Q. How old are you?—A. About seventy years of age.

Q. Did you have an allotment on this reservation; and, if so, was the pine cut therefrom, and when?—A. I had an allotment. The pine was cut during the winter of 1883-'84.

Q. What price were you to get for this pine?—A. I had no knowledge of what I was to get.

Q. Who transacted your business for you?—A. Thad Thayer.

Q. Did you have a contract with Thayer? If so, was it in writing or verbal?—A. I touched the pen to a paper writing, but do not know what it was for.

Q. What were you to pay Mr. Thayer for attending to your business?—A. I did not know what I was wanted for. Thad Thayer requested me to go to Pahquahwong for business that I did not know, and he had a piece of paper which he wanted me to sign, and I touched the pen, but did not know what I was signing for.

Q. What were you to pay Thayer for attending to your business?—A. I do not know what he paid himself; I was to pay him nothing.

Q. How much pine did you have cut on your allotment, and how much money did it come to?—A. I do not know how much was cut or how much was coming to me.

Q. Who got the money that this pine was sold for?—A. I suppose that Thayer got it. I did not.

Q. Has Mr. Thayer given you any money from the sale of this timber? If so, how much?—A. Ninety dollars in cash. I never got any supplies from him for myself.

Q. How many children and grandchildren have you?—A. I have one child and six grandchildren.

Q. Did you tell Mr. Thayer to give anything to your child or grandchildren?—A. I think not.

Q. Is Mr. Thayer's wife related to you?—A. She is my niece.

Q. Have you ever lived in Thayer's house as one of the family?—A. Never; I have visited him, and staid a day or two at a time, but not often.

Q. Are you sure that all you received from Thad Thayer was $90 in money?—A. I want to correct my former answer. I received from Thayer $90 in money, and an order on the Pioneer Lumber Company for supplies amounting to $50, making a total of $140.

Q. When did you get the $90, and who paid it to you?—A. Thad Thayer's wife gave it to me; $50 at one time, and at two other times $20. The last $20 about two weeks ago.

Q. Have you asked Mr. Thayer for money frequently?—A. I have never asked him for any.

Q. Have you called on Mr. Pero, the farmer, for supplies?—A. I have called on him off and on, frequently.

Q. Why did you not call on Mr. Thayer for the money he owed you and buy supplies?—A. The reason I never asked him for it was because whenever I went into his house he would run off so I could not ask him.

Q. Do you recollect having anything to say to ex-Agent Durfee about the matter?—A. I do.

Q. In the conversation you had with Mr. Durfee did you tell him that you wanted Thayer to keep your money for you?—A. I did not.

Q. Have you any money or supplies now on hand?—A. I have no money, but have some pork that the farmer issued to me.

And further deponent saith not.

[Inclosure No. 4.]

Personally appeared before me, Aki-wam-se, a full-blood Chippewa Indian, who, being duly sworn to make true answers to such questions as are hereafter asked him, upon his oath deposeseth and says as follows, to wit:

Q. What is your name and age, and what relationship exists between yourself and She-ba-gi-shi-go-kwe?—A. Aki-wam-se; thirty-seven years old. She-ba-gi-shi-go-kwe is my mother-in-law.

Q. Who has been contributing to the support of your mother-in-law for the past fifteen years?—A. Fourteen years this last winter she has been living with me, and I have been supporting her.

Q. Has Thad Thayer contributed to her support during these fourteen years?—A. Now and then she would go there and stay a day or two, and Thayer would feed her. She is the aunt of Thayer's wife.

Q. Do you know anything about the cutting of timber on your mother-in-law's allotment?—A. I do.

Q. Please state in detail all the facts you know concerning the cutting of pine on her allotment.—A. The winter of 1883 and 1884 I was living at Bean Brook until February, and about February, 1884, John Larouche came to my house after the old lady, and took her to Pahquahwong, where Thayer lives, and when she returned she brought two sacks of flour to Dobie & Stratton's store, which she had hauled by Gus Johnson. She was gone three days. She left the flour at Dobie & Stratton's store, and walked across the lake to my house that night. The next day I came after the flour, and got Gus Johnson to haul it for me to my house. In a few days I came from my place and went down the river to an Indian dance, and while I was at the dance, my mother-in-law came to the Pioneer Lumber Company's store. The next day I went to the Pioneer Lumber Company's store, and the head man was there from Pahquahwong, and he said that Thayer had directed him to give his mother-in-law $50 worth of supplies. I got flour, pork, tea, sugar, one pair blankets, one clock, and one box of cigars, which my mother-in-law passed around so everybody could smoke. After she had traded the $50 I hired a team to take the supplies for which we had traded, together with the old woman, to my house. About the time they were through logging a person by the name of Naokwe came to my house and got the old woman to go to the Pioneer Lumber Company's store. She went, and I and my daughter accompanied her. After we got to the store, myself, Naokwe, Moien, and my mother-in-law went upstairs with the person we supposed was buying the logs. Mr. Pero, the farmer, was there also. Mr. Easton, the scaler, was also there. I did not understand what Mr. Easton and Alex Belisle, the acting interpreter, were saying.

Moien and my mother-in-law were asked if they had given Thayer authority to receive the money for their logs, and they both answered that they had not given Thayer such authority. Moien did the talking and my mother-in-law did not answer. Rev. Mr. Wright and Mr. Witenhall were present. After they were through I asked Alex Belisle how much was coming to my mother-in-law, and Dick Wilson answered, $3,300, and that Moien had $4,000 coming to her. Wilson gave my mother-in-law $1 and told her to go to Pahquahwong and she would get her money there. Wilson told my mother-in-law and Moien that he (Wilson) had nothing to do with paying the money, but that Thayer had the paying of it. They did not go to Pahquahwong. Moien was living at Pahquahwong, and she went there, but my mother-in-law did not go there. Naokwe is the husband of Moien.

Q. Do you know how much money your mother-in-law received from Thayer on account of these logs?—A. Yes; last spring Thayer gave her $50, and some pork and tea, and Thayer told her to come again in a month and he gave her $20, and about a week ago she went again and he gave her $20 more. The pork that he gave her consisted of one round of pork, and the tea weighed about 3 pounds, and about 10 pounds of sugar. I never knew of Thayer paying her any money before or since.

And further deponent sayeth not.

Statement of the Rev. S. G. Wright regarding the log transaction, in the winter of 1883-'84, between the Pioneer Lumber Company and Moien and Shi-ba-gi-shi-go-kwe.

In February, 1884, I acted as the interpreter for Mr. Pero and Mr. Easton at the Pioneer Lumber Company's store.

I had three separate interviews with these women, and their statements all harmonized in this, that they did not authorize their names to be signed to the orders authorizing Mr. Thayer to draw their money. Moien made this remark, "That if I touched the pen it was in repelling it from me and not to sign my name."

Mr. Witenhall, who acted as interpreter, insisted that the women had signed the orders, but the women persistently said that they did not.

The Pioneer Company's clerk claimed that he saw them sign the orders.

OFFICE OF UNION MILL COMPANY,
Ashland, Wis., September 22, 1885.

SIR: In conformity with your suggestion I would make the following statement regarding the payment of moneys to Moien and Shibagizhigoqwa, Indian women of the Lac Court Oreilles band in the La Pointe Agency.

The contracts having been made in regular form and approved by the honorable Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Mr. R. S. Wilson, business manager of the Pioneer Lumber Company, accompanied by Thad Thayer, visited me at my office, stating that these women desired Thayer to act for them in the matter and to receive the moneys coming to them.

Thayer had been for many years (some fifteen, I think) licensed trader upon the reservation; was married to a niece of these women, and, as I have always understood, had for a number of years contributed mainly to their support. Under these circumstances I considered him as the only relative they had capable of looking after their affairs, which they were not, as a proper person to do so with their consent. I told Wilson and Thayer that if the women desired this arrangement that it would be satisfactory to me, and I believed to the honorable Commissioner. At their request I drew up a form of an order in favor of Thayer, which was to be interpreted to the women and signed by them if satisfactory.

I suggested Mr. William Wetenhall, who had been for some years employed as farmer upon the reservation, and was well acquainted with these women, as a proper person to interpret.

These orders having been signed by the women in presence of Mr. Wetenhall, I supposed the matter concluded. Subsequently it was reported, to you I think, that the Indian women had not voluntarily consented to Thayer receiving their money.

In consequence I was ordered by the honorable Commissioner to investigate the matter. I visited the reservation, and personally interviewed the women, the result of the interview being embodied in my report to the honorable Commissioner under date May 17, 1884. I understand the language, and there is no mistake in the substance of the interview therein reported, in which they expressed themselves emphatically in favor of Thayer acting for them. On June 29, 1885, with the approval of the honorable Commissioner, I visited Lac Court Oreilles to make the final payment. (See office letter of June 8, 1885, "L 11776.") The women on learning that I had the money were at first very desirous that I should pay it directly to them.

My instructions had been that these Indians had absolute control of money coming to them from sale of pine; that I could only suggest, but had no authority regarding it.

In accordance with the spirit of my instructions I represented to them the advantage of leaving their money where they could draw a stipulated amount monthly instead of taking it in bulk. The only person with whom I could hope to induce them to leave it was Thayer, and to this they consented. The oldest of these women is nearly imbecile, and neither of them could distinguish between a $5 bill and a $20.

The money was counted in their presence and turned over to Thayer, and they freely and voluntarily signed receipts for the amount. Had these women received the money in bulk, it would simply have been a pic-nic for all the Indians for a week or two, and destitution for these two afterwards.

These are the absolute facts of the case, which I respectfully submit for your consideration.

The amount paid was for Gogi, Moien, and Shibagishigoqua, $5,175.

Very respectfully,

W. R. DURFEE,
Late U. S. Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Wis.

OFFICE OF UNION MILL COMPANY,

SIR: The amount of money paid by me to Thad Thayer for account of Moien was $1,847.58; for account of Shibagishigokwa, $1,043.44.

I neglected to mention in my communication to you under this date that I advised Thayer, so far as he could with satisfaction to the parties, to pay them their monthly allowance in provisions or other articles of necessity in lieu of the money.

Very respectfully,

W. R. DURFEE.

Col. R. S. GARDNER,

OFFICE OF UNION MILL COMPANY, Ashland, Wis., October 10, 1885.

SIR: Referring to office letter of 3d instant (L. 22467, '85) I would say in relation to the money of Moien and Shiba-gi-shi-go-qua. My instructions from the office while in charge of the La Pointe Agency were to the effect that the money received for pine sold by the Indians belonged to them individually, and that while it was my duty to advise them in regard to the disposition of it, that I had no control or authority in the matter. This has been my construction of my instructions and the principle upon which I have acted.

I have counted their money to see that it was correct, but have refused to receive it from purchasers and pay it to the Indians or to take any responsibility, except to see that justice was done and to advise in all cases that the money be used in clearing, improving, and planting their homesteads, making provision for the future when their pine should be gone. In the particular case of these two old women, I knew that there was a horde of hungry and thirsty Indians anxious for them to get the money, and that if they did get it in their own possession it would not last them a month. One of them is almost an imbecile, the other, since this sale was made, has married an Indian who is a leader among dancing Indians, worthless, and who would have scattered the money like chaff.

On my arrival at the reservation I was met by the women, who, as I expected, wished the money paid directly to them.

I talked with them for hours upon the subject, representing to them the folly of their taking that amount of money about with them in their wigwams, neither of them being able to distinguish between a one dollar bill and a fifty.

I suggested depositing it in the bank but they would not hear to that. I told them I did not desire to and would not take charge of it myself, but wanted only to make such disposition of it as would give them some substantial benefit. The result was that they finally decided that their money should be given to Thayer in trust for them, he to give Moien $200 and Shibageshigokwa $50 at once (which was done in my presence), and Moien a monthly allowance of $30, and Shibageshigokwa $20, or more should he see that she needed it. Thayer has been for many years (previous to the last three) post trader upon the reservation, is married to the niece of these women (who are sisters), their nearest relative, they having no children of their own, has, as I am credibly informed, contributed largely if not principally to their support for many years, selected the allotments for them from which the pine was cut, and has had general charge of their affairs. His wife, Gogi, with whom I discussed this matter thoroughly, is one of the brightest Indian women I have ever seen, with good, practical common-sense ideas. She said that she had tried to keep her aunt Shibageshigokwa with them permanently, but after staying with them a while the desire for wigwam life would come upon her; she would want to go berrying or rice-making and it was impossible to keep her.

That no matter how well clothed she might be, in a week she would be the dirtiest and most ragged of the tribe, having given away everything. That the other, Moien, was in abject fear of her husband, who beat her to make her turn over to him moneys coming into her possession. It would take too much space to give all the details upon which my opinion was founded, but in my judgment the best I could do was, under the circumstances, to give the money to Thayer in trust.

I explained to him the responsibility he was assuming, that this money was not a loan, but must be where he could show it at any time when required by proper authority, and the penalty to which he subjected himself should he misappropriate it. Now in regard to their never having given their consent for Thayer to act for them: I went to the reservation during the summer of 1884; I have not the date at hand but think it was the latter part of June or early in July; I made a full report of the trip to the Indian Office at the time. Thayer was not upon the reservation.

I questioned them regarding their wishes in the matter, and from my memorandum book I take their answers as noted at the time. Shibageshigokwa says: Thayer has always furnished her what she needed; that he is the only white man whom she knows upon whom she could depend; that he selected the land for her; that he is furnishing her what she needs; that she authorized him of her own free will to draw her pay; and that she is still of the opinion that he is the best person to care for it and for her interest; that she is amply supplied with all she needs; that he has contributed principally to her support for the last six years.

Moien says she gave authority to Thayer to draw her money, and is entirely satisfied that he should have charge of it. If she had it, everybody would have it, and she likes this way best. She gets what she needs, money and goods, from Thayer, and has for years past, when she has been in need. She gave the order to him of her own free will to draw the money; that any one who says she is not well supplied lies, and that she tries to keep from drawing too much; that the money should last her a long time, but that her husband is extravagant. This testimony was given of their own free will, and I understand the language, so there was no chance of my being mistaken regarding their sentiments, and yet I have no doubt that, under the influence of the other Indians, who wanted them to have the money themselves for the general benefit, they would have said exactly the opposite thing to somebody else the next day. On the occasion of my last visit the money was counted and delivered to Thayer in their presence with their consent, and their receipt taken for it. I then gave each of them a pass-book containing Thayer's receipt for the amount paid to him, which they were to carry when they drew their money, and have the amount paid entered therein. I advised Thayer, so far as he could with satisfaction to them, instead of giving the money, to purchase for them provisions or supplies such as they needed.

I can not in a letter give all the details which led to my conclusion, but can say that I made what I considered the best arrangement possible under the circumstances for the interest of the women; and further, if they had got the money in their own possession, I do not believe that to-day they would have a dollar or any benefit therefrom. Thayer came to me a few days since saying that Agent Gregory had demanded the money from him and asking my advice as to what he should do. I told him I had no advice to offer except what I had given him before, that he should always have the amount due the women where he could produce it at a moment's notice. He said the money was in his possession intact, except so far as he had paid them their monthly stipend, which he said had been paid regularly either by himself or wife.

Very respectfully,

Hon. JOHN D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

SIR: Replying to office letter October 3 (L. 22467, 1885), I have the honor to report that on October 8 I visited the LacCourt Oreilles Reservation and obtained an order on Thayer from Moier for $1,587.58 and from Shi-be-gi-shi-go-kwe for $933.44 being amounts due them from him. I had to get to Hayward in order to catch the train, and had not time to then go to Pah-quahwong and demand the money from Thayer, and in a couple of days he went to Washington, and was absent for about three weeks, and as soon as he returned, and I had time, I went to Pah-quahwong, and on the 10th instant demanded the money from him and he refused to deliver it.

I have inquired of a number of men who are acquainted with Thayer, in regard to his financial standing, and they say that they would not trust him under any circumstances, and that he owes nearly every business man in Hayward who would let him have goods on time.

I do not think that he has enough money in his possession to pay these women.

Very respectfully,

Hon. JOHN D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

J. T. GREGORY,
U. S. Indian Agent.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, Wis., September 7, 1885.

SIR: I have the honor to inclose herewith copy of a letter received by me from Wm. G. Walker, Government farmer, Bad River Reservation, regarding the lumbering operations on the reservation.

After the inclosed letter was received by me I went to the Red River Reservation and had a council with the chiefs and head men, and they expressed to me the same views which are contained in the inclosed letter.

They assign as a reason for desiring the number of camps limited to three, that there are not enough of young men, and those able to work in clearing the lands and taking care of the timber to supply more than that number of camps, and if more are allowed their reservation will be infested with Indians and half-breeds from Minnesota and Canada, who are unreliable and drinking men, and who can not get work in the neighborhood where they live on account of their habits and bad character.

It is true that much trouble has come from that class of Indians and half-breeds who have been employed, and who would set about to create trouble by trying to have their wages raised, and if their wishes were not complied with would try and induce the other men to quit, and in many instances almost break up the camp, to the great loss of the allottees.

But there may be other allottees who will want to commence their clearings and who can not get it done from one of these camps, and they may be able to get good men to do the work, and I do not think that there should be an absolute rule made in the matter.

I am not prepared, either, to recommend that they be allowed, wholly at their discretion, to employ white teamsters.

It is true that very few of the Bad River Indians are skilled in driving a team, and it will be necessary to hire some white teamsters; but as many Indians as are apt, and can be trained to be teamsters, ought to be so trained, and I suggest that this matter be left to my discretion.

In the matter of cooks, it will be necessary to employ a white man for head cook. This is a very important man in a logging camp, and he must be a good and experienced man, but his assistant can be an Indian boy, and I will visit these camps at the proper time and see that as many of these Indians are put into these places as can be usefully so employed.

I think that $6 per 1,000 feet for No. 1 logs is a fair price, and I will endeavor to get as good a price as possible for the lower grade of logs.

I understand personally these matters and will be able from my experience to tell what is the best, if these matters are left to my discretion.

Very respectfully,

J. T. GREGORY,
U. S. Indian Agent.

SIR: At the request of the Indians of this reservation in council, I submit to you the following recommendation for your approval, in regard to cutting pine on their allotments:

- (1) Rule of 1883 and 1884. White teamsters, cooks, and foremen.
- (2) Six dollars per 1,000 feet for good, sound, merchantable pine timber. Price for second quality to be decided upon by seller and purchaser, being subject to the approval of the agent. Said timber to be delivered on the bank of river, lake, or railroad by the seller.
- (3) Price of banking logs, $3.50 to $4 per 1,000 feet.
- (4) All logs to be paid for before removal from reservation.
- (5) Only three logging camps to operate.

Very respectfully,

WM. G. WALKER,

NOTE.—Copies inclosures contained in this letter deferred for the present by authority of chairman of select committee.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, October 29, 1885.

SIR: Referring to your letter of the 7th ultimo, transmitting certain recommendations of W. G. Walker, Government farmer, in regard to the lumbering, during the coming season, on the patented lands of the Bad River reserve, with your remarks and suggestions thereon, I have to say that in the absence of sufficient practical knowledge by this office on the subject, the matter of detail attendant upon the logging operations generally must be largely committed to your discretion and judgment, taking care, however, to keep within the line of the general instructions of this office at the outset, in 1882, as set forth in the inclosed circular of your predecessor. In his report of June 29, 1884, accompanying statement of results for the season of 1883-'84, Agent Durfee, speaking on the subject of white labor, and referring to the fact that owing to the Indian's want of knowledge of logging operations, caring for and handling teams, etc., he had, at an early stage of the proceedings, been authorized to allow the employment of white foremen, cooks, and teamsters to a limited extent in the lumber camps, expressed the opinion that the Indians had then acquired sufficient experience to enable them to dispense entirely with white labor, and recommended that thereafter white labor of every kind be excluded, except allowing a white contractor to employ a man at his own expense to see that the work was properly done according to contract.

These views, as I am informed, were concurred in by the then Secretary of the Interior at a subsequent personal interview had with Agent Durfee here touching the general subject, but to what extent they were carried out in the operations of 1884-'85 does not appear. The theory of the Department being that the Indian shall be induced to labor, extraneous help of every description should be rigidly excluded except where in your judgment it is actually necessary as a means of education to the Indian, and in such cases only the very best kind of help should be permitted and only until such time as the Indians can get along without it.

I subjoin a few general suggestions for your guidance in the further prosecution of this enterprise.

(1) Heretofore there appears to have been considerable delay (probably unavoidable) in forwarding the contracts and bonds for approval by this office. They should be transmitted as early in the season as possible.

(2) No contracts will be approved by this office until patent has issued or the allotment has been approved by the Department. I observe by the schedule of contracts entered into during the season 1884-'85, transmitted by you on the 14th instant, that four contracts were made by Indians of the Fond du Lac reserve aggregating over a million feet of timber, value some $6,000. These contracts were never submitted to this office, and I see by a letter addressed to you on the 26th May last you were instructed that pending verification of selections on said reserve no contracts by the Indians thereof for the sale of timber on the allotted tracts for speculative purposes under Department authority of September 28, 1882, should be entertained. (See also on this subject office letter to you of the 28th instant.) I presume the contracts referred to were made before your accession to office.

(3) Care should be taken to see that the Indians do not contract for more timber than they can reasonably supply during the season, and each contract should terminate at the end of the season, or within a reasonable time thereafter.

(4) Contracts and bonds will only be received when on the appropriate forms. Bonds must accompany contract in all cases.

(5) Some oversight should be exercised over prices of supplies, etc., furnished by contractors to the Indians, in order that the Indian may not be imposed upon.

(6) A plan should be devised whereby all claims for labor should be discharged before final settlement with the Indian.

(7) Precautionary measures should also be taken for the safe keeping of moneys coming to Indians who are unable to take care of it themselves, and to prevent a recurrence of such cases as that of Moien and Shibagishigoqwa, as to whom I may observe that I await your further report.

(8) At the termination of the logging season a full report of operations and results should be made to this office.

Other questions will of necessity from time to time arise, but it is hoped that with your own familiarity with the business and the experience the Indians have already had, you may be able to see your way clear to an economic and satisfactory prosecution of the work.

Very respectfully,

A. B. UPSHAW,
Acting Commissioner.

J. T. GREGORY, Esq.,
U. S. Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, Wis., September 28, 1885.

SIR: The Indians on the Fond du Lac Reservation are very anxious to know if they will be allowed to cut timber from their allotments during the ensuing winter. Quite a number of them have got considerable of their land underbrushed and ready to clear, and if they are allowed to cut and sell the pine from the lands already underbrushed, they will be able to build themselves comfortable houses.

There will be no work for them to do unless they are allowed to cut and sell some of their pine, and they will have to make their living during the winter, hunting and fishing, and in the spring they will not have anything to keep them, when they ought to be putting in their crops.

I would respectfully recommend that they be allowed to cut at least enough to build themselves a house, and have money enough left to keep them while they are putting in their crops.

Very respectfully,

J. T. GREGORY,
U. S. Indian Agent.

Hon. JNO. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, Wis., October 23, 1885.

SIR: I wrote you on September 28, 1885, asking if permission would be given the Indians on the Fond du Lac Reservation to cut and sell a portion of the pine timber on their allotments, so as to enable them to build houses, and put the land from which the timber is cut in proper condition for farming purposes, but as yet have received no answer.

They are very anxious to know if they are going to be allowed to do so, and I would respectfully request that instructions be given me at an early a date as possible, for if they are going to be allowed to cut any timber it can be done to better advantage now than later in the season.

Very respectfully,

J. T. GREGORY,
U. S. Indian Agent.

Hon. JNO. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, October 28, 1885.

SIR: Referring to your letters of the 28th ultimo and 23d instant, in which you inquire whether the Indians having allotments on the Fond du Lac Reservation are permitted to cut and sell a portion of the pine timber on such allotments, so as to enable them to build houses, and put the land from which the timber is cut in proper condition for farming purposes, I have to say that in all cases where the lines of the allotment are clearly understood, and there is no danger of conflict with other allotments, the allottees may proceed to clear the land of timber to such an extent as may be absolutely necessary for cultivation, or for building or fencing purposes, and may sell such surplus of the timber so cut as may not be required for use on the premises. The Indians, however, must be made to understand that for the present, and until the patents are issued, they can not dispose of the pine in bulk for speculative purposes alone, but only to the limited extent above mentioned. After the patents shall have been issued the question of the disposal of the pine in like manner with the Indian patentees of the Lac Court d'Oreilles and Bad River reserves can then be presented for consideration should the Fond du Lac Indians so desire.

Very respectfully,

A. B. UPSHAW,
Acting Commissioner.

CHIPPEWA FALLS, WIS., October 27, 1885.

DEAR SIR: I take the liberty of writing directly to you, as I have already applied to Mr. Gregory, the agent of the La Pointe Reservation, Wisconsin, to procure the scaling of the saw-logs that are to be banked on the Lac Court Oreilles reserve. Mr. Gregory has engaged the same person that did the scaling under his predecessor. I have been creditably informed by the inhabitants of that locality that they are opposed to his system of scaling, that he favors the post-traders.

I have been engaged during the last twenty years on the Chippewa River acting as scaler and inspector of saw-logs.

I understand the business thoroughly, and can produce the most satisfactory references. A reply to the above at your earliest convenience will be respectfully received.

Your obedient servant,

J. A. McDONALD,

SIR: I inclose herewith a copy of a letter received in this office from one J. A. McDonald, of Chippewa Falls, Wis., applying for an appointment as scaler of logs on the Lac Court d'Oreilles reserve, which is referred to you for report as to the allegations therein made and your recommendation in the matter.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, Wis., November 14, 1885.

SIR: Replying to office letter November 10 (L 25646—1885), I have engaged W. D. Stevens to scale logs on the Lac Court Oreilles reservation for the ensuing winter. He is the same man who did the scaling last winter, and before I hired him I made careful inquiries as to the manner in which he has heretofore done his work, and found none who had any fault to find with him.

I also inquired of some of the leading lumber men in Eau Claire, where Mr. Stevens resides, and they all spoke very highly of him, and said that he was as good a man as I could get for the place.

If I thought Mr. Stevens would not deal fairly with the Indians he would not have been employed by me.

Very respectfully,

J. T. GREGORY,
U. S. Indian Agent

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,

LAC COURT OREILLES, WIS., December 18, 1885.

DEAR SIR: I write to you asking that you will go and see the United States Indian Commissioner and tell him what you think of me and the reports which that one B. Cornell circulated last year, and is also circulating this year, in regard to myself, ex-Agent Durfee, and N. Pero, the present Government farmer. I am holding the same position which I have for the last two years, namely, that of Government scaler, here upon the Indian reserve. Now, this man Cornell claims there is a big log steal going on here. Now, what I would like is an investigation, and if I can not prove that the work is done squarely and properly and with great care, then I am willing to take the consequences. He, Cornell, also gives as another reason why I should not hold this position that it was under a Republican administration that I have scaled and supervised scale here two years previous to this. It is somewhat ludicrous if a man can not scale mill-logs upon the Indian reserve simply because he has voted for some of his friends who were Republicans. Of course you understand I am here by order of the present Indian agent, James Gregory; but old Cornell, John McDonald, of Chippewa Falls, and several more cranks whom I might mention, say that to the victors belong the spoils, and I got my appointment through you, and that is enough.

Very respectfully,

WALLACE D. STEVENS,
Lac Court Oreilles, Wis, via Hayward.

Hon. W. T. PRICE,
Washington, D. C.

[Indorsement.]

Hon. COMMISSIONER INDIAN AFFAIRS:

The writer of the within is an honest man, and skilled as a scaler.
In my judgment, he should be kept where he is.
Respectfully,

DECEMBER 21, 1885.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, January 14, 1886.

SIR: Referring to your several letters of the 29th ultimo, transmitting for approval sundry logging contracts entered into by Indian patentees of the Lac Court d'Oreilles reserve, with Dobie & Stratton, Donald McDonald, Thomas Gaynor, and Calligan Brothers, I find upon a preliminary examination of said contracts some variation in prices, thus: The Dobie & Stratton contracts range over $6, $5.75, $5.50, $5.25, $5; McDonald $6.25, $6, $5.75, $5.50, $5.25, $5, $4.75; the Gaynor contracts a uniform rate of $5; and the Calligan Brothers $5.75 and $5.50. No explanation is given in your approval or letter of transmittal, of this variance, and I do not feel justified in approving the contracts without further light on the subject.

I think it would be well hereafter if your indorsement of approval specified the quality of the logs contracted for, which is, I presume, what governs the price.

What is the ruling figure for logs this season of all grades? In your letter of September 7 last, you stated that you considered $6 per 1,000 feet for No. 1 logs a fair price, and that you would endeavor to get as good a price as possible for the lower grade. This, I presume, you have done, but there should be some evidence of the fact on record in this office before the contracts are approved.

Very respectfully,

J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

J. T. GREGORY, Esq.,
U. S. Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, Wis., January 25, 1886.

SIR: Replying to office letter, January 14 (L. 88-89-90-1886).

On the Lac Court Oreilles Reservation the logs are not graded, but sold for a certain price per 1,000 feet, straight

I consider the prices paid by Dobie & Statton, Donald McDonald, Thomas Gaynor, and Calligan Brothers to be what the logs are worth, as considerable of them are being cut off land that has been logged before, and are of inferior quality.

No. 1 logs are selling here at from $3.50 to $6 per 1,000 feet, and No. 2 logs from $3.75 to $4.50 per 1,000 feet.

Very respectfully,

J. T. GREGORY,
U. S. Indian Agent.

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

BAYFIELD, WIS., February 28, 1886.

MY VERY DEAR SIR: I have been waiting for some time to write you, but have been so busy that I have had no time; have work enough for six men in these parts to look after all of the honorable lumbermen.

I, in the first place, would like to call your attention to the Flambeau Indian Reservation; it is a tract of land covered with valuable pine timber; the best information that I can get the amount of pine thereon is 350,000,000 feet, and there is a scheme afoot to have the lands in this tract allotted in severalty to the Indians; and by looking at the condition of things on the Fond du Lac, Red Cliff, Bad River, and Court d'Oreilles Reservations, you will see that the Indians are getting nothing for their pine, and as soon as it is gone they will become paupers for the Government to take care of.

I have an idea that if the pine on the Flambeau Reservation could be taken charge of by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs at Washington, and have it laid off in blocks of from 15,000,000 to 20,000,000 feet in a block, and the Commissioner to receive bids for the timber standing, so that men of moderate means could have a chance to secure a small tract, it would bring from $2 to $3 per 1,000 feet; and let the Commissioner put the money in Government bonds, and the interest paid to the Indians annually, and as there is but a small band of those Indians, they would have enough to keep them in comfortable circumstances. And when the timber is cut the Indians can make farms if they so desire.

The price paid for such timber standing in those parts varies from $2.50 to $3 per 1,000 feet in tracts of from 50,000,000 up to 300,000,000, as quite a large amount has been sold at these figures, and I can find men who would be glad to invest in that tract as they want to buy timber.

The timber on the reservation here will all be cut in from two to three years more, and I am unable to see what they will have left after it is gone.

I thought I would write these few lines to see if these or some similar views are to be had on the subject, as it seems to me to be too bad to have things going on as they are. The logs now being cut from the Bad River Reservation are sold, I am told, at the following prices: logs that scale No. 1, at $2 per 1,000 feet, No. 2, at $1.50 per 1,000 feet, and that the scale runs about 20 per cent. No. 1, so you can see that the logs bring $1.20 just as they come, and every man that lumbers in this vicinity will tell you that it is too little for them.

I don't know as I have made what I intended to say plain, but you can, perhaps, make out what I do mean and can supply the deficiency.

With my kind regards to Mrs. General Bragg and yourself, I remain,
Very respectfully,

W. A. ROBERTS.

Hon. E. S. BRAGG,
Washington, D. C.

[Indorsement.]

MY DEAR GENERAL: Inclosed I send you letter; please return to me when read.
E. S. BRAGG.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, April 1, 1886.

SIR: I herewith return the letter of Mr. W. A. Roberts, in relation to the timber question as connected with the several reservations attached to the La Pointe Agency, Wisconsin, and which was referred by you to this office for consideration.

I have carefully read the letter, and have had a copy retained for future reference,

No allotments have hitherto been made on the Lac de Flambeau reserve, neither has any application been made by the Indians for that purpose. I notice what your correspondent says in regard to prices obtained for pine logs on the Lac Court d'Oreilles, Bad

River, and other reserves, and have to say that the entire system of lumbering on those reserves is now being investigated by this office, in order to determine whether the same should be stopped, or whether some better plan may not be devised.

Very respectfully,

J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

General E. S. BRAGG,
House of Representatives.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, May 22, 1886.

SIR: By this mail I return to you approved a number of logging contracts made by divers Indians of the Lac Court d'Oreilles and Bad River reserves, which have from time to time been transmitted by you during the season now terminating.

I believe that they comprise all which have not hitherto been acted upon by this office. As soon as possible after the accounts between the several contracting parties have been adjusted and settled, I shall be obliged by your furnishing this office with a detailed report of all logging transactions pertaining to your agency during the season 1885-'86, showing names of parties to the contracts, quantity of logs contracted for, price, quantity of logs actually delivered, and result to the Indians contracting, specifying the several amounts received by them, whether in supplies, teams, camp outfits, etc., and in cash, in order that this office may be able to intelligently report to the Department on the whole subject.

You will accompany your report by such suggestions and recommendations as you may deem pertinent and advisable.

With the expiration of the present season all contracts terminate, and you will permit no new contracts to be entered into or arrangements made looking to a renewal of operations for the season 1886-'87, until the whole matter has been fully reviewed and further instructions sent you from this office.

Very respectfully,

A. B. UPSHAW,
Acting Commissioner.

J. T. GREGORY, Esq.,
U. S. Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, July 14, 1886.

SIR: It has been reported to this office that timber is being cut within the limits of your agency by persons who have no contracts with the Indians for that purpose.

You will ascertain whether there is any foundation for this statement, and if you find any such cases take immediate measures to peremptorily stop the cutting.

In this connection your attention is called to office letter of May 22 last, in which you were instructed as follows:

"With the expiration of the present season all contracts terminate, and you will permit no new contracts to be entered into or arrangements made looking to a renewal of operations for the season of 1886-'87, until the whole matter has been fully reviewed and further instructions sent you from this office."

Your report of the 15th ultimo, with result of the season's operations, was duly received and will be taken up as soon as it can be reached.

Very respectfully,

A. B. UPSHAW,
Acting Commissioner.

J. T. GREGORY, Esq.,
U. S. Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, Wis., June 15, 1886.

SIR: I have the honor herewith to transmit a statement showing the direct results of the lumbering operations which have been carried on during the past winter on the Lac Court Oreilles, Bad River, and Fond du Lac Reservations.

I have been told by many Indians that they have realized and saved more money out of these operations than ever before.

I believe fully 20 per cent. more have been realized the past winter than from any previous logging done on these reservations, and that the result has been obtained in consequence of some discipline which I tried to enforce.

Heretofore all these lumbering operations have been conducted by those engaged in them under many serious embarrassments. Chief amongst these was the fact that the Indian laborers would not carry out their agreements. They understood very well that the contractors for the logs were obliged to employ Indian laborers exclusively and Indian teams when they could be obtained.

From every section those Indian laborers would go to the reservations, engage themselves to work for the contractors at a stipulated price for the logging season. Most of them would work for a few weeks, get their pay, and go away until their money was gone, and after the work was well under way they could combine and put up the wages to twice that for which white labor could be and was obtained in the same locality. In consequence of this state of affairs logging operations were in many cases suspended, great losses occurred, and the spendthrift Indian wasted his own earnings, in which was also consumed the price of the timber, which the allottees should have had. Seeing that the logging operations last winter were likely to be affected from this same cause, I addressed a letter to you on the subject, on September 7, 1885, and in reply thereto you gave me such authority as I thought would enable me to overcome this serious source of loss and injury, and I used it, as I believe, with good result.

I believe it is just as important to teach these Indians honesty and justice, as to labor.

Early in the logging season the same general course of these Indian laborers began to be put into operation, and I personally visited each of these reservations, and frequently afterwards; and I told as many of these Indians as I could see, that they must live up to their agreements, and remain at their work, and if they left, they should not be permitted to return, and that I should see that white men got their places if I could not get honest and industrious Indians to fill them. I instructed the farmers to visit each camp promptly whenever trouble was likely to occur, and to read my letter of instructions (which embodied what I have stated above). These laborers, seeing that there was a determined purpose to break up the course which they had every winter pursued, and which they knew was wrong, remained at their work, and when the camps broke in the spring, many of them had considerable money coming to them; the contractors got along well with their work and the allottees received the full amount which they expected to receive.

The custom that is practiced by all lumbermen in this vicinity is not to pay their men until after their camp breaks in the spring, but if a man has a family he can draw enough money to support them during the logging season. The camps are always supplied with such articles of clothing as are needed. The success of any logging operation depends upon the great mass of men, who are employed in the fall, remaining at their special work during the entire logging season.

The Indians should be required to pursue the same general plan which the white people do, as long experience has shown that certain things are necessary for a successful logging operation and chief, amongst them is that the laborers shall remain steadily and contentedly at their work.

The great fault found with Indian laborers is that they can not be depended upon to remain the length of time they agree to; many of them become expert loggers, and very useful in mills, and wherever logs and lumber are handled, but only a few can get places, because they are in the habit of leaving whenever they take a notion to. If they can be made to realize the necessity of performing cheerfully and faithfully their agreement it will be of immeasurable value to them.

If this logging business continues to be carried on much good to them can be obtained if you will insist as one of the conditions upon which the logger shall employ them be that they shall remain faithfully at their work at good fair wages.

Another source of loss is the uncertainty that has existed as to the approval of contracts and the lateness in the season when they are made.

It is much better for all parties that the contracts be made during the summer. It requires quite considerable capital to cut and bank 2,000,000 or 3,000,000 feet of logs. An outfit for putting in that amount costs from $3,000 to $6,000, and cutting and banking them will cost from $8,000 to $12,000 more. Most men who own a logging outfit can make arrangements for carrying on the logging operations if they can secure the job in time.

Lumbermen in this country should get into the woods to work in September, and early in the month if possible. The buildings for men and teams should be constructed.

roads cut out and graded, and a large number of logs cut and skidded before snow falls. This is very essential to success.

If the policy of allowing the allottees to cut and sell their timber is to be continued should know it at a very early day, and if any changes in the regulations on the subject are to be made these should be made and furnished me as soon as possible. Only by early information and early arrangements can the best results be reached.

While I, as any agent, would like to be relieved from the many annoyances and outrageous abuse to which I am subjected on account of these logging operations, yet I am constrained to say that these Indians, not only individually, but as a people, are greatly benefited by these logging operations. There are a number of them who have accumulated small fortunes, and their example is stimulating the ambition of a large number to live better and accumulate property. They are all learning to work, but, like other people, some will waste their earnings and become addicted to immoral habits. A goodly number of them have fine horses, oxen, and all other property necessary to make complete logging and farming outfits. These Indians, thus provided, take large contracts themselves and employ laborers and carry on the work successfully. Allottees are getting good comfortable homes, and the general condition of these communities is being greatly improved. Indeed, I think if you should stop these logging operations, there would be much suffering and trouble amongst them.

In making the settlement with the contractors on the Lac Court Oreilles Reservation for last season's operations I took $12,326.81, belonging to some old men and women who were not capable of taking care of it, and I placed it in Sawyer Co. Bank, Hayward, Wis., and I placed $1,595.04 in Seymour's Bank, Chippewa Falls, Wis., for their benefit. I allowed them sums ranging from $5 to $10 per week as long as their money lasts. The Government farmer must indorse all checks to make them negotiable, and I instructed the banker, when the deposit was made, not to pay any more per week than the amount I specified. This insures those old people a good living for three or four years, while if the money had been paid to them in a bulk, it would not have lasted them three months.

The Indians on the Lac du Flambeau Reservation are now asking for allotments, and they will want to have logging done there during next season. These Indians as a class are the least advanced of any of the Wisconsin Indians under my charge. There are some of them fairly educated, and I think would rapidly improve if some such advantages were opened to them as now exists on the Lac Court Oreilles and Bad River Reservations from these logging operations, and if they are to be continued on the other Reservations there is no reason that I can see why the Lac du Flambeau Indians should be denied similar privileges.

If I should consult my own convenience and pleasure, I would not have any of these logging operations carried on, but if you shall continue the permission to do so, I shall carry out your instructions to the best of my ability, and do all I can to promote the best interests of these Indians.

I desire, however, that you will at an early day, give me full instructions upon the whole subject, as I want every available opportunity of securing the best results to be obtained from the policy, and I can not do this unless every one has ample chance to economize, and get every advantage possible to be obtained in conducting the business.

Very respectfully,

J. T. GREGORY,
U. S. Indian Agent.

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

NOTE.—Copy tabular statement accompanying the foregoing letter suspended for the present by authority of chairman of select committee.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, Wis., July 19, 1886.

SIR: Replying to office letter (L. July 14, 1886), the person who reported to you that timber was being cut at this agency must have had reference to the tie cutting that has been done at Bad River. I allowed the Indians who were clearing their allotments to manufacture the timber cut in clearing into railroad ties.

This enabled them to clear their land, and the ties that were sold helped them buy supplies and hire men to help clear. This is all that has been done.

When I received office letter of May 22d last, I notified the farmer at Bad River and L. C. O. that they should not allow any pine contracts to be entered into for the logging season of 1886-'87 until they received notice from me.

Mr. Walker, farmer at Bad River, has since reported to me that G. W. Forsyth and B. F. Wagley have been giving the Indians money to secure contracts for the coming logging season.

This is a damage to the Indians, as many of them will not do any work as long as they have any money.

I notified Forsyth and Wagley that I would not approve any of their contracts if they secured them in that manner.

Very respectfully,

J. T. GREGORY,
U. S. Indian Agent.

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, Wis., July 21, 1886.

SIR: I have the honor to transmit herewith a communication, addressed to you by Messrs. Dobie & Stratton, licensed traders, Lac Court Oreilles Reservation, Wis., relating to the sale and delivery of pine timber to them by certain Indians of the Lac Court Oreilles Reservation; also a copy of their letter transmitting same to me.

In regard to this communication I would state that, upon receipt of office letter of May 22, 1886, I notified all persons (Dobie & Stratton being among them) wishing to make contracts with the Indians of the La Pointe Agency, that no new contracts could be entered into, or arrangements made looking to a renewal of operations for the season of 1886-'87, until I should receive instructions from the Indian Office regarding the same.

In view of this, therefore, I would respectfully state that I can not approve any contracts made by Dobie & Stratton until I receive definite instructions from you to do so.

Very respectfully,

J. T. GREGORY,
U. S. Indian Agent.

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

[Inclosure No. 1.]

LAC COURT OREILLES, WIS., July 19, 1886.

DEAR SIR: Inclosed we send to you a communication addressed to the Commissione of Indian Affairs, in which we ask permission to make contracts with certain Indians to whom we have advanced lumber and other supplies.

The Commissioner told our Mr. Stratton that he saw no reason why we should not be allowed to make contracts with these Indians, but before he would permit us to make contracts, he would require us to forward to him a list of the Indians with whom we wished to contract, and if you approved of these Indians making contracts he would grant us permission.

We therefore forward to you our request, accompanied with the names of the Indians with whom we wish to contract, and we hope that you may see fit to approve of Indians contracting a portion of their pine.

There are a great many men on the reservation who are dependent for their support on the employment given them by those who are making improvements, and unless the Indians can get some one to supply them, almost all improvements will cease for this summer.

Hoping that you will favor this proposition, we remain, obediently, yours,
DOBIE & STRATTON.

[Inclosure No. 2.]

LAC COURT OREILLES, WIS., July 19, 1886.

SIR: We would respectfully ask permission to make timber contracts with the following list of Indians who desire to sell a portion of their timber to us, that they may be enabled to get supplied with material to build houses and to do other improvements on their patented lands. We have furnished ten of these Indians with lumber and provisions to build good substantial frame houses, and to all we have supplied provisions to enable them to clear land and to do other improvements.

Hoping that you may favor our request, we remain, obediently, yours,
DOBIE & STRATTON.

Hon. COMMISSIONER OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, August 2, 1886.

SIR: I am in receipt of your letter of the 21st ultimo, inclosing a communication addressed to this office by Messrs. Dobie & Stratton, licensed traders, asking permission to make timber contracts for the coming season with certain Indians of the Lac Court d'Oreilles reserve, desiring to sell a portion of their timber, in order to obtain material to build houses and make other improvements on their patented lands; also a copy of their letter to you transmitting the application.

You state that in view of the instructions contained in office letter to you of May 22 last, you have declined to approve any contracts until definitely instructed by this office on the subject.

Your action is approved. Owing to the exceeding pressure of business, your report upon the logging operations for the season 1885-'86 has not yet been reached, but will, it is expected now, be acted upon very shortly. In the mean time the status directed by office letter of May 22 will be strictly preserved, and no new contracts will be entertained pending further instructions from this office. Of course this applies to all reservations under your charge.

You will notify Messrs. Dobie & Stratton hereof.

Very respectfully,

J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

J. T. GREGOBY, Esq.,
U. S. Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis.

ASHLAND, WIS., June 21, 1886.

SIR: I would like for you to see General Atkins, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, in regard to logging on the Lac Court Oreilles Reservation, in Sawyer County, Wis., and see if he won't issue orders to the Indian agent here not to approve of any contracts for logs except those of the regular licensed traders there, Messrs. Dobie & Stratton and myself.

Last season the agent approved of the contracts made by several outsiders, who went on the reservation and cut logs at will with their own white crews and sold goods to the Indians without license or restrictions, so I am informed by Dobie & Stratton and others, whilst the "poor" licensed trader was under the restrictions of the Indian Department and a bond of $10,000, etc.

These outsiders also bring whisky on the reservation and other demoralizing influences. There are several school and swamp sections of this reservation which these outsiders can locate on, and of course can starve us traders out if they are allowed to contract for the Indians' pine, by not being restricted and bringing in their own labor, etc.

If the Commissioner would not approve of any contracts except those of the licensed traders, these outsiders would leave the reservation and the Indian would get just as much for his logs and fare better.

These outsiders come in the fall and go in the spring, and play a big winning game whilst they are there, and leave the Indian to the trader in the summer, when there is nothing to do. Mr. Gregory, the Indian agent, informs me he has recommended this course to the Commissioner, and I wish you would please exert yourself in my behalf in this very just cause soon as you can, as I have to make some arrangements, according to the Commissioner's decision, and ain't got any time to lose. I go to Alton to-morrow night, and would be glad to have an early answer there. If you think best I can go to Washington, but guess you can fix it without me.

With best wishes, I am, sincerely, your friend,

H. C. TATUM.

Hon. WM. R. MORRISON,
Washington, D. C.

[Indorsement.]

Respectfully referred to the honorable Commissioner of Indian Affairs, who will please send me a reply as soon as may be, and oblige.

W. R. MORRISON.

HOUSE REPRESENTATIVES, June 27, 1886.

UPPER ALTON, ILL., July 10, 1886.

DEAR SIR: In regard to the letter I wrote Colonel Morrison referring to the logging operations at Lac Court Oreilles Reservation, in Sawyer County, Wis., which he placed in your hands, I wish to say that what I wish is an order from you to Agent Gregory prohibiting outsiders from contracting or logging the Indian pine, and giving thereby the licensed traders the protection which I am satisfied your policy has been to do on other reservations. If these outsiders are going to have the same privileges which they had last season, a trader has a very poor chance of doing anything.

When I was in Washington I was informed by you, through General Upshaw, that only Dobie & Stratton and myself would be licensed to trade there, which I interpreted to mean we would have the exclusive privileges, which we won't have if these outsiders are allowed in there.

It's nearing the time when I should be making my contracts, and I have my logging outfit and all arrangements made to go to work on as large a scale as you desire to limit me to. Hence I am desirous of knowing the conclusions reached by the honorable Secretary of the Interior and yourself at an early a date as suits your pleasure.

From careful observations up there I am satisfied the Indians will fare much better by keeping the outsiders out than otherwise.

Trusting to receive a favorable reply, I await your pleasure here, and remain,

Very respectfully, yours,

HENRY C. TATUM.

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

UPPER ALTON, ILL., August 13, 1886.

MY DEAR SIR: I am just in receipt of yours 11th instant. I am satisfied the Commissioner don't understand the condition of affairs up there, and to make plain talk I will say it will take an outlay of some $50,000 to carry on the business properly, and of course I have to get some backing, and in order to get the backing I am to be assured that the Commissioner will protect me against outsiders. As the logging interests of that country represent some $8,000,000, and if they are allowed to have the freedom of last winter they can freeze me out and bankrupt me in thirty days.

The law says "no one but a regular licensed trader or Indian of full blood are allowed to trade on an Indian reservation," but on the Lac Court Oreilles, where I want to locate, all the main loggers in northern Wisconsin have been getting logs and selling goods up to 1st June, if not later.

Now, I want this stopped, and am ready to open up my store there (which I have the refusal of building unoccupied) at once if I can get this assurance, but don't want to risk $50,000 in goods and logging outfit without any protection.

Two traders whom were licensed there last year never did a dollar's worth of business, because these outsiders froze them out. I never had any idea of trading off or trying to sell my license, but did look for a strong logging partner, whom I have got, if I can have some kind of a definite understanding. I am honest in my purpose, but it looks like I am being unjustly judged or undergoing the freezing-out process of these Republicans up there who have had their own way for years.

The Bad River Reservation is under same agency, but it seems nobody can do anything on it but Superior Lumber Company, of Ashland, Wis., and Hon. W. F. Vilas is vice-president of said company. I have been up there twice, and know of what I speak. My fight is a just and right one, and if they see fit to let me slide, well and good. But understand me, I am ready to carry out my part at once if the Commissioner will guarantee me protection, and no sell out or compromise with me. But I don't propose to put in any money there till I know where I stand.

I inclose you a letter which I had intended mailing General Upshaw, and you can hand it to him if you see fit.

I want to get settled soon as I can, and am desirous of getting this fixed up at once one way or the other.

And believe me, dear colonel, I don't want to put you to any more trouble, and fully appreciate what you have already done for me.

Sincerely your friend,

HENRY E. TATUM.

Col. W. R. MORRISON,
Washington, D. C.

I would say there is a great deal of difference in running a logging and general store than to operate a store in the Indian Territory, and more money and utensils involved.

[Inclosure.]

UPPER ALTON, ILL., August 13, 1886.

DEAR SIR: In answer to your telegram regarding canceling my license at La Pointe, Wis., will say that after getting my license it was too late for the spring trade, and being only one reservation where was any likelihood of doing anything, viz, the Lac Court Oreilles in Wisconsin, the roads were almost impassable in the spring. I went there in May (say latter part) and found two or three persons trading there without license, and a number of loggers making extensive preparations to go in there to contract for the Indians' pine. I concluded to see the agent about it, and he informed me the Commissioner had written him not to allow any one to contract for the Indians' pine till he examined the matter more fully. I told Mr. Gregory, the agent, if these outsiders were going to be allowed in there, the licensed traders, being under restrictions, would have no show, and that I was going to refer the matter to the Commissioner and await his decision before doing anything. I placed the matter in Colonel Morrison's hands in June, and I have the Commissioner's reply to him, wherein he states he had referred the matter, with my letter, to the honorable Secretary of Interior, and that Colonel Morrison would be advised of the result; and that is what has delayed me so long in getting started up there, and am still awaiting the Commissioner's reply to Colonel Morrison.

I will here state that there has been only one licensed firm on this reservation for several years, namely, Messrs. Dobie & Stratton, so I could not see any harm in my wanting things in proper shape before opening up, when you had licensed two other parties there last year that never made any pretensions whatever during the life of their licenses. There are a lot of strong Republicans up there who don't want me to have them excluded from trading or logging on this reservation, who perhaps have had the matter misrepresented to you. I am prepared to open up there at once, if I can get a decision on the matter, but don't want to go there with license and under bond if others can go there under no bond or restrictions as they have done in the past.

I have written Colonel Morrison and the honorable Commissioner fully in regard to this matter and supposed it was in good hands and would be acted upon. Still, if you see fit to cancel my license before I get this decision, I can't help but think it will be doing me (a good Democrat) a great injustice.

Very respectfully,

HENRY C TATUM.

General A. P. UPSHAW,
Assistant Commissioner Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,

Washington, August 11, 1886.

MY DEAR SIR: With reference to the logging enterprise at La Pointe Agency, Wis., as to which I have had an extended conference with Agent Gregory, the general results to the Indians in the way of their material advancement appear to be so satisfactory and promising for the future as to render its continuance highly desirable.

Mr. Gregory (who appears to be a thoroughly practical man and to have the good of these Indians at heart) says that the Indians are all learning to work, are getting good comfortable homes, and their general condition is being greatly improved, and that if the logging operations should be stopped there would be much suffering and trouble amongst them.

Of course in a matter involving an aggregate value of some $350,000, especially amongst Indians, some minor abuses may have crept in which the agent, not being ubiquitous, is unable to control; but upon the whole the business seems to have been singularly well managed and conducted on all sides with honesty and fairness.

The principal question for consideration at the commencement of this new season appears to be whether the contracts with the Indians shall be confined to the licensed traders on the reservations or whether, as heretofore, they shall be open to public competition.

At the outset, in 1882, it appears to have been manifestly the intention of the Department (Mr. Secretary Teller presiding) that the Indians holding patents for their lands should be permitted to contract with whomsoever they pleased, subject to approval of the contracts by their agent and the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and this plan has hitherto obtained in practice. Outside of Dobie & Stratton, the regular licensed traders on the Lac Court d'Oreilles reserve, who have had the majority of the contracts, the contractors have been but few in number, not exceeding fourteen, all told, on the three reservations where logging has been done, some of whom are half-breeds belonging to the tribes interested.

General Heth, who, you will remember, was sent out last April to the agency to investigate the logging business in connection with charges of fraud, implicating Postmaster-General Vilas and other officials, appearing in the local press of Wisconsin, and who found nothing in his investigation to sustain the charges, recommended that instead of one, as heretofore, three traders should be appointed at Lac Court d'Oreilles, who alone should be contracted with, and his reasons were these:

"Being under bond they will be compelled to sell supplies at prices supervised by you, and a worthy competition will enable the Indian to obtain supplies at less cost than prices fixed by you as fair and legitimate, the price of logs being fixed by supply and demand.

"The Indian can only be cheated in the prices charged for supplies furnished him by unlicensed contractors. The latter—over whom you can exercise no control—sells supplies to the Indians at his own figures, takes a lien on their pay, and leaves at the end of the season satisfied, whilst the licensed trader has to carry these same men over the year, who are now without funds, or receive their displeasure and that of the tribe."

There is some show of reason in this argument, but, in my judgment, not enough to warrant the exclusion of outside competition altogether, and thereby run the inevitable risk of exposing the agent and the office to a charge of fostering monopolies against the declared policy of the Administration. Under the present system all having the means have an equal chance to contract, a healthy competition is invited, and criticism is disarmed. It is true the licensed trader may be at some disadvantage in having to carry a few Indians during the summer months, but this he would probably have to do any way, and I do not see how it can well be avoided.

Beyond General Heth's recommendation, the only person so far who has urged the propriety of confining the contracts to licensed traders is Mr. H. C. Tatum, who, you will remember, was appointed trader at Lac Court d'Oreilles, at the instance of Mr. Morrison, of Illinois.

You will also not fail to recollect that this matter has already been the subject of two investigations during the present Administration—first, upon charges laid before the President by one Cornell, a disappointed office-seeker, and, second, upon statements in the public press already referred to. In both instances the agent was fully exonerated, and the administration of his office with fidelity sustained.

Already the Roman Catholic denomination (as appears in a letter now before us) is beginning to protest against discrimination in the contracts for the ensuing season.

Upon the whole, I am of opinion that to restrict the contracts in the hands of the licensed traders only would be an injudicious proceeding. To do so would not only be in contravention of the original plan of the Department, and deaden competition, but would provoke a storm of adverse criticism which this bureau, in its endeavors towards a just and honest administration of Indian affairs, should not be called upon to endure.

Knowing, however, that this question has already been before you in other ways, I prefer to know that you concur in this opinion before taking definite action on the subject.

An early reply will oblige yours, very truly,

A. B. UPSHAW,
Acting Commissioner.

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,
Paris, Tenn.

[Indorsement.]

Respectfully returned to the acting Commissioner, fully concurring in the conclusion arrived at. Notwithstanding there may be some plausibility in the claim set up by the licensed traders, nevertheless, an open and unrestricted sale of logs by the Indians to the highest bidder seems to be the surest method of securing just compensation to the Indians.

J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, August 19, 1886.

SIR: I am in receipt, by your reference, of a letter dated the 13th instant from Mr. A. C. Tatum, inclosing one addressed to me, both on the subject of the cancellation of the license heretofore granted to him to trade with the Indians of La Pointe Agency, Wisconsin.

Permit me, in reply, to review the facts of the case as they really exist.

Mr. Tatum's license to trade was granted on the 7th April last.

On the 9th August instant (after an interval of over four months) it was canceled for the reason that it appeared that Mr. Tatum had taken no steps whatever to open up a store for trading purposes, as contemplated by his license.

In his letters above referred to Mr. Tatum assigns various reasons for his delay, viz: the fact that when he obtained his license the spring trade was practically over; the impassability of the roads leading to the Lac Court d'Oreilles Reservation, where he specially expected to trade; and his desire to have a clear understanding beforehand as to the rights of a licensed trader in regard to the logging operations now being conducted within the agency.

It is due to Mr. Tatum to say that he had previously written through you, and to this office direct, requesting that an order be issued prohibiting outsiders from contracting or logging the Indians' pine, thereby affording a measure of protection which he deemed necessary to the licensed trader, as being under bond, and subject to office regulations in connection with Indian traders. Answer to these communications was made that Mr. Tatum's application would be duly considered in connection with the general subject, then under advisement. Since then the whole matter has been carefully considered, and the conclusions arrived at by this office are that, whilst there may be some plausibility in Mr. Tatum's argument, to restrict the logging contracts in the hands of licensed traders alone, would not only be in contravention of the original plan of the Department, but also an impolitic and injudicious proceeding, offering a field for adverse criticism, which this bureau, in its endeavors to a just and honest administration of Indian affairs, should not expose itself to. Under the system hitherto prevailing, subject to such additional restrictions as this office may see fit to impose, all having the means have an equal chance to contract, a healthy competition is invited, and the Indian is measurably benefited thereby. I should be sorry to do Mr. Tatum an injustice, but his dilatoriness in action under his license, and his manifest anxiety on the logging question, have inclined me very much to doubt whether, apart from that element, he is anxious for the tradership at all. Mr. Tatum's insinuation that he is "undergoing the freezing out process of those Republicans up there, who have had their own way for years," is as uncalled for as it is unjust.

Very respectfully,

Hon. WM. R. MORRISON,
House of Representatives.

A. B. UPSHAW,
Acting Commissioner.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, August 24, 1886.

SIR: I am in receipt of your letter of the 15th June last with detailed statement of the lumbering operations carried on during the season of 1885-'86, on the Lac Court d'Oreilles, Bad River, and Fond du Lac reserves, respectively, showing a net gain to the Indian owners of the pine of $131,286.46.

I have carefully examined the statement, and apart from the fact that the prices of logs during the season appears to have been rather low, and the cost of banking somewhat high, the general results to the Indians engaged appear to be highly satisfactory, and such as to warrant at all events a present continuance of the undertaking.

I am especially gratified to know that as a consequence of these operations the Indians are learning to work—that a goodly number of them have not only accumulated money, but have fine horses, oxen, and other property necessary to complete logging and farming outfits—that many are getting good, comfortable houses, and that the general condition of the Indian communities is greatly improved.

You state that in making settlement with the contractors on the Lac Court d'Oreilles Reservation for last season's operations, you took $12,326.81 belonging to some old men and women, who were incapable of taking care of it themselves, and placed it in Sawyer County Bank, Hayward, Wis.; also $1,595.04 in Seymour's Bank, Chippewa Falls, for their benefit, permitting them to draw sums ranging from $5 to $10 per week, as long as their money lasts, all checks of the depositors being indorsed by the Government farmer, and the banks being instructed, when the deposits were made, on no account to exceed the weekly limit specified. This you state insures these old people a good living for three or four years, whereas if the money had been paid to them in bulk it would not have lasted them three months.

Your action in this respect has the full approval of this office, and will serve as a precedent for future similar cases.

Referring to the conversation had with you whilst here as to the proposition to confine the contracts in the hands of the licensed traders exclusively, I have given the subject careful consideration, and have arrived at the conclusion that for various reasons it would be impolitic and injudicious to do so.

But I see no good reason why an outside contractor who furnishes an Indian with supplies, outfits, etc., in part payment for his logs, and thereby virtually, though in a limited sense, becomes a "trader" in the Indian country, should not, in all justice to the Indians and the regular licensed trader, be placed under the same restrictions as the latter.

The license in such cases should not be a general license to trade, but a special license to the extent necessary for the purpose only of fulfilling the contract and should terminate with the contract itself.

By this means the regular trader and the Indians would be protected, competition maintained, and all semblance of favoritism avoided. In short, all would be on an equal footing.

You will therefore require all persons other than the regular licensed traders desiring to contract for the pine and proposing to furnish supplies, etc., on the different reservations to the Indians in part payment therefor, before any such contracts are acted upon, to first conform to the regulations of this office (copy inclosed) respecting licensed traders, by taking out license, furnishing bond, etc., and being in all things subject to restrictions imposed upon regular licensed traders; the number of employes at such trading establishments to be limited to the actual necessities of the case and to be subject to your approval.

Renewing the instructions heretofore given in office letter of October 29, 1885, you are authorized:

(1) To regulate and fix the price, according to market value, of the different grades of pine, below which no contracts shall be approved.

(2) To regulate the labor question, insisting that the Indians shall remain faithfully at their work during the logging season, at proper and reasonable wages.

(3) To regulate the question of white labor in the camps, using just as little of it as possible, and only where absolutely necessary, as in the case of a foreman or instructor, cooks and teamsters, holding all such to a strict observance of the intercourse laws and regulations. In the case of the Lac Court d'Oreille reserve I understood you to say that little, if any, white help would be needed.

(4) To exercise a general supervision over prices charged by contractors for supplies of all kinds, seeing that the Indians are not imposed upon, under penalty of disallowances, revocation of licenses, and refusal to renew contracts.

(5) To see that none but reliable parties are permitted to contract, and that contracts are not made for purely speculative purposes.

(6) To approve such contracts only as are made in good faith, and where the beneficiary manifests an intention of improving his condition and conforming to the habits of civilized life.

(7) In case of beneficiaries being old or infirm, or otherwise incapable of taking care of their money, to see that it is deposited in some reliable bank to their credit, subject to the Indians' weekly or monthly draft, approved by yourself or the Government farmer, in limited amounts for necessary subsistence, or in larger sums to pay for improvements.

Other suggestions of a minor degree for the better prosecution of the enterprise may from time to time present themselves to you, which, within the line of the general instructions given you, you are at liberty to adopt.

The blank forms, for which you made requisition, are now in the printer's hands, and will be forwarded you as soon as ready.

Very respectfully,

A. B. UPSAHW,
Acting Commissioner.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, December 7, 1886.

SIR: In reply to your letter of the 18th October last, I have to say that your letter of the 9th September, making inquiries about logging matters on the Bad River Reservation during the present season, was duly received and referred to Agent Gregory at La Pointe Agency, with instructions to afford you all necessary information in keeping with the general instructions he has on the subject.

Of this action you were advised by letter from this office on the 16th October last, and your recommendations were returned.

Very respectfully,

Assistant Commissioner.

Mr. SIMON DENOMIE,
Baraga, Mich.

LAC COURT OREILLE RESERVE, October 20, 1886.

SIR: I am authorized by several of the members, residents of this reservation, to call your attention to a matter of the utmost importance to many of us, who have made it a business every fall to take jobs or contracts to cut and bank timber for Indians who sell timber to the traders. There is on the reservation as many as fifty camps, and each camp requires from ten to twenty-five men, who must be Indians. This unjust order, emanating from cause unknown to us, causes us an expenditure of hundreds of dollars, which we can very illy afford, to run over several counties to find Indians enough to fill our crews. These men, knowing that they must be had, demand very high wages, which we can illy afford because of the very low price of the timber and exorbitant price of goods and supplies furnished by the traders. It is different with them who frequently buy the stumpage from the Indian, then hire men to run their camps, then run in white laborers which they pay from $15 to $26 per month, while we are not permitted to use even such facilities to curtail our expenses. The way they do it is thus:

A trader builds his camp on a school section (16) in which he keeps 15 or 20 men whom he distributes among his camps inside of the reservation, they being within reaching distance from the main camp. Even now, camps belonging to Dobie & Stratton are worked by white men. Their premises around the store and in are all white men. Why we are not permitted that privilege is beyond comprehension. Permit us to make a suggestion in this matter. It would be a great benefit and a favor conferred to let a certain amount of white labor, say every camp be allowed half white and half Indian, any excess of white to be expelled by the farmer, being clothed with proper authority to do so. As it is at present he is powerless to enforce his orders.

You will please take this into consideration. Hoping a favorable reply,
Respectfully,

JOSEPH D. GURNOE.

The COMMISSIONER OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, D. C.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, October 30, 1886.

SIR: The inclosed copy of a letter received from Joseph D. Gurnoe, setting forth the disadvantages under which those who take contracts to bank timber labor, in not being permitted to employ white help, is referred to you for consideration and report.

Very respectfully,

A. B. UPSHAW,
Acting Commissioner.

J. T. GREGORY, Esq.,
U. S. Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE,
La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis., November 4, 1886.

SIR: Replying to office letter 28512-1886, I understand that the loggers of the Lac Court Oreilles Reservation are having some trouble in getting Indians to work in the logging camps, and that they, the Indians, are wanting the loggers to pay $40 to $50 per month, while white men off the reservation are employed at from $18 to $26 per month. This will make the cost of banking so great that the allottees will not realize what they ought to from the sale of their pine, and I told the Indians on my last trip to Lac Court Oreilles that, unless they would work in the camps for the same wages as white men, that I should recommend that white labor be used on the reserve.

Mr. Gurnoe's statements regarding the exorbitant charges for supplies made by the contractors are made either through ignorance or willfulness, as the prices charged do not in any case exceed those allowed by Department circular No. 157.

I would also state that Dobie & Stratton do not have any more white men in their employ than allowed by the Department.

Very respectfully,

J. T. GREGORY,
U. S. Indian Agent.

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner Indian Affairs, Washington D. C.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE,
La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis., October 30, 1886.

SIR: While in Washington, in the month of August, 1866, I had a conversation with the acting Commissioner in respect to the Lac du Flambeau band of Indians, and the policy of allotting to them lands under the treaty, as has been done with other bands of the Lake Superior Chippewas, and I understood that such policy would be adopted with the band referred to. In pursuance thereof I held a council with these Indians and approved the selections made by them, and on August 25, 1866, forwarded the list to you.

These Indians assumed that they would be allowed to go upon their allotments and clear them, and they have ever since been awaiting authority to do so.

I have not allowed anything to be done toward cutting the timber and clearing the land, expecting to receive the patents; but up to this time I have not received them. Meantime these Indians have remained upon the reservation in a very destitute condition, expecting to have the opportunity of selling some pine, and, with the proceeds, purchasing supplies and building themselves houses.

The season is now far advanced and I deem it an act of humanity to permit them to proceed with the work, and unless I receive telegraphic orders to the contrary, will assume that I am authorized to do so, and let them arrange for their work next week.

Unless this is done, it will be necessary in my opinion, to issue to them some provisions to keep them from suffering.

Very respectfully,

J. T. GREGORY,
U. S. Indian Agent.

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

[Telegram.]

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, November 4, 1886.

GREGORY, Agent, Ashland, Wis.:

Except as to allotment No. 23, Nannie Stone, allow Lac du Flambeau allottees to go to work and clear their allotments in quantity sufficient for actual necessities, with permission to sell surplus timber. Keep the work well in hand and see that no speculators get in on the reservation. Schedule of allotments will be acted on at once by this office.

A. B. UPSHAW,
Acting Commissioner.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE,
La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis., November 5, 1886.

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of Department telegram of November 5, 1886, as follows:

"Will allow all Lac du Flambeau Indians to go to work, except as to allotment twenty-three (Nannie Stone), and clear their allotments in quantity sufficient for actual necessity, with permission to sell surplus timber. Keep the work well in hand and see that no speculators get in on the reservation. Schedule of allotments will be acted upon at once by this office.

"A. B. UPSHAW,
"Acting Commissioner."

The Lac du Flambeau Indians are very poor and have not even tools, not to mention horses, sleighs, provisions, and the like, involving the outlay of considerable money, to do any clearing. There is only one Indian on the reservation that has a team. It is on the Lac du Flambeau Reservation the same as it was on the other reservation, before the allotments were made; they have nothing with which to help themselves. After these Indians have sold pine for a couple of seasons, they will undoubtedly be in as good condition as any band under my charge. But now they will have to contract with some responsible persons—those who have teams and money—to clear off the timber and cut it into proper lengths and bank it, and then drive it in the spring to where it can be manufactured into lumber. The streams will also have to be improved in order to get the logs to the mills, and these Indians have no money to do it with. There is no other way, and I interpret your message to mean that it may be done in the most economical and best way.

I will therefore permit them to make contracts for the surplus timber cut in making clearings, in the usual form, and subject to the regulations of the Department upon the subject.

Very respectfully,

J. T. GREGORY,
U. S. Indian Agent.

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE,
La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis., January 26, 1887.

SIR: The Indians on the Fond du Lac Reservation who made applications for allotments on date October 8, 1886, want to know if they will be allowed to sell some of their pine this winter. They are anxious to get money to build houses and get the necessary implements for farming, and I would respectfully recommend that they be allowed to do so.

Very respectfully,

J. T. GREGORY,
U. S. Indian Agent.

JOHN D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, March 24, 1887.

SIR: Referring to your letter of the 26th January last, inquiring whether the Fond du Lac Indians who made application for allotment October 8, 1886, will be allowed to sell some of their pine this winter, I have to say that owing to the fact that the provisions of the severalty allotment act, passed at the last session of Congress, conflict with those of numerous existing treaties with the Indians, the Chippewas of Lake Superior among the number, the approval of further allotments to those Indians is held in abeyance, pending the ruling of the Department on the general question.

Until the schedules of allotments are approved by the Department, it is not safe to permit the cutting of timber on the selections.

The decision of the Department is daily expected, and on its receipt the schedules of allotments hitherto unacted on will be taken up and disposed of.

Very respectfully,

J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

J. T. GREGORY, Esq.,
U. S. Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, Wis., July 11, 1887.

SIR: Herewith I have the honor to transmit a statement showing the amount of timber cut during last winter from each tract on the several reservations under my supervision, under contracts made with the Indians. The statement also shows the price paid for the logs by the purchaser from the Indians, the total number of feet cut, and amount received.

The total cut from the several reservations and the amount of money received for the logs is as follows:

Reservation.	Feet.	Value.
Lac Court Oreilles.....	78,069,770	$452,669.75
Fond du Lac.....	17,866,130	89,518.65
Bad River.....	23,202,972	135,753.72
Lac du Flambeau.....	9,627,885	48,472.45

I call attention that during my absence, and contrary to my instructions, lands were cut on last winter on the Lac du Flambeau reserve, for which I did not have authority from you to authorize.

I do not think any evil purpose was intended, but Mr. Sherman and also Mr. Donellan, who bought the timber, were so pressed by the Indians for food and clothing that they could not refuse them. In some cases it was deserving and excusable, but in other cases they acted mistakenly.

The Indians went to work themselves to cut timber and build cabins on their selections, and Sherman and Donellan bought their surplus timber at prices agreed upon between them. Whilst the price is all right and the logs were properly scaled, yet it was unauthorized. I have included this timber in my report, and every log cut from any of the reservations and removed by any person.

This logging business has required to be paid out a large amount of money for labor, and has of course resulted in securing to the Indians improvement in their general conditions. They find themselves better fed, clothed, and housed than ever before.

Some of these Indians save their money and acquire the habit of accumulating property, while others squander it; but unquestionably their general condition is greatly improved.

It is probable, and I hope for that result, that while their lands are being cleared of timber from which they derive so much immediate benefit, they will acquire a habit of industry and desire to accumulate property, so that those who now save nothing for securing future wants will learn that by labor and industry they can always secure a good living and comfortable homes.

It will be a good many years before lumbering operations will cease on these reservations, but the time will come, as it does to all lumbering districts, when they will be much less than now, and there will be a corresponding decrease of the distribution of money amongst them. Not only allottees, but all who will work, share in this distribution, and good times now exist with them. If the history of other lumber districts is repeated on these reservations much of the land will become agricultural, especially for raising hay.

I suppose the policy under which these operations have been carried on will not be abandoned. To abandon it now abruptly would produce extreme discontent amongst them; and while it imposes upon me duties exceedingly perplexing and annoying and subjects me to severe and unjust criticism as well as outrageous falsehood, yet I can not recommend an abandonment of the policy which has now been carried on so many years and resulted in benefits so important to these Indians.

I desire, however, to earnestly urge upon the Department the necessity of giving me immediate instructions in respect to the matter.

Indians have made their selections and expect to dispose of their surplus timber, and constantly press me with applications to be allowed to contract their timber for the coming winter. It is better for them and all concerned to enter into their contracts not later than the 1st of September. It requires a large outlay of money to carry on successfully a logging operation, and those who begin early realize the best results.

I have forwarded a number of applications for allotments, and if those selecting the lands are required to wait until patents are issued their operations will be either prevented or so delayed that they will suffer much loss.

If you intend to let these Indians sell their surplus timber, I recommend that you give me authority to examine and approve contracts in all these cases where applications for allotments have been forwarded to you, and without waiting for the patents to be issued.

Very respectfully,

J. T. GREGORY,
U. S. Indian Agent.

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner, Washington, D. C.

CHIPPEWA FALLS, WIS., October 12, 1887.

No reply to letter 29th ultimo. Is license required to purchase timber on reservation? If so, what character?

THAD. C. POUND.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, October 18, 1887.

SIR: Under the provisions of the treaty with the Chippewa Indians of Lake Superior and the Mississippi, September 30, 1854 (10 Stat. at Large 1109), a large number of Indians have received patents for 80-acre tracts, variously located on the Lac Court d'Oreilles, La Pointe (Bad River), and Red Cliff Reservations, severally attached to the La Pointe Agency, Wisconsin, restricted against sale, lease, or alienation of the lands thereby conveyed without consent of the President.

Most of the lands patented are heavily timbered with pine.

The Indians being desirous of turning the timber to account, authority was, on September 28, 1882, granted by the Department for all such patentees to cut and sell timber from three-fourths of the track patented, leaving the remaining one-fourth of the timber in a compact body, intact, for their future use for fuel, fencing, etc.

The Indians were not permitted to sell stumpage, neither were white crews to be allowed on the reservation to do the work, but the Indians themselves were to cut and sell, delivered on the bank of a driving stream, lake, or at mill, as should be agreed upon with the purchaser. The logs were to be scaled by a competent person approved by the United States Indian agent, and scaling charges were to be paid equally by the parties to the contract. Payment was to be made to the Indian owner from time to time during progress of the work, as should be agreed upon between the contracting parties, final payment to be made before removal of the logs. The Indians were to be at liberty to make their own contracts, subject to the approval of the United States Indian agent and the Commissioner of Indian Affairs. Bonds were required from the purchasers in a sum sufficient to insure the faithful performance of the contracts. (See form of agreement and bond inclosed.)

The system was immediately put into active operation, and has continued with marked success and most gratifying results to the Indians during five successive logging seasons. (See Annual Reports of this office, 1884-1887.) The sixth season is about commencing, and contracts in the form prescribed are being entered into by the Indians.

The sixth section of the general allotment act, approved February 8, 1887 (24 Stat. 388), provides:

"* * * And every Indian born within the territorial limits of the United States, to whom allotments shall have been made under the provisions of this act, or under any law or treaty * * * is hereby declared to be a citizen of the United States, and is entitled to all the rights, privileges, and immunities of such citizens, whether said Indian has been or not, by birth or otherwise, a member of any tribe of Indians within the territorial limits of the United States without in any manner impairing or otherwise affecting the right of any such Indian to tribal or other property."

Under date of the 12th instant, Hon. Thaddeus C. Pound, of Chippewa Falls, Wis., telegraphs the following inquiry to this office:

"Is license required to purchase timber on reservation; if so, what character?"

In other words, as I interpret the telegram to mean, will the Department continue to exercise supervision over the making and completion of these timber contracts by the Indians, as heretofore, notwithstanding their status as defined by the act of Congress above cited?

In my report to the Department of the 14th April last, touching the political status of the Mission Indians in California, I took occasion to refer—at some length—to this very provision, in connection with the Indians of other agencies who had already received allotments, and to express the opinion that so long as Congress saw fit to continue the appropriation for the support of a particular Indian agency, no change should be made in the treatment of the Indians attached thereto, or in the attempted enforcement of the intercourse laws thereat, until a court of competent jurisdiction should decide that the act of Congress providing for the appointment of an agent for the care of such Indians was void, and that the intercourse laws were not applicable to them.

By the Indian appropriation act for the current fiscal year (24 Stat., 449) appropriations are made:

For the pay of an agent at the La Pointe Agency, $2,000.

For the support and civilization of the Chippewas of Lake Superior, to be expended for agricultural and educational purposes, pay of clerk and necessary employes, purchase of goods and provisions, and for such other purposes as may be deemed for the best interests of said Indians, $5,000.

For the pay of Indian police, and support of schools (a general appropriation).

Illustrative of the extent and character of the logging operations at La Pointe Agency, I quote from the annual report of this office for the present year:

"During the season 1886-'87, 294 contracts for the cutting, sale, and delivery of pine timber, under Departmental authority of September 28, 1882, were made by individual patentees of the Lac Court d'Oreilles, La Pointe or Bad River, Lac du Flambeau, and Fond du Lac Reservations, severally attached to the La Pointe Agency.

"Under these contracts, the Indians cut and banked 726,414.57 feet of timber, at prices variously ranging from $4.50 to $6.50 per 1,000 feet, according to quality.

"The net gains to the Indians, after paying all expenses of cutting and banking, was $273,461.42 (over double the amount realized last season), of which sum $102,285.03 was taken out in merchandise and supplies furnished by the contractors, and the balance, $171,176.39, was paid in cash to the individual Indian owners of the timber.

"Of these net gains the Indians received:

Lac Court d'Oreilles	$177,944.95
La Pointe (Bad River)	42,931.76
Fond du Lac	37,355.94
Lac du Flambeau	15,228.77
Total	273,461.42

"The amount disbursed amongst the Indians for labor in cutting and banking was $452,953.15. All who will have an opportunity to work, and as consequence, find themselves better fed, clothed, and housed than ever before.

"A majority of the Indians save their money and accumulate property, whilst some squander it; but the agent states that their general condition is greatly improved, and he anticipates still more beneficial results in the future, from the force of example set by the more provident.

"The work has steadily increased from the commencement. Through it the Indians have learned to labor, where otherwise they probably would have been idle; and the personal acquisition of money and property—the result of their own labor—can not fail to stimulate them to a higher degree of industry."

The success of these operations is wholly due to the supervisory care exercised by the Department through its agent and employes over them.

Some idea of the duties devolved on the agent in connection therewith may be gathered from the following instructions issued by this office to the present agent (Gregory) at the commencement of the last logging season (August 24, 1886):

"Renewing the instructions heretofore given in office letter of October 29, 1885, you are authorized:

"(1) To regulate and fix the price, according to market values of the different grades of pine, below which no contracts shall be approved.

"(2) To regulate the labor question, insisting that the Indians shall remain faithfully at their work during the logging season at proper and reasonable wages.

"(3) To regulate the question of white labor in the camps, using just as little of it as possible, and only where absolutely necessary, as in the case of a foreman or instructor, cooks, and teamsters, holding all such to a strict observance of the intercourse laws and regulations.

"(4) To exercise a general supervision over prices charged by contractors for supplies of all kinds, seeing that the Indians are not imposed upon, under penalty of disallowances, revocation of licenses, and refusal to renew contracts.

"(5) To see that none but reliable parties are permitted to contract, and that contracts are not made for purely speculative purposes.

"(6) To approve such contracts only as are made in good faith, and where the beneficiary manifests an intention of improving his condition, and conforming to the habits of civilized life.

"(7) In case of beneficiaries being old or infirm, or otherwise incapable of taking care of their money, to see that it is deposited in some reliable bank to their credit, subject to the Indians' weekly or monthly draft, approved by yourself or the Government Farmer in limited amounts, for necessary subsistence, or in larger sums to pay for improvements.

"Other suggestions of a minor degree for the better prosecution of the enterprise may, from time to time, present themselves to you; which, within the line of the general instructions given you, you are at liberty to adopt."

In addition to the foregoing, every contract made by an Indian of the La Pointe Agency for the sale of timber from his patented tract has to be examined and approved by the agent before submission to this office.

He is also required to see that none but those having patents or approved allotments enter into contracts; that the tracts for which the timber is to be cut are properly identified in such contracts, and that the Indian is not taken advantage of or defrauded in his bargain.

He is also charged with the duty of inquiring into the sufficiency of the bondsmen; of seeing that all claims for Indian labor arising out of the contracts are properly adjusted; that white contractors who may furnish supplies to the Indians as part payment under their contracts are properly licensed by this office; that all unauthorized persons are kept away from the logging camps, and that the Indian intercourse laws are properly observed.

It will thus be seen that every endeavor has been made to throw all the safeguards possible around the system, and considering the novelty and extent of the operations thereunder, it is astonishing with what little friction they have hitherto been conducted, and how much of real advantage has resulted to the Indians.

To now suddenly withdraw the supervisory care of the Department over these operations, and leave the Indians free to make their own contracts and deal with outside parties as they individually see fit or may be induced to do, without any restraining influence, would, in the judgment of this office, be a retrograde movement, seriously embarrassing the Indian service, and productive of disastrous consequences to the Indians themselves.

Such a course would inevitably result in the Indians being overreached, the reservations peopled with unprincipled characters, the intercourse laws violated, and the authority of the agent set at defiance. In short, it would be subversive of all law and order on the reservations.

The several reservations within the jurisdiction of the La Pointe Agency are "Indian country" within the meaning of the term as interpreted by the courts (United States vs. Leathers, 6 Saw., 171), and to which the Indian intercourse acts apply.

So long as these lands remain in a state of reservation, subject to the intercourse laws, and the Indians (notwithstanding the fact that a large number thereof may have already received patents for their lands in severalty) maintain their tribal organization, they would seem to be proper subjects for the protective care of the Government.

And Congress has manifestly acted on this theory in making the appropriations above mentioned, on account of the La Pointe Agency.

Upon the whole, therefore, I am strongly of opinion that the regulations heretofore made and adopted, with reference to the logging operations upon the reservations within the La Pointe Agency, should prevail, until Congress shall cease to provide for the appointment of an agent thereat, or until a court of competent jurisdiction decides that the act of Congress providing for the appointment of such agent is void.

I, however, submit the question for the opinion of the Department.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. B. UPSHAW,
Acting Commissioner.

The SECRETARY ON THE INTERIOR.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, October 21, 1887.

SIR: I have considered your communication of 18th instant in relation to logging operations on the various reservations under the La Pointe Indian Agency, Wisconsin, under regulations of the Department and provisions of the treaty of 1854, with the Chippewa Indians, and also presenting the inquiry as to whether, under the provisions of the sixth section of the general allotment act of February 8, 1887 (24 Stats., 388), the Department will continue to exercise supervision over the making and completing of these timber contracts by the Indians, as heretofore, notwithstanding their status as defined thereunder.

In the consideration of this question you refer to the benefits to the Indians which have resulted from their timber cutting for the past few years, under regulations established in accordance with the instructions of the Department, the example to the other Indians, and the necessity for some safeguards to be used in protecting their interests in the future, to prevent their being defrauded in the disposal of their timber.

The views expressed by you as to the propriety of continued supervision over the logging operations on lands allotted to Indians have the concurrence of this Department, not only for the reasons set forth in your letter, but also to protect and preserve from waste the property for which the United States is, by the allotment law and the patent issued thereunder to the Indian, made trustee for a term of years.

The inclosures of your letter are herewith returned.

Very respectfully,

H. L. MULBROW,
Acting Secretary.

The COMMISSIONER OF INDIAN AFFAIRS.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, October 27, 1887.

SIR: Replying to your telegram of the 12th instant, inquiring, "Is license required to purchase timber on reservation; if so, what character?" I have to inform you that by direction of the Department all existing regulations touching the making and approval of contracts, the issuance of special licenses, and in all other respects relating to the logging operations on the reservations attached to the La Pointe Agency, will continue as heretofore.

Very respectfully,

A. B. UPSHAW,
Acting Commissioner.

Hon. THADDEUS C. POUND,
Chippewa Falls, Wis.

T. C. Pound in reply to a telegram from him on the subject.

Very respectfully,

A. B. UPSHAW,

GROUP No. 2.

Copies of complaints made by the Chippewa Indians of the La Pointe Agency, Wisconsin, up to the time of their visit to Washington, in February, 1888, with the reports of the special agents sent to investigate them.

The PRESIDENT:

Near the headwaters of the Chippewa River, in Sawyer County, Wis., is a band of Indians located on what is called the Court Oreilles (Coot-eray) Reservation. This tract is covered principally with pine, and is mainly valuable for lumbering purposes.

Four years ago the Government adopted the plan of making allotments of 80 acres to each one of these Indians, minors excepted, upon condition that they should not sell the land, and should cut and haul the logs themselves without white labor. These Indians had no means, nothing to work with, his whole outfit consisting of only a gun, a squaw, and a yellow dog. To remedy this and to enable them to procure supplies, a company was allowed to locate on the reservation as "post-traders."

Thad Thayer had held a permit to trade with the Indians for many years, but his trade was chiefly in furs and peltries. As soon as log-cutting commenced Thayer took in a partner with a cash capital of $300, a plain, unpretentious Scotchman, who had done considerable of cruising in the woods, by the name of Dobie. Thayer was an open, free-hearted, devil-may-care sort of fellow, who lived with a squaw, and after one winter's operations Dobie "froze" him out.

About this time Dobie sends for a younger brother who was at school in Canada, to come on and help. The two brothers having a brother-in-law by the name of Stratton, the three now joined together under the firm name of Dobie & Stratton.

When the elder brother (Dobie) went in with Thayer they had only a small store on the north part of the reservation at Pah-quah-wong, but on the organization of the new company the store was increased in size and a large hotel built. In the following year they built a large store, hotel, and blacksmith-shop at an Indian village some fifteen miles from Pah-quah-wong, and since then have run business at both places.

The $300 that Dobie at first invested was a "plant" that produced well, as the company were now branching out heavily. The Indians were permitted to contract to cut and deliver logs on the ice for $5 to $6.50 per 1,000 feet board measure. The most of these contracts were made with Dobie & Stratton, and supplies furnished at an average of 100 per cent. above cost. One million feet therefore at $5 per 1,000 ($5,000) would really cost the post-traders only $2,500. If these logs were then sold to a mill company at $7.50, which was about the price for good logs, there was a clear profit on this transaction of $5,000. Allowing Dobie & Stratton to get 20,000,000 feet per year, and we have a net return of $100,000 profit—a sum quite sufficient to make a satisfactory dividend considering the amount invested.

The standard price for this class of pine timber is about $3 per 1,000 feet "stumpage," just as it stands in the tree. A million feet would thus be worth $3,000, if the owner was allowed to make sale of it in that way, but this privilege is denied him. He must cut it first; but for a want of knowledge and skill it is almost impossible for him to carry on the business successfully.

The best white men we have, with all the necessary appliances and the practical experience of many years, very often fail of remunerative profits in the logging business; how then can it be expected that a wild Indian would succeed, born with a disposition to abhor labor, and who has been accustomed all his life to follow the chase? Under the regulations that have been established, an Indian purchases his "logging kit," hires his "crew," and commences operations. "On clear, bright, sunny days he drops his tools and pays a visit to his friends, and when the weather is rough and wild he lays up; but the notch is cut in the stick at the close of each succeeding day, giving most unmistakable evidence that he has put in full time." (The above in quotation marks I copy from what I wrote last winter.)

When springtime comes and he finds himself in debt he naturally concludes that there is something wrong. He has not only lost his timber, but his winter's work. This was the situation when I was called upon by some of the most intelligent of these Indians, in the early part of October one year ago, to visit the reservation and render them such assistance as was in my power. (I had employed many of these Chippewas years ago to build a road—Indians who never had worked a day before in their lives—giving them good pay and making them satisfied, and at the same time securing their confidence. This, I suppose, is the reason why they called on me, as above stated.) I remained on the reservation all winter, with the exception of about ten days, when I came home to vote, walking over 100 miles rather than lose that privilege. Complaints made to Agent Durfee at Ashland, Wis., would receive no notice, and a half-dozen letters directed by different parties to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs had not been answered. No one could be reached who would square around and pay attention. I therefore wrote to the honorable Secretary of the Interior, inclosing it to Hon. Isaac Stephenson, M. C. from Ninth district, Wisconsin. This letter was probably referred in the usual way to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and then the storm burst.

I had stated that, in my opinion, the Government inspector of logs was not reliable, and that it had been charged, with some show of reason, that he was in the practice of keeping two sets of scale books.

This portion of my letter was copied by the Hon. William T. Price, M. C. from Eighth Wisconsin district, and sent back to the inspector or log scaler. On receiving it he worked himself into a state of demoniac rage, threatened to blot me from existence, and used more profane and abusive language than I had ever before heard from any one in the same space of time. This storm had nearly reached the force of a cyclone, for the Government farmer, an ignorant and irresponsible Canadian Frenchman, now came forward to assist the scaler, and insultingly ordered me to pack up at once and leave the reservation or he would eject me by force. The unwarranted conduct of the scaler and farmer led me to suspect that my suspicions were well founded, and I determined to remain and continue my investigations. They were evidently playing a desperate game for a big stake, and to make the thing run smoothly it was necessary to get me out of the way.

Henceforward while I remained there were hoots and yells, and blasphemous oburgations and maledictions, coupled with scoffs and jeers and threats of violence from the boorish henchmen of this Scotch company. A part of this incivility and abuse, however, came from some men employed by an Irishman called "Black Dan," who is the alleged owner of section 16—a school section—and although surrounded by the reservation, is not a part of it. Dan keeps store and makes contracts with Indians for logs, the Government requiring him to give bonds to pay for them before removal. There is money enough in the timber still standing on the reservation—about 400,000,000 feet—to make the Indians all comfortable and still leave a fair profit for those who deal with them. What I objected to was the building up of a corporation of vast wealth on the one side and leaving these wards of the nation, not only penniless but paupers, on the other.

In one of my letters last winter I used these words: "Of all the different forms of vice that go to make up the catalogue of crime, that of stealing from the Indians, it seems to me, should be held and regarded as blacker than all the rest. Once the owners of a continent, they are now piteously pleading for barely enough ground in which to bury their dead."

In March last, after the change in the administration had taken place, I was requested by an ex-member of Congress, then in Washington, and also by a railroad official of Milwaukee, Wis., both of whom had known of my having passed the winter on the reservation, to forward "facts and figures," if I had them, that would show crookedness on the part of Agent Durfee and give just cause for removal. The "facts and figures" were soon forthcoming, not long after which Durfee retired and a Mr. Gregory was selected to fill the place. I was highly gratified when the new man came in, as I was satisfied the previous most corrupt management would all be changed and the Indians be able to get a fair deal.

I even wrote Mr. Gregory, proffering my services as "farmer," but to this day no answer has come. A few days ago a friend of mine—I have promised to withhold his name—an honorable and high-minded man, the mayor of a city and editor of a strong party journal, entirely at his own option, and without any solicitation on my part, visited Ashland purposely to see Mr. Gregory, ascertain his policy and plans, and suggest my name for some position under him.

The gentleman has returned from his self-imposed mission "a sadder and" perhaps "wiser man." I have not been able as yet to get any explanation as to the result of his interview, but he seems to be mad clear through. As near as I can get at it he was received and treated with supercilious contempt.

Under this new Agent Gregory Dobie & Stratton have received an extension of their lease, and my friend was informed that Stephens, the log-scaler, and Paro, the inefficient and unscrupulously corrupt Frenchman, were both to be retained.

The old and corrupt "ring," with "all that the name implies," are to be continued and the Indians virtually robbed and reduced, as a portion of them were last winter, to the necessity of subsisting upon the flesh of horses that had died of disease.

I have already alluded to Dobie & Stratton and the way they got in here, but I know but little of their antecedents.

Personally they are gentlemen, and "the mildest mannered men that ever scuttled ship or cut a throat." They have quite a number of clerks and assistants imported from Canada, and I very much doubt if there is one among the number entitled to vote. Their head clerk, Miller, is a captain in the Canadian militia, and holds the "blarsted" Yankees in supreme contempt.

I can not see what right this Canadian company have to these valuable concessions and privileges; neither can I discover the motive that prompts the agent to retain the farmer and scaler, when it is known that they are not fitted for the positions they hold but not fill, and notwithstanding the strong pressure that has been used by the Indians to have them removed. These poor, uncultured red men have a constant burden of complaint, bordering on grief. From one end of the reservation to the other one will hear this refrain: "The farmer, he no work 'em for Indian; he work 'em for white man all the time."

As their friend, and acting to a certain extent, although in an unofficial capacity, as their representative last winter, I tried to reason, explain, remonstrate, and protect; but these fellows were strongly entrenched, and my feeble efforts in behalf of these Indians were laughed to scorn.

I tried to get the rule changed, so that two or three white men could be allowed in each Indian camp to keep their tools in order, learn them how to cook and how to care for and manage oxen, etc. This was peremptorily denied or refused.

Dobie & Stratton didn't want it, and so the agent, Mr. Durfee, didn't want it, and so the Commissioner of Indian Affairs at Washington didn't want it. It was to all intents and purposes a "close corporation."

Each one helped the other and all helped themselves unblushingly and without shame to the property of the Indians.

The true ground of opposition to white labor was this. A white man earning a hundred dollars would carry it all away with him in the spring, while the same amount given to an Indian would probably be spent at the store inside of thirty days.

Next I tried for a savings bank, in which those who had the luck to come out ahead would have a secure place to deposit their earnings. I explained that a plain log structure would answer, and that it might be placed in charge of the Catholic priest, and kept open a few hours on Saturday of each week. All sorts of objections were raised to this, Dobie & Stratton, as usual, kicking stronger than anybody else. They claimed that they had a big safe in the store where the money of the Indians might be kept as well as in a bank. The Indians had tried this the year before.

One of them placed in the store safe $800; then they (Dobie & Stratton) set to work trying to please his fancy and coaxing him to buy goods, so that in a little while their bill was equal to the amount of deposit, and the Indian never took out one single dollar of the money he had put in; it all went for goods, and the most of it for such classes and kinds of goods that he did not want.

Among my other efforts in behalf of these Indians I made application for fish to stock the lakes, and if the Commissioner of Indian Affairs had had control of the Fish Department I never would have got a single sucker.

I wrote Secretary Teller last winter that if I could not secure some sort of modification of the then existing condition of things on the reservation in a legitimate way through the proper action of the officers having control of such matters, I would take the next course left to me—appeal to the people through the press, and I feel just that way now.

This letter was intended for the officers of the Veterans' Rights Union, having their headquarters, I believe, in Brooklyn, N. Y. I have given the subject deliberate thought, however, and decided to send it direct to you. I am a soldier and served three years and upwards in the late war. I do not claim any special credit for this; it was a duty that I owed my country, and I performed that duty to the best of my ability. Have always been allied with Democratic party and was a voter in 1844, when the "great commoner" was defeated by James K. Polk. Am not an "offensive partisan" in any sense of the word, and never have held office in my life.

Have always kept a "back seat" and was satisfied if I could "boost" others with my pen. Financially, I am in a crisis, and since I thought, perhaps erroneously, that I had made it possible for Gregory to get his place, I appealed to him, not for money, but a situation where I might be useful.

With regard to the present or future status of these Indians I have no Utopian theories to advance. I simply want justice, and this, under Dobie & Stratton, aided and abetted by Stephens and Paro, I am satisfied can not be had.

The above remarks are respectfully submitted for your consideration and decision, in the firm and confident belief that justice will ultimately be done "though the heavens fall."

Very respectfully,

B. CORNELL.

CHIPPEWA FALLS, WIS., October 26, 1885.

NOTE.—About eight years ago it was decided to grant 80-acre allotments of land to the Court Oreilles band of Chippewa Indians. The Lake Superior agent, Dr. Mahan, and the special Government agent sent from Washington, in connection with a representative of the lumber firm of Knapp, Stout & Co., Menomonie, Wis., the largest lumber manufacturers in the United States, visited the reservation, taking with them a large number of Indians who had been occasionally employed by the above-named firm in log driving, rafting, etc., on the Red Cedar River, and who were entirely under their control.

These Indians' names, with the description of the allotment each intended to secure, were forwarded to Washington.

Not another Indian except those I have referred to had any knowledge of what was going on, and which was naturally of deep interest to them all, but it soon leaked out, and then I was requested by the Indians on the Chippewa River to proceed at once to the reservation, find out all I could about the transaction, and report. When I reached their reservation I could find neither map, chart, plat, diagram, books, papers, documents, nor instruments of writing of any kind. All records of whatsoever kind had been removed. It was a sharp trick to give the Red Cedar Indians the pick of the land, and keeping all information as far as possible away from others. I wrote a protest against the whole proceeding to Hon. Carl Schurz, the Secretary of the Interior, and the matter was not heard of again during that administration.

This business, however, was revived soon after Garfield succeeded Hayes.

EXECUTIVE MANSION.

The within communication is respectfully referred to the Secretary of the Interior. By direction of the President:

DANIEL S. LAMONT,
Private Secretary.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, November 10, 1885.

Respectfully referred to the Commissioner Indian Affairs for investigation and report on the matters herein alleged against the management of affairs on the Lac Court Oreilles reservation.

H. L. MULDEW, First Assistant Secretary.

CHIPPEWA FALLS, WIS., November 9, 1885.

The PRESIDENT:

Having already called your attention to the condition of affairs on the Court Oreilles Indian Reservation, I desire to give the following additional statement:

For over twenty years past the Lake Superior Agency for the Chippewa Indians has been located at or near Ashland, Wis. Dr. Mahan, who held the position many years, lives at Ashland. Mr. Durfee, who succeeded Mahan, also resides there, and the present agent, Gregory, has his domicile at the same place.

They have been doubtless connected in social, business, and family ties; attend the same church, belong to the same club, etc. This may account for the fact that a change in the head of the agency, and the retention of all minor officers, is followed by exactly the same routine in its business management as existed before.

When the timber on the reservation is exhausted, there is nothing left, the soil not being adapted to cultivation, except to a very limited extent. What timber there is should, therefore, be saved for their future benefit and support. Dobie & Stratton expect to get from the Indians the coming winter 20,000,000 feet of pine, and Dan McDonald (called "Black Dan") 7,000,000 more. Other parties will probably purchase enough to run the amount to 30,000,000. This is worth $90,000 just as it stands; but let the present management go on, and when spring time comes, after having given all their labor, there will be less than $10,000 left for those who own the timber.

The Northwestern Lumberman published a statement the other day that in a few years the pine on the reservation would become exhausted, and then the Indians would be compelled to resume their original diet of game and fish.

In view of the above, I would suggest that the Court Oreilles Reservation be detached from the Lake Superior Indian agency and a resident agent be appointed and required to devote his time exclusively to the interests of the Government and of the Indians. If it was thought proper to make this change the Government log-scaler and farmer could both be dispensed with, and the agent take the whole responsibility and management, perhaps requiring only the assistance of a clerk at a moderate salary.

The following copy of a letter to a friend (name suppressed) was handed to the present agent, Mr. Gregory, at Ashland, soon after it was written:

"CHIPPEWA FALLS, WIS., October 12, 1885.

Hon. _____.

"DEAR SIR: I have heard it was your intention to visit Ashland some time during the present month. If you do go, I wish you would say to Mr. Gregory, the agent of the Chippewa Indians of Lake Superior, that I do not think there is any necessity for appointing an inspector to scale the logs on the Court Oreilles Reservation. The farmer should be both competent and willing to look after that himself. The position of head scaler is virtually a sinecure. The price charged for scaling, under present regulations, is 9 cents per thousand. This he sublets at 4½ cents, puts the other 4½ cents in his pocket, and does nothing.

"I am in favor of reducing this charge from 9 cents to 5 and let the farmer have the supervision of it. In the winter of 1883-'84, the amount of logs cut on the reservation, was about 33,000,000. A reduction from 9 cents to 5 would have saved over $1,300, and estimating the amount of timber still uncut at 400,000,000 would make an aggregate reduction on present charges of $16,000—a sum that might just as well be saved and devoted to school or other purposes.

“Many of these Indians were employed by me during the entire summer of 1867, when I was building the Flambeau Road; Indians that perhaps had never before done a day’s work. Of course under the circumstances I felt a deep interest in them, and at the request of several of their leading members I visited the reservation in October of last year, and remained until nearly the close of March following; only being absent long enough to return to Chippewa County and cast my vote.

“My object was to investigate the system of management on the reservation, and, so far as possible, protect the Indians in their rights. This six months service I gave without charge. There is another thing to which I would like to call the attention of Mr. Gregory. On two occasions last winter, and I believe the practice has been continued since, about twenty-five Indians and half-breeds were taken to Madison, Wis., ostensibly to testify against persons charged with selling liquor to the Indians, and on reaching there only two or three of the number were put upon the stand. The remaining portion were carried there and back at the expense of the Government, and without any definite object except to profit the railroads and put money in the pockets of Government officers. In plain terms, this practice is not much better than a direct swindle. If they must have witnesses let them take those only who can testify as to the facts in the case and leave the rest at home.

“Very respectfully,

“B. CORNELL.”

After carefully perusing the above letter, the only response that was elicited was this, “Your friend is altogether too honest;” that is to say, if those other fellows, Dobbie & Stratton and Agent Durfee, have acquired wealth in picking up and enjoying the benefit of the golden eggs, why should we kill the goose that laid them?

The contracting for these Indian logs, I presume, is now going on rapidly on the reservation on the old terms and at the old scale of prices.

With reference to these contracts and prices, in one of my communications last winter I made the statement that “whoever sanctioned or countenanced a proceeding whereby $8 logs could be contracted for $5 and paid for at $3, should not hold his position another day,” and I believe that almost any sensible person having the interests of the Indians at heart would unhesitatingly arrive at the same conclusion.

There are, I believe, eight or nine reservations in the Lake Superior Indian Agency under the direct charge and control of Agent Gregory. These reservations are visited twice each year by the agent. At least that has been the usual custom, and only two or three days spent at each visit. All the business transactions, therefore, are carried on by the farmer. He draws all the contracts for logs, and in one case that I knew of last winter he made a strenuous and prolonged effort to have the price fixed at $5 per 1,000 for first-class logs when another party was getting $5.50 for logs of a much inferior grade. In the case to which I refer, where the contract was drawn for $5, the timber belonged to a very aged Indian woman who had been blind for many years. After pleading a long time for a higher price, the poor old woman at last cried out to the farmer, “Well, have it your own way, have it your own way; but, mind you, you shall not cut over 250,000; when you have that amount, stop.”

The contract was then executed in due form, and she was told “everything is all right; it shall be just as you wish.” Towards spring the old lady was surprised to learn that they had already put in 800,000, and were still cutting. At this crisis I was sent for, but I told her I was powerless to render her any service. All I could do was to write to Washington and let them know what was going on; which I did. When the farmer (Paro, the Frenchman) drew the contract, after the words 250,000 he inserted, without her knowledge or consent, more or less. They were getting the logs about $2 per 1,000 less than their actual value, and hence were making an effort to cut them all the first winter and under that contract, as under a change of officers they were not sure of being able to make such favorable terms.

The above is a sample of the way business has been managed on the reservation and is still being managed there. I have protested, but protests under the old régime were of no account. I shall still continue my efforts in the same direction “until,” as I wrote to the honorable Secretary of the Interior, “honesty and fair dealing upon the reservation shall take the place of roguery and intrigue.”

Very respectfully,

B. CORNELL.

NOTE.—Alex. McLaren, of Chippewa Falls, Wis., one of the most prominent lumbermen on the Chippewa waters, a man of probity, and who has made a fortune in fair and honorable dealing, while at Hayward, Sawyer County, last winter, inquired the name of the person who had charge of the scaling of logs on the reservation, and when told it was Stephens instantly replied: "Then may Heaven help the poor Indians; he will steal them blind." And yet this is the man who is selected to fill the same place the coming winter.

EXECUTIVE MANSION.

The within communication is respectfully referred to the Secretary of the Interior.
By direction of the President:

DANIEL S. LAMONT,
Private Secretary.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, November 13, 1885.

Respectfully referred to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs for investigation and report.

H. L. MULDROW,
First Assistant Secretary.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, November 23, 1885.

SIR: Upon completion of your official duties at the Green Bay Agency, you will proceed to La Pointe Agency, at Ashland, Wis., there to investigate certain charges of maladministration of affairs with reference to the conduct of logging operations by the Indians of the Lac Court d'Oreilles reserve, as preferred in the accompanying letters of one B. Cornell, of Chippewa Falls, Wis., to the President, dated the 26th ultimo and 9th instant, and marked "A" and "B," respectively.

In order that you may be somewhat familiarized with the previous history of the matter in connection with which these charges are made, the following statement of facts, as disclosed by the records and files of this office, is furnished for your information:

The Lac Court d'Oreilles Reservation is one of several set apart for the Chippewa Indians of Lake Superior by the treaty made between the United States and the Chippewas of Lake Superior and the Mississippi, September 30, 1854 (10 Statutes at Large, page 1109), the others being the La Pointe or Bad River, Red Cliff, and Lac de Flambeau reserves, also in Wisconsin, and the Fond du Lac and Grand Portage reserves, in Minnesota. All of these reservations are within the jurisdiction of the La Pointe Agency, now and since the 19th May last under the charge of Agent Gregory, who succeeded W. R. Durfee, theretofore agent for the preceding four years.

Under the provisions of this treaty over 500 Indians have received patents for 80-acre tracts, variously located on the Lac Court d'Oreilles, La Pointe or Bad River, and Red Cliff Reservations, restricted against sale, lease, or alienation of the lands without consent of the President of the United States. The majority of these patents have been issued in respect of the Lac Court d'Oreilles reserve. Most of the lands patented are heavily timbered with pine.

The Indians being desirous of turning the timber to account, and parties being desirous of purchasing, authority was, on the 28th September, 1882, granted by the Department for such of the Indians as had received patents for their lands to cut and sell the timber from three-fourths of the tract patented, leaving the remaining one-fourth of the timber in compact body intact for future use for fuel, fencing, etc.

The Indians were not permitted to sell stumpage, neither were white crews to be allowed on the reservations to do the work, but the Indians themselves were to cut and sell, delivered on the bank of a driving stream, lake, or at mill, as should be agreed upon with the purchaser. The logs were to be scaled by a competent person, approved by the United States Indian agent, and scaling charges were to be paid equally between and by the parties to the contract. Payment was to be made to the Indian owner from time to time during the progress of the work, as should be agreed upon between the contracting parties, final payment to be made before removal of the logs. The Indians were to be at liberty to make their own contracts, subject to the approval of the United States Indian agent and the Commissioner of Indian Affairs. Bonds were to be required from the purchasers in a sum sufficient to insure the faithful performance of the contracts.

At the outset the Indians had no means, and little, if any, practical knowledge of the business. In order to carry into effect the instructions of the Department, it became necessary that they should be furnished with camp outfits, teams, sleds, tools, and provisions during the season. The means for this purpose were not forthcoming from the Government.

Proposals were invited from outside parties by Agent Durfee (see copy Circular "A," and during the season of 1882-'83 forty-two contracts, prepared in accordance with form approved by the Department November 1, 1882 (Form "B"), were made by individual Indians holding patents for lands on the Lac Court d'Oreilles, La Pointe (Bad River), and Red Cliff reserves, variously calling for from 30,000 to 900,000 feet of pine, at prices ranging from $5 to $6.50 per 1,000 feet. These, with accompanying bonds (Form "E"), were submitted by the agent with his approval thereon indorsed, and, being first duly verified from the tract books, were approved by this office. The contracts made during this, the first season, were with the following parties, the number of contracts held by each being set opposite their respective names:

Donald McDonald (Lac Court d'Oreilles)	5
Dobie, Stratton & Thayer (Lac Court d'Oreilles)	13
John Morning (Lac Court d'Oreilles)	1
Edw. Ellis (Bad River)	1
Haskins & Denomie (Bad River)	5
Moore & Hart (Bad River)	2
Union Mill Company (Bad River)	4
Ashland Lumber Company (Bad River)	4
John Smart (Bad River)	1
C. L. Harring & Co (Bad River)	1
Fred. Fischer (Red Cliff)	4
Frank Boutin (Red Cliff)	1
	42

The result of these operations appears to have been in the main satisfactory, the Indians for the most part coming out considerably ahead of their contracts, many of them at the close of the season being in possession of cattle, horses, sleds, household goods, implements, and in some instances considerable cash balances, independent of supplies furnished by the contractors.

During the season of 1883-'84 the operations were on a more extended scale, eighty-eight contracts, double the number in the previous season, having been entered into and approved, independently of some cases where, notwithstanding the vigilance of the agent, logs had been prepared for market by the Indians without the formality of a contract. The returns on file in this office show that during that season over 48,000,000 feet of timber were cut and banked ready for delivery by the Indians, representing a money value of over $250,000. The result of these operations, showing the net amount cleared by the Indian owners of the logs, were summarized as follows:

Lac Court d'Oreilles reserve—1883-'84.

Cash balances paid Indians, after deducting supplies furnished by contractors	$32,466.40
Oxen on hand, value	2,585.00
Horses on hand, value	2,950.00
Camp outfits, value	4,640.00
	42,641.40
Leaving (as the net result of the contracts made by 46 Indians on this reserve)	42,641.40

Red Cliff reserve—1883-'84.

Cash balances paid to Indians, after deducting supplies	$1,190.13
Horses, wagons, etc., on hand	918.00
One house and lot	1,000.00
One house and lot (value not given)
	3,108.13
Leaving as the net result of contracts made by 5 Indians	3,108.13

La Pointe (Bad River) reserve—1883-'84.

Cash balances paid by contractors to Indians, after deducting supplies (net results of contracts made by 25 Indians)	$18,448.52
--	-------------

These figures, as will be observed, were independent of supplies in the shape of provisions with which the Indians were furnished and charged by the contractors during the progress of the work, and whilst they represent the net gains of the Indians making the contracts alone, it appeared as a matter of fact that all of the available male adult population of the reserves were engaged in the work and derived their principal means of support therefrom.

The contracts for 1883-'84 were distributed amongst the following-named parties :

Dobie & Stratton (Lac Court d'Oreilles).....	28
D. McDonald (Lac Court d'Oreilles).....	6
North Wisconsin Lumber Company (Lac Court d'Oreilles).....	12
Pioneer Lumber Company (Lac Court d'Oreilles).....	4
N. Boutin (Bad River).....	4
N. B. Palmer (Bad River).....	6
B. G. Armstrong (Bad River).....	5
Moore & Hart (Bad River).....	4
Ashland Lumber Company (Bad River).....	4
Haskins & Denomie (Bad River).....	11
Fred Fischer (Red Cliff).....	4
Total.....	88

The average price for the logs was from $6 to $6.50 per thousand feet.

In his report of June 27, 1884, transmitting the statistics for the season 1883-'84, Agent Durfee remarked that the logging operations had so far been generally satisfactory to him, and, as he believed, profitable to the Indians, both pecuniarily and as a matter of education, and that although he considered—agreeing with the original recommendation made to the Department by this office—that to sell the “stumpage” directly to buyers, with authority to put in the pine with white crews, would realize more money for the individual Indian owners, he still deemed the existing method, with some modifications, the best. And his argument was this: That by selling the stumpage the Indian owners would get their money without labor, the remainder of the Indians would be left idle, in a short time the timber would be cut off, and the Indians, not having acquired the habit of labor and naturally improvident with money easily acquired, would be poorer and more dependent than ever.

Owing to the want of knowledge of logging operations, caring for and handling teams, etc., by the Indians, Agent Durfee had, at an early stage of the proceedings, been authorized by this office to allow the employment of white foremen, cooks, and teamsters to a limited extent in the lumber camps. He was then of the opinion that the Indians had by that time acquired sufficient experience to dispense with this extraneous help and recommended that thereafter white labor of every kind be dispensed with, except allowing a white contractor to employ a man at his own expense to see that the work was properly done according to contract.

In May, 1884, Inspector Gardner visited the La Pointe Agency, and in his report to the Department, dated the 6th of that month, urgently recommended that Agent Durfee be ordered to report in person to the Department for an interchange of views regarding the most satisfactory manner of disposing of the timber on allotted lands, the present mode, in his (the inspector's) opinion, being “liable to fraud, misunderstandings, annoyances, and confusion, and in a good many instances no material benefit is derived by the Indians from the present mode of disposing of their timber.” After commenting on the disadvantages of the system authorized, and the fact that many of the Indians had evaded the regulations by selling stumpage, he said:

“I apprehend it was not the intention of the Department to permit this wholesale lumbering, but that it is the desire that each individual Indian allottee should do some work towards clearing up his land on his 80-acre allotment. If such was the intention the Indian has failed so far to do so. I am at a loss to recommend what would be for the better for the future cutting of the timber on these reserves, only this: I would respectfully recommend the discontinuance of the present mode, and perhaps in the interview solicited for Agent Durfee a different and better mode may be arrived at than at present.”

Upon recommendation of this office, Agent Durfee was, on the 12th July, 1884, authorized by the Department to come to Washington for a personal conference on the general subject involved in Inspector Gardner's report. Shortly thereafter he presented himself at the Department, and after considerable delay (occasioned by the honorable Secretary's absence from the city) succeeded in obtaining an interview with the honorable Secretary (Mr. Teller), the result of which, as informally communicated by Mr. Durfee to this office, was that he was to return to his agency and conduct the logging operations as theretofore, with such modifications as to the discontinuance of white labor as he had previously suggested. In all other respects the existing system was to be continued.

During the season of 1884-'85 seventy-six contracts of individual Indians, principally belonging to the Lac Court d'Oreilles reserve, were transmitted by Agent Durfee and approved by this office. Of these contracts—

Dobie & Stratton held.....	50
Donald McDonald held.....	20
John B. Denomie (Bad River).....	5
J. A. Buffalo (Red Cliff).....	1
	76

The average price for the logs for this season was $5.50 per thousand.

The net profits to the Indians, according to the report transmitted by Agent Gregory to this office on the 14th October last, were as follows:

Lac Court d'Oreilles.

Cash balance paid Indians by contractors after deducting price of supplies furnished.....	$39,269.43
Oxen on hand, value.....	1,920.00
Horses on hand, value.....	1,980.00
Camp outfits, value.....	1,786.65
Total.....	44,956.08

Bad River.

Cash balance paid to Indians on five contracts.....	$1,786.88
---	------------

Fond du Lac.

Cash balances paid to Indians on four contracts, with Renwick, Shaw & Crossit Lumber Company, which were never submitted to this office....	$2,180.00
---	------------

We now come to the charges preferred by Mr. Cornell, which although somewhat diffuse in statement, appear capable of being narrowed down into one, namely, the existence of a fraudulent and corrupt ring, formed with the express purpose of plundering the Indian, first by procuring contracts from him at figures less than the true value of the timber, and then by furnishing supplies at an average of 100 per cent. above cost. In this scheme he implicates the late agent (Mr. Durfee), the traders (Dobie & Stratton), the Government farmer on the Lac Court d'Oreilles reserve (Pero), and the scaler (Stephens).

He charges that under the new agent's (Gregory) administration the "old and corrupt ring" is to be continued; the same subordinates retained; the same routine to be followed, and "the Indians virtually robbed and reduced to subsisting on diseased horse flesh," a state of things which he alleges existed on the reservation last winter, but of which this office has no information.

It is to determine the truth or falsity of these sweeping allegations, of which, you will observe, no proof is given or tendered, that you are directed to make this investigation, an investigation which this office, having regard to the hitherto unimpeached character of the persons implicated, desires shall be conducted on fair and impartial principles, but at the same time shall be searching in its methods, in order that the truth may be elicited.

Personally Mr. Cornell is unknown to this office, but an examination of the records and files shows that on the 15th December, 1884, Hon. Isaac Stephenson, member of Congress, Ninth district of Wisconsin, referred to the Department a letter from Mr. Cornell deprecating the present system of logging on the Lac Court d'Oreilles Reservation and urging the introduction of white labor thereon and the establishment of a savings bank under charge of the resident Catholic priest, as an inducement to the Indians to save a part of their earnings. On the 21st January last the letter in question was returned to the Department, with a report thereon from this office, a copy of which was (January 22) transmitted by the Department to Mr. Stephenson.

It also appears that on the 8th of May last, Mr. Cornell wrote to this office (see inclosure "F") calling attention to a timber trespass committed during the winter of 1883-'84, on the lands of one Git-chi-i-kwe, a Chippewa woman of the Lac Court d'Oreilles band, by Joe Trepania and Louis Cloutier, which was duly referred to Agent Durfee for investigation. In this last-mentioned letter you will observe that Mr. Cornell fails to make any mention of the abuses which he now charges to have existed since the very incipency of the logging operations.

I would nevertheless suggest that you notify Mr. Cornell at Chippewa Falls of your presence at the agency to make the investigation, invite his attendance, and afford him every reasonable opportunity for substantiating the charges he makes.

Duplicates of all contracts made by the Indians and approved during the three seasons of 1882-3, 1883-4, and 1884-'85 should be found on the agency files. The bonds accompanying them, being bonds to the United States for the use and benefit of the particular Indian making the contract, are retained after approval on the files of this office.

Your attention will be principally directed to an examination of the contracts made with the traders; Dodie & Stratton, and incidentally to those made with other parties—the means used in procuring such contracts—the prices agreed upon for the timber, with reference to the market value thereof at the dates of the contracts, the prices charged for camp outfits, teams, sleds, provisions, and supplies of all kinds furnished by the contractors to the Indians, whether fair and reasonable, or excessive; comparing them as far as practicable with the list of prices approved by the agent, which every Indian trader is required by the regulations of the Indian Office to keep posted conspicuously in his trading store.

You will examine such of the Indians who have made contracts at any time during the three seasons, as you may deem necessary, as to their dealings with the traders or other persons with whom they may have contracted, and the manner in which they have been treated; and carefully note any cause of complaint which appears to be well founded, and is worthy of notice. You will also endeavor to ascertain, as far as it is possible to do so, what disposition has generally been made by the Indians of the cash balances paid to them individually, especially during the last season, as a guide to forming some general idea of the beneficial results of the system to the Indians. Every facility should be afforded the parties charged for necessary explanation. Mr. Durfee, the agent, resides at Ashland, and his attendance can readily be had. The traders are at or near the Lac Court d'Oreilles reserves, and their books should be at your command. Mr. Gregory, the present agent, is at the agency at Ashland, and the farmer and the scaler are at the reservation. It is due to the late agent, the traders, and the present agent, to say that they have all been highly commended in previous inspection reports to the Department, and only as late as the 26th of September last Inspector Gardner recommended that the traders should be relicensed, adding, however, at the same time, that the Indians of the Lac Court d'Oreilles reserve had asked to have an additional trader appointed for them, which would perhaps indicate that competition is desirable.

Whilst the charges made by Mr. Cornell relate almost exclusively to the Lac Court d'Oreilles reserve, it will probably be necessary to extend your investigations to the La Pointe (or Bad River) and the Red Cliff reserves, on both of which you will observe the same system has been pursued in a limited degree. Both of these reservations are within easy distance of Ashland, and you are authorized to visit them should you deem it expedient to do so.

As the logging season is about recommencing, it is desirable that the investigation should be had as promptly as possible, in order that matters should be put on a proper basis, if it is found that improvements can be made, or the present system discontinued, if abuses, such as are charged, are found to exist.

A copy (marked "G") of the latest general instructions to Agent Gregory on the logging subject, dated 29th October last, is also inclosed for your information.

At the close of the investigation you will report the facts as you find them to exist to this office, with such recommendations and suggestions in the premises as you may deem advisable, returning all papers sent herewith.

You will acknowledge receipt hereof, and inform this office of the date of your departure for Ashland.

Very respectfully,

J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

SIR: The instructions and inclosures in regard to investigation desired to be made at La Pointe Agency reached me last night at this place. I leave for Ashland at 7.05 this morning.

Very respectfully,

J. L. ROBINSON,
Special Indian Agent.

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE,
La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis., December 8, 1885.

SIR: I have not been able to get Mr. Cornell to come forward to aid me in making good the charges made to the President by him. He is full of good advice and theories numerous as to the Indian problem, but I do not think will amount to much in making an investigation. While I do not give a final opinion yet as to the charges made by Mr. Cornell to the President, my notion at present is that they will prove to be without any tangible foundation. I am very positive from evidence of a conclusive and most respectable character, which I have obtained here, that there is no foundation for the leading charge; that the timber has been sold for much less than its market value, and therefore I think Mr. Cornell must be mistaken as to the existence of a corrupt combination to control this business to the prejudice of the Indians.

I have had access to data and statistics made up by a corporation doing a large business in pine logs and the manufactured product of the same, which shows very great depreciation on the prices of timber, etc., during the past four years. This company has never handled any Indian logs, and their testimony touching this question in any respect is valuable, because of the character of the men concerned and that they are unbiased and disinterested. They told me the prices paid for Indian logs during the different seasons, as forwarded me by your office, was a good, fair price. This being so, I do not expect, from the good character given Mr. Dobie, the leading man at the post trading store, to find any serious matter for complaint. Mr. Cornell does not appear from his letters, and they are numerous and lengthy, to be a malicious or bad man. My idea is that he will develop into an Indian philanthropist or crank (interchangeable terms), and has rode his "hobby" until it is very dear to him.

Very respectfully, etc.,

J. L. ROBINSON,
Special Indian Agent.

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE,
In the Field, Ashland, Wis., December 14, 1885.

SIR: Under instructions from your office I reached this place on Saturday, November 28, ultimo.

On Monday, November 30, I addressed a note to Mr. B. Cornell, Chippewa Falls, Wis., a copy of which follows:

"UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE,
In the Field, Ashland, Wis., November 30, 1885.

"B. CORNELL, Esq.,
Chippewa Falls, Wis.

"SIR: Your letter to the President, dated October 26, 1885, has been referred to me by the Indian Office, together with your favor of November 9, 1885, also to the President, relative to affairs at La Pointe Agency and other points in connection with the logging operations of the Indians. I am here to look into the charges contained in your letters to the President, and will be obliged by any information, suggestions, and testimony you may be able to furnish me to prosecute the investigations set on foot at your instance.

"I await your reply.

"Very respectfully, etc.,

"J. L. ROBINSON,
Special U. S. Indian Agent."

To this I received his reply, dated December 1, 1885, which I inclose, marked A, the opening paragraph of which I thought showed a little testiness that I should call on him for any other or further proof of the charges than that afforded by his letters to the President.

To this I replied on December 3, in order to make it clear that my expectation and purpose was for him to report to me at what time and place he would be ready in person to assist in the investigation. This letter was as follows:

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE,
Ashland, Wis., December 3, 1885.

SIR: I am in receipt of your favor of late date. You say you "hardly see how or why it is that you require me to say more." I do not require you to do anything.

In view of the fact that you have made very broad and sweeping charges against the late officials connected with this agency, I addressed you the note sent, as the very first step toward going into the investigation, and did this without waiting to see or consult with the agent at this place or any one else. The charges made by you are broad—they are entirely unsupported by testimony.

I desire to carry out the wishes of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and I may say the Administration, in having the investigation of the most searching character, and at the same time to see that the parties accused shall be treated with the utmost fairness. My letter was intended as a suggestion rather than you come forward and make good the charges made to the President against these officials.

Very respectfully, etc.,

J. L. ROBINSON,
Special U. S. Indian Agent.

B. CORNELL,
Chippewa Falls, Wis.

To the suggestions that he come forward and make good his charge Mr. Cornell has thus far made no reply or allusions.

He had seemingly construed my object in coming up to this country to be an effort to get his views (and the benefit of this long experience among the Indian tribes) as to the general management of the reservation, both as to their industrial training as well as their moral and intellectual culture. After writing the foregoing I have received a fifth letter from Mr. Cornell, dated December 5, in which he makes a garbled extract from my letter of November 30, in his opening paragraph, as an excuse, I suppose, for the liberty he has taken to give his views in extenso on a great variety of matters not at all pertinent to the investigation I was sent here to make.

You will see by reference to my letter of November 30 to Mr. Cornell, a copy of which is embodied in this communication, that I do invite him to give me any "information, suggestions, or testimony" he may be able to furnish me "to prosecute the investigation set on foot at your instance." This clause, which qualified all that I said to him in that letter, he ignores entirely, and only in a single detached paragraph at the close of his letter of the 5th instant does he mention that my letter of December 3 had been received. I was quite anxious to have Mr. Cornell present, and think my efforts to get him to come forward and aid me were not appreciated by him. Mr. Gregory, the agent at this place, was very desirous for him (Cornell) to appear, as some of the old officials had been reappointed by him, and said to me that if the party making the charges was not able to stand the expense he would pay all the charges of his trip here and return from his own pocket.

I now write to say as to the charges that I find nothing in the facts which have been ascertained to justify the broad and sweeping charges made by Mr. Cornell to the President. I wrote you on 9th instant as to the primary charge of corrupt combination to purchase the Indian logs for less than their value. What I stated at that date I desire now to repeat, and to say that the information and testimony from first-class people not only fails to justify the charge but disproves it. Then, in the next place, I procured the blotters, journals, and books kept by the post-traders (Dobie, Stratton & Co.) and made an examination for the three seasons of their business accounts, their prices, etc. While the prices in 1883-'84 were perhaps a little above the average, I find that the railroad was not then completed to its present terminus, and the wagon transportation was expensive and would affect somewhat such articles as pork, flour, and feed. The stores of the traders are now, with improved facilities, distant 20 and 23 miles from nearest railroad station, but I find their charges reasonable and that flour, for instance, sells at $5.50 per barrel at their stores, while competing houses charge $6, or $2.75 per sack, as against $3.

I noticed in looking through their books no evidence of discrimination against the Indian in favor of the white customers, but all seem to pay the same prices. I am told there are other stores in easy reach of the reservation. In conclusion, I think the Indian has been well treated. The trader in many cases has to carry the Indians for months, and of course he must have a little margin for this time (six to nine months) from the time the advancements begin until the money is paid over in full for the timber. Practical lumbermen say the idea of a "scaler" keeping two sets of books or making a false scale in the interest of the contractor is absurd, and I think so, too, where it is so easy to expose the fraud by scaling the logs, noting the numbers, then go to the scale-book and verify it. Scalers are technically experts, or skilled workmen, and can not afford to be caught at tricks of this kind. Mr. Dobie (the senior) has a good reputation as an upright, quiet citizen. He is the postmaster, I learn, at Hayward C. H., of Sawyer County. He has been of much service to the Indians; this season, as heretofore, building comfortable cottages for them, and waiting with them until the winter logging for his pay. With the lands owned in severalty, as they are principally held here, I do not see any improvement to be made in the system of logging. The desire to educate the Indian as a logger precludes the introduction of white labor, and this has in many cases operated against the allottee, as the Indians combine to force high wages and frequently get 50 per cent. higher wages than good white labor in logging camps near the reservation. The agent here should have full discretion and power to regulate this matter, and could easily do so if authorized.

I heard of a case where, a few days since, an Indian was told that an Indian camp would give him work at once as a cook for eight men at $40 per month. He declined it at once, demanding $65. A white cook for a camp of fifty to sixty men gets $45 to $50 with a boy as a helper. From what I have learned of the farmer at Lac Court Oreilles Reservation, I think the service will be better if he is dismissed, and I have so said to Agent Gregory, and I ask that he be given any needed facilities for accomplishing this matter.

All accounts from the Lac Court Oreilles and Bad River Reservations agree that the Indians are in good shape; no indications of want or distress. Awaiting your further orders, I am,

Very respectfully,

J. L. ROBINSON,
Special U. S. Indian Agent.

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

P. S.—As to the capacity or disposition of the Indian to lay up his net earnings, I am sorry to say that but few of them show any disposition to do this. They seem to be able to make a good trade, but the money goes away from them when they see something that strikes the eye or the appetite.

J. L. ROBINSON,
Special Agent.

EXHIBIT A.

CHIPPEWA FALLS, WIS., December 1, 1885.

SIR: Yours of yesterday is just received. I have already said so much in the two letters to the President to which you refer that I hardly see how or why it is that you require me to say more.

The Indians on the Court Oreilles Reservation have some valuable timber, for which many of them receive comparatively nothing.

George Russeau, a half-breed, in the winter of 1883-'84, cut and hauled 400,000 feet of pine logs, and in the spring the party with whom he contracted generously allowed him to retain the cooking-stove.

This, I have been informed, was all he had to show for the pine and for his winter's work. The pine was worth at least $2.50 per thousand in the tree before an ax was put into it. The cook-stove therefore cost Russeau about $1,200—$1,000 in timber and some $200 in labor. Many other instances, I believe, are similar to this. Any system of management that would permit such a result might doubtless be improved upon.

That the price of logs is too low and the charges for supplies altogether too high is something to which I would especially call your attention. With regard to supplies, I think it would not be difficult to furnish the most indubitable evidence that the prices in many instances have been simply extortionate.

There should be a farmer on a reservation more reliable than the most unscrupulous person who now holds that position. There is hardly an Indian who does not believe the present farmer is notoriously corrupt, and the general sentiment of all those who have any transactions is to the same effect.

In one instance last winter a dispute grew up as to a boundary line between John Larush, a half-breed, and an Indian called Petak. They applied to the farmer to tell them what to do, but he either refused or neglected to attend to it. Larush then came to me, and although I was laboring under severe indisposition, and notwithstanding the thermometer registered some 40° below zero, I proceeded at once to carefully run the lines, subdividing the whole half section, that no mistake might be made and that perfect justice might be rendered between the parties. At this juncture the farmer informed Petak and Larush that any survey by me would not stand law. He was using his influence to breed disturbance when the writer was directing his energies to promote peace.

In the winter of 1883-'84 there was a trespass committed on the W. $\frac{1}{2}$ of NE. $\frac{1}{4}$ of section 34, township 59, range 8 west, belonging to Git-chi-i-kive, a very aged and partially infirm Indian woman. The farmer was repeatedly appealed to to investigate this matter and secure pay for whatever amount of trespass might be discovered.

To all these appeals there was no response. After nearly a year had elapsed the owner of the property sent for me to make the survey and estimate, which I attended to at once. (I will endeavor to give you further particulars with regard to this case of trespass in a few days.)

Again, the land deeded to Sho-gee's mother at Lake Court Oreilles is described as follows: The NE. of SE. of section 8, township 39, range 8 west, and NW. of SE. of section 9, township 39, range 8 west.

Last winter Sho-gee had a contract to cut the logs on this land, and the timber had been taken from the first descriptions the NE. of SE. of section 8. Sho-gee then, by order of the farmer, commenced on the next 40 lying east on the NW. of SW. of section 9, a description that was not included in the patent and to which they had no right whatever. I told Sho-gee that the deed his mother had did not include this 40, and he went to the farmer with my statement; but they kept on cutting just the same.

In the arrangement that was made for the cutting of timber on the reservation, "authority was granted by the Department for patentees to cut and sell the timber from three-fourths of the tract patented, leaving the remaining one-fourth of the timber in a compact body, intact for future use for fuel, fencing, etc." (Report of Commissioner of Indian Affairs for 1884, page 53.) Although I do not profess to speak from positive knowledge upon this subject, I think it may safely be said, however, that the above rule was never observed, perhaps not in a single instance. Will write more in a day or two.

Respectfully,

B. CORNELL.

EXHIBIT B.

CHIPPEWA FALLS, WIS., December 2, 1885.

SIR: In my statement of yesterday I tried to make it appear that the farmer on the Court Oreilles reservation was not using his influence for the benefit of the Indians.

The following additional particulars may serve still further to illustrate the subject: At Court Oreilles Village there is an Indian by the name of Sho-gee (I mentioned his name yesterday in connection with another matter). Sho-gee dresses well, is quite high-toned for one of his class, and lives in a comfortable house made of hewn logs.

A couple of years ago he took it into his head to be "heap like white man." He accordingly hired a white cook (his own squaw wife not being able to satisfy the fastidious tastes of the pale faces) and opened tavern in good style. When this was accomplished, along comes the farmer and orders the cook to leave, and so Sho-gee's plans for making money as the proprietor of a hostelry come very short of what he expected to realize. There was another case nearly similar to this, where the proprietor, Vincent Corbine, a half-breed, is quite lame and is consequently unable to perform heavy manual labor. The farmer drove the white cook from his premises also.

The only apparent object for this course seemed to be to crowd all the fish into the net of the post-traders.

The latter party, having a boarding-house or hotel of their own, would not brook opposition, and used the obsequious farmer to break up the other houses.

If it was the duty of this "alleged" farmer to observe the rules requiring him to keep all white persons from the reservation, he might have made at least a reasonable effort to have the rules suspended in these two cases.

If it is the paramount object of the Government to give the Indians assistance and render them self-helpful and self-sustaining, by what code, either of ethics or common sense, can the farmer be justified in crushing out their first feeble effort in that direction? The statement made and so often and persistently reiterated is correct, that "the farmer he no work 'em for Indian—he work 'em all the time for white man." Considering the treatment they receive, they can not arrive at any different conclusion. It is high time a change was made. The blacksmith that was employed on the reservation (called Crow) informed me that the amount of work turned out of the shops in about 90 days during the winter of 1883-'84 was about $3,300, an average of over $36 per day. I make no claim to be an expert in this business, but I believe that one man and a helper would not reach, under ordinary circumstances, beyond $15 per day on the average in any ordinary town, village, or locality off the reservation limits.

There was no one to question their right, and they charged what they pleased. For a "cold shut"—a link to repair a broken chain—I have been told they charge 25 cents each—ordinary price 10 cents. Staple and ring for an ox yoke $2.50—other places from $1.25 to $1.50.

One of the greatest impediments to the proper solution of the Indian question on the Court Oreilles Reservation is the present enforced idleness for the most of these people during nearly three-fourths of the year.

So long as the Indians are engaged in some useful labor they seem as contented and happy as ordinary mortals. Although naturally not especially fond of work they take to it kindly, and manifest no symptoms of a sullen or morose temper.

It is mainly in spring time when their logging operations are over and when everything is listless and dull that they are apt to run off to the whisky shops and get full. Some plan should therefore be devised to furnish them employment during the most of the summer season.

Among the many plans having this object in view that have presented themselves to my mind, the chopping of timber and clearing up a few hundred acres of the best of the hard-wood land seems to be the most feasible.

This land will produce the finest kind of hay, oats, barley, buckwheat, beans, peas, and almost every variety of garden vegetables. The sale of the crops would to a considerable extent, and perhaps fully, reimburse the Government for the expense of clearing, planting, and gathering the products of the soil.

At present there is no farm. What land was originally cleared at Lake Court Oreilles is now about as much of a barren waste as the sands of Sahara.

I shall be obliged to continue this subject in another note to you to-morrow.

Very respectfully,

J. L. ROBINSON, Esq.

B. CORNELL.

EXHIBIT C.

CHIPPEWA FALLS, WIS., December 3, 1885.

SIR: In my communication of yesterday reference was made to the importance of providing employment for the Indians during a portion of the summer months.

I desire particularly to press this matter upon your attention. The propriety of such a measure is so self-evident that it hardly seems necessary to present an argument in its favor. While a portion might be set to clearing lands some channel should be opened requiring the services of others.

There is now already cut and lying upon the reservation millions and millions of feet of timber that should be utilized. These logs, or portions of them, of course, have some defect, such as wind-shake, punks, dry rot, case knots, and hollow butts—sometimes just a little thing will condemn a log.

These logs would make superior shingles, as well as lumber, such as is wanted by the Indians for building purposes. A steam portable saw-mill, even a side-cutting muley—the cheapest saw-mill constructed—with shingle-mill attachment would not cost a great sum, and the benefits resulting from it would be considerable.

There is still another matter requiring investigation that I will briefly allude to. There are now two dams on the Court Oreilles River, and since they were constructed the old dams that were put in a number of years ago have been replaced by new and much larger ones. The supply of fish food for the Indians has materially decreased. The Dells Dam, at Eau Claire, Wis., as well as the dam of Chippewa Falls and at Little Falls, on the Chippewa River, in Chippewa County, Wisconsin, have an important and direct influence in diminishing the fish supply on the upper waters of said river where the Indians reside, and since it is probable that this comes under the jurisdiction of the United States Government I would recommend that the attention of the proper officers be immediately directed to the subject, and the owners of said dams required to construct "fish-ways."

When an Indian engages to put in his own logs, or has a contract to cut and haul for others, he ought to be able to go into the market and procure such labor as was best suited for his purpose. This privilege, however, is denied him. It is "Hobson's choice"—take the Indians and half-breeds or none. Unfortunately there was not enough of these classes to "go round," and as a consequence the price of labor went up fearfully, and in order to procure the desired help the country was scoured from the eastern shores of Lake Superior to the Black Hills. In this way they gathered in a motley group that were almost as unique in their appearance and color as "Jacob's Durham cattle." Hundreds of dollars were paid to bring in these nondescripts, and the Indians who had contracts had to foot the bill.

To these outsiders—some of them worthless characters from the Northwestern Territory (Dominion of Canada), and having no possible claim upon our Government or people—as high as $30, $40, and $50 per month was paid, when industrious, hard-working white men, living within a mile of the reservation, and who would gladly have worked for $20, were rigidly excluded even when it was claimed their children were nearly starving for bread. (The above has reference to logging operations on the reservation for the winter of 1884-'85.)

I worked hard last winter to get the rules changed so that two or three white men would be allowed in each Indian camp, and even though one United States Senator and one or more Representatives favored my application, the regulations of the Indian Department at that time were about as fixed and unalterable as the law of the Medes and Persians. The idea of corraling and isolating these Indians, and building, as it were, a Chinese wall around them and only letting the post traders inside, is not only preposterous, but borders largely on the ludicrous, and I shall try and see to it that the folly of rigid exclusion of all whites from the reservation is not practiced this winter.

A few competent white men in each Indian logging camp is about as indispensable as a balance-wheel to machinery. The scarcity of Indian labor enhances wages and works injury. Give an unskilled Indian "buck" $60 to $75 per month, as was often paid the winter of 1883-'84, when he knows that white laborers in camp surrounding the reservation are not receiving half that amount, and he naturally forms an idea that he is a being of superior importance. High wages makes him extravagant and less inclined to labor for a reasonable consideration after the logging season is over. Probably in a couple of days I will write more.

Very respectfully,

B. CORNELL.

J. L. ROBINSON, Esq.

EXHIBIT D.

CHIPPEWA FALLS, WIS., December 4, 1885.

SIR: The practice of making annuity payments to the Indians during their winters' logging operations has a bad effect. Many of them will quit work some ten days before the agent is expected to arrive, and it is often a full week after his departure before they resume their ordinary avocations. As much as fifteen and even as high as twenty days is, by some of them, thus spent, when the very ones that were on the ground first and waited the longest would probably receive for their portion nothing of greater value than a fine-tooth comb or a bar of soap.

An Indian will sacrifice almost anything to get a payment, and it don't matter much whether he receives anything or not, the fascination is the same.

I had an illustration of this in my own case in Michigan a good many years ago. After cruising until entirely out of supplies I sent my Indian after more, retaining only about 2 pounds of rough tallow taken from a deer.

On reaching the settlement and learning that there was a payment going on at Grand Rapids, my Indian pulled out for that place. Having a gun and ammunition with me, I remained, subsisting eight days on eight partridges and one small fish not over 6 inches long that I caught in an outlet of the lake. I mention the above merely to say never rely upon an Indian or attempt to hold him or get anything out of him if there is a payment coming off that he wishes to attend.

This annuity business, if I understand it right, so far as it concerns or applies to the Court Oreilles Indians had better be abandoned as soon as possible. It opens the door to corruption broad and wide. Nothing in professional jugglery can surpass the tricks here played, and year by year the farce goes on. One person will draw a cooking-stove worth $35, while to another, who lives in a wigwam and has no possible use for it, will be given, perhaps, an old-fashioned doorlatch, not to exceed in value the amount of 5 cents. Another will receive a hand hay-rake, who never saw a hay meadow in his life, or if surrounded by hay marshes and cutting and putting up tons of hay, a rake is something they do not use. A rake of this kind, with the teeth all broken out, was given to an Indian, who carried the handle home, muttering imprecations as he went.

The appointment of a few trustworthy Indians as a kind of police force, I think, would have a good effect. They would be of special service in finding out where liquor was procured, and intelligently select the witnesses who could testify in cases of prosecution.

The Indians at present are like children, and you have to teach them. They need sympathy and help, that is, not pecuniary assistance, but to know and understand what to do.

Over thirty years ago I visited an Indian school at Sarnia, in Canada (opposite Port Huron, Mich.). This school was taught by a highly-cultured full-blood Indian. The Indians there—all Chippewas and of the same tribe as here—had their churches and well-fenced and well-tilled farms, and so far as general prosperity was concerned I considered them in advance of the most of the French in that section. The Chippewas in Michigan about the same time were throwing off their tribal relations, purchasing land, building houses, and raising stock. The same desirable consummation can be obtained here with patience, perseverance, and a heart devoted to the work.

The lumber that the Indians have will last but a few years, and in the mean time they should be taught to cultivate the soil. Some competent white men should be selected by the Government to reside on the reservation and instruct them in farming and in the care of stock. He should select proper seeds for them in the spring, and teach them how to prepare and plant their gardens.

Some of their lands are rather wet. These can be brought into proper condition by shallow drains, and the application of unleached wood ashes to heavy clay soils will produce results of the greatest importance. They should be taught the value of manure and other fertilizers, and the best method of applying them. With some such well-directed movement as the above, it would only be a little while before Government help and Government tutelage would be no longer required.

The so-called farm on the reservation has grown up with briars, wild grasses, and tangled vines, and is no longer any good. A "new departure" must be taken.

Very respectfully,

B. CORNELL.

I will endeavor to close out what further remarks I have to make in my next.

J. L. ROBINSON, Esq.

EXHIBIT E.

CHIPPEWA FALLS, WIS., December 5, 1885.

SIR: In your letter from Ashland, Wis., of November 30, 1885, are the following words: "I am here to look into the charges contained in your letters to the President, and will be obliged by any information, suggestions, and testimony you may be able to furnish me," etc. Recognizing your right to have the benefit of such "information, suggestions, and testimony" bearing upon the management of affairs on the Court Oreilles Reservation as I possessed, I have taken some pains to comply with your request, and have already written and mailed to you four letters, dated respectively December 1, 2, 3, and 4, 1885. This letter, making five, will complete the series. For a more perfect comprehension of the "suggestions" that I gladly embrace this opportunity to make, and which I think, if carried into effect, would materially improve the present condition of the Indians, I herewith respectfully submit the following summary:

- (1) A stronger effort made in the way of education.
- (2) A small police force selected from among the Indians.
- (3) Contracts to put in logs given to those only who have experience.
- (4) Annuity payments deferred each year until after the close of the logging season.
- (5) Something done if possible to secure employment for the Indians during the summer months.
- (6) A reasonable allowance of white labor in Indian logging camps.
- (7) Better prices for logs, and reduced charges for supplies.
- (8) The establishment of a savings bank, saw-mills, and shingle mill as soon as practicable.

- (9) Fishways constructed in the dams on the Court Oreilles and Chippewa Rivers.

The honorable Commissioner Price in a communication last winter favored detaching the Court Oreilles Reservation from the La Pointe Agency and the appointment of a resident agent. His reasons were that the agent at Ashland had so many other reservations to look after that he could not possibly give proper attention to "the immense logging interests" on the reservation at Court Oreilles. I am not prepared to express an opinion upon this subject, but desire to submit it for your consideration, and the consideration of the honorable Commissioner of Indian Affairs. Now as to the matter of trespass (alluded to in my letter to you of December 1) on the west $\frac{1}{2}$ NE. $\frac{1}{4}$ section 34, township 39, range 8 west, belonging to Gil-chi-i-kive, commonly called Che-qua, but whom I generally designate as "Mother Joe." The trespass was committed in the winter of 1883-'84, and the survey and estimate of the amount of trespass made by me in the winter of 1884-'85 showed or rather established the fact that there had been taken from the premises above described seventy-six thousand five hundred feet (76,500) of first quality of white pine logs. The very best trees were selected from which these logs were taken, and I should consider their value as about \$6.50 to \$7 per thousand at the place where they were deposited on Devil's Creek, a stream that runs through the said land.

As soon as I had completed the survey and estimate I directed a letter to the United States district attorney at Madison, Wis., reciting the above facts and recommending that immediate action be taken to secure value of the property as taken and converted. I then notified the Commissioner of Indian Affairs what I had done.

Under the laws of Wisconsin the amount that can be recovered in a case of trespass is equal to the sales price of the logs at the place of delivery, or where they are landed on the ice, and where the parties cutting the timber are not responsible they follow the logs and collect the amount of damage claimed from others. These logs were cut by irresponsible parties and went into the hands of the Valley Lumbering Company of Eau Claire, Wis. It seems to me that Chi-qua or "Mother Joe" has a valid claim here for $450 to $500, and I respectfully submit it to you and to the honorable Commissioner of Indian Affairs for such action as may be deemed right and proper.

It is the pride and boast of our people that the laws of the United States protect the poor and lowly as fully and completely as the wealthy and the great, and I hope ere long to see this principle illustrated in the case of poor, old, blind Che-qua.

Very respectfully,

B. CORNELL.

J. L. ROBINSON, Esq.

Your letter dated Ashland, December 3, was received.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE,
La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis., December 14, 1885.

STR: I inclose herewith the letters of B. Cornell, of Chippewa Falls, Wis., to the President, containing charges against the late officials connected with La Pointe Agency, as also the inclosures from your office, the whole amounting to 7 inclosures and marked from A to G, inclusive.

Very respectfully, etc.,

J. L. ROBINSON,
Special Indian Agent.

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

CHIPPEWA FALLS, WIS.,
February 27, 1886.

The PRESIDENT:

I herewith inclose an article from the Chippewa Falls Independent, a Republican newspaper, on the improved condition of affairs on the Court d'Oreilles Indian Reservation.

Very respectfully,

B. CORNELL.

(Referred by the President to Secretary of Interior March 3, 1887, and by him to Commissioner of Indian Affairs, on same date.)

[Inclosure.]

EAGLETON.

A careful observation on the condition of affairs on the Court Oreilles Reservation during the winter of 1884-'85 led the writer to believe that the interests of the Indians would be promoted by a radical change in the system of management.

I therefore did not hesitate to express my views upon the subject, in communications to the honorable Secretary of the Interior, the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and others, but without any practical results.

The business of cutting and putting in logs by the Indians was conducted in a way satisfactory to the white man, but it left no profit to those who owned the timber and done the work. The Government had established an iron-clad rule that the Indians should cut and haul the logs themselves, without the assistance of white labor. Now, when it is considered that the visible effects of many of them was nothing more than a gun, a squaw, and a yellow dog, an idea can be formed of the disadvantages they would be under in prosecuting such a work.

In one of my letters upon this subject I wrote: "The very best white men we have, with all the necessary appliances and with the practical experience of many years, very often fail of remunerative profits in the logging business; how, then, can it be expected that a wild Indian will succeed, born with a disposition to abhor labor, and who has been accustomed all his life to follow the chase?"

Statement of facts, arguments, remonstrances, and protests, under the old régime, were alike unavailing.

This was the condition of things up to November last, when a letter, directed to the President, explaining the situation, elicited a prompt response, and in less than thirty days a special Indian agent was dispatched to the reservation to investigate.

On reaching there and making a formal request for "any information, suggestions, and testimony you may be able to furnish me," I went into the subject pretty thoroughly, and made many suggestions, the principal portions of which are embraced in the following summary:

- (1) A stronger effort made in the way of education.
- (2) A small police force selected from the Indians.
- (3) Contracts to put in logs given to those only who have had experience.
- (4) Annuity payments deferred each year till after the close of the logging season.
- (5) Something done if possible to secure employment during the summer season.
- (6) A reasonable allowance of white labor in the logging camps.
- (7) Better prices for logs, and reduced charges for supplies.
- (8) The establishment of a saw-mill, savings bank, and shingle-mill, as soon as practicable.

Fish-ways constructed in the dams on the Court Oreilles and Chippewa Rivers.

The prompt action on the part of the executive head of the Government is already producing the desired results. White men are now allowed to work in Indian logging camps; the prices for supplies, I learn, have been materially reduced, and in other respects beneficial changes have been made.

May the good work go on.

The constructing of fish-ways at the dams I look upon as especially important, not only as it may confer direct benefits on the Indians and others, but for the principle involved.

No company, corporation, or individual, in my opinion, has any more right, in equity, to build a dam, and so far obstruct the stream as to prevent the fish from running up, than to cut off the supply of the air we breathe, and if the Omnipotent Being gives me health and strength, I shall agitate this subject until there is a fish-way in every dam in the State of Wisconsin.

Almost every law in our statute-books was drafted by a lawyer, the paid attorney of some mammoth corporation. This trenching of capital upon the rights of the masses, this everlasting greed for gold, will, in the process of time, bring its inevitable counterpart of socialism, communism, and a never-ending complication of labor disturbances, that will try our institutions to a greater extent than they were ever tried before, even during the darkest days of our national existence.

B. C.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, D. C., March 30, 1886.

SIR: Referring to office telegram of the 26th instant, directing you upon completion of the duties assigned you at the Red Lake Reservation to proceed to the La Pointe Agency and there await instructions, you are now advised that the object of your present mission is to make a thorough investigation of all timber transactions and logging operations now in progress upon the several reservations within the jurisdiction of the La Pointe Agency, more particularly the Lac Court d'Oreilles and the Bad River Reservations.

In order that you may be somewhat familiarized with the previous history of the matter, the following statement of facts, as disclosed by the records and files of this office, is furnished for your information.

The Lac Court d'Oreilles and Bad River Reservations are two of several set apart for the Chippewa Indians of Lake Superior and the Mississippi, September 30, 1854 (10 Stat. at Large, p. 1109); the others being the Red Cliff and Lac du Flambeau Reserves (also in Wisconsin), and the Fond du Lac and Grand Portage Reserves, in Minnesota. All of these reservations are within the jurisdiction of the La Pointe Agency, now and since the 19th May, 1885, under the charge of Agent J. T. Gregory, who succeeded W. R. Durfee, theretofore agent for the preceding four years.

Under the provisions of this treaty over five hundred Indians have received patents for 80-acre tracts, variously located on the Lac Court d'Oreilles, La Pointe or Bad River, and Red Cliff Reservations, restricted against sale, lease, or alienation of the lands, without the consent of the President of the United States. The majority of these patents have been issued in respect of the Lac Court d'Oreilles reserve. Most of the lands patented are heavily timbered with pine.

The Indians being desirous of turning the timber to account, and parties being desirous of purchasing authority was, on the 28th of September, 1882, granted by the Department for such of the Indians as had received patents for their lands to cut and sell the timber from three-fourths ($\frac{3}{4}$) of the land patented, leaving the remaining one-fourth ($\frac{1}{4}$) of the timber in compact body, intact, for future use for fuel, fencing, &c.

The Indians were not permitted to sell stumpage, neither were white crews to be allowed on the reservations to do the work; but the Indians themselves were to cut and sell, delivered on the bank of a driving stream, lake, or at mill, as should be agreed upon with the purchaser. The logs were to be scaled by a competent person, approved by the United States Indian Agent, and scaling charges were to be paid equally between and by the parties to the contract. Payment was to be made to the Indian owner from time to time during the progress of the work, as should be agreed upon between the contracting parties, final payment to be made before removal of the logs. The Indians were to be at liberty to make their own contracts, subject to the approval of the United States Indian Agent and the Commissioner of Indian Affairs. Bonds were to be required from the purchasers in a sum sufficient to insure the faithful performance of the contracts.

At the outset the Indians had no means and little, if any, practical knowledge of the business. In order to carry into effect the instructions of the Department, it became necessary that they should be furnished with camp outfits, teams, sleds, tools, and provisions during the season. The means for this purpose were not forthcoming from the Government.

Proposals were invited from outside parties by Agent Durfee (see copy Circular A), and during the season 1882-'83 forty-two contracts, prepared in accordance with form approved by the Department November 1, 1882 (Form B), were made by individual Indians holding patents for lands on the Lac Court d'Oreilles, La Pointe (Bad River), and Red Cliff reserves, variously calling for from 30,000 to 900,000 feet of pine at prices ranging from $5 to $6.50 per 1,000 feet. These, with accompanying bonds (Form C), were submitted by the agent, with his approval thereon indorsed, and, being first duly verified from the tract books, were approved by this office. The contracts made during this, the first, season were with the following parties, the number of contracts held by each being set opposite their respective names:

Donald McDonald (Lac Court d'Oreilles).....	5
Dobie, Stratton & Thayer (Lac Court d'Oreilles).....	13
John Morning (Lac Court d'Oreilles).....	1
Edw. Ellis (Bad River).....	1
Haskins & Denomie (Bad River).....	5
Moore & Hart (Bad River).....	2
Union Mill Company (Bad River).....	4
Ashland Lumber Company (Bad River).....	4
John Smart (Bad River).....	1
C. L. Harring & Co. (Bad River).....	1
Fred Fischer (Red Cliff).....	4
Frank Boutin (Red Cliff).....	1

42

The result of these operations appears to have been in the main satisfactory, the Indians for the most part coming out considerably ahead of their contracts, many of them at the close of the season being in possession of cattle, horses, sleds, household goods, implements, and in some instances considerable cash balances, independent of supplies furnished by the contractors.

During the season of 1883-'84 the operations were on a more extended scale, eighty-eight contracts, double the number in the previous season, having been entered into and approved, independently of some cases where, notwithstanding the vigilance of the agent, logs had been prepared for market by the Indians without the formality of a contract. The returns on file in this office show that during that season over 48,000,000 feet of timber were cut and banked, ready for delivery by the Indians, representing a money value of over $250,000. The result of these operations, showing the net amount cleared by the Indian owners of the logs, were summarized as follows:

Lac Court d'Oreilles reserve, 1883-'84.

Cash balances paid Indians after deducting supplies furnished by contractors.....	$32,466.40
Oxen on hand, value.....	2,585.00
Horses on hand, value.....	2,950.00
Camp outfits.....	4,640.00
Leaving (as the net result of the contracts made by 46 Indians on this reserve).....	42,641.40

Red Cliff reserve, 1883-'84.

Cash balance paid to Indians after deducting supplies	$1, 190. 13
Horses, wagons, etc., on hand	918. 00
One house and lot	1, 000. 00
One house and lot (value not given)
Leaving (as net result of contracts made by five Indians)	3, 108. 13

La Pointe (Bad River) reserve, 1883-'84.

Cash balances paid by contractors to Indians after deducting supplies (net results of contracts made by twenty-five Indians)	$18, 448. 52
--	---------------

These figures, as will be observed, were independent of supplies in the shape of provisions with which the Indians were furnished and charged by the contractors during the progress of the work, and whilst they represent the net gains of the Indians making the contracts alone, it appeared, as a matter of fact, that all the available male adult population of the reserves were engaged in the work, and derived their principal means of support therefrom.

The contracts for 1883-'84 were distributed amongst the following named parties :

Dobie & Stratton (Lac Court d'Oreilles)	28
D. McDonald (Lac Court d'Oreilles)	6
North Wisconsin Lumber Company (Lac Court d'Oreilles)	12
Pioneer Lumber Company (Lac Court d'Oreilles)	4
N. Boutin (Bad River)	4
N. B. Palmer (Bad River)	6
B. G. Armstrong (Bad River)	5
Moore & Hart (Bad River)	4
Ashland Lumber Company (Bad River)	4
Haskins & Denomie (Bad River)	11
Fred Fisher (Red Cliff)	4
Total	88

The average price for the logs was from $6 to $6.50 per thousand feet.

In his report of June 27, 1884, transmitting the statistics for the season 1883-'84, Agent Durfee remarked that the logging operations had so far been generally satisfactory to him, and, as he believed, profitable to the Indians, both pecuniarily and as a matter of education, and that although he considered (agreeing with the original recommendation made to the Department by this office) that to sell the "stumpage" directly to buyers with authority to put in the pine with white crews would realize more money for the individual Indian owners, he still deemed the existing method, with some modifications, the best. And his argument was this: That by selling the stumpage, the Indian owners would get their money without labor; the remainder of the Indians would be left idle, in a short time the timber would be cut off, and the Indians not having acquired the habit of labor, and naturally improvident, with money easily acquired, would be poorer and more dependent than ever.

Owing to the want of knowledge of logging operations, caring for and handling teams, etc., by the Indians, Agent Durfee had, at an early stage of the proceedings, been authorized by this office to allow the employment of white foremen, cooks, and teamsters to a limited extent in the lumber camps. He was then of opinion that the Indians had by that time acquired sufficient experience to dispense with this extraneous help, and recommended that hereafter white labor of every kind be dispensed with, except allowing a white contractor to employ a man at his own expense to see that the work was properly done according to contract.

In May, 1884, Inspector Gardner visited the La Pointe Agency, and in his report to the Department, dated the 6th of that month, urgently recommended that Agent Durfee be ordered to report in person to the Department, for an interchange of views regarding the most satisfactory manner of disposing of the timber on allotted lands, the present mode in his (the inspector's) opinion being "liable to fraud, misunderstandings, annoyances, and confusion, and in a good many instances no material benefit is derived by the "Indians from the present mode of disposing of their timber." After commenting on the disadvantages of the system authorized, and the fact that many of the Indians had evaded the regulations by selling stumpage, he said:

"I apprehend it was not the intention of the Department to permit this wholesale lumbering, but that it is the desire that each individual Indian allottee should do some work towards clearing up his land, on his 80-acre allotment. If such was the intention the Indian has failed so far to do so. I am at a loss to recommend what would be for the better for the future cutting of the pine timber on these reserves, only this, I would respectfully recommend the discontinuance of the present mode, and perhaps in the interview solicited for Agent Durfee a different and better mode may be arrived at than at present."

Upon recommendation of this office, Agent Durfee was, on the 12th July, 1884, authorized by the Department to come to Washington for a personal conference on the general subject involved in Inspector Gardner's report. Shortly thereafter he presented himself at the Department, and after considerable delay (occasioned by the honorable Secretary's absence from the city) succeeded in obtaining an interview with the honorable Secretary (Mr. Teller), the result of which, as informally communicated by Mr. Durfee to this office, was, that he was to return to his agency and conduct the logging operations as theretofore, with such modifications as to the discontinuance of white labor as he had previously suggested. In all other respects the existing system was to be continued.

During the season of 1884-'85, seventy-six (76) local contracts of individual Indians, principally belonging to the Lac Court d'Oreilles reserve, were transmitted by Agent Durfee and approved by this office.

Of these contracts—

Dobie & Stratton held	50
Donald McDonald held	20
John B. Denomie (Bad River)	5
J. A. Buffalo (Red Cliff)	1
Total	76

The average price for the logs for this season was $5.50 per thousand.

The net profits to the Indians, according to the report transmitted by Agent Gregory to this office on the 14th of October last, were as follows:

Lac Court d'Oreilles.

Cash balance paid Indians by contractors after deducting price of supplies furnished	$39,269.43
Oxen on hand, value	1,920.00
Horses, value	1,980.00
Camp outfits, value	1,786.65
Total	44,956.08

Bad River.

Cash balances paid to Indians on five contracts	$1,786.88
---	------------

Fond du Lac.

Cash balances paid to Indians on four contracts with Renwick, Shaw & Crossin Lumber Company, which were never submitted to this office	$2,180.87
--	------------

During the current season of 1885-'86 over 150 logging contracts made by individual Indians holding patents for land on the Lac Court d'Oreilles and Bad River reserves, with the under-mentioned persons and firms, at prices variously ranging from $4.50 to $6 per thousand feet, according to the quality of the logs, have been submitted by Agent Gregory for approval, divided as follows:

Lac Court d'Oreilles Reserve.

Dobie & Stratton (licensed traders)	61
Donald McDonald	36
Calligan Brothers	18
Thomas Gaynor	5
Total	120

Bad River Reserve.

D. A. Kennedy	10
Edw. Haskins	9
Edmund Brown	5
George Armstrong	2
B. G. Armstrong	1
John McGuiger	1
Charles Tolliver	2
George Forsyth	3
Total	33

Of the whole number 118 have been approved by this office. The remainder have either been returned to the agent for correction or have so recently arrived that they have not yet been acted on.

My attention has now been called to a recent article in a Western paper, which, after severely criticising the manner in which it is alleged Agent Gregory's appointment was procured, charges him with being really the instrument of the Superior Lumber Company, of Ashland, Wis., owning a saw-mill having a capacity to cut 275,000 feet of lumber a day; and that by his means one Kennedy, of Ashland, a stockholder in said company, and also its foreman, has obtained contracts for and put in over 14,000,000 feet of pine off the Indian lands at Bad River, to the entire exclusion of all other lumber manufacturers on the lake shore.

The inference manifestly sought to be created by the article in question is that Agent Gregory is a pliant tool in the hands of the company.

Charges have also been made through other sources that a fraudulent and corrupt ring exists with reference to the lumbering operations on the Lac Court d'Oreilles reserve (which you will observe are the more extensive of the two), formed with the express purpose of plundering the Indians, first, by procuring from them contracts at figures less than the true value of the timber, and then by furnishing supplies largely above cost. In this scheme the late agent (Mr. Durfee), the licensed traders (Dobie & Stratton), the Government farmer on the Lac Court d'Oreilles reserve (Pero), and the scaler (Stephens) are alleged to be implicated.

It has been alleged that under the new agent's (Gregory's) administration the "old and corrupt ring" is continued, the same subordinates retained, the same routine followed, and the Indians virtually robbed and plundered and reduced to subsisting on diseased horseflesh, a state of things which, it is alleged, occurred on the Lac Court d'Oreilles Reservation during the winter of 1884-'85, but of which this office has no information.

It is to ascertain the truth or falsity of these charges, as also to inquire into the general plan and results of the logging operations on both reserves, with a view to determining whether the privilege granted the Indians to dispose of their timber has not been abused to such an extent as to warrant this Department in withholding its consent to any further prosecution of operations, or whether some other more advantageous plan may not be devised, that you are directed to make this investigation. The investigation should be conducted on fair and impartial principles, but at the same time should be searching and exhaustive in its methods; and it would seem superfluous to say that the utmost caution and discretion must be exercised in order that the whole truth may be elicited and that information may be obtained that will enable this Department to act intelligently and understandingly in the matter.

In the words of a Sioux chief who recently visited this city, "Keep your eyes and ears open," and make full report of what you see and hear, the object being to get at the bottom of this whole transaction.

Your attention should be directed to the examination of all contracts made by the Indians with Dobie & Stratton, McDonald, Kennedy, and other parties; the means used in procuring such contracts, the prices agreed upon for the timber—with reference to the market value thereof at the dates of the several contracts—the prices charged for camp outfits, teams, sleds, provisions, and supplies of all kinds furnished by the contractors to the Indians; whether fair and reasonable, or excessive; comparing them, as far as practicable, with the list of prices approved by the agent, which every licensed trader is required by the regulations of this office to keep posted conspicuously in his trading store.

You will examine such of the Indians who have made contracts at any time during the four seasons as you may deem necessary, as to their dealings with the traders or other persons with whom they have contracted, and the manner in which they have been treated, and carefully note any cause of complaint which appears to be well founded and is worthy of remark.

You will also report whether white labor has been introduced on either of the reservations particularly referred to during the current season, and to what extent.

You will endeavor to ascertain, as far as it is possible to do so, what disposition has generally been made by the Indians of the cash balances paid to them individually by the contractors, as a guide to forming some idea of the beneficial results of the system, or otherwise.

Every facility should be afforded the parties charged for necessary explanation. Mr. Durfee, the late agent, resides at Ashland, and his attendance can doubtless be readily had.

The traders (Dobie & Stratton) are at, or near the Lac Court d'Oreilles reserve, and their books should be open to your inspection. Mr. Gregory, the present agent, is at the agency at Ashland, and the farmer and scaler are at Lac Court d'Oreilles. The officers of the Superior Lumber Company will be found at Ashland, and in this last-named connection I desire to be specially informed whether Agent Gregory is an officer or stockholder in that company, or in any manner, directly or indirectly, interested in any timber transactions with these Indians, and to what extent, and with whom.

Duplicates of all contracts made by the Indians, except such as are now awaiting final action by this office, should be found on file in the office of the agent.

A copy (marked D) of the last general instructions of this office to Agent Gregory on the logging subject, dated 29th October last, is also inclosed for your information.

At the close of the investigation you will report the facts as you find them to exist to this office, with such suggestions and recommendations in the premises as you may deem advisable.

Please acknowledge receipt hereof.

Very respectfully,

J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS.

Washington, April 1, 1886.

SIR: In connection with office letter to you of the 30th ultimo, directing you to make an investigation of the logging operations now in prosecution on the Lac Court d'Oreilles and Bad River Reservations, you are instructed to embrace within the scope of your inquiries the Red Cliff reserve, which is easily accessible from the La Pointe Agency, the Lac de Flambeau reserve, in Lincoln County, Wisconsin, and the Fond du Lac reserve, in Carlton County, Minnesota, also within the jurisdiction of the La Pointe Agency.

It has been reported that timber operations are being actively conducted on the Red Cliff and Fond du Lac reserves also. If this is so, they are being conducted surreptitiously and without the knowledge of this office.

The Flambeau reserve is said to be covered with valuable pine timber. No allotments have hitherto been made on the reserve, but it is reported that a scheme is on foot to have the lands allotted, in order to get at the timber.

You are directed to personally visit each of the above-named reservations, ascertain the true condition of affairs as regards the timber question, and report thereon with your recommendations to this office.

Very respectfully,

J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

SIR: In compliance with yours of March 30, 1886, "Land," and April 1, 1886, I have the honor to submit the following report:

Yours of March 30 mentions the following pine contracts as having been made for the current season of 1885-'86:

Lac Court d'Oreilles Reserve.

You state that "of the whole number, 118 have been approved by this office. The remainder have either been returned to the agent for correction or have so recently arrived that they have not yet been acted on."

I find in this office the following contracts, which I, as instructed, have carefully examined:

D. A. Kennedy.....	4

These contracts are in due form, approved by Agent Gregory and authorized by yourself. The means used in procuring these contracts at Lac Court d'Oreilles was for the party drawing the contract with the Indians to see the Indian, and if the contractor and the Indian allottee could come to an agreement, a contract was drawn up, signed by the contracting parties, submitted to the farmer, and, if approved by him, was forwarded to the agent for his action. The prices agreed upon for the timber contracted for last fall, I find, corresponds with the market value of timber at that time. You will understand, of course, that the price of timber varies according to quality and the distance it has to be floated, or, as they say here, "driven" to the manufacturing centers. Since these contracts were made the value of pine timber has increased fully 50 cents per thousand; hence the value of logs has correspondingly increased. This fact has been used, I believe, by designing white men to make the Indians dissatisfied with their last fall contracts.

The list of prices which licensed Indian traders are required to keep posted conspicuously in their trading store, and approved by the agent, I found conspicuously posted in the store of Dobie & Stratton, licensed Indian traders at Lac Court d'Oreilles. I compared this list with the charges against the Indians on the books of Dobie & Stratton, and found no discrepancy between the authorized prices and the prices charged. I also compared bills rendered the Indians by Dobie & Stratton with prices charged on their books, and found bills correct. Camp outfits, such as teams and sleds, were not sold to the Indians by Dobie & Stratton at the beginning of their logging work in 1885, but were hired to them at figures which appeared to me very reasonable.

I had no means of ascertaining what prices were charged the Indians by unlicensed contractors for camp outfits, teams, sleds, provisions, and supplies of all kinds. But I have every reason to believe the unlicensed contractors charged the Indians in many instances exorbitant prices, creating naturally much dissatisfaction.

I examined many of the Indians who made contracts. They were dissatisfied with the prices paid them for their logs, prices agreed upon by themselves last fall, and also with the prices charged them for supplies during the winter. The advance in the price of lumber and logs, as I have before stated, caused the Indians to grumble. The Indian has no cause to complain of this. A corresponding fall in timber would not have caused him to receive a less price for his logs than his contract called for. The Indian is justified in complaining of the high prices charged him for supplies by unlicensed contractors.

I believe every effort was made to keep white labor off this reservation, and to give the Indian labor the preference, paying them from $15 to $30 more per month than the whites were having off the reservation for the same kind of labor.

The unlicensed contractors or some of those having large orders to fill under contracts found it impossible to fill these contracts without employing white labor, and I find that white labor was, from time to time, smuggled into their camps. Pero, the Government farmer at Lac Court d'Oreilles, was discharged by agent Gregory prior to your order discharging Pero for not preventing, or possibly conniving at this practice, but the discharge of this man did not prevent this violation of the agent's orders. When the agent would appear the whites would leave to return and receive employment as soon as the agent left the reservation.

I find on Lac Court d'Oreilles that probably fifty or more new frame and log houses have been built by the Indians during last summer, this winter, and spring. The Indians are well clad, some of them have purchased good teams and have small farms.

The cash balances paid the Indians individually by the contractors have been used in some instance greatly to their benefit, but in many instances, as you would find among whites, has been squandered in the most worthless gewgaws, worthless trinkets, whisky, and gambling with cards, which appears to be a favorite pastime with the lazy and worthless Indians.

Dobie & Stratton, the licensed traders, I believe to be honest and upright men, and fair in their dealings with the Indians.

From all I can learn no man stands higher among honorable men in this section than Malcolm Dobie.

FOND DU LAC.

Fond du Lac was visited in compliance with yours of April 1, 1886.

You state "It has been reported that timber operations are being actively conducted on the Red Cliff and Fond du Lac reserve also. If this be so, they are being conducted surreptitiously and without the knowledge of this office."

By reference to yours of October 28, 1885, L 22934 and 25140, 1885, addressed to J. T. Gregory, esq., U. S. Indian agent, La Pointe Agency, the acting Commissioner says, "Allottees may proceed to clear the land of timber to such an extent as may be absolutely necessary for cultivation, or for building or fencing purposes, and may sell such surplus of the timber so cut as may not be required for use on the premises. The Indians, however, must be made to understand that for the present and until the patents are issued, they can not dispose of the pine in bulk, for speculative purposes alone, but only to the limited extent above mentioned."

I inclose herewith a report made by Agent Gregory, which will give you all the statistics connected with the cutting of timber during the past season under the authority above given.

I do not think the intent or spirit of above instructions have been violated. In Agent Gregory's report on the Fond du Lac Reservation I desire to call your attention to the item "Cost of clearing and cutting the logs." This included cutting of the logs, un-derbrushing the land, piling the brush, also cost of subsisting the Indians during the winter. The farmer was required to cause the Indians to thoroughly underbrush and clear their lands as they proceeded, so as to render this land available for cultivation in the spring.

But for the privilege of clearing up this land these Indians would have remained in idleness during the past winter and have been paupers dependent on the Government or charity for food. All able-bodied Indians have had employment during the winter and are now in good condition.

The logs for which the Indians receive $4 per thousand were on a small stream, above some bad rapids, and it will cost the millers to whom these logs have been sold at least $1 per thousand to get them below these rapids; hence the discrepancy in value between these logs and those below the rapids, which brought $5 per thousand.

I had a long talk with this breed of Chippewas. They are well clad, fat, lazy, and happy. Agent Gregory's report will give you also the number of houses built during the past season, and the advancement made by this band of Indians in their material welfare.

These Indians had no complaint to make, except that they were not getting enough for their logs. On inquiry I found that under a charter from the State of Minnesota a company was formed and a "boom" erected at the milling town of Cloquet, on the St. Louis River. The Indian lands are above this boom, their logs must be floated through this boom to reach a market or be sold to the miller at Cloquet.

You will readily see the boom company and the millers, possibly interested in this boom, have the Indians, as well as the whites owning pine lands above the boom, pretty much at their mercy. At all events, I am informed logs are worth $1 more per thousand below the boom than they are above.

This naturally makes the Indians grumble and discontented. As this boom company is operating under a charter granted by the State of Minnesota, there is apparently no remedy for this evil—Indians and whites suffer alike.

BAD RIVER RESERVATION.

On reaching this reservation I called the Indians together and had a talk with such as were not absent in the "sugar-bush" making maple sugar.

These Indians had few or no complaints to make—none of any consequence.

I inclose herewith affidavit of W. C. Walker, Government farmer, Bad River Reservation.

After denying the charge that "one Kennedy received contracts for over 14,000,000 feet of lumber, to the entire exclusion of all other lumber manufacturers on the lake," he goes on to show how the price of pine logs on this reservation was fixed by the Indians themselves in council.

In some instances he admits that white labor was employed, and states why it was employed. Indians were always, however, given the preference at wages from $2 to $5 higher than that paid to whites. It further appears from the affidavit that the Indians were honestly dealt with on this reservation as to supplies, etc., during the logging season, and that the Indians preferred D. A. Kennedy as a contractor, knowing him to be a correct and honest man. The cash balances paid these Indians by contractors have been used by them in some instances wisely; in others, wasted and thrown away. I believe that the affidavit of W. G. Walker will give you a correct description of affairs on the Bad River Reservation, and that Walker can be relied on as a truthful man.

In reference to the charges that "a corrupt ring exists with reference to the lumbering operations on the Lac Court d'Oreilles Reservation and formed with the express purpose of plundering the Indian. * * * In this the late agent (Mr. Durfee), the licensed traders (Dobie & Stratton), the Government scaler (Stephens), are alleged to be implicated." I have the honor to state that I am unable to find any reliable evidence, in fact no evidence at all, to substantiate these charges.

As to the standing of Mr. M. Dobie, the manager of the business of the firm of Dobie & Stratton on the Lac Court d'Oreilles Reservation, I respectfully refer you to the Hon. William F. Vilas, brevet-major general; John C. Spooner, United States Senator; W. H. Phipps, land commissioner Omaha Railroad, of Hudson, Wis.; A. E. Jefferson, banker, Hudson, Wis.; F. B. Clarke, of Comstock, Clarke & Co., Hudson, Wis.; W. A. Rust, Eau Claire, Wis., one of the principal lumber dealers in the State; J. H. Knight, Ashland, Wis.

The late agent, Mr. Durfee, to whom I read the charges made against him, wrote me the inclosed letter. I believe the charges against Mr. Durfee emanate from a crank who was at one time employed on the Lac Court d'Oreilles Reservation by the Indians in some capacity, and was ordered off the reservation for making trouble among the Indians. He has been an active enemy of Mr. Durfee ever since.

Mr. Durfee's character for honesty and integrity stands unimpeached in this community.

You say: "My attention has now been called to a recent article in a Western paper, which, after severely criticising the manner in which it is alleged Agent Gregory's appointment was procured, charges him with being really the instrument of the Superior Lumber Company of Ashland, Wis., * * * and that by his means one Kennedy, of Ashland, a stockholder in said company and also its foreman, has obtained contracts for and put in over 14,000,000 feet of pine, off the Indian lands at Bad River to the entire exclusion of all other lumber manufacturers on the lake shore. It has been alleged that under the new agent's (Gregory's) administration the 'old and corrupt ring' is continued; the same subordinates retained, the same routine followed; and the Indians are virtually robbed and plundered and reduced to living on diseased horse flesh, a state of things which is alleged occurred on the Lac Court d'Oreilles Reservation during the winter of 1884-'85, but of which this office has no information.

"I desire to know whether Agent Gregory is an officer or stockholder of that company, or in any manner directly or indirectly interested in any timber transactions with these Indians; and to what extent, and with whom."

D. A. Kennedy, of Ashland, is, I believe, a stockholder in the Superior Lumber Company and also its foreman. He has obtained contracts for about 10,000,000, not 14,000,000, feet of pine off the Indian lands at Bad River. These contracts were obtained by Kennedy in the usual way from the Indians, the Indians preferring, as I have before stated, to make contracts with Kennedy.

The Superior Lumber Company had no part, parcel, or interest in any shape, form, or manner in those contracts. Kennedy having but little to do (the Superior Lumber Company not running during the winter) went into this business, contracting for logs on his own account solely, and I understand the Superior Lumber Company will not even saw these logs.

That the contracts obtained from the Indians by Kennedy were "to the entire exclusion of all other lumber manufacturers on the lake shore" is incontrovertibly disproved by the accompanying affidavits of the owners of "all other lumber companies on the lake shore" in or near Ashland, Wis., who are purchasers of pine logs. (See affidavits.)

It is not my business or purpose to comment upon the "manner in which it is alleged Agent Gregory's appointment was procured." I can only say that his appointment was a credit to the party or parties procuring it, and shows wisdom and good judgment in the appointing power. It is only to be hoped that all similar appointments will be as good. Your informant in stating that the old and corrupt ring is continued, states what is absolutely false. No corrupt ring has existed, or now exists, or could ever have existed under the present "subordinates." When the clause was read and translated to the Indians that they had been "robbed and plundered and reduced to living on diseased horse flesh," this assertion on the part of your informant was met by a general burst of laughter.

From the reply of their spokesman, I came to the conclusion that they, the Indians, were not such fools as to permit themselves to be plundered, in the first place; and they had no objection to horse flesh, in the second place, and that a horse dying in their midst would only become spoilt in the process of digestion.

They seemed to consider it as a huge joke some one was trying to perpetrate for his own benefit on their "great father."

The investigation has been conducted "on fair and impartial principles, and has been, as far as I am capable, searching and exhaustive in its methods.

I have diligently inquired and tried to find out who were the possible personal or political enemies of Agent Gregory in this community. I received from political foes and personal friends the same answer: "There is no man in our community who can impugn the honor or integrity of Agent Gregory."

On my arrival here, Col. J. H. Knight, secretary of the Superior Lumber Company, called on me and kindly offered me any assistance in his power to get at the bottom of these charges. The books of the Superior Lumber Company were thrown open for my investigation; I went through them and failed to find that Agent Gregory was, or ever had been, a stockholder in this company (see affidavits to this effect), or that the Superior Lumber Company had ever had any dealings directly or indirectly in Indian contracts for pine logs.

I am fully satisfied from my investigation that Agent Gregory has in no manner been directly or indirectly interested in any way, shape, or form, in any timber transactions with these Indians or with any one having timber transactions with them.

The attacks made by B. Cornell on the former agent and present agent originate in a diseased and prejudiced mind, one who is determined to persistently work until he accomplishes his object, having himself appointed to some position he covets on the Lac Court d'Oreilles Reservation, Pay no attention to his communications, or you will have more "diseased horse-flesh" business to deal with.

I would fail to make you thoroughly conversant with the animus which prompts these slanderous and abusive charges against the present agent (Mr. Gregory) did I not make the following statement:

"The recent article in a Western newspaper" is from the Oshkosh Times. I inclose a copy. The attack is not upon Agent Gregory but upon the Hon. William F. Vilas, Postmaster-General. The only reason I can imagine for an editor of a Democratic paper publishing such an article void of any scintilla of truth is some personal pique or grudge against that Cabinet officer, placated by the fact as stated to me by honorable, and, I believe, truthful men, that he, this editor, has been for some time past in a chronic state of drunkenness.

Agent Gregory has informed me that as soon as he is exonerated from the charges made against him he proposes to resign the position as agent of the La Pointe Agency. I advise that his resignation be not accepted.

REMEDIES AND SUGGESTIONS.

After a careful study and investigation of the question how to solve the problem how best to dispose of the pine timber on the several reservations under this agency for the best interest of the Indians, I recommend and respectfully urge the following:

The amount of pine timber on the Lac Court d'Oreilles Reservation remaining is estimated at over 200,000,000 feet. Remove this agency to that point; if that is not practical in your judgment separate it from the La Pointe Agency and establish an independent agency there. The value of the Indian franchise, estimated at $600,000, is worth this additional expense.

Instead of one, license three traders on the Lac Court d'Oreilles Reservation. Contract with these alone, they will be under bonds, can not sell supplies except at prices fixed by you. A worthy competition will be created by the presence of these traders, and the Indian will obtain his supplies at a less cost than prices fixed by you as fair and legitimate.

The Indian is not cheated now by the price he receives for his logs, that is fixed by supply and demand, nor can he be cheated in the scaling, but in the prices charged for supplies furnished him by unlicensed contractors over which you have not, nor do I see any practical way you can exercise any control. The present system works but one way. The unlicensed contractor sells supplies to the Indians at his own figures, leaves at the end of the logging season, and having a lien on the Indian's pay comes out all right.

The licensed trader has to carry these same men over the year, who are now without funds, or receive their displeasure and that of the tribe. This is a hardship upon the licensed trader under the present system, permitting irresponsible contractors to cut timber on these reservations. It is found to be impossible to restrict the cut; this is one of the great evils attending the system. Exercise what care or surveillance you may, the unlicensed contractor will exceed the amount of timber fixed to be cut by him. Licensed traders could be readily controlled.

At the end of the logging season when accumulated balances are due, pay this money over to the agent, to be deposited in some designated bank, to the credit of the Indians, to be checked out on the Indian's order, indorsed and approved by the agent, with the understanding that so much of this money shall be invested each year in permanent improvements on the allottee's land.

The coming generation will thus get some benefit of the intrinsic value of the now-standing pine. Otherwise in a few years the pine is gone. No more income, and finally the Indian's children, the coming generation, are on your hands as paupers to be supported by the Government or compelled to steal or to starve.

Red Cliff reserve was not visited, as all the timber (pine) on that reservation was cut some years since, by Fisher & Wing. A complaint was made a few days since to Agent Gregory, by an Indian, that another Indian was cutting some cord-wood on his mother's land; that's all.

On Lac du Flambeau Reservation there is much valuable timber. Some of the Lac Court d'Oreilles Indians have tried to persuade the Lac du Flambeau Indians to take allotments. This has been opposed by the older Indians, who prefer to hold their land in common.

There has been started on several occasions, schemes to get the Government to sell this reservation. No timber has ever been cut on this reservation. Reports to the contrary are false.

Very respectfully,

H. HETH,
Special U. S. Indian Agent.

I omitted to state in reference to the scaler Stephens, employed by the contractor and Indians, who is accused as being mixed up in the so-called "Lac Court d'Oreilles ring," that Stephens received his appointment on the recommendation of W. T. Price, of Wisconsin, member of the House of Representatives, to whom he refers, also to W. A. Rust, Eau Claire, Wis., H. M. Stocking, Eau Claire, Wis.

Stephens is believed to be honest and thoroughly conversant with his business.

The contractors sell their logs to the Pool Company, of Chippewa Falls, Wis., and to Gardner & Batcheler and Wills, of Lyons, Iowa. These firms accept Stephens's scaling as correct, so, if the Indian is cheated by Stephens's scaling, the contractor is also cheated, which is not likely.

The scaling books are deposited at Chippewa Falls, and by law must be retained there five years.

Respectfully,

H. HETH,
Special U. S. Indian Agent.

After closing this report it has occurred to me that it would not be out of place, but pertinent to the matter under investigation by me, to call your attention to the fact that the alleged misconduct of the present agent as a party to the so-called ring formed on the Bad River Reservation, was first brought to the attention of the public, in newspaper form by a Democratic editor residing some 250 miles from the scene of these alleged frauds.

The editor of the Republican journal of this place, the Ashland Press, informs me that "he has heard statements on the street and rumors to the effect that Agent Gregory was a tool of the Superior Lumber Company, but he did not credit them and hence refused to publish them, adding if any misconduct on the part of Gregory should come to his knowledge in an authentic and reliable way he would not hesitate to give the same to the public through the columns of his newspaper.

Who would have the best opportunity of informing himself of the reliability of these charges, the editor of the Republican paper on the spot, or the editor of the Democratic paper 250 miles away, and presumably who of the two editors would be most likely to sift this matter to the bottom, especially if he brought odium upon a member of a Democratic Cabinet?

Very respectfully,

H. HETH,
Special U. S. Indian Agent.

[Inclosure No. 2.]

As far as I know there is no foundation in the charge that Agent Gregory is "a tool in the hands of the Superior Lumber Company, and has given contracts to one Kennedy for over 14,000,000 feet of pine off the Indian lands at Bad River, to the entire exclusion of all other lumber manufacturers." This is not true; it is all false.

The Indians held a council last August and fixed themselves the price they should receive for their pine logs. They were to get $6 per thousand for No. 1 logs delivered on the bank of the stream. If any one contracted with the Indians, owners of timber, to deliver logs on a stream they, the contractors, were to receive $4 and the Indian, owner of the pine timber, was to receive $2, this for No. 1 timber. For culls, delivered on the bank, known as No. 2 logs, they, the Indians, were to receive for same $4.50. If No. 2 or culls were contracted for, the contractor was to receive $4; the Indian, owner of this pine timber, was to receive 50 cents per thousand. When there was a short haul, in some instances the contractor was to receive a little less than $4 per thousand, and no contractor has received more than $4 per thousand for putting in timber, all logs to be paid for before being moved from reservation.

In some instances white labor was employed in the camps. Indians were always given the preference for work at logging, and received wages say from $2 to $5 more than whites. When whites were employed it was in consequence of Indians deserting the camps, for various reasons, and it would have been ruin to the contractors not to have employed white labor, failing to secure Indian labor.

Ben Armstrong, George Forsythe, Chas. Tolliver, and John Denomie (a sub-contractor of D. A. Kennedy) employed more or less white labor, under the circumstances above stated.

Indians complained from time to time about prices of supplies furnished them. When these were investigated I found them frivolous and without foundation.

The Indians got their money when they wanted it, and could trade where they pleased. I think the prices paid for supplies by the Indians the past winter were very reasonable.

On a school section belonging to the State contractors sold to parties in Chicago for $6 per thousand, delivered in the boom. This was not as good a price as the Indians received. As the Indian logs were to be delivered on the bank, the difference would be from 50 to 25 cents per thousand in favor of the Indians. This is a good test, as the parties were logging on the same river.

Those Indians purchasing outfits got them reasonably; they bought where they could buy cheapest. I know of nothing crooked going on at this agency, and if any attempt to take advantage of these Indians had been made I would have known it.

The movement to get D. A. Kennedy to contract for logs on this reservation originated with myself and the Indians, they knowing him to be a good, fair, and reliable man.

OFFICE OF UNION MILL COMPANY,
Ashland, Wis., April 9, 1886.

SIR: In reply to the charges made against me as an Indian agent, during the winter of 1864-'65 (sic), of collusion with the post-trader, Indian farmer, and Government scaler, upon Lake Court Oreilles Reservation, for the purpose of defrauding the Indians in the sale of their pine, I can only say that the charge is false in every particular. I have resided at the head of Lake Superior for the past thirty years, and am quite well known among the business men of northern Wisconsin and Minnesota, and I would be pleased to have you inquire of any responsible business men in this place, or in Duluth, if they have ever heard that I was suspected of a dishonest action as Indian agent, or in any other business transaction; and further, if I was going into the business of swindling the Indians or the Government, if they think I would be idiot enough to place myself in the power of my subordinates by taking them into partnership in mystealing. I think this charge emanated from one Cornell, a man whom I do not know, but whose object in making it is explained in subsequent correspondence with Agent Gregory, my successor. In my administration of the affairs of La Pointe Agency my only endeavor was to conduct the business to the best of my ability, and fairly and honestly toward the Government and the Indians. I did not nor did I attempt to make one dollar out of the position beyond the salary paid me by the Government.

Very respectfully,

General H. HETH,

[Inclosure No. 5.]

SUPERIOR LUMBER COMPANY,
Ashland, Wis., April 7, 1886.

DEAR SIR: I have been informed that one of the objects of your presence here at this time is to investigate charges which have been made in certain newspapers against Indian Agent James T. Gregory, in which irregularities as such agent are alleged, and in which it is also alleged that this company and myself are implicated.

Herewith I hand you copies of the Oshkosh Times, in which are contained these charges, and also clippings from the Milwaukee Sentinel, in one of which the statements contained in the Times are produced in the editorial columns, and the other contains additional allegations by the Washington correspondent of the Sentinel, wherein the correspondent refers to "an exposure of an alleged arrangement by which the Indian agent acted as the agent of this company for securing a monopoly of contracts to sell this company enormous amounts of lumber cut from the Indian reservations." The correspondent then alleges that certain persons were supplied with certain documents to aid the securing of this monopoly of the timber, and that Colonel Vilas is president of this company, etc.

I assert that in scarcely any particular, whether material or immaterial, is one of the statements in either newspaper true, and I think abundant proof can be furnished to substantiate this statement.

I am ready at your call to go before you or any tribunal and under oath to give you every fact in my power or in my knowledge respecting this matter. I will at any time lay before you all the books, records, or papers of this company and my own, and to permit you to make a full examination of them. I offer to give you every possible opportunity in the power of this company or myself to make the fullest and most searching investigation. I especially desire that the persons alleging these irregularities shall also have an opportunity to see these books and papers and to cross-examine me. I will waive every objection to any question that can be desired that can in any way bring out, by answering directly, any fact that will in any way throw any light upon this whole matter, whether material, immaterial, or frivolous.

I inclose herewith the names of the only persons here whom I have ever heard of as in any way insinuating that there were suspicious circumstances respecting these matters.

I also give you the name of the man whom I believe wrote the communication to the Oshkosh Times signed "Reformer," and I request that you will say to these men that you are here to inquire into the matters referred to and ask their assistance therein. Indeed I would be glad to see a published notice setting forth the object of your coming here, and inviting any and all to be heard who could aid your inquiries.

I also request you to invite the Oshkosh Times and Milwaukee Sentinel proprietors to aid you in your investigation.

I further request that you will fully examine into the operations of D. A. Kennedy the past winter, or at any other time, in these logs cut from the Bad River or any other reservation. He will hand over to you his books and any other papers in his possession or control that shall be deemed necessary to fully inform you as to his operations. He says he is willing also to answer any questions respecting these matters in any way tending to give full knowledge of his transactions or in any way affecting this company.

Very respectfully,

JOHN H. KNIGHT,
Secretary and Treasurer.

Special Indian Agent, Ashland, Wis.

ANOTHER CABINET OFFICER UNDER A CLOUD.

No doubt there were simple-minded people who fancied that if once the wicked Republicans were put out of power, and the administration placed in the hands of Democrats, a glorious period of purity and reform would follow. There would be no more scandals touching men in high places. Office would be a public trust, and public officers scrupulously hold aloof from all entanglements in schemes devised for personal profit. Such expectations showed little familiarity on the part of those who cherished them with the history of the Democratic party in the days of its former national ascendancy, or with its more recent history in the States and cities where it has ruled.

Long before the first year of the new Democratic reform administration had closed a member of the Cabinet, with other high Democratic officials, was found with his pockets stuffed with the stock of a corporation which was using his office to promote its own pecuniary interest at the public cost, the stock having been received by him as a gift. And now comes, from a Democratic source, a serious charge against Postmaster-General Vilas. The Oshkosh Times, a Democratic paper, publishes a communication signed "Reformer," in effect charging the Postmaster-General with using his influence as a member of the Cabinet to promote the pecuniary interests of a wealthy lumber company in which he and his personal friends are the principal stockholders, the Superior Lumber Company, of Ashland, in this State. The affair, as given in the communication, is briefly as follows:

Last spring, at the request of the Postmaster-General, and to the exclusion of other and more prominent candidates, one Gregory, who had been in the employ of the lumber company, and whose relations with it were close at the time, was appointed Indian agent for Northern Wisconsin. Gregory had no political standing in the State, and owed his appointment solely to Colonel Vilas. As Indian agent, Gregory has charge of the lands allotted to the Chippewa Indians on Bad River. These lands include valuable tracts of pine timber, and the Indians can not dispose of the timber without Gregory's consent. Now it appears, according to the Times' correspondent, that the Indian lands are being stripped of their timber in the interest of the Superior Lumber Company. He says that during the past season D. A. Kennedy, the superintendent of Mr. Vilas's lumber company, has bought over 14,000,000 of pine timber from the Indian lands.

The statements of "Reformer" have called out a reply by Col. J. H. Knight, an intimate personal friend of Colonel Vilas, and stockholder in the lumber company, but, as The Times says, the reply, if carefully analyzed, will be found directed against immaterial points. Thus Colonel Knight says that Superintendent Kennedy, "with a very trifling exception," did not purchase logs from the Indians, but from persons who bought from the Indians. Yet it would be easy enough for Mr. Gregory to see that no timber was cut that would not go to the Superior Company, though it might pass through intermediate hands. Colonel Knight's other explanations relate to such immaterial facts as denying that Kennedy is a stockholder in the company, though admitting that he is its foreman, and that he (Knight) was not "loafing about Washington several weeks to procure Gregory's confirmation," though he admits that, when at Washington, he spoke to Senators Spooner, Sabin, and Hampton on the subject. The Times sums up the case as follows: "The Superior Lumber Company is a wealthy and powerful lumber corporation located at Ashland. Postmaster-General Vilas is a member of that company; the pine lands of the Chippewa Indians lie in the vicinity of the lands and mill of the company; the lands and pine thereon are under the control of the Indian agent; the relations of Mr. Gregory with the Superior Lumber Company are such that, in view of all the circumstances, he ought not to be appointed to this responsible position; and Colonel Vilas, as a stockholder of the company, ought not, as a Cabinet officer, to permit, much less urge, his appointment."

Perhaps Colonel Vilas may be able to give a satisfactory explanation of these matters, but at present they have an extremely suspicious appearance.

[Newspaper slip—Special dispatch to Milwaukee Sentinel, Washington, April 3.]

The exposure of the alleged arrangement by which Gregory, the Indian agent at Bayfield, also acted as agent for the Superior Lumber Company in securing a monopoly of contracts to sell to that company enormous amounts of lumber cut from the Indian reservations under Agent Gregory's charge, created considerable talk among Badger politicians here. One gentleman, who is somewhat familiar with the circumstances, regards it as suspicious that certain persons were supplied with documents similar in style and form to those which are required by the General Land Office, and that outside parties not so supplied were placed at a disadvantage, as all such contracts must first be indorsed by the Indian agent and sent here to the General Land Office for approval. A friend who enjoys confidential relations with the Postmaster-General declares that this alleged exposure is a sort of roorback brought forward at this time to prevent Gregory's confirmation, and that although Colonel Vilas is the president of the Superior Lumber Company other officers of that corporation were too cunning to make a catspaw of Gregory, knowing that any negotiations through him would most certainly create suspicions which would involve Colonel Vilas.

[Newspaper slip. (From Milwaukee Sentinel) April 16, 1885.]

WANTS INVESTIGATION—A DEMOCRATIC PAPER WANTS INDIAN AGENT GREGORY'S CASE ATTENDED TO.

Oshkosh Times: It is hoped that Mr. Lucius Quintessence Cassius Lamar will cease dreaming for a few weeks until he can give the matter a thorough overhauling, and if he can conclude that the appointment was one ill-becoming a reform administration, and that Mr. Vilas, being a stockholder in the Superior Lumber Company, should not take so abiding an interest in Mr. Gregory as an Indian agent who controls Indian logs, he will see to it that Mr. Gregory is not confirmed.

It will be remembered that neither the Times nor its correspondent has charged any dishonest motive to the Superior Lumber Company or its stockholder, Mr. Postmaster-General Vilas. It has only said that it is placing a reformer in a reform Cabinet in a very delicate position, to say the least, and one in which his friends would find it difficult to defend him against the charge that he had sat idly by and watched the appointment and confirmation of a man to an office in the affairs of which the Superior Lumber Company is at least remotely interested, and with whom Mr. Gregory is on very amicable terms, so much so that this Mr. Gregory would throw up the position as cashier in a bank to accept a position as Indian agent, at a salary of $1,500 per year.

Mr. Gregory may be a strictly honest and upright man, and one who would not stoop to give the Superior Lumber Company inside pointers as to Indian logs which were to be purchased by Middleman Kennedy, and in a roundabout way go through the Superior Lumber Company's mill. But it is strange that a man who accepts a position as cashier of a bank that was established by a man of great wealth, and who expressly demanded as contingent upon his taking stock in the bank that his protégé, Mr. Gregory, be made cashier—it is strange that such a man, with all this backing and in this position, should prefer to resign and accept an Indian agency which pays a salary of $1,500 per year.

This is strange, but perhaps Mr. Lamar's investigation committee, with the aid of Col. John H. Knight, Colonel Vilas, and Messrs. Gregory and Kennedy, mutual friends, can explain it. But in the mean time it might be well to inquire what confidence the people will have in an investigation carried on by an administration that retains old Pan-Electric Garland, with his pockets bulging with free-gift stock, in the Cabinet?

[Inclosure No. 6.]

I own a saw-mill here (Ashland, Wis.). I would not go into the logging business last fall on Indian reservations owing to the fact that I did not like the restrictions imposed by the Government on contractors. I know of nothing crooked on the part of the old agent, Mr. Durfee, or on the part of the present agent, Mr. Gregory; have no complaints to make.

[Inclosure No. 7.]

I have no complaints to make against Mr. Gregory; he used me well. I can't say a word against Mr. Gregory. I think Mr. Gregory acted on the square with the contractors and the Indians.

I thought last fall that there was something wrong, but after commencing work I found all was right.

I have read the articles in the Oshkosh Times. It is all wrong; they are abusing an innocent man. I don't associate with Gregory; he is no friend of mine; we do not agree in politics.

I was interested in a saw-mill up to last August at this place.

There can be no truth in the allegation that all other lumber manufacturers other than the Superior Lumber Company were excluded from contracts in obtaining pine lumber from Bad River, as we obtained contracts for all we asked for, and I never heard of other millers being refused contracts. My partner in the logging business at this place is George Forsyth.

OSKOSH, WIS., ———, ———, ———.

DEAR SIR: I have been in attendance upon the supreme court at Madison during the past week and returned this morning, which accounts for the delay in answering your letter of the 7th instant, the same having properly been laid aside until my return. I shall be obliged to refuse to give you the name of the Times correspondent. Did I feel at liberty to do so, I should certainly have given the information to Colonel Knight. The responsibility must be and is assumed by the proprietors of the Times, and they could not, without violation of confidence, give the name of their correspondent. The matters referred to in the article, which you probably have in your possession, are of common knowledge among the people of this State, and particularly of northern Wisconsin, and you will have no trouble in ascertaining the facts if you desire to do so. Colonel Knight has written me that Kennedy's contract amount to 10,000,000 instead of 14,000,000, and he also says that Kennedy is not now a stockholder. But I am told that Kennedy has been a stockholder in the Superior Lumber Company, and transferred his stock before he began his Indian deal. But I can not vouch for the truth of this statement and so have not published it.

The pith of the whole matter is that at the time of his appointment and now the relations of Mr. Gregory to the Superior Lumber Company were such that it was grossly improper for a Cabinet officer who is a large stockholder in the company to suggest his nomination and urge his appointment to that position. And the circumstances are so well known that no amount of quibbling or whitewashing will eradicate that idea from the minds of the people of this State. Colonel Knight has all the articles published in the Times, and will undoubtedly permit you to see them.

I am, very respectfully,

CHARLES W. FELKER.

ASHLAND, Wis., April 14, 1886.

DEAR SIR: Accept my thanks for yours from Oshkosh (no date), received this evening. I have no desire that you should violate any confidence placed in you as a journalist. I am here to get at the bottom of alleged misconduct on the part of Agent Gregory and to whitewash no one. I have made diligent inquiries in reference to Agent Gregory being a tool of the Superior Lumber Company, thus far unsuccessfully. If you can consistently do so, will you be kind enough to refer me to parties here or elsewhere where and from whom I may get the desired information? It is my duty to sift this matter to the bottom, and I propose to do so regardless of men. I shall remain here until I receive your answer.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. HETH,
Special U. S. Indian Agent.

CHIPPEWA FALLS, Wis., May 2, 1885.

DEAR SIR: I congratulate you on your appointment as agent for the Chippewa Indians on Lake Superior.

From October, 1884, to March, 1885, I was on the Court Oreilles Reservation, looking after the interests of the Indians and working up a case against the agent.

Concerning the bad management on this reservation I wrote largely to the Secretary of the Interior, the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, the Hon. Isaac Stephenson, and ex-Governor and ex-Congressman the Hon. Thad. C. Pound.

I also wrote to President-elect Cleveland, calling his attention to what I considered a system of robbery that was being persistently practiced upon these Indians day by day.

Finally the results of my observations were crystalized in a series of charges against the agent.

These charges, I think, secured his dismissal, as I understand it to be a rule under this Administration not to put a man out until his time expires, provided he has faithfully discharged his duties.

I would therefore, in view of the above, respectfully ask from you the position of Indian farmer on the Lac Court Oreilles Reservation.

The Indians on the reservation all know me—every one—and I have their confidence and respect.

The lumber business I understand in all its branches. I have been a Democrat all my life and served during the war of the rebellion in the Army of the Potomac, over three years.

I can probably give any kind of reference here that you may require.

Very respectfully,

B. CORNELL.

These affidavits were to have comprised a part of the recent report of Special United States Indian Agent Heth, concerning affairs at La Pointe Agency, but his time being limited, and the above-named gentlemen being absent from town, Agent Heth requested me to procure the affidavits on their return and forward them to the Department with the request that they be included in his report.

AFFIDAVIT No. 1.

STATE OF WISCONSIN,
Ashland County, ss:

John H. Knight being first duly sworn, deposes and says: That he is forty-nine years old, and resides at Ashland, Wis.; that he is the secretary and treasurer of the Superior Lumber Company of said place, and has been secretary ever since said company was organized and treasurer ever since said company was organized, except during the first year of its existence; that also he is the general manager of said company, and has had the general management of the business and operations of said company ever since its organization.

And this deponent further says that this company never bought, owned, or had any interest or property in any manner, in any logs cut from the Bad River or any other Indian reservation; that every year, Indians residing on the Bad River and Red Cliff Reservations, ever since this company was organized, have requested this deponent to buy their logs and to do logging on their lands, and that such request has in every case been promptly refused; that Indian Agent W. R. Durfee during the time he was agent requested this deponent to buy logs of the Indians on the Bad River Reservation, but did not do so; that this deponent has personally been applied to by said Indians to buy their timber every year since allotments were made to them, and in every case refused to do so, and that he never bought, owned, or controlled any of said logs in any manner whatever; that the said Superior Lumber Company never bought or was interested in said logs for the same reason that influenced this deponent to the policy of not dealing in them, to wit, because in the judgment of this deponent the business would be attended with disagreeable annoyances and no profit could be derived from such purchases.

And this deponent says that the said company is not in any manner interested in any of the logs purchased by one D. A. Kennedy, during the past winter, or at any other time; that no proposition or suggestion was ever made to this deponent or to any one else in the employ of this company to sell any interest in said logs to said company; that no logs were ever cut, banked, or purchased of any Indians or taken from any Indian reservation for the benefit of this company or in which this company ever had or expect to have any interest or property in any manner.

Deponent further says that the said Superior Lumber Company have never in any manner directly or indirectly had any dealings or business of any kind with Jas. T. Gregory, as Indian Agent, and that no one for or in behalf of the said company has had any dealings or business with said Indian Agent; that said Gregory has not now and never has had any stock, property, or interest in the said company in any manner whatever, and that said Gregory never had any relations to the said company whatever, except as an employé thereof during the years 1882 and 1883, and that he has had no connection with said company in any manner for more than two years last past, and that it has been a rare occurrence that he has been in the office or about the premises the past two years.

And this deponent further says that at no time has there ever been, nor is there now, any understanding or agreement or promise or suggestion thereof, with any one by which the said lumber company shall in any manner profit or derive any advantage from any logs, or the lumber that may be made therefrom, owned by said Kennedy or any one else, or which have been cut or taken from the Bad River or any other Indian reservation.

And this deponent further says that he has endeavored to be explicit in the foregoing affidavit, and to fully and directly state every matter and fact in any way connected with the subject considered and testified to; that never in any way nor at any time has the said company owned one dollar of interest or property in any logs referred or the product thereof; that he did not know until within the past month, so as to recollect the fact, that any logs cut from any Indian reservation had ever passed through the mill of said company, but found upon examination and inquiry, and tracing the logs by the marks as recorded in the books of said company and in the district inspector's records, that for one or another of owners of logs cut from the Bad River Reservation, the said company had every year sawed some of them, but the said company never owned one of said logs or one foot of the lumber produced therefrom; that the said company has in no year owned enough logs to run its mill during the entire sawing season, and has taken logs every year owned by others to saw, for the "saw bill" alone, and in this way only has there ever one of said logs been in said mill or the lumber manufactured therefrom been in the lumber yard of said company.

DEAR SIR: In looking over the south half of northeast quarter, section 5, township 47, range 2 west, I find a trespass of about 229 stumps, amounting to about 1,500 to 1,800 feet to the stump; and it seems, in order to cover the deed, parties set fire to the

As I understand, there are no patents issued. I have forwarded a like copy to Agent Gregory. Please investigate into this matter. More to follow.

LA POINTE AGENCY, Odanah, Wis., November 4, 1886.

DEAR SIR: I am receipt of your letter of the 29th ultimo. In reply would say that I have reported these trespasses to Agent Gregory, and then he said that they had been settled, but these Indians claim they were not, and all were ready to prove the same. The last time Agent Gregory held an open council it was on or about October 12, 1886; then this matter came up. Agent then and there said the farmer would be instructed to look up these trespasses. Now, when I reported to the agent he claimed that I would take up all my time if I would look up all the trespasses, that they were already settled. Now I have been unable to find one of these Indians to say that they had been settled. I have only sent a couple of them to the Department, but it is not all. There are many more to look up, and the Indians insist that they all be looked up and sent to headquarters for action, as agent would not attend to it. In referring back to my previous letter you will see that I have stated that I sent a copy of the same to Agent Gregory. The following names are the addresses of witnesses by whom the facts can be proved: George Blacker, Odanah, Wis., Indian; James Blackbird, chief; Adam Scott, L. Lemaux, A. Pero, J. B. Denominee, Joe Stoddard, Odanah, Wis.

The address of the trespasser is Edward Haskin, senior, Odanah, Wis., storekeeper.

SIR: Referring to Department letter "L, 29718-1886," I would say that after careful investigation, I find that Mr. Haskins has never cut pine on the land described by Mr. Wigan, late Government farmer at this agency.

The land in question is patented to Indian women, and the clearing has all been done by their husbands or members of their family.

Mr. Haskins has always, and is willing, to promptly settle any trespasses that he may unintentionally commit, and I am unable to find any well-sustained charges of trespass against him.

Very respectfully,

J. T. GREGORY,
U. S. Indian Agent.

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

CLOQUET, MINN., November 9, 1886.

DEAR SIR: I write you as the attorney for and in the name and on behalf of Nawgaw-nub, chief of the Fond du Lac band of the Chippewas, and about thirty of the Indians and half-breeds of this band. In August last about forty patents were issued to individuals of this band, giving them 80 acres each, with restrictions as to selling and leasing. These patented lands are mostly pine lands, covered with valuable pine timber.

About a month ago one Patrick Hynes came here from the Chippewa River region, Wisconsin, and began to make arrangements with these Indians to buy the pine timber, when it should be delivered at the bank of the Saint Louis River in logs. He (Hynes) represented to them that he was going to build a saw-mill on their reservation on the Saint Louis River, which would be of great benefit to them, as it would give them work near at home, instead of having to walk about a mile to the mills in Cloquet; and further, that he (Hynes) would furnish them with provisions at cost price with freight and wages of a man to handle them added; and further, that he (Hynes) had the only and exclusive right to buy this timber from the Indians; that unless they sold it to him they could not cut it and sell it; and thus by cajolery and threats induced about thirty of these Indians and half-breeds who had obtained patents to sign contracts with him to deliver and sell to him their pine logs on the bank of the Saint Louis River, for $5 per 1,000 feet, board measure. The amount so contracted is about 12,000,000 feet. Since these contracts have been made, Mr. Hynes has openly and repeatedly and indiscriminately stated that he has no intention to build a saw-mill on the Indian reservation, or anywhere else; and there is, in my estimation, a well-founded rumor that he has sold these 12,000,000 feet of logs to one Shaw, a mill-owner here, for $7 per 1,000 feet on the bank of the Saint Louis River where the Indians are to deliver them, that making the neat little sum of $24,000.

The Indians further complain that the provisions which they get from one Page here, who is said to be connected in relationship with the agent, Gregory, are charged to them at a higher price than they can buy them at other stores in this town. As to the other matter, that Hynes has the exclusive right to buy this timber, it looks like a gratuitous boast, and is used for the purpose of intimidation. I can not understand why the Government should give one man this right when in no respect can it be a benefit to the Indians and is a monopoly, oppressive and injurious; but there seems to be some foundation to this claim, because other parties have tried to get permission from the agent, Gregory, to buy timber from the Indians, offering to give them from $6 to $7.50 per thousand feet, when delivered on the river, but that the agent has refused them the privilege, saying that Hynes was under bonds of some kind. Outside parties are freely offering $6 per thousand feet, and would be glad to buy them if allowed to do so. Among them C. N. Nelson, of the Nelson Lumber Company here, and B. S. White and Dow Leathers, of Duluth, who, I think, are buying for some other firm. I understand that this is excellent timber, and under free competition would easily bring from $6 to $8 per thousand. The Indians have, therefore, asked me to present to you their case, and to ask you to have the matter looked into, and to protect them in their rights, and to have some one look after their side of this matter, as these contracts were all signed in the absence of the agent, Gregory, and they had no one to protect and advise them. These contracts are not yet signed by the agent, Gregory, nor by yourself, without which signatures they are not valid, and ask you not sign these contracts, and to allow them to sell their timber to others for $6 per thousand, or compel Hynes to pay them $6 per thousand.

Yours respectfully,

COMMISSIONER OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, D. C.

L. H. ZASTROW.

P. S.—My home is in Duluth, Minn. I inclose you my card, and should you desire to write me, please address me there.

Z.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, November 16, 1886.

SIR: Your letter of the 9th instant, relative to certain contracts for the sale of pine timber, alleged to have been entered into by Indians of the Fond du Lac reserve with one Patrick Hynes, has been received, and has been transmitted to Agent Gregory at La Pointe Agency, with instructions to make an immediate investigation and report to this office prior to taking any action looking to approval of said contracts.

Very respectfully,

A. B. UPSHAW,
Acting Commissioner.

L. H. ZASTROW, Esq.,
Attorney at law, Norris Block, Duluth, Minn.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, November 15, 1886.

SIR: I inclose herewith a copy of a letter, dated the 9th instant, received from L. H. Zastrow, attorney at law, of Duluth, writing in behalf of Naw-gaw-nub, chief of the Fond du Lac band of Chippewas, and a number of the Indians and half-breeds of that band, in which he states that about a month ago one Patrick Hynes, from the Chippewa River region, visited the reservation, and through representations that he would build a saw-mill on the reservation; would furnish the Indians with provisions at cost price, with freight and wages of a man to handle them added; and further that he (Hynes) had the only exclusive right to buy the timber, and that unless the Indians sold it to him they could not cut it; and, by cajolery and threats, induced about thirty Indians and half-breeds, who had obtained patents, to sign contracts for the sale and delivery to him of about 12,000,000 feet of pine logs at $5 per thousand feet, board measure; that since the making of these contracts Hynes has openly repudiated his promises made to the Indians, and that there is a well-founded rumor that he has sold the logs so contracted for to one Shaw, a mill owner at Cloquet, for $7 per thousand feet, delivered, thus netting the clear sum of $24,000.

Mr. Zastrow further states that he is informed that the timber is of excellent quality, and under free competition would easily bring from $6 to $8 per 1,000; that outside parties (amongst them C. M. Nelson, of Nelson Lumber Company, B. S. White, and Dow Leathers) are freely offering $6, but are not permitted to treat on the ground that Hynes is under bonds of some kind.

It is also stated that the Indians complain that the provisions they get from one Page (an alleged relation of yours) are charged to them at a higher price than they can buy them at other stores at Cloquet.

It is claimed that the contracts with Hynes were all signed in your absence, and without any one in authority being present to advise or protect the Indians in their rights.

Pending an investigation of this matter, which you will at once proceed to make and report to this office, you will suspend all action looking to approval of the contracts in question, and permit no work to be done under them, unless satisfied that the Indians will be fairly dealt with and paid the full market value of their logs.

In this connection see my letter of general instructions, dated August 24 last, forbidding the making of contracts for speculative purposes.

Your early reply is desired.

Very respectfully,

A. B. UPSHAW,
Acting Commissioner.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE,
La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis., November 19, 1886.

SIR: I have the honor to reply to Department letter L, 30092-1882 (6), as follows:

P. Hynes, a lumberman from Eau Claire, Wis., came to me in September last and asked me if logging was to be permitted on the Fond du Lac Reservation. In reply I told him that the Indians were to be allowed to clear their land and sell surplus timber, as they had done the winter before. He asked me if he would be allowed to purchase their timber, and I said he would, if he would pay as much as the other lumbermen. He then went and saw some of the Indians, and they agreed to sell their surplus timber for $5 per thousand (but not until one of them went to the superintendent of the C. N. Nelson Lumber Company and asked him if he would buy some logs, and the superintendent refused, saying that he was "pine land poor and did not want any of their logs"), on the bank of Stony Creek, a small stream which runs near a great many of their selections.

Hynes will have to drive them from there to the boom on the Saint Louis River, a distance of about 25 miles. To get the logs out of this creek, a dam will have to be constructed at a cost of at least $2,000. This added to the cost of driving, will make the logs cost Mr. Hynes about $6.25 per thousand in the boom at Cloquet. In addition to this he will have to pay the C. N. Nelson Company 50 cents per thousand for assorting them, making a total cost of $6.75 per thousand. You can easily see from this how much truth there is in the statement of Mr. Zastrow, who claims that Mr. Hynes will make $2 per thousand on the logs.

Neither Don Leathers nor B. S. White ever tried to buy pine from any of the Indians to my knowledge.

The only party who wants any of the pine now is the C. N. Nelson Lumber Company, and they are doing this to make trouble. They thought there would be no opposition to them this winter, and they could pay the Indians what they chose, as they and the Renwick, Shaw and Crossett Lumber Company did last winter.

I told Mr. Hynes, when he asked me about purchasing the logs, that he would have to pay cash for all timber so purchased, or in case any of the Indians wanted orders, he would be at liberty to give them on any store desired. He has been giving them orders on any merchant they wished, and most of them wanted orders on Page, as he was selling pork and beef at $1 per barrel cheaper and hay at $1 per ton less than any other merchant in Cloquet.

I have been at Cloquet two days this week with Messrs. Larabee and Wright, and while there heard no word of complaint from the Indians. Chief Na-ga-hub was there, and expressed himself as well pleased with the manner in which the Indians were getting along, and it seems to me if they had had any real grievances they would have made them known while we were there.

When Mr. Zastrow made the assertion that I compelled the Indians to sell to Mr. Hynes, he told a deliberate falsehood, as he also did when he said Page was related to me.

Mr. Rose, the Government farmer, was present when the contracts were made with the Indians, and they were well pleased with the price they received.

Very respectfully,

J. T. GREGORY,
U. S. Indian Agent

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

DULUTH, MINN., November 21, 1886.

DEAR SIR: Your letter of the 16th instant (L. 30092, 1886) was received yesterday morning. I have just returned from Cloquet, Minn.

It struck me as rather strange that my letter of the 9th instant to you should be sent to Agent Gregory, when it practically contained charges against him and certainly some against his friends, that he might investigate these charges against himself and his friends. If I did not express myself with sufficient fullness and clearness on this point, I shall now state my reasons why I do not regard Mr. Gregory to be the proper party to investigate this matter. Previous to the 10th instant Gregory had not been at the Fond du Lac reserve for about two months. P. Hynes had been there about a month then, and had all his contracts made with the Indians by that time, to wit, the 10th instant. Hynes came from Eau Claire, Wis., and was a stranger at Cloquet. Whether Gregory knew of Hynes going there, and of his purposes and intentions before he went, I do not know, but that Gregory must have been cognizant of Hynes's work with the Indians while there is clear from these reasons. Hynes was intimate with and did his business with the Indians, by and with the advice and assistance of one J. E. Page, a relative of Gregory, and one William Rose, the Indian farmer, appointed by Gregory himself, and his representative in his absence.

This so-called Indian farmer lives at a hotel in Cloquet, and sees the Indian reserve at a distance. This Indian farmer pays not only no attention to the Indians, but was the agent and assistant of Hynes in obtaining these contracts for Hynes. That Page is in this clique is evident from the fact that he has the contract to furnish these Indians with provisions on account of these timber contracts with Hynes, or at least he does so furnish them in his own name. Now, if Gregory knew nothing about all this while away, it would naturally be supposed that when he did come on the 10th instant, after Hynes had got through making the contracts, he would have inquired into the matter a little, and found out the actual state of affairs, and tried to do something for the Indians; but instead he gathered around his conferees, Hynes, Page, and Rose, and a couple of friends, who had influence with the Indians, and in an apartment by themselves had a general jollification and partook by far too freely of the excellent firewater, and in the expressive language of one of the Indians who wrote me next day, "He (Gregory) was so drunk he could not walk; we could do nothing with him." (I would not mention this except for the bearing it has on this case.) He (G.) came at 3.30 p. m. on the 10th and left Cloquet next morning at 10.50. Whether at this time he approved the contracts of Hynes and forwarded them to you for your approval will be best known to your honorable self. Now, these things, taken in connection with the fact mentioned in my last letter, that he had refused a timber buyer the privilege to buy timber of the Indians, seem to me to make it very doubtful that Mr. Gregory can investigate this matter with entire impartiality and give a fair report; but if all these things are consistent with Mr. Gregory's good faith and his interest in the Indians he can prove his innocence by recommending either that Hynes be compelled to pay $6 per thousand feet or that these contracts be annulled.

I pledge myself to furnish men to pay $6 per 1,000 feet for these logs which H. has bought for $5 per 1,000. All I want is a chance to show up the Indian side of this question before some one who is entirely disinterested and who can not be influenced. There is some talk that Hynes is only an agent for some more powerful party; however this may be, it is certain that he is a middle man, as these logs must be sawed in Cloquet, and Hynes has no mill; he must therefore sell them to some mill-owner.

Yours, truly,

L. H. ZASTROW.

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,

Commissioner Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

CLOQUET, MINN., December 6, 1886.

DEAR SIR: I wrote you on the 20th ultimo in regard to the investigation of the timber contracts of the Fond du Lac Indians with P. Hynes, giving my reasons why Agent Gregory could not impartially investigate and report on the subject. I have not heard from you since. I have made particular inquiry among the Indians, but can not find that Gregory has done or said anything to them about the contracts. No one has seen me. Nothing has been done here about the matter. Please let me know whether you received my letter, and if so, whether anything has been done there, and what; and if not, why not. I am convinced my clients have not been fairly dealt with, and I want a chance to show this in its true light. I feel as if I ought not to sit idly by and let this thing go by default. I have the fullest confidence in the Department's desire to do the Indians justice, and I have waited with a good deal of anxiety to hear from you or see something done. Has Mr. Gregory reported yet? He has made no investigation. Have the contracts been approved? Please let me know. The Indians have left this whole matter in my hands, and I therefore feel the responsibility the more.

Address me at Duluth.

Yours, truly,

L. H. ZASTROW.

POST-OFFICE DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF THE POSTMASTER-GENERAL,
Washington, D. C., December 6, 1886.

DEAR GENERAL UPSHAW:

I inclose you a letter from Mr. Kelly, of Saint Paul, transmitting one from his correspondent about Zastrow. I wrote Mr. Kelly to ask him to ascertain, as I knew he easily could. I gave him no intimation of the purpose of it, and he seems to suppose, or his correspondent seems to suppose, that it relates to some application or recommendation to office by him. I think you can form a pretty correct judgment of what he is. The statement that his own countrymen do not aid him is significant.

Yours, truly,

General A. B. UPSHAW.

MY DEAR COLONEL: I inclose herewith a letter from Collector Moore, relative to Zastrow.

His statements may be depended upon as thoroughly reliable. If you wish me to make further inquiries I will cheerfully do so.

Sincerely, yours,

CUSTOM-HOUSE, DULUTH, MINN.,
Collector's Office, December 1, 1886.

DEAR SIR: In reply to yours of yesterday would say that I find Mr. Zastrow but little known among the legal fraternity here, having little or no practice. He is a man of correct habits, I think; made one speech for us at Cloquet during the campaign. My impression of him is that he is somewhat migratory. He resided formerly, I believe, in Wisconsin and California. Think he has been here some eight or ten months. For some reason he does not get the support from the Germans that one would naturally expect him to receive.

Yours, etc.,

H. B. MOORE.

Hon. P. H. KELLY,

DULUTH, MINN., December 21, 1886.

DEAR SIR: I come to you as a last resort, hoping to get not only a favorable hearing, but some action on what I have tried in vain to get at Commissioner Atkins's office. I write you as the attorney for the Indian chief, Naw-gaw-nub, of the Fond du Lac Chipewas, and about thirty of his tribe, whose reservation is near Cloquet, Carlton County, Minn. Last August forty patents were issued to this tribe for 80 acres of land which is covered by some of the best pine timber in this section of the State. Last October one Patrick Hynes came to Cloquet from Eau Claire, Wis., for the purpose of buying the pine of the Indians who had obtained patents. He offered them $5 per 1,000 feet for logs delivered at the bank of the Saint Louis River, and promised them that he would build a saw-mill on the reservation near the Indian village and give them employment in sawing the logs at home, and that he would furnish them with provisions at cost price with freight and wages of a man to handle them added, and further, he made the threat that if the Indians did not sell their logs to him they could not sell them at all, as he was the only one who had a right and permission from the Indian agent to buy them, and in this way, by promises and threats, and by and with the assistance of the Indian farmer, who is an appointee of the Indian agent, Gregory, of Ashland, Wis., induced about thirty of these Indians to sign contracts for the sale of their timber to Hynes for $5 per 1,000 of logs delivered. Now the facts are, that Hynes has not the remotest intention of building a saw-mill, and he openly so stated since making the contracts. The Indians complain that James E. Page, who has the contract to furnish the Indians with provisions, and who is a relative of Agent Gregory, charges them higher prices for their goods than they can buy them for elsewhere in Cloquet, and of course the boast they could not sell to anybody else has no foundation in fact, but was used as a threat that they must either sell their timber for $5 or go in want during the winter. These contracts were all made as early as the 7th of November last. On the 8th ultimo I wrote to Commissioner Atkins, at Washington, stating substantially the above facts, and adding that these logs were worth at least $6 per 1,000 or more, and that under a free competition the Indians could have got that for them, that the Indians had been unfairly treated, and that I could and would find parties that would pay the Indians $6 per 1,000 for their logs, and asked him either to annul the contracts or compel Hynes to pay $6 for the logs.

To this letter I got an answer that my letter had been forwarded to Agent Gregory, who had been instructed to make an investigation at once and report. Of course this was the same as asking a man to investigate charges against himself and his friends, for this case is Gregory, Hynes, Page, and Rose vs. The Indians, and I wrote to the Indian Commissioner, Atkins, on the 20th ultimo, stating all my reasons why Gregory would not and could not make a proper investigation of this matter. To this letter I have never received an answer, nor has anything been done. I wrote again on the 7th instant that no investigation had been made, and that Gregory had not been near the reservation, but have not received an answer. I have asked for a chance to prove the above statements and charges, and others made in my letters to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, before a disinterested party and one who could not be influenced, but no attention has been paid to my letters. I now come to you and ask that something be done to get these Indians their rights.

I can not imagine why my letters to Commissioner Atkins should be ignored, unless he did not get them, or unless Postmaster-General Vilas should have used his influence to protect Gregory, at whose instance, I understand, Gregory was appointed. Please let me hear from you anyway.

Yours, truly,

L. H. ZASTROW.

Hon. L. Q. C. LAMAR,
Secretary of the Interior, Washington, D. C.

(Referred by Department to Indian Office, December 24, 1886.)

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, December 24, 1886.

SIR: I acknowledge your letter of 21st instant, relative to contract between Naw-gaw-nub, a Fond du Lac Chippewa, and one Patrick Hynes, for sale of pine timber.

Your letter has this day been forwarded to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs for proper attention.

Very respectfully,

H. L. MULDROW,
Acting Secretary.

L. H. ZASTROW,
Duluth, Minn.

RESERVATION OF THE FOND DU LAC BAND OF CHIPPEWA INDIANS,
Cloquet, Minn., April 16, 1887.

DEAR SIR: The Indians on this reservation are much agitated over the general supposition and apparent fact that they are not justly treated and dealt with by the Government employes connected with this reservation and by Mr. Pat. Hinds, who claims to be licensed by the General Government to buy the timber from the Indians on this reservation.

The dissatisfaction arises chiefly from the low prices they are compelled to sell their timber for; the price paid by Mr. Hinds being $5 per thousand feet of good white pine banked on Stony Creek, not more than twenty or twenty-five miles by river to the boom at Cloquet, Minn., where there is a good market for the timber. The average cost of banking the timber on the creek is $3 per thousand feet, which leaves the owner of the stumpage the small sum of $2 per thousand feet. The timber is large and is of the best quality of white-pine timber.

Considering the condition of the timber market here, and the manner in which the buying of the Indian timber on this reservation has been conducted the past winter, it is very apparent that there exists a combination or scheme to compel the Indians to sell or accept the lowest prices possible for their timber.

The prices paid by manufacturers of lumber at Duluth, Stillwater, and Minneapolis, Minn., runs from seven to ten dollars per thousand feet for the same and lower quality of timber as the Indian timber. If the General Government desires that the Indians should receive that which they are justly entitled to, and should the General Government also desire to license any person or persons to buy the Indian timber, etc., with the intent to debar any others from buying the same, then the Indians ask that the prices paid them for their timber be based upon the prices paid at Duluth, Stillwater, and Minneapolis, Minn., which are the leading lumber-manufacturing cities in this State, and that the Government strictly enforce the payment of the prices acquired upon such a basis.

In the minds of the Indians, as well as any other class of reasonable men, it does not appear just and right on the part of the General Government that it should grant any license to an individual with the exclusive right to come here and buy the Indian timber and to debar any other person from buying timber from the Indians, and to undertake to make the Indians believe that they can not, under any circumstances, dispose of their timber only through him, and certainly under such circumstances accept his prices. In proof whereof we can quote several instances, which we will furnish you with pleasure, should you desire them. Several were refused contract blanks upon application to the Government employes connected with this reservation, because they desired to contract to bank their logs for the C. N. Nelson Lumber Company, who offered to pay the Indians $1 per thousand feet more than Pat Hinds.

But these same Indians were afterwards readily furnished the necessary contract blanks when they agreed to bank their logs for Pat Hinds for $5, $1 less than they could have got from the C. N. Nelson Lumber Company shortly previous. There are good substantial proofs to sustain the above.

Although Mr. Hinds never produced or otherwise substantially sustained his possession of the license he claimed, only through Mr. E. L. Rose, his agent, bookkeeper, etc., who is also employed by the Government as Indian farmer on this reservation, the Indians were actually made to believe by Mr. E. L. Rose, our smooth-tongued cat rascally farmer, that Mr. Pat Hinds did possess the license to buy the timber from the Indians, and that the Indians could sell to no one else but to the licensed Pat Hinds. We can quote you several instances and give you names of Indians where the Indians could have received much higher prices for their timber than they do from Pat Hinds, but were not permitted to do so. The problem is, why is this permitted by the General Government?

Many of the Indians seeing the only source of sustenance and to get sufficient money to buy teams and build their homes, being (sic) from disposing of their timber, could do nothing only to let their timber go to Pat Hinds at such a sacrifice as we have previously stated.

Such timber as that which has been cut off this reservation the past winter can not very easily be duplicated in quality. It is the best quality of white-pine timber and runs from three to five or six logs to the thousand feet—very seldom as high as six logs. All of the Indian timber that has been banked upon Stony Creek the past winter would bring the highest market price for logs anywhere without any exception, and for this timber Pat Hinds has been paying $5 per thousand feet banked on the creek, and he turns it right over to the Cloquet Lumber Company, of this place, for $7.50 per thousand feet, with hardly any expense in driving them to the boom, which is not more than 25 miles distant in a good stream—the Saint Louis River.

In order to secure this timber at the prices he is paying he has given the Indians to understand that he was licensed by the General Government to buy their timber, and they (the Indians) could not dispose of their timber to any one else, only through him. If such is the understanding of the Government, and Pat Hinds is allowed to come here to deal with the Indians in such a manner because he holds a license, the Government is not acting consistently in accordance with the doctrine the Indians understand from the Government, which is that, according to the understanding of the Indians, that the General Government desire the Indians should receive the full benefit of their own labors and the revenue arising from their own interests.

Should the understanding of the Indians be in concurrence with the general principles of the Government, and should the agents of the Government faithfully perform their duties and enforce the laws of the Government under such an understanding, the result is simply that the Indians are entitled to $30,000 more than they have received, resulting from the additional application of $2.50 per 1,000 feet of timber to the estimated amount of 12,000,000 feet of timber, which has been cut from this reservation the past winter, and which amount they would in all probabilities have received, were they not given to understand that Pat Hinds held license to buy their timber, and they could not dispose of their timber to any other person but himself (Pat Hinds) instead of being permitted to sell direct to the consumers of the timber. All the Indians who have cut and banked logs the past winter have worked hard, diligently, and faithfully, and necessarily economically to save and derive as much benefit as possible from their timber, and notwithstanding their faithful attention to their interests, there are fully one-half of them who have not made a dollar, because of the exorbitant prices they have been charged for their camp outfits and supplies; the consequent result is, to-day, the licensed Pat Hinds holds bills of sale on their teams, logging outfits, etc., and the Indian can whistle for his timber and his hard labor for a whole winter, working merely for his board and the boarding of the men who have worked on his timber; some who were a little shrewd escaped the clutches of the licensed Pat Hinds with a team, etc., but no more.

Rumor has reached here which sounds very plausible to the Indians considering the way logging operations has been managed on this reservation during the past winter, which is that all contracts made by Pat Hinds with the Indians here for their timber are sent to your office, and that the original figures stated on those contracts are altered before reaching your office, and made to read $7 or $8 instead of $5 as being the amount received by the Indians for their timber.

We have no definite manner of ascertaining the accuracy of this rumor only through your office, and with your just and faithful assistance, and that of Almighty God, these facts, if they are facts, can be brought to light and the Indian given his just dues, as is intended by the General Government.

Another source of dissatisfaction lies in the fact that the Indians believe they are not given a fair and honest scale on their timber. Some of the Indians secured the services of Alexander Fraser, surveyor-general for this, the fifth district, State of Minnesota; the result was that the same figures were given the Indians that were given them, according to the scale probably obtained by the scaler hired and paid by Pat Hinds, which can only be expected considering the confused manner in which the logs were piled, wherein fully one-third or more of the logs could not be seen at all, which made it impossible for any one to obtain a just and accurate scale. The figures given by the surveyor-general were apparently obtained from and duplicated from the scale obtained by the scaler of Pat Hinds, because in every instance the scale given by the surveyor-general was identical and corresponded with the scale given by Hinds' scaler. The unfaithfulness on the part of the surveyor-general in this matter is too transparent and ridiculous to be overlooked.

Another cause of complaint is that the Indians are being charged $10 each for the running out of the lines around their respective allotments, whether or not it is done by the request of the Indian claiming the allotment. This is done by a civil engineer named Cook, who is supposed by the Indians to be paid by the Government to assist the Indians in that capacity. The charging is done by E. L. Rose, Indian farmer, also agent for Pat Hinds, without the consent of the Indians.

We also desire to call your attention to the fact that Mr. E. L. Rose, who receives a reasonable compensation from the Government to act as Indian farmer upon this reservation, has deliberately and willfully neglected his duty as such, and thus far while he has been employed in that capacity by the Government he has not once expressed a desire to assist or instruct or otherwise contribute to the benefit of the Indians, nor has he made any attempt to perform the duty required of him as such. Notwithstanding the fact that he is employed by the Government, and receives a reasonable compensation as Indian farmer, he is now and has been for the past few months, in the employ of and has given his entire attention for and in the interests of Pat Hinds, for an additional compensation to that which he receives from the Government, apparently using his position as Indian farmer or employé of the Government in the interests of the Indians, for the purpose of eluding any suspicion the Indians may entertain of foul play or unjust dealings on the part of Pat Hinds.

Mr. E. L. Rose does not remain on the reservation, as is required of him, but comes on the reservation only when the interests of Mr. Hinds directs his attention there, but he remains at Cloquet, Minn., diligently employed in the office of and in the interests of Mr. Hinds. All the Indians heartily desire his (E. L. Rose) suspension and removal, and the position filled with a person who will faithfully work in the interests of the Indians.

Will you please inform us whether or not it is known in Washington, the manner in which the Indians here are dealt with, and what prices are reported to you, if any, as being paid for Indian timber and whether or not Pat Hinds is actually licensed to buy Indian timber, and if so, why not compelled to pay the same prices paid by other parties in this vicinity?

If the report is true that has reached us that the amounts as being received by the Indians for their timber is reported to you at $7 or $8 per thousand feet, we ask to have this matter personally investigated and adjusted, and the balance we are entitled to from our timber paid us. We suggest a special agent be employed to make a thorough investigation, one in whom implicit confidence can be placed to thoroughly and faithfully investigate the actual condition of affairs, and report them justly and faithfully to the proper department. We will give all information possible to effect a thorough investigation.

We desire to request that you send us the general laws and rules governing this reservation, to be retained by one of us, that we may keep thoroughly informed relative to our interests as Indians. A little assistance of this kind would prove of inestimable value. We urgently recommend the appointment of Hamilton Curry, of Cloquet, Minn., who is a trusted and respected citizen, and in whom we can place implicit confidence, to act as Indian farmer on this reservation.

If necessary we can testify under oath to the accuracy and truthfulness of this report.

We are, respectfully, your obedient servants,

NAGANAB (his x mark), Chief and Spokesman,
MAGUMEWEGESHICK (his x mark),
JOSEPH HAULE (his x mark),

Committee on Affairs, appointed by Special Council held on April 15, 1887.

Hon. L. Q. C. LAMAR,

Secretary of the Interior, Washington, D. C.

Address reply to Naganab, chief of Fond du Lac band of Chippewas, Cloquet, Minn., Carlton County.

(Referred by Department to Indian Office, April 3, 1887.)

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, April 29, 1887.

SIR: I am in receipt, by Department reference for consideration and report, of a letter herewith returned, dated the 16th instant, purporting to be signed by Naganab, chief, Magumewegeshick, and Joseph Haule, a committee appointed by special council of the Fond du Lac band of Indians resident on the Fond du Lac reserve, in Minnesota, attached to the La Pointe Agency, Wisconsin, complaining briefly that the Indians are not justly dealt with by the Government employes connected with said reservation, in being, as they allege, compelled to contract with one Patrick Hynes, alone, for the sale of the timber on their patented tracts, at a fixed price of $5 per thousand, thereby shutting out competition and involving a loss to them in the aggregate of some $30,000.

In addition to this the Indians state that by reason of the exorbitant prices charged for camp outfits and supplies, fully one-half of them have not made a dollar by their logging operations. The Indians ask that the matter be thoroughly investigated.

In reply, I have the honor to state that there are now before this office awaiting approval, 29 contracts approved by Agent Gregory, March 23 last, made between divers individual Fond du Lac Indians to whom patents have been issued, with the said Patrick Hynes, covering an aggregate quantity of 2,900,000 feet of timber at a uniform rate of $5 per thousand feet. These contracts are similar in form to those in use on the Lac Court d'Oreilles and Bad River Reservations, under the authority granted by the Department, September 28, 1882.

I inclose copies of correspondence heretofore had with Agent Gregory, in relation to the Patrick Hynes contracts, and have the honor to recommend that an inspector of the Department be directed to proceed to the Fond du Lac Reservation, and fully investigate the matters complained of, including the charges made against E. L. Rose, the Government farmer. In the mean time approval of the contracts will be withheld.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. B. UPSHAW,
Acting Commissioner.

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, April 30, 1887.

SIR: Upon receipt of this letter you will proceed to the inspection of the following agencies and schools, viz: Carlisle School, Pennsylvania; New York Agency, New York; Mackinac Agency, Michigan; La Pointe Agency, Wisconsin; Green Bay Agency, Wisconsin; White Earth Agency, Minnesota.

When you reach the La Pointe Agency you will give special attention to the complaints set out in the within communication signed by Naganab, chief and spokesman,

Magumewegeshick, and Joseph Haule, claiming to be a committee on affairs appointed by special council held on April 15, 1887, relative to matters on the Fond du Lac Reservation, especially contracts for sale of timber, conduct of employes on the reservation, etc.

You will make a special report on this matter as requested in the letter of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs of 29th instant, herewith, and in making the investigation you should take and reduce to writing the testimony of witnesses on the matters complained about by these Indians, and forward the same, with your report, to this Department on the subject.

Special attention should be paid by you to the matter of cutting and sale of timber by the Indians upon such of the several reservations attached to the above agencies where this is being done, with view of informing the Department whether the business is being fairly and properly conducted and for the best interests of the Indians.

The return of the inclosed papers with your report is requested.

Very respectfully,

H. L. MULDROW,
Acting Secretary.

MORRIS A. THOMAS, Esq.,
U. S. Indian Inspector, 125 Maryland Avenue, Baltimore, Md.

CLOQUET, CARLTON COUNTY, MINNESOTA, 5-8-1887.

Hon. J. D. ATKINS,
Commissioner Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.:

I wish to address a few lines to you in regard to the affairs on the Fond du Lac Reservation and would be pleased to have you give the matter your kindest consideration.

Mr. Gregory, the Indian Agent, has been here during the past week settling with the Indians, and he has had considerable trouble with them, and I am certain that the trouble has been caused by a mixed-blood named James Coffey, who has been stirring up the Indians against the agent and Mr. Hynes, the contractor. I have been on the ground the past winter and during all of the past week while the agent was here, and I have watched everything very closely and am satisfied that they have been treated fairly by both gentlemen, who are personally known to me, and I can vouch for their integrity. The Indians are under my charge, and they also have a missionary priest, and we could manage them without any trouble were it not for this man Coffey, who is a desperate character and will stop at nothing to accomplish his designs. He has once been tried for murder and escaped punishment by the jury disagreeing. If anything can be done to have him removed from the reserve it would be a blessing to all of us.

Asking your forbearance for troubling you so much, I am, honorable sir,

Very respectfully yours,

Rev. Father DUGAL.

[Unofficial.]

DULUTH, MINN., May 8, 1887.

DEAR SIR: On to-day Antoine Na-ga-nub, eldest son of Na-ga-nub, head chief of the Fond du Lac Indians, called on me and made a statement touching certain matter of complaint on that reservation. Antoine was accompanied by four other Fond du Lac Indians, who joined in the conversation.

They came under the impression that the matters of which they complained were cognizable by the commission of which I am chairman. I informed them that we, as a commission, had no jurisdiction over the matters or dispute. They then requested me in my individual capacity to call your attention to their complaints, which I consented to do. I took full notes of the statements as they were delivered by their interpreter. I thought I could see that much bad feeling might arise if their complaints were not made known, and I knew your anxiety to see all Indians dealt with fairly and justly. I know nothing whatever of the truth or falsity of their declaration, nor do I know or undertake to say who (if any one) is to blame if they have been unfairly dealt with. They seemed to attach the blame to the farmer on the reservation, a man by the name of Rose, who they say has resigned, and been drunk since his resignation. They also say that while in office he gave but little attention to their interests. Of the truth of this I know nothing.

Their first and chief complaint is that when they were about to enter into contracts for the delivery of their pine timber they could have made contracts with good and reliable parties at the rate of $6 per thousand, and they would have so contracted but for the fact that they were told by Rose, the farmer, that a man by the name of Hines had a license to buy their pine, and that they could not sell to any one else, and that Hines himself said that he alone was allowed to buy their pine. On this representation they agreed to sell to Hines at the price of $5 per thousand. They mentioned the names of the parties who were willing to give them $6. There were a few of the Indians who did not believe they were compelled to sell to Hines, and these sold to other parties for $6, but nearly all sold to Hines for $5. Some of them have settled with Hines and received their pay, but many refuse to settle, believing they have been imposed on, and desire the intervention of the Indian Office, and say they will do as the office directs or orders.

Their second complaint is that after some of the Indians had commenced cutting logs Hines sent out a foreman and took the management of the business away from the Indians and managed in such manner as to bring them in debt.

Their third complaint is that Rose, the farmer, told the Indians that those who had made selections of land, and had sent up the notes or minutes of the land selected, might cut logs on it prior to receiving the Government patent, and that many Indians went on in good faith under the promise and cut the logs, and that now they are refused pay.

The fourth complaint is that as they cut and hauled their logs they measured them and that afterwards a new measurement was made, and that though the first and second measurement did not differ materially, the Indians were made to pay for both measurements.

The next complaint is that a civil engineer or surveyor was sent upon the reservation to run out lines, and show where allotment lines were, and settle conflicting lines, etc., and that they were told that the surveyor was a Government officer and in the pay of the Government, but that now each Indian is being assessed $10, with which money the surveyor is being paid.

They say that no timber has been purchased there at as low a price as $5 except that obtained from the Indians.

They complain of some other matters of minor importance which I do not deem it necessary to mention. I wrote this on my own individual responsibility, as I conceive it to be my duty both to the Indians and yourself that you should know of their complaints.

Reiterating my words in the beginning of the letter that I know nothing of the truth or falsity of the statements, I give them to you for your information.

We leave on to-morrow for Bois Fort. With assurances of regard and gratitude, I am, as ever,

Your friend,

JNO. V. WRIGHT.

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, May 17, 1887.

SIR: Referring to office letter to the Department of the 29th ultimo, recommending that an inspector be sent to the Fond du Lac Reservation to investigate complaints made by the Indians of certain irregularities in connection with timber contracts, I have the honor to inclose herewith copies of two letters—one from Hon. J. V. Wright, and the other from Father Dugal—received in this office on the subject, which I respectfully recommend be transmitted to the inspector for his information.

Very respectfully,

D. L. HAWKINS,
Acting Commissioner.

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

LA POINTE INDIAN AGENCY,
Ashland, Wis., September 29, 1887.

SIR: Under your instructions of April 30, 1887, I have given special attention and made an investigation as to the complaints set out in a communication signed by Naganzab, chief and spokesman, Maqumenegeshick and Joseph Haule, claiming to be a committee on affairs appointed by special council held on April 15, 1887, relative to matters on the Fond du Lac Reservation, especially contracts for sale of timber, conduct of employes on the reservation, etc.

I append herewith (Abstract A) the testimony of witnesses taken at an examination held on the Fond du Lac Reservation, at which were present a large number of Indians, Agent Gregory, Patrick Hynes, and many others. These charges seem to have been investigated mainly by a half-breed, J. I. Coffey, and some whites who for their own purposes have been endeavoring to make trouble for Agent Gregory. Coffey at the investigation was quite officious, prompting the dissatisfied Indians and wanting to cross-question witnesses.

This man Coffey bears a very unenviable reputation in the neighborhood of the Fond du Lac Reservation, both among Indians and whites; he has already been tried for murder, and through the disagreeing of the jury escaped the punishment which people in this part of the country say he justly deserved.

The Indians who seem to be industrious and striving to make a living for themselves and families I found to be well satisfied as regards their sales of timber, etc.

The dissatisfied ones are those who spend the most of their time in the town of Cloquet, drinking whisky and leading a life of idleness.

Patrick Hynes, who has been living in this part of the country the past twenty years, bears a reputation among the people as that of a hard-working, fair-dealing man. He has gone to considerable expense building a dam and blasting out the rocks in Stony Creek, so as to get the timber to a market. The prices he has been paying the Indians, I find after inquiry of lumbermen at Ashland, Washburn, Duluth, and Bayfield, to be quite fair.

Mr. E. L. Rose, of whom the Indians complain, held the position of agency farmer at the Fond du Lac Reservation, but at the request of Agent Gregory resigned said position April 19, 1887.

In conclusion, I desire to state that up to the present time more than double the number of Indians (as last season) have contracted with Mr. Hynes for the selling of their timber cut this coming winter. This, I think, speaks for itself.

Very respectfully,

M. A. THOMAS.

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

ABSTRACT A.

FOND DU LAC RESERVATION, September 6, 1887.

Testimony of witnesses in investigation of charges forwarded to the Department under date of April 6, 1887, as regards the dealings with the Indians in their timber-cutting operations.

NA-GA-NAB, being duly sworn, deposeth as follows:

I remember of the council in question being held in April. It was held at my house, and they signed the paper at Frank Houle's house. There were as many as twenty people present. I knew the contents of the paper when I signed it. It was read to me before I signed it.

Q. How much lumber did you sell Hynes?—A. I have not sold any.

Q. Tell me all you know about the dissatisfaction of the Indians who sold timber to Hynes.—A. I heard a good many persons that sold timber to Hynes say that they were cheated, but I can't very well say how they were cheated, as they only said to me that they were cheated.

At this juncture Na-ga-nab arose and addressed the council, as follows:

You have heard me tell the inspector about your bringing in your complaints about being cheated on your pine, and I have told them, and more than that I do not know, and you people who brought in the complaints must come in and tell how you were cheated.

Q. Do you know Mr. Hynes personally?—A. I am not very well acquainted with him.

Q. Can you name me one Indian who was dealt unfairly with by Mr. Hynes?—A. Frank Houle.

Q. In what way did Mr. Hynes treat Frank Houle unfairly in his lumber transactions?—A. I can not tell myself, personally.

ME-KWA-ME-WE-GI-JIG, being duly sworn, deposeth as follows:

(Me-kwa-me-we-gi-jig is a very old man and adheres to all the old Indian customs.)

Q. Did you sign this paper?—A. Yes.

- Q. Was it read to you before you signed it?—A. Yes.
 Q. How much lumber did you sell Hynes?—A. I did not count them.
 Q. Did you sell him any?—A. Yes.
 Q. Did you make the contract with Mr. Hynes?—A. I did not.
 Q. Who made your contract?—A. A man by the name of John Vania, with whom I live.
 Q. Did you not sign the contract yourself for the sale of your timber to Mr. Hynes?—A. No, sir.
 Q. Have you been fairly treated by Mr. Hynes?—A. No.
 Q. In what way did Mr. Hynes treat you unfairly?—A. The man that cut my timber told me there was $800 due me, and when I settled with Hynes there was only $500 coming to me.
 Q. Who cut your timber?—A. John Vania.
 Q. Is there anything more you want to state in regard to Mr. Hynes?—A. No, sir.

JOSEPH HOULE, being duly sworn, deposes as follows:

- Q. Did you sign the paper?—A. Yes.
 Q. Was it read to you before you signed it?—A. Yes.
 Q. Do you know what it contains?—A. When the paper was read to me I understood it perfectly and signed it.
 Q. Who read it to you?—A. James Coffey.
 Q. How much timber did you sell Hynes?—A. I did not sell him any.
 Q. How do you know Hynes dealt unfairly with the Indians?—A. I know by my boy selling to him.
 Q. What do you know about your boy selling to him?—A. I don't know anything about my boy being cheated by Mr. Hynes, but what I hear of other people being cheated by Hynes, I signed the paper.
 Q. Who do you know that was cheated by Mr. Hynes—not that you have heard, but from personal knowledge?—A. I can't name anybody.
 Q. Is there anything more that you know about Mr. Hynes's cheating the Indians that you wish to state?—A. No, sir.
 (Two of these witnesses, Na-ga-nab and Me-qua-me-we-ge-shig, are very old men, Me-qua-me-we-ge-shig still adhering to the old primitive style. These three witnesses were the signers of the paper.)
 Q. (to HOULE). Do you remember at the meeting of the council of a committee being appointed?—A. I remember it.
 Q. Who appointed the committee?—A. Antoine Na-ga-nab told me that the old men are the ones that ought to be appointed.
 Q. Name me one Indian who sold his timber to Mr. Hynes and was unfairly treated.—Joe Frank.

JOE FRANK, being duly sworn, deposes as follows:

- Q. What is your name?—A. Joe Frank.
 Q. Do you reside upon the Fond du Lac Reservation?—A. Yes.
 Q. How long have you lived there?—A. All my life.
 Q. Did you sell timber to Mr. Hynes last year?—A. Yes, sir.
 Q. Have you been dissatisfied with your settlement with Hynes?—A. Yes, sir; I think I was one of the main ones.
 Q. Why were you dissatisfied?—A. When I first made the contract with Hynes he promised to sell me anything I used at reasonable figures, and we did not see that he let us have things as he promised us, and there were a great many things charged against me that I never got, and when the agent came here I showed him my books and the agent would not take my books, and he said: "Why didn't you have your books fixed up," and I said I couldn't, as those at the store would not fix them up. I wanted them to fix up those things that I never received, and they would not do it. The first time I logged I was ahead $179.68, and I took another job and when I quit I only had $15 coming to me. When I settled up the last time and they told me I only had $15 and I wondered how it was, and then after while I went again and they told me there was only $9 coming.
 Q. How many seasons have you sold to Hynes?—A. Only last season.
 Q. Why did you sell to him?—A. He coaxed us. It was then at Na-ga-nab's. There were a lot of people there.
 Q. Did Na-ga-nab think Hynes was a good man to sell to?—A. We never asked him (Na-ga-nab) if we would sell our timber, but sold without counseling him. Na-ga-nab's house was the first place he spoke to us about selling. We made the contract down at the village.

Q. Did you not know you could sell to any one you chose?—A. Mr. Hynes told us that he only had authority to buy timber, as he had papers from Washington.

Q. Did Hynes tell you so?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is there anything more you have to say in regard to your dealings with Hynes?—A. They would never give me the scale of the pine. (Agent Gregory states that he gave him the scale of the logs at the settlement.)

Mr. Hynes here asked Frank if he did not get his scale bills weekly, and Frank replied that he did not.

Q. How much whisky did you bring on the reserve last winter?—A. Twice I brought whisky on the reserve, and that I got from the doctor.

Q. Did you bring any other whisky on the reserve?—A. No.

OBI-QUOT, being duly sworn, deposes as follows:

Q. What is your name?—A. Joe Obi-quot.

Q. Did you sell any pine to Hynes last winter?—A. Yes.

Q. State what took place last winter, in regard to your contract.—A. Myself and Joe Coburn made a contract with Hynes.

Q. Has that contract been satisfactorily carried out?—A. No, sir.

Q. In what way was it unsatisfactory to you?—A. He took our camp away from us, and put another man in to run it.

Q. (By Hynes.) Did not Coburn wish that I put another man and run the camp for you?—A. For my part, I did not; but another man went up to my camp to have the camp run by another, and Coburn consented.

Q. Did you object to this man?—A. Yes.

Q. To whom did you object to having this foreman?—A. I told it to Coburn.

Q. Is there anything more you wish to state?—A. I wanted to get horses, and when the logging was done he took the team away.

Q. To whom did the team belong?—A. We got the team from Wallace, and Hynes paid for it.

Q. Did not the team belong to Hynes?—A. When we took the team, and wanted him to pay for it, we thought he bought it for us.

Q. Did you not get pay for your timber?—A. I never received anything but supplies.

Q. Are you and Coburn not in debt to Mr. Hynes?—A. I don't know.

Q. Have you not had an account from Hynes?—A. No.

Q. Have you not been informed by Mr. Hynes that you were in debt to him?—A. No, sir. Hynes might have told Coburn.

Q. Is there anything more you want to say?—A. I don't know, but Joe Coburn says Hynes told him that if they were behind at the end of the season Hynes would scratch it off.

JOE NA-GA-NAB, being duly sworn, deposes as follows:

Q. What is your name?—A. Joe Na-ga-nab.

Q. Are you son of Na-ga-nab, head chief?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you sell timber to Hynes last year?—A. I made a contract, but did not cut.

Q. You made a contract last year, but did not cut any?—A. I made the contract, but cut no timber.

Q. Have you renewed that contract this year?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you intend Mr. Hynes to get your timber this year?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you any reason to believe that Mr. Hynes dealt unfairly with the Indians last year?—A. I don't know. The only thing I know is that I made a contract and he did not cut.

Q. If you believed Mr. Hynes dishonest, would you have sold your timber to him this year?—A. No, sir.

Q. Is there anything further you wish to say?—A. No, sir.

McMAHON.

Q. What is your name?—A. John McMahon.

Q. What is your occupation?—A. Scaler.

Q. Did you scale for Joe Frank's logs that were sold to Hynes?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. How were the scale bills delivered to Joe Frank?—A. Whenever they wanted a scale bill they got it. Sometimes it would be weekly and sometimes two weeks, but never longer than two weeks.

FRANK DEFOE, being duly sworn, deposes and says as follows:

Q. What is your name?—A. Frank Defoe.

Q. Did you sell your timber last year to Hynes?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have his dealings with you been satisfactory?—A. There is nothing wrong. Mr. Hynes treated me fairly and I have no complaints to make.

Q. Then you are satisfied?—A. I am, and have no fault to find.

JOE DEFOE, being duly sworn, deposes as follows:

Q. What is your name?—A. Joe Defoe.

Q. Did you sell your pine timber to Hynes last winter?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were his dealings satisfactory to you?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you think Mr. Hynes deals fairly with the Indians?—A. I don't know. He dealt fairly with me.

Q. Have you sold your timber to Hynes for the coming winter?—A. Yes, sir.

PATRICK HYNES, being duly sworn, deposed as follows:

I purchased timber from some of the Indians on the Fond du Lac Reservation last season. I never told any Indian that I had exclusive right to purchase their timber. I instructed the scalers to render a statement of logs cut to the Indians weekly, and think my instructions were carried out. The logs purchased by me from the Indians were sold by me to the Cloquet Lumber Company. This company bought from me by the same scale as I bought from the Indians and it was to my interest to have as large a scale as possible.

ALEX FRAZER, surveyor-general 5th district of Minnesota, Duluth, Minn., being duly sworn, deposes as follows:

At Agent Gregory's request I sent scalers to the Fond du Lac reserve to test the scale of the logs bought by Mr. Hynes. They went to each landing on the reserve and tested the scale and found it to be correct, and on their return to Duluth reported to me that they thought the scalers were giving the Indians a liberal scale, more so than is customary among white lumbermen. I have conversed with a good many of the Indians who sold pine to Hynes, and none of them made any complaints about the scale.

Respectfully submitted.

M. A. THOMAS,

U. S. Indian Inspector and Special Disbursing Agent.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., February 8, 1887.

SIR: I have the honor to transmit for your consideration and action in connection with my letter to you of 24th ultimo, a communication from H. P. Elsemore, of Eau Claire, Wis., relative to the "very extensive logging operations" on the Flambeau Indian Reservation.

Very respectfully,

WM. A. J. SPARKS,
Commissioner.

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

[Inclosure.]

EAU CLAIRE, WIS., January 27, 1887.

DEAR SIR: I am very sure there is a very extensive logging operation going on on the Flambeau Reservation. Since I wrote you on the 11th I have been informed that there were some entries made by Indians. I have reason to believe that there is now 100 white men employed in cutting and hauling logs from the reservation, which I supposed was strictly against the law. I am a practical woodsman and surveyor, and could soon locate the lands the operation is being performed on. If there is no logging on the Flambeau Reservation by white men my services would be nothing. Could such an operation be carried on lawfully and you know nothing about it at Washington?

Yours, very respectfully,

E. P. ELSEMORE,
528 Hobart Street.

LAND COMMISSIONER,
Washington, D. C.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, February 5, 1887.

SIR: Your letter of the 11th ultimo, addressed to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, has been referred to this Bureau.

In reply you are informed that the lands known as the Lac du Flambeau Reservation are not in the market. Allotments of land thereon have recently been made to certain Indians of the Lac du Flambeau band, and it is presumed that the logging operations to which you refer arise out of the necessary clearance of the lands by the Indians. The attention of the agent has been called to the matter.

Very respectfully,

J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

Mr. H. P. ELSEMORE,
Eau Claire, Wis.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, February 8, 1887.

SIR: H. P. Elsemore, Eau Claire, Wis., writes this office that he is informed of a large logging operation in existence on the Lac du Flambeau reserve, and inquires whether the lands are in market.

He has been advised that the lands are not for sale, and that the logging matter has been referred to you for explanation.

A report from you on the subject is desired.

Very respectfully,

J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

J. T. GREGORY, Esq.,
U. S. Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, February 21, 1887.

SIR: In compliance with Department instructions of 15th instant, directing you to investigate certain matters at the La Pointe Agency, Wisconsin, you will ascertain and report how much Sherman Brothers pay the Indians on the Lac du Flambeau Reservation for their logs.

This information is desired by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and also such other facts relating to the subject as your investigation may develop touching the fairness of the dealings of those parties with those Indians.

Very respectfully,

H. L. MULDROW,
Acting Secretary.

R. S. GARDNER, Esq.,
U. S. Indian Inspector, White Earth Agency, Minn.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE,
La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis., March 10, 1887.

SIR: In compliance with Department instructions of February 21, 1887, I have the honor to report that I visited the Lac du Flambeau Reservation and made diligent inquiry into the matter regarding the amount being paid to the Indians for pine cut upon their reservation by A. M. Sherman, Charles H. Henry, and D. H. Donnellan. There is no one doing business with the Lac du Flambeau Indians under the name of Sherman Brothers. A. M. Sherman has contracted with thirteen Indians for their pine, and at the following prices: Oji-ma-gigig $6 per thousand for both Norway and white pine upon his allotment of 80 acres or selection, and to all the other Indians $4 per thousand for Norway and $5 per thousand for pine, excepting to one Ma-ba-ka-kek, who says he was to have been paid $6 per thousand for the pine on his 80-acre selection. A. M. Sherman says he agreed to pay Ma-ka-kek $5 per thousand for the pine on his 80-acre selection. The contract calls for $5 per thousand. The interpreter says he read and explained to this man the terms of the contract and the price to be paid some three different times, and that he, the said Ma-ba-ka-ke, well understood that the price to be paid for his pine on his 80-acre selection was $5 per thousand. In conversation with other Indians, and in the presence of Wa-ba-ka-ke, they said that the price to be paid him, as they understood it, was $5 per thousand. I think Wa-ba-ka-ke is mistaken, and that $5 was the price at which he sold his pine to A. M. Sherman, and from information obtained from the scalers, I am led to the opinion that $5 is a fair price for this timber. To include March 8, 1887, there had been cut and banked by A. M. Sherman, from two camps, and scaled by H. H. Reynolds, 24,440 logs, measuring 5,300,000 feet, and advances in shape of supplies and some money had been made to the amount of $2,248.99, as was ascertained from examination of their books and pass-books kept by the several different Indians; these Indians are receiving just and fair treatment and dealing at the hands of A. M. Sherman.

Charles H. Henry has contracted with four Indians for the pine and Norway upon their respective 80-acre selections or allotments, as follows, to wit: Be-she-he-shick, Marchirs, Ma-sob, and Was-sun-ne-be. He pays these parties a uniform price of $5 per 1,000 for both Norway and white pine. "There is very little Norway on these four selections." They have received in supplies $336.55. The pine cut and scaled, to include the 5th instant, was 3,056 logs, 782,550 feet of pine. The greater portion of the work done in this camp is done by Indians. Daniel F. Donnellan has contracted with two parties (Waquage-jig and Pte-gi-zhe-go-rue) for timber on their respective 80-acre selections, and has agreed to pay them $5.50 per 1,000 for pine and $5.50 per 1,000 for Norway. The timber cut and scaled, to include the 5th instant, was 1,200 logs, scaling 350,000 feet. The pine timber cut upon the various 80-acre selections is to be delivered by the Indians upon the banks of the streams, or, in other words, they are to pay the cost of placing these logs there, and of the cutting of the same. The amount of this expense is to be deducted from the amount of feet the timber scales, at the price per 1,000 as per contract, and the balance paid to the individual Indian, less the amount he or she has received in supplies from the several contractors, be that amount large or small. In addition to this, Charles H. Henry has agreed with the four with whom he has contracted that he will guaranty them as net profit the sum of $2 per 1,000 feet for the timber cut and banked by him, regardless of the price it costs to cut and bank the same. For instance, he agrees to pay them $5 per 1,000 for the timber banked. If it cost $4 per 1,000 to cut and bank it, he agrees to pay the $2 per 1,000, and if it cost only $2, $2.50, or $3 per 1,000 to bank it they are to get the $3, $2.50, or $2 per 1,000, as the case may be. This agreement does not appear upon the face of the contract, but is a separate contract with these four Indians.

The logging enterprise upon this reserve was begun too late in the season, and will be attended with greater expense than if it had begun sooner. A. M. Sherman's contracts bear date November 24, 1886, and are in the hands of the agent. They have never been forwarded to the Department for approval; they are imperfectly drawn, and not in duplicate, and no bonds are filed with them, and also some of the names are improperly spelled. The four contracts with Charles H. Henry are in proper form, are in duplicate, but no bonds have been filed. The two contracts with Dan. H. Donnellan were made and executed on the 8th instant; they are in proper form, in duplicate, but no bonds filed.

The several contractors appear to be dealing fairly and honestly with these Indians, and are paying them good wages for their labor. A goodly number of them have worked well and faithfully, but they soon get tired, and they can not be depended upon for regular and steady work. They have done better than could be expected, this being their first venture at this kind of work on their own reserve.

The mission or church building having been purchased by the Government to be used as school house and quarters for teacher, the same was taken possession of and occupied by the teacher on or about the first day of January, 1887, and vacating the building formerly used for this purpose, which, upon it being vacated by Mrs. Clara Allen, the teacher, was immediately occupied by A. M. Sherman, who then opened a trading store in the same, and has continued to use and occupy this building as a trading store from that to the present. No arrangement with him and Agent Gregory had been made regarding the rent of this building. He, A. M. Sherman, occupies this building with the full knowledge and consent of Agent Gregory. The rent for this building should be fixed at a rate not to exceed $100 per year, or $25 per quarter, from January 1, 1887; and in this connection it might be well to state that A. M. Sherman has not obtained a license to trade with these Indians, as is required by section 546, Instructions to Agents, 1880, and act of July 31, 1882. The stock of goods kept is not large; the goods are of a good quality, and sold at reasonable prices. A. M. Sherman informed me that he had made verbal applications to Agent Gregory to open this store to sell to Indians who were working for him in his camp, and also to those with whom he had contracted for their pine. I believe it was an error of judgment in thinking no license was required for this store; and Mr. A. M. Sherman will make formal application for license to trade with these Indians, and I know of no reason why his application should not be granted.

Very respectfully,

ROBT. S. GARDNER,
U. S. Indian Inspector.

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

[Indorsement.]

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, March 14, 1887.

Respectfully referred to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

AMOS HADLEY,
Acting Chief Clerk.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, March 25, 1887.

SIR: On November 4, 1886, you were instructed from this office by telegram as follows:

"Except as to allotment No. 3, Nannie Stone, allow Lac du Flambeau allottees to go to work and clear their allotments in quantity sufficient for actual necessities, with permission to sell surplus timber. Keep the work well in hand and see that no speculators get in on the reservation. Schedule of allotments will be acted on at once by this office."

November 5 you acknowledged receipt of this telegram, stating that the Indians were very poor, not having even tools, to say nothing of necessary outfit or provisions, to do the clearing themselves, and that they would have to contract with some responsible person or persons having teams and money, to clear off the timber, cut it into proper lengths and bank it, and then drive it in the spring to where it can be manufactured into lumber. The streams also would have to be improved in order to get the logs to the mills, and the Indians have no money to do it with.

Under these circumstances, and interpreting the dispatch to mean that the clearing should be done in the most economical and best way, you had decided to permit them to make contracts for the surplus timber cut in making clearings in the usual form and subject to the regulations of the Department on the subject.

Representations having been made to the Department that extensive timber operations were being conducted on the Flambeau reserve, Inspector Gardner was directed to proceed thither to investigate the matter.

I am now in receipt of the inspector's report to the Department, from which I gather the following facts:

A. M. Sherman has contracted with thirteen Indians for their pine at prices ranging from $4 per 1,000 for Norway to $6 for pine, and that up to and inclusive of March 6, 1887, he had cut and banked from two camps, and scaled by H. H. Reynolds, 24,440 logs, measuring 5,300,000 feet, upon which advances in the shape of supplies and some money had been made to the Indians to the amount of $2,248.99, as ascertained by examination of books and pass-books kept by the Indians.

Charles H. Henry has contracted with four Indians for the timber upon their respective selections or allotments at a uniform price of $5 per 1,000 for Norway and white pine. Including the 5th instant, there had been cut and scaled 3,056 logs, scaling 782,550 feet, on account of which the Indians had received in supplies $336.55. The greater portion of this work is being done by Indians.

Daniel H. Donellan has contracted with two Indians for the timber on their respective selections at $5.50 per 1,000 for pine and Norway. Including the 5th instant, the timber cut and scaled was 1,200 logs, scaling 350,000 feet.

The timber cut upon the several 80-acre selections is to be delivered by the Indians on the banks of the streams, or, in other words, they are to pay the cost of placing the logs there and of the cutting. The amount of this expense is to be deducted from amount of feet the timber scales at the price per 1,000 as per contract, and the balance paid to the individual Indian, less amount received in supplies from the several contractors.

In addition to this Charles H. Henry has agreed with the four Indians with whom he has contracted that he will guaranty to them as net profit $2 per 1,000 feet for the timber cut and banked by him regardless of the price it costs to cut and bank the same. This agreement does not appear on the face of the contract, but is a separate contract with these four Indians. [Query: Is this separate agreement in writing, or merely verbal?]

Sherman's contracts, bearing date November 24, 1886, are stated to be in your hands, but have never been forwarded for approval. The inspector reports them as improperly drawn, not in duplicate, and no bonds filed.

The Henry and Donellan contracts are reported as being in proper shape and in duplicate, but no bonds filed.

All the contractors are reported as apparently dealing fairly and honestly with the Indians, and paying them good wages for their labor.

Inspector Gardner further reports that A. M. Sherman, with your knowledge and consent, occupies the old mission or church building, on the reserve, as a trading store, for which he pays no rent. He recommends that the rent for the building should be paid at a rate not exceeding $100 per year, or $25 per quarter, from January 1, 1887. He also reports that Mr. Sherman has not taken out a license to trade with the Indians.

Upon this state of facts the following questions naturally present themselves:

(1) Has the cutting and sale of timber on the Lac du Flambeau reserve been limited exclusively to those Indians whose selections are now pending before the Department?

(2) Do the several contracts above referred to call for a greater quantity of timber than was contemplated by office telegram of November 4, 1886, viz., "sufficient for actual necessities;" and, if so, why, in the present incomplete condition of the allotments, was this permitted?

(3) Why were bonds not given by the contractors?

(4) Why were the contracts not forwarded to this office in the usual course?

(5) Why were not the several contractors required to take out special licenses to trade, as in the case of Calligan Brothers and others, on the Lac Court d'Oreilles reserve?

(6) Mr. Sherman should be required to pay rent for the building he occupies as recommended by Inspector Gardner, and he, as well as the other contractors, be required to take out licenses.

In my letter of 24th instant, relative to the Fond du Lac allotments, I explained the reason for the delay in acting upon them. The same reason is applicable to the Lac du Flambeau, and I would caution you against entertaining any further contracts for the sale of timber until you are notified by this office that the schedule of allotments is approved.

By so doing complications and adverse criticism will be avoided.

Your early reply will oblige,

Very respectfully,

J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

J. T. GREGORY, Esq.,

U. S. Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, Wis., March 31, 1887.

SIR: I have the honor to reply to Department letter "L, 6869-1887," as follows:

I would state in beginning that much delay in getting the logging operations on the Lac du Flambeau Reservation into proper shape has been caused by the isolated position of the reservation and the absence of any employé who was competent to take charge of such work. I will not attempt to give a personal report of the logging operations at this time, as I expect to include it in my report at the end of the present season, but will confine myself to answering specifically the questions asked by you.

(1) Has the cutting and sale of timber on the Lac du Flambeau reserve been limited exclusively to those Indians whose selections are now ending before the Department?

In answer to this question, I would say yes. No pine has been cut on land not sent in for patent. My logging report will contain a list of the lands cut on, together with the names of the respective allottees and the contractors to whom sold.

(2) Do the several contracts above referred to call for a greater quantity of timber than was contemplated by office telegram of November 4, 1886, viz.: "sufficient for actual necessities," and if so, why in the present incomplete condition of the allotments was this permitted?

My instructions to the contractors were not to cut more than 20 to 40 acres on each allotment, according to the thickness of the timber, and I think this amount comes within the limit of "sufficient for actual necessities" for this reason.

In making preparations to log on any certain tract of land a large amount of money must be expended putting in a main road, cutting roads through the tract, and building skidways from which to load the logs onto the teams before any timber can be banked.

Now it would cost more than the logs are worth to go onto an 80-acre allotment, and go to all this expense simply to clear 3 or 4 acres of land.

In my judgment, the amount of land above named is the lowest that can be logged with profit in each allotment, and I therefore do not think I was exceeding the quantity of timber contemplated by office telegram of November 4, 1886, when I allowed the amounts above stated to be cut.

(3) Why were not bonds given by the contractors? Why were the contracts not forwarded to this office in the usual course?

I would answer these two questions by saying that I did not consider the usual forms would cover the ground in these cases.

The Indians had no patents to the land, and in the forms now used on the other reservations the contract states "that the said party of the first part having received from the United States a patent, etc.," and the bonds also state "an Indian holding patent for the, etc."

I thought I would be warranted in doing as had been done formerly on the Fond du Lac Reservation, where the Indians cut their pine without contracts and sold it in the spring, the agent in charge seeing that they received just compensation therefor. The logs were banked on the reservation and could not be removed by the contractors until they had settled with the allottees in a satisfactory manner; that is to say, I did not consider the rights of the Indians were at any disadvantage under the method I was pursuing, as the contractors put in the logs at their own risk and trusted to the good faith of the allottees to deliver the logs in the spring.

If, however, the Department thinks the usual contracts and bonds will cover the ground, or that the rights of the Indians are not sufficiently protected under the method I am pursuing, I would respectfully request that you instruct me, and I will comply at once.

The contractors in question did submit contracts to me, but they were void by reason of numerous defects, and I did not take steps to have them properly completed for the reasons stated above.

(5) Why were not the several contractors required to take out special licenses to trade, as in the case of Calligan Bros. and others on the Lac Court d'Oreilles reserve?

Before my departure on leave of absence, January 31, 1887, I instructed Mr. A. M. Sherman to make application for license to trade with the Flambeau Indians. Upon my return I found he had neglected to do so.

On or about March 20, 1887, he completed his bond and forwarded it to this office, but it had to be returned for correction. Upon its return I will forward it at once, as also bonds of Charles H. Henry and Daniel Donnellan, together with their applications for special licenses to trade with the Lac du Flambeau band of Chippewas.

In regard to Charles H. Henry's agreement with the Indians to guarantee them $2 per 1,000 stumpage, I would state that it is verbal.

Inspector Gardner is mistaken when he reports A. M. Sherman as occupying the old mission house as a trading store. He occupies the old school house and has put it in good repair.

I have notified him to pay rent at the rate of $100 per annum, and at the end of the quarter will deposit $25 in the United States Treasury to credit of the Lac du Flambeau band of Chippewas.

In conclusion, I would state that I have acted in good faith throughout and tried to manage for the best interests of the Indians, and I am certain that at the end of the logging season the net profits per 1,000 accruing to them will be as great, if not greater than to those living on the reservations where the pine has been sold by contract.

Very respectfully,

J. T. GREGORY,
U. S. Indian Agent.

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., April 26, 1887.

SIR: I have the honor to transmit herewith for your consideration and such action as you may deem proper the duplicate of a report by Special Timber Agent Roberts, in which it is charged that in the winter of 1886-'87 the Calligan brothers, of Chippewa Falls, Wis., cut and removed 401,500 feet of logs from the west half northwest quarter-section 34, township 39, range 8 west, and north half southeast quarter-section 14, same township and range. The lands in question are shown by the tract books of this office to be a part of the Lac Court Oreilles Indian Reservation.

Relative to the above, should you desire any further action by a special agent of this office, Special Agent Roberts, on duty at Ashland, Wis., will be instructed to render any required service.

Very respectfully,

S. M. STOCKSLAGER,
Assistant Commissioner.

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner Indian Affairs.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, May 11, 1887.

SIR: I inclose herewith a copy of a letter from the Assistant Commissioner of the General Land Office, dated 26th ultimo, transmitting the duplicate of a report (also herewith inclosed) made by Special Timber Agent Roberts, in which it is charged that in the winter of 1886-'87, Calligan Brothers, of Chippewa Falls, Wis., willfully cut and removed 401,510 feet of pine logs from west half northwest quarter-section 34, township 39, range 8 west, and north half southeast quarter-section 14, same township and range, said lands being a part of the Lac Court d'Oreilles Indian Reservation, which was established by Executive order of March 1, 1873, in pursuance of the provisions of the treaty with the Chippewas of Lake Superior and the Mississippi, of September 30, 1854 (10 Stat. at Large, 1109).

I have the honor to recommend that the papers be laid before the honorable Attorney-General, with the request that he instruct the United States attorney for the western district of Wisconsin, to institute the necessary proceedings at law in the premises.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

D. L. HAWKINS,
Acting Commissioner.

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, May 12, 1887.

SIR: I have the honor to inclose herewith copy of a letter of 11th instant from the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, with accompanying papers noted therein, relating to timber trespass alleged to have been committed upon the Lac Court Oreilles Chippewa Indian Reservation, in the State of Wisconsin, in the winter of 1886-'87, by Calligan Bros, of Chippewa Falls, in said State.

The commissioner recommends that the proper United States district attorney be instructed to institute the necessary proceedings at law in the premises.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully,

L. Q. C. LAMAR,
Secretary.

The ATTORNEY GENERAL.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE,
Washington, May 16, 1887.

SIR: I am in receipt of your letter of the 12th instant, with its inclosures, relative to timber trespass by Calligan Bros., of Chippewa Falls, Wis., on the Lac Court Oreilles Chippewa Indian Reservation.

The United States attorney has been instructed to bring civil suit against Calligan Bros., for the value of the lumber taken by them, 401,510 feet, if after examination such course is justified by the facts and it is in his judgment best for the public interest. If it shall be discovered in his investigation that the trespass was knowing and willful, then the suit to be for the manufactured value of the lumber.

I am of the opinion that as to other proceedings against the trespassers, the Indian Office has through the Indian agent ample power, without the intervention of this Department.

Very respectfully,

A. H. GARLAND,
Attorney General

[Indorement.]

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
May 17, 1887,

Respectfully referred to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

AMOS HADLEY,
Assistant Chief Clerk.

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 19, 1887.

DEAR SIR: Complying with your request that Mr. Calligan meet Agent Gregory at your office this a. m. as desired by the latter, and lay before you in presence of Mr. Gregory any grievance or complaint he might wish to submit, I saw both gentlemen and made known your request. Mr. Calligan expressed his willingness to comply, and Mr. Gregory made no objection. Later, however, the agent (Gregory) informed me that urgent official business would compel him to leave the city for first train, which I believe he did. The absence of Mr. Gregory will therefore defeat your purpose to have them meet you this morning, and together discuss their differences. Mr. Calligan regrets thus being unable to avail himself of the opportunity to confer with you in presence of your agent, but if desired will call notwithstanding, and make such explanation touching the matters in controversy as you may desire.

Yours, very truly,

THAD. C. POUND.

Hon. A. B. UPSHAW,
Acting Commissioner.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, February 17, 1888.

SIR: I have the honor to inclose herewith a communication, dated the 3d ultimo, from P. H. Calligan, a member of the firm of Calligan Bros., Chippewa Falls, Wis., preferring certain charges against United States Indian Agent J. T. Gregory, of the La Pointe Agency, in connection with the logging operations now and for some years past conducted on the Lac Court d'Oreilles and other Indian reservations under authority of the Department, granted September 28, 1882.

Mr. Calligan prefaces his statement by alleging that "Agent Gregory, in his official conduct has openly and notoriously shown personal favoritism to Dobie & Stratton, the regular traders, in utter disregard of the interests of the Indians, or the equal rights of all citizens, to carry on a legitimate business," and in support of this statement calls attention to "the fact of record in your [this] office, that he, Gregory, personally requested of you [me] authority to limit the sale of timber to the regular traders; which you [I] by letter declined to do, but it is to be regretted, did give him extraordinary discretions, which he has used to compass the same purpose, so far as possible to do;" and, after characterizing as false an alleged statement of Agent Gregory to one Buffington, that he (Calligan) had declined to meet him before the Acting Commissioner, when both parties were in this city last summer, charges as follows:

That said firm of Calligan Bros. engaged in the purchase of logs belonging to the Indians of the Lac Court d'Oreilles Reservation during the winters of 1885-'86, their transactions being amicable and satisfactory.

That during the summer of 1886 the Government farmer (Rustler) informed them that preference would be given to parties who should make advances to the Indians for the purchase of logs, whereupon they, the said Calligan Bros., proceeded to make large advances on account of prospective contracts to be made at the proper time.

That later it being rumored that the sale of logs was to be confined to Dobie & Stratton (the traders) Hon. T. J. Cunningham visited Agent Gregory on their behalf, and as a sequence informed them that their contracts would be all right, but that the agent complained that they were offering too much for the logs.

That later Agent Gregory instructed the farmer (Rustler) not to furnish Calligan Bros. with blank contracts, as he should not approve any contracts with them.

That said farmer, in pursuance of instructions from the agent, informed the Indians that Calligan Bros. would not be permitted to purchase logs, whereupon other parties on such information, proceeded to contract for the logs of the same parties, for which and with whom they (Calligan Bros.) had made agreements and advances.

That at this juncture ex-Governor Pound induced the agent to recede from his determination, and it was agreed in the cases of such duplicate agreements that the Indian should choose, in the presence of both parties, which of them he desired to contract with, and such choice should determine the question, the farmer being instructed accordingly.

That blanks were duly furnished to Calligan Brothers, and the course agreed to proceeded with until the case of one Mary Bray (an Indian) was reached, when the agent positively refused to be governed by the choice.

That the attention of the Department was called to this case, but before action was had the timber had been so far removed that they (Calligan Brothers) waived any interference.

Claims that this was a case of personal favoritism, in which the farmer, acting under the advice of the agent, had persuaded said Mary Bray to contract with one Peter Bergevin, traveling a long distance from his office to Flambeau with said Bergevin for such purpose, and upon the final hearing declined to act as in other cases, but referred it directly to the agent, who flatly refused to approve their (Calligans') contract as desired by said Mary Bray, notwithstanding she would have realized more than under the contract with Bergevin.

Charges that in another case (name not given) that was brought to the attention of Inspector Gardner, Calligan Brothers were caused great annoyance and loss by the partiality of Agent Gregory.

That in this case the agent omitted to approve the contract before forwarding it for the action of this office, but that upon its being returned with the Commissioner's conditional approval, he corrected his error.

That after the work had been commenced on this contract, the agent undertook to annul it in the interest of Dobie & Stratton, ordering work to be discontinued, putting Calligan Brothers to much loss, and only withdrawing opposition when Inspector Gardner, after reviewing the case, advised him to do so.

That Agent Gregory represented to the inspector that they (Calligans) had no contract in the case, but that they produced it, together with other papers, showing the agent's prior recognition of the same.

Charges that said Calligan Brothers, having contracted with the Indian holding patent for north half of southeast quarter, section 14, township 39, range 8 west, for the logs to be cut from the same; and paying a higher price than other parties were paying for such timber, and presuming upon the agent's approval, they entered upon the fulfillment of the contract, but were ordered to suspend, and did so.

That they paid the owner in full for all logs secured, after having first tendered the money, in trust, to Agent Gregory, who refused it and complained of them for trespass.

That he has since approved a contract made by their assignees, the Valley Lumber Company, with the same party for the same timber upon the same terms made by Calligan Brothers.

That whilst they were being prevented by the agent from a legitimate fulfillment of their contract, and prosecuted for trespass, Dobie & Stratton were permitted without interference to enter upon the premises in question and remove a large amount of timber without the semblance of a contract.

Charges that since his return from this city, and for the purpose of continuing a business in which they had invested nearly all their means, George Calligan asked the agent if he would accept their (Calligan Brothers') contracts for logs cut from the reservation the coming winter.

That the agent's reply was evasive, saying he had no instructions from the Department, and that they must take their chances with others.

That he afterwards instructed his chief clerk to give Calligan Brothers no statements of accepted or patented allotments (such as were never denied to others).

That after having made agreements for several million feet of logs to be cut this winter, and made advances on the same, the agent made public his determination not to approve any contract made by them, and instructed the farmer accordingly; thus compelling them to abandon their business, or engage in a profitless and probably expensive controversy with the agent, and involving an appeal to this office for determination.

That said Calligan Brothers have chosen the former course, and sold their outfit to the Valley Lumber Company of Eau Claire, inducing their contractors to substitute the name of said company for that of Calligan Brothers, which being done, said agent promptly approved the contracts.

Mr. Calligan concludes by stating that he sends the communication with much reluctance, as neither himself nor Calligan Brothers court any controversy with the agent or any other party, "and for further reason that the Department can derive from this letter but slight conception of the abuses and prostitution of trust by your agent, fast becoming notorious in this community, and unless soon arrested, certain to entail upon this Administration very damaging scandal," and holds himself in readiness to appear in person or present by letter any further information required.

In regard to Mr. Calligan's preliminary remarks relative to the fact alleged to be of record in this office, viz: "That Agent Gregory personally requested of you [me] authority to limit the sale of timber to the regular traders, which you [I] by letter declined to do, but it is to be regretted did give him extraordinary discretions, which he has used to compass the same purpose, so far as possible to do," it is due to Mr. Gregory, and to this office that I should make the following explanation:

On the 7th April, 1886, one H. C. Tatum, of Illinois, was licensed by this office as an additional Indian trader at the La Pointe Agency.

On the 9th August following the license was revoked, it appearing that Mr. Tatum had taken no steps whatever to open up a trading store.

As reasons for his inaction Mr. Tatum assigned the following, viz: The fact that when he obtained his license the spring trade was practically over; the impassability of the roads, and his desire to have a clear understanding beforehand as to the rights of the licensed traders in connection with the logging operations then being conducted on the Indian reservations.

The main reason, however, appears to have been his failure to obtain an order from this office directing Agent Gregory "not to approve of any contracts for logs, except those of the regular licensed traders there, Messrs. Dobie & Stratton and myself (Tatum)," for which he had in terms above stated previously applied in a letter dated June 21, 1886, addressed to Hon. W. R. Morrison, and again in one addressed to me directly, dated July 10, 1886, both of which letters are now on file in this office, and copies whereof, as also of one dated August 13, 1886, upon the same subject, are herewith submitted. (Exhibits A, B, and C.)

When Agent Gregory was here in the latter part of July or beginning of August, 1886, shortly after making his annual report for the season 1885-'86, in the course of a general conversation on the logging business, Mr. Tatum's license was referred to, and, incidentally, his application to have the contracts confined to the traders.

It should here be stated that Special Agent Heth, who had been sent out the previous April to investigate the logging business in connection with certain charges of fraud published in the local press of Wisconsin, implicating officials and others, and who, in his investigation, found nothing to sustain the charges, had, in his report, recommended that instead of one, as theretofore, three traders should be appointed for the Lac Court d'Oreilles Reservation, who alone should be contracted with, and his reasons were these:

"* * * Being under bond they will be compelled to sell supplies at prices supervised by you, and a worthy competition will enable the Indian to obtain supplies at less cost than prices fixed by you as fair and legitimate, the price of logs being fixed by supply and demand.

"The Indian can only be cheated in the prices charged for supplies furnished him by unlicensed contractors. The latter (over whom you can exercise no control) sells supplies to the Indians at his own figures, takes a lien on their pay, and leaves at the end of the season satisfied, whilst the licensed trader has to carry these same men over the year, who are now without funds, or receive their displeasure and that of the tribe."

Pending further discussion with Agent Gregory, I was called away to Tennessee, and the matter was left with the Assistant Commissioner (Hon. A. B. Upshaw), who, on August 11, 1886, wrote me as follows:

"* * * Upon the whole I am of the opinion that to restrict the contracts in the hands of the licensed traders only would be an injudicious proceeding. To do so would not only be in contravention of the original plan of the Department, and deaden competition, but would provoke a storm of adverse criticism which this bureau, in its endeavors towards a just and honest administration of Indian affairs, should not be called upon to endure.

"Knowing, however, that this question has already been before you in other ways, I prefer to know that you concur in this opinion before taking definite action on the subject." (See copy letter herewith, Exhibit D.)

To this letter I replied by the following indorsement:

"Respectfully returned to the Acting Commissioner, fully concurring in the conclusion arrived at. Notwithstanding there may be some plausibility in the claim set up by the licensed traders, nevertheless an open and unrestricted sale of logs by the Indians to the highest bidder seems to be the surest method of securing just compensation to the Indians."

On the 19th August, 1886, Hon. W. R. Morrison was duly advised by letter of the Acting Commissioner of the conclusions arrived at (see copy letter herewith, E), and on the 24th of the same month Agent Gregory was instructed by letter from this office as follows:

"* * * Referring to the conversation had with you whilst here, as to the proposition to confine the contract in the hands of the licensed traders exclusively, I have given the subject careful consideration, and have arrived at the conclusion that for various reasons it would be impolitic and injudicious to do so.

"But I see no good reason why an outside contractor who furnishes an Indian with supplies, outfits, etc., in part payment for his logs, and thereby virtually, though in a limited sense, becomes a "trader" in the Indian country, should not in all justice to the Indians, and the regular licensed trader, be placed under the same restrictions as the latter.

"The license in such cases should not be a general license to trade, but a special license to the extent necessary for the purpose only of fulfilling the contract, and should terminate with the contract itself.

"By this means the regular trader and the Indians would be protected, competition maintained, and all semblance of favoritism avoided. In short, all would be on an equal footing.

"You will therefore require all persons, other than the regular licensed traders, desiring to contract for the pine and proposing to furnish supplies, etc., on the different reservations to the Indians in part payment therefor, before any such contracts are acted upon, to first conform to the regulations of this office (copy inclosed) respecting licensed traders, by taking out license, furnishing bond, etc., and being in all things subject to the restrictions imposed upon regular licensed traders, the number of employés at such trading establishments to be limited to the actual necessities of the case, and to be subject to your approval. * * *

A reference to the remaining portion of this letter (the full text of which will be found in the inclosed copy, marked F) will show how far Mr. Calligan's allegation of "extraordinary discretions" committed by this office to Agent Gregory is justifiable.

I think I am perfectly safe in saying that at no time, either by letter or personally, did Mr. Gregory ever request or recommend that a discrimination as to contracts should be made in favor of the licensed traders. I do not think that he ever even suggested such a course. As I have before shown, the proposition, in the first instance, emanated—doubtless with the best motives—from Special Agent Heth, and later on from Mr. Tatum, manifestly from motives of self-interest.

As a sequence of the instructions to Agent Gregory of August 24, above mentioned, the following-named persons, desiring to purchase logs of the Lac Court d'Oreilles Indians during the season of 1886-'87 and to furnish them with supplies in part payment, were, upon Agent Gregory's recommendation, specially licensed by this office to trade with the Indians for the purposes of their contracts, viz: Donald McDonald, Calligan Brothers, Gaynor & Bergeron, and Peter Bergevin, Chippewa Falls, Wis.

These licenses were conditioned to expire June 1, 1887, and were issued subject to the same regulations and restrictions as those affecting the regular licensed traders, which Agent Gregory was directed to see properly enforced.

With reference to the particular instances of favoritism and partiality charged by Mr. Calligan against Agent Gregory, the following facts are disclosed by the records and files of this office:

The case of Mary Bray: On the 27th December, 1886, Agent Gregory transmitted to this office for approval three contracts, severally dated October 11, 1886, made by individual patentees of the Lac Court d'Oreilles band, with Peter Bergevin, of Chippewa Falls, viz: Ke-gan-i-ganis, west half southeast quarter section 21, township 39, range 8; Ambrose Corbine, west half northeast quarter section 28, township 39, range 8; Mary Bray, lots 1 and 4, section 4, township 38, range 8.

Ex-Governor Pound having a few days previously, on behalf of Calligan Bros., requested this office to withhold approval of said contracts on the ground of prior contracts made by these Indians with his clients, a copy of his letter was forwarded to Agent Gregory with a request for explanation.

On the 21st January, 1887, Agent Gregory replied as follows:

"* * * The respective owners of the west half of southeast quarter section 21, west half northeast quarter section 28, township 39 north, range 8 west, and lots 1 and 4, section 4, township 38 north, range 8 west, went before Mr. Rusler, Government farmer, and made contracts with Peter Bergevin for the sale of the pine timber on their allotments. After the contracts were signed Mr. Rusler forwarded them to me and I approved them. After Mr. Rusler had forwarded the contracts to me Calligan Brothers went to Mary Bray and got her to make a contract with them for $6 per 1,000, the same as Mr. Bergevin paid her, and sent it to me for my approval. I refused to approve it, and they employed Governor Pound to help them out.

"The fact that this woman went before the farmer and in the presence of witnesses voluntarily contracted with Mr. Bergevin ought to settle the matter.

"I was not aware that Calligan Bros. claimed to have contracted with the owners of the west half of southeast quarter section 21, and the west half of northeast quarter section 28, township 39 north, range 8 west, for their pine. They never mentioned the fact to me.

"I agreed with Governor Pound last fall to approve any contract made by Calligan Bros. with the Indians, but did not agree to compel the Indians to sell to them. If they had gone before the farmer and made a contract with Mary Bray before Mr. Bergevin contracted with her, it would have been approved.

"I would respectfully recommend that Mr. Bergevin's contracts be approved."

February 5 a copy of said letter was transmitted to Governor Pound, and he was requested to inform this office whether his objections were withdrawn.

February 12 Governor Pound replied, disputing the correctness of Agent Gregory's statement of the facts, and claiming that notwithstanding the Bergevin contract, which he alleged had been procured through misrepresentation of the farmer, that Calligans would not be allowed to contract, the preference of the Indian, Mary Bray, had really been openly declared in the presence of all parties interested for the Calligan contract, but that the farmer declined to act thereon, and referred the matter to Agent Gregory, who also declined to carry out the wishes of the Indian, on the ground that the contracts with Bergevin had already been approved and forwarded to this office. After suggesting a proceeding, which, owing to its irregularity, I did not feel warranted in adopting, viz, the propounding of certain interrogatories to the farmer direct, with instructions to report directly to this office, thereby completely ignoring the agent, Governor Pound concluded in the following language:

"It is to be regretted that work has already so far progressed under the Bergevin contract, notwithstanding my timely notice, that little if anything can now be done to rectify the injustice to Calligan Bros., and hence no further investigation need be made to that end." * * * (See copy letter, Exhibit G.)

Interpreting this to mean that Calligan Bros. practically withdrew all further opposition, the contracts with Bergevin were approved on the 24th February following, the price stipulated therein to be paid being $6 per 1,000 feet.

I pass over the second instance referred to by Mr. Calligan for the reason that no names are mentioned or particulars given by which the case can be recognized by this office.

In the third instance, viz, that of the patentee of north half of southeast quarter section 14, township 39, range 8 west (Besh-kwe-min-di-moje), the records of this office throw no further light on the subject than what is contained in the following:

On the 26th April, 1887, the Assistant Commissioner of the General Land Office transmitted to this office the duplicate of a report by Special Agent Roberts, charging that in the winter of 1886-'87 Calligan Bros., of Chippewa Falls, cut and removed 401,500 feet of logs from the west half of northwest quarter section 34, township 39, range 8 west, and the north half of southeast quarter section 14, same township and range, Lac Court d'Oreilles Reservation.

May 11, 1887, the trespass was reported by this office to the Department, with the recommendation that the papers be laid before the honorable Attorney-General with the request that he instruct the United States attorney for the western district of Wisconsin to institute the necessary proceedings at law in the premises.

May 16, 1887, the honorable Attorney-General advised the Department that the United States attorney had been duly instructed.

There is nothing on the files of this office to show that any contract of Calligan Bros. with the owners of north half southeast quarter section 14, township 39, range 8, west, was ever submitted to this office.

A few words now as to Agent Gregory.

Mr. Gregory was commissioned agent at the La Pointe Agency April 30, 1885, being one of the first appointees under the present Administration. He assumed charge May 19, 1885.

He has twice been investigated by special agents of this office with reference to his management of the logging operations upon the Lac Court d'Oreilles and other reservations under his charge; once upon charges preferred directly to the President by one B. Cornell, of Chippewa Falls, in the fall of 1885, and later, in April, 1886, upon statements made in the public press of Wisconsin, hereinbefore referred to. In both instances Mr. Gregory was fully exonerated and the administration of his office with fidelity sustained. (Reports of Special Agent Robinson, December 14, 1885, and of Special Agent Heth, April 16, 1886, on file in this office.)

Later, in 1887, certain Indians of the Fond du Lac Reservation, in Minnesota (also attached to the La Pointe Agency), complained to the Department that they were unjustly dealt with, in being compelled to contract with one Patrick Hynes solely for the sale of the timber on their patented tracts at a fixed price of $5 per 1,000, thereby shutting out competition and involving a loss to them in the aggregate of some $30,000.

Investigation of these complaints by an inspector of the Department developed the fact that they had been mainly instigated by one Coffey, a half-breed of unenviable notoriety, and some whites, for selfish purposes and to make trouble for the agent.

The inspector found that the industrious portion of the Indians were well satisfied with their sales, and that the dissatisfied ones were those who spent the most of their time in an adjoining town drinking whisky and leading a life of idleness.

He also found that the prices paid by Hynes—reported to be a man of excellent reputation—to the Indians were fair, and, as an evidence of the satisfaction of the Indians in their dealings with him, stated that at the date of his report more than double the number of Indians—as compared with the previous season—had contracted with Hynes for the sale of their timber to be cut during the present season. (Report of Inspector Thomas, September 29, 1887, also on file in this office.)

In another special investigation made by Inspector Gardner into the management of logging operations on the Lac du Flambeau reserve (also attached to La Pointe Agency), the inspector found that all the contractors were dealing fairly and honestly with the Indians, and paying them good wages for their labor. (Report of Inspector Gardner, March 10, 1887, on file in this office.)

Pending Agent Gregory's administration the affairs and general management of the La Pointe Agency have been successively investigated by Inspector Pearsons (September 26, 1885); Inspector Thomas (December 9, 1885); Inspector Gardner, (December 3, 1886), and again by Inspector Thomas (September 29, 1887); and their reports all bear testimony to the zeal, efficiency, and honesty of Agent Gregory in the discharge of his official duties.

In his report of September 29, 1887, Inspector Thomas says:

"Agent Gregory, who has had personal experience in lumbering and the cutting of timber, etc., has persistently protected the Indians in the making of their timber contracts.

"In thus doing his duty his experience is that of most good agents—he has incurred the animosity of some people who think the Indians have no rights the agent should protect, and are constantly making trouble for the agent."

Within the jurisdiction of the La Pointe Agency there are no less than seven Indian reservations, viz: Red Cliff, Bad River, Lac Court d'Oreilles, and Lac du Flambeau, in Wisconsin; and Fond du Lac, Grand Portage, and Bois Forte, in Minnesota.

During the last season (1886-'87) the Indians of the Lac Court d'Oreilles, Bad River, Lac du Flambeau, and Fond du Lac reserves cut and banked (under contract) 128,766,357 feet of timber, which was sold at prices variously ranging from $4.50 to $6.50 per 1,000 feet, according to quality, yielding a gross sum of $726,414.57; less paid Indians for labor in cutting and banking, $452,953.15; leaving a net gain to the Indians of $273,461.42.

Of this sum $102,285.03 was taken out in merchandise and supplies furnished by the contractors, and the balance, $171,176.39, was paid in cash to the individual Indian owners of the timber. Of these net gains—

The Lac Court d'Oreilles Indians received.....	$177,944.95
Bad River Indians received.....	42,931.76
Fond du Lac Indians received.....	37,355.94
Lac du Flambeau Indians received.....	15,288.77
Total.....	273,461.42

With this volume of business and array of figures and one agent only in charge of all the reservations, it would be indeed singular if some minor abuses, complications, and dissatisfactions did not creep in, which the agent, not being ubiquitous, and necessarily having to rely, to some extent, upon his subordinates, is unable to control. So far as this office has been able to perceive, and judging from the results to the Indians, pecuniary and material, the business appears on the whole to have been singularly well managed.

It should not be forgotten that the oversight of the logging business is an extra duty imposed on the agent in addition to the regular work of the agency, which is by no means light.

Summing up Mr. Calligan's specific charges, we find the first case, Mary Bray, was voluntarily abandoned; the second case is not identified by name or particulars by which it can be recognized. In the third case, it appears by their own admission, Calligan Bros. entered upon the land and proceeded to cut, presuming on the agent's approval of the contract. They were subsequently prosecuted for trespass.

After all the investigations that have been made, and considering their results, I do not now feel it incumbent on me, in the discharge of my official duties, to again order a special agent to make another investigation, but if upon consideration of the matter herein set forth you deem it advisable for the interests of the public service and due to Messrs. Calligan that Agent Gregory should now be investigated with reference to these specific charges or either of them, or with reference to the general allegations made, I have the honor to recommend that the duty of such investigation be committed to an inspector of the Department.

I inclose herewith a list of the contracts approved in favor of Calligan Brothers; also a form of the logging contract and bond in use at the agency.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

NOTE.—The letter of P. H. Calligan, dated January 3, 1888, mentioned in the foregoing report, is of record in the proceedings before the committee. (See testimony of Phineas H. Calligan, pages 55-56.)

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, March 1, 1888.

SIR: Referring to so much of my report (pp. 15, 16) of the 17th ultimo upon the subject of the charges made by Calligan Bros. against Agent Gregory of the La Pointe Agency, Wisconsin, as alluded to a report made by Inspector Thomas September 29, 1887, on the conduct of the logging operations on the Fond du Lac Reservation in Minnesota, with reference more particularly to certain contracts of one Patrick Hynes, I deem it proper to state that a delegation of Fond du Lac Indians now here have openly asserted in my presence that Inspector Thomas's report was a "white-washing" proceeding, and that the said Patrick Hynes is claiming that he alone has the right to contract for the Indians' pine, compelling them to sell to him at $5 per 1,000.

I submit the statement so made for your consideration, in connection with my said report of the 17th ultimo.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, February 17, 1888.

SIR: I have the honor to transmit for your information copy of a letter dated February 9, current, from Special Agent J. K. Speer, on duty at Wausau, Wis., inclosing copy of a letter (copy herewith) from him, 8th February, to J. T. Gregory, the Indian agent at Ashland, Wis.

The said letter relates to timber depredations committed, as alleged, on the Flambeau Indian Reservation by A. M. Sherman, of Eau Claire, Wis., amount to 500,000 to 1,000,000 feet of pine logs over and above the quantity purchased by him from the Indians and reported to Mr. Gregory.

Should you desire the co-operation of a special agent of this office in the investigation of the matter, Special Agent Speer will be directed to render the required assistance.

Very respectfully,

S. M. STOCKSLAGER,
Acting Commissioner.

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

[Inclosure No. 1.]

WAUSAU, WIS., February 9, 1888.

SIR: I have the honor to inform you that I addressed a letter under date of February 8 (copy herewith) to J. T. Gregory, esq., Indian agent at Ashland, Wis., calling his attention to reports alleging trespass on the Flambeau Reservation. I took such action because of the impression that wrong-doing upon the part of those who have the right to cut certain timber on the reservation has been and is now too frequent. I believe that the agent will find on investigation that A. M. Sherman and possibly others have not been careful to restrict their timber operations on the reservation to the lands that have been attached, and that possibly 1,000,000 feet were cut and removed last year of which the agent received no information.

The persons who came to report the trespass to me thought that I had jurisdiction thereof, but finding that the matter belonged to the Indian agent, requested me to withhold their names until such time as I might deem it best to give them, and knowing the rivalry between lumbermen who want the Indian pine, I have thought it best to write the agent as indicated, that he might take his own course. I will give him the names of my informants should he call for them. There are no bounds to the greed of a pine speculator.

Respectfully,

J. K. SPEER,
Special Agent, General Land Office.

The COMMISSIONER GENERAL LAND OFFICE.

[Inclosure No. 2.]

WAUSAU, Wis., February 8, 1888.

DEAR SIR: Several reports have reached me alleging trespass by A. M. Sherman, of Eau Claire, Wis., on the Flambeau Indian Reservation now under your jurisdiction, and believing that you will be glad to have any information that may enable you to protect the Indians under your charge, I have taken this liberty of calling your attention to the reports. It is charged that after cutting the timber purchased from certain Indians, Sherman cut from 500,000 to 1,000,000 feet of pine from other lands on the reservation, of which he made no report to you.

It is alleged that the Indians on the reservation know the facts and will furnish the proof of the cutting, if by so doing no injury shall come to them or their interests. I have no personal knowledge of the allegations, nor can I just now give you the names of persons who do have such information. If you shall so desire, and I shall come into possession of reliable information, I shall be glad to impart the same to you.

I am strongly impressed with the belief that there may have been such trespass, which, if possible, would be kept from you.

Respectfully,

J. K. SPEER,
Special Agent, General Land Office.

M. Sherman, of Eau Claire, Wis., in the cutting of from 500,000 to 1,000,000 feet of pine logs over and above the quantity purchased by him from the Indians, and reported to you.

SIR: Réplying to Department letter, "L 4602, 1888," of date of 23d ultimo, on being notified of the alleged trespasses on Lac du Flambeau Reservation, I took immediate steps to ascertain the truth of the same; but I find it is an utter impossibility to make anything like a thorough investigation with the present amount of snow in the woods. This matter will have my immediate attention at the earliest moment practicable.

Very respectfully,

Also, a further letter, dated the 3d instant, from the same source and on the same subject.

I notice that all the signatures profess to be in Gurnoe's handwriting. His authority to append the names should be strictly inquired into.

OFFICE OF PACKARD, O'KEEFE & CALKINS, ATTORNEYS AT LAW,
Ashland, Wis., September 22, 1887.

SIR: I write you in behalf of one Michell Larush, a Chippewa Indian belonging to the Odanah Reservation of North Wisconsin.

Said "Larush" is owner through his wife, who acquired the same by devise from her mother, Maggie Seymour, of the following described land: the west half of the southeast quarter of section 21, township 46 north, range 2 west, Ashland County, Wisconsin. The patent to Maggie Seymour bears date November 28, 1884. During the winter of 1886-'87 certain parties here trespassed upon said land and cut and carried away 60,670 feet of pine timber. The Indian agent here, Mr. Gregory, when appealed to for redress, neglected to do anything about the matter. The Indian Larush wants to know what he can do.

Please answer and oblige.

Yours,

PACKARD, O'KEEFE & CALKINS.

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, D. C.

(Referred to Indian Office September 26, 1887.)

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, October 3, 1887.

SIR: Under date 22d instant, Packard, O'Keefe & Calkins, attorneys at law, of Ashland, write this office in behalf of one Michell Larush, a Bad River Indian, complaining of certain timber trespasses (involving 60,670 feet of pine timber) committed on the lands of his wife, viz: west half southeast quarter, section 21, township 46 north, range 2 west, acquired by her through devise from her mother, Maggie Seymour, deceased.

These trespasses are alleged to have been committed during the winter of 1886-'87, and the attorneys state that when appealed to by the Indians for redress you "neglected to do anything in the matter."

An early report from you on the subject is desired.

Very respectfully,

A. B. UPSHAW,
Acting Commissioner.

J. T. GREGORY, Esq.,
U. S. Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, Wis., October 7, 1887.

SIR: Replying to office letter (L 25572, 1887), in June or July of this year Mitchell La Rush complained to me that a trespass had been committed on his wife's land.

I then instructed Mr. Walker, Government farmer, to investigate and report to me the amount, if any, of the trespass. Mr. Walker reported that forty-seven trees, scaling 28,200 feet, had been cut, and that he thought $2 per thousand would be a fair price to pay.

La Rush then got a man by the name of Purcell to go and estimate the trespass, and he claimed the same amounted to 60,670 feet.

Purcell is a man who knows nothing about estimating pine, and there is not a lumberman in this section who would settle a trespass on his estimate.

Mr. Haskins, who committed the trespass, is willing to settle, and will pay what is fair and just.

Very respectfully,

J. T. GREGORY,
U. S. Indian Agent.

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, October 15, 1887.

GENTLEMEN: Replying to your letter of the 22d ultimo, in behalf of Mitchell La Rush, a Bad River Indian, complaining of certain timber trespasses on the lands of his wife, viz, west half southeast quarter section 21, township 48 north, range 2 west, acquired by her through devise from her mother, Maggie Seymour, deceased, I have to say that the matter was duly referred to Agent Gregory, and I now inclose you a copy of his reply, dated 7th instant, from which it appears that the Government farmer on the reserve (Walker) reported that forty-seven trees, scaling 28,200 feet, had been cut, the value of which he estimated at $2 per 1,000 feet.

Subsequently La Rush procured the estimate of one Purcell, an inexperienced man, and he put the trespass at 60,670 feet.

Agent Gregory states that Mr. Haskins, who committed the trespass, is willing to settle, and will pay whatever is fair and just.

I think under these circumstances the parties should be able to come to terms between themselves.

Very respectfully,

A. B. UPSHAW,
Acting Commissioner.

Messrs. PACKARD, O'KEEFE & CALKINS,
Attorneys at Law, Ashland, Wis.

ODANAH, WIS., November 15, 1887.

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, D. C.

To your honor, I beg your valuable attention to my humble prayer or inquiries.

I have contracted this summer for the sale of my pine timber on my 80-acre allotment to a Edward Haskins at $2 per 1,000 feet (on sections 1 and 2, township 46, range 3 west). Now, I wish to withdraw my contract with him on the ground that he refuses to advance me any supplies as he verbally agreed, and (2) as he has sublet the cutting of it to other parties, contrary to contract and rules.

(3) I can get more for my pine, as pine is worth from $3 to $4 of the same grade and accessibility, outside of the reservation.

(4) Mr. Haskins is well known as always cheating the Indians, wasting the timber, taking only the very best, and leaving the rest to waste, and having trespassed in many instances on lands belonging to other parties, and because he is always backed by the Government farmer and agent, as it is generally known that they all work for the same company, namely, the Superior Lumber Company (the former employer of J. T. Gregory, the Indian Agent), therefore this prayer direct to you.

It is also a well-established belief that the Indians has no friend here, particularly could be said so to our Indian Agent, as he still works for the interest of Superior Lumber Company, who is supposed to be the means of his present position, and could not work for Indians and a lumber company. These things are facts, but it is useless to complain to the honorable Commissioner. I will patiently await for answer.

Your obedient subject,

JO WA-NA-BO-GO.

P. S.—The Government farmer has two son-in-laws logging here now (and perhaps he himself is interested) for the Superior Lumber Company. The favors received by those logging for the above-named lumber company (from the farmer and agent) above those logging for others goes to show or verify my statement.

JO WANABOGO.

I also wish to know if a patent has been issued for me at the General Land Office for the above-named sections, namely, sections 1 and 2 and 12, township 46, range 3 west.

(Referred to Indian Office November 23, 1887.)

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS, -
Washington, November 29, 1887.

SIR: I have received, by Department reference, a letter dated the 15th instant, addressed to the Secretary of the Interior, by Jos. Wa-na-ba-go, stating that he has contracted for the sale of pine timber on his selections, sections 1 and 2, township 46, range 3 west, on the Bad River reserve, to Edward Haskins, at $2 per 1,000, and that he now wishes to withdraw his contract on the ground that (1) Haskins refuses to advance supplies as verbally agreed; (2) that he, Haskins, has sub-let to other parties, and (3) that more can be obtained for the same grade and accessibility of pine, which is worth from $3 to $4 outside the reservation.

Pending investigation of the facts and report thereon, which you are hereby directed to make, you will withhold approval of the contract and direct suspension of all cutting on the tracts mentioned.

I should add that approval of the schedule in which Jos. Wa-na-ba-go's name appears is withheld for the present, for reasons stated in letter to you of 26th instant.

Very respectfully,

A. B. UPSHAW,
Acting Commissioner.

J. T. GREGORY, Esq.,
U. S. Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE, LA POINTE AGENCY,
Ashland, Wis., January 2, 1888.

SIR: I would respectfully state that, in accordance with instructions contained in Department letter (L, 31308-1887) dated November 29, 1887, I ordered all timber cutting to be stopped on lots 6 and 9, section 1; lot 7, section 2, and lots 7 and 8, section 12, township 46, range 5 west, a tract of land allotted to Joseph We-na-bo-sho, a member of the Bad River band of Chippewas.

In defiance of my order two men, acting as partners, Antoine Denomie and Daniel McBeth, have gone on the land and are stripping it of that timber. I have served written notices on them to desist and withdraw from said land, but they pay no attention to my orders, and openly boast that they will not stop until they have taken all the timber from the land.

They have submitted no contract to me for approval, nor any bond to accompany said contract.

Now I want to know if there is any way to stop these men from stripping said land. If I have to wait until my complaint goes to the Department of Justice the timber will all be cut and removed from the land. I would respectfully ask for instructions as to how to proceed in this matter.

Very respectfully,

J. T. GREGORY,
U. S. Indian Agent.

Hon. J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, January 10, 1888.

SIR: I have the honor to inclose herewith a copy of a letter, dated the 2d instant, from Agent Gregory, in charge of La Pointe Agency, Wisconsin, stating that, in defiance of his orders, two men, named Antoine Denomie and Daniel McBeth, acting as partners, have gone on certain lands of the Bad River Indian Reservation, to wit, lots 6 and 9, section 1; lot 7, section 2, and lots 7 and 8, section 12, all in township 46, range 3 west, severally allotted under provisions of the treaty of September 30, 1854 (10 Stat., 1109) to Joseph We-na-bo-sho, a member of the La Pointe or Bad River band of Chippewas, and are stripping them of all the timber.

Agent Gregory states that he has served written notices on the persons named, to desist, and withdraw from the lands, but that they pay no attention to his orders, and openly boast that they will not stop until they have taken all the timber from the land. They have submitted no contract with the Indian allottee, to the agent for approval, as required by the regulations in force touching logging operations on the reservations attached to the La Pointe Agency.

As this appears to be a case in which the agent's authority is openly set at defiance, and one manifestly requiring the interposition of the United States civil authorities, I have the honor to recommend that the honorable Attorney-General be requested to direct the United States attorney for the western district of Wisconsin, by telegram, to co-operate with Agent Gregory, and take such legal measures for the protection of the Indian allottee as the circumstances of the case warrant. To this end I have telegraphed the agent to at once consult the United States attorney.

Very respectfully your obedient servant,

J. D. C. ATKINS,
Commissioner.

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, January 11, 1888.

SIR: I have the honor to inclose herewith copy of a letter of 10th instant from the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, with copy of report noted therein, from United States Indian Agent Gregory, of the La Pointe Agency, Wis., relative to timber trespasses committed by two persons, named Antoine Donomie and Daniel McBeth, acting as partners, who, it is alleged, have gone upon certain lands of the Bad River Indian Reservation in said State, and in defiance of the orders of the said agent are cutting the timber therefrom.

The Commissioner of Indian Affairs reports this case as one in which the agent's authority is openly set at defiance, and manifestly requiring the interposition of the United States civil authorities; and, concurring in the recommendation set forth in his letter, I respectfully request that the proper United States district attorney may be instructed by telegraph to co-operate with Agent Gregory, who has been instructed by the Indian office to consult with the district attorney, and to take such measures for the protection of the Indian allottees as the circumstances of the case may warrant.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully,

H. L. MULDROW,
Acting Secretary.

The ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

[Telegram.]

OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, D. C., January 10, 1888.

To GREGORY,

Commissioner.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE,
Washington, January 12, 1888.

SIR: As requested in your letter of the 11th instant, the United States attorney for Western Wisconsin has been instructed by telegraph, to take such measures as may be deemed best for the protection of the timber on Bad River Indian Reservation, from trespassers, after conferring with United States Indian Agent Gregory, of the La Pointe Agency.

Very respectfully,

A. H. GARLAND,
Attorney-General.

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

GROUP No. 4.

Copies of original records and correspondence, showing the system and extent of allotments of land in severalty to the Chippewa Indians of Wisconsin, within the jurisdiction of the La Pointe Agency, under the treaty of September 30, 1854 (10 Stat., 1109), and the general allotment act of February 8, 1887 (24 Stat., 388).

DEPARTMENT INTERIOR,
Office Indian Affairs, May 29, 1863.

SIR: I herewith transmit for your examination a list of selections of lands for individual Indians on the Bad River Reservation under the third article of the treaty of September 30, 1854, with the Chippewas of Lake Superior and the Mississippi, with a view, if there be no objections thereto known to your office, to the issuance of patents or certificates therefor, as may be determined by the President.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. P. DOLE,
Commissioner.

JOS. S. WILSON, Esq.,
Acting Commissioner General Land Office.

GENERAL LAND OFFICE, June 4, 1863.

SIR: I have received your letter of the 29th ultimo, inclosing a list of certain Indian selections in Wisconsin under third article of treaty of 30th September, 1854, with the view of having patents or certificates issued thereon.

In reply I have to state that over one-half of these selections are in township 47, range 3 west. The survey of said township, which it is understood embraces a number of pre-emption claims yet to be adjudicated, has not been completed, and until the survey of the same is perfected and a transcript of all the field notes are filed in this office, no definite action can be had upon these cases. The survey of this township being under the control of the Indian Office, I beg to refer you to our letters to your office dated March 10 and April 22, 1863; and to add that as soon as we are furnished with the missing field notes, we shall have the data that will enable us fully to respond to your present call, which then shall be promptly done.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOS. S. WILSON,
Acting Commissioner.

HON. W. P. DOLE,
Commissioner Indian Affairs.

WASHINGTON, February 11, 1865.

SIR: Under date of May 13, 1863, Superintendent Thompson transmitted to your office certificates of certain Indians selecting land on the Bad River Reservation, as per treaty of September 30, 1854.

In my judgment, it is very desirable that patents should be issued to some of the Indians as a stimulant to progress in agricultural improvements. I would suggest that the patents should contain this proviso:

"The said land shall not at any time be sold or alienated by the said grantee, his or her heirs, except with the consent of the Secretary of the Interior."
I would suggest that patents be immediately issued to the following-named Indians:

Name.	Certificate No.	Name.	Certificate No.
She-haw-yosh.....	2	Be-de-quash.....	15
A-daw-ne-gc-zhig.....	5	James Currant.....	16
Sha-da-mo.....	7	Joseph Green.....	19
Wa-nab-bo-zho.....	8	Joseph Kaw-wa-yaw-she.....	40
Kitche-naw-be-zhishe.....	13	Me-zhe-ne-nay.....	41

I beg leave respectfully to ask that this matter may receive prompt action.
Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

S. E. WEBB,
U. S. Indian Agent.

Hon. W. P. DOLE,
Commissioner Indian Affairs.

DEPARTMENT INTERIOR,
Office Indian Affairs, February 14, 1865.

SIR: I have the honor to inclose herewith a copy of a letter from Agent Webb recommending that patents be issued to certain Indians therein named as provided for by the third article of the treaty of 1854 with the Chippewas of Lake Superior and the Mississippi.

For the reasons stated by Agent Webb, I respectfully recommend that you direct the Commissioner of the General Land Office to issue patents containing restrictions proposed by that officer to the parties named by him (whose certificates are inclosed herewith) and that said patents be sent to this office for transmission to Agent Webb.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. P. DOLE,
Commissioner.

Hon. J. P. USHER,

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
General Land Office, March 1, 1865.

SIR: I have the honor herewith to return the letter from "Agent Webb," received with the letter of the honorable Secretary of the Interior of the 21st ultimo, inclosing ten certificates for selections of land made by Chippewas of Lake Superior.

As all except one of these certificates are found to be incorrect, I ask that they be returned to Agent Webb that he may perfect the selections to enable this office to issue patents for them in pursuance of your instructions.

With great respect, your obedient servant,

J. M. EDMUNDS,
Commissioner.

Hon. J. P. USHER,
Secretary of the Interior.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, D. C., March 2, 1865.

SIR: On the 1st instant the Commissioner of the General Land Office returned to the Department the ten certificates of selections made by Chippewas of Lake Superior, which you submitted on the 14th ultimo with a recommendation that patents be issued and sent to the Indian Office for delivery.

These certificates are returned for the reason that "all except one are found to be incorrect," and I inclose them that the errors may be corrected and means adopted to insure greater accuracy in the future.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. P. USHER,

WILLIAM P. DOLE, Esq.,
Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

DEPARTMENT INTERIOR,
Office Indian Affairs, March 7, 1865.

SIR: I inclose herewith certain certificates of the selections of lands for Chippewas of Lake Superior, transmitted to this office by Superintendent Thompson May 13, 1863. A portion of these certificates were recently, at your request, sent to the Secretary of the Interior for his approval with a view to the issuance of patents thereon, but owing to the fact, as stated by the General Land Office, that all except one are found to be incorrect, they have been returned to this office for correction.

I have thought it advisable to return all of the certificates forwarded by Superintendent Thompson for such corrections as you may find necessary upon comparing them with the plats.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant

WM. P. DOLE,
Commissioner.

L. E. WEBB, Esq.,
U. S. Indian Agent, Bayfield, Wis.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
General Land Office, October 25, 1865.

SIR: Referring to th. letter of 29th May, 1863, from your office, inclosing a list of selections of Indians on the Bad River Reservation, under third article treaty September 30, 1854, with Chippewas, I have to state that the tracts as reported are so greatly at variance with the official survey on file in this office both as regards the subdivisonal lines and the quantity that we are unable to properly enter the same on our records.

I therefore herewith return said list that the same may be made to conform to the survey.

am, sir, very respectfully, etc.,

J. M. EDMUNDS,
Commissioner.

OFFICE OF THE LAKE SUPERIOR INDIAN AGENCY,
Bayfield, Wis., December 16, 1865.

SIR: I inclose herewith selections of 80-acre tracts of land by the Indians on the Bad River Reservation, under provisions of the treaty of September 30, 1854, article 3. I beg leave to refer to my letter to the Department under date of February 11, 1865, suggesting restrictions in the patents.

These selections were sent to the Department by Superintendent Thompson, May, 1863, but owing to a discrepancy in the survey of the reservation were returned to me for correction.

I would respectfully urge the importance of issuing patents at once.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

L. E. WEBB.

HON. D. N. COOLEY,
Commissioner Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

P. S.—In my judgment, these Indians are fully competent to manage their affairs in a prudent and judicious manner.

L. E. W.,
Indian Agent.

HON. D. N. COOLEY,
Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, D. C., February 12, 1867.

SIR: I have the honor to inclose herewith for your consideration a list of selections of land for certain Indians upon the Bad River Reservation, as contemplated by the treaty of 1854, with the Chippewas of Lake Superior and the Mississippi (U. S. Stat. at Large, vol. 10, p. 1109).

The selections are made by Agent Webb, who reports that "the parties in my (his) judgment are fully competent to manage their affairs in a prudent and judicious manner."

Agent Webb urges the issuance of patents to the parties indicated in the list, but thinks that they should contain a restriction against the sale or alienation of the lands so patented, except by the consent of the President of the United States, as provided for in the third article of the treaty aforesaid.

The article above referred to seems to place the whole subject-matter of surveying the lands, the issuing of patents, and the making of rules and regulations respecting the disposition of the lands by the Indians in the hands of the President. Should you be of the opinion that the direction of the President in the premises is necessary, I respectfully recommend that you present the subject to him for his consideration and action thereon, and should it be determined that the patents shall be issued, I recommend that they contain the restriction that "the lands so patented shall not be sold, leased, or in any manner alienated by the patentee, his or her heirs, to any person or persons whomsoever, except by the consent of the President of the United States" (or Secretary of the Interior, as may be determined), and that the General Land Office be directed to forward the same to this office for its further action thereon.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

LEWIS V. BOGY,
Commissioner.

Hon. O. H. BROWNING,
Secretary of the Interior.

[Indorsements.]

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, February 14, 1867.

Respectfully laid before the President for his consideration, with the recommendation that the suggestion, contained in the accompanying report of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs be adopted.

O. H. BROWNING,
Secretary.

Approved February 15, 1867.

ANDREW JOHNSON.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR.

Washington, D. C., February 16, 1867.

SIR: I return herewith your letter of the 12th instant, inclosing list of selections of land for certain Indians upon the "Bad River Reservation," as contemplated by the treaty of 1854 with the Chippewas of Lake Superior and the Mississippi, which was on the 14th instant laid before the President for his consideration, with the recommendation that your suggestions in relation to said selections be adopted.

The President on the 15th instant approved the selections, in accordance with the provisions of the third article of the treaty referred to, and you are therefore hereby directed to forward a list of the selections to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, who will cause patents to be issued therefor, which should contain a clause restricting the lands so patented from sale, lease, or any manner of alienation by the patentees or their heirs, except by the consent of the President of the United States; said patents to be forwarded to the Indian Bureau for further action.

You will transmit a copy of this letter to the Commissioner General Land Office, as his authority for issuing the patents for the lands in question.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

O. H. BROWNING,
Secretary.

Hon. LEWIS V. BOGY,
Commissioner Indian Affairs.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Office of Indian Affairs, February 23, 1867.

SIR: I inclose herewith a copy of a letter to this office from the Secretary of the Interior returning, with his directions in relation thereto, a list of selections of lands for certain Indians upon the Bad River Reservation as contemplated by the treaty of 1854 with the Chippewas of Lake Superior and the Mississippi.

As you will perceive by the letter from the Secretary of the Interior the selections in question, a copy of which is inclosed herewith, have been approved by the President and agreeably to the directions contained in said letter, I respectfully request that the General Land Office issue patents therefor and forward them to this office for further action. The patents should contain a clause that the lands so patented shall not be sold, leased, or in any manner alienated by the patentee or their heirs to any person or persons whomsoever, except by the consent of the President of the United States.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

L. V. BOGY,
Commissioner.

Hon. J. S. WILSON,
Commissioner General Land Office.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
General Land Office, May 16, 1867.

SIR: I have the honor to transmit herewith forty-four patents (Nos. 1 to 44, inclusive) for delivery to the parties entitled thereto, in favor of certain Indians upon the "Bad River Reservation," as contemplated by the treaty of 1854 with the Chippewas of Lake Superior and Mississippi, issued by order of the honorable Secretary of the Interior under date of February 16, 1867. Please acknowledge the receipt of the same.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOS. S. WILSON,
Commissioner.

Hon. N. G. TAYLOR,
Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, July 15, 1867.

SIR: I inclose herewith for delivery to the proper parties, forty-four patents issued under the provisions of the treaty of 1854 with the Chippewas of Lake Superior and the Mississippi. In delivering the patents you will take receipts therefor, which you will forward to this office.

L. E. WEBB, Esq.,
U. S. Agent, Bayfield, Wis.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, March 18, 1875.

SIR: By the provisions of the second article of the treaty with the Chippewa Indians of Lake Superior, a reservation is set apart for the La Pointe band and such other Indians as may see fit to settle with them, and also for the Lac Court Oreille band of Chippewas.

Article 3 of the same treaty provides that "the United States will define the boundaries of the reserved tracts, whenever it may be necessary, by actual survey, and the President may from time to time, at his discretion, cause the whole to be surveyed, and may assign to each head of a family or single person over twenty-one years of age 80 acres of land for his or their separate use," etc.

The reservations for the La Pointe and Lac Court Oreille bands have already been surveyed, the former into 80-acre, the latter into 160-acre tracts, and allotments have been made to a portion of the La Pointe band.

It is important that allotments in severalty should be made to such other members of these bands as are entitled thereto and shall desire the same. In order to accomplish this and to enable the Indians to ascertain the exact boundaries of their respective selections, it will be necessary to employ a competent surveyor to blaze the lines distinctly (most if not all these reservations being thickly wooded country), and for this purpose I respectfully recommend that the sum of $3,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, be used out of the sum of $100,000 made applicable for the defrayment of the expenses of the survey of such Indian reservations and subdividing portions of the same, as are executed prior to the end of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1875, by the provisions of an act of Congress, approved March 3, 1875, entitled "An act making appropriation for sundry civil expenses of the Government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1876, and for other purposes."

In its connection with the proposed allotments of land, in my opinion, this will not be such a survey as is required to be executed under the direction of the Commissioner of the General Land Office, by the terms of the act of Congress approved April 8, 1864 (Revised Statutes U. S., p. 372), and I therefore recommend that this office be authorized to empower the United States agent for the Chippewas of Lake Superior to contract with some competent surveyor for the distinct marking and blazing of the boundaries of such allotments as may be made to the Indians above mentioned, at an expense of not exceeding $10 per mile for each and every mile of such boundaries marked and blazed.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

EDW. P. SMITH,
Commissioner.

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, D. C., March 22, 1875.

SIR: I am in receipt of your report of the 18th instant upon the necessity for completing the allotments to the La Pointe and Lac Court Oreille Chippewas of Lake Superior, and recommending that the boundaries thereof be properly marked, etc.

I approve your recommendation and you are hereby instructed to authorize the United States agent for said Indians to enter into contract with some competent surveyor for the survey and marking of the boundaries of the allotments as suggested, at an expense of not exceeding $10 per mile; the entire cost not to exceed the sum of $3,000.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. DELANO,
Secretary.

The COMMISSIONER OF INDIAN AFFAIRS.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, April 10, 1875.

SIR: By the provisions of the second and third sections, respectively, of the second article of the treaty, concluded September 30, 1854, with the Chippewa Indians of Lake Superior (Stats. at Large, vol. 10, p. 1109), a reservation was set apart for the La Pointe band and a reservation for the Lac Court Oreille band of said Chippewas.

Article 3 of said treaty provides as follows: "The United States will define the boundaries of the reserved tracts, wherever it may be necessary, by actual survey, and the President may from time to time, at his discretion, cause the whole to be surveyed, and may assign to each head of a family or single person over twenty one years of age 80 acres of land for his or their separate use."

Allotments have heretofore been made to a portion of the La Pointe band, and it is proposed to make additional allotments to such other members of said band as may be entitled thereto and who desire the same. It has also become desirable to make allotments to such members of the Lac Court Oreille band as are entitled thereto, and may desire the same.

In accordance with the letter of the honorable Secretary of the Interior to this office dated the 22d ultimo, a sum not exceeding $3,000 is authorized to be expended in the completion of these allotments.

You are therefore instructed to proceed, at the earliest day practicable, by virtue of the authority of the treaty provision aforesaid to make allotments of land in severalty to such Chippewas of Lake Superior as may be entitled thereto, who are resident upon the La Pointe or Bad River Reservation, and who have not heretofore received allotments, and also to such members of the Lac Court Oreille band of said Chippewas as may be entitled thereto, who are resident upon the reservation set apart for their use and occupancy as aforesaid.

You will notify said Indians that you are prepared to assign them allotments of land in severalty, and you will, as far as practicable, allow them to make choice of the particular tract each may desire for his or her allotment, providing the same does not conflict with any previous selection and to include, so far as practicable, any improvements he or she may have heretofore made.

You are authorized to enter into contract with some competent surveyor, whose duty it shall be to survey and distinctly blaze or otherwise mark the boundary lines of each of such allotments at an expense of not exceeding $10 per mile for each mile of boundaries so marked, provided no indebtedness in the making of said allotments shall be incurred beyond the afore mentioned sum of $3,000.

Copies of the plat and a tract-book of the La Pointe or Bad River Reservation were sent you with office letter of the 26th of August last.

I transmit herewith copies of the plat of survey of the Lac Court Oreille reserve, and a tract-book of the same reservation will be forwarded to your address when the same is prepared.

When you have completed the assignment or allotments of land under these instructions, you will forward a list of the same to this office without delay, for the approval of the President and the issue of patents therefor in the names of the respective allottees.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. R. CLUM,
Acting Commissioner.

Dr. I. L. MAHAN,
U. S. Indian Agent, Bayfield, Wis.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, July 9, 1875.

SIR: This office is in receipt of a letter from J. L. Mahan, United States Indian agent, La Pointe Agency, dated the 14th ultimo, requesting that you should visit his agency on your return to this city for the purpose of inspecting his work, and, if need be, assist him in preparing the papers for this Department, relative to the allotments made to Indians of his agency.

You are, in compliance with said request, hereby authorized to visit the La Pointe Agency on your return from your present duties, and assist agent Mahan in making up a correct report of allotments made to the Indians under his charge for transmission to this office, and of this action Agent Mahan has this day been advised.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

EDW. P. SMITH,
Commissioner.

C. C. ROYCE, Esq.,
Sisseton Agency, Dakota.
(Via Saint Paul and Morris, Minn.)

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, D. C., September 27, 1875.

SIR: Pursuant to office instructions, addressed to me under date of the 9th of July last, I proceeded, after completing the duties intrusted to me at the Sisseton Agency in Dakota, to the Lake Superior Indian Agency at Red Cliff, Wis., for the purpose of inspecting the allotments of land made, under the direction of Agent Mahan, to the Chippewa Indians residing upon the La Pointe or Bad River Reservation, and aiding the agent in making up his report in proper shape for submission to the Department.

On arriving at the agency I ascertained that Surveyor Esperson, with whom contract had been made for surveying and blazing the lines of the several allotments, had not yet submitted the report of his work to Agent Mahan, and that nothing could be done but await its arrival. In the mean time, at the request of Agent Mahan, I accompanied him on his annual visit to the Grand Portage band of Chippewas residing on the north shore of Lake Superior, and assisted him in making the distribution of goods furnished by the Government for those Indians.

On our return from Grand Portage, Surveyor Esperson's report having arrived, I proceeded with Agent Mahan to the Bad River Reservation. The Indians were convened in council, and expressed a general satisfaction with the manner in which the allotments had been made, and, with one or two exceptions, had no complaints to make on this score. Two of the principal chiefs, who have always been and still are hostile to a division of the lands in severalty, were, as near as I could ascertain, instigated, while the surveyor was engaged in defining the boundaries of the various allotments, by certain white men at Ashland, Wis., to demand that the quarter section upon which the mission and all the agency buildings are located be surveyed and assigned to them, 80 acres to each, as their allotments. The surveyor refusing to do this, the chiefs, with some of their followers, assumed a threatening attitude, but, finding such action unavailing, finally refused to receive any lands, and induced a number of their friends to do likewise. With these exceptions the Indians were all highly gratified to receive their allotments.

With the assistance of Mr. Walker, the Government farmer, and Henry Blatchford, interpreter, I went carefully through the entire list of allotments, had them identify each allottee, and made corrections of such errors as were found to exist, consisting in one or two instances of a duplicate allotment to the same individual under different names and in several cases of an unnecessary excess in quantity above the 80 acres prescribed by the treaty. I also gave Agent Mahan full information and directions in regard to making up his report, in fact made up a rough schedule, showing the name of each allottee and the description of his or her allotment, so that he will only have to make a fair transcription of the same and forward it to the Department.

The Indians were very anxious to know what disposition would be made of the remainder of their reserve after the allotments were completed, expressing an earnest desire that the same should be brought into market and sold for their benefit. If the policy of consolidating all the different bands of Lake Superior Chippewas upon this reserve has been abandoned, there will certainly be a large surplus of land for which the La Pointe band can have no possible use.

The amount of Surveyor Esperson's account is about $1,960, which leaves upwards of $4,000 of the appropriation with which to defray the expense of making allotments to members of the Lac Court Oreille band upon their reservation. These allotments I understand it to be the intention of Agent Mahan to have made at the earliest day practicable, but owing to the distance and inaccessibility of the Lac Court Oreille reserve from his agency headquarters it will be almost impracticable for him to give close personal attention to the making of the allotments and overseeing the surveyor's work, and at the same time attend to the numerous other duties of his agency.

The Indians residing on Red Cliff reserve are very desirous that allotments shall be made to them this fall, and in case this could be done I have no doubt a most beneficial effect could be produced. Undoubtedly the $4,000 above mentioned will be sufficient to defray the expense of this as well as of the work at Lac Court Oreille reserve.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. C. ROYCE,
Special Agent, Interior Department.

Hon. E. P. SMITH,
Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, September 29, 1875.

SIR: The treaty with the Chippewa Indians of Lake Superior, concluded September 30, 1854 (Statutes at Large, vol. 10, page 1109), makes provision for the establishment of several reservations for the different bands of that tribe. The sixth section of the second article of said treaty provides that "The Ontonagon band and that subdivision of the La Pointe band of which Buffalo is chief may each select on or near the lake shore four sections of land, under the direction of the President, the boundaries of which shall be established hereafter."

Article 3 of the treaty provides that "The United States will define the boundaries of the reserved tracts, wherever it may be necessary, by actual survey, and the President may from time to time, at his discretion, cause the whole to be surveyed, and may assign to each head of a family or single person over twenty-one years of age 80 acres of land for his or their separate use."

"That subdivision of the La Pointe band of which Buffalo is chief" selected, pursuant to the treaty provision above quoted, four sections of land along the shore of Lake Superior, which is known as the "Red Cliff" Reservation.

During the past summer allotments in severalty have been made, under instructions from this Department, to members of the La Pointe band of Chippewas residing upon the Bad River Reservation, under the direction of United States Agent Mahan.

In a report to this office, dated the 27th instant, Mr. C. C. Royce, of this Bureau, who was instructed, under date of July 9, 1875, to inspect the work of making these allotments, represents that the Indians upon the Red Cliff reserve are very anxious to have allotments made to them this fall. Concurring with him in the belief that if this can be done a most beneficial effect would be produced, I would most respectfully recommend that this office be authorized to instruct United States Agent Mahan to proceed at the earliest day practicable, by virtue of the authority of the treaty provision aforesaid, to make allotments of land in severalty to such individuals as are properly members of "that subdivision of the La Pointe band of which Buffalo is chief," and who are now residing upon said Red Cliff Reservation.

I also recommend that Agent Mahan be authorized to enter into contract with a competent surveyor, whose duty it shall be to survey and distinctly blaze or otherwise mark the boundary lines of each of such allotments, at an expense of not exceeding $10 per mile for each mile of boundary so marked, provided that such expense shall be defrayed out of the sum of $6,000 authorized by Department letters of the 22d of March and 6th of May last, to be set apart for the purpose of defraying the expense of defining the boundaries of allotments to the La Pointe and Lac Court Oreille bands of Chippewas of Lake Superior.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

EDWARD P. SMITH,
Commissioner.

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, D. C., September 30, 1875.

SIR: I approve the recommendation of your letter of the 29th instant, that Agent Mahan be instructed to make allotments of land in severalty, agreeable to the provisions of article 3 of treaty of September 30, 1854, with the Chippewas, to such individuals as are properly members of "that subdivision of the La Pointe band of which Buffalo is chief," and who are now residing upon the Red Cliff Reservation, and that he be authorized to contract with a competent surveyor to survey and distinctly mark the boundary lines of such allotments, at a cost not exceeding $10 per mile, to be defrayed out of the sum of $6,000 authorized by Department letters of 22d March and 6th May last to be set apart for the purpose of defining the boundaries of allotments to the La Pointe and Lac Court Oreille bands of Chippewas of Lake Superior, and you will take the necessary action to carry the same into effect.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

B. R. COWAN,
Acting Secretary.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, October 5, 1875.

SIR: Under date of the 10th of April last, instructions were given you to make allotments of land in severalty to members of the La Pointe and Lac Court Oreille bands of Chippewas of Lake Superior, in accordance with the provisions of the treaty concluded September 30, 1854, and to enter into contract with a competent surveyor to mark the lines of such allotment. This same treaty also provides for allotment to members of "that subdivision of the La Pointe band of which Buffalo is chief," who occupy a reserve known as the "Red Cliff" Reservation.

This office is advised by the special agent of the Department instructed to inspect the work of making the allotments on the La Pointe Reservation, that the Indians residing upon the Red Cliff Reservation are also very desirous of having allotments made to them this fall, and represents the good effect such an act would be likely to produce. In view of such considerations the honorable Acting Secretary of the Interior, upon the recommendation of this office, has, under date of the 30th ultimo, authorized and directed that you be instructed to make allotments in severalty to such individuals as are properly members of "that subdivision of the La Pointe band of which Buffalo is chief," and who are now residing upon the Red Cliff Reservation.

This Red Cliff reserve as defined by the treaty was to consist of "four sections of land on or near the lake shore," to be selected by the Indians under direction of the President. This selection was made, and I transmit herewith a copy of the plats of survey together with the descriptions of the tracts so selected.

You are therefore instructed to proceed without delay to make allotments in severalty to such as are properly members of "that subdivision of the La Pointe band of which Buffalo is chief," as aforesaid, and who are now residing on the Red Cliff reserve, to the extent of the above-mentioned four sections. You will be governed as to the manner of making these allotments by the same instructions as were given for your guidance on the 10th of April last in the case of the Bad River and Lac Court Oreille reserves.

You are authorized to enter into contract with a competent surveyor, whose duty it shall be to survey and distinctly blaze or otherwise mark the boundary lines of each of such allotments at an expense of not exceeding $10 per mile for each mile of boundaries so marked. The expense of making these allotments will be defrayed out of the sum of $6,000 heretofore authorized to be expended in allotting the Bad River and Lac Court reserves.

Although by the terms of the treaty aforesaid the Red Cliff reserve was to consist of but four sections, an addition thereto was subsequently made by Executive order. No authority, however, exists for allotting and patenting to the Indians the lands comprised within this extension of the reservation, but it is the intention of this office to recommend that such legislation be asked of Congress at its next session as will place the "extension" to the reservation upon the same footing with the original reserve.

In the mean time, however, you will not communicate this fact to the Indians, inasmuch as Congress may fail to supply the desired legislation, but will endeavor to induce all of the "Red Cliff Indians who can not be accommodated with allotments within said four sections" to take up their residence on the Bad River Reservation and accept allotments there.

The plat herewith transmitted to you exhibits the entire reservation, including the extension made by Executive order. The four sections constituting the original reserve are bounded by yellow lines and the remainder by red lines. When you have completed the allotments of land under these instructions, you will forward a list of the same to the office without delay for the approval of the President, and the issue of patents therefor in the names of the respective allottees.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

EDW. P. SMITH,
Commissioner.

Dr. I. L. MAHAN,
U. S. Indian Agent, Red Cliff, Wis., via Bayfield.

WASHINGTON, February 16, 1877.

SIR: On the 5th day of October, 1875, instructions were issued to I. L. Mahan, United States Indian Agent, in accordance with authority contained in Department letter to this office of the 30th of September, 1875, to make allotments of land in severalty to such individuals as were properly members of that subdivision of the La Pointe band of Chippewas of Lake Superior, of which Buffalo was chief, and who were then upon the Red Cliff Reservation in Wisconsin. This reservation, as defined by the sixth clause of the second article of the treaty of September 30, 1854, with the Chippewas of Lake Superior, consists of four sections of land (Stat. at L., vol. 10, p. 1107) selected in September, 1855, under the authority of the Secretary of the Interior.

Under date of September 4, 1876, Agent Mahan submitted a schedule showing the names of twenty allottees and a description of the allotments made.

I have the honor to submit herewith a copy of said schedule, with the recommendation that the allotments therein described and selected by the respective Indians therein named be laid before the President for his approval, and when so approved be returned to this office.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. Q. SMITH,
Commissioner.

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

I have also to request that the patents when issued be transmitted to this office for proper delivery.

I hand you herewith copy of Schedule No. 1 and Schedule No. 2 of allotments of lands made by Agent J. L. Mahan to Chippewa Indians of Lake Superior, on the La Pointe or Bad River Reservation, in Wisconsin, under the provisions of said treaty of September 30, 1854, which you are instructed to take with you to said reservation, and there carefully examine the same, determine whether such allotments were correctly made, and report your conclusions thereon for the action of this office.

You are also instructed to visit the reservation of the Lac Court d'Oreilles band of Chippewa Indians in the State of Wisconsin, and make allotments of land to such of them as you may find are now entitled thereto under the provisions of the treaty of September 30, 1854, applying therein the same general rules, so far as practicable, hereinbefore prescribed for the same work among the Chippewas in Michigan. * * *

I inclose herewith copy of said communication of the honorable Secretary of the Interior authorizing your detail, and also various letters and documents and copies of others relating to the subjects to be investigated by you.

Very respectfully,

E. A. HAYT,
Commissioner.

EDWIN J. BROOKS, Esq.,
Present.

WASHINGTON, February 28, 1881.

SIR: Under date of 5th October, 1875, instructions were issued to I. L. Mahan, United States Indian agent, in accordance with authority contained in Department letter to this office of September 30, 1875, to make allotments of land in severalty to such individuals as were properly members of that subdivision of the La Pointe band of Chippewas of Lake Superior, of which Buffalo was chief, and who were then residing upon the Red Cliff Reservation in Wisconsin.

This reservation, as defined by the sixth clause of the second article of the treaty of September 30, 1854, with the Chippewas of Lake Superior (Stat., 10, p. 1110), consists of four sections of land selected in September, 1855, under the authority of the Secretary of the Interior.

Under date of July 10, 1878, E. J. Brooks was detailed by the Department to perform certain duties in Michigan, Wisconsin, and Minnesota, among which was the allotment of land under the Chippewa treaty above referred to. He and I. L. Mahan, then agent, now inspector, in August, 1878, made allotments to sixteen Indians on Red Cliff Reservation, as appears from a list in this office; but on examination it is found that three of these allotments were for tracts which had previously been patented to other Indians under the same treaty.

Under date of 12th instant, Agent S. E. Mahan states that Frank Chingway, to whom an allotment was made in 1878 by Agent Mahan and Special Agent Brooks, has abandoned his place and taken up a residence on Bad River Reserve, and therefore recommends that his allotment be given to John Jibway and Charles Charrette, who he reports are worthy and will make improvements and accept the allotment as full if assigned to them.

The accompanying schedule is made from the list of allotments made by Agent I. L. Mahan, Special Agent Brooks, and the recommendation of Agent S. E. Mahan, omitting the three allotments for which patents have been issued, as before stated, and including the change of allotments recommended by Agent Mahan, and is respectfully submitted with the recommendation that the same be laid before the President for his approval, and when approved that it be returned to this office.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

THOS. M. NICHOL,
Acting Commissioner.

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, March 5, 1881.

SIR: The second and third clauses of the second article of the treaty of September 30, 1854, with the Chippewa Indians of Lake Superior and the Mississippi (Stats., 10, p. 1109), makes provision for reservations for the La Pointe, or as now called, the Bad River band, and the Lac Court Oreille band of Chippewas.

Article 3 of said treaty stipulates that "the United States will define the boundaries of the reserved tracts, whenever it may be necessary, by actual survey, and the President may, from time to time, at his discretion cause the whole to be surveyed, and may assign to each head of a family or single person over twenty-one years of age eighty acres of land for his or their separate use; and he may at his discretion, as fast as the occupants become capable of transacting their own affairs, issue patents therefor to such occupants, with such restrictions of the power of alienation as he may see fit to impose."

The reservations thus provided for were duly surveyed and allotments were made to a portion of the La Pointe band and patents therefor have been issued containing a stipulation that the allottees and their heirs "shall not sell, lease, or in any manner alienate" the tracts allotted "without the consent of the President of the United States."

Under date of April 10, 1875, I. L. Mahan, United States Indian agent at La Pointe Agency, was instructed to make additional allotments to such other members of the La Pointe band as might be entitled thereto, and also to such of the Lac Court Oreille band as might be entitled (see copy of said instructions herewith). By instructions from this office dated July 20, 1878, Edwin J. Brooks, who, under date of 10th of that month, was detailed by the Department as a special agent to perform certain duties in the States of Michigan, Wisconsin, and Minnesota, was directed to examine allotments made by Agent Mahan under the aforesaid instructions, and also to make allotments to such of the Lac Court Oreille band as he might find entitled.

I have the honor to submit herewith two schedules of allotments made by the former agent (now inspector), Mahan, and Special Agent Brooks, pursuant to the instructions referred to, one comprising 138 allotments to members of the La Pointe or Bad River band, embracing in the aggregate 10,756.05 acres, and the other comprising 186 allotments to the Lac Court Oreille band, embracing in the aggregate 14,774.65 acres, and recommend that the same be laid before the President for his approval, as was done with former schedules under the same treaty, and that after such approval the schedules may be returned to this office for the preparation of copies to be transmitted to the General Land Office by the Department for the issue of patents.

In connection with the matter I invite attention to allotments Nos. 64, 65, 68, and 70 on the La Pointe list, and Nos. 5, 11, 17, and 89 on the Lac Court Oreille list, where—in the first named list—there are excesses ranging from 13.77 to 15.15 acres, and in the latter from 13.93 to 25.74 acres.

In all these cases, however, it appears, from an examination of the township plats, that the agent and special agent who made the allotments were compelled to allot subdivisions giving such excesses, or to make allotments of subdivisions much smaller in area than the 80 acres, to which the Indians are entitled under the treaty, or that they included small lots bordering on lakes where to have excluded them would have detached them from any other land and would have been an inducement to the Indian or some other party unlawfully to appropriate the timber on it.

It will be observed also that the average area of allotments on the La Pointe list is 77.94 acres or 2.06 acres less than the amount allowed by the treaty, and on the Lac Court Oreille list the average is 79.43 acres or .57 of an acre less than that amount.

In the opinion of this office the ends of justice will be subserved if these lists are approved as they stand.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

THOS. M. NICHOL,
Acting Commissioner.

The SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, March 5, 1881.

SIR: I return herewith, approved by the President under date of 3d instant, the schedule of allotments to the subdivision of the La Pointe band of Chippewas of which Buffalo was chief, in accordance with the provisions of the treaty of September 30, 1854 (10 Stats., 1110), as recommended in your letter of 23th ultimo, transmitting said schedule.

Very respectfully,

C. SCHUEZ,
Secretary.

The COMMISSIONER OF INDIAN AFFAIRS.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, D. C., March 12, 1881.

SIR: I return herewith, approved by the President, the schedules of allotments of lands, two in number, for the La Pointe or Bad River and Lac Court Oreille bands of Chippewa Indians, respectively, which accompanied your letter of the 5th instant, requesting such action.

Very respectfully,

S. J. KIRKWOOD,
Secretary.

The COMMISSIONER OF INDIAN AFFAIRS.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, March 16, 1881.

SIR: Referring to Department letter of 5th instant, returning a schedule of allotments to members of that subdivision of the La Pointe band of Chippewa Indians of which Buffalo was chief, with the approval of the President indorsed thereon, I have the honor to submit herewith a copy of the same, and request that it be forwarded to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, with directions to issue patents for the allotments therein described (except as hereinafter noted), in accordance with the third article of the treaty of September 30, 1854, with the Chippewas of Lake Superior and the Mississippi (10 Stats., 1110), with a restriction similar to that incorporated in the patents heretofore issued to other Indians of the same band under this treaty, viz: That the lands shall not be sold, leased, or in any manner alienated by the patentee, his or her heirs, to any person or persons whomsoever, without the consent of the President of the United States.

Since submitting the schedule to the Department, on 28th ultimo, it has been discovered that two, and possibly three, of the names of allottees thereon are identical with the names of mixed-blood Chippewas in whose favor scrip was heretofore issued in accordance with departmental ruling, under the seventh clause of the second article of the same treaty under which the allotments have been made. The allotments referred to are those numbered 7, 8, and 9 on the schedule herewith, in the names of John Jibway, Charles Charrette, and Joseph Dijodon, or Joseph Artichre, respectively.

It appears from the records of this office that scrip No. 32 C was issued in favor of "John Jibway," and that with it was located the northwest quarter of northeast quarter and northeast quarter of northwest quarter of section 10, township 54 north, range 24 west, Saint Cloud land district, Minnesota, and patent issued therefor August 20, 1869. Scrip No. 273 C was issued in the name of Charles Charrette, was sold to Isaac Van Ettan, of Saint Paul, Minn., for $80, was located upon the west half of southwest quarter, section 8, township 7 north, range 10 west, San Francisco land district, California, and patent for the location was issued May 10, 1869.

These two names are precisely the same as Nos. 7 and 8 on the schedule.

It is found that scrip Nos. 50, 52, and 80 were issued in the name of "Joseph Dejadon, sr.," "Joseph Dejadon, jr.," and "Joseph Dejadon, 3d.," respectively; Nos. 50 and 80 having been located on lands within the Superior land district, Wisconsin, and No. 52 on land in the Portland land district, Minnesota, and patents having been issued for each of the locations thus made.

The name "Joseph Dijodon," as on the schedule of allotments, is so similar to "Joseph Dejadon," the name of the scribees, as to raise the inquiry whether they do not belong to the same person.

Should these allottees be the same Indians as those in whose favor scrip was issued, the question presents itself, Are they entitled to scrip under the seventh clause of the second article of the treaty, and also to allotments and patents under the third article of said treaty? This question is now under consideration in this office with a view to its early presentation to the Department for decision, and it is therefore recommended that the Commissioner of the General Land Office be instructed to suspend the issue of patent in the three cases mentioned until the question shall have been determined, patents to be issued for the remainder of the allotments embraced in the schedule and transmitted to this office for delivery.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

THOS. M. NICHOL,
Acting Commissioner.

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, May 10, 1881.

SIR: Referring to Department letter of 12th March last, returning two schedules of allotments, one to Indians of the La Pointe or Bad River band, and the other to Indians of the Lac Court Oreille band of Chippewas, under the treaty of September 30, 1854, with the Chippewas of Lake Superior and the Mississippi (Stats., 10, p. 1109), with the approval of the President indorsed thereon, under date of March 11, 1881, I have now the honor to submit herewith a copy of each of said lists, with the request that they may be forwarded to the General Land Office, with directions to issue patents for the allotments therein described, in accordance with the third article of said treaty, and with a restriction similar to that incorporated in patents heretofore issued to allottees under the same treaty, viz, that the lands shall not be sold, leased, or in any manner alienated by the patentee, his or her heirs, to any person or persons whomsoever, without the consent of the President of the United States.

It is proper to remark that since submitting the lists to the Department on the 5th March a few names of allottees have been found to be identical with the names of parties in whose favor scrip was issued under the seventh clause of the second article of the same treaty; but I am orally informed by Mr. Brooks, who, as special agent, assisted Agent Mahan in making the allotments, that when they were made he and Agent Mahan had before them the lists of scribees found printed in House Ex. Doc. 193, Forty-second Congress, second session, and were careful to include in these lists only such as had not received scrip or in whose favor scrip had not been issued, and that the identity in names arises from the fact that different members of the same family bear the same name.

It is believed that the greatest possible care has been exercised in making these allotments to include in the lists only such as have an undoubted right to receive them, and I have therefore recommended the issue of patents, and request that when issued they may be returned to this office for delivery to the parties entitled.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

E. L. STEVENS,
Acting Commissioner.

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, December 1, 1881.

SIR: I send you by to-day's mail 131 patents, issued June 20, 1881, to certain members of the La Pointe or Bad River band of the Chippewas of Lake Superior, whose selections were approved by the President on the 11th of March last. These patents were received from the General Land Office on the 17th ultimo, and are now forwarded to you for delivery. You will acknowledge the receipt of the same, and on the delivery of each patent take a receipt therefor from each patentee, and when they have been delivered you will forward the receipts for the files of this office. Each of these patents contain the restrictive clause that the patentee and his or her heirs "shall not sell, lease, or in any manner alienate said tract without the consent of the President."

The patent for one selection, No. 40, made by La Louisa Haskins, had to be returned to the General Land Office for cancellation and the issue of a new patent, because of an error in the area of lot 3 of section 13, township 46, range 3 west, being 8 acres instead of eight one-hundredths of an acre, as reported in the schedule of allotments and carried into the patent. When this correction is made, and the new patent issued, it will be duly forwarded to you for delivery.

I have withheld four patents until satisfied as to the identity of the patentee, viz:

(1) Ba-daw-sin-o-kwa, or Abba Spooner, to whom has been patented (June 20, 1881) the northwest quarter of southeast quarter and lots 2 and 3 of section 6, township 47, range 1 = 77.10 acres.

The records of this office show that there was patented to one Abby Spooner, as teacher, under the tenth article of the treaty of 1854 (10 Stats., p. 1111) on the 1st day of April, 1865, lots 4, 8, and 10, section 26, township 48, range 3 = 73.25 acres.

(2) Ne-ka-nee, or Leonard Wheeler, to whom has been patented (June 20, 1881) the east half of southeast quarter of section 14, township 47, range 2 = 80 acres.

The records of this office show that there was patented to one Leonard H. Wheeler, as missionary, under the same article of said treaty of 1854, on the 1st day of April, 1865, lots 2, 3, and 5 of section 26, township 48, range 3 = 94.86 acres.

(3) Me-zhe-na-wance, to whom has been patented (June 20, 1881) lots 1 and 2 of section 35, township 48, range 2 = 76.75 acres.

The records of this office show there was patented to Me-che-na-wa, on the 11th of May, 1867, lots 10 and 11 of section 12, and lot 4 of section 13, township 47, range 3 = 73.55 acres.

(4) Da-daw-ko-se-day, to whom has been patented (June 20, 1881) the east half of the southwest quarter of section 34, township 48, range 3, 80 acres. The records of this office show that there was patented to Da-daw-ko-ze-day, on May 11, 1867, lot 10, section 23, township 47, range 3, 79.75 acres. You will furnish this office with the evidence whether the parties herein named as having patents issued to them June 20, 1881, are not the same persons to whom patents were issued in 1865 and 1867. When satisfactory evidence is furnished that these parties are not identical the patents will be forwarded to you for delivery.

Two of the 138 allotments made were suspended in the General Land Office, viz:

No. 96.—Aga-ze-gaw-ben-e-kwa, lot 3, section 13, township 47, range 3, 35 acres; lot 5 section 13, township 47, range 3, 24.50 acres; lot 9, section 13, township 47, range 3, 56.50 acres; total, 81.35 acres.

No. 107.—Gaw-wa-iosh, lot 2, section 25, township 47, range 3, 62.20 acres; lot 8, section 25, township 47, range 3, 21.65 acres; total, 83.85 acres.

No. 96 is suspended because lot 5 had been heretofore selected, but not patented, by Ne-zho-be-nace, and No. 107 because lot 8 had been selected and approved in 1867, but not patented, by Gaw-wa-yaw-she.

You will make an immediate investigation of these four withheld patent cases and the two suspended cases as to who are entitled to a patent for the land in question, and make an early report on the same.

Very respectfully,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

W. R. DUFFEE, Esq.,
U. S. Indian Agent, Bayfield, Wis.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, December 13, 1881.

SIR: I send you by to-day's mail 178 patents, issued June 20, 1881, and 2 patents issued November 17, 1881, to certain members of the La Court Oreille band of the Chippewas of Lake Superior, whose selections were approved by the President March 11, 1881.

Each of these patents contains the restrictive clause that the patentee and his or her heirs "shall not sell, lease, or in any manner alienate said tract without the consent of the President." In the delivery of the patents for the four following selections, namely:

No. 159, made by Git-chi-i-kwe, sr., for the west half of the northeast quarter section 34, township 39, range 8 west—80 acres.

You will be careful to identify such of the four persons in the receipt each may give you, so that this office may be able hereafter to designate No. 107 from No. 177 and No. 118 from No. 159 by said receipt or by explanation you may furnish this office.

I have withheld the six following patents until satisfied as to the identity of the patentees:

(1) No. 9, issued in the name of Be-mo-sa-gi-zhig for the west half of the northwest quarter of section 29, township 40 north, range 6 west—80 acres;

(2) No. 78, issued in the name of Be-mo-sa-ge-zhig for lots 6 and 7 of section 6, township 38 north, range 8 west—80 acres;

(6) No. 130, Ni-ba-ni-gi-jig for the south half of northwest quarter section 29, township 39, range 8 west—80 acres.

When you have furnished this office with the evidence that these parties are not identical the patents will be forwarded to you for delivery.

Very respectfully,

W. R. DURFEE, Esq.,
U. S. Indian Agent, Bayfield, Wis.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, August 15, 1882.

SIR: The second clause of the second article of the treaty of September 30, 1854, with the Chippewa Indians of Lake Superior and the Mississippi (10 Stat., 1109), provides for a reservation for the La Pointe or Bad River band of Chippewas.

The third article stipulates that "the United States will define the boundaries of the reserved tracts, whenever it may be necessary, by actual survey, and the President may, from time to time, at his discretion, cause the whole to be surveyed, and may assign to each head of a family or single person over twenty-one years of age 80 acres of land for his or their separate use; and he may, at his discretion, as fast as the occupants become capable of transacting their own affairs, issue patents therefor to such occupants, with such restrictions of the power of alienation as he may see fit to impose."

The reservation thus provided for was duly surveyed, and allotments were made to a portion of the band and patents issued therefor in 1867.

Under date of April 10, 1875, Agent Mahan was instructed to make additional allotments to such other members of the band as might be entitled thereto.

By instructions from this office, dated July 20, 1878, Special Agent E. J. Brooks was directed to examine allotments made by Agent Mahan under the aforesaid instructions.

On the 5th of March, 1881, a schedule of allotments of land for these Indians, containing one hundred and thirty-eight names, was submitted for the approval of the President. Said schedule was returned to this office March 12, 1881, having been approved by the President March 11, 1881.

On the 10th of May, 1881, the schedule was transmitted to the Department with a request that patents be directed to be issued, which was done on the 20th of June, 1881.

I now have the honor to submit herewith three schedules of allotments of land made by Agent Mahan and Special Agent Brooks, September 3, 1878, pursuant to the instructions before referred to.

No. 1 comprises fourteen names of mixed bloods belonging to the La Pointe band.

No. 2 comprises seventeen names of mixed bloods whose fathers received scrip under the seventh clause of the second article of the treaty of September 30, 1854; and

No. 3 comprises six names of mixed bloods who received scrip under the seventh clause of said article.

The clause referred to is in the following language: "Each head of a family or single person over twenty-one years of age at the present time of the mixed bloods, belonging to the Chippewas of Lake Superior, shall be entitled to 80 acres of land, to be selected by them under the direction of the President, and which shall be secured to them by patent in the usual form."

So far as the persons comprised in schedule 1 are concerned, I see no reason why the allotments made to them should not be confirmed.

The fact that the fathers of those comprised in list 2 have received scrip is not, I submit, sufficient reason for depriving these persons of the benefits of said article. The agent and special agent certify that these persons are members of the La Pointe or Bad River bands of Chippewa Indians, that the names of each were separately submitted to the chiefs and members of said bands in council assembled, and that they are entitled to allotments on said reservation. They have not received scrip or other benefit under the seventh clause of the second article. I accordingly recommend that these schedules be submitted to the President for his approval.

The six persons comprised in schedule 3 each received scrip for 80 acres of land, which has been patented to them under the seventh clause of the second article of the treaty of 1854.

As these persons have received the benefits conferred by the second article, I am of the opinion that they are not entitled to patents under the third article of the treaty.

The return of the schedules is requested.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, August 23, 1882.

SIR: I transmit herewith three patents issued June 20, 1881, to Badawsinokwa, or Abba Spooner, Nekanee or Leonard Wheeler, and Me-zhe-na-wance, members of the La Pointe or Bad River band of Chippewa Indians, whose selections were approved by the President on the 11th of March, 1881, which patents were withheld for evidence that said parties were not identical with others to whom patents had been issued.

These patents are now forwarded for delivery, you having reported under date of March 2, 1882, that the parties are legally entitled to the same.

I also inclose for delivery patent dated July 11, 1882, in favor of La Louisa Haskins, issued in lieu of patent dated June 20, 1881, which was returned to the General Land Office for cancellation because of an error in the area of lot 3, section 13, township 46, range 3, west.

You will acknowledge the receipt of the patents, and on the delivery of each take a receipt therefor from the patentee, and forward the same for the files of this office.

Very respectfully,

E. L. STEVENS,
Assistant Commissioner.

I also request that when issued the patents may be sent to this office for delivery to the parties entitled thereto.

In reply I have to instruct you to make the allotments to such of the applicants as are entitled thereto who are resident upon the respective reservations. The allotments should also be submitted to the chiefs and head-men of the respective reservations in council assembled.

You will prepare a list of the allotments made upon the blank allotment sheets, append your certificate, and forward the same to this office.

I transmit by this mail blank schedules and a form for your guidance.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, January 24, 1883.

SIR: I transmit herewith, for delivery to the parties entitled thereto, twenty-nine patents, issued December 21, 1882, to members of the La Pointe or Bad River band of Chippewa Indians, under the treaty of September 30, 1854.

You will acknowledge the receipt of the patents, and on the delivery of each take a receipt therefor from the patentee, and forward the same for the files of this office.

Very respectfully,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

W. R. DURFEE, Esq.,
U. S. Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, February 23, 1883.

SIR: The third clause of the second article of the treaty of September 30, 1854, with the Chippewa Indians of Lake Superior and the Mississippi (10 Stat., 1109), provides for a reservation for certain Wisconsin bands on Lac Court Oreilles.

The third article stipulates that "the United States will define the boundaries of the reserved tracts, whenever it may be necessary, by actual survey, and the President may from time to time, at his discretion, cause the whole to be surveyed, and may assign to each head of a family or single person over twenty-one years of age, 80 acres of land for his or their separate use, and he may at his discretion, as fast as the occupants become capable of transacting their own affairs, issue patents therefor to such occupants, with such restrictions of the power of alienation as he may see fit to impose."

The reservation thus provided for was duly surveyed.

Under date of April 10, 1875, late Agent Mahan was instructed to make allotments to such of the Lac Court Oreilles bands as might be entitled thereto.

By instructions from this office, dated July 20, 1878, Special Agent E. J. Brooks was directed to examine allotments made by Agent Mahan under the aforesaid instructions.

On the 5th of March, 1881, a schedule of allotments of land for these Indians, containing one hundred and eighty-six names, was submitted for the approval of the President. Said schedule was returned to this office March 12, 1881, having been approved by the President March 11, 1881, and patents were issued June 20, 1881.

I now have the honor to submit herewith two schedules of allotments of land made by Agent Mahan and Special Agent Brooks September 24, 1878, pursuant to the instructions before referred to.

No. 1 comprises two names of mixed bloods belonging to the Lac Court Oreille band.

No. 2 comprises sixteen names of mixed bloods whose fathers received scrip under the seventh clause of the second article of the treaty of 1854, except No. 6, a widow, whose husband received scrip.

The selection made by John B. Laroque (No. 16) was found to have been patented to another person. He therefore made a new selection, as stated by Agent Durfee in his letter of the 14th instant, and the schedule has been corrected accordingly.

The seventh clause above referred to is as follows: "Each head of a family or single person over twenty-one years of age at the present time of the mixed bloods, belonging to the Chippewas of Lake Superior, shall be entitled to 80 acres of land, to be selected by them under the direction of the President, and which shall be secured to them by patent in the usual form."

In the case of the mixed bloods of the La Pointe or Bad River bands, under the same treaty which was submitted to you in office report dated August 15 last, it was held that the fact that their fathers received scrip under the seventh clause of the second article did not deprive the children of the right to allotments under the third article. The schedule was approved by the President August 19, 1882, and returned by the Acting Secretary August 21, 1882.

In accordance with the action in those cases, I have approved the accompanying schedules and recommend that they be submitted to the President for his approval. The return of the schedule is requested.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, March 5, 1883.

SIR: I am in receipt of a communication from Joseph D. Gurnoe, of the Lac Court Oreilles Reservation, dated February 15, 1883, in which he states in substance that, acting under the belief that the allotment bill would become a law, many of the Indians on that reservation have selected 40-acre tracts for their minor children and made improvements thereon and asks that something be done for their relief. While there is no authority for making such selections, and the allotments can only be made to the children when they become of age, yet I think that when improvements have been made in good faith the land upon which they are situated should not be allotted to other parties.

*In making allotments, therefore, you will respect as far as possible the selections made for minor children, especially where there are improvements thereon. At the same time you will inform the Indians that minors are not entitled to allotments under the treaty, and that no further selections should be made for them.

Very respectfully,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, March 10, 1883.

SIR: Referring to Department letter dated March 3, 1883, returning two schedules of allotments of land to certain members of the Lac Court Oreille band of Chippewas of Lake Superior, in the State of Wisconsin, under the provisions of the treaty of September 30, 1854 (10 Stat., 1109), with the approval of the President indorsed thereon under date of March 1, 1883, I now have the honor to transmit herewith a copy of each of said schedules, with the request that they may be forwarded to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, with directions to issue patents for the allotments therein described, in accordance with the third article of said treaty, and with a restriction similar to that incorporated in patents heretofore issued to allottees under the same treaty, viz: "That the land shall not be sold, leased, or in any manner alienated by the patentee, his or her heirs, to any person or persons whomsoever, without the consent of the President of the United States."

I also request that when issued the patents may be sent to this office for delivery to the parties entitled thereto.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

Washington, April 10, 1883.

SIR: I transmit herewith, for delivery to the parties legally entitled thereto, eighteen patents, dated March 27, 1883, in favor of certain members of the Lac Court Oreille bands, under the treaty of September 30, 1854, with the Chippewa Indians of Lake Superior and the Mississippi for lands in Wisconsin.

You will acknowledge the receipts of these patents, and upon delivery to the patentees take their receipt therefor, which you will forward for the files of this office.

Very respectfully,

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, May 17, 1883.

SIR: I am in receipt of your communication dated May 9, 1883, in which you inclose list of applications for allotments upon Lac Court Oreilles Reservation, and state that they have been submitted to the Indians in council and approved by them, and recommend that patents be issued.

On the 30th of September, 1882, you inclosed lists of applications for allotments on Bad River and Lac Court Oreilles and asked for instructions.

On the 7th of October, 1882, the lists were returned to you with instructions to prepare a list of the allotments upon the blank allotment sheets, append your certificate, and forward the same to this office. Blank schedules and a form of certificate for your guidance were sent you.

You will prepare the list of allotments, which is herewith returned, in accordance with those instructions.

Your attention is called to letter of March 5 last, in which you were instructed that where improvements have been made in good faith for the benefit of minors, the land upon which they are situated should not be allotted to other parties.

Also to instructions in letter of October 7, 1882, that allotments should include, as far as practicable, any improvements made by the applicant, and should not include improvements made by any other than the applicant.

In forwarding the list you will report particularly upon the case of George Buck, as to whether his allotment includes improvements made by any other person.

Very respectfully,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

W. R. DURFEE, Esq.,
U. S. Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, September 12, 1883.

SIR: I have the honor to submit herewith a schedule of allotments of land made to the Chippewa Indians of Lake Superior and the Mississippi on the Lac Court Oreilles Reservation in Wisconsin, in compliance with the terms of the third article of the treaty of September 30, 1854 (10 Stats., 1109), by Agent Durfee, June 30, 1883.

Allotment No. 75 is in favor of one George Buck. Regarding this allotment Agent Durfee states that Joseph D. Gurnoe has improved the claim by building upon it a good dwelling and store-house and clearing and planting a considerable portion of the land.

From the correspondence with Gurnoe it is learned that he has improved this land with the view to selecting it for his minor children in the event of the passage of an act of Congress authorizing such selection.

While the treaty does not authorize selections by or for minors, I do not think that so long as there is plenty of land in the reservation persons should be allowed to select land occupied and improved by others in good faith.

I have therefore instructed Agent Durfee to protect improvements already made on behalf of minors, that such selections may be allotted to them when they become of age, but to notify the Indians that there is no authority for such selections, and that they must not hereafter be made.

In accordance with this action I have disapproved the allotment of George Buck, approved the schedule with that exception, and recommend that it be submitted to the President for his approval.

I inclose letter of Joseph D. Gurnoe and of Agent Durfee, returning the same with report, and request their return.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, September 20, 1883.

SIR: I am in receipt of Department reference of a petition addressed to the President, and purporting to be signed by eight of the chiefs and head-men of the La Pointe or Bad River Indians, in which they complain that half-breeds have received assignments of land within the reservation, and claim the treaty of 1854 provided that the mixed bloods should be given 80 acres of land under the direction of the President; that they were then put off the reservation, and that the land given by the treaty would not be given to the mixed bloods. They also state that they have a great deal of trouble with the half-breeds.

The seventh clause of the second article of the treaty of September 30, 1854 (10 Stat., 1110), provides that "Each head of a family or single person over twenty-one years of age at the present time of the mixed bloods belonging to the Chippewas of Lake Superior shall be entitled to 80 acres of land, to be selected by them under the direction of the President, and which shall be secured to them by patent in the usual form."

The treaty does not specify whether such selections shall be made within or outside the reservation.

Under the seventh clause, above quoted, scrip was issued to the mixed bloods which, until October 28, 1868, was held to be locatable upon any of the lands of the United States subject to pre-emption and settlement, and after that date upon any of the territory acquired from their own people. A number of the mixed bloods did not receive scrip or 80 acres of land under the seventh clause of the second article of the treaty.

On the 3d of September, 1878, Agent I. L. Mahan and Special Agent Brooks made allotments to 31 such mixed bloods, under the third article of the treaty, certifying that they were members of the La Pointe or Bad River bands of Chippewa Indians, that the names of each were separately submitted to the chiefs and members of said bands in council assembled, that they were by said Indians admitted to be members of said bands and entitled to allotments on said reservation, and that they each and all expressed themselves as fully satisfied that the allotments should be made. Under date of August 15, 1882, the lists were submitted to the Department with the opinion that these mixed bloods were entitled to allotments under the third article of the treaty, and were approved by the President August 19, 1882. Under these circumstances it is not believed that the Indians have any just cause of complaint on account of patents being issued to mixed bloods.

You will communicate this letter to the Indians whose names are signed to the petition, a copy of which is inclosed.

You will also report whether the dissatisfaction indicated is general or confined to the signers, and whether any just cause of complaint against the mixed bloods exists.

Very respectfully,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, September 22, 1883.

SIR: Referring to Department letter dated September 17, 1883, returning schedule of allotments of land to Chippewa Indians of Lac Court Oreilles, under the third article of the treaty of September 30, 1854, with the Chippewas of Lake Superior and the Mississippi (10 Stat., 1109), with the approval of the President ("with the exception noted") indorsed thereon, under date of September 13, 1883, I now have the honor to submit herewith a copy of said schedule, with the request that it may be forwarded to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, with directions to issue patents for the allotments therein described, in accordance with the third article of the said treaty, and with a restriction similar to that incorporated in patents heretofore issued under the same treaty, viz:

"That the lands shall not be sold, leased, or in any manner alienated by the patentee, his or her heirs, to any person or persons whomsoever without the consent of the President of the United States."

I also request that when issued the patents may be sent to this office for delivery to the parties entitled thereto.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, November 12, 1883.

SIR: I transmit herewith, for delivery to the parties legally entitled thereto, seventy-seven patents, dated October 15, 1883, in favor of certain members of the Lac Court Oreille band of Chippewa Indians of Lake Superior and the Mississippi, under the third article of the treaty of September 30, 1854, with said Indians, for lands in Wisconsin.

You will acknowledge the receipt of the patents, and upon delivery to the parties take receipts therefor in duplicate, forwarding one copy for the files of this office.

Allotment No. 75, to George Buck, was disapproved. The patent to No-no-gi-ji-go-kwe (allottee No. 8), is delayed by the change in her allotment.

Very respectfully,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

W. R. DURFEE, Esq.,
U. S. Indian Agent, La Pointe Agency, Ashland, Wis.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, May 31, 1884.

SIR: Referring to your communication dated April 9, 1864, with which you transmit schedule of applications for allotments on the Bad River Reservation which were objected to by the Indians in council, I have to state that under the decision of the Secretary of the Interior of August 21, 1862, approving certain schedules of allotments to Indians on the Bad River Reservation, mixed bloods, being members of the Bad River bands, who did not receive scrip under the seventh clause of the second article of the treaty of September 30, 1854, are entitled to allotments under the third article of that treaty.

It has also been decided in several instances that an Indian woman married to a white man is the head of an Indian family.

It is therefore believed that all of the parties mentioned in your letter (Nos. 1, 15, 21, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 37, 57, and 71) are entitled to allotments, and you will make up a schedule comprising the same, attach your certificate thereto, to the effect that the parties are members of the Bad River bands and entitled to allotments, and forward the same to this office.

You will also add any others who have applied and been rejected on similar grounds, if they come within the rulings herein given.

Very respectfully,

E. L. STEVENS,
Acting Commissioner.
