

IN THE SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES.

JULY 16, 1890.—Ordered to be printed.

Mr. SAWYER, from the Committee on Pensions, submitted the following

REPORT:

[To accompany H. R. 10902.]

The Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 10902) granting a pension to Martin Brachall, have examined the same and report:

The report on which this bill was passed by the House is concurred in and is as follows:

The Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 10902) granting a pension to Martin Brachall, have considered the same and report:

The claimant was a private in Capt. J. M. Gillespie's company, Illinois militia, and served thirty-one days in the Black Hawk war, in 1832.

His residence and post-office address is Danville, Ill.

He asks a pension of $30 per month, by special act, declaring under oath that he is nearly eighty-two years old, feeble, with no property, and without any means of support whatever except manual labor. He states further that his father served seven years and six months in the Revolutionary war and was pensioned therefor till his death in 1831; that his father also served in the war of 1812.

H. P. Blackburn, of Danville, Ill., states on oath that the claimant is very old and feeble, and makes his living entirely by working at the tailor trade, and that he is a man of unquestioned veracity, honest, sober, and industrious, but has no property whatsoever.

The bill is reported favorably with a recommendation that it do pass
