

The HERLAND VOICE

AUGUST, 1989

THE ULTIMATE RETREAT

Herland's Fall Retreat at Lake Wister State Park is the place to be over Labor Day Weekend.

In the past month, this retreat grew from three days to four, and from one nationally acclaimed entertainer to two.

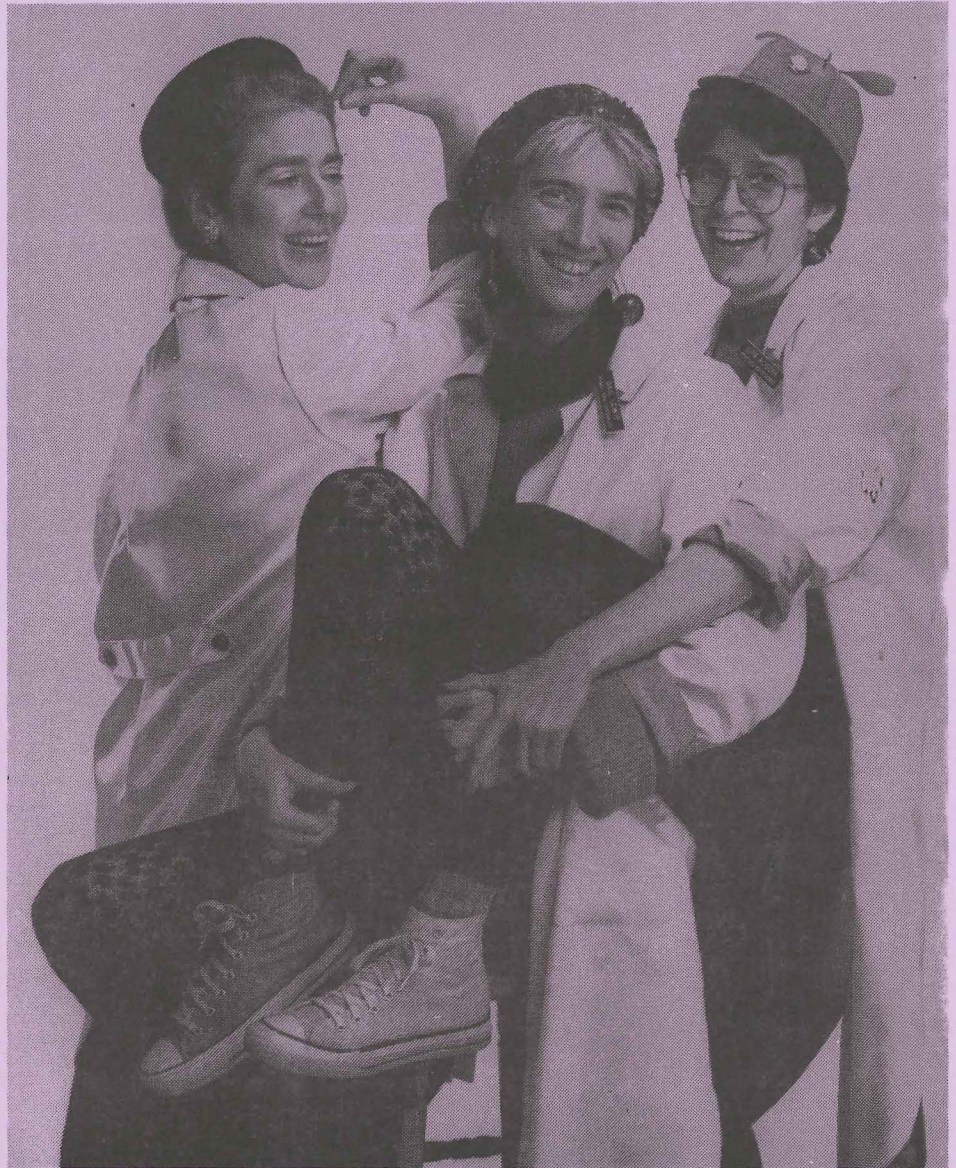

As in the past, check-in begins at 4 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 1. Check-out time is noon, Monday, Sept 4, which means one more whole day of fun and sistership.

Entertainment will be provided by YOU Saturday afternoon if you participate in the Open Mic. The concert Saturday night will feature one of the two great national acts we have lined up: the Therapy Sisters from Austin, TX, and Ann Reed from Minneapolis, MN. There will be another concert Sunday night.

The Therapy Sisters perform laboratory-tested, original songs of love, anger and conflict resolution. More McLean, Gail Lewis and Lisa Rogers base their practice on years of experience and introspection. Their songs convert mundane situations into opportunities for self-actualization, leaving their audiences in stitches.

It has been said that Ann Reed leaves her audiences lying in their seat like puddles of soft wax with her guitar work, wit, lyrics, melodies and rich voice. An outspoken romantic, Ann's voice has been described as being rich with a mellow sensuality, while her lyrics are filled with the emotional content of relationships. Ann's specialty is the 12-string guitar, but she is equally at home with a 6-string.

One more day, one more concert, all for the price of one retreat! Additional meals will be provided at a cost of $2.50. If you are just now sending in your registration and you want a meal ticket for the whole weekend, the total cost for meals is $17.50. Please note that all meals do not necessarily accommodate vegetarians. The reknowned potluck dinner will be held Saturday night before the concert. We are in need of volunteers to cook that weekend. Please call Laura at (405) 672-4141 if you'd like to help.

If you would like to attend the retreat but don't have a way to get there, we will try to arrange for a carpool. Please notify Laura if you need a ride or want to offer your vehicle for a carpool.

As with all retreats, if you are bringing a pet, please remember that state law requires you pet to be on a leash and not roaming the campgrounds. Pets are also not allowed in the main building.

We are expecting more campers at this retreat than we have had in the past. With this in mind, we are encouraging campers to bring tents, and campers-in-couples to occupy one bunk if feasible and desired.

If anyone would like to set up a craft booth or give a workshop, call Laura. We are deeply interested in furthering women's culture.

This is promising to be our biggest and best retreat yet. Don't miss it. For more information, call Laura at (405) 672-4141. See you there! ■

Out Of The Storm

Out of the storm came a rainbow,
starting as a cry for peace,
ending in joy.

Out of the storm came people who care for body and mind.

Out of the storm came a rainbow
ending in joy.

Out of the joy came you,
not one but more.

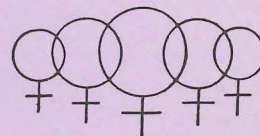

A rainbow came from the storm,
and ended in peace.

NATIONAL BRIEFS

Seattle's Human Rights Department has "found probable cause" that membership policy of AAA Automobile Club of Washington is discriminatory on the basis of marital status. The ruling was issued in a case brought by Demian, a Seattle resident. The department ruled June 23 that the automobile club discriminated against Demian when it told him that his domestic partner was ineligible for "associate membership." The low-cost associate membership is offered to spouses and dependents of "master members."

Demian is co-publisher/co-editor of the national monthly newsletter "PARTNERS: The Newsletter for Gay and Lesbian Couples." The case now proceeds to conference and conciliation, a process whereby the department will work with both partners to achieve a just and equitable resolution to the matter. If the conciliation fails, the city attorney could file a suit against AAA.

The Human Rights Campaign Fund (HRCF) has announced the appointment of two young gay and lesbian leaders to its board of directors. Barbara S. Bernstein, recent graduate of Stanford University, and Tad A. Gardocki, of Georgia State University, are the first students to be elected to HRCF's board under the organization's new Young Leaders Internship Program.

Bernstein and Gardocki will serve one-year internships on HRCF's 25-member board of directors. The interns will have full voting rights and will share responsibilities with other board members for governing the largest gay and lesbian political organization in the country. The interns will network and fundraise to colleges and universities and educate youth communities on gay and lesbian issues. They also will participate in key HRCF political and legislative projects.

HRCF created the Young Leaders Intern Program to establish strong leadership skills in the gay and lesbian movement and help educate and involve its future leaders. For more information on the program, contact HRCF at 1012 14th St. NW, Suite 607, Washington, D.C. 20005, Attention: Young Leaders Intern Program.

Contributions are being sought for an anthology on survivors of rape. This collection will focus on the continuing ways rape changes women's lives, and the problems, invisibility and devastating isolation survivors experience in a society that expects us to be "over all that" in a few months.

Survivors of stranger or acquaintance rape and of all ages, abilities, class, educational and ethnic backgrounds and sexual preferences are encouraged to contribute their stories. The deadline for submission of stories is Nov. 1, 1989.

For more information and guidelines, write: Survivors, P.O. Box 460895, San Francisco, CA 94146.

Urvashi Vaid assumed the duties of Executive Director of the National Gay and Lesbian Task Force (NGLTF) on July 28. Vaid was chosen following a three-month, intensive search that attracted 86 other candidates. She was public information director for the organization before being selected to fill the position vacated by Jeffrey Levi. Levi is leaving NGLTF to expand his work in the area of public policy development.

NGLTF is the nation's preeminent lesbian and gay civil rights organization. With more than 15,000 members nationwide, the organization is active in grassroots organizing; legislative lobbying, local and federal levels; and houses the Privacy Project, the Anti-Violence and Campus Projects and the Lesbian and Gay Families Project.

The National Gay and Lesbian Task Force (NGLTF) announced its Creating Change Conference for grassroots activists and gay and lesbian organizations will feature keynote addresses by former staff sergeant Perry Watkins, author Vito Russo and Arkansas-based feminist activist Suzanne Pharr; a demonstration calling for an end to discrimination against gay men and lesbians in the military; and a day-long institute on fundraising.

The conference will be held Nov. 9-12, 1989 at the Holiday Inn, Bethesda, MD. Registration fees range from $75-$125 for the Fundraising Institute, and $50-$125 for the conference itself.

Hotel rates range from $68-$78 for singles to quadruples. For registration information write NGLTF Creating Change, 1517 U Street NW, Washington, D.C. 20009.

Meet the Board

MEET THE EXECUTIVE EDITOR: SONDRA M.

By Karen Lewis

A national tabloid coined the phrase, "inquiring minds want to know." The inquiring mind of this month's featured board member, Sondra M., has been beneficial to Herland.

Sondra has been working for the newsletter since 1988 and recently became the executive editor and city news editor. She credits an ex-lover with getting her interested in journalism.

"In 1987 I was involved with someone who was majoring in journalism at OSU," she said. "We talked about starting a weekly newspaper of our own. I felt uncomfortable with this since I had no journalism knowledge, and started taking classes at Rose State. I'll graduate next May. I think I've finally found my niche."

The 35-year-old native Pennsylvanian moved to Oklahoma in 1981 after graduating from the Art Institute of Ft. Lauderdale. Although she has an associate's degree in photography, Sondra follows a career in the computer field that started in 1979. She presently works as a network specialist in the city.

If you've seen Sondra at retreats or at the Resource Center, there's a good chance you've also seen the love of her life, her dog Kelsie.

"Kelsie's well-being is an important factor when it comes to scheduling my time," she said. "Some people think I pamper her too much. Maybe I do, but she has given me an incredible amount of joy. I've never met a dog like her. She's a wonderful companion. She's also the only female I will ever have in my life with hair on her legs." (Never say never, Sondra.)

When she first heard about Herland in 1982, she was disappointed. Every time she went to the store, it was closed. Herland's seeming unreliability and Sondra's own lack of understanding of what Herland really was kept her away. Four years later, she showed her lover the store. Or tried to. On the first trip, it was closed. The second trip was the charm. The lover became a member of the board and Sondra's involvement grew from that. After their divorce, the lover left Herland; Sondra stayed.

"I'm emotionally attached to Herland now," she said. "I delight in her accomplishments and agonize over her defeats. She's just a part of my daily life. I can see how far Herland can go, but I can also see that she lacks the necessary support to get there. I'd like to see the newsletter become a major publication and the retreats become music festivals. But that takes more money and volunteers, something we don't have. I'm grateful to those who do donate their time and money. What I'm saying is, when it comes time to staff an event or the resource center, it's always the same people. There are individuals carrying the load of more than two people. What's going to happen to Herland if those people get burned out around the same time?"

Sondra's passion for the newsletter runs deep. Citing a strong desire to inform and educate, Sondra credits the newsletter as a factor in her decision to join the board. She took over the editor's position to give the editor a summer break; but the editor doesn't want it back.

"The newsletter is an instrument, a voice, to spread the word," she said. "When I look at material for the next issue, I look for subjects that I think will be of interest to 700 women. The newsletter is not there to reflect one woman's opinion or the board's opinion. It's there to inform all women. This is why our readers' input is so valuable. We don't know what they want unless they give us some idea."

Sondra's wish list for Herland's future includes a computer and printer with desktop publishing capabilities (" 'MAC-xine' would be a nice addition to the newsletter staff"), more reader input and contributions to the newsletter, more dedicated women involved in the operation of Herland and more funds to maintain and grow. With everything Herland has going for her, Sondra can't understand why more people don't want to get involved.

"I get all my tidbits of information for the newsletter from the Resource Center," she said. "There's always something going on there, some piece of information being said or read. Herland is one of the few places that can give a woman a sense of pride, an identity. It's a place where a 'second class' citizen in a male dominated society has the opportunity to feel like the first class citizen she really is. It's also a place where you can learn how to grovel for money in 101 different ways."

Sondra thinks the best feature of Herland is the newsletter "Is that objectivity or what?" because it reaches so many women, with the retreats coming in a close second.

Her answer to the last magical question of all board member interviews, "What does HSR mean to you?" was: "Herland is safe, comfortable space to go to, to get away from the real world for awhile. I'm very protective of her and of the people involved with her. It's an honor to be on the board and to follow in the footsteps of the women who have worked so diligently to ensure her place within the community. All of them were stubborn, dynamic leaders and educators in their own right. We have a lot of stubborn women within Herland. If we didn't, we wouldn't be here." ■

"Just as long as newspapers and magazines are controlled by men, every woman upon them must write articles which are reflections of men's ideas. As long as that continues, women's ideas and deepest convictions will never get before the public."

Susan B. Anthony

I've been hearing some great things about the newsletter from quite a few readers and would like to thank all of you for your valuable input. I don't think you realize just how much it means to the staff to hear how we're doing, good or bad...

beginning August 2, the Resource Center will be open every Wednesday night starting at 6:30 p.m.

come one, come all to the fun-packed work day at the Resource Center Aug. 12 beginning at 10 a.m.! Let's all join together and make a clean sweep of the place the Gay and Lesbian Political Caucus will be holding a meeting at the Resource Center on August 14 at 7 p.m. Anyone interested may attend. This is an opportune time to remind everyone that Herland's Resource Center is available for meetings. Just give us a call; 521-WMYN if anyone has a spare room they are willing to make available for visitors coming through OKC, please let us know. We recently encountered an volunteer coordinator Pam T. has called for a volunteer orientation meeting at the Resource Center on Aug. 20 at 2 p.m. This will be for all volunteers, whether you're not quite sure what to do when you volunteer at the Resource Center on weekends or if you've done it a hundred times but want to make sure you were doing things right Oasis Community Center has moved back to its original location at 2135 NW 39th St.

the judicial process in this country never ceases to amaze me. First, the abortion issue, then the flag issue. Now, Oliver North gets a suspended sentence for selling weapons to the very people who killed his fellow Marines and for going against a few Constitutional amendments, while a female sergeant in the Marine Corps spends a whole year in jail and is dishonorably discharged just because the Marine Corps "suspected" she was a lesbian. That's justice, all right calling all aspiring writers! We, the women who comprise the newsletter staff, are getting a bit overloaded between the newsletter, work, school and family life and are looking for anyone who would like to take some of the load off and write articles for the newsletter. They don't have to be masterpieces. We need people to cover events, do interviews, write feature articles, do book and music reviews, etc. You know what's in here each month. It's not difficult. As editors, we reserve the right to edit anything that comes in, but our editing does not change the meaning of the article. If you're interested, call me at 732-2315, or drop me a line in care of Herland
