Hi Max,

Hope you are doing well!

As requested:

I request that my article "The Beacon Project: Jumpstarting a Field of the Morally Exceptional", originally published in the SMV e-Newsletter 03 (October 2015), be licensed under the Attribution-NonCommercial-NoDerivatives Creative Commons License and posted in the Moral Self Archive.

Best wishes,
Will

Subject: Permissions Question about Your Past SMV Newsletter Article

Hi, Will,

We're just about to publicize our new SMV Archive, which we've had to move from Marquette to OU. I'm formatting our newsletter lead articles as self-standing pieces and putting them in the archive. I'm attaching Darcia's version so you can see what they'll look like.

The easiest way to handle permissions is to publish our newsletter lead articles article under an Attribution-NonCommercial-NoDerivatives Creative Commons License. Under this license, the author retains the copyright, but authorizes free use and replication, as long as users:

1. Give appropriate credit, provide a link to the license, and indicate if changes were made;
2. Do not use the work for commercial purposes, and
3. Do not distribute the work if it has been modified in any way.

If you're fine publishing your October SMV article under this license, please respond to this email and include the following text:
